consequences of school dismissal because of the misfortune of a few. As a homely illustration, because a few families cannot afford cake and pie at their Sunday dinner, is it right to legislate that all families shall desist from such participation until these few are so situated that all may participate? Because a few families must ride in low priced or second hand automobiles, shall it become mandatory that those owning new and higher price cars desist from their use until such time as the others may afford such equality? Because few people are forced to wear overalls, is that any reason that all should be required to dress in such manner, regardless of their interests, customs and financial welfare? Practically all, but those of absolute socialist tendencies, will agree that such would be unfair. Yet because a very small minority of the patrons of the Muleshoe school think it advisable to take their children from school to assist in their livelihood, the entire school must be stopped.

The Journal makes the above comparisons with absolutely no aspersions toward any unfortunately situated, and only as suggestive of the folly of the School Board's action of last Monday night. Clearly the logical thing to do would be to merely let those who must pick cotton stop school, permitting other pupils who do not have to and will not pick cotton, continue their studies. Those who will continue school have no right to be made the victims of those who would not or cannot.

WORK vs. FOOD
Cities everywhere are now making plans to care for unfortunates during the coming winter. Muleshoe included, and they are also organizing their work in such a way as to lessen imposition as much as possible.

It has been a good many years since Captain John Smith, of the English colonies organized the plan and adopted the slogan of "no work, no food," but apparently it is being revived at this time and will be stringently adhered to during the coming winter months.

Reports are already rife that there are some improvident people of this town and elsewhere throughout the county who are laying down on the job of making preparation for their winter living; that some of them even now are refusing to accept such work as is being offered them. Some of these people are known to have received material help last winter; but they are likely to be disappointed this coming winter.

Several towns in this area have already begun to clear their skirts of any and every undesirable citizen by expelling them to the city limits and biding them continue their journey under penalty of vagrancy charges and county road or rock pile work, and the Journal is reliably informed that Bailey county will not be free and promiscuous in its food assistance this winter as it was last.

It is our understanding that the County, because of failure of taxpayers to meet their annual obligations in this wise, has no money at all to be used in a charitable manner, while the Red Cross organization has stated positively that such money as it has for distribution will be very carefully and wisely handled.

Transient folks abiding here will be the last to receive help. Widows and orphans, the sick and afflicted will receive such needed help as can be given, and arrangements will be made for the care of families who are themselves not responsible for their own dire conditions; but able bodied men and women who refuse to work while work may be obtained and who fall to make due preparation for their own livelihood during the coming winter, will find themselves in a serious situation.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND
Much has been said and written regarding depressed conditions during the past two years, but after all the old and reliable law of Supply and Demand is responsible for it and will eventually readjust it. It is simply a matter of time and can not be hurried very much.

It will be recalled that during the period of World War prices along all lines were considerably boosted. War is expensive and must be prosecuted to success regardless of cost. When the war was over, effort was made to artificially continue these high prices, and for a period of years there was more or less success in practically all lines. But eventually, as was to be expected by all serious economists, the old law of Supply and Demand stepped in and asserted itself.

When supply is greater than demand, prices are always low; and visa versa, when demand is greater than supply, prices come down. Likewise, when supply is great and prices low, there is a tendency among producers to cut down on the quantity of their products until prices are raised in a similar manner, when prices are high, there is a tendency among producers to increase the quantity of their products, which in time, decreases the sale price of them. Thus the law of Supply and Demand is constantly working in its effort to establish a reasonable basis between production and price.

Just as prices were artificially boosted and maintained for a period of years following the war, so now attempts are being made to artificially overcome the present financial condition, and in a measure, the latter will succeed. But the former, after all, after all, the law of Supply and Demand is paramount and invincible, and it will finally reign supreme. People everywhere might as well accept that dictum and bide their time until it becomes effective.

FUTILE LEGISLATION
The Journal never has been much of a believer in the legislation of economists, just as morals can not be legislated. Legislation may hedge human actions with certain restrictions that have an ultimate effect, but seldom is that effect immediate, direct and definite, and invariably final results rest upon contributing causes.

Clearly there has been over-production of numerous commodities in the United States during recent years, and the effect of price stimulation has run its course. It is now up to this nation to meet the question squarely and with no pitching over the left shoulder. In consideration of the action of numerous other nations in their gestures of self-protection, this nation must do likewise. Wheat in France is today worth $2.35 a bushel and in Germany it sells for $1.95 per bushel. Every year fewer exports leave our shores for foreign countries, and we are persuaded the time has arrived when foreign markets will never again be as profitable to American producers, and the sooner this fact is faced the better for us.

Recently the mayor of a large eastern city speaking before the delegates of a representative convention, declared that "European markets will be closed to this country for the next 50 years." In the main, we believe he is correct in his statement. While these markets will not be entirely closed, yet they will not be sufficient in most commodities to have little, if any, influence upon increased prices.

During the month of last August American exports of all kinds totaled a million dollars less than imports. This is probably a criterion of future conditions, and the sooner American commerce realizes this fact and makes preparation to "live at home," the better off it will be. In other words, the sooner this nation takes steps to get out of the export business as fully as is possible, the better off it will be.

the barest necessities of life and people in adjoining towns and cities suffered accordingly.

Ball County this year has been blessed with abundance of food and fibre and many farmers are now asking themselves "What shall we do with it?" There are numerous answers to that question. They might burn it, give it away, scatter it over the fields and plow it under, etc. But the Muleshoe Journal offers is to store it, utilizing the surplus for the time of need or better prices which will surely come, since history repeats itself.

A low yield and reduced acreage of cotton will wipe out the surplus of that crop in a single year. There is not now too much wheat to feed the hungry world if money to buy it was available. Who can tell what disasters may come to the wheat producing areas within the coming year. Drouth, storms, insects, or all of these may come.

Really, every farmer should be thankful if he has a surplus, and the farmer who does not have to sell anything right now is foolish to do so, for prices will be better later on, and the surplus can always be used.

KISSING CHILDREN
In one of the Muleshoe stores the other day a woman rushed up and grabbed a little two year tot into her arms, smothering it with kisses. In a few moments she passed out, and we overheard the mother say to another woman standing near, "I do wish folks wouldn't kiss my children."

We agree with that mother perfectly. Her little one was sweet enough to attract the loving admiration of anyone, but that should have been the limit. Kissing children that do not belong to one is both offensive and dangerous stupidity—and that statement applies to politicians, neighbors, friends and all others.

One need not be diseased to be a carrier of disease. One's own system may resist germs that would be fatal if planted on the delicate mucous membranes of a child. Furthermore, most mothers prefer, and wisely so, to pick those who shall slobber over their children. At least, kissing children when quite young is unwise for anyone—especially those outside the immediate family.

Jaunty Journalettes
Most Muleshoe men never know what real happiness is until they fall in love—and then it's too late.

One good way to tell how a Muleshoe boy is going to turn out is to watch what time he turns in.

A Muleshoe woman remarked the other day that "nicest causes dimples." Yes, and dimples cause mischief.

Another sign of coming good times is the fact that Muleshoe hay fever sufferers had it a lot milder than usual during the past summer.

The young folks of Muleshoe don't pay as much attention to older folks now as they once did, and one reason is because it is so hard to find anyone who will admit they are old.

And we imagine there are some fat women in and around Muleshoe who won't care to go to heaven at all if they are compelled to wear the long flowing robes supposed to be stylish with the angels.

Our idea of a good husband is the Muleshoe man who can wipe dishes without dropping a few so he'll be sent out of the kitchen.

PSALM OF COTTON
(From Cotton Made Journal)
Cotton, thou art my shepherd, and I am in want; Thou hast caused me to feed in a dry pasture, thou hast destroyed my credit; thou hast led me into the regions of poverty, law-suits, liens and near nakedness. Thou hast destroyed my soul and my happiness. Thou hast caused me to bow to a banker with my hat under my arm and mortgage the muscle and produce of my farm. Thou hast caused me to live in a rented house in full view of the moon, while stars come twinkling through the cracks. Thou appointest my head with ignorance, superstition, poverty and unpaid accounts. How can I trust thee? Thou hast kept my children out of school and my society, thereby robbing them of that which is good and noble, elevating and refining. Thou hast caused me to go to the barn and bring out the old feed bags and ask my wife to make me a shirt, with these inscriptions in full view: "Eighteen per cent acid phosphate" on the breast and "12-4-4" on the tail."

COTTON CO-OP. ASSOCIATION HAS MADE ARRANGEMENTS WITH GOVERNMENT FOR MEMBER LOAN PAYMENTS AT OFFICE

The Association has completed arrangements with the Farm Seed Loan Office of the U.S. Department of Agriculture whereby Association members who have secured loans through such government agency may have their cotton applied against such notes and mortgages on the basis of 6c a pound, according to Sam Goodson, local representative for the association.

The following specific facts are brought to attention:

The Government is authorizing only $7.50 a bale to cover picking and ginning, which amount is authorized to be drawn against the Association at the time of shipment.

Members may ship their cotton to any of the Association's various pools but the 6c a pound basis of credit can only apply against cotton placed in the optional pool utilized, in the seasonal pool, or in the suspense pool.

Members having cotton stored in bonded warehouses and receipts deposited with the Government Seed Loan Office may transfer such cotton to the association in a similar manner, providing that such transfer charges are paid by the member.

As shipments are made to the Association, the members' notes and mortgages held by the Government will be margined with an amount representing the difference of 6c a pound and the $7.50 per bale above mentioned. When sufficient cotton has been shipped to the Association to fully margin the amount of the loan at the six cent rate the borrower will be advised by the Government and will be allowed to receive full returns on the balance of cotton shipped.

The Association will handle directly with the Government Agency all details in the matter including all remittances on the payment of cotton continuing under the seed loan program.

Important—Our classes will continue to calculate invoices in the same manner as heretofore, using last quotation of New York market and current basis and differential sheet. You must not calculate advances at 6c per pound. Place notation on each invoice, indicating cotton is mortgaged to the Farmers Seed Loan Office.

St. Louis Wins In The World Series Game Four-Three

Burlingame Grimes, bewiskered spitball veteran, with the ninth inning aid of Wild Bill Haleshan, beat the World Champion Philadelphia Athletics 4 to 2 last Saturday to win his second victory for the St. Louis Cardinals in the final game of the World Series and give the National League its first World Championship in five years. The Cardinals won the series four games to three.

The attendance was only 20,865, smallest in the history of a world series game ever played in St. Louis. The paid attendance was only $82,165, but it boosted the total receipts for the series well over $1,000,000.

After blanking the A's for eight innings and allowing them but four hits, three of them by Bing Miller, Grimes weakened in the ninth, passed Al Simmons and Jimmy Dykes. Bing Miller roared Simmons at second but Grimes was touched for successive singles by Dibs Williams and Pinch-Hitter Roger Cramer with two out.

Cramer's clout to center scored Miller and Dykes, and Grimes, feeling himself through for the day, walked out of the box. Haleshan came in to force Bishop to fly out to Pepper Martin in center field for the final out of the game and series.

SANTA FE OFFICIALS ESTIMATE CROP SHIPMENTS OF AREA WILL BE HEAVY COTTON 409,000 BALES; 7,000 CARS GRAIN

Estimates have been made that the probable cotton crop for the Santa Fe territory on the South Plains by officials of that company. They show the estimated yield to be 469,000 bales.

At the same time nearly 7,000 cars of grain sorghums are the expectations for that crop to be moved out of the territory. This does not include local sales or sales to truck men.

There will be 290 cars of corn shipped, mostly from the Brownfield area and 564 cars of sudan seed. This will come from the Sudan-Muleshoe area, Littlefield, Levelland and other points.

Twenty-five per cent of the grain sorghum crop will be fed to livestock, it is estimated.

In handling the 1931 wheat crop the Santa Fe has handled in excess of 22,000 car loads, of which 6,000 has been off the Slaton division. Approximately 25 per cent is believed still on the farms or stores.

By towns, the cotton and grain sorghum probable shipments are:

To Feed Much Livestock

With an estimate of 25 per cent of the record breaking grain sorghum crop of the South Plains expected to be red to livestock of all kinds, it is believed that easily 100,000 animals will be on full feed on the Plains this year, local railroad men state.

The Santa Fe has placed the estimate at conservatively 100,000; last year it is said, there were between 60,000 and 70,000 animals.

IN MEMORY

W. E. GUEST
Our Daddy dear is sleeping
Safe in the Saviour's arms.
And in his loving keeping,
Is safe from all the harms.
In sorrow we remember,
Our Daddy day and night,
His love was sweet and tender,
And to us it was so bright.

Our hearts are warm in sadness,
As under our cross we bow;
But to us it's joy and gladness,
To know he's resting now.
For he has crossed the river,
His days of pain are over,
It will be peace forever
On Heaven's golden shore.

We know some day we'll meet him
—On Heaven's golden shore,
And then we shall greet him,
Our parting'll be no more.
Where words of love are ringing,
Our hearts, we know, will thrill
With a band of angels singing,
For his love will be there still.

TWO BATHS A YEAR MAY KILL MEXICAN

The police were out to enforce the city's compulsory bathing ordinance. Velazquez displayed an official bath certificate issued him no longer ago than last December and argued that another compulsory bath so soon invaded his private rights.

"More genuine satisfaction than any car I ever owned"

THE FORD is good-looking. It is safe. Comfortable. Speedy. Reliable. Long-lived. Economical. Everything a good car should be.

There is, too, an added something about it that brings enthusiastic comments from every one who has ever driven a Ford . . . the joy it puts in motoring.

"I have been a car owner continuously for nearly 20 years," writes a motorist connected with a leading university. "During this period I have bought eleven new automobiles. Eight of the eleven were in the middle-price field, one cost three thousand dollars, and the last is a Ford I purchased thirteen months ago.

"In the light of this experience I can say in all sincerity that I have derived more genuine satisfaction from the Ford than any car I ever owned. In saying this, I am thinking in terms of comfort, safety, driving pleasure, ease of control and economy. My next car will also be a Ford because it will give me what I want at a price I can afford to pay."

When you get behind the wheel of the Ford and drive it yourself you will know it is a truly remarkable car at a low price. You will like it when you first buy it. You will become more and more enthusiastic the longer you drive it.

After thousands of miles of driving you will say "it's a great car." Its economy will save you many dollars.

Muleshoe St. Bank Changes Its Name Osborn Buys Stock

Beginning October 15, the bank at Muleshoe will be operated under the name of the "Muleshoe State Bank," succeeding the Blackfoot Valley State Bank under which name the institution has operated since 1914. Jess M. Osborn, former Friona banker, who has had active management of the Muleshoe bank as cashier, since in April this year, will continue in that capacity, and he has been added to the Board of Directors of the institution. The full Board of Directors under the new name and management will consist of E. R. Hart, president; Ray Griffiths, vice-president; Jess M. Osborn, cashier; M. E. Hart and Otis Griffiths. The financial statement of the Muleshoe State Bank was received too late for publication in this week's issue of the Journal, but will appear in next week's paper. The above change and reorganization, means that Mr. Osborn has become a permanent part of the organization. It reflects the confidence he has in the future of Muleshoe and its surrounding trade territory, and is also a tribute to the business ability and confidence the other directors and the stockholders have in Mr. Osborn's management of the institution.

Sunlight Is Important as Source of Vitamine D

Sunlight is without an equal to furnish the necessary vitamine D to lagging lungs, says Prof. J. E. Dougherty of the poultry laboratory division of the University of California. While it is more valuable than any other agency, says Dougherty, the quartz mercury vapor lamp will give good results, and where sunlight is not available, it may be used. Either sunlight or the lamp excel cod-liver oil in this respect, although where sunlight is lacking and the quartz mercury vapor lamp is not available, the cod-liver oil will be far better than nothing. "Sunlight is cheap where it is at all available," says Dougherty, "and where it is possible poultry should be exposed to the direct rays of the sun as much as possible."

Watch Shipping Days to Get Higher Hen Prices

"There is a right time to ship poultry. Shipment should be made so it will reach the market Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday according to observations by many experienced shippers. The market is often overloaded toward the end of the week, resulting in selling at reduced prices to avoid a carry-over to the next week," says W. D. Termonien of Iowa State college. It is also a smart plan to compare local prices with terminal market prices because, in many cases, the difference is not worth the extra costs connected with shipping.

Community Building

National Movement for Beautifying of Homes

Kansas City has had a worthy reminder of the better-homes movement in the exposition that was conducted at Convention hall. This type of local activity is being supplemented increasingly each year by national observance of a better-homes week. The purpose is to carry into every community of the United States, if possible, the gospel of attractiveness, comfort, convenience and good order in home life. This is effected through co-operation with the schools, civic and other organization leaders. In Missouri, it is reported from Jefferson City, more than 150 communities already have enlisted in the enterprise for this year. That is a much larger number than had become interested at this time last year which points to a growth of the movement. Farm communities, small towns, cities and counties are being organized. Beautification and other improvement of homes, trees and out, the planting of flowers and shrubs, clearing of vacant lots and removing unsightliness of other kinds all are included in this educational plan. It seems to be a kind of endeavor in which every community of the country could profitably engage. It suggests that the day may come when any city, town or other area that ignores such enterprise will become notorious for its backwardness and indifference. —Kansas City Star.

Money Well Spent in Remodeling Old House

The cost of modernizing a residence is low. Only a few hundred dollars may be needed to make a home strictly up to date. An investigation recently made reveals that the average cost of remodeling a house is about $2,000. This sum covers everything—exterior and interior. The financing of the remodeled house is taken care of by banks and building and loan associations who are willing to put their money into such projects, for their experience shows them that $2,000 invested in a $3,000 house increases its value more than the addition of the expenditure. The house becomes worth $8,000 or $9,000 after remodeling—a wise investment, as every one will admit.—Exchange.

Built-in Garage

In addition to the considerable saving given the home builder by the built-in rather than the detached garage, the cost of some 125,000 or more. Population of the others ranges down to 1,000 or even less. Communities near the large centers have been especially active in this undertaking; but it is not confined to such areas. In view of such expansion, it seems reasonable to expect that within an other decade the village, town or city that has taken no steps to regulate its growth in the interest of attractiveness and general welfare will be about as backward as the most remote rural communities. Daily Fire Toll A small city burned today—801 homes, five schools, five churches, fifteen hotel buildings, one hospital, four warehouses, six department stores, two theaters, eight public garages, three printing plants, three dry goods stores and sixty-six farm buildings. That is the average daily toll taken by fire in the United States. This same destroyer day after day snuffs out twenty-seven lives, nine being children under ten years of age. It is a horrible thing, fire, but its ravages can be controlled.—Washington Star. Shade Trees Important Few trees add more to the yard than well-placed shade trees. It is not necessary to plant so many trees that a crowded appearance results but a few in proper locations add interest to the landscape and an atmosphere of security to the home. Trees may be considered for shade as well as ornament and in making up planting lists, at least one or two should be included. Prosperity's Foundation It is seldom that the home owner has room to regret his ownership. Once he reaches this state he may then seek other fields of investment to his advantage.

Confining Turkeys

It is generally considered unwise to closely confine turkeys for any length of time; hence, the crate feeding method practiced in finishing chickens is not employed with turkeys. However, it is considered advisable to somewhat restrict range during the finishing period. An empty barn, shed or similar shelter with a limited yard range can serve admirably for finishing quarters if in proper sanitary condition.

Mites Eat Feathers

There are several reasons for the loss of feathers on the head and neck of a fowl, but it is usually due to the fowls themselves in scratching and breaking the feathers off with their claws. This is apparently caused by a mite, thought to be the same as that causing scaly leg, and which gets under the skin, causing irritation. Application of carbolated kerosene into which has been worked a little sulphur will be found helpful for this trouble.

Matches that go out after a definite period after they have been lighted and self-extinguishing cigarette tips have been developed by the United States Bureau of Standards to lessen fire hazards.

WRONG PLACE

A Chicago man died and passed into the great beyond. A guide showed him about but after an hour of wandering the Chicago man said contentedly: "Well, I've heard heaven cracked up a whole lot, but I'm telling you it ain't a darn bit different from Chicago." "Heaven!" exclaimed the guide. "This isn't heaven; this is hell."

Farmer Gives Plan To Outwit The Cotton Acreage Reduction

Just whether farmers are satisfied with the recent cotton acreage reduction law the Texas legislature gave them, and whether it will be of any value in the raising of the price of staple is one question, another one is that already some of the cotton growers have begun figuring how they may circumvent the law.

A Bailey county farmer whose name is not now "Dennis," but may be later on, was talking on the streets of Muleshoe the other day, and declared he was going to plant 30 acres of each 100 in peas, 30 acres in cotton, and the remaining 40 acres in western row crops of different kinds. His plan is to plant the peas and cotton in alternate rows over 60 acres of land.

It is his statement that in this plan cotton interplanted in alternate rows with peas will produce virtually as much as when planted over the entire acreage. It is his idea that the same land may be cultivated over and over, year after year, by planting the cotton rows in peas, the peas rows on sorghum grains, and vice versa, since the law makes no mention whatever regarding interplanting with other crops.

THE ASCENDING TAX OS
Taxation and public expenditures have been referred to as our "fastest-growing industry."
Analysis of the figures show ample grounds for such a claim. Since 1913, public expenditures for federal, state and local governmental purposes have increased from three billion to twelve and a half billion dollars per year. Governmental expenditures per capita have increased since 1913 from $30.24 to $92.02.
Person out of twelve is now on the public payroll, while in 1913, it was one out of twenty-five. Fifteen per cent of our national income goes to support the government, while in 1913, seven per cent of our national income was consumed by taxation.
Approximately the same trend of increased expenditures appears in our own local and state government. State expenditures have increased from $2 per capita in 1913 to over $12 per capita now—a six hundred per cent increase in expenditures with about a fifty per cent increase in population. Some of our cities have bonded and taxed themselves beyond their ability to pay, and have increased expenditures far beyond the increase in wealth and in population. It is estimated that taxes now consume 70 per cent of the net profits of agriculture and related industries; 35 per cent of the mining and quarrying industries; 30 per cent of the public service industries, and so on for the entire category of business. Everybody knows instances where taxes were more than the returns from property. There is a greater tax delinquency than at any time.

SOIL ORGANIC MATTER VITAL
"The best practical method of drought control yet invented is to keep a large supply of active, decaying organic matter in the soil," says N. E. Winters, in charge of soils and crops work at the Oklahoma A. and M. College.
"The essential difference between a soil and a mass of rock fragments lies in the organic content of the soil," Winters remarks.
A pound of humus will hold seven and one-half times as much moisture as a pound of sand, and will hold it three and one-half times as long. It also will hold four times as much moisture as a pound of clay and hold it twice as long.
When burning August suns beat down, and the corn kernels need just a little extra moisture to fill out well, some organic matter in the soil will prove a good investment, Winters thinks.
As a result of cropping systems practiced on the once virgin soils of Oklahoma, the average cultivated upland soil of the state contains about ten tons less of organic matter per acre in the top cultivated soil than it did in the virgin condition, the soils laboratory of the A. and M. College has found. Meanwhile the average yields of the principal cash crops of the state have been going down during the last 30 years; and one of the most important steps in restoring Oklahoma soils to productive condition is the addition of organic matter.
Prevention of soil erosion, as well as drought damage, is another benefit offered by organic matter in the soil. Soils high in humus, Winters notes, will absorb large quantities of water during heavy rainfall, preventing so large a loss of water from run-off, and then letting it percolate more slowly down into the subsoil, thus keeping it longer within the range of the roots of growing crops.—Wheat Growers Advocate.

NOTICE OF TAX DISCOUNT
That the Liberty Independent School, of Bailey county may continue and the necessary money obtained for defraying such needed expenses, the Board of said district has agreed that tax payers of this district will be allowed a five per cent discount on the total amount of their taxes, if same are paid by November 15, 1931.
H. STERLING, Tax Collector for Liberty Independent School District.
37-11c.

WE ALL PAY TAXES
Less than 3 1/2 per cent of the population of the United States pays more than 96 per cent of the federal income tax, and less than 7 per cent of all corporations in the country pay more than 95 per cent of the corporation income tax.
The average person, merely glancing at these figures, might decide that taxation is merely a matter affecting the rich individual, or the big business, and so none of his concern. But, unhappily, taxes do not work that way. If a company is taxed a dollar or a million dollars, there is but one way it can raise the funds to pay—by passing the cost on to those who buy the articles or services it sells.
Every person in the country is a taxpayer. When he buys food, pays rent, buys gasoline, takes out an insurance policy or goes to a theatre, he automatically pays some of his money to government. The old saying "that death and taxes are inevitable" is truer today than it ever was. And, as a result, tax reduction far from being a matter that interests only the wealthy few, is a matter of tremendous personal importance to each of us.

ONLY CONOCO GERM PROCESSED OIL
Can Give You the Extra Benefits of the "HIDDEN QUART"
CONOCO
PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL

that Stays Up in Your Motor and Never Drains Away
Almost half of all motor wear takes place while you're starting your car! And it's in the starting period that oils not germ processed fail to protect your motor. Germ Processed Oil gives you safe lubrication not only after your motor starts but during the starting period! For only Germ Processed Oil has penetrative lubricity... the ability to cling to, penetrate and combine with metal surfaces. A "hidden quart" of Germ Processed Oil stays up in your motor and never drains away. It cuts down starting wear and makes starting easier and quicker. Save your motor from wear... Change now to Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil, the only oil in North America made by the patented germ process. Fill up at any station that displays the Conoco Red Triangle.
