BALDWIN BEATS LABOR LEADER BY HEAVY POLL

LIBERAL PARTY SWAMPED SENDING ASQUITH TO STINGING DEFEAT

By United News. LONDON, Oct. 30.—Former Premier Stanley Baldwin and the conservative party have been returned to power and election returns up to 3:30 this morning indicated that Baldwin would have an adequate majority with which to control the house of commons as soon as they accomplish the perfunctory business of voting Premier Ramsay MacDonald and his laborites out of office.

The liberal party apparently has swamped in a sea of conservative and labor votes. One of the tragedies of the election is the defeat of the 72 year old Herbert H. Asquith, leader of the liberal party and distinguished statesman.

At 3:30 o'clock Thursday morning the parties stood as follows: Conservatives 162, Labor 77, Independents 3, Constitutionalists 1, Communists 1.

The net conservative gain at this time was 50 seats; the net labor loss 13 and the net liberal loss 23.

Eclipse of liberalism is foretold in the popular vote. At 3:30 the conservatives had polled 3,131,696; labor 2,545,448; liberals 1,590,047; communists 85,755; independents 33,035 and constitutionalist 39,189.

The liberals accumulated 20 seats before midnight. During the first hours of Thursday morning as the conservative and labor tolls continued to mount, the liberal added but three to their column.

From the liberal standpoint, the election has been a debacle. The party is decimated, its leader defeated and the future gloomy.

McDonald Lieutenant Re-elected. LONDON, Oct. 29.—J. R. Cline, lord privy seal, and Premier MacDonald's second in command in the house of commons, was re-elected by his Manchester constituency. Stephen Wallen, laborite secretary of state for war, also was returned to the house.

AT THE CHURCHES

CHURCH OF CHRIST.

Sunday was a banner day at the Church of Christ. Sunday School interest is better, since we are at home again.

Following a farewell sermon on "Giving" by Bro. Carney, Mr. P. F. Brown made a short talk reviewing the work of the church since the first sermon was preached in the county 34 years ago and called for pledges to apply on the building under construction.

The amount raised at this time was more than had been hoped for.

Bro. Carney spoke at the evening hour on "Paul's Message to the Church at Philippi."

The audience was larger than usual and expressed sincere appreciation of his labor in our midst.

Bro. Carney leaves soon for Waxahachie to labor with the church there. We regret to lose this splendid family from our midst and wish for them much happiness in their new home.

ITCHING ECZEMA GOES QUICK WITH USE OF THIS

People who have endured tortures from itching eczema will be happy to learn that a means of relief has been perfected and is already enjoying unheeded of popularity on account of the quick way it gets rid of the awful disease of the skin which nobody seemed able to figure out before. It is called Black and White Ointment.

Most of dealers have Black and White Ointment and Soap, an account of the tremendous demand which has already reached the rate of more than two million packages a year in its sales, because it relieves eczema so quickly.

They are economical, too. The big 50c package of Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size.

CHRYSLER DEALER EXHIBITS LATE MODELS HERE

George F. Mulkey, and E. T. Adair, local Chrysler and Maxwell dealers, this week exhibited the complete Chrysler family, showing the seven fine automobiles that are making a hit wherever fine automobiles are spoken of.

The Chrysler family is composed of the Crown Imperial, Imperial Sedan, Royal Coupe, Braugham two doors enclosed model, the Phaeton, Chrysler touring and Chrysler cadaster.

This was the first time all members of the Chrysler family have ever been shown in Lubbock at one time, and already sales that have been made since the shipment of all the cars was received have diminished the stock until only a part of the family of Chryslers are held by the dealers.

Sales have been good for the Chrysler and Maxwell lines here during the past several weeks, and since the first of this month four englands have been received, most of which have been delivered.

Mrs. W. S. Moore, 1606 16th street, purchased the Crown Imperial, the outstanding achievement in motor and one of the finest motor cars on the market.

A Chrysler Royal Coupe was delivered to Dr. J. P. Krenner, of the Lubbock Sanitarium, who has been a Chrysler owner for the past several months.

R. C. Dickinson, Fred O'Dell and Albert Taylor have just purchased late model Maxwells, and a Chrysler phaeton has just been delivered to R. E. Raderger.

WILBUR LAUDS JUDGES WHO BARRED LA FOLLETTE

By United News.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 29.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, formerly a member of the supreme court of California went to baseball for a defense of the supreme court of the United States in a speech here Wednesday night. He lauded the four California judges whose decision barred La Follette electors from the state ticket. It was his first public address since he was recalled from a speaking tour in the west by President Coolidge. The position of a judge, Wilbur said, "is that of an umpire in a game."

"We cannot get along without umpires," he declared. "It would not do to leave the decision to the spectators. It is recognized that their sympathies would be with the home team and in doubtful cases they would probably decide in favor of the home team."

BLACK EYES, BROKEN NOSES, BALLOTS AND BRICKS CHARACTERIZE GREATEST ELECTION IN HISTORY BRITISH EMPIRE

BY CHARLES McCANN

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Black eyes, broken noses, ballots and bricks were indiscriminately mixed in the greatest election day in the history of England when approximately 80 per cent of the 22,000,000 British electors stormed the polls to record a vote for or against the socialist government of Premier Ramsay MacDonald.

Heavy and often riotous balloting throughout England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland began when the murky dawn of a foggy autumn day. The campaign, which began 25 days ago as a three-cornered squabble between labor, conservatives and liberals turned out to be an almost straight fight between labor and the older parties.

Polling booths in London were crowded throughout Wednesday despite the depressing autumnal greyness which later was slued with showers of rain.

Despite the intense interest in the election, the London rick probably reduced the metropolitan police force of any other city in their entertainment in furnishing this much appreciated token of their interest in the work of the Kingdom.

Wagon packed with children boosting the conservative cause collapsed on a tour of the Bolton electric division. One child was killed and ten injured.

Old men and women came to the polls in rolling chairs and many divisions reported invalids who came to vote on stretchers.

Former Premier Stanley Baldwin was one of the first candidates returned to the new house of commons. He was unopposed in his Lancashire constituency.

Bitter feeling marred polling day at Aberavon, where Premier MacDonald was fighting for re-election to the house of commons.

Paul G. Redington, United States district forester in San Francisco, has declared that there would have been practically no fire hazard in the California national forests, even during this summer's drought, if human carelessness had been eliminated.

B. SHERROD AND TWO OTHERS OFF ON BIG HUNTING TRIP

B. Sherrod, of Sherrod Brothers Hardware, Paul Huffstodler, of Idalou, and E. K. Huffstodler, of Tolar, Texas, will leave early this morning for south Texas on a ten days hunting trip.

A visit to the Sherrod Brothers store late Wednesday afternoon revealed the fact that their well stocked store carried too large a stock of sporting goods for B. to take the whole thing along, however he has threatened to bring home a piece of bear meat and a deer's horn if it takes the last round of ammunition in the store.

He evidently has some faith in his ability to shoot straight as he took less than five thousand rounds of ammunition despite the fact that the fellows in the store store that if he expected to bring home any game he had better start out with a truckload of shooting material.

This is Sherrod's first vacation in three years.

UNIVERSITY HAS ON HAND FILM MINING DEVELOPMENT

A series of educational motion picture films, which depict in a most striking manner the processes employed in the mining, preparation and utilization of the various mineral materials, is available for distribution in Texas by the Visual Instruction Division of the University of Texas, at Austin. These films, which were produced by the Department of the Interior, through the Bureau of Mines, in cooperation with the larger industrial concerns, tell the story of the workings of the nation's tremendous mineral industries in a much more vivid and colorful manner than is possible through the medium of any printed page.

Another series of films preaches the doctrine of "safety first," by showing safe and unsafe methods of mining and metallurgical practice.

Nearly a hundred educational films have been prepared in the past few years by the Bureau of Mines in co-operation with industrial concerns. The demand for these films for showing by educational institutions, churches, civic bodies and other organizations has become so great that the original plan of centralized distribution from the Pittsburgh Experiment Station of the Bureau of Mines has become inadequate. A selected list of the best of these films is now made available at distribution centers located in the different states. The films relate to coal, petroleum, sulphur, iron, asbestos, zinc, marble, copper, natural gas, and other minerals. A series of films depicts most interestingly such industrial processes as the manufacture of oxygen, the making of fire-clay refractories, the manufacture of automobiles, the methods of compressing air, the quarrying of limestone, etc. Other films illustrate dangerous and safe practices in mining, efficiency in the combustion of coal, the utilization of water power, and the operation of a gasoline motor.

Full details as to the procedure necessary to obtain these industrial and educational motion picture films which comprise a wealth of material from other sources besides the Bureau of Mines, may be obtained by addressing the Visual Instruction Division, Bureau of Extension, University of Texas, Austin, Texas.

IRATE CUSTOMER BUYS SHOP AND FIRES BARBER

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 29.—To get even with his barber who offended him, A. J. Wilds, 81, confederate veteran, bought the barber shop and fired the barber. Then he sold the shop, at a loss of $1,000.

Today Wilds got on a street car, had a misunderstanding with the conductor and tried to buy the trolley outright. The conductor, refusing to sell, called police and Wilds was arrested for the twentieth time in the past sixty days, as on the past 19 occasions, he was charged with "dunkness, and disturbing the peace."

Rumors place the old man's fortune at $100,000. "I made my money by working 22 hours a day, sleeping one hour, and studying one hour," he said. "When I die my money is going to charity."

"It is easier to get along in life," he says, "if you're hard-boiled."

PEOPLE ADMIRE POLICY OF NEW TECH

Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the Texas Technological College, has created quite a bit of favorable comment in regard to the policy of the school regarding fraternities. A prominent writer in a recent issue of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, commenting and quoting Dr. Horn, had this to say, which places the stamp of approval on the stand Dr. Horn has taken in the matter of keeping the new school clear of the troubles that older institutions have encountered and found to be detrimental, and would be glad to be rid of today.

"No sororities; no fraternities," is the ultimatum given by Dr. P. W. Horn, president of Texas Technological College, now being constructed in Lubbock. Dr. Horn is in Fort Worth attending a board of directors meeting.

"Nothing is a good thing that tends to encourage class distinction," the educator said. "Education should not mean aristocracy; the college man is simply under obligation to give better service to the world."

Only three Texas schools have Greek letter societies, University of Texas, at Austin; Southern Methodist University at Dallas, and Southwestern University at Georgetown.

"I can speak for Southwestern, where I was president recently," Dr. Horn said. "They are trying to get rid of the Greek letter societies and will eventually do it."

Texas Tech will foster merit societies. Organizations of students who have distinguished themselves will be perfected and encouraged.

Dr. Horn has written a bulletin called "The Foreword to the College That Is to Be." It will be published in December. Commenting on Dr. Horn's Texas Tech plan, Dr. A. H. Wilde, dean of education of Boston University, characterized it as "The opportunity of a lifetime."

W. H. Allen, editor of the Bulletin of Public Service, New York, will incorporate the unique Texas Technological College plan in an issue of the Bulletin.

Both men praised the Horn policy of placing the ban on Greek letter societies.

"Such catering as our universities do to the 'upper ten' is un-American, undemocratic and un-Christian," Dr. Horn said while discussing the entrance requirements to Texas Tech.

"A college should appeal to 100 per cent of the high school students and not to the upper ten per cent," he added. "Democracy can't be safe unless 51 per cent of its people are right; Christianity is not satisfied with the 90 and 9 but seeks out the other 1. So it is the duty of the college to give every American citizen the opportunity to make the best out of himself that he possibly can. Every man or woman is not literary; but there are other branches in which they can excel."

Texas Tech will teach liberal arts, household economics, agriculture and engineering. Plans are now being perfected by Dr. Horn and others to put into operation the co-operative plan in the engineering department.

Having been tried out successfully in two other institutions after it was originated at Antioch College, the co-operative plan has been accepted as sound. Two students work on the same engineering job, one of them stays on the job one month and then goes to school one month while his co-worker holds the job. So it is that two men are educated and are self-supporting.

"Texas brains applied to Texas industry for the development of both," is a suggested slogan for Texas Tech and was repeated by Dr. Horn as meeting with his approval.

"We can learn botany from cotton as well as from orchids," Dr. Horn said, "and we can learn chemistry from the soil as well as from the chemical laboratory."

Dr. Horn is trying to profit by the experiences of other institutions both in the building and the equipment of this great school, and he is equally as desirous of steering the new college clear of the shoals that other institutions have run into caused by the fraternities, and it would seem that the people of the state and other states are looking with much favor on the policy of the president of the new school.

A VISITOR'S VIEW OF LUBBOCK.

We were talking a few days ago to a man who was visiting in Lubbock and in the conversation we referred to the growth of the city, and the wonderful business development of the city, and the gentleman from abroad stated that it was easy to see why Lubbock was fast outgrowing the balance of the towns of the Plains and the Southwest, as every person seemed so thoroughly sold on his town that they almost sold it to every fellow that came along. The people of Lubbock believe in their home town.

They believe that Lubbock is as good as anybody's town, and they believe that it is going to outstrip any of 'em. The people who live here are citizens in the true sense of the word, and not merely living here. They are standing solidly for the things that are for the development of the town and for the betterment of the people who live here. They want to help in every undertaking that is worthy, and this is the reason that some things have been done here that looked like it would be impossible to put over.

Co-operation and confidence in the town has had much to do with the success that is had and for the progress that has been made along various lines.

THE CASH VALUE OF AN EDUCATION.

Prof. Everett Lord, dean of the Boston University College of Business Administration, after a long and thorough investigation, places a money value of $33,000 on a high school education, and a value of $72,000 on a college education.

Mr. Lord arrives at this conclusion by comparing the average earnings of uneducated men from the age of 14 until they have reached the age of 60 years, with that of good high school graduates during the same term of years, but deducting the four years of time given to the high school course. The high school man earns $33,000 more than the average uneducated man, and this is credited as the cash value of the high school education. The college of technically trained man goes not generally to work until 22 years of age, but by the time he has reached 50 years of age he has earned $72,000 more than the high school graduate. Mr. Lord contends this figure represents the cash value of a college education.

This is the first practical effort to definitely fix a cash valuation on education, and it will no doubt be subjected to many criticisms. But the basic facts tell their own story and will be difficult to materially disapprove. It also offers a serious thought to parents who permit boys to leave school to go to work, for the records show that less than half of the grammar grade students enter high school, and only 17 of every 100 who do enter complete the four year course.

BANKERS ACCEPT "CLOSED SHOP" PRINCIPLE

After a year of endeavor on the part of the American Federation of Labor and the organization of Bookkeepers, Stenographers and Accountants Union, it is announced that the Bankers Trust Company and the New York Trust Company, two of New York's largest banks, employing about 1,700 workers, have not only endorsed the principle of collective bargaining, but also admitted the right of their employees to organize in other than company controlled unions.

The terms of the agreements call for 39 hours a week, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., with one hour for lunch, and to close on Saturdays at 1 p. m.

The question of salaries is left open for further settlement, but over time is to be paid for at the rate of time and a half. Two week's notice of discharge or of leaving must be given by both parties. It is also stipulated that all clerks, except officers of the banks must be members of the union, a complete recognition of the "closed shop" principle.

This action on the part of forward-looking bankers is in sharp contrast to the benevolent policies of many other financiers, and marks a pronounced victory for trades workers for the principle which has long been recognized among the professions.

BUILDING MATERIAL ROLLING IN

According to information given out by the station agent at this place there is a very heavy movement of building materials being received in Lubbock at this time. In fact the amounts rolling just now are far beyond the grasp of the minds of the average citizen, and it is hardly believable when a fellow really wants to believe it, that there are as high as fifty-two cars of building material alone rolling into the local yards a day.

With all of this the dealers report that they are unable to keep their stock anything like complete. This will give you an idea about the growth of this city, and the development of the country about Lubbock.

Few people have an idea of the rapid growth of this section of the state. People who live here, do not realize how fast it is really growing, but people who visit here frequently realize the rapid growth and are really amazed at it. They call it a boom but Lubbock folks are not excited over it, and have become so accustomed to it that they really give it very little attention.

Other evidences of the great growth of this city is the fact that we are out growing all of our old equipment and our old clothes and it becomes necessary to lengthen out the skirts of our garments and give her room to grow.

PUBLIC HEALTH CONSIDERED AS DUTY

Addressing the Texas Conference of Social Welfare in session at Austin on the "Relations of the State Health Department to Public Health," Dr. Malone Duggan, state health officer, stated that "the health of the people is one of the first duties of the statesman."

Dr. Duggan pointed out that "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," are guaranteed under the Constitution, but since "our society has become so complex these rights can not be exercised by the individual unaided. Disease has become a national enemy to be met by competent health departments with the weapon of modern sanitary science." Dr. Duggan then outlined the functions of a public health administration. Dr. H. D. Ruie, of Marlin, presided.

DAVIS RAPS "VAGUE" ATTITUDE OF COOLIDGE

By United News.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Declaring that silence has been adopted as the guiding star of the republican party John W. Davis, in a speech in Brooklyn Wednesday night attacked what he termed the vague, indefinite attitude of President Coolidge. Particularly Davis, assailed Coolidge's attitude on matters of foreign policy. Davis reviewed Coolidge's speech at Washington last Thursday and pointed by points, declared "the president's utterances were either vague generalities or inadequate to the needs of the situation."

"I discover, after reading and re-reading it," Davis said, "that aside from the praise bestowed on the Dawes plan, there are six propositions which address themselves to the candid consideration of the American people. Of these, two are negatives; four profess to be positive and none are well defined."

Taking up the president's declaration that America had abstained from the League of Nations "mainly for the purpose of avoiding political entanglements, and committing ourselves to the assumption of the obligations of others," Davis pointed out that even were the United States a member of the league, "it could be committed to no entanglement or assumption of obligations of others without its affirmative vote and consent."

Davis contradicted the president's statement that "under our constitution, we cannot by treaty, pledge or limit the future legislation of congress." Featuring this point, the democratic candidate asserted that under the Washington conference, this country had agreed not to fortify the islands of the Pacific and had entered trade agreements against discrimination.

"Have these treaties no binding effect on future congresses," he asked.

Commenting on Coolidge's declaration for adherence to the world court, Davis added, "We must be patient however for a republican administration has had but three and one-half years to give this subject and perhaps a willingness to propose may be set down as something more than its customary progress."

America has become the greatest fruit eating country in the world and fruit drinks are taking the place of liquor throughout American society.

Secrecy Harbor Deal Unnecessary Gregory States

By United News.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 29.—Secrecy which government counsel claims surrounded the award to the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, of contracts for Pearl Harbor construction work was not necessary to protect war plans, Rear Admiral Luther E. Gregory, chief of the navy bureau of yards and docks, testified Wednesday during the cancellation suit in progress here.

Rear Admiral Gregory, who was on the stand the greater part of the day as witness for both the defense and prosecution, declared that while it was necessary for details of the Hawaiian base construction work to be handled secretly, there was nothing in the details that would reveal anything of value to an enemy nation.

In cross examination by Frank Hogan, chief defense counsel, Admiral Gregory stated that the government profited by letting the E. L. Doherty concern go ahead with the construction of a storage plant for 2,700,000 barrels of oil after the same company had completed one for 1,500,000 barrels.

"It was a great saving in money and the only practical plan," the witness said in referring to this deal.

He pointed out that the J. G. Vane Company, a subsidiary of the Pan-American, already had equipment, materials and tools on the spot and that no delay was occasioned when they went ahead with the second contract, which was awarded on December 14, 1922.

During the early part of his testimony, Admiral Gregory dwelt upon the work done at Pearl Harbor under the Doherty contracts. Government counsel brought out the fact that bridges, lyses, concrete buildings and walks had been included in the contract, although with a view to claiming that projects of such type could not legally be contracted for with an exchange of royalty oil such as the Doherty interests obtained as payment.

Owen J. Roberts, associate prosecuting attorney, said afterward that he hoped to finish presentation of his case Thursday. He announced that he had "five or six" witnesses yet to call, but refused to tell who they would be. It will depend upon a conference Wednesday night, he explained.

TWO POLICEMEN OVERPOWERED BY HIGHWAYMAN

By United News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 29.—Every corner of San Francisco's underworld is being pried into by police searching for the daring young bandits who robbed Phillip Jacoby, president of the Standard Biscuit Company and his wife of approximately $15,000 worth of jewelry.

The Jacobys, returning early Wednesday from a party, were greeted by two well dressed young men as they entered the living room of their home.

One of the robbers held a gun on the couple while the other stripped the jewels from Mrs. Jacoby's person. After locking Jacoby in a closet the bandits escaped.

HOW ONE EDITOR PROVED TH AT PEOPLE READ THE ADS

So many customers were out of town on vacations that one of our pharmacist friends in a nearby town concluded that it wasn't worth while to continue to advertise in the home paper. He knew the editor well and called him up and ordered the ad. "I don't believe the people see it, anyhow," the pharmacist informed his friend the editor. The latter suggested that it might be well to change the copy, but the pharmacist had made up his mind.

The paper came out as usual but following the editor's instructions, the illustration in the pharmacist ad was upside down. That evening the editor strolled into the drug store and was immediately hailed by his friend.

"What's the idea of having that cut upside down in my ad, he inquired. "I told you to take the whole ad out."

"Well, you are probably the only one that noticed it, replied the editor."

"Is that so?" replied the pharmacist. Why PH bet that fifty people have already called my attention to the change—asked me if I had seen it. A dozen customers brought their own papers to show me. Two women went to the trouble to call me on the phone about it. I didn't realize that so many people noticed my ad. You had better let it run, and I will get up some new copy right away.

JUNIOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEMBERS TO STIMULATE INTEREST IN FOOTBALL IN INTEREST LOCAL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The regular breakfast meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce was held at the Busy Bee cafe Wednesday morning with President Byron C. Dickinson in charge.

An increased number of members are showing interest in these meetings, and much important business was discussed. Special attention was given the tourists park situation, and the committee appointed to look after this important feature of the organization work.

The members are showing special interest in the football game to be played here Friday between the Amarillo Sandstorms and the Lubbock Westerners, and are backing the Lubbock High School Athletic association in efforts to have a larger attendance at this game than has ever been seen at a football game on the south plains.

As a means of encouraging interest in football, members of the organization realizing that understanding is the foundation of all interest will take with them the older men of the community and explain to them the game play-by-play throughout the game. This will enable the old timers to know more about the game in the future and will have much to do in putting football on a higher pedestal here.

Too many men who do not know anything about football are prone to say the game is too rough and involves little sport in which individuals will be given an opportunity to understand the spirit in which the game is played and the motive actuating the fighting spirit back of each and every player.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce in Lubbock is composed of the young business and professional men of the city, and the organization is one of the outstanding civic workers of the community.

The board of directors met Wednesday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce offices. The football game was discussed further, and plans completed for the organization of the entire membership into a rooting squad for the home team.

LITTLE WORLD SERIES CALLED OFF WEDNESDAY

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 29.—Because of continued bad weather, the remainder of the Little World series between St. Paul of the American Association and Seattle of the Pacific Coast League has been called off.

One game was played on a wet field last Sunday, resulting in a win for the Saints 12 to 4. The series was to have started last Saturday. The continued postponements forced by rain, resulted in a meeting of the managers of the teams Wednesday at which it was decided to abandon the series.

GIANTS TOPPLE IN WILD RENEWAL OF ENTHUSIASM

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Baseball fans from out in the sections that are reported as the "sticks" by New Yorkers have been vindicated in the stand they took two years ago that New York domination of the major leagues was not a good thing for baseball.

Baseball wasn't entirely dominated by New York, as the Yankees were ousted from the championship of the American League and the Giants were defeated by the Senators in the world's series.

Certainly it is safe to say that no team ever had the entire support of a nation to win a world's series that the Senators had and that in itself caused an intense revival of interest in baseball. Fans that would have given a tumbler to a fourth series between the two New York clubs went into a frenzy supporting the American League champions. It is no exaggeration to say that the nation never has been aroused for such a common cause as it was to pull against the Giants. Even in the war time, there were the conscientious objectors and the little group of up-setters in Congress.

Quite to the surprise of everyone, the 1924 world's series game made a record for attendance. Receipts, even though the American League park is one half smaller than the huge Yankee Stadium, where the American League end of the series was played last year.

It is true that seven games were played this year, but it is also a fact from past records, that Yankee-Giant series for the championship would not have packed the Yankee Stadium, as four games in Washington filled the American League ball park.

It was evident also that New York had more interest in a series with a visiting club than in a "city series," because the three games in the Polo Grounds outdrew the games that were played in the National League park last summer.

The victory of the Senators in the American League pennant race and in the world's series will turn out to be a tremendous thing for baseball, of some of the suspicion that was aroused by the Giant scandal should prove to be unfounded.

On the other hand, the effect of the scandal, if other names should be dragged into it, will not be as fatal as it would have been if the Yankees had won the American League pennant and played the Giants in the world's series.

This is not meant as a reflection on the honesty of the Yankees or an inference that they are crooked. On the other hand it is generally felt that no team with Babe Ruth on it would be allowed to do any shady work. The Babe wouldn't stand for it and there are other Yankee players who have as much baseball integrity and honor as the Babe has.

However, if Washington had not done so valiantly in winning the pennant and the series and had not assumed the role of a national hero there would be no talk about the world's series, because they would have been no interest in it and the fans would have to turn conversation into scandal channels.

ing, game Washington team in a series with the Giants was more thought of than another colorless battle between the Giants and the Yankees.

If Pittsburgh and Washington had met the series, it is difficult to estimate to what limits interest might have been aroused although it is possible that the nation in its entirety might not have been pulling so intently for Pittsburgh to lose as it was for the Giants to be beaten.

The interest in baseball next season naturally will reflect the revival of enthusiasm brought on by the series, unless, as it was said before, that the suspicion about the New York Giants is not allayed.

There is a chance to make the interest in the game even greater next year both because of an in spite of the scandal.

If the heads of baseball will come out with all the facts in the case and let the fans know with some definite conviction that Dolan and O'Connell were the only Giants involved in the scandal, the suspicion which endangers baseball, will be allayed. Until then it may not be.

6 Featherweight Fighters Chosen To Decide Crown

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The New York prize fight commission selected six featherweight fighters Wednesday afternoon to battle in elimination tournament for the featherweight championship which was vacated a few months ago by Johnny Dundee because he could not meet the weight anymore.

Now nothing remains but to get the six fighters into the ring, a task which will be about as easy as making the sphinx of Egypt tell a line of snappy stories. Kid Kaplan, of Meridian, Conn., and Danny Kramer, of Philadelphia, both of whom whaled Dundee in no-decision catch-weight fights before he abandoned the title are the two leading nominees in the tournament.

The other three are Lew Palino, of Salt Lake City; Mike Dundee, of Rock Island, Illinois; and Bobby Garcia, the soldier boxer of Camp Holabird, Maryland.

MISSOURI ADOPTS SLOGAN "BEAT NEBRASKA"

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 29.—"Beat Nebraska!" Faced with this alternative if Missouri is to win its first Missouri Valley Conference championship in a decade, the Tiger football squad is toiling heroically this week for the Husker game at Lincoln Saturday.

Not since 1899 has Missouri scored a victory over Nebraska and the task of Coach Gwyn Henry's charge will be additionally difficult Saturday by reason of the broken legs suffered in last week's Kansas Aggie victory by Moulder, hustling quarterback, and Swofford, star back and expert receiver of forward passes. These injuries more than make up for the superior record made to date by Missouri, four victories, two of them over conference teams, and one over Chicago University, compared with Nebraska's two defeats by Illinois and Oklahoma and its narrow escape last Saturday with Kansas at Lawrence.

The Huskers, however, will be meeting Missouri on their home gridiron and Nebraska's big score over Colgate as compared with its victory over Kansas, proves Nebraska is a far better "home" than invader.

Kansas football followers are still hoping for the Jayhawk eleven to win 1924 football game and believe the run of bad luck will be broken this Saturday in St. Louis when the Jayhawkers meet Washington University, already defeated by Grinnell. Playing as it did against Nebraska, Kansas is "doped" to win by several touchdowns.

The two Aggie teams of the conference will meet this week at Manhattan with the odds practically even, both having been defeated by Missouri by a one touchdown margin and both having won from Kansas University. Drake will see in preparation for Kansas, while Oklahoma will meet the Sooner Aggie from Stillwater.

Walker Outpoints Malone Easily in 12-Round Scrap

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 29.—Mickey Walker worlds welterweight champion outpointed Jack Malone, the St. Paul middleweight in their 12 round bout at Newark Wednesday night.

Walker was complete master of the situation all of the way, in the fifth round, a right to the jaw sent Malone half way through the ropes.

Walker bored in all the time, paid no attention to his opponents efforts and pounded his man hard. Malone was on the verge of a knockout in the eleventh chapter from a series of onslaughts.

Silent Cheers To Feature Cornell-Columbia Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The silent cheer, never heard before at an American football game, will roll from the Columbia section of the spectators' stands when Columbia's team plays Cornell at Ithaca Saturday afternoon.

As the Columbia players fight to vindicate the teachings of Percy Haughton, their coach, who died suddenly Monday afternoon, the students who attend the game will keep silence as a mark of respect for the coach. It will be in keeping, too, with the almost religious intensity of purpose which will drive the team, for Columbia's players will go into the game believing that they must win to make good for their dead coach.

Cornell's students will receive a hint from Columbia and probably will remain silent too. Haughton coached for two years at Cornell before going to Harvard to establish the famous Haughton system of coaching.

The flags around the football field will dangle from half mast.

FRISCH BELIEVED NEXT TO BABE RUTH FOR SALARY

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Frank Frisch, second baseman and field captain of the New York Giants, is believed to be the highest paid ball player in New York, except Babe Ruth. Frisch paid an income tax of $1200 last year, according to the government's official returns. His next contract probably will enable him to pay much more.

UNIVERSITY REGISTRAR IS STRONG BELIEVER IN JUNIOR COLLEGE

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 29.—"I believe strongly in junior colleges, provided that they have funds enough to do the work properly, but I would rather have none at all the more that means only two more years of high school work," asserted E. J. Mathews, registrar of the University of Texas.

Mr. Mathews says that the population of the city and the surrounding community must be considered in locating a junior college, but that the chief question is the matter of sufficient funds to carry on good work, for support is necessary to provide good teachers, adequate buildings, library, laboratory and other equipment.

"Most of the towns in Texas are growing so fast that they have difficulty in securing money enough to provide teachers and buildings for the elementary and high school work," said Registrar Mathews. "The danger is therefore, that these divisions of the city school system will be starved in order to provide a junior college."

Mr. Mathews believes, however, that the crowded condition of the freshman and sophomore classes of the University of Texas will be relieved when Texas cities can afford to build junior colleges.

There are three kinds of junior colleges in Texas, it is stated—also public junior college, supported by State funds; the denominational school; and the private school. In Texas there are four public junior colleges, located at El Paso, Beaumont, Wichita Falls and Hillsboro; there are many denominational schools; and there is one private school of junior college ranking the Texas Military College at Terrell.

REVOLUTIONARY OUTBREAK REPORTED IN BRAZIL

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 29.—Another revolutionary outbreak is reported in the Brazilian state of Rio Grande do Sul, according to dispatches received here by La Razon. BOUNDARY MUDDLE BE DECIDED BY PHOTOGRAPHS

EL PASO, Oct. 29.—The international boundary question between the United States and Mexico will be settled by photographic plates, which American aviators will take along the Rio Grande river from El Paso to Fort Quitman, a distance of sixty miles.

International boundary commissioner George C. Curry announced Wednesday that permission had been secured from Mexico for planes to fly over Mexican territory for the purpose of boundary mapping.

MARTIN'S BAKERY INSTALLS NEW MACHINERY

"I did not know it was possible to make such noticeable improvement in an already splendid, well made article as in the case with the improvement that has just been made in Butterflake bread," a visitor to Martin's Bakery, makers of the famous loaf, stated Wednesday.

Exhibiting the progressiveness that has characterized his management of the bakery business here since first entering the business here a number of years ago, Mr. Martin has just purchased and installed two new machines for the improvement of his baking plant.

An improved rounder, that prepares the dough for the finishing process after it has been mixed, and which was bought at a great expense has just been installed and put into operation in Martin's Bakery.

Woman of Thirty, Female Ulysses and a Menace, Says Fabian

HE flapper is out-flapped! She is innocuous as compared with her older sisters, the woman of thirty, according to Warner Fabian in an article of his appearing in the November number of Smart Set. The woman of thirty has been coming into her own of late. There was a time when the flapper held the center of the stage, but now it is the older woman who demands the attention of charmers and specialists from pseudo-psychologists to the woman's page philosopher.

Warner Fabian contributes to the discussion by discovering an element of danger in this woman's charm, and the danger he attributes to her adventure in the war. For a woman of today to be thirty years old and an American means that she is "a problem to herself and a peril to her neighborhood," he says. The experience of the flapper with her "little splash of adventure into the Greenwich Village of fake artistry," Mr. Fabian dismisses as narrow compared with the experiences of the girl who was at her prime during the high-pressure years of the war. In those days, he says, she had "too intimate a view of too many men." She stepped out of that little circle where "the wife-price-quotations are highest in cash and position, and mingled with men of a different kind than she had ever known. She got a taste of life and romance, and is now "a restless female-Ulysses and a menace."

Pierce Passion and Fiercer Restraint in Sandy's "Andorra"

IT is not often that "the surge and thunder of the Odyssey" is heard in modern fiction, but the wind in the forests of the Pyrenees mountains has taken up the cry of the Mediterranean waters in Isabelle Sand's "Andorra." There is an unmistakable Greek quality in the book's epic simplicity and vigor. It is a story of the primitive people dwelling in the Andorran Valley, and more especially a story of the House of Xirball. There is all of life in the annals of this one family, the petty jealousies, the intrigue, and the struggle of brother against brother for the possession of the land.

Isabelle Sand's story is set in the mountains of France the tremendous grandeur that Conrad found in the sea, and the people of these mountains she has clothed in simplicity, dignity, and passion. Knut Hamsun, in the person of his Wanderer, once said that he had learned to write simply by hearing a Mexican bandit tell of his first murder, and the tragedy of the House of Xirball is fraught with something of that fierce passion and fiercer restraint.

A Short Story With Humor, Uncanny Wisdom and Beauty

DINA FERBER has a way of taking the sting of sordidness from middle-class drudgery. In "Classified," a short story appearing in the November issue of Cosmopolitan, she has pictured the life in New York's West Sixty-sixth Street "walk-up" flats with the same deft and sympathetic touch that made "Sobig" a classic of the Middle West.

Newspaper ads are classified, so are the girls who write them for twenty-five dollars a week, and so is the future of the girls. "Bobby" Comet, who wrote such ads for a New York morning newspaper, looked upon her mother's life of domestic toil in the Sixty-sixth Street "walk-up" and said to herself, "They'll never get me that way, and every day she applied her lip-stick and her rouge and fared forth in search of romance and of ads."

But Bobby didn't know that romance is classified, too. The demon of middle-class matrimony and another walk-up flat presented itself in the guise of the desirable and comely Jesse Whiting, with forty dollars a week. If it was all laudible it was not necessarily unlovely, according to Miss Ferber. In "Classified" there is not too much pathos, but there is humor, a canny wisdom and real beauty.

carrier and instructions for sending the specimens of eggs and urine to ascertain this condition.

Vaccination
Even proper sanitation cannot eliminate entirely the danger of typhoid but there is one sure immunity—vaccination. With vaccine readily obtainable as it is now there is no excuse for this dread disease. The unpleasant features of such inoculations are slight and the results are very sure for at least a year and in most cases for several years. Every member of the family should have this protection of vaccination, but such protection is not an excuse for careless sanitation. Vaccination is just one of the necessary additions to all other safeguards.

REPUBLICAN GROUP PLEDGE SUPPORT TO DEMOCRATS

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Charging that President Coolidge has repudiated the traditions of the republican party in his attitude on the League of Nations, a committee of prominent men and women, former republicans, have announced they would support John W. Davis, and are urging other republicans to do likewise.

In a signed statement issued Tuesday, the committee makes these charges:

With Mr. Harding's knowledge, Hughes, Hoover and other prominent republican leaders pledged the party unequivocally and specifically to the League of Nations with reservations. No sooner was Harding elected, however, than he abandoned those who voted for him and cast his lot with the bitter-enders and isolationists of his party. He even refused to take the first steps toward the establishment of the "Association of Nations" which he assured the country was to take the place of the League.

"Mr. Coolidge, who has succeeded him, the statement adds, says the question of American participation in the league is a closed incident and is running for re-election on a platform which declared the republican victory four years ago was a repudiation of the league by the American people, although on November 23, 1920, before he became president, he is on record as saying that the election did not register a vote against the league."

Among those who signed the statement are: Everett Colby, of New Jersey, former member of the republican national committee; Henry W. MacCracken, president of Vassar College; Theodore Marburg, former minister to Belgium during the Taft administration; E. J. Caldwell, former sub-committee chair-

Efficiency of Gov't Ownership Upheld in Speech

By United News.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Taking the postage stamp which sells for the same price now as it did 20 years ago as an illustration of government efficiency, Senator Robert M. LaFollette, made his first extended answer here Wednesday night of President Coolidge and others who have charged that his public ownership doctrines would bring waste and ruin.

"Government ownership involves possible dangers," LaFollette admitted. "It involves a great increase in the number of government employees. But there is this great gain. Public business is performed in the open. It is under scrutiny. Every two or four years the people have a chance to vote. We can vote graft out if it should come into public service. The press will then expose it. Members of congress will expose it. The light of publicity is the only thing that keeps government clean. It does not penetrate into the private offices of J. P. Morgan, but it plays in all its fullness on the acts of public men."

LaFollette mentioned the building and operation of the Panama canal and the administration of the electric power system maintained by the province of Ontario as good examples of government efficiency.

"Do you realize that postage stamp is almost the only thing that costs no more today than it did ten years, twenty, forty years ago. While bread, coal, lumber, railroad fares shot up a hundred or two hundred percent the postage stamp issued by your government retains its proud distinction of being as cheap as it was years ago," LaFollette declared.

"And this postoffice department is a profitable thing. I know of no body of men whose courtesy and devotion is equal to that of postal employees."

"They tote your burden and perform little services and ask no tips. They are poorly paid, yet they go gallantly on. The forestry service is as honest and economical and gallant a service as America possesses. There are the men who fight our fires in the cities. Fire departments are publicly owned. The police force of most of our cities furnishes an efficient honest public service. The man in public uniform has a devotion to something outside of himself that I have not found in profiteers. You saw it during the war when four million boys offered their lives while privately owned corporations and Wall street profiteers took advantage of suffering and sacrifice and extorted billions in wicked profits."

"We progressives are determined to have public ownership of the white house just as we must have public ownership of Niagara Falls," he said.

AUTHOR "NICK CARTER" NOVELS DIED WEDNESDAY

By United News.

SAN JOSE, Calif., Oct. 29.—The author of the "Nick Carter" series of dime novels is dead.

Eugene R. Sawyer, who collaborated with John R. Coryell in writing of more than one thousand dime novels, died at his home here Wednesday. He was 73 years old.

Sawyer's death came only a few hours after that of Thomas Harbaugh, of Castown, Ohio, a contemporary writer of dime novels.

For the last few years Sawyer has been living rather quietly at his home here from the comfortable fortune he amassed from his "thrillers." It has been estimated that Sawyer, who began writing in the early seventies turned out his novels at the rate of one per week.

BEWARE OF TYPHOID FEVER

"With typhoid fever increasing at an alarming rate over the country, states Dr. Malone Dugan, State Health Officer, "it becomes necessary for some prompt and definite action to be taken to eliminate this absolutely preventable disease from our state. We have now educated the people to feel that smallpox is a disgrace to a community and it is just as possible to so instruct them concerning typhoid." In 1920 the death rate from typhoid fever in 57 cities in the United States was 19.59. By 1922 the health authorities of the country had cut this to 9.15. According to this rate by the year 1950 typhoid fever should be eradicated from the country.

But this is not 1950 and it resolves upon the people of the state working in co-operation with the health workers to decrease and eliminate this disease. The prevalence of typhoid is an excellent index to the intelligence and sanitary condition of a community. We now know that typhoid is a first-borne disease, caused by germs that are parasites and depend for their perpetuation upon multiplication in the bodies of human beings. Our experience during the war, when out of an army of four million less than 300 fatalities resulted from this disease, teach us that proper sanitation and vaccination can practically wipe typhoid from the face of the earth.

How Communicated
Typhoid is communicated from one person to another by germs from the bowels of an infected person reaching the mouth of a well person. Unless these germs are swallowed a person cannot contract typhoid. These germs are distributed through drinking water, milk, raw foods, bathing in polluted streams, and any other way in which germs may reach the mouth.

The remedy for this disease is sanitation at all times and immunity through vaccination. In cities, control of water supplies, inspection of milk, cleanliness in stores and markets, and elimination of the fly are the methods of typhoid control. In the rural community the danger is greater because of the insanitary privy, the unprotected well, and the ever present fly. Screened privies, safe water, and war on the fly are the remedies here.

Human Carriers
But there is one source of infection that cannot be eliminated—only controlled. This is the human being who unwittingly harbors these germs in his system and distributes them to his fellow men. He is known as a "carrier." In New York City one cook alone was known to have infected 26 persons within a period of five years. When a case of typhoid is discovered the first thing done should be to issue the community from infection from the sick person by proper sanitation. Then the case should be traced to its source so that no further infection is possible. If this source is a "carrier" he should be informed of his condition and instructed how to keep from infecting others. Workers in dairies are often "carriers" and infect the milk that they handle. It has been found that 4 per cent of convalescent patients are "carriers" and no patient should be dismissed without a laboratory examination to determine this fact. Upon request the State Health department will send

Experts Doubt Cotton Flea Is Hurting Plant

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 29.—A careful observation and experimentation by Dr. F. L. Thomas, entomologist of the Experiment Station of the A. and M. College, have failed so far to fix responsibility on the cotton flea, as hopper, as the entomologists are pleased to call the insect, for the damage of fruit shedding and excessive plant growth in cotton that is being attributed to the insect by farmers in all sections, but particularly in the Gulf Coast region this year.

Cotton plants confined in cages with a large number of the insects showed no more evidence of shedding than plants confined in other cages from which the insects were carefully excluded. This in the absence of any evidence of actual damage done by the insects raises a considerable doubt in the minds of the entomologists as to the correctness of popular opinion which seems to have fastened the blame on the hopper for excessive shedding wherever the presence of the insect happens to be noted.

Investigations conducted under field conditions have also failed to fasten the blame definitely on the cotton flea or hopper, neither have they absolved him from the damage. By carefully tagging stalks and recording each square that plants out and also every minute square that is shed. In this way it was found that many infested fields have a condition existing in which well fruited stalks occur on the one hand and on the other stalks may be seen that have not set a hail of actual damage were examined where the shedding was heavy although the insects were scarce. Then again in fields where the hoppers were equally abundant the cotton was not apparently suffering a loss in yield.

SECOND EDITION OF LEGENDS OF TEXAS IS OFF PRESS

AUSTIN, Oct. 29.—The second edition of Legends of Texas has just come off the University of Texas Press and 15000 copies are ready for distribution, according to Miss Ethel Burch, secretary of the Texas Folk Lore Society.

Since May last 12500 copies of this volume, containing legendary tales of the Lone Star State have been sold. Orders have been filled, not only in all parts of Texas, but in practically every state of the Union. Books have also been sent to Canada, Mexico City, Paris, France, Prague, Germany and Basel Switzerland.

Legends of Texas is a product of the Texas Folk Lore Society, which was organized in 1909, in Dallas with a membership of 66. Since its organization, the society has grown until there are now 300 members. Of this number, 135 have been added this year. The University of Texas is headquarters for the society, though the meetings have been held in various places. The general purpose of the society is to collect and preserve the heritage of Texas, the folk-lore, although legends of that of Mexico, is recognized as the field of Texas folklorists. Anyone interested in the general purpose of the society may become a member, according to Miss Burch.

The folk-lore of Texas is varied. In the Legends of Texas are found legends of mines, of hidden treasure, of lovers, of mystery, of flowers, of superstitions. The book may be purchased by writing to the secretary of the Texas Folk Lore Society at the University of Texas.

J. Frank Obie, editor of the publication, said: "I must confess a great hope that some man or woman who understands will seize upon these legends and use them as Irving used the legends of the Hudson and the Catskills, as Whittier used the legends of New England."

All selections will be made by Coach E. J. Stewart.

Hudson and Essex Set Hard Pace in Foreign Business

Hudson and Essex are bringing the whole world around to a preference for enclosed cars. Even a number of export markets now are asking for a majority of their shipments in coaches and sedans, according to word received from the Hudson factory to Jones Motor company, Hudson Essex dealers.

"That is unusual," said Mr. Jones, "because motoring customs in foreign countries have been entirely different from those in America. Many motorists ride with tops down—as Americans did ten years ago. The automobile isn't outstandingly the article of utility it is here in the United States."

"But the unquestioned all-weather advantages of the closed car, and the unrivaled value which Hudson and Essex have built into their coaches, is changing this."

"The demand for closed cars has grown gradually, since Hudson Essex brought out the coach, until the majority of orders now tends that way. It is only a matter of time that the same trend which followed Hudson Essex leadership in America will extend into other countries. One tropical distributor was astounded to find that the coaches are even more comfortable than open cars in hot weather—he found he could regulate just the draft of fresh cool air he wished."

"The Hudson Essex export business, by the way, is one of the largest in the industry, although you hear little of it. There are only seven or eight motor car manufacturers who make as many cars for their entire domestic and foreign production as Hudson Essex ships overseas. This volume helps in obtaining lowered costs for Hudson and Essex cars here in America."

"Hudson and Essex closed cars are winning their way wherever they go, not only because of their closed car comforts at open car costs but also because of their performance and their wonderfully easy riding. The vibrationless motor of the Essex is built on the principles of the famous Super-Six.

"In our own city, Hudson and Essex sales continue their wonderful 1924 record. The public is choosing them because they give the essential motoring and advantages at a price which the ordinary man can reach. Nationally, Hudson Essex was the first maker to reach 100,000 six cylinder cars this year."

MARKETS

GRAINS AND COTTON MOVE HIGHER IN DULL SESSION

BY EDWARD J. CONDLON
NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—In one of the dull and most uninteresting sessions in several weeks, which is admitting a good deal, the stock market managed to retain most of the advances of the two previous sessions. The expected professional drive against stock prices following the disappointing quarterly earnings of the steel corporation, for the period ended September 30, failed to materialize while foreign exchange grains and cotton moved higher.

One of the most reassuring features of the stock industry in several weeks was put out by the Iron Age. It pointed out that while earnings statements reflected the somewhat ruffled conditions in the past few months, current conditions point toward better progress in the steel industry. In fact, all signs at present point to continued operation above sixty per cent. It is expected that by the middle of November a much clearer outlook will be had, particularly in the matter of further advances of bar and structural steel prices.

The situation in bonds was hardly more interesting. Liberties were easier at the start and made little headway during the course of the day despite the fact that call money did not move up to the 3 per cent level again.

Certainly the whole performance of the security markets might be termed pre-holiday. Apathetic trading was noted on all sides as many large speculators, as well as the investing public hesitated to take a definite stand in the market at the moment.

Just how much the increase in commission rates on stocks costing more than $50 a share will affect trading will be answered on Thursday when the new schedule becomes effective. The advance of $2.50 to $10 increase per hundred shares may have a tendency to force out many margin traders who habitually dip into the market for a point or two in a given stock and take profits, or losses and are out again.

The grain markets fluctuated rapidly at times. The spurt in rice prices was due mainly to further reports of bad husking. A fair export trade was reported in wheat and rye.

The cotton market was a weather affair from the opening of business. The weekly weather report was very favorable, and served to off-set some private advice telling of the damage done in recent heavy frosts in Texas. The export movement of cotton continues exceptionally large. Exports from Oct. are expected to exceed one million bales, against 963,000 in October 1923.

Shop receipts 4,000; woolled lambs steady; Utahs $19.00; top natives $13.25; better grade largely around $13.00; sheep strong; New Mexican weathers $7.75.

Because of the scarcity of working capital in many European countries, and the abundance of idle capital now in the American market nearly every nation in Europe waits for various purposes. All the large international banks of New York are overwhelmed with applications and it is estimated that if half the loans asked for be granted the American investment market will be called up, during the next few weeks, to place more than a billion dollars of foreign bonds.

Chicago Grain
CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 29.—Wheat—Lower early on scattered liquidation by tired holders which found market without important buying and the local crowd were inclined to force the selling. On the break corn turned strong on concentrated buying from the east due to continued unfavorable husking returns and this buying developed an overextended short interest resulting in corn prices bulging four cents a bushel which brought in a wave of short covering in wheat some buying of wheat was to protect short corn. So-bushel estimated wheat business 750,000 to 1,000,000 bushels. There is continued talk of scarcity of elevator room and congestion at terminals, resulting in a widening of discounts on nearby futures.

Corn—Some believe it is a little early to start a campaign on long side of corn feeling there will be an opportunity to make purchases lower after crop movement gets under way. Cash did not follow futures and premiums one cent off at close.

Oats—Hedging pressure was less urgent and market received some support from local bull lenders. Shorts covered on the firmness in corn. Receipts inspected 109 cars. Cash market relatively easier. Shipping sales reported 91,000 bushels for winter storage at Buffalo.

J. J. RYE ESCAPES ON TRIP TO TULIA

Special to the Avalanche.
AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 28.—There is a new version to that old song "Comin' Through the Rye." It is "Goin' through the Rye" or "Went Through the Rye."
 Here is the way it came about. J. J. Rye, who was a principal witness in the John S. Rye case, was being held in the Potter county jail for Swisher county authorities. Rye is alleged to have forged checks at Tulia.
 Last night Deputy Sheriff Eubank from Tulia, came to Amarillo to get Rye. They had only a few minutes to make the Santa Fe train, and arrived at the station with only a moment to spare.
 Rye preceded the officer into the coach. During the usual bustle and stir of passengers in getting settled, Rye reached the opposite end of the coach before the officer realized what was happening. Before the train was out of the Amarillo yards Rye had disappeared.
 "The last we heard of the affair," Mr. Rye was "goin' through the rye," said Sheriff Whitaker, "and I presume he is still going."

Hughes Confident Of GOP Success in Coming Election

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Charles Evans Hughes, secretary of state, brought the standard of the republican party to the middle west in a fighting speech which carried conviction of success in the coming election, and painted a gloomy picture of conditions which would result if the election is thrown into doubt.
 "You cannot have progress without security and expansion of enterprise," the secretary declared. "It would not take much to destroy prosperity. All you have to do is to shake confidence, and this would happen if the third party should really approach success. This would result in a third party which would be a combination of our opponents and could produce a deadlock in this section."
 "To impair confidence," he continued, "is to create uncertainty as to the future, and with that uncertainty would come the cancellation of orders, the curtailment of credit, the reduction of business, the loss of many jobs, and the loss of many lives."

Graduates State Engineer Course Much In Demand

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 28.—Graduates of the mechanical engineering department of the University of Texas are ranked as high as those of any of the largest schools of the country, and are constantly in demand by the big mechanical companies, according to Prof. H. G. Weaver, of the College of Engineering.
 Frequently University of Texas mechanical engineers are desired over those of other universities such as Illinois and Indiana, which best goes to show that they are the best trained in their work. A representative of the Westinghouse Electric Company stated last year that he was planning to employ several more from the University of Texas because they had been proved to be efficient and accurate in their work.
 "The equipment in the mechanical shops on the campus is the best that could be secured, and there is every class of machinery needed for the training of mechanical engineers," stated Professor Weaver.
 Enrollment in mechanical engineering courses shows a decided increase over last year.

DOG CARRIES TAIL LIGHT TO PREVENT DISASTER

CEDAR GROVE, Okla., Oct. 29.—A visiting motorist "stepping on it" jammed on the brakes the other night near here, muttered something about port-wine liquor, and rubbed his eyes. In front of his car zig-zagged a red light.
 Investigation revealed a small dog with a red electric light on his collar, the necessary "juice" being supplied from a dry cell battery strapped to his body.
 "My last dog was run over one night by an automobile, so I decided Rover should carry a tail light," was the owner's explanation, a woman.
