Texan Takes Stand in Rondout Mail Robbery Trial

CONFESSOR TO ROBBERY BARES STORY OF DEAL

IMPLICATES FAHY AND MURRAY AS PLOTTERS OF GIANT HAUL

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Brent Glascock, the tall and lanky Texan whose execution of the $2,000,000 mail train robbery at Rondout, Illinois, last spring makes the activities of Jesse James and the Younger brothers look like petty hold-ups in comparison, took the stand in federal court here today to testify that Postal Inspector Wm. Fahy has been traitor to the government which employed him.

Glascock who has been stopping mail trains at lonely railway crossings for ten years and found the business profitable until he began monkeying with the politicians and crooked guys who, were badges, was the last member of the band which staged the Rondout robbery to be arrested.

He was also the last member of the gang to confess, and his confession was not elicited from him until the other six members had broken down. Fahy, the one time postal inspector, and James Murray, were the politicians of Chicago, who are charged with supplying the information to the mail robbers, have maintained their innocence and are now being tried.

Glascock took the stand late Wednesday. Before a half dozen deputies led him into the courtroom and the witness box, they had dumped approximately $651,000 in bonds, commercial paper and cash on the little table in front of the judge's bench.

Glascock identified the money as "boot" which he and his gang had taken from the mail train.

When the money had been identified, Glascock was called upon to explain the part alleged to have been played by Inspector Fahy and Murray in the robbery.

"I was in Chicago looking for a job," said Glascock, "when Murray said he had a good thing. Murray said he had been getting his information regarding the movement of large amounts of money from men 'in on the know'."

"I had done business with Murray before and I knew he was all right," said he to the court.

Glascock then went on to say that several jobs did not work out as expected and that finally he demanded that Murray introduce him to the inspectors. Fahy and Glascock finally met and the Rondout robbery was planned, he testified.

TRAIN VICTIM IS NOW UNCONSCIOUS AT HOSPITAL

V. E. Barnes, employe of the Bowles Dairy Farm here, who was injured when a wagon in which he was riding was hit by a fastgoing Santa Fe passenger train at eleven o'clock here Tuesday, had not gained consciousness late Wednesday.

Physicians have not given out any hopes for his recovery.

WARREN MAY BE SUCCESSOR TO SENATOR LODGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Because of the rivalry between Senator Curtis of Kansas and Senator Wadsworth of New York over the leadership of the senate left vacant by the death of Senator Warren of Wyoming who has had the longest service in the senate may be made the majority spokesman. Warren because of his age and heavy duties as chairman of the appropriations committee was not expected to seek the place. But because of the contest between Curtis and Wadsworth a number of senators have suggested that Warren take the place to which his seniority entitles him and prevent a factional fight among senate republicans.

HART RECALLS DAYS OF DIRE WANT FOR THOMAS H. INCE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 19.—Wm. S. Hart can remember the period when Tom Ince, pioneer movie director and producer who died Wednesday was so poor that he was unable to buy food for days at a time.

Hart, Ince and Frank Stammers, later a successful composer, lived in two small rooms in New York for which they paid $7.50 each a week. That was in 1902.

"We used to starve for days," Hart said. "When we could get food we ate until we nearly died."

FILM DIRECTOR DIED WEDNESDAY

THOMAS H. INCE, NOTED FILM CHARACTER, DIED AT HOLLYWOOD HOME

BY H. O. THOMPSON HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 19.—A career as picturesque as the history of the motion picture itself has been ended.

Hollywood mourns Thomas H. Ince, film director and producer, who died Wednesday morning at his home in Beverly Hills. Studios shuddered at news of Ince's death spread and throughout the day hundreds found their way to the sumptuous house at the mouth of Benedict Canyon where Mr. Ince and his three sons had been weighed with their sudden sorrow.

That same family group had celebrated Ince's 42nd birthday last Sunday.

The famous producer was stricken with heart disease Tuesday night while returning from San Diego. He died soon after a special train and automobile had rushed him here.

As a foundation for his work, Ince began an acting career at the age of 15, when he appeared with Leo Dietrichson. Stock company experience followed. He toured five weeks in Zaun and 20 weeks with William Morris in "When we were twenty one."

Reserves came when Ince attempted to finance his own company. He appeared with William Thompson in "The Bishop" and later in "For Love's Sweet Sake."

Then he turned comedian for a stock company in Cincinnati, and came to the threshold of his motion picture life.

On October 19, 1907, Ince was married to Elinor Kersting, who then playing in "A Night on a Houseboat."

The old Imp studio saw Ince in his first acting role before the camera. A comedy part for biograph netted him $15 a day and he was brought back to the Imp as its director when Mary Pickford was in the company.

In the summer of 1911, the New York motion picture corporation came to California. Its first picture was "The new cook," then Ince made "War on the Plains" and jumped into prominence with "Curtis Last Fight," "The Battle of Gettysburg" and "The Wrath of the Gods."

"Civilization" and the building of a half million dollar producing plant at Culver City came next in Ince's rapid rise to the top of this industry.

Some of the present day leading stars owe their success to the genius of Tom Ince's guiding hand. Charles Ray, Dorothy Dalton, William S. Hart, Dorris May, Douglas McLean, and Madge Bellamy give Ince credit for leading them to the top levels of their calling.

EXCESS COST PROTECTION REFORMS BOOTLEGGERS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 19.—The high cost of police protection against bootleggers out of Harvey Leopold he admitted in court here today. Testifying in the trial of four former prohibition agents on trial on charges of extortion, Leopold said he had been compelled to pay $50 a week to patrolmen and government men plus heavy rent. They got so thick I could not pay them anymore and then charges were filed against me, I'm through. You might call me a reformed bootlegger," Leopold testified. Leopold, the star government witness sprang the sensation of the trial as if it were a matter of course. He calmly outlined his criminal career, but became indignant when attorneys confused charges on which he had been tried.

PRICES IN HOME NECESSITIES HOLD INTEREST

WILL PRICES REACT TO GENERAL BUSINESS IS QUESTION

By THOMAS L. STOKES WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—With general business on the upgrade considerable interest centers in whether prices of food, clothing and other factors in the cost of living will react upward along with it.

The revival is too young yet to show any definite tendencies. The first sign of an advance has come in food prices. There was a general increase of one and a third percent in retail cost of food in October, over September reports to the labor department from all parts of the country show. They were made public Wednesday night. Offsetting this discouraging sign, however, is the gradual decline in wholesale prices of clothing, fuel, and lighting and house furnishings during October. In the big boom following the war, which resulted in such a crash a few months later clothing jumped higher than anything else in the past general advances in business have been closely related to increases in prices. However, even this lesson has its hopeful stress for the present situation. Prices went skyward in the boom following the war and the depression following was serious. The government as well as general business learned a lesson.

Records of the Department of Commerce shows that the two periods of pronounced prosperity since that time in the springs of 1923 and 1924, resulted in only slight increases in prices with no sky rocketing.

The general level of wholesale prices over the year is a fraction lower than in October last year. Labor department records show, the index figures for 404 commodities being 151.9 this year as compared with 153.1 last October.

Agricultural prices, however, have shown a marked rise, with an average advance of over four points. Cattle led with a jump of 11 points, while grains showed an increase of nearly six.

The prices of 23 articles of food increased, six remained the same, and 14 decreased. Atlanta Ga., Charleston, S. C. and Salt Lake City showed the most marked advance, three percent in each case. Only two cities out of the 48 showed decreases with less than five tenths of one percent.

BANDIT LEADER OF MEXICO KILLED WEDNESDAY

By United News. HOUSTON, Nov. 19.—The last of the Villa family, scourge and blessing of Mexico has met death.

Dragged from a train at Jimenez, state of Chihuahua, en route to El Paso, Texas, General Hipolito Villa, brother of Francisco Villa, notorious bandit, was given a drumhead court-martial by a squad of government troops and executed within a space of ten minutes.

Hipolito was "tricked" to his death, according to dispatches reaching La Tribuna, a local Mexican paper, today, which declared the orders for Villa's arrest and execution were given by General Elias Calles, president-elect of Mexico.

According to the dispatches, Hipolito issued a proclamation immediately after the assassination of his brother "Pancho" Villa, declaring that his death was ordered by Calles and rebelling against the government.

With a handful of ragged followers Hipolito conducted a guerrilla warfare in the state of Chihuahua for several months. About three months ago General Arnulfo Gomez, chief of military operations in the state, opened negotiations for his surrender.

Villa agreed to cease operations if he was given the famous "Hacienda Canutillo" where Pancho Villa had set up a model ranch after making peace with Oregon, Gomez assented.

Laying aside his arms, Villa went to Mexico City to confer with President Obregon who immediately refracted from the guarantee of General Gomez.

RANCHERS WIN IN WATER ROW

RESTRAINING ORDERS ARE SET ASIDE BY JUDGE LATE WEDNESDAY

By United News. INDEPENDENCE, Cal., Nov. 19.—Ranchers who have opened water gates of the Los Angeles aqueduct are the winners in the first legal skirmish against the city they have defied.

Superior Judge Dehy late Wednesday set aside restraining orders issued against the men Monday. He also wired Governor Richardson at Sacramento asking him to designate a new judge who would come here to hear and file all matters connected with the case.

By his action Judge Dehy has torn down the legal proceedings with which attorneys for the Los Angeles water department hoped to eject the men who already have caused nearly $60,000 damage in stopping the flow of water into the city's system.

The official position Borah would be in the league's armament conference project. If the council yields to Premier Baldwin's suggestion, Coolidge may be left free to proceed with his plan.

Borah Favors U. S. Initiative. Senator Borah will be chairman of the senate foreign relations committee in favor of the United States taking the initiative and calling another conference. Borah was one of those responsible for the first Washington conference. Because of his official position Borah would be on the American delegation and would have the duty of seeing that the senate ratify any agreement made.

Before the proposed conference can take definite shape, however, important differences between Secretary of State Hughes and Borah must be adjusted. The senator wants to go further than the technical question of limiting armaments by outlawing war, creating an international law, bringing it up to date. Hughes wants to join the present world court, and is inclining to the latter view.

Representatives of Los Angeles were here Wednesday to ask for warrants against the trespassers because of their refusal to obey the injunction. Judge Dehy refused this request. Instead he set aside the orders already issued and telegraphed for a judge to take his place.

"Sheriff Charles Collins is not positive that guerrilla warfare may not result," he said.

"I know these men and they mean business" the officer said in explaining why he has been unable to eject them.

FIVE CHINESE DOOMED TO DIE CIRCULAR SAYS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—Five Chinese alleged by their countrymen to have been the informers who tipped off government agents and caused the arrest of the Singfat and Company several days ago, have been marked for death.

Warnings printed on a cheap grade of paper were circulated throughout Chinatown Wednesday. The circulars bore the names of five men and were signed "The Association of Traitor Killers." The federal officials have announced those named in the handbill threats will be protected and are attempting to ferret out the persons back of the warnings.

In the chinatown district, however, there seems to be a different opinion. "Five men got to die—paper, him say so," is the answer to the government's announcement.

The Singfat and Company, one of the largest and most fashionable of Chinese importing companies on the Pacific coast, was raided by federal narcotic agents several days ago and a quantity of opium confiscated.

PROSPECTS FOR WORLD PARLEY ON ARMS BRIGHT

BRITAIN ASKS DELAY IN CONSIDERATION OF ARMAMENT PROTOCOL

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Prospects of a second Washington armament conference as proposed last spring by President Coolidge have been materially enhanced by the attitude of the British government which has asked the League of Nations council to delay consideration of the security and disarmament protocol which contemplated holding a world conference next summer under the auspices of the league.

Last April, President Coolidge announced in a speech at New York that after the Dawes reparations plan had been put into operation he would favor calling another armament conference to carry on the work begun at Washington in 1921—particularly with regard to limitations of competitive armaments in air-craft submarines, and land forces.

Then in September, this plan seemed likely to be frustrated by the action of the league of nations representatives who drew up a proposal providing for a world armament conference, under its direction next summer.

Now the British government has asked the league council which meets at Rome December 8 to omit consideration of the protocol. With this refusal a world armament conference, under its direction next summer.

Secretary of State Hughes and Borah must be adjusted. The senator wants to go further than the technical question of limiting armaments by outlawing war, creating an international law, bringing it up to date. Hughes wants to join the present world court, and is inclining to the latter view.

LEWIS NOT CANDIDATE FOR CABINET PLACE OF LABOR SECRETARY

EL PASO, Nov. 19.—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America is not a candidate for the post of secretary of labor in the cabinet of President Coolidge.

Lewis who is attending the convention of the American Federation of Labor here declined to say whether or not he would ask the Order of Railway Telegraphers to withdraw their resolution endorsing him for the cabinet position.

HUGE BUILDING SHORTAGE U. S.

SURVEY IN 380 CITIES OVER 10,000 POPULATION SHOWS $4,000,000,000

By United News. NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A building-shortage amounting to more than $4,000,000,000 exists in 380 cities of over 10,000 population in the United States, according to a survey made by S. W. Straus and company.

Of 528 cities investigated only 148 reported no shortage. This figure large as it is, does not tell the whole story of the building shortage in this country, however, according to Straus and company. The report does not include any cities under 10,000 population and in many of these smaller places an acute housing shortage exists. A survey of twenty typical towns of this class revealed a shortage in building amounting to $14,590,820,000 with but eight of the towns reporting normal conditions.

In the 380 cities a housing shortage, an expenditure of $4,050,820,000 will be required before normal conditions are restored. Of this amount $2,102,698,500 is needed for residential types of construction $1,150,851,500 for commercial types and $870,270,000 for federal state and municipal buildings.

The shortage is most acute in the eastern section of the country according to the survey, while the far western states are reported in the best condition. New York City leads all others in the amount of buildings required to meet its population. New York is followed by Philadelphia, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles. Among the larger cities reporting no shortage are Boston, New Orleans, Washington, and Kansas City.

The list of cities surveyed, with the approximate amounts needed to make up their shortages, includes the following:

- New York City—$835,000,000.
- Harrisburg—None.
- Philadelphia—$246,000,000.
- Pittsburgh—$77,000,000.
- Reading—$14,000,000.
- Wilkesbarre—$12,500,000.
- Chicago—$501,445,000.
- Des Moines—None.
- Coffeyville, Kas.—$350,000.
- Independence, Kas.—$50,000.
- Topoka—None.
- Wichita—None.
- Detroit—$7,000,000.
- Minneapolis—None.
- St. Paul—$1,500,000.
- Kansas City—None.
- St. Louis—$16,000,000.
- Muskogee—None.
- Oklahoma City—None.
- Madison, Wis.—None.
- Milwaukee—$130,000,000.
- Atlanta—$1,500,000.
- Dallas—$4,000,000.
- El Paso—$3,130,000.
- Houston—$6,000,000.
- Fort Worth—$74,000,000.
- San Antonio—$4,000,000.
- Long Beach—$18,000,000.
- Oakland—$15,000,000.
- San Diego—$2,900,000.
- San Francisco—$78,500,000.
- Portland, Ore.—$35,000,000.
- Seattle—$25,000,000.

UNIVERSAL DRAFT LAW PROPOSED BY LEGION

By United News. KANSAS CITY, Nov. 19.—A universal draft law which would give the government the power to take over all industries necessary for successful prosecution of war, is included in the legislative program the American legion has submitted to President Coolidge, National Commander James A. Dain declared here Wednesday.

Dain stopped here for a few hours to greet local legion officials while en route to El Paso, Texas, where he will make an address before the American Federation of Labor convention on Friday.

"The universal draft law we have prepared is intended to take the profits out of war," he declared. "The government would set its own price for munitions, and the like."

The national commander made no comment on the outcome of the recent election other than saying that the legion would continue "to remain out of politics as it has in the past."

"We cannot afford to indulge in religious bigotry or enter politics," Dain said. "It is the fundamental part of our system of government that a man may worship God as he pleases. We represent a cross section of American life in which included all religious and political beliefs."

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN WATCH OVER MINERS

By United News. MEALESTER, Oklahoma, Nov. 19.—One hundred and fifty men dug coal in Mine No. 12, of the Rock Island Coal company, here Wednesday, while at the top of the shaft bayonets bristled in the hands of national guardsmen. There has been so much trouble between union and non-union miners in this district, that company officials refused to open the mines unless adequate protection to the men was given.

BODY WOULD ASK ENFORCEMENT OF WORLD PEACE

LABOR LEADERS OF GREAT BRITAIN, CANADA AND GERMANY SPEAK

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 19.—Union of organized labor of both the new and old worlds looking toward enforcement of universal peace, and the checking of the spread of communism was urged Wednesday by labor leaders of Great Britain, Canada, and Germany, who addressed the convention of the American Federation of Labor bringing fraternal greetings from their respective labor movements.

Representatives of the British Labor movement were not backward in advising American Labor to "organize politically as well as industrially" declaring that through political action only a government could be established that would administer in the interest of the working people.

They said that the British Labor party had only experienced a "temporary setback" and would soon be again in power as "our opponents have done their worst against us and from now on their power must crumble and decay."

Peter Grassman, socialist member of the German reichstag and vice-president of the German trade union movement, was given a tremendous ovation when he appeared as the first official representative of German labor to ever address an American labor convention.

"We had to choose between communism or the Dawes plan" he explained "so we selected the least objectionable of the two evils. To have permitted our people to continue in distress, poverty and misery would have given the communists an opportunity to get a foothold and possibly make Germany a bolshevistic state."

"In spite of the heavy burden the Dawes plan loads on our country, in which the German worker will have his share we all hope it will lead to a peaceful development in Europe although slowly to better conditions in Germany."

"We have united in our unions at present troops tested in storm and weather who are faithful to our organizations and true to the democratic German republic. They don't want either a monarchistic reaction, or a bolshevistic chaos, but they want to live in the best friendship with all nations and to administer the deep love for peace and have only one desire—that foreign oppression may cease that the German people may do their work in peace and honesty."

Declaring that the war was due to "ignorance and misunderstanding," Grassman appealed for peace and better understanding between nations. It is the special task of labor he said, to prevent another war.

Although it lost a number of seats in the recent elections the British labor party has "laid the foundation of ultimate success," according to C. T. Crump, chairman of the British labor party and delegate from the British-trades union movement. "It has demonstrated that working men and women with none of the advantages of university training, wealth, or social position, can administer national and international affairs in a way which has commanded respect even from opponents."

"Notwithstanding the virulence of the campaign and all of the forces of both parties against us, we have polled over one million more votes than at the last election; our opponents have done their worst against us; reaction for the moment has triumphed, but it was their maximum effort and from now on, their power must crumble, and decay. They have no leaders worthy of the name and the economic and social problems awaiting them particularly in inter-

Reception at W. O. Steven's Home for M. E. Pastor

One of the largest affairs ever given in Lubbock was the reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Stevens, welcoming the new pastor of the Methodist church and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. White, formerly of Waco.

As the guests entered the spacious living room they were met by Mrs. H. W. Stanton and then passed down the receiving line which was composed of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Stevens, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. White, Miss Evelyn Sowell, Rev. and Mrs. D. C. Ross, W. K. Dickinson, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dow, Mr. and Mrs. Sam T. Davis, H. W. Stanton and Mrs. Geo. C. Wolfarth.

On leaving the living room they were ushered into the dining room where a delicious salad course consisting of chicken salad, sandwiches, potato chips, olives and tea was served.

Mrs. Walter Posey, Mrs. Maedgen Mrs. Hutchinson and Mrs. Kimbro charmingly presided over the tea-table which was exquisitely appointed and beautifully decorated with cut flowers and fern. They were assisted by Mrs. Roger Pierce, Mrs. F. A. Norman and Mrs. Austin Wolfarth and Mrs. O. B. Trinkle.

A delightful program was carried out, several of Lubbock's most talented singers and readers favored the guests with charming selections. Mrs. Trinkle sweetly sang "In the Garden of Your Heart," accompanied by Mrs. Neal at the piano.

"The Soliloquy of a Baby" given by Miss McAfee was one of the most pleasing numbers, Miss McAfee always captivates her audience.

Miss Owens rendered a beautiful violin solo, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," with Miss Dunn at the piano.

Mrs. Stewart alluringly sang "Maybe" and Mrs. Scoggins who has a voice of exquisite tone and quality sang "Lassie O'Mine."

"When the Train Comes In" a reading in Yankee dialect was cleverly given by Mrs. Wells in her charming manner.

Mrs. W. O. Stevens charmingly played "Valse Caprice" and Mrs. Keen in her irresistible way gave enlightening information to the new pastor on the "Dogs of His New Flock."

Mr. Rylander spoke the thoughts and feelings of the members of the Methodist church when he welcomed Dr. and Mrs. White to their new charge, pledging the co-operation of each member to the new leaders.

Rev. Jack M. Lewis, president of the Lubbock pastor's association spoke of the work done by the churches together, and the harmony which has always existed between the separate denominations of Lubbock and welcomed Dr. White into the new work.

Dr. White very graciously expressed his appreciation of the loyalty and hospitality shown him and stated that while most preachers had no choice, in their work, he was fortunate in being able to choose this place for his home, and was looking forward to his work among such kindly people.

The reception lasted until a late hour and many people enjoyed meeting the new pastor and his family.

Mrs. C. M. Ballenger has returned from Dallas, where she visited her sister, Miss Aileen White.

(Post City Post)
Charlie Williams and Miss Henrietta Kennedy were married Saturday, November 8th and Sam Bracken and Miss Veta Masters were also married the same day by Rev. H. C.

Gordon at the parsonage. Both couples are residents of Post and wish them joy.

NEWTON CLAIMS FAHY PLOTTED RONDOUT JOB

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—The details concerning the sensational $2,000,000 Roundout mail robbery already having been related, the government has begun the presentation of evidence with which it hopes to convict William Fahy, one time "ace" of the postal inspectors here, of planning the crime. Jesse Newton who has confessed to being one of the bandits took the witness stand late Monday and gave the "inside story" of the robbery.

Newton charged that Fahy, and Jimmy Murray, a defendant did all the planning and bossing of the gang. Two other members of the gang who confessed to the robbery, also took the stand to name Fahy and Murray. Fahy, according to the testimony of Newton planned other robberies. He mentioned a loop robbery last summer, saying that the postal inspector stood a short distance away and watched the job.

New York says to Al Smith: "Ask and ye shall receive."

FRANCE BEGINS PLAN FOR INTER ALLIED MEETING

WOULD EXPECT U. S. TO TAKE PART IN PROJECTED CONFERENCE

By United News.
 PARIS, Nov. 19.—Discussion of inter-allied debt conference to consider the settlement of war time obligations is buzzing behind the doors of the quai d'Orsay, and it has been semi-officially announced there that the United States would be expected to participate in the projected meeting and to agree to a reduction of the French debt. With the American elections out of the way, and the Daves plan for European rehabilitation safely launched and apparently seaworthy, France considers the time has come or at least is coming soon when the United States will listen to a proposal that some of the money loaned during the war shall remain in France forever.

France has done with pleas for debt cancellation or reduction for sentimental reasons such as the exploits of Lafayette during the American revolution. It is now possible, it is believed at the quai d'Orsay, to negotiate a businesslike debt reducing and funding scheme without recourse to sentimental arguments.

France hopes to see a conference convened to that end at a yet unspecified date following the adjournment of the conference of allied finance ministers, soon to convene in Paris.

The new situation created by the Daves plan, where France agreed to reduce German reparations obligations from approximately 58,000,000,000 gold marks to 20,000,000,000 will be insisted to the United States as a worthy precedent for reduction of the French debt.

French statesmen plan to explain that France owes 30,000,000,000 gold marks to the allies. Other countries owe France 12,000,000,000 gold marks but the difficulty of recovering that sum will be stressed, and the United States will be asked to take account of that difficulty.

Capital is to be made of the fact that the Daves plan was largely conceived, and made operative by Americans and that France would not otherwise reduce the German reparations obligations. It is semi-officially stated at the quai d'Orsay, the United States participation in the projected conference is vital to its success and there is no effort made to disguise the French intention to ask debt reduction. England as well as the United States will be requested to forego some of the capital advanced to France during the war.

In diplomatic circles the debt statement from the quai d'Orsay is believed to be designed to prepare opinion for the more final efforts to summon a debt conference which probably will not be long delayed.

PEOPLE AVOID YOU IF YOU ARE PIMPLY

A boy or girl may have ever so perfect a face, neck and poise, but if even one little pimple, blotch, bump or red spot shows, it ruins their whole appearance. You know how true this is, because you just naturally avoid people whose appearance is not pleasing.

These things are no longer to be endured, however, because thousands of people are getting rid of the worst and most stubborn cases of such skin diseases easily and quickly by using Black and White Ointment, and Soap. It seems like magic to eczema, ring-worm, itch, "breaking out," etc.

Dealers everywhere are recommending Black and White Ointment, and Soap, now. They are economically priced in liberal size packages. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size.

FORMER LEADER OF TAMMANY DIED WEDNESDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—George W. Plunkitt saw his opportunities and took 'em.

Some years ago, Plunkitt, one of the rapid, vanishing old time bosses of Tammany Hall remarked that if his worst enemy were to write his epitaph, he could do no worse than that.

Now that the time has come to write the epitaph—for Plunkitt died Wednesday, nobody is doing any worse than that and many of the writers are doing much better, for Plunkitt once became more or less famous on the sidewalks of New York when he openly defended what he called "honest graft."

Plunkitt was in politics for more than half a century, known familiarly as "Senator." He entered the game back in the days when it was a rough and tumble occupation with the strongest man—the strongest physically as well as mentally—generally getting to the front.

Whether by "honest graft" or not, he acquired a large fortune and gave liberally of it to charity, taking an especial interest in the welfare and education of boys in his neighborhood.

As Plunkitt got on in police, he became the leader of the old 22nd ward and in time acquired a throne. This throne was nothing more or less than an old bootblack stand, where he sat high in his elevated chair to receive his constituents and others who had business with him. When the caller was a man of some importance, the "senator" would descend and take him into a corner. Most of the time, however, he conversed and ruled from his "throne."

For years he fought reformers, rebels in his own ranks, the state legislature and everything else that came along, and from his "throne" he named six successive congressmen who were elected in the '90's. He himself held all kinds of state and municipal offices.

Plunkitt's distinction between "honest graft" and "dishonest graft" is somewhat historic.

"I've never gone in for dishonest graft—blackmailing, bootlegging, saloon keepers, disorderly people and so forth," he said, "and neither has any of the men that has made his fortunes in politics.

"There's honest graft and here's a good example of how it works. My party is in on the city and is going to undertake a lot of public improvements well I'm tipped off, say, that they're going to lay out a new park in a certain place. I go there and buy up all the land I can find in the vicinity. Then the board of this or that makes its plan public and there is a rush to get my land, which nobody ever cared about before.

"Ain't it perfectly honest to make a profit on my investment and fore-sight. Well, that's honest graft."

Plunkitt was 83 years old.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR VICTIM OF FURNACE HELD

By United News.
 COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 19.—"Let the world be silent."

For one short hour Wednesday all the horror and the talk which has filled every home in Bexley since Tuesday morning was suppressed while Rev. C. V. Sheatsley and his four children attended the funeral of their wife and mother, whose death in the Lutheran Parsonage furnace had captivated them into the headlines of the country.

It was a simple service. The body was not present. It was too badly burned for that, only a few bones remaining. These are in the hands of the state chemist who is attempting to help authorities solve the now famous furnace mystery.

At the office of John R. King, prosecuting attorney, down town, evidence in the strange furnace death was being gone over by detectives seeking some possible clue.

Several persons who called at the Lutheran parsonage on the day of Mrs. Sheatsley's death were questioned but it was announced afterwards that nothing new has been developed.

There was a general veering to the suicide theory following the statement of Rev. Sheatsley that he believed his wife had taken her own life by crawling in upon hot coals during his absence Monday afternoon but King said that he was still far from giving up his belief that Mrs. Sheatsley was murdered. Rev. Sheatsley and his four children left early Wednesday evening for Canton taking Mrs. Sheatsley's remains back to Paris, a village, near Canton for burial. Mrs. Sheatsley was born in Paris, and her remains are to be placed in the family burial plot Thursday afternoon.

DEMURRER TO NORMAND SUIT IS SUSTAINED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—Mabel Normand, film comedienne, lost her second attempt to clear her name of charges made in the divorce suit of Mrs. Georgia W. Church, when a demurrer to the actress' $500,000 damage action against Mrs. Church was sustained Wednesday.

Miss Normand's attorney gave notice that she would appeal the case to the state supreme court.

In her divorce complaint, Mrs. Church alleged that the film star had visited her husband's room attired only in a night gown while Church was at a local hospital. She charged Miss Normand with drinking with Church sending him flowers and threatening to tell him "naughty little stories."

The actress had claimed that since the divorce publicity she had been unable to produce pictures at a profit. She started two legal actions, one to intervene in the suit and the other a damage suit for $500,000.

Last week, Miss Normand was denied the right to intervene in the divorce suit, and the Wednesday's decision was based on superior judge Shaw's contention that the actress had no legal right to ask libel damages.

PLANT USEFUL TREES

It is getting very near the time of the year that we should be thinking seriously about the planting of trees. Most any kind of a tree looks good to people out here, and there are a great many very pretty ornamental trees, or shade trees, that will do well in this country, but why should we be content with growing a shade tree alone, when we can find a combination that will make shade and produce fruit two. The editor of this paper has some of the largest shade trees around his home of any in the city. These trees are admired by many and appreciated by our entire family. We also have some very large apricot trees that are fine for shade and their fruit is also delicious. While they do not yield fruit every year, they do make a delightful shade every summer, and are pretty too.

The cherry tree is also a good shade tree and almost a sure fruit crop as well as the shade.

Mr. Winn, editor of the farm page of the Weekly Avalanche, in an article that will appear in the Weekly paper today, has this to say in part regarding the planting of trees. He is an enthusiast regarding the planting of pecans, and says:

"We do not believe that an Alwise Creator placed us here to merely pass through this world and enjoy all the benefits that come our way. But that He intended that we should study what we should do to make the world better for those around us and at the same time to perform something useful, that the world will be benefitted by our having lived in it. If we fail to do that we have lived in vain according to our conception of life.

"We do not know of any one thing in the material things of life we can do or could do better than to plant some good useful trees.

"Here on these plains we only have such trees as we plant or that someone else plants. Then it is a duty we owe the world, that we should plant some trees. The next thing to consider is what shall we plant. To this we want to answer, plant pecans in preference to any others for shade and for usefulness. The findings we have given in past issues makes it clear that pecans will do well on these plains and we gave the history of one, and possibly others that had lived 400 years and was still bearing. Then the other and most important part of all is where they are given the proper distance and care they make one of the best, if not the very best shades to be had. Then to this might be added the further fact that they are the designated state tree for Texas. What higher incentive could one want than to consider all these things and make up our minds that we and each of us, man, woman, boy and girl, will plant at least one pecan tree and look after it until it has started to grow, and is able to take care of itself. We contend that we could have no greater monument placed to our memory when we leave this world than to have a pecan tree growing somewhere in Texas that was known to have been planted by us or by our help.

"Each school ground in the county should by all means be planted to these very useful trees this fall, and in a very few years all would be glad that they stopped and took time to plant these trees. The world seems to be in a great rush and we are disposed to neglect some very important things, but I ask and insist that we stop and do this important and I candidly believe the most important work we could possibly do."

BUILD THE BOY SCOUTS A HOME

The Boy Scouts are getting well organized in our city and they are taking a real interest in their organization here, and are going to be on the job in real earnest from now on. New troops are to be organized as fast as the present ones are filled, and they are filling rapidly, and we are of the opinion that this town, or the people in general should see to it that they have a home—a scout hall—a place that they can call their own, and have their meetings, and do their work.

In this section of country, the proper entertainment for boys—in fact, the young people in general, is a hard problem, because of the fact that there is so little of the general natural play grounds, and places of entertainment, therefore, the artificial or the substituted things must be taken into consideration and put over in good shape.

Lubbock cannot afford to neglect the young boys of this community, and we are sure that, if the proper understanding of the situation is learned clearly by the people of this city, they will not be neglected.

* Competition is becoming so keen that only the big crimes now get on the first page.

ONCE A YEAR YOU HAVE A BIRTHDAY

There is nothing strange about the fact that we have a birthday each year, and in order that you have more birthdays in your life, we believe that it would be a good practice to look closer after your health than the ordinary citizen does. It has been suggested that every person have a thorough physical examination at least once each year, and in order that you remember this it might be well to establish the habit of having this done on the day in the year on which your birthday falls.

When your flivver goes thump-thump on a hill you say: "The old bus has carbon in it—guess Bill had better look her over." but when your heart goes bump-bump as you climb the stairs or your head gets in a whirl you calmly announce that you are getting old and will have to slow down a bit. How much more efficient our bodies would be if we gave them half the attention and consideration we do our automobiles. The remedying of some minor defect will often mean the lengthening of your life just as the adjustment of some simple part will prevent an automobile wreck. The wise man of these days does not wait until his car knocks on a hill before he takes it to the repair man. Every five hundred miles or so he has an expert mechanic look it over to see if there are any parts wearing and there is undue strain on the bars and bolts. Your physician should be your personal "garage." The State Board of Health recommends the complete physical examination of every individual, male or female, at regular intervals. The number of birthdays that you have is largely dependent on you and the way to insure yourself a large number of them is to obtain the best medical advice and care. The best thing about a health examination is that it will tell you if you are really healthy. What a "grand and glorious feeling" it is to have yourself gone over from tip to toe and find that your engine is running on all cylinders. But if your examination reveals that you have some small defect it is better to know the cause and that it can be easily removed.

To take care of yourself is not the mark of a mollycoddle. Our best trained athletes are constantly guarded to see that every organ of their bodies is functioning properly. The prolongation of human life through preventive medicine is a problem to which sanitarians, physicians and sociologists are devoting more and more time. The business of life is an important one and we should conserve our God-given energies. If you are a good "business" man you will demand a reasonable profit on your investment. Health is wealth. Let the doctor take an inventory of your stock on your next birthday.

THE BOND ISSUE

The City Commission has ordered a bond election for the city of Lubbock for $220,000, to be held on the 9th of December. This money will be used for the purpose of extensions of sewer, and water lines in the city of Lubbock. The rapid growth and the new demands that have come upon them require the expenditure of much money to take care of the things that are actually needed. Two new wells have been put down, which with the reservoirs at each and the connection of these reservoirs with the city mains require more money, and then the Tech must be connected with the sewer system, and the additional amount of money required to complete the drainage system and the enlargement of the city disposal plant all requires the expenditure of $220,000. This work has all been contracted for, and the city has authority to make payment for same in six per cent warrants, which the contractors have agreed to take in payment for the work, but it is not good business to pay in these high interest bearing warrants which must also be discounted in order to sell them, when long time bonds bearing five or five and a half per cent interest can be issued and save the city many thousands of dollars.

There is not a business in the city that has not grown far beyond the expectation of the owners, and the city commission must have the wherewith to make these improvements and extensions, and we should back them up in their judgment.

WHAT SCIENTIST PROMISE

Dr. Nichols, ex-president of the American Chemical Society predicts that within hte next 50 years chemists and physicians will have perfected cures for every enemy of the human body, and no one will die until the machine is just naturally wore out. These same scientists and chemists also assert that the time is not far distant when the human race will be fed with prepared pills and powders. These things all sound so good that we will need wings to complete the comfort of life and the necessary ascension equipment be supplied at the proper time.

The average person consumes 1,400 pounds of solid foods and about as much of liquids each year. In a life time one eats enough food to fill a freight car. The scientist-statistician should complete his work by telling us the average cost per pound for this food stuff and how many freight cars would be required to hold the silver dollars used in payment.

There is no beauty in poverty. It is often ugly and cruel. Judging by reports from France and England relative to divorces and remarriages by wealthy American girls, one comes to the conclusion that there is but little beauty and happiness among the rich, and a good deal of it is ugly.

Poland is said to be the most expensive country in the world in which to live because of nearly 50 per cent of the state expenditures are invested in unproductive armaments.

The helium manufacturing plant at Fort Worth Texas, is known as the only plant of its kind in the world. The non-inflammable gas is a secret process known only to Government officials.

RED CROSS DRIVE TO CONTINUE THRU THIS WEEK

With less than two-thirds of the quota subscribed, the annual drive for funds made by the local chapter of the American Red Cross was pushed forward Tuesday and Wednesday with committees working actively in the business district.

It is the hope of the drive chairman that the business that have not contributed will lose no time in making liberal donations to the organization that means so much to the needy of Lubbock, and which is making it possible for these coming here and asking for financial aid to be handled in a manner that will not encourage idleness, yet which will offer necessary assistance to those who are unfortunate.

It will be the last of this week before work of canvassing the business section has been completed, as those who were on the job during the beginning of the drive found many of those upon whom they called contributions at that time, yet they have been liberal supporters of the Red Cross in the past and may be depended upon this year.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dehman, Yorn-city of this city and well known here, but who are now residents of Fort Worth, are visiting friends here this week.

Allen Turner, public weigher elect of Lubbock, was in Lubbock Wednesday visiting and attending to business.

G. W. Dalton, of Lubbock, was a business visitor here Wednesday.

W. L. Russell, prominent ranchman of Pecos, was in Lubbock visiting and attending to business Wednesday.

ed to be against such a broad plan as Borah advocates. President Coolidge would be compelled to decide between these two views before he could issue any invitations.

Comment is withheld.

The state department declined to comment on the "new situation" Wednesday, but it was apparent that this government will wait until it is determined definitely whether the league conference is to be abandoned before making any plans. If the league holds a conference, the United States will be disposed to participate in such of its activities as are of general interest. It has no interest in strictly European questions and would enter into no agreements confined to them.

One complication is the fight over elevations of guns on American battleships and other modernization steps which will be renewed when the navy appropriation bill comes up in congress this winter.

The navy department has favored elevation but Hughes has fought it, contending that it violates the spirit if not the letter of the armament conference treaties. Coolidge probably will be inclined to hold up any action until this is disposed of. This subject will be warmly debated and the whole question of armament limitations probably will be dragged into the discussion. One other factor is the discussion started by William B. Shearer who sought to prevent the sinking of the Battleship Washington. He charges that Great Britain failed to comply with terms of the naval limitations treaty. The question also is to be discussed in congress this winter.

VAUGHT ROW RENEWS FOOTBALL INTEREST AT LUBBOCK HI

WESTERNERS MAY GET ANOTHER CHANCE AT STATE HONORS AS FORMAL PROTEST ON THE AMARILLO GAME HERE IS FILED

With the passing of "half pint" Vaught, star quarterback of the Amarillo Golden Sandstorm, and the admitted driving force behind the powerful Sandie squad; football interest in the state race is being revived at Lubbock High School, with the possibility that the Lubbock Westerners may be given another chance at the state crown for high schools. Vaught was declared ineligible and ruled out just about three hours before the game last Monday when the Sandies met the Vernon Lions in the championship game of District One.

The eligibility row over Vaught, which eventually outlawed him from participation in high school football, was contested on the allegation that he is now playing his fifth year in high school under the name of Roy B. Henderson, who is ineligible to high school football in Texas what Judge K. M. Landis is to organized baseball.

Formal Protest Filed
Formal protest has been filed by Lubbock high school authorities in connection with the game here with Amarillo, in which the Sandies beat the locals, eliminating them.

In a message from Henderson, Wednesday to the Morning Avalanche replying to an inquiry as to what effect Vaught's outlawing would have on the Lubbock-Amarillo game, he said that a ruling was in the course of preparation, and would be handed down possibly Thursday.

Just what significance a renewal of the contest for honors would have on the Westerners is uncertain, for since their defeat at the hands of the Sandies, the boys, although going through daily workouts, have not been drilled as intensively as they would have been under other circumstances. However, coach Davis says that his team is practically the same now as before he lost two of his backfield men—Ater and Dunlap. In fact, it is all hoped up over the proposition, saying that he doesn't know but what the team is stronger now than before.

The only thing on which he is a little short in reserve strength, is as he has had to pull some of his younger men into the regulars, including Rodney Adams, who will fill the hole left at quarter by the loss of Ater. Adams has been laboring somewhat under difficulties this season, having not made an appearance either with the regulars or second string. He has been jovially razzed by the boys as being too good for the second string, and not good enough for the first. It may be that he will be given a chance to see whether he is good enough for the first squad. He carries many marks of a good field general, and although his weight is somewhat against him for hard tackling, he never fails to get his man.

Plans Submitted
Pending the handing down of the official edict from Henderson at Austin, many surmises are being advanced as to the probable outcome of the protest voiced against the Amarillo game, the only defeat of the Westerners this year in official conference games.

Some say that the game will have to be played over. This is hardly probable in view of the fact that time is limited, and the game could hardly be sandwiched in with the fall list of official games. Others advance as the official solution to the problem, that the Westerners meet the winner of the Vernon-Pampa game, which is slated for this weekend. Whether or not the protest will be pushed to this extent by local authorities, has not been made known.

No Game Here This Week
In the meantime coach Davis has been making frantic efforts to schedule a game on the local grounds this week-end, but to the present has not met with any success. The Slaton Tigers have practically disbanded, it is said, and do not have anything to offer in the way of a post-season schedule. Lamesa and Tahoka either are indisposed or have engagements already planned. Ralls and Floydada to the east will meet, probably at Ralls, and Clovis to the west will not at this time consider a game here.

Thus, if a game is secured, it resolves into a matter of bringing some far distant club here, which is not probable in view of the fact that the accompanying expense would be more than receipts would permit. These include such teams as Quanah, Memphis, and Tulin, which have strong clubs in their section.

Davis says he may possibly talk the boys to Post, but is yet undecided. He issues the assurance, however, that a game will be matched here Thanksgiving Day with some strong club.

Farrell and Bloch Win Fifth Annual Mixed Tournery
By United News.
PINEHURST, N. J., Nov. 19.—Leading a field of 85 amateurs and professionals, Johnny Farrell, of the Quaker Ridge club, Searsdale, N. Y., and his amateur partner, Harold Bloch, of the same club, Wednesday won the fifth annual amateur-professional golf tournament here with rounds of 67.70 for total of 137 for 36 holes.

Jim Barnes, nationally known professional of the Temple Terrace Florida club, was paired with Fred C. Newton, of the Brookline, Mass. Country club, and finished a close-up second with 139. Barnes and Newton had a brilliant afternoon round of 69, but the morning round of 67 for the winners gave them a lead which could not be overtaken.

Herbert Lagerblad, professional of Bristol, Conn., paired with F. B. Medbury, Jr., former Ohio state champion, made up a lot of ground by virtue of a brilliant 69 in the last round and landed in a tie for third place with Harry Hampton and Donald Parson, of Youngstown, Ohio, who also completed the day with a round of 69.

Undergraduates Stage Enthusiast Meet at Harvard
By United News.
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 19.—Despite the gloomy reports from Soldiersfield, each and every one packed with walls of injury, the Harvard undergraduate is having his customary pre-Yale, game burst of enthusiasm.

The enthusiasm move reached the inspiring stage at the annual Yale game mass meeting Wednesday night when a large part of the student body yelled its way into the Harvard Union and rolled wave after wave of confidence in the general direction of the team and coaching staff.

Seated on the platform were the players who will start Saturday's struggle, some others too. And in spite of reports that the crimson eleven is terribly crippled, ambulance stretchers, and crutches were not necessary to bring the regulars to their positions on the stage.

Head coach, Bob Fisher, and Captain Greenough were among the speakers. When they had finished cheering, more speeches, then more cheering.

Thursday the students will carry on by marching to the field to cheer the team in its home practice.

While the undergraduates are doing their stuff noisily, the coaches are apparently steeped in gloom in their final drive to build a team to stop Yale. Their system of last minute preparation is considered unusual.

There is no hope building or morale bolstering. Instead the men behind the crimson squad are making strenuous efforts to spread the feeling of gloomiest pessimism.

Reports from Soldiersfield would lead one to think half of the squad are seriously injured and will be unable to play against Eli.

But reports are reports, and it is reliably said that every regular with possibly one exception will play in the game Saturday.

Leon Trotsky May Be Read Out Of the Bolsheviki Party
By United News.
MOSCOW, Nov. 19.—Leon Trotsky, the solemn, mirthless student of human nature who built an army for Russia such as no czar ever had succeeded in creating, may be read out of the bolsheviki party because he is too individualistic to subordinate his personality in accordance with the true theory of Marxian socialism.

A campaign against Trotsky originating among active workers in Moscow has spread through the soviet union and the dimensions of the movement now are such that the man, who with Lenin, was synonymous with bolshevism and its achievements, may be subjected to drastic disciplinary action.

Osten Sibley, the current feeling against Trotsky has to do with his recent book "The Year 1917," which is the third volume of the "history of the bolsheviki revolution."

Active bolsheviks in Moscow condemned the book in a resolution, branding it as a gross distortion of Bolshevism and of revolution. Indignation was expressed at Trotsky's version of Lenin's relations with the communist party.

31 BALES OF COTTON DESTROYED BY FIRE
RALLS, Nov. 19.—Fire of unknown origin broke out in the public cotton yard in Ralls Tuesday night at a late hour. Thirty-one bales of cotton were destroyed before the fire was gotten under control.

Fortunately the fire originated on the west side of the yard and the wind was from the east so otherwise hundreds of bales might have gone up in smoke.

Weighter Townsend states that a bale must have contained fire when brought to the yard from the gin.

One of the burned bales belonged to L. Sherrod and one to Mack Sturvan, farmers, who had no insurance. The other 29 were the property of Ralls buyers and fully covered by insurance.

ALL TICKETS FOR THE KANSAS-MISSOURI GAME ARE SOLD

International News Service.
COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 19.—Tickets for the historic Kansas-Missouri football game here Thanksgiving Day already are all sold, C. L. Brewer, athletic director of the University of Missouri, announced today.

Nearly 20,000 applications for the 14,000 available seats were received, and indications are that scalpers will receive as high as $20 a ticket for good seats here Turkey Day if good weather prevails.

One thousand tickets have been sent to the University of Kansas athletic authorities for the Jayhawk rooters expected to accompany their eleven here. Last year the two teams tied, 3 to 3 in a blinding Kansas blizzard at Lawrence and in 1922 Missouri won, so Kansas is especially anxious for some "Tiger meat" this year after a three year fast.

Recent comparative scores decidedly favor the Jayhawkers, despite their four consecutive defeats earlier in the season by Oklahoma A. and M., Kansas beat Washington 48-0-0, while Missouri last Saturday rolled up a 35 to 0 count against the Pikers. Missouri took Oklahoma into camp, 19 to 0, while the Jayhawkers swamped the Sooners last Saturday at Lawrence, 25 to 0.

RAIL HEADS PREDICT A BRIGHT FUTURE FOR BUSINESS

BY ROBERT D. LUSK
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The railroad magnates of the country have met here in executive session, talked over their troubles, exulted over what they deem a bright future, and disbanded with a plea against government interference with their business.

Following the conservative victory in the November elections, the railroad men who attended the meeting of the American Association of Railroad Executives are unusually hopeful that railroad problems will be treated purely as economic questions and not as political issues in the next four years.

They predict a new period of business freedom.

"There is no condition existing today which calls for any urgent legislative action by congress with respect to railroads; either as to rates, labor relationships, or valuation," said a statement of the executives issued under the authorization of Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, and chairman of the executive committee of the association.

At no time during the sessions were the problems of consolidation or of valuations taken up publicly but in regard to the adjustment of freight rates and passenger fares the statement said.

"These adjustments should be left to the duly constituted government regulating body, where they will receive a full and fair hearing and an adequate economic analysis, and not be made the subject of direct action. Rate making by legislative action would be destructive."

Reviewing the past two years, in which the railroads have successfully handled without transportation difficulties the greatest freight traffic ever offered, the statement said that in spite of this the railroads fell far short of realizing the fair rate of return contemplated under the terms of the transportation act.

Amendments to the transportation act, which may be found necessary by the railroad's experience under normal conditions, should not be made under pressure of political agitation, however, the railroad executives declare.

At the same time the statement adds that "a continuation of adequate transportation facilities and service carries as an inevitable corollary the necessity for adequate revenues to be earned and retained."

A large measure of the credit for the successful operation of the railroads during the last two years is given to the various shippers regional advisory boards.

MARKETING EXPERT ADDRESSES MEN AT AMARILLO
AMARILLO, Nov. 19.—Aaron Sapiro, noted advocate of co-operative marketing spoke to a good sized audience at the city auditorium here this afternoon at two o'clock.

The speaker is internationally known as an expert on co-operative marketing. He is discussed from one side of the United States to the other, and his lectures here were along the line of co-operative marketing of the crops of this section of the country.

Many farmers heard him speak, and there will no doubt be a movement on foot to make for more efficient marketing.

CONFER DIVORCE SUIT RULING EXPECTED THURS.
RENO, Nev., Nov. 19.—Decision in the Emma Confer suit which involved the legality of Nevada's divorce law will be handed down "some time tomorrow" District Judge Geo. Bartlette, told the United News Wednesday.

Mrs. Confer's suit seeks annulment of her 78 year old husband's divorce decree on the grounds that he was not a permanent resident of the state as sworn to in his petition for the decree.

Should Judge Bartlette rule in

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS, To the Sheriff or any Constable of Lubbock County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Tommie Thompson by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day thereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 72nd Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 72nd Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the County Court of Lubbock County, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Lubbock, Texas, on the 3rd Monday in January, A. D. 1925, the same being the 19th day of January, A. D. 1925, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 7th day of November, A. D. 1924, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 1269, where in Carl Bentson is plaintiff, and Tommie Thompson is defendant, and said petition alleging that plaintiff is a mechanic and aviator and that defendant owned and operated an airplane and that about July 21, 1924, plaintiff entered into a contract of hiring with defendant to repair and operate the airplane owned by defendant and that pursuant to said contract of hiring with plaintiff, the plaintiff repaired said plane and put it in operation and drive the same over and above Lubbock County, Texas.

That many days were spent in repairing said plane and many parts were purchased for said plane, said parts being purchased by plaintiff. That attached hereto is an itemized statement of all expenses, including labor performed, parts furnished and hotel bills paid, all of which were:

to have been paid by defendant, including $50.00 per week as salary. That Sept. 24, 1924, this plaintiff made out and filed with County Clerk of Lubbock County, Texas, a labor and mechanic lien and against plane, it being in Lubbock County at that time and still being in Lubbock County, Texas. That all items set out in said statement and in said lien as filed are true, correct and just and are now unpaid and unpaid, and although plaintiff has often requested that defendant pay the same he has failed and refused to do so. Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendant be cited by publication to appear and answer said petition and that upon hearing plaintiff have judgment foreclosing said lien, for costs of suit and for such other relief as he may show himself justly entitled to. Herein fail not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same. Given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Lubbock, Texas, this 10th day of November, A. D. 1924. (SEAL) HERBERT STUBBS, Clerk, County Court, Lubbock County, Texas. By Irma Pryor, deputy 13-4Thur.

DAMAGE SUIT IS LOST HERE WEDNESDAY BY MEXICAN

FATHER MRS. GEORGE DIED THURSDAY AT DALLAS

Mr. and Mrs. George returned to their home here Tuesday from Dallas, where they attended the funeral of her father, J. M. Laws, Saturday. Mr. Laws died at St. Paul's hospital there Thursday following a serious operation.

He was 77 years of age and is survived by seven children, all of whom were with him at the time of his death and attended the funeral which was conducted at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. A. Threlkeld, of Dallas, by ministers of Methodist and Baptist churches, both churches being represented because of the fact that members of the family are members of each of the congregations.

Mrs. George's brother, Thomas G. Laws, was very low with pneumonia, but late reports from Dallas are to the effect that he is improved.

MARKETS

BEAR DRIVE SENDS ACTIVE STOCKS DOWNWARD

By EDWARD J. CONDLON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Traders who have viewed the feverish advance in stocks in the post-election market with some apprehension because of the scant attention to the re-adjustment of the market technical position determined to force the issue in the mid-week market with the net result that declines averaging one to five points forced in the active stocks in both the railroad and industrial groups. Professionals view the situation in the light of 10 points profit in the hands of buyers worth 20 on the blackboard being deferred until the directors meeting two weeks hence.

The interest in this particular road has run high for the reason that it is a fair example of the type of carrier which in anticipation of early liquidations expects to receive more favorable consideration than a dividend basis. Another carrier of this type is Wabash.

Another interesting bit of news came after the close of the stock market. The federal reserve bank at its regular weekly meeting made no change in the rediscount rate. In fact few looked for any upward revision of the rate at this time. Until member banks come to the regional institution for large sums, it is hardly likely that the federal reserve officials here will see fit to increase the rate arbitrarily. Certainly the last statement of the bank indicated little demand for funds from member banks in this district.

The commodity markets were irregular, cotton selling off on local liquidations and southern hedge selling while wheat and corn gained in central and southern sections. A little bullish enthusiasm has been worked up in corn pit over the husking returns which are filled with reports of poor grading.

Foreign exchange offered few features of interest the principal European rates showed minor changes in both directions.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Cotton started off 15 points higher but lost it all and a little more later largely as a result of profit taking by recent buyers. The close was steady and only 8 to 10 net lower. Heavy killing front over the northern half of the belt, reports of many mills running full time, large sales of goods by southern mills and firmness of spot holders tended to sustain bullish enthusiasm early. Later wires from several points in Texas claiming good prospects for a top crop in central and southern sections of that state and increasing private estimates from that state also tended to unsettle sentiment some owing to possibility that it may indicate an increased estimate from the government Friday.

The indications are that the market has discounted an estimate around 13,000,000 bales any may not be upset if it does not come larger. Any reduction from its last estimate of 12,816,000 however will undoubtedly stimulate buying as the general belief now is that the world needs a crop of at least 13,000,000 and even that may prove too small in the end.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Ill.—Wheat—Irregular and closed around the low point. There was more liquidation with offerings increasing on the up-turn. Seaboard reported only a moderate demand with no figures given. Exporters were credited with buying May wheat at Winnipeg and this suggested export business in flour. The market has taken on a hesitating tendency and there is probably some liquidation to come in December. Too much might be expected of the market temporarily although there is no change in conditions which point to higher prices ultimately.

Corn—Exceptionally strong and made new highs for May and July. There was much short covering but profit taking late was responsible for loss of some of the advance. It was reported that a local industry is buying corn out of store. Much of the short interests have been eliminated by the advance in the past several days and caution should be used in following the advance at this time.

Oats—Lower early but were quick to rally when corn advanced. It was reported that New England was reselling oats bought lower down. Rye—Encountered some support on the early breaks but as in other grains, rallies did not hold. Provisions—Better class of support and averaged higher. Leading packers were credited with selling. Hogs were 10 to 25 cents higher.

MITCHAM IS FIRST TO BUY LUMBER AT ANTON YARDS

C. J. Mitcham, who arrived in Lubbock three weeks ago, purchased land in the Anton community twenty four miles northwest of Lubbock and has made his home there.

He has the distinction of buying the first bill of lumber from the yards at Anton, and ploughed the first furrow made in the lands where herds of cattle are being displaced by farms.

Mr. Mitcham this week bought a Fordson tractor to be used on his farm. The tractor was bought from the Lubbock Auto Company and is the first to be taken into that vicinity for farm use.

La Follette says he's glad he ran; but it looked more like a walk to us.

COOLIDGE RUN FOR PRESIDENT IN 1928, BELIEF

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—There is a strong belief in Washington that President Coolidge contemplates being a candidate for president four years hence, provided he still retains his good health. This belief was strengthened Tuesday when it became known that he had asked Wm. M. Butler to continue as chairman of the republican national committee, despite his appointment as U. S. Senator from Massachusetts to succeed the late Senator Lodge.

Butler conducted the president's campaign with such marked success that the White House desires him to stay on in charge of the national party machine. Should Coolidge wish to run again, Butler's experience and connections formed during the recent pre-convention and election campaigns would be invaluable. Butler has the personnel of the party organization and the contacts with campaign contributors as well in hand that he has a natural advantage over any one else. Coolidge has followed the precedent set by McKinley in retaining Mark Hanna after the latter had been made a senator.

Naturally there is no suggestion from the White House that the president is looking forward to being a candidate to succeed himself. He has however, carefully refrained from barring himself by any such statements as Roosevelt made after he was first elected. Roosevelt, in a formal statement took the position that actually though not technically he had served his first term in completing the four years begun by McKinley. This statement was later regretted and it was a constant source of embarrassment to Roosevelt in his 1912 campaign, leading to his famous "Third cup of coffee" explanation.

One of his biographers asserts that Roosevelt once said he would have given his right arm to have called back that statement that he would not be a candidate again. Coolidge has left no such utterance that could rise up and plague him four years from now.

In the parallel between Coolidge and Roosevelt, one important difference exists. Roosevelt served almost the full term of McKinley, who died six months after his second inauguration whereas Harding left less than two years to be finished. Even assuming that everything goes well for Coolidge during his coming term, he will have some insurgent opposition to renomination. But a president always has such a powerful grip on the party machinery that he can be renominated if he desires it.

Even a severe reversal in the congressional elections two years hence probably would have little effect on the situation because for Coolidge to step out without some powerful personal reason such as poor health or for the party to oppose renomination would be regarded as a confession of weakness which would give a powerful weapon to the opposing party.

INTERNATIONAL LABOR UNION IS BEING URGED

national affairs will probably expose the bankruptcy of their statesmanship." Crump said that no communist is allowed in the British labor party. "We have nothing but contempt for the communist in our ranks," he added.

"If they were allowed to prevail the world would become a human menagerie, where the law of tooth and claw would prevail."

A. B. Swoles, president of the British trades union congress, urged that organized labor of America, Great Britain, Germany, and other foreign countries unite in hatred of war.

"As labor has to bear the brunt of war, let us form a union throughout the world that will forever banish war and bring universal peace to all nations."

Discussing communism and urging labor to shun its propaganda, Swoles said: "We have nothing to fear from Russia. The bolshevik regime is repugnant to us, but the people of that country have never had the opportunity to reform. We should try and give them a helping hand."

John Colburn, delegate from the Canadian labor congress urged closer union between labor of Canada, and the United States for their "mutual benefit."

The federation convention before hearing the fraternal delegates adopted resolutions calling upon congress to pass a bill increasing the salaries of postal employees; giving moral support of all organized labor to a campaign to organize the iron and steel workers of the country; giving support to the clerks and stenographers union in a campaign to organize Wall Street bank clerks; and authorizing boycott of all banks by labor who declined to unionize their employees.

RALLS BAKERY INSTALLS MORE NEW MACHINERY

(Special to the Avalanche). RALLS, Texas, Nov. 19.—C. W. Farmer, congenial proprietor of the Ralls Bakery and Candy kitchen, continues to place additional machinery in his plant. The great rush of work this fall has necessitated almost doubling the capacity of the plant. The latest additions to his shop is a power lifter and sifter which will place additional machinery in handling the large volume of bakery work demanded by the many patrons.

FIRE THREATENED HART HOME HERE WEDNESDAY

Fire, reported by Chief Twitty of the local fire department, to have broken out in the ceiling above an elbow stove pipe connection, threatened the Hart home at 1561 Avenue C, Wednesday morning at six o'clock.

The fire was extinguished with chemicals, and only slight damage was done the building.

MATADOR RANCH IS PUTTING LAND ON MARKET

CHILDRESS, Texas, Nov. 19.—The owners of the Matador ranch, which is located in Blodgett, Childress and other counties to the southwest of Childress, are cutting up a part of their holdings and selling to farmers. Our informant states a number of pieces of land have recently been sold and that actual farmers have made the purchase.

The land so far placed upon the market is located near Dunlap, Cottle county, about 2 miles south of Childress, while some of the land is not over 15 to 20 miles away. The land is being priced at $35 per acre, and as it is located in the center of the best farming lands in this part of Texas, the price is not too high by any means. The Dunlap county is one of the best farming sections in Cottle county, and for years the farmers there have been making fine crops.

The Matador ranch is composed of about one million acres of land, among which will be found a large amount of good farm lands, while other parts are good only for grazing, or for stock farming, where the owner would not endeavor to cultivate but just enough land to raise feed for his live stock, to be fed during the winter months.

When the owners determine to place all of this land on the market it will mean some thirty or forty thousand people will be located in the counties to the southwest of Childress. A number of farmers would be located within the trade territory of Childress, and in the years to come no doubt this land will play a part in the making of Childress a larger and better town than at present. The sale of these lands will mean much to several small towns now located within the pastures of this company.

The success other holders of large acreages have had in the past year or so has been a factor in the decision of the Matador company, and no doubt that now they have started the selling of their lands the move will be kept up until all the lands are sold. It is becoming too expensive to run cattle on the open range as the lands are too valuable for that purpose. Of course the price may be a little too high at this time, but as soon as put in cultivation the lands will be worth at least double the price now asked.

SHOWDOWN ON MUSCLE SHOALS EXPECTED SOON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—A showdown on Muscle Shoals is expected when the senate begins consideration of some future plans for operation of the giant water power project or its disposal on December 3. The question must be taken up on the day under an unanimous consent agreement reached last session.

Secretary of War Weeks, announced Wednesday that if congress has not provided some plan for disposing of the plant at Muscle Shoals by next July 1, that the federal government will operate the project and sell the power.

Activity among Southern senators recently has led to a plan for government operation at Muscle Shoals. The bill they drew up probably will be presented when congress reconvenes. These senators last session were behind the Ford offer which has been withdrawn.
