WHEAT ALLOTMENT PROGRAM TO BEGIN AUGUST 24; ALLOCATION FOR TEXAS COUNTIES IS GIVEN

South Plains Farmers Will Receive Nearly $1,000,000 From Plan; Bailey County Reduction Is 45,253 Bushels.

That the campaign for wheat acreage reduction has been postponed to begin August 24, is the statement issued by Secretary Wallace at Washington, who further states he wishes to give the world wheat conference an opportunity to reach a decision for reduction of production of all four major exporting nations before the United States takes definite action upon the matter.

South Plains farmers who join the wheat allotment plan when it begins stand to receive nearly a million dollars, and sixty-five per cent of that sum coming in sometime during the fall months of this year, this being based on the quota allotted to Texas which is 20,384,322 bushels, the estimate being based on the five year average from 1928 to 1932.

Of this sum Bailey county having a total yield of 83,360 a bushel, or an average yield of 16.5 bushels per acre on 8,000 acres, has been allotted the total of 45,253 bushels.

Based on these figures, the allotment is $945,348, or 23 cents a bushel. It is the plan to pay about 20 cents a bushel this fall to farmers who go into the plan, the remaining 8 to 10 cents next spring some time. First payment is to be when county allotments are made. Control associations are formed and individual allotments completed. The second payment will be in the spring when proof of reduction of acreage is made.

Seventy-two Texas counties are rated as wheat producing counties. Their allotment of over 20,000,000 bushels is 54 per cent of the five-year average of 37,803,000 bushels. Net return would be $5,707,620, at the rate of 28 cents a bushel.

West Texas Gets $4,576,231

West Texas has 42 counties in the Panhandle-Plains country, with a total of 16,343,686 bushels allotments. These wheat county would receive $4,576,231.

Largest wheat county in the state is Ochiltree, with an average of 241,800 acres in wheat the past five years. Its allotment will be $6,914 for 1,368,128 bushels. Carson county will rank second in allotment bushels, 1,247,113 and in cash payments, $349,181. Randall county will rank the third in allotment, 1,036,543 bushels and $290,217.

Hale county, second in acreage average the past five years, will receive only $231,462, fourth in amount of money. This is due to the average of 8.1 bushels per acre, compared to 11.8 for Carson; 10.7 for Ochiltree and 10.8 for Randall.

The allotment for other counties in this area is as follows:

Cochran 2,058, Hale $63,864, Hockley 12,843, Lamb 207,710, Lubbock 121,890.

The 30 cents a bushel processing tax imposed July 8, is estimated to yield $138,000,000 on the estimated 450,000,000 bushels taxable domestic consumption. Payments are to be based on an allotment computed at 54 per cent of the average production of farmers for the last five years.

Payments on 1933 are offered to farmers who sign contracts by which they agree to reduce the acreage planted for the 1934 and 1935 crops by a percentage set by the Secretary of Agriculture. Final determination of the acreage cut to be asked by the Secretary will depend in part upon the outcome of the London wheat discussions, but in no event is the reduction requested to exceed 20 per cent of the farmer's planted acreage.

Administration officials decided on the two-cent reserve in the final payment in order to insure that they have freedom of action if the opportunity arises to help the wheat growers by opening up new export markets. If no such opportunity is found, the second payment will be the full amount. The amount less local administration costs. Checks for the initial adjustment payments are scheduled to be mailed as soon as county wheat production control associations are organized and to administer the act locally, and complete the farm allotments. The second payment will be made next spring.

After the county wheat production control associations are set up, their expenses will be carried by the producer members. The wheat administration is working on a plan to finance the county groups in the initial stages, with advances to be repaid to the administration.

A patchwork quilt containing 11,200 pieces, each no larger than a nickel, has just been completed by Mrs. A. H. Elliston, of Hereford. It is a beautifully designed flower garden pattern.

NIRA, NAME OF TOWN UP IN IOWA

"Nira" was the name given to a baby born last week, occasioned by introduction by President Roosevelt of the National Industrial Rehabilitation Act, but the word Nira is an old and familiar utterance to at least 20 people who inhabit the little village of that name located in the State of Iowa.

It was 55 years ago that this little village came into being, but somehow they never flourished much, so they there being only nine houses within its limits. Folks living there have no more connection and perhaps no more intense interest in the recovery act than people living elsewhere, but this town, with its grass grown railroad track, its one general store and post office at the intersection of two dirt roads in Line Creek township, Washington county, expects to get its proportionate benefit from the New Deal just the same as other towns of greater population and more modern edifices.

Under this banner American citizens will swat Old Man Depression, climb boldly up out of the valley of fear, gloom and distrust to the higher tableland of confidence, bold aggressive action and to a new economic level of reason and righteousness.

Bailey Co. Highway Funds Will Go On Two State Roads

At the Kiwanis meeting held last Friday Judge J. E. Adams explained the process of the state's expenditure of the $24,000,000 federal funds granted Texas for highway improvement.

This sum will be divided among the counties of the state on the basis of population, at an average of about $4.00 per capita, which will bring around $20,000 into Bailey county for highway improvements. The rulings require that 50 per cent of the total sum appropriated to any county must first be spent on federal designated highways with that county; the next 25 per cent must be spent within incorporated cities of the given county, and the last 25 per cent may be expended on lateral highways of the county, provided they have been officially designated as state highways by the State Highway Commission.

It has been estimated that probably $15,000 of the total sum to be received in Bailey county will be expended on improving State Highway No. 7, and the balance will be used on State Highway No. 28.

F. C. Moeller was chosen by club members as new master for the Boy Scout organization, succeeding Bill Garrett who recently moved to Clovis, N. M.

State School Fund Is Set at $16 Per Capita For Next Yr.

The Texas state board of education, meeting at Austin last week, set the scholastic apportionment for 1933-34 at $16 per capita, the amount to be paid on the basis of 1,570,365 scholars.

The amount allotted was the same as that appropriated for the current term of the current appropriation, however, $6 remains unpaid, although it was estimated that $3 of this amount would be liquidated before September 1.

Figures prepared by the state comptroller showed the board would have available during the next fiscal year for the scholastic apportionment approximately $20,486,571. The tabulation showed an estimated deficit in the fund on August 31, 1933, of $7,704,505.

The comptroller estimated that on the basis of the revenues in sight, the apportionment would be $13.04 if the delinquencies did not amount to more than 20 per cent. If the delinquencies amount to 25 per cent, the amount that would be available would be $12.33 per scholastic, the comptroller estimated.

Under the ruling of the attorney general all of the unpaid portion of the 1932-33 apportionment must be paid before any of the 1933-34 apportionment can be made available.

Grand and Deputy Grand Matron O. E. S. Here Sat. Night

A meeting of the Order of Eastern Star was held last Saturday evening in the Masonic hall at which time Mrs. Reva C. Burnett, of Miami, worthy grand matron of Texas, was present as the honored guest, also making her official visit, also present was Mrs. Reed, of Cohoma, deputy grand worthy matron.

Mrs. Burnett brought an inspiring address and gave instruction in all the esoteric words of the order, while all accounts were examined by the Deputy Matron and found to be in perfect order.

Following the meeting the honored guests were entertained at a luncheon at Mrs. Danner's dining hall, being accompanied by Mesdames T. E. Arnold, M. S. Stidham and Alvin Coker.

All members of the local order were urged to attend the grand chapter meeting to be held in Amarillo, October 24, 25 and 26.

Condition Of People An Argument To Vote For $20,000,000 Bonds

Austin, Texas.—Federal funds to free the destitute of Texas are flowing into the State at an average rate of about $1,500,000 a month, according to a report issued by Colonel Lawrence Westbrook, State Relief Administrator. The total since March, when the funds became available, to the first of August, was $7,380,170. The same report shows that 1,270,160 persons are now being fed wholly by this Federal money, and no other funds for their subsistence are available from any source.

The report shows that in March the State received $1,382,955; April, $1,472,405; May, $1,626,663; June $880,234; July $2,042,920.

In May the legislature was hesitant about submitting the proposed amendment authorizing the issue of State bonds for relief and the Federal Relief Administrator immediately suspended payments to Texas. This brought the June disbursements down to about half the normal amount. After the proposed amendment was submitted by the legislature the payments were resumed on the assumption that the amendment would be adopted. Notice has been served on Texas that if the vote is against the amendment the flow of Federal funds will again and permanently be stopped.

At the election on August 26 the people do not actually vote on the bonds. They merely vote to amend the constitution to give the legislature power during the next two years only to issue bonds to match Federal aid. Under the present constitution the legislature is powerless to appropriate any public funds for relief purposes, regardless of how many people might be starving.

ATTEND BAPTIST ENCAMPMENT

A representative delegation of members from the Muleshoe Baptist church left Monday morning for Ceta canyon to attend the Panhandle Baptist encampment which opened there that evening.

Dr. Porter M. Bales, Tyler; Dr. J. W. Bruner, Chickasha, Okla., and T. C. Gardner, Dallas, will be the principal speakers on the program. Rev. V. M. Cloyd, Hereford, is in charge.

The morning periods will be devoted to class work for Sunday school, B. T. S., and W. M. U., with special sermons at 11 o'clock. The afternoons are devoted to recreation and business matters with evening services beginning again at eight o'clock in the evening.

Those attending from here are Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Joiner, and Mesdames J. E. Adams, Jim Cook, Will Harper, L. S. Barron and Holland.

Clyde Holland Gets P. M.

Clyde S. Holland, former Muleshoe citizen, but now a resident of Dimmitt for the past two years, received notice Monday of his appointment as postmaster at Dimmitt, and with instructions to take charge last Tuesday.

BOY SCOUTS ATTEND THE LUBBOCK DISTRICT MEET

Muleshoe Boy Scouts, accompanied by Pat Boid attended a district meet of Scouts held at Lubbock, Monday afternoon.

A feature of the meeting was the swimming contests held at the City pool. Spencer Beavers, Junior Winn, Sonny Griffiths and Weldon Winn took part in the junior diving event. Junior Winn won second in semi-finals in the 20 and 40 yard swim dash, and Roy Elrod won second place in the 20 yard final swim event.

NEGROES PLAY HERE SUNDAY

A jam-up baseball game destined to be replete with startling scenes and exhibitions of skillful play is scheduled to be played here next Sunday afternoon when the Negro team of swatters from Lubbock cross bats with the Muleshoe team. The blacks have a reputation of being tough lads to conquer on the ball field, and Muleshoe twirlers are going into the combat with the determination of completely annulling the mysterious influence of their rabbi's foot. A big turnout of fans is expected.

Last Sunday afternoon Muleshoe ball team played Springlake teams at Springlake, the score being 8 to 6 in favor of the Baileites.

TAX BOARD MEET SET

The Board of Equalization, Muleshoe school district, composed of H. A. Douglas, Sam Lawrence and I. W. Harden, will hold its regular meeting for adjustment of taxable values at the High School building August 15.

The rate of taxation for the coming year will be set at a regular meeting of the School Board to be held next Monday night.

REVIVAL AT WEST CAMP

The annual revival meeting at West Camp will begin next Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock, August 13.

The preaching will be done by the pastor, Rev. W. B. Wages, of Lubbock. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

VOTERS ON AMENDMENT AUGUST 26 MUST EXERCISE GREAT CARE OR BALLOTS WILL NOT BE RIGHT

Bailey County Citizens Vote on Local Option Question At Same Time As Other Votes Are Cast.

West Texas Gas Co. And S. P. Pipe Line Co. Merge Activities

Arrangements were completed last week whereby the South Plains Pipe Line company was merged with the West Texas Gas company, according to an announcement made by R. F. Hinchey, vice president and general manager of the West Texas Gas company.

"This action was taken by the officers of the two companies in order to increase the operating efficiency and effect certain economies in an effort to partly compensate for the general decrease in business," said Mr. Hinchey.

"It is also desired by the officers to restore the investment of the South Plains Pipe Line company to the West Texas Gas company so that there may be no loss of the investment of our customers and city and town officials as to the costs of both transportation and distribution of gas.

"The pipe lines will be operated as a transportation division of West Texas Gas company with the same personnel," Mr. Hinchey explained.

Cotton Acceptances And Certificates Now Being Mailed In

Performance and certificate sheets are this week being mailed out to the Payment committee, Washington, by local agent J. B. Waide Jr., more than 50 being put into the local post office the first of this week. On account of short working force most of these sheets are being handled by the local sectional committees.

There have been about 200 of these sheets that have not been returned, said Mr. Waide, and still around 500 more formal acceptances still to be received from the Secretary of Agriculture.

It is expected that by the middle of next week a few checks will be coming in here from Washington.

Most of the authorized cotton acreage reduction in Bailey county has now been plowed up, according to report, though final inspection has not yet been made on all of it.

Lieut. Governor Witt Favors $20,000,000 State Issue of Bonds

Austin, Texas, Aug. 8.—Lieutenant Governor Edgar Witt, of Waco, an original opponent of the proposed constitutional amendment permitting the legislature to issue relief bonds, today announced that after acquainting himself with the relief situation he believes it would be a tragedy not to adopt the proposal.

"When the legislature submitted the proposed amendment last spring," said the lieutenant governor, "I was hopeful that we would not need Federal aid in Texas. But there have been developments since then, and I have learned the true and dark picture of suffering in Texas and I now believe it would be sheer tragedy to defeat the relief bonds."

"In the first place the drought and crop failures in certain sections change the picture from what it was three months ago. I am told authoritatively that before the end of this winter there may be as high as 80 per cent of all the inhabitants of some Panhandle counties who will have to be publicly fed. So much Texas cotton has been plowed up and crops are so short that the usually dependable labor of cotton picking will be reduced by more than half of normal."

"Twenty per cent of our population is now on relief rolls, but that is only a part of the picture. More than that proportion are unemployed, using the last of their reserves or savings, but not yet on relief rolls. This class will be the first absorbed in the re-employment provided by the National Recovery Act, leaving those on the rolls still to be publicly maintained."

"Some people don't like what they term setting a precedent in voting bonds. I don't like it either, but we are confronted with a condition and not a theory. Two years ago the people, by a direct vote, authorized the legislature to spend money on a Centennial celebration but it has taken cognizance of the depression and has not appropriated any money for that purpose. I

When the qualified voters of Bailey county go to vote August 26 they will be handed three different official ballots, the largest of which will be on the proposed amendment to the national constitution repealing the Eighteenth amendment.

In two columns on this particular ballot are printed the names of persons duly nominated as delegates and alternates to the convention to be held in accordance with the law for the purpose of ratifying or rejecting the Twenty-first amendment to the constitution.

In the column headed "For Ratification of the Above Amendment" are printed the names of nominees for delegates and alternates nominated as in favor of ratification of the Twenty-first Amendment; in the column headed "Against Ratification of the Above Amendment" are printed the names of delegates and alternates opposed to ratification of the Twenty-first amendment.

Each voter on this particular amendment is entitled to vote for any number of candidates whose names appear upon this ballot, not to exceed 31 delegates and 31 alternates, and shall indicate his or her choice by drawing a line through or striking out all the names of such candidates other than the ones for whom he or she desires to vote.

The terms "For" or "Against" Ratification of the Above Amendment" used on the ballot appears confusing to some citizens who have already seen the ballots received at the court house, some assuming they are to vote on ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment, which is not the case, but rather are they to vote on ratification of the Twenty-first amendment, since the Eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States has already been repealed by an act of Congress.

In other words, if the voter wants to vote "no," he should draw a line through the entire list of names on the right side of the ballot, which names represent the prohibition delegates and alternates. If he wants to vote "yes," he should draw a line through the entire list of delegates on the left side of the ballot, which delegates represent the anti-prohibition class.

The middle size ballot handed voters on the coming election day covers the four proposed amendments to the Texas state constitution, which are County Home Rule, the $20,000,000 Unemployment Relief Bond Issue, the legalization of 32 beer in Texas and the Homestead Exemption amendment. The "for" and "against" set opposite each other in the columns and the voter merely will mark out the one for which he does not want to vote.

The third and smallest ballot furnished is a local option ballot for Bailey county. This county is normally "dry" having been such when the Eighteenth amendment went into effect in this state, and will remain in the dry list should the state vote wet unless its status is changed at this election. In voting this ballot, the voter merely marks out the "for" or "against" according to his desires in the matter.

Absentee ballots are this week being issued by County Clerk J. B. Burkhead to citizens of this county who will be away from home on election day.

BUS PLAINVIEW TO CLOVIS

Effective about August 15, a daily bus line will be established from Vernon via Plainview to Clovis, N. M., according to announcement made by R. C. Hughes, Plainview, agent for the Red Star Line.

The state permit for such route has already been granted.

REBUILD GIN AT EARTH

J. C. Dodd is reported to be rebuilding a cotton gin five miles west and four miles north of Earth, in Lamb county, it having been destroyed by fire last ginning season.

Continental machinery is being installed.

an certain that if the people vote to trust the issue of relief bonds to the legislature, not one dollar more than needed will be issued and the whole issue will be thoroughly safeguarded against waste, extravagance and corruption.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is.—Jeremiah 17:7.
The soul seeks God by faith, not by the reasonings of the mind and labored efforts, but by the drawings of love.—Mae Guyon.

REPEAL THE FIFTEENTH

Elsewhere the Journal has stated editorially its opinion that the eighteenth amendment is due for repeal about Christmas.

and we now make bold to suggest an appeal of the fifteenth amendment, also, which pertains to the negro race.

Frankly and personally speaking we have no use for the negro in any or any place. We are not denying the religionists claim that he is a human being and has an immortal soul. Neither do we deny the fact that the white man is largely responsible for him being here and in continued increasing numbers, yet we prefer he would exercise his human prerogatives elsewhere and go to heaven from some other quarter of the globe than American soil.

Legally speaking, we very much doubt if such legislation ever had any right place in our constitution. The whole question of the northern colored race and the miscegenation naturally follows, is, contrary to experience and to the world in which we live. It is at least repugnant to custom and opinion prevailing over a large part of the southern area of our country and is at best debatable only in the moral and religious realm.

The Federal government has repealed the eighteenth amendment and then referred the ratification of its action to the several states, and in accordance with Jeffersonian traditions, why not let the same procedure be followed in the case of the fifteenth amendment?

Ever since its enactment in 1870, this amendment has never been wholeheartedly obeyed and it is frequently and consistently ignored in various and numerous parts of the country, especially in the southern section where the blacks are most numerous. Circumvention, hypocrisy and casuistic technique unmeasurable has been invented and used to prevent the negro from exercising his citizenry franchise and obtaining any voice, power or even control in the realm of politics, and it is our personal opinion that the negro question is possibly the greatest moral delinquency contributory to obtaining the desired 100 per cent Americanism that today exists.

Back in 1890 there were 25 lynchings in nine different states, besides a few in some others. The K. K. K. was responsible for the horridity of the black man and the consequent spreading of the negro problem into other states where it has been more or less unsuccessfully combated and where today numerous northern towns and cities are seriously wishing they could get rid of the problem or at least relegate it back to the southern states where it originated. In that section complications of a religious and educational kind are rapidly assuming gigantic proportions and becoming hurelean in their unsolvable monstrosity.

Hundreds of years ago it was recorded in scriptural prophecy regarding the sons of Ham: "A servant of servants shall he be unto his brethren." We concur with that prophecy if the negro is to remain in America; if he wants to be a master let him traipse back to Africa. Most negroes are Republicans, and we believe this would be a good time in American history for Mr. Roosevelt to strike a popular chord in American political procedure to suggest to congress that it also repeal the fifteenth amendment and pass it on to the states for ratification.

PROHIBITION DEFEAT

Looking at it from this distance, it now appears that prohibition is sure of defeat. Twenty states with more than half the total population of the United States have already ratified the twenty-first amendment for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and voting dates for the amendment have already been set, effective during 1933. Thirty-six states are required to make the repeal effective.

If, as now seems likely, the states scheduled to come in this way do not have already voted, only one additional state will be needed to complete the ratification, and this one will probably be provided by some state which has not yet definitely acted upon the matter.

At any rate, whether complete repeal comes before Christmas or not, it is now clear that public opinion is overwhelmingly against the eighteenth amendment, and the drys might as well abandon their efforts to delay the vote that is certain to be cast except, perhaps in certain strongholds like Kansas and South Dakota where the legislatures have to date refused to submit the question to a vote.
If complete prohibition ever again be attempted, the way that it now means the whole question will have to be again opened at some future date, new strategy and new methods are going to have to be overhauled, re-arranged and new ones with new and different leadership set up. The entire realignment will have to be different, and we predict there will also be considerable time elapse before the problem is again tackled, for public sentiment in many quarters is entirely tired of the problem.

The drift today is toward a laissez faire policy limited only by stiff laws and license fees, and the liquor traffic is setting itself up as a liquor industry along with other industries. Respectability of the whole business, such as was not permitted for more than two generations before the eighteenth amendment, appears to be on the horizon.

At this time, makes no recommendation to either side of the question, merely pausing to comment upon the facts as they are presented at this time. For a while, at least it will be a largely individual action and results.

WHAT SPENDING DOES

The average Muleshoe buyer does not realize how his spendings do to boost business. When you spend one dollar for certain articles, your money, plus that of other consumers, removes the article from circulation from stock and requires its replacement. The greater the consumption, the greater will be production and naturally the greater number of men at work. Re-creation, if purchased it helps to speed up activities in numerous other industries from the production of raw materials all through the stage of manufacture, of selling and distribution, down to the retail buyer and the consumer. To recapture prosperity and relieve unemployment, buying must proceed in a normal manner. It is the only way to pay debts, remove obstacles from the path of recovery and get the nation back on a sound economic basis. Hence, President Roosevelt's NRA plan is meritorious and in Muleshoe as elsewhere it should be heartily received and carried out.

If Muleshoe citizens want their dollars to bring good things, if they want them to bring a chance to gather in and more dollars, they should do with it what it was intended they should do with it—spend it!

THE BLANKET CODE

At last it has happened—something that has caused Muleshoe business men to act practically 100 per cent harmoniously—and President Roosevelt turned the trick.
It was the National Recovery act, the blanket code in it being so far reaching that scarcely anyone escaped. True it was a compulsory act, yet one of a friendly nature. It made all business concerns follow more or less, because it covered all.

Some haven't yet quite figured out why a blanket was necessary during weather like this, and a few have insisted it may turn out to be a well-blanket; but at any rate it's destined to keep millions of people warm this winter, and here's hoping it's going to be a good thing for everybody.

At any rate, score one for the local Kiwanis club. Every business concern had to agree with the local Kiwanians in this particular instance, and get under the banner of the blue eagle. Indeed, some local addicts of this particular organization are claiming that the Hon. Franklin Delano must himself be a Kiwanian because he is going out so many constructive acts, such as that organization sponsors.

BOASTFUL YOUTH

According to some people, the young folks of this generation are going to abolish many old evils which have long plagued the world.
They say the old folks, with their fixed ideas, are to blame for the World War, also for stalling the industrial machine with their worn-out conceptions of business. But youth, with its clear vision and fine courage, is going to abolish these old evils.

Well, if youth can perform this mighty task it will accomplish deathless fame, and incidentally prove its qualifications for all of the good-paying jobs.
But unfortunately the evils that plague the world all have their origin in defects of human nature, in some form of selfishness. Much of the old Adam will have to be extracted from people's stubborn hearts before the causes of world dislocation and conflict are removed. The world is not yet ready to leave the job wholly to youth.

THE MISTAKE

The Trades and Barter day held here last Monday was not up to par either in attendance, interest or business transacted, and the Journal kindly suggests there is no one to blame for it but the business concerns backing the movement. The Journal has always insisted that a good program of music and other entertainments of various kinds is necessary to attract people, though there are some business men who think otherwise. The failure of large numbers of people to come here Monday is proof of our contention.

These particular events are for the purpose of getting people better acquainted with each other and especially with the citizens and business concerns in Muleshoe. They are days of mutual benefit, if properly conducted. Last Monday's event was well advertised, but no specific program of interest or attractiveness was given out. Herein was the big mistake.

At this time of the year farmers especially are very busy in their fields and something above the average farmer is likely to drop them from behind the cultivators. This past Trades day was important in the fact that when another rolls round there will be numerous farmers in Bailey County who will have gained their government checks for cotton reduction and will be spending their money. Muleshoe business concerns would like to receive their pro rata part of it if they would work some hardships on business; just think of the extra time folks are going to have off for garden golt or pasture pool. Electric light bills are going to be lower per month for some concerns, and this coming winter we won't have so large gas bills to pay monthly.

Every dark cloud has its silver lining, and while the NRA is going to work some hardships on business; just think of the extra time folks are going to have off for garden golt or pasture pool. Electric light bills are going to be lower per month for some concerns, and this coming winter we won't have so large gas bills to pay monthly.

Over in New Mexico, says the Roy Record, since farmers are using black gasoline they are not afraid to leave their tractors in the fields over night. Even traveling tourists, when they discover how the black gasoline clogs their carburetors and settles in the bottom of their tanks, are not likely to swipe any of it but once.

Now that the NRA is effective the Journal is warning everybody to go slow carefully. If the recovery gets moving too fast some victims of the depression in Muleshoe are going to find it mighty hard to swing back in to their old jobs of dodging work.

There is still some faith left in Bailey County—a few of our farmers had enough faith in their neighbors to believe they would accept the government's plan of cutting down on their cotton acreage.

Following this dry summer, some folks around Muleshoe have already begun predicting a mild winter. However, we believe some folks are going to find it pretty hard sledding.

Pavement Pickups

As ye editor, "since the NRA code is intended to be absolutely 'fair,' it's up to the blondes to stick it out, while the brunettes may sit back and take life easy."

Cliff Davis says this new idea of using "Stop" in a telegram makes it sound like an old-fashioned girl on a moonlight buggy ride.
Henry Ford, according to a news item began "life without shoes," remarked a Muleshoe Motor Co. mechanic the other day in the presence of Neil Rockey, and the boss promptly replied, "So did the rest of us." Wow!

Muleshoe citizens thought themselves fortunate when they got one block of Main street paved with asphalt. Now it is reported that Taylor and Ray Griffiths are planning putting a top coat of lard on the other calched blocks, claiming it will be a much slicker pavement and considerable money will be saved in operating over it.

A few weeks ago one of Muleshoe's charming belles received as a present one of those modern ultra-abbreviated bathing suits which are noted for leaving little to one's imagination. One day last week she in company with her thoughts? He replied, "I was just thinking to myself if a moth had only your bathing suit to feed on, it would soon starve to death."

Dan Winn says there are more people in Muleshoe who are going to have legal business to attend to after September 15 than ever before. It is expected drinking beer will be legal at that time.

Joe: "Hey, why are you ripping out the back part of my new boot?" Doc: "Oh, the blamed thing was marked 'Appendix' and I took it out without thinking."

Engineer Harry Roberts insists that his profession is an art as well as a science. For instance, he says, "you never see any lines on a blue print to indicate where they are going to make a lot of changes that you'll have to pay for."

Judge Kemmerer says the people of this country can now be divided into three classes: Those on J. P. Morgan's preferred list, those on the sucker list and those on the "refire" list.

"Economy in government," says Attorney Cecil Tate, "often merely consists in saving enough money in one place to pay for a new appropriation in another."

Sauntly Journalettes

We happen to know a few people in Muleshoe who would get along better if they worried more about their own future and less about somebody else's past.
The fact that some one has invented self-shining shoes is no satisfaction to the man who has worn them for a long time, unless he has been wearing pants with self-shining seats in them.

One consolation is that if Bailey county farmers can't raise anything else on their farms this year, they can still raise blisters.
Asked the meaning of the word "budger," a little Muleshoe boy says it has one meaning it means a family fight.

One reason why the Muleshoe people ignore medical advice is because they very seldom see a doctor that is more than 90 years old.
As Muleshoe motorists view it, there's nothing at all new about this blending of alcohol and gasoline, only the cheap gas was in the driver and the other in the tank.

Evolutionists may tell us where we came from and theologians try to inform us where we are going, but after all most Muleshoe citizens are only sure of one fact—that they are really here.

State Tax Rate Set At 77c; The General Fund Rate Now 53c

At a meeting of the State Automatic Tax Board held at Austin Thursday of last week the tax rate of 77 cents on the $100 valuation was set, the rate for the general fund being placed at its constitutional limit of 35 cents.

The setting of these rates were practically obligatory, under present circumstances, for even with that rate, according to report, the revenue yielded will not be sufficient to balance the budget of the general fund, to say nothing of taking care of the deficit carried over.

The total assessed valuations in the state upon which ad valorem taxes are levied has been placed at $3,177,298,300, which is a falling off of 20 per cent from that of last year, the chief cause for this being the exemption of homesteads up to a $5,000 assessed valuation.

METHODIST-BAPTIST PARTY FOR LEAGUE AND B. Y. F. U.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Trostie cooperated a group of young people from the Methodist Senior League and the Baptist Intermediate B. Y. F. U., to Horseshoe Bend for a little outdoor recreation Friday night.

Numerous running games were played, and which everyone was served with punch and cookies.
Those who participated in the fun were Misses Aileen Miss, Twila Farrell, Mary Holt, Eunice Griffiths and Eva Harper, Glad Skewers, R. E. Willis, R. B. McFores, Alvin Farrell, Cecil Spence, and Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Trostie.

NICHOLS DIES AT BULA

Joseph E. Nichols, 67, of Bula community, died July 30 at a Lubbock hospital, following a heart ailment from which he had been suffering the past three years.
Funeral services were conducted at Bula by Rev. W. P. Kirk, the local Baptist minister, and interment made in Littlefield cemetery.
The deceased is survived by his widow and eight children.

JESS MITCHELL OF MULESHOE, TEXAS, FIRST EDITOR HERE

With fond recollections of La Oñdi 101-02, thankfulness for close proximity to the wet Colorado state line and genuine hopes the moisture will soon extend New Mexico, and Publisher Jess Mitchell of the Muleshoe (Texas) Journal, accompanied by Mrs. Mitchell, came in Thursday, 2 p. m., from a pleistocene expedition on the ichthyological specimens floating in the turbulent Rio Grande in the altitudinous vicinity of Farmers Union dam above Creede.

He was all cocked and primed for the big argumentation of the press program, speakers, the banquets, etc., which to his liking will be numerous and frequent.

A country editor not used to speckled beauties and rainbow sides soon gets a yen for his steady diet. And right now Jess has a monstrous urge to mingle with the pen-pushers, type-writer trippers and brainy boosters of the Sunshine State—(Rotan (N. M.) Range).

POULTRY

BALANCED FEED IS GOOD FOR TURKEYS

Well-Selected Ration Means Hatchable Eggs.

By O. C. UFFORD, Extension Postmaster, Colorado Agricultural College, WNU Service.

Turkey growers are learning that to insure fertile, hatchable eggs during hatching season, the turkey breeding flock should receive a well-balanced ration a month to six weeks before eggs are laid for hatching.

Turkey raisers are coming to realize that there is very little difference in the mechanics of production between the turkey and chicken hen; they both need the same nutrients for good egg production.

A well-balanced ration causes to be stored up in the bodies of the breeders the necessary elements needed for the production of eggs that will hatch and poult that will live. Such a ration should consist of grain, a mixture of ground grains, animal food in the form of meat scraps or milk, green feed, minerals and plenty of fresh water.

Growers should feed a grain mixture composed of one or more grains, such as corn, wheat, oats or barley, morning and evening.

Keep a mash mixture before the flock all the time. A commonly used mixture consists of equal parts of finely ground corn, bran, shorts, ground oats or barley, and meat meal or meat scraps. Ground wheat may be substituted for the bran and shorts, and milk may be entirely or partly substituted for the meat products when an adequate supply of the feed is available.

It may be necessary to supply some green feed early in the season. Alfalfa is an excellent form. Minerals such as bone meal and oyster shell are most important and should always be available. Do not neglect the drinking water!

Causes Leading to and How to Stop Egg-Eating

There are many causes which may lead to the egg-eating habit in poultry and the chief of these is the accidental breaking of an egg, for once the fowls have tasted "hen fruit" they will proceed to break the eggs themselves until they are made to stop it, and this is not altogether an easy matter. Very often the cause of proper shell formation material is the cause of an egg's breaking in the first place and the natural desire for lime will lead the birds to eat its shell as well as its contents. Hence the importance of keeping shell-forming material before laying hens at all times.

A good remedy for the egg-eating habits is to make the nests as dark as possible, so that the hens are unable to see the eggs after they are laid; soft hay placed in the nest will cause the eggs to sink out of sight after they are laid. Another remedy is to take an ordinary egg, remove its contents, and fill it with mustard and pepper; although the fowls may tackle one the first time, fill another one and you will find she has had enough. Another plan is to fill an egg with ammonia.—Los Angeles Times.

Germinated Oats, Barley Makes Good Green Feed

Germinated oats or barley makes a good green feed for poultry. It is usually fed when the sprouts are half an inch long, being put in the mash hoppers on top of the mash. The germinated grain can be very conveniently fed the first thing in the morning. The amount varies from two to four pounds per 100 birds, depending upon appetite and production. As production increases, the amount of germinated grain is increased. A good grade of oats should be used. The same rule applies to barley. One pound of dry oats makes one and three-fourths pounds of germinated oats. Grain can be successfully germinated by laying it on the ground and covering it with a gunny sack that is kept moist.—Los Angeles Times.

Poultry Squibs

Only strong vigorous cockerels that are typical of their breed and that have been bred from high producing large egg dams should be retained, from which to select the breeders that are worth while.

Hens must have shell forming materials in their rations, otherwise they cannot put shells on the eggs. Lime in some form is necessary and oyster shell is recommended as very economical.

Although the price difference in cents for quality in eggs is less than two years ago, the difference in percent is greater.

Catawba county, N. C., poultry growers have sold one shipment of capons to eastern markets this season for 2 1/2 cents a pound.

By the act of handling each bird the owner will learn much about his flock. No piece of work conducted on the farm will show results as quickly as systematic continuous culling.

BLACKWATER VALLEY FURNISHES VALUABLE SPECIMENS TO SCIENCE PREHISTORIC BONES OF ANIMALS

That the territory immediately surrounding Muleshoe in the Blackwater valley is replete with archeological lore has been known to the older citizens here for some time past, some of whom live in their homes as relics bones of the ancient monsters that once roamed this area.

Some years ago when the Santa Fe railroad was built through this section, just a few hundred yards east of Muleshoe a blue mud swale was encountered in establishing the road grade, and in the now hardened mud of this swale remains of different prehistoric animals were found. There are men still living in this community who personally saw these bones and some of them, dug up at that time, are still being kept in homes here. No doubt in the years to come some important finds of value to paleontologists and scientists generally will be brought to light.

Last Monday, under a Philadelphia date line, the following item was carried in the daily newspaper: "Paleontological discoveries made in New Mexico are pointed to by scientists as authoritative evidence that prehistoric man once hunted the mammoth, musk ox and a now extinct type of bison there—but in a climate much colder and wetter than at present."

"Announcement was made recently that a joint expedition from the University of Pennsylvania museum and the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences has found near Clovis, N. M., bones of ancient animals, including the horse and camel, together with flint and open hearths, all buried in the same strata and in such close association as to remove all doubt they belonged to the same period.

"A statement by officials of the museum and the academy said that several eminent paleontologists from this country and Europe visited the site near Clovis and after examination concurred in the opinion the bones of the mammoth, extinct type of bison and the hearths and flint instruments were associated and belong to the same period."

The spot near Clovis where the finds have been made, the statement said, is locally known as "Black Water Draw," and evidently originally was a string of small lakes or water holes which emptied into the Brazos river, whose source is now at some distance. This indicates that at that period the region was far less arid than at present.

Furthermore, the discovery in a cave, not far distant, of the musk ox, an animal adapted to Arctic environment, and found today only in Greenland and Northern Canada, indicates clearly that the temperature must have been colder in those days. The disappearance of these animals from America may have been as much due to extermination by hunters as to the change in climate.

Passion Play Will Be Given, Plainview Spoken In English

The Chamber of Commerce, of Plainview, has secured and is sponsoring for a one performance engagement, the "Great European Passion Play," in English, August 11.

Thousands of Americans every 10 years are traveling to Europe to see the Passion Play and now for the first time, this great play of all plays, "This Drama of Dramas" will be staged in Plainview.

The Passion Play first was played in the year 1264 in Freiburg, Germany, and during the occasion of the plague was given to Oberammergau in Bavaria whose inhabitants, during the terror of the black plague, almost were wiped out. Then was the time when the Oberammergauers made a vow that if the still living people of the town should be saved from the plague, they, as a thanksgiving would present the Passion Play every 10 years. And so, since 1633 the Passion Play in Oberammergau is presented every decade.

The Passion Players are a group of 15 players, which appear in all the spoken parts and which now are speaking the text in English as a special feature to the American public. The players, trained especially for their parts, are devoting their entire time to the parts they play.

The Passion Play is a literal translation of the Bible and presents the last seven days of the life of Christ on earth. The text is taken in its entirety from the books of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John—and no religious creed that believes in the "divinity of Christ" can possibly find it cause for offense. The players are devout Christians, who feel it a sacred duty to carry the divine teachings of the Lord to the world.

Special prices have been arranged within the reach of all. Tickets may be reserved by designating the desired section and mailing check to Chamber of Commerce.

August Is Dangerous Month; Folks Should Exercise Due Caution

Austin, Texas, Aug. 8.—The month of August usually shows an increase in the number of cases of infantile paralysis in Texas, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. It is not only a serious disease but also one of the most treacherous with which the medical profession has to deal. The death rate is very high and also the number of cripples. It is estimated that one third to one half of all the cripples in the United States can trace their handicap to infantile paralysis.

Suspicion should be aroused when an illness begins with headache, drowsiness, fever, irritability, vomiting, diarrhea or constipation and with stiffness in the back of the neck or spine. When such early symptoms appear, parents are urged to obtain medical advice without delay, and not assume the condition to be of temporary or trivial importance. Treatment at this stage of the disease is of the greatest importance and more effective than when delayed until after the appearance of paralysis. These acute symptoms rarely last more than a few days, 75 per cent of the cases developing paralysis on or before the fourth day.

The disease may be divided into two main groups, the paralyzed and the non-paralyzed. The latter, regardless as to how mild, is the greater danger in spreading the disease. One would deliberately expose a susceptible person to a definite paralyzed case, so it is the exposures to the unknown case or carrier which causes the greatest spreading of this disease.

Dodging infantile paralysis infection is a blind game for no one knows where the infection exists. Sometimes it appears as if the infection spreads as readily as that of influenza, but owing to the longer period between exposure and illness, cases do not appear in such rapid succession and because of extensive natural immunity at least to its paralytic effects, the recognized cases are many times fewer. The best plan to follow to avoid this disease as well as many others is for the individual to follow the rules of personal hygiene.

Be proud of your home town.

WAVE OF CATALOGS FROM MAIL ORDER HOUSES DELUGES POST OFFICE SOLICITING BIG BUSINESS

That the mail order houses realize the backbone of the depression has been broken and better business conditions are in the near offing, is demonstrated in the fact that last Saturday the post office at Muleshoe received its first fall consignment of big mail order catalogs from one of the leading concerns of that type which draws thousands of dollars worth of business out of this and neighboring towns every year.

To be exact, there were 417 catalogs in the consignment to Muleshoe citizens, each catalog weighing two pounds and 10 ounces, or a total weight of 1,062 pounds. The postage on each catalog just from Amarillo, where they were shipped in by freight, was 11 cents, to say nothing of the huge cost of the big book itself.

Besides this number for local distribution, more than 600 pounds more of these catalogs were also received in the same shipment for distribution to post offices receiving their mail from this point. The postage on the 417 catalogs for Muleshoe totaled $45.87, while the full shipment cost in the neighborhood of $75.00 to bring them from Amarillo to this point.

Mail order merchandise concerns know the big value of advertising. They know that soon the country is to be filled with money coming from cotton and wheat reduction campaigns from harvesting of crops generally, and that the most of this money is going to be promptly spent by the recipients of it. They want their share, and are now going after it in the most intelligent manner possible. Catalog shipments from other mail order houses will doubtless be following in the near future.

The only way to combat this outside influence and to keep the money at home where it will continue to circulate and be of local value and benefit, is for local business concerns to also enter into an advertising campaign, telling the buying public of their merchandise and prices. Now is the time to start such advertising.

Senator Walter F. Woodul, of Houston, has announced he will be a candidate for lieutenant-governor in Texas next year, according to a letter as received by the Journal from him.

One reason being advanced for support of the $20,000,000 bond issue in Texas at the August 28 election is the fact that there are now 1,275,000 people in the state who are wholly or in part dependent upon charity. It is estimated that relief funds this coming winter will have to be twice what they heretofore have been.

After business discussions, the class was turned over to the Social chairman. Games were played and delicious ice cream and cake was served. The hostesses were Mesdames Will Harper, H. N. Garland, G. C. Danner and Clay Buchanan.—Reporter.

Controlling Wax Moth

The beeswax moth is more or less of a pest in all sections of the United States. In the warmer and drier climates it is frequently a very serious problem, and even the best of beekeepers find it difficult to prevent losses.

There is a belief among many of our beekeepers that the beeswax moth destroys the bees in the colony. This, however, is not the case. The beeswax moth larva which does the damage, does not normally feed on any other substance than the combs, and is able to make headway in strong colonies. The larvae inside hives containing bees indicate that those colonies are too weak to cover all the combs, and the beeswax moth lays her eggs on the outer combs. The larvae, hatching here, work on these combs at the start and gradually work in toward the center combs. If the bees are located on one side of the hive, the beeswax moth larvae may work in the center combs at the start. The only prevention is to keep the colonies strong.

UNTIL WE LEARNED BETTER

Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels.

It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced.

Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies, which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars.

But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost.

For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense.

We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change.

We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us.

Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed.

Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933.

In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak.

The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you. By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable.

Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it.

The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.

Hog-Fattening Test

In a hog-fattening experiment conducted at the Iowa experiment station, the value of soyabean oil meal properly combined with minerals was rather strikingly demonstrated. The test was carried out last summer while the pigs were running on rape pasture.

In one test when the pigs were fed corn and soyabean oil meal with minerals, they consumed 32 pounds of the oil meal per hundred pounds of gain, plus corn. When 40 per cent protein tankage was substituted for the oil meal in another lot, also on rape pasture, the pigs consumed 36 pounds of tankage plus corn per hundred pounds of gain.

Another lot, fed corn and tankage, consumed 392 pounds of feed per hundred pounds of gain. In still another lot for which the protein supplement consisted of 75 per cent of soyabean oil meal and 25 per cent of tankage, only 374 pounds of feed was consumed per hundred pounds of gain, thus showing that 5 per cent in feed consumption for gains made—Wisconsin Agriculturist.

Dear Mr. Wallace: Wherein Nolan County Farmer Laments His Inability To Teach Mule That She Is To Walk On, Not Around, the Cotton Tracks

Go 'long, mule, Don't you rool dem eyes; You kin change a fool. But a doggone mule Is a mule until he dies.

Dear Mr. Wallace: I reckon you'd better tear up my contract.

I hate to say that, because you've convinced me that this cotton acreage reduction scheme is a good thing, and I need the check you promised me mighty badly. For the last two weeks I've been ready to hitch up and start plowing under: I still am.

But, Mr. Wallace, I can't plow up until you change a fool. I've tried. I tried this morning, just as soon as the county agent told me to go ahead. And I'd have got the job done too, except for one thing: My mule.

You don't know my mule, Mr. Wallace. You come from up Iowa way, and I hear they use Percheron horses there; so you'd not know anything about the habits and treatment of a Southern hardtail.

But let me tell you something; when Beck—that's my mule—gets her mind made up all heck and half of Georgia couldn't change it. And Mr. Wallace, I've been making a cotton crop with Beck for eight years; all her life she's heard that it ain't polite to walk anywhere except down the middle.

Why, I've seen the time when I'd tear into that rabiiteared daughter of obstinacy with a knotted line for setting a foot on one little stalk; she learned to walk carefully in a hard school, and pretty near wore me out learning it.

And now you come along and tell me to tell her to tromp down the whole shooting match! You tell her, Mr. Wallace—maybe she'll listen to you.

"Plow it up," You say casual like. "Plow it up and I'll send you a check for it." Just that.

And I'd like to do it. I'd do most anything for you and Mr. Roosevelt. I even tried letting Beck walk down the middle and holding the plow in the cotton. But I haven't got the strength. Then I tried to explain the whole thing to Beck. I even showed her a copy of my contract with you.

But, snucks! I'd rather try to explain the National Recovery Act to a Republican.

So I went to the county agent; and he said to use two mules, let 'em walk down the middles and plow between. But I haven't got two mules. And I won't have the money to buy another mule unless I get your check. And you won't send this check until the cotton is plowed under.

That's why, Mr. Wallace. I reckon you'd better tear up my contract. I never could argue with a mule, so I look like another hard winter for me.

Yours in defeat, A NOLAN COUNTY FARMER P. S. Mr. Wallace, there never was a Dixie mule that would walk on cotton so I reckon you'll get lots of letters like mine. It's too bad you couldn't have thought of that before we all started figuring on that money.—Sweetwater Reporter.

METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday school at 9:45 and the pastor will preach at 11:00 a. m., on the primacy of the Church. We are to continue our discussion of the last two Sundays to "Make Church Membership Mean More." The church has a unique place in the life of all civilized peoples and while all recognize this, many at different times in their lives get to the place of almost entire church neglect. We desire to make the church mean more.

The missions meet at 7:50 p. m., and preaching services at 8:30 p. m.

The missionary society meets now each Monday; the prayer meeting Wednesdays night and this Wednesday night we are to study the temptations of Peter.

The choir meets each Thursday night. The Board of Stewards last Sunday voted the pastor a vacation, and there were several, in fact all of the men there, have their work to do and their conditions or choices keep them from taking a vacation. But they may have a day off now and then for a rest and some pastors have several days off each week and seem to keep in fine condition; but we have found that the demands on a pastor most exciting if he does his duty. Thanks for this consideration, gentlemen.

Last Sunday night we had a different service in the Biblical address by Abner White, a fellow kinsman of the sister preacher and a man of great determination, being afflicted as he is and yet has done what he has. The people seemed to get his angle of the Bible line, it was different to any we had heard. We wish we might get more of these for the renewing of the interest of the church.—E. C. RANEY, Pastor.

Real friendship is not based on how much money we have.

LATE PLANTING

Mr. Don L. Jones, Superintendent of the State experimental farm at Lubbock, Texas, states the latest he has planted maize and obtained a good yield was August 8th.

Sudan, Hegari, Cane or Millet will mature earlier than Maize.

The ten year average rainfall for Bailey County is 18.89. The highest rainfall for any year in the past ten years was 13.99. We are due 10 inches of rain to even up with the lightest year. This rain should fall within the next two months. This will give ample rainfall for maturing grain or seed, with a late frost.

GIRL SCOUTS MEET TUES. FOR CAMP AT RUIDOSA, N. M.

Fifteen Girl Scouts, accompanied by Mrs. J. G. Weaver and Mrs. Virginia Mae Clark, left early Tuesday morning for the mountains of Ruidosa, N. M., on a week's camping trip among the lofty pines, near the top of the world, where breezes blow cool and refreshing, and trout leap in colorful fashion from icy streams, wiggling their fins in derision at luckless fishermen who attempt to bait them with various concocted flies and other bait more or less half dead.

The party went in a big truck driven by "Shorty" Bartley, who, aside from being deputy sheriff and furnishing the protective side of the law, will also be chief camp-maker, leading fire-fighter, etc.

A big cabin has been leased for the week's fun, each girl taking along her quota of bedding for bunking purposes. Returning, the party will spend a night at Roswell where some of the girls will take their life-saving tests. While there one day will be spent visiting the Mary White, famous camp located in that vicinity.

While there they shall do quite a bit of work in special merit badges in addition to learning the real art of camping as scouting would have it.

Had it not been for the generosity of the grocermen of Muleshoe the trip would have been less than a week's duration. The five grocery merchants donated food to the value of $8.60. Those who are interested in scouting and all it means, appreciate the attitude of these generous citizens. It is hoped they realize the Scouts are willing to return any favor done them in the same spirit the groceries were given.

The girls attending are: Mildred Burkhead, Irma Willis, Alice DeBord, Lucille Bartley, Grace Churchill, Wanda Farrell, Billie Louise Arnold, Holly Ann Bucy, Norma Etrod, Joe Ann Aldridge, Betty Ruth Moeller, Vetta Riddle, Tidwell Douglas, Florence Stone and Loraine Danner.

TRADES DAY EVENT WAS SLACK DANCING AND MUSIC FEATURES

Owing to the season of the year, press of farming activities, etc., the crowd attending Barter and Trades day here last Monday was not quite up to par. However, those attending enjoyed a profitable day.

Practically everything brought for sale or barter was disposed of, according to R. L. Brown, generalissimo of the day's activities. There was a string orchestra to furnish music and several demonstrations of juvenile terpsichorean events during the afternoon.

At night a big street dance, participated in by more than 50 couples was the principal attraction.

SUMMER NIGHT IDYLL

They walked in the lane together,
The sky was covered with stars;
They reached the gate in silence,
He lifted down the bars.
She neither smiled nor thanked him
Because she knew not how;
For he was just a farmer's boy,
And she—a Jersey cow.
