With the improvement of the streets visitors will be shown more of the town. Have your house painted.

Come to think about it we suggest repainting your home and not a painter in the business. The carpenters are having to do the painting and as they are busy building this may account for so many homes needing fresh paint.

A prudent mother is always on the watch for symptoms of worms in her children. Pale ness, lack of interest in play and peevishness is the signal for WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE. A few doses of this excellent remedy puts an end to the worms and the child soon acts naturally. Sold by the Sonora Drug Co.

Fair to choice yearling wethers fat $16.50 to $17.50. Fair to choice aged wethers $15 to $16. Fat ewes $14.50 to $15.50.

Clipped stock is still quotable around $3 per cwt below that of wool skins. Clipped angora goats heavy, $8.50 to $9.50. Light angora goats $10. to $10.50, either for brushers or packers standpoint.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Willoughby were in town Saturday from the ranch fourteen miles north of Sonora.

Joe Turner of Junction was in Sonora Monday. Mr. Turner and associates operate extensively in sheep and goats. He was going west hoping to find something cheaper than in the Sonora country.

Frank Baker of Junction and Sonora and John Cowser of Junction have bought the Captain Gordon ranch in Kimble county at $10 per acre. Captain Gordon who has ranched in Kimble county for 30 years has not become a naturalized citizen of the United States and the proposed foreign land owners law caused him to sell his home. His ranch was about 8 miles from Junction and was less than 4,000 acres.

Rocksprings Leader of April 10 reporting the matter of the Sonora via Rocksprings Barksdale to Uvalde highway quotes Highway Commissioner C. S. Fowler as saying that that highway would be retained and that the highway from Sonora to Del Rio would also be designated. If Edwards county votes $400,000 in bonds they will receive $100,000 Federal aid and probably at a latter date another $100,000 would be given Edwards county. With regard to the Kerrville road Chas Schreiner of Kerrville, will put up a maintenance fund of $175,000 for the road through Real county to Rock springs if the two precincts in Kerr county vote $200,000 in bonds. Should this be done the Federal aid will be another $100,000 and in this manner Rocksprings will have highways to Kerrville, Uvalde and Sonora and the great goat and sheep country will be on the map for development.

Mr. Stumberg says E. B. Chandler has had his loans so well placed and the people so reliable that it has not been necessary for them to foreclose any of their mortgages.

The Victory or Fifth Liberty Loan bonds will draw 4 3/4 per cent, redeemable in 4 years. The issue will be for $1,500,000,000 and is the last popular loan of the war. Let the world see that the patriots of Salton county with the same devotion to country expressed in the previous issues, are determined to finish the job. The terms of payment are more attractive as a savings investment and the range conditions should make it easier for the people to subscribe to this loan.

SKUNK HAS MUCH VALUE.

The skunk, or the mephitis mephitis, as he is known to scientists, is probably the foremost game animal in New York state in point of value, even though the most anathematized.

This statement is made on the authority of George B. Pratt, state conservation commissioner, who is in a position to know more about the details of the state's wild charges than any other person. He made the observation after considering a report just presented to him that 260,000 skunks were taken in New York last year. Their raw furs reaching the market with an average value of $4 each meant more than $1,000,000 "to farmers' boys and trappers," Mr. Pratt declared.

HAD ONE QUALIFICATION.

An English count, taking refuge in Ireland recently, found it necessary to put up for the night at a country hotel, where he was obliged to share a bedroom with Pat.

He was just about to retire when our hero, who was watching him, intently remarked:
 "Ye should be a powerful grand singer, mister."

"How so?" inquired the count.
 "Sure ye have the rare legs of a canary," answered Pat.

IDLE.

"I don't see why a big healthy man like you should be out of work."
 "I have the best excuse in the world, ma'am. My troubles are due to the weather entirely."
 "The weather?"
 "Yes, ma'am. I'm a professional snow shoveler."

HOW HE SECURED PEACE.

"My wife has never once answered me back or wanted her own way."
 "How on earth did you manage to get a wife like that?"
 "Easily done. I never married."
 —London Answers.

POOR STUFF.

Caller—This poem was written by a lawyer. Has it any value?
 Editor (glancing through it)—About as much value as a legal opinion written by a poet.—Boston Transcript.

ERI SILK.

Eri silk is obtained from the cocoons of an Indian moth, the caterpillar of which is reared for the production of silk in Assam and to a smaller extent in certain parts of Bengal and northern India. This silk cannot be reeled like that of the mulberry silkworm, as the thread is not continuous, and it therefore has to be spun like ordinary silk waste. Eri silk takes dyes well, and when woven into cloth far surpasses cotton in durability.

Recently a sample of Eri silk was received at the Imperial institute from the East Africa protectorate.

TO PROTECT RUFFED GROUSE.

Owing to the great scarcity of ruffed grouse, now seriously threatened with extinction, efforts are being made in a number of states to close the season on this species for a term of years. Upon petition the game commissioners of Michigan and Pennsylvania have closed the season by regulation, and in New York the season was shortened to one month.

IN CACTUS CENTER.

"I see it's etiquette for a man at court to walk out of a room backward," remarked Pizen Pete, "but it's the safest way if you think some galoot is liable to draw a gun."
 —Louisville Courier-Journal.

AN INFERENCE.

Mrs. Smathers (at the war exposition)—"What's that spat cannon called, Lester?" Mr. Smathers—"That's a mortar." Mrs. Smathers—"Oh, yes! And it throws bricks, doesn't it?"

UNUSUAL.

"Why do you say that picture acting isn't an art?"
 "Because there's so much money in it. The actors and actresses don't starve in attics."—Film Fun.

NEED THEM SOON.

A soldier writing home put at the end of his letter: "Give my love to all, but for God's sake don't do the same with my clothes."

TWO ESSENTIALS.

Colonel Roosevelt was giving advice one day to a talented but very erratic and unsteady young poet.
 "To succeed," he said, "it isn't enough to work your mind—you must also mind your work."

STEADY CUSTOMER.

"I understand you've had to quit selling Jamaica ginger?"
 "Yes," said the druggist, who knew his man. "Anything else today?"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

FIRED BY THE MOB.

"Have you a recommendation from your former employer?"
 "I regret, madam, that I have not. You see, I used to be a king."
 —Life.

MYOPIA'S CAUSE AND RESULT

May Be Brought On in Many Ways and Should Have Sufferer's Immediate Attention.

Myopia, or near-sightedness, results from elongation of the eyeball produced in some way not clearly understood. The view that close attention to near work produces this change has not been satisfactory and Dr. F. W. Elridge Green has now suggested that it is excessive muscular work instead that sets up the processes of deformation. In the Lancet he claims that the primary or immediate cause is an obstruction of the lymph that should empty into the lymph space of the optic nerve from that between the retina and choroid. The accumulation of fluid distends the choroid coat at its weak posterior part and thus gives the eye an altered shape. Severe muscular effort may produce the obstruction. Lifting heavy weights produces a feeling of tension in the eyes and may even make them seem to be starting from their sockets. Among porters and others doing much lifting or excessive work, this is the usual cause of myopia. In persons of sedentary occupations, the wrestling, rowing or other form of violent exercise, may be the inciting cause, and even severe coughing may be responsible. It is advised that, with the appearance of myopic symptoms, anything likely to increase eye tension be avoided; reading need not be dropped.

THE VERY FIRST

She—George, this is the first lover's kiss I ever gave anyone.
 He—Don't apologize. No one would ever know it.

VAMPERS AND VAMPIRES.

"I was at work in my office the other day," said a man who is in charge of employing the help at a shoe manufacturing company in the city, when a rather pretty girl, of a brunette type, came simpering in. I was at a loss to account for her attitude, since I saw nothing mirth-provoking either in the young lady or myself or in the general situation.
 "I seen in the newspaper you are looking for a vamped," she said coyly.
 "Why, yes, we advertised for vampeders. What do you know about vampeding?" I asked.
 "Well, I ain't no Theda Barra," she replied, "but I guess I could learn. Where do you take the pictures at?"—Columbus Dispatch.

WHAT STRIKES DID FOR HIM

At Least One Kansas City Man Was Glad When Street Cars Were Not Running.

We overtook him swinging down the boulevard with his chest out the morning the strike came on.
 "Rotten business—this strike," we said.
 "Finest thing that ever happened," he said. "Strikes saved my life—made a man of me."
 "Union man?" we asked.
 "Naw. Office slave. Two years ago I was an anemic, dyspeptic, neurosthenic, hypochondriac slave of the desk. I had been trying to cut out the heavy mid-day lunches and to start walking down in the morning for two years—couldn't make up my mind to do it. Then there came along that waiters' strike and I cut out the restaurant—brought a couple of sandwiches down and Fletcherized them at noon. Then the street car boys struck, and I had to walk. I haven't ridden in a street car since. I've gained 20 pounds, never have been sick a day since, have a clear head for my work, never felt better in my life. There's just one more strike I'd like to see."
 "What's that?"
 "Pie makers. I'm still a little overfond of pie."
 —Kansas City Star.

FINDING OF THE DAWN.

An N. C. O. in the royal defense corps writes to me from Worcestershire, says a writer in the London Evening News: "The war is responsible for several great discoveries—to many of us the sunrise was one of them. We worked in the city before joining the army, rose at the last minute, and caught the 8:40 to town. Now we have captured the wonder and glory of the sunrise, for it has been our daily portion since the service claimed us. The mystery and the magic of the wonder light of dawn will remain with us for evermore. It has cheered our drooping spirits and lifted our hearts to higher things, encouraging us throughout the heavy duties of the day."

DELICATE TOPICS.

"What makes you avoid that colleague of yours?"
 "He's always trying to pick a quarrel with me," complained Senator Sorghum. "I never see him that he doesn't ask me what I think of the league of nations and the Monroe doctrine."

ISN'T IT AWFUL?

"What is the matter now?" asked her mother.
 "Matter enough, I should say. Ever since we poor girls were making enough money on war work to buy a lot of clothes we have had to wear overalls."
 —Brooklyn Eagle.

WALKING THE FLOOR.

"The landlord says we've got to move."
 "He's right," replied the patient man. "The only way to keep warm in this flat is to keep moving."

RICH GOLFER USUALLY PUNK

At Least, His Poorer Brother Generally "Has It on Him" When They Get Together.

There are two classes of golf players—those who can afford to go South in the winter and those who cannot. Now, those who can't afford to go South can usually beat those of the millionaire class.

This means that the rich spend their time in the winter months playing with each other. It is millionaire against millionaire, and sevens, eights and even nines are winning holes down there.

That accounts for the glum and sad expression on the face of the stay-at-home golfer in the winter time. The South is filled with sunshine and easy picking and he knows it. He could easily make his expenses trimming bank presidents and fat railroad presidents who think they are golf players, if he could only get there.

But the wind is tempered to the shorn lamb, and a great wall of expense protects securely the millionaires from their poorer but more expert brothers.

Being a millionaire isn't so much fun after all. Imagine having to spend a whole winter in the South playing golf with nobody but millionaires!—Detroit Free Press.

HAS NEW DECORATIVE IDEA

English Color Specialist Believes Adoption of His Scheme Would Promote National Health.

Kemp Prosser, the famous English color specialist, has been conducting some interesting experiments on health colors which he hopes the British government will adopt for decorating houses during the reconstruction period. He maintains that the adoption of his color schemes will make the British public both healthful and happier.

Interviewed in his two "health rooms," one with walls of sunlight yellow, and the ceiling sky blue, with blue net curtains at the windows, Mr. Prosser declared that his purpose is to bring outdoors inside.

"I am doing away with my pictures," he said. "Instead I am installing these bowls of fruit, as you see, on pedestals against the background of the sunlight walls. These embroidered cushions on the chairs aid in carrying out my purpose with their flower designs."

Then the color specialist led the way to the other room, in which the dominating color was apple-blossom pink.

"This is the normal color," said Mr. Prosser, "because I have found that ninety-nine people out of a hundred are happiest in rooms of this shade."

The Interscholastic Contest at San Angelo.

Sonora went strong at the Interscholastic contest at San Angelo Saturday when the schools of that city, the counties of Tom Green, Runnels, Coke, Sterling, Schleicher, Irion, Sutton participated. This was the first meeting of the University of Texas Interscholastic League that Sutton county has attended and the earnest enthusiasm of Superintendent Jewell Matthews of the Sonora school cannot be too highly praised and endorsed by the patrons of the school and citizens of Sonora for his untiring effort to give the Sonora children the benefit of interest in school work and the advantage incident to competition which does so much for morale.

Contests in the classes and on the field has not heretofore been encouraged in the Sonora school and many of the pupils and parents do not as yet appreciate what is accomplished by this method. Ambition is stirred, endeavor is encouraged, success achieved and patriotism prevails.

CAPTURING OF HUN COLONEL

Yankees Poked Fun at Indignant Officer They Brought into Camp, Also Bayonets.

As the troopers have come into the port of New York in recent months, I could not help but remember, while watching the soldiers on board make game of the pompous municipal officials and other formal greetors on the Patrol, the words of a solemn English army officer as he described these same American boys in the thick of war.

"Straditional!" drawled the Englishman. "I mean to say, your American soldiers do not take even war and death seriously. Now, when one of our Tommies arrives back of the lines with prisoners he may have a bit of a grin on his face. The Poilu is a very solemn-looking chap as he escorts his German prisoners rearward. But your American boys—my word! I've seen them come into a French village walking just behind a most furious Hun colonel—a colonel, mark you—and laughing uproariously as they prod the colonel, harmlessly and playfully, with the tip of a bayonet. And while this Hun colonel chap protested vigorously the American boys continued to spoof their prisoner while prodding him along. 'Make it snappy, kid!' 'Step lively—plenty of room in the forward part of the car!' 'Officer, he's in again!' 'Hey, Jimmy! Look at this perfectly good colonel the cat dragged in!'—all that sort of tommy-rot."—"When the Troopers Come In," in Red Cross Magazine.

TOOK THE STRANGER'S BOAT

Experience That Proved Decidedly Embarrassing to Fair Camper in Northern Indiana Woods.

I was one of a party visiting Lake Maxinkuckee, in northern Indiana. One of the party who expected to remain all summer pointed out a sailboat which he said he had bought from parties leaving the lake. Possession was not to be given, however, until the next day, which I did not know.

Happening down at the pier with one or two of our party, I suggested that we try the boat, which I felt perfectly free to do, although I had never sailed any, nor had any of the others.

We had quite a start when the former owner came down to the beach with a party of women he had invited for a ride, and for that reason had retained ownership until the next day. He shouted to us to come back, and I discovered then that I did not know how to turn about, and kept sailing away, as he thought, purposely.

We crossed the lake, beached on the other side, then got started back all right. He was naturally somewhat indignant, and as he was a perfect stranger I was much embarrassed, and of course had no good excuse for running away with his boat.—Chicago Tribune.

HE WOULD, INDEED

He—Darling, when you're in my arms every burden is lifted from me like magic.
She—Wait till I've sat here for an hour or so, you'll change your idea.

RETURN TO THE PRIMITIVE

Peasants in Northern Russia Are Compelled to Burn Birch Twigs in Place of Candles.

The shortage in kerosene and candles in northern Russia has brought into use once more a primitive lighting arrangement known as the "svetila," an arrangement to burn birch twigs, writes a soldier with the American forces on the Dvina. The "svetilas" have been resurrected from some ancient storing place in the log houses of the villages and are now lighting many of them. The arrangement consists of a wooden trough about two feet long, with an iron pan to catch the ashes from the burning birch twigs, which are placed in a forklike arrangement so they slant downward and burn easily.

Each twig, or "lutchinka," burns about five minutes, with about as much light as a candle and much more smoke. The members of the family take turns feeding it. The peasant women are again generally employing the "preelka," a primitive wooden loom on which they card and weave flax for their garments. The result is cloth, both of coarse and fine varieties, and not at all bad looking.

NERVE

Jess—I only promised to be a sister to you, yet you want to kiss me all the time.
Tom—Well, you'll find me a very affectionate brother.

RUST-PROOF STEEL

Quite accidentally, Harry Brearley, a Sheffield (England) metallurgist, has discovered a method for making a rust-proof steel. It will not stain or corrode. He came upon the discovery when seeking a way to prevent erosion in gun bores so that the war is responsible for this advancement. It has long been claimed by makers of a certain kind of wire for concrete reinforcement that "pure iron" would not rust. Soon we may be treated to pens that will not corrode and penknives that may be left out in the rain. The new iron may also be substituted in many places for aluminum on airplanes. Be prepared also for patented iron pills that will prevent the rust of old age.

NOT BY THE HOUR

"Do you understand the new telephone rates?"
"No. Can you explain them?"
"I think so. Of course you know we are to have metered service."
"Yes, I saw that in the paper."
"That means we will be charged for every call."
"Each call will be a distinct charge, then?"
"Yes."
"I'm glad of that. I had an idea when they put a meter on the line they were going to charge us by the hour, and judging from the time it takes me to get a number now that would bankrupt me."

CREATING PREJUDICE.

"You know people who take no alcohol usually eat a great deal of candy."
"Wish I'd thought of that when I was in the legislature," sighed Uncle Bill Bottletop. "I'd have got up and blamed prohibition on the sugar trust."

TUNNEL REVEALS SECRET.

Interesting information is contained in a dispatch from Rome to the state department concerning elaborate excavations conducted by German officials of the German embassy in Rome previous to the war. It has been discovered that tunnels were dug under the Capitoline hill up to the Victor Emmanuel monument.

The Italian government has formally taken over the embassy, which stands on the site of historic structures. The present building, the Palazzo Caffarelli, is to be demolished immediately.

It is supposed that the German embassy staff's purpose in digging the tunnels was to provide a means of escape if the embassy should be attacked. The fact that the tunnels were dug before the war indicates that Germany anticipated war, and was preparing for it, in Rome as well as all other parts of the world where German agents were maintained.

THE DARKER SIDE.

"Do tell me about the trenches."
"They were mostly mud, mum."
"But what about the romance of war?"
"I didn't see any, mum. Romance and cooties don't go together."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

LUXURIES.

"You're not going to kick about the luxury tax?"
"Not a word. They might put on an extra tax for the luxury of kicking."

ANALYZED.

"Do you think Jack really cares for Miss Richley?"
"I think he has a platonic affection for her; but he's violently in love with her father's money."

TERRIBLE FALL.

"I had a fall last night which rendered me unconscious for six hours."
"Really! Where did you fall?"
"I fell asleep."

"CHARLES MARSHALL"

Just how little some persons know about the vice president of the United States was explained in some detail by Thomas Riley Marshall, the present incumbent of that office, at a dinner in Boston just before President Wilson departed for France. After saying that while some persons knew that such an office existed, few knew who the incumbent was, he proved that erudite Boston is no exception by holding up his place card, which bore the inscription, "Charles Marshall."

HARD LINES.

"How about ex-kings going into business?"
"It would not be easy for them to find an opening. About all an ex-king can do is to write his memoirs."
"That so?"
"And even then he has to leave out a lot of interesting matter for fear that it might be used as evidence against him."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST CATS.

A campaign against cats found in pursuit of birds has been authorized by law in New York. This act was the result of a compromise secured by those who desired a provision that cats should be licensed. Efforts to secure cat legislation in Maryland, Massachusetts and New Jersey were again unsuccessful.

PRECAUTION.

Jack—Did you tell her what you said in strict confidence?
Ethel—No; I didn't want her to think it was important enough to repeat.—Boston Transcript.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Mr. Marion Holcomb, of Nancy, Ky., says: "For quite a long while I suffered with stomach trouble. I would have pains and a heavy feeling after my meals, a most disagreeable taste in my mouth. If I ate anything with butter, oil or grease, I would spit it up. I began to have regular sick headache. I had used pills and tablets, but after a course of these, I would be constipated. It just seemed to tear my stomach all up. I found they were no good at all for my trouble. I heard
