CAVING HINDERS OIL WELL

Continued caving below the casing and in the oil formation of the Honorable, has hindered and prolonged the cleaning process of that well during the past week, following the shot of 150 quarts of nitro-glycerine given it by drillers.

With Brandstratt, when the accident occurred, was one J. F. ## FIRE DAMAGES COTTON PLACED AT $2,000 LOSS

77 Bales Flame Saturday From Unknown Cause; Insured.

Fire, originating from an undetermined cause, destroyed or damaged 77 bales of cotton located on the Santa Fe railroad loading platform last Saturday afternoon. The loss and damage being estimated at $2,000, according to H. A. Eckler, Santa Fe agent.

Whether the fire was caused by static electricity, some form of internal combustion, a carelessly dropped cigarette or by someone stepping on a match end igniting it, is unknown. Some burned matches were found on the platform following the blaze. The cotton had been received by Mr. Eckler about 30 minutes before the fire burst out. The agent was stepping down to read the number of a cotton bale when the smoke and flame burst out from a nearby bale into his face, quickly spreading to other bales, outside lint and loose cotton quickly igniting until it had the appearance of a flaming holocaust.

Bales of cotton were rolled from the platform as quickly as possible, thus obviating considerable loss and damage. No bales were totally consumed, but all were more or less damaged.

Since the blaze a watchman has been keeping close surveillance over the cotton from which fire has since broken out several times; but has been promptly quenched.

It is stated the loss was fully insured.

A $3,000,000 paper pulp mill is now under construction at Houston, and may soon be enlarged to twice its proposed size to handle the vast market opening for its services.

A. & M. SPECIALISTS URGE GROWING OF ONE VARIETY OF COTTON FOR EACH COMMUNITY; BETTER PRICES OBTAINED

"The quality of Texas cotton has declined steadily for the past 30 years," Roy Anders, one variety cotton specialist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, stated at a demonstration held in Muleshoe, Friday, Nov. 13. "Since Texas cotton is mostly export cotton this has resulted in a huge loss of foreign trade," Saunders explained. "The low grade and staple of Texas cotton forced the Texas farmer to compete with cheap labor in India and China." Following Mr. Saunders' talk, F. E. Lichte, Extension Service specialist, discussed the grades of cotton. The cotton produced on the plains of Texas is 70 per cent uncleanable, being ineligible to be listed on futures contracts due to the low grade and staple.

E. A. Miller, Extension Service agent, explained at the meeting that if cotton producers would select one variety in the community, they would not only benefit from an increased price received from the sale of the lint cotton; but would also have a source of pure seed at all mill prices. "The one variety community is not hard to organize," Miller said. "In some counties in Central Texas cotton producers over the entire county are growing one variety of cotton. Three states are producing only one variety, these being California, New Mexico and Arizona," Miller said.

Approximately 70 farmers attended the demonstration. J. B. Waide, county agent, stated that a considerable interest is being shown among cotton producers of Bailey county in one variety cotton production.

SUDAN ROBBER OF BANK IS NOW UNDER ARREST

J. L. Shackelford, Littlefield, Held In Seymour Jail on Charge

J. Oliver Shafford, 21-year old Littlefield youth, has been arrested under an alias in Howard county and held temporarily in the jail at Seymour, it being alleged he signed a confession admitting robbery of the First National Bank, Sudan, August 27.

It is reported officers were tipped of an attempted robbery of the bank at Hobbs, and authorities in that town were made which led to the arrest of the young man who is said to have been going under the name of "C. L. McDaniel," and who is also being charged with theft of an automobile at Hobbs, N. M.

Shackelford was seated in the Big Spring machine when arrested, said Hobbs authorities. Sheriff F. A. Loyd of Lamb county.

Sheriff Loyd, Sam W. Fort, police identification officer of Lubbock, and Dallas authorities, said Shackelford had in his possession $3 when arrested. The bank robbery brought a loss of $2,510. Officers said Shackelford had been in Albuquerque, El Paso, Muear, and Mexico City since leaving Hobbs the night Pryor's automobile was stolen.

After the Sudan bank robbery, Shackelford is said to have gone to Mexico and lost his foot in gambling. He had not been seen in the New Mexico section since.

It was on Sept. 23, 1932, that Shackelford, then professing to be only 17 years old, attempted burglary of Lubbock Drug store, then at 911 Broadway. W. R. Fickas, proprietor, fired on him, the bullet passing through both the young desperado's legs.

GIANTS AND BEDSTEADS

By JESS MITCHELL

The history of giants is considerably mixed with myth, yet there is plenty of reason to believe that in the ages past there existed people of enormous size. Occasionally now days we run across some one whose pituitary glands have been excessively active and they have reached an ordinary physical size. On the other hand, some have been reported as having attained enlarged physical proportions and later on discovered were quite normal.

William the Conqueror was said to have been of towering altitude, but several years later when his tomb was opened, his bones indicated he had been of ordinary physical size. Alexander the Great is said to have left helmets and body armor behind him among the people he conquered to give them the impression he was a man of super-proportions, when, in reality, he was of rather diminutive size. History tells us the Emperor Maximilian was over eight feet tall, while Pliny tells of two giants who topped nine feet of stature. The Bible tells of a giant whose bedstead was thirteen and a half feet long, so we guess its occupant must have been about eleven feet tall, nearly twice the average human size.

I learned a long time ago that the world in general is not only interested in folks themselves; but also in their surroundings. This particular Bible incident, giving detail description of a bedstead rather than of the one who slept in it, assisted in this opinion formulation. Even in this day and time we manifest much interest in folks' paraphernalia, their environment and associations. King Solomon and King Cyrus are both reputed to have slept on beds of gold, and Sardanapalus, more commonly known as Ashurbanipal, is said to have had 150 bedsteads of gold burned with him following his death.

King Og Amorite ruler of Bashan, slept on a bedstead of iron which was most folks do today; but it had to be thirteen and a half feet long to accommodate his monstrous corporeity. We don't know much about this ancient ruler other than the size of his bed. However, it is naturally supposed that his armor and his sword must have been in corresponding size to the bed on which he slept. The size of his arm as he strode across a battlefield must have been enormous.

Perhaps it is foolishness, yet I have thought considerably about why the world was given a better description of this particular bed than of the man who reposed upon it. I have thought it may be to teach us that one may be judged by the size of his surroundings, for it is a fact that one can tell a man not only by the company he keeps; but also by the looks he reads the pictures he admires, the places he visits and the things in which he takes an active part. Moral, intellectual, commercial, political giants, like pigmies of a similar kind, may be judged by their surroundings, associations and habits. King Og's stature was indicated by the quality of his bedstead, and the characteristics of many folks today, no matter their physical stature, is clearly manifest by their environment.

The same statement holds good in relation to towns, cities, nations. Show me the schools and libraries of any given town and I will tell you the intelligence of its citizens. Show me its galleries and conservatories and I will tell you the artistic advancement of its people. Show me its churches and I will tell you its moral and religious status. Show me its homes, lawns and streets and I will tell you of its civic pride.

However, folks can make their own bedsteads. Not everyone is born a carpenter or mechanic in a physical sense; but everyone is born with a sense of appreciation for the higher, nobler things of life, and through cultivation of these inherited talents may become giants intellectually, spiritually and otherwise, though still maintaining ordinary physical stature.

The subject of bedsteads in this connection, impresses me with the thought that even giants need rest. Perhaps the larger the man, the more rest required; that is frequently the case today. Small, nervously inclined people seem to get along with less slumber than do the folks of more colossal avoirdupois. How many of the world's giants of today break down under stress of labor performed. No president ever came out of the White House looking nearly so young as when he went in. Plenty of giants of usefulness in business, art, eloquence and politics break down before the normal quota of their years has been lived. Some have to take extended vacations, others journey across the ocean seeking change of climate, some call upon skilled physicians to relieve them of insomnia, restore their unsteady nerves and obviate apoplectic threats, when the thing they all need is a longer application of bedstead—in other words, rest. Every day the newspapers report the crash of some giant because of overwork.

Probably not many of us people of ordinary mental and moral stature will become giants of that kind, nevertheless, we have our lives to live, and our tasks, whatever they may be, are just as important to us and those dependent upon us, as though we were among the stalwart leaders of Rocky mountains and Alpine altitudes. We must perform our duties alms, accomplish our chosen purposes, we must all give due heed to the virtue of the bedstead.

Og, spelled backward, forms the word "Go," and in this age of skill, strife and competition one must go forward with strong determination. It is quite probable that as many giants were defeated in early days as were those of ordinary stature, and today when the average man is so often pitted against the above-average it requires more initiative, energy and determination to succeed. There are plenty of extraordinary oppositions to be met today, plenty of giant difficulties with which to contend; but whatever that task or duty may be, with sixteen hours of earnest, serious application, plus eight hours of bed and antidote to prepare one for the next day, it may invariably be accomplished.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

And he did that which was right in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father Uziah did, howbeit he entered not into the temple of the Lord And the people did yet corruptly. —I Chronicles 27:2

POLITICAL PARTIES (?)

¶ The landslide of the national election two weeks ago is indicative that Americans, for the most part, are done with party labels, the strong partisanship of Texas and some other states notwithstanding. Already folks everywhere are predicting the old Republican party is a thing of the past and that in the future the Democratic party par se will depend largely upon Roosevelt's success in handling the New Deal during his coming administration.

¶ Clearly, decision in the last election was more a matter of principles than of party, the great majority of voters massing together to continue the New Deal for another four years. Intellectuals may continue their arguing regarding constitution upholding; but the masses are in favor of the doctrines preached by the President, while state governors and other statesmen and politicians have also come to realize such ideas best serve their immediate state and individual purposes.

¶ At this early date, following the election, it is being freely predicted liberals of both the old parties will follow the footsteps of individual liberals, while all conservatives will herd together in the opposite direction. This probably means a future political alignment based on economic, commercial and industrial importance rather than on the abstractions of politics.

¶ Few people at this time concede much to a necessarily revamped Republican party in 1940; but rather express themselves as feeling the next contest will be between the Democrats and the Farmer-Labor parties. However, the Roosevelt psychology, which was undoubtedly the strong factor in producing the national landslide two weeks ago, is a vital consideration that no intelligent citizen is going to overlook. If the President successfully handles welfare for the masses during the coming four years, while he will probably not run for re-election, yet he will be in a position to name the Crown Prince.

TAKING CHANCES

¶ It seems to be second nature with all of us to take chances. The prediction this year is that 10,000 people will meet with accidental deaths and that about 9,500,000 will suffer from accidents that are not fatal. It will be only a few weeks now until Muleshoe folks will have an opportunity to see how nearly correct these figures are for the first of the year will bring out these deplorable facts.

¶ There has been a slight decrease in auto fatalities this year, it is reported, but this has been more than made up by accidents in the home, in the factory and on the farm. These accidents are expected to swell the total to at least 10,000 more than in 1935. Despite the long list of dead and injured, despite reiterated warnings and as a nation seem to prefer to live dangerously and to take chances. Life, apparently, is one of the cheapest things we possess; at least we don't seem to value it very highly. It is everyone's privilege, of course, to live as dangerously as he choose. As long as a man is risking his own life that is his business; but when an individual recklessly endangers the lives of others then it becomes the public's business. There is really no law against our taking chances if by so doing we make it possible for someone else to be killed or injured at the same time. The trouble is such laws are not enforced as they should be. Then there would be fewer of us taking chances.

SO YOU MAY READ

¶ Millions of Americans who sit in the comfort of their homes and read of the war in Spain probably never give a thought to the dangers that had to be faced by American newspapermen to get that news to the papers of this country.

¶ How many people around Muleshoe realize that up to the present time our American newspaper correspondents have been and have half-dozen seriously wounded in gathering news from the Spanish outbreak, and a little earlier the war news of Ethiopia? Prisons have claimed others, and broken health seems to be the rule rather than the exception.

¶ Newspaper readers seldom appreciate the danger that their fellowman faces in ferreting out the truth for them, and bringing to them the news of the world. They pay a few pennies for a newspaper, and often lay it down with more or less criticism, and that is unfair, when the actual cost of producing that paper is considered.

¶ The next time you sit down in your easy chair with your newspaper, give it the thought, at least, to the man who uncomplacingly faces death in the world's danger zones for you.

OLD FAKES AND NEW

¶ A few days ago we heard a Muleshoe citizen wondering what had become of the old-fashioned patent medicine man who used to stand up in the bed of a lively-stable buggy and in a burst of oratory that would shame a politician preach the merits of his corn and bunion remedy, or the one who used to carry around a minstrel troupe and between acts peddle his pain-killer—good for man and beast —through the crowd; yet we thought everyone knew the answer.

¶ He is still here, the same old fakir; but togged out in different dress. Want to hear him again? Want to bask in the musical echoes of his voice as he enumerates the thousand and one cures his bottled goods will accomplish? Then tune in on almost any station on your radio tonight. You'll find the old patent medicine man is right there, and still carrying a medicine show and with as many claims as he used to make. Maybe after all, we haven't come so very far in the past fifty years.

ALWAYS A FAD

¶ If there ever was a nation that went crazy over fads, we're living in it. We have fads in auto fads, fads in foods, fads in medicines, fads in dress and games and books and picture shows; but Muleshoe citizens who pause to study the subject will not condemn them. Some of the best things we have today actually sprang from fads. Many a man, following a fad, has developed from its utilities that has made them rich and the general public more comfortable. To enumerate even a few of them would require considerable space; but they can easily be recalled by anyone who wants to spend a few minutes considering the subject. So it possibly isn't the correct thing to condemn fads, or to assert that "it's only a fad and it will soon pass away." They said that about the auto, the radio, the movies—and now look! What would life be, after all, if we hadn't clung to a lot of things we first looked upon as fads?

TOYS FOR SANTA

¶ It is interesting to note that at the New York Toy show held recently, there was an absence of toy soldiers and toy sailors. Makers of toys say they are "out" that the child of today wants toys representing our "G-men," or bandit chasers, and that is the type of toys they are turning out this season.

¶ Maybe it's a fine thing. By bringing the G-men up into the front ranks of their wares they give tangible proof of the success of J. Edgar Hoover in dramatizing his war on gangsters and kidnapers.

¶ They would not fashion G-men out of wood or metal if youngsters did not want such toys. The turning of young minds to emulating the men who prevent crime or bring about its punishment, constitutes a major achievement in the direction of better citizenship.

¶ Something new is always happening! Last Sunday Pedro Haro, sentenced to life imprisonment as a habitual criminal, was married in the county jail at Austin, the bride and her mother leaving immediately after the ceremony. We have known of plenty of women, probably a few in Muleshoe, who were given life sentences in the home jail following their marriages, while the husband left immediately to dig a little deeper for the bacon.

¶ Texas law requires that partners to any given corporation or company formed must be publicly named, and to our surprise we say that law considered in the County Wide News of Littlefield when such fact was given due legal publication if such requirements were ever met in a single instance in Bailey county we never heard of it, yet such formed companies are law violators, and we can think of several instances wherein they might become considerably embarrassed because of it.

¶ Receipts from the new parking meters installed in Lubbock last week for the first four days brought returns of $220.70. Just how much of that total was contributed to Lubbock welfare by surrounding town patrons is not divulged. However, several Muleshoe citizens have already declared they will no longer patronize any town that makes them pay for it, and that regardless of any alleged savings that may be involved. Apparently it is the principal of the thing that sticks in their gizzards.

¶ Now that the mayor of this munificent municipality has imported a carload of a prominent make of tractors, why not suggest to the City Commissioner his using two or three of them in regrading the entire street system of Muleshoe, cutting highways through the park and then putting them to work on the North and South highway. Something like this may have to be done if this particular road ever gets completed. The Mayor works for nothing, so why not let his contractors. Incidentally it would be a fine demonstration of their merits. Selah!

Jaunty Journalettes

¶ Muleshoe motorists can always count on this consolation—the rougher the road the fewer the billboards.

¶ Middle-age is that period in life when a Muleshoe man's idea of getting ahead is that of staying even.

¶ Plenty" is the amount that would satisfy most Muleshoe women unless their neighbors had more.

¶ They say there's one law for the poor and one for the rich. That leaves about 2,000,000 for us folks in Muleshoe.

¶ The best time in the world for a Muleshoe man to be tongue-tied is when his temper kicks over the traces.

¶ It's been our observation that the Muleshoe man who loves himself is loved least by others.

¶ Most Muleshoe men don't tell their neighbors about their friends' sins. They just tell their wives and let them pass it along.

¶ Another trouble with some folks around Muleshoe is they think they are "hard boiled" when they're only "hair baked."

¶ Seems like there are two Muleshoe beings in and around Muleshoe.

who want to be like others and those who want to be better.

¶ They say there are at least four billion birds in America, and we sometimes wonder if that includes the birds who, when a little northern winter, Muleshoe are always asking "if it's cold enough to suit you?"

SNAP SHOTS

¶ Anyone who wishes to avoid being hated should never treat people so well they can't keep it up.

¶ Religion ought to be like a steering wheel; but too many fellows use it like a spare tire—only in emergencies.

¶ The e's nothing new in this world. Rottenness just used to be called sin instead of freedom.

¶ Anyone who wants to get along better with their neighbors might try forgiving them for what they are as well as for what they do.

¶ It is frequently said that retired people are the ones easily victimized, yet we often wonder how they get enough money to retire.

Pavement Pickups

¶ J. T. Gilbreath, reading where a negro upon advice of a preacher returned after 23 years to pay a grocery bill of $47.70, suggested the business men of Muleshoe ought to get together and have that preacher come here and hold a meeting.

¶ Sino Head says the two things that do most people's minds to a preacher returned situation are machines and the stork.

¶ "A fan belt," says W. B. McAdams, "is that little strip of rubberized webbing you find is not working after you've spent $9.80 to have the water pump fixed."

¶ George Harris says autos are pretty cheap after all. A war that would kill most of people like they do would cost ten billion dollars.

¶ "Hell," says I. W. Haney, "is a place lots of people go to when they marry and never learn to say 'ours' or 'let us.'"

¶ Jeff White says no more has any desire to die a multi-millionaire, because if he did the government would get 70 per cent of it as income taxes, thus reducing his large family of children of his just rights.

¶ R. L. Brown attended the Centennial in Dallas last week, where he says he saw a famous magician; but he declares her fan was quicker than his eye. He saw Sally Rand at Chicago two years ago and she was just as expert then in the manipulation of her fan as she was at Dallas.

¶ Now it's Pa Judd, Uncle Schmittee, Aunt Faye and Grandpa Walter. Congratulations to the young druggist and all his living ancestors from us Yed.

The Stylist Says

Most authorities agree that at least three colors should enter into the Autumn costume; but if you want to strike a happy medium and have a casual costume that will be the talk of the town, get one of those new tri-colored suits. It will consist of a trim jacket of one shade, a skirt of another and a blouse of a third color. Grape, blue, rose and wine make up one happy trio, while green, brown and yellow make up another equally smart.

To avoid that "empty feeling," you should partake liberally of lettuce, tomatoes, spinach, cabbage, asparagus and other low calorie foods. It is also a good idea to take a cup of tea between meals if you feel the need of something to relieve hunger pains.

Social Security Tax Blanks Sent, Must Be Properly Executed

Taking of applications for participation in the Federal Social Security tax began at the local post office in Muleshoe last Monday, according to Postmaster A. J. Gardner. The application blanks include applications and statement from both employer and employees.

Exemption from such tax payments is listed as follows:

Those who are engaged in self-employment and fully filled out by both industry subject to the Carriers Taxing act; agricultural labor; domestic service in private home; casual labor not in course of employer's trade or business; any government or official state service; service performed in behalf of charity, religion, scientific, literary, education, etc. wherein no profit from such accrues.

The law provides all blanks must be properly and fully filled out by both employers and employees as of Nov. 16, this year and promptly returned to the local post office.

The Federal old-age benefits system provides for retirement payments from the Federal Government to qualified persons, beginning at the age of 65. It was established by the Social Security Act and goes into effect on January 1, 1937. Its purpose is to bring to those persons employed in the broad fields of commerce and industry increased assurance of an independent old age. The system is administered by the Social Security Board, Washington, D. C.

Benefits are based on the wage record of the individual and are of three types: (1) Monthly benefits at $5; (2) ump-sum payments, and (3) death benefits.

These benefits are based on total wages for work done in this country after December 31, 1936, and before a worker becomes 65 years of age. This includes every kind of work for an employer, with few exceptions. Wages of not more than $2,000 a year to an individual from any one employer will be added together to make up the total wages of that individual. Every time the word "wages" is used below it means wages as explained in this paragraph and not wages generally.

Monthly benefits will range from $10 to $85 a month and will begin to be paid on January 1, 1942. To qualify for this type of benefit an individual must be 65 years old, his total wages must be $2,000 or more, and he must have earned wages for at least 1 day in each of 5 different calendar years.

Lump-sum payments will be made to individuals who reach the age of 65 but do not qualify for monthly benefits. The amount paid them will equal 3/4 percent of their total wages.

In order that old-age benefits can be paid by the United States Treasury it is the responsibility of the Social Security Board to determine the total wages of those individuals who will be entitled to receive benefits. Accordingly the Board must keep an account of the individual's wages. Employers will be informed in due course as to the wage reports which will be required for this purpose.

BAILEY CO. HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB NEWS

By MISS ALMA STEWART
Home Demonstration Agent
Bailey County

Sub-Irrigation vs. Surface Irrigation

"I find quite a difference in a surface irrigated and a sub-irrigated one," said Mrs. A. A. Alexander, cooperator of Enochs home demonstration club.

"I planted Marglobe and Magee tomatoes on both sub-irrigated and surface-irrigated land and the surface irrigated one's dried up. From 216 feet of sub-irrigated tomatoes I gathered enough to can 49 quarts, sell 100 pounds and use all the fresh ones that we wanted," added Mrs. Alexander. She says they like sub-irrigation so much they plan to make enough to tile the rest of the garden. They made 486 feet this year. She says the quality of the products raised on sub-irrigated land is so much better; that it takes 1-3 as much water as the surface-irrigation and much less work.

Recreation School at Watson

"Representatives from six communities attended the recreation school held at the Watson school building Tuesday evening November 10. The school was held under the direction of Mrs. M. A. Snider, chairman of Bailey County Recreation committee and Miss Alma Stewart, home demonstration agent. Songs were led by Helen Brinker, of Watson.

Those present were: Mesdames Lonnie Arnold, J. B. Hutson and T. A. Peel of Baileyboro; W. L. Blaylock and G. N. Manning of Maple; Roy Layfield, Homer Green, H. H. Snow, Guy Berry, Zed Robinson and Roy Helson, of Enochs; A. E. Cook of Watson; M. A. Snider and B. B. Dickinson of West Camp; W. L. Blaylock and G. N. Manning of Maple; Harold and Glyn Brinker of Watson; T. A. Peel and J. B. Hutson of Baileyboro; Fred Elliott of Muleshoe; Misses Helen Brinker of Watson and Helen Arnold of Baileyboro.

Advantages of Sub-Irrigation

"I planted some of my greens on sub-irrigated and the rest on surface-irrigated soil so as to compare them. When they were ready to pick I found I gathered twice as many on the sub-irrigated soil; that they grew faster and were a much better quality," said Mrs. Roy Sheriff, farm food supply demonstrator of West Camp home demonstration club.

Plants New Zealand Spinach

"I planted New Zealand spinach and we surely do like it," said Grace Churchill, farm food supply demonstrator of the Muleshoe 4-H club. She has more than filled her budget, for she has canned 95 containers of leafy green and yellow vegetables. She says this variety of spinach produces well in this climate.

How I Can Peas

When asked how she canned the peas she said that she first planted at the Bailey County fair, Mrs. Guy Berry, cooperator of the Enochs home demonstration club, said, "The secret of canning any product is to select quality products, for we can't expect to take a quality product from a jar unless we put quality in it. I select young tender peas, 1-4 snaps and 3-shells) shell, sort, and grade as quickly as possible. I add hot water and heat them 10 minutes, fill the container within 1-2 inch of top, add 1 teaspoonful of salt to the pint. Process No. 2 C enamel cans or pint jars at 12 pounds pressure for 50 minutes; quart jars or No. 3 C enamel cans 55 minutes."

4-H Club G-I-I Sub-Irrigates

"I have 50 feet of tile in my garden," said Hazel Weaver, cooperator of the Bula 4-H club. She says they like the sub-irrigation because it takes less water, produces more vegetables, a better quality of products and takes less work.

Hazel is 13 years old and has canned 218 quarts and has made 32 garments this year. She says she has really enjoyed 4-H club work and plans to do more next year.

HANEY-POOL

Miss Opal Jean Haney of Muleshoe and Archie Pool, of Hereford, were united in marriage Thursday evening of last week at 6:30 o'clock at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. B. Pierson, with Rev. R. S. Watkins reading the ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Haney, Muleshoe. She wore an attractive blue transparent velvet dress and the groom was dressed in a conventional black business suit.

Mrs. Claudie Gallman was at the piano and played the wedding march, "Here Comes the Bride," and the bride's sister, Mrs. David Anderson, sang "I Love You Truly."

Those present at the wedding ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. David Anderson, of Earth, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Weyer, Mr. and Mrs. Claudie Gallman, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Pierson, Billy and June Pierson, Miss Lola Lipscomb, Mrs. Pool, of Clarendon, mother of the groom, Mrs. R. S. Watkins and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Haney.

A beautifully decorated wedding cake and coffee were served after which the newly married couple left for Dallas to attend the Centennial exposition and visit at other East Texas points.

They will be in Muleshoe the latter part of this week where they will make their home for the present.

Tayra Resembles Weasel

The tayra is a native of Brazil. Like his smaller relatives in the United States, he is a tireless and bloodthirsty hunter, trailing his quarry by scent and following into dens and crevices which would thwart a bulkier animal. The tayra at times runs in large bands. The tayra's stream-lined body resembles that of the common weasel.

WHEN you hang a soft, lace net curtain, in one of the smart new designs, over Venetian blinds, you'll have windows with all the best of both worlds. Blinds alone are rather severe for the average room. Some kind of lace net curtains, in designs which look like row-upon-row of insertion and have a definitely horizontal feeling, tie in very nicely with the horizontal lines of the blinds, as do many other of the lace net patterns. They'll give you windows that needed completely-dressed appearance where Venetian blinds are used.

... that smell means Wasted Miles and Money

AN DISTRESSED DAMSEL:
Perhaps you wonder why the poor motorist is using such a "rich" mixture. Lady, the reason is that the tank contains ordinary low test gasoline. That's why the driver had so much trouble in starting, and why it is taking so long for his motor to warm-up. With all his yanking on the choke, the engine is still missing and sputtering. He isn't enjoying it a bit more than you are... and in addition, it is costing him real money because with the choke out he is using up gasoline 5 to 15 times faster than normal! Besides, he is thus diluting the oil in the crankcase, which is one of the chief causes of winter damage to motors.

... How can he correct the trouble? Easily. All he has to do is use Phillips 66 Poly Gas and use less choke. It is made by the WORLD'S LARGEST PRODUCER of natural high test gasoline. This explains its extra high test and the pleasant fact that it costs nothing extra. It starts cold motors with split-second speed. Warms them up fast. Delivers maximum power with minimum fuel. And obviously, it increases mileage per gallon by decreasing the need for wasteful choking. Since Phillips 66 Poly Gas costs no more than ordinary gasolines, how can you possibly lose by trying a tankful!

SPINACH GROWS IN POPULARITY Public Show Appreciation of Valuable Vegetable.

By EDITH M. BARBEE ARE women more careful about the selection of food and the best combinations of materials than they used to be?

These two concrete examples seem to indicate that the meals in the homes of the children are for the most part well chosen.

Spinach is selling at a reasonable price. It must be carefully washed in several waters before it is cooked.

Many persons prefer to steam spinach. In this method of cooking they feel that less of the mineral salts is lost.

The spinach may be chopped before it is dressed. It can then be treated as unchopped spinach, or mixed with a cream sauce.

Left-over spinach can be marinated and placed in a mould. This is served as a salad either with hard cooked eggs, or with other vegetables.

1,000 TURKEYS TO BE IN SHOW AT PLAINVIEW

D. H. Griffin, N. West Turkey Ass'n Mgr. Will Do Judging.

Designed to include one of the finest arrays of turkey flesh ever shown in the southwest, the third annual Southwestern Dressed Turkey show is scheduled to be held at Plainview.

Prize birds for demonstration flocks produced according to approved methods, specimens from flocks of more than a thousand birds as well as top grades from many farm flocks, are to be included in the exhibit.

Added features of the show this year will be a live turkey exhibit designed to encourage improvement of breeding stock and a series of booths arranged to visualize production of a turkey from the egg to the butcher's block.

The live bird exhibit will include specimens with as nearly perfect characteristics as can be obtained in this section. Representatives of Texas as A. & M. college who have watched closely the development of turkey flocks in this region declare that nowhere have they viewed more perfect turkeys as are being produced on the Plains.

The sale held regularly in connection with the show is set to start at 1:30 Thursday afternoon, second day of the show. No bird that will not grade U. S. prime or better will be offered to sale. Plainview business men are to provide premiums for winning exhibits.

D. H. Griffin, Salt Lake City, Utah, district manager for the Northwestern Turkey Growers association, is to be judge of the show which is to open officially at 10:00 a. m., Wednesday.

The term Alsace-Lorraine came into use after the peace of Frankfurt in May, 1871. It was used to describe the country formed by Bismarck out of the whole of Alsace and part of Lorraine, both provinces having been annexed from France.

These two countries had had a separate existence since the Fifth century, when after 450 years of Roman domination and civilization, they were invaded by the Germans.

Historic Hill Marked The ancient Gallows Hill by Inveraray Castle, Scotland, where the dukes once administered summary justice, is marked by a mound with a tree on it on a small golf course.

Gold Element in Itself Gold is an element in itself and does not contain any others. For most purposes, it is alloyed with other metals. Pure gold is worth the same, no matter what its source.

Sea Horse is a Fish The sea horse is a fish, but a very strange kind of fish. It spends almost all the time in an upright position, with its head up and its tail down. With the tail it can do something which the common fish can't do. It can cling to a weed. A sea horse swims while in upright position. A fin on the back is moved to give forward motion, and this fin has been compared to a propeller. It does not look or turn just like a propeller, but it gives about the same result. An air sac, or "swim bladder," helps the sea horse keep in balance. Most of the time, however, the fish holds tightly to a seaweed, wrapping its tail around in spiral fashion.
