

Third District Win Garnered by Broncos

By Gary McGilvray
The Sonora Broncos came from behind last Friday night in Sanderson to defeat the Sanderson Eagles by a score of 20 to 12 for their third victory in district football play.

as Sanderson intercepted a pass, and charged back down the field 85 yards for a touchdown. The extra-point try failed.
The Eagles scored again early in the second quarter and again failed to tally the extra point.
Sonora's only touchdown in the first half was set up by a 51-yard pass and run play from quarterback Bill Elliott to Bill Glascock. John David Fields scored from the two-yard line. The conversion attempt was missed, and the scoreboard showed 12 to 6 in favor of Sanderson at half time.
The Broncos came back after the half-time pep talk ready to play football. They stopped Sanderson on the first series of downs. Then, after an exchange of fumbles, Fields scored the Broncos' second touchdown. The extra-point attempt was made good by Elliott, who faked a kick and ran over the goal line for two points.
The Broncos continued to dominate the second half by allowing the Eagles to push no further than their own 46-yard line.
Sonora's final score came on a four-yard plunge by Jerry Shurley. The extra-point try was blocked.

A RIDE ON THE FIRE TRUCKS last week was a thrilling experience for L. W. Elliott third graders studying fire prevention during Fire Prevention Week. The children, who are students of Mrs. Bill McGilvray and Mrs. Reggie Trainer, are wearing fire hats which they made. They also made posters and learned songs and how to report a fire. The First National Bank gave them coloring books containing fire prevention rules. John

A. Martin, fire marshal, showed them causes of fires and demonstrated items that will burn in the home, and Leon Neely urged the children to tell their parents to clean stoves before lighting them this winter. Lee Patrick, fire chief, and other firemen then took the children for a ride on the trucks and treated them to ice cream. —Devil's River News Photo

CINDERS

By John T. King

Evidently there have been some beautiful fruit harvests this fall. Mrs. Zola Bode has gotten some delicious October peaches that are almost as large as grapefruits.

And Cleve Jones came by the other day with a basket full of fine-looking apples. He says the trees came up from seeds his grandchildren buried in their sand pile some years ago.

And a neighbor, Bobbie Smith, passes on this bit of information:

Women are like newspapers; they have forms; they always have the last word.

Back numbers are not in demand; they are well worth looking over; they have a great deal of influence.

You cannot believe everything they say. They carry the news wherever they go.

Every man should have one of his own, and not borrow his neighbor's.

Funeral Rites Held For Dan W. Coker, Accident Victim

Funeral services for Dan Wayne Coker, brother of Roy Coker, were held Wednesday in Socorro, New Mexico, with burial in Albuquerque.

Mr. Coker died Saturday afternoon after a fall from a tractor he was driving on the Cleve Jones ranch. A feed crimper pulled by the tractor ran over him. Alfred Cooper, justice of the peace, said that Mr. Coker may have lost consciousness or had a heart attack, causing the fall.

Born September 9, 1919, in Magdalena, New Mexico, he was reared and spent most of his life in the vicinity of Socorro.

Mr. Coker had worked in the Sutton County area previously and returned here to work last February.

He was a veteran of World War II.

Other survivors include his mother, Mrs. T. R. Coker of Socorro; two sons, Roy and Terry Coker; a sister, Mrs. Curt Zook of San Saba; and two other brothers, Harvey and Lee Coker of New Mexico.

County Property Valuations Increase

Property valuations in Sutton County for state, county, and school taxes have all shown an increase in 1964 over 1963.

Mrs. Zilpha Wheelis, deputy in the office of the tax assessor-collector, reports that state property valuations rose from 7,788,875 in 1963 to 7,906,520, making a total increase of 117,645. The amount will increase state tax revenues by $494.11.

Commission Hears Request for Aid In Road Upkeep

A request from the Caverns of Sonora, Inc., was presented Monday to the County Commissioners, asking for the County's help in maintaining the one-mile Caverns road.

The request by the Caverns corporation stated in part, "The Caverns is the only tourist attraction in Sutton County and brings more money in to the merchants from outside the county than any other single factor. Statistics show that an over-night tourist spends an average of $11 per person in the town for each $1 spent at the tourist attraction itself.

"We come before you asking for assistance with our road. As you know, this road was built with private funds as were many pipeline station and ranch roads originally. We simply ask that Sutton County assist us as they do other businesses and private individuals by helping us put and keep this road in a safe and passable condition for a major source of income to Sutton County taxpayers."

Representing the corporation were Stanley Mayfield, president, Stanton Bundy, R. S. Teaff and H. V. Stokes.

Also appearing on behalf of the request were Art Dotson, Jack Neill, and George (Bud) Smith.

Commissioners took no action on the request at the meeting Monday. Two commissioners were not present.

In other business, Mrs. Lucille Hutcherson, county treasurer, reported on her trip to the County Treasurers Convention in Corpus Christi. She was accompanied by Mrs. Zena Mayfield on the trip.

Stokes Named Head Of Goldwater Unit

A Texans for Goldwater organization has been set up in Sutton county to coordinate activities of independent voters in behalf of the presidential campaign of the Republican nominee.

M. M. Stokes will serve as local chairman under the direction of Hardy Hollers, Austin, and Wm. Robert Smith, San Antonio, co-chairman of the volunteer organization.

Berger Exhibits Champ Ram

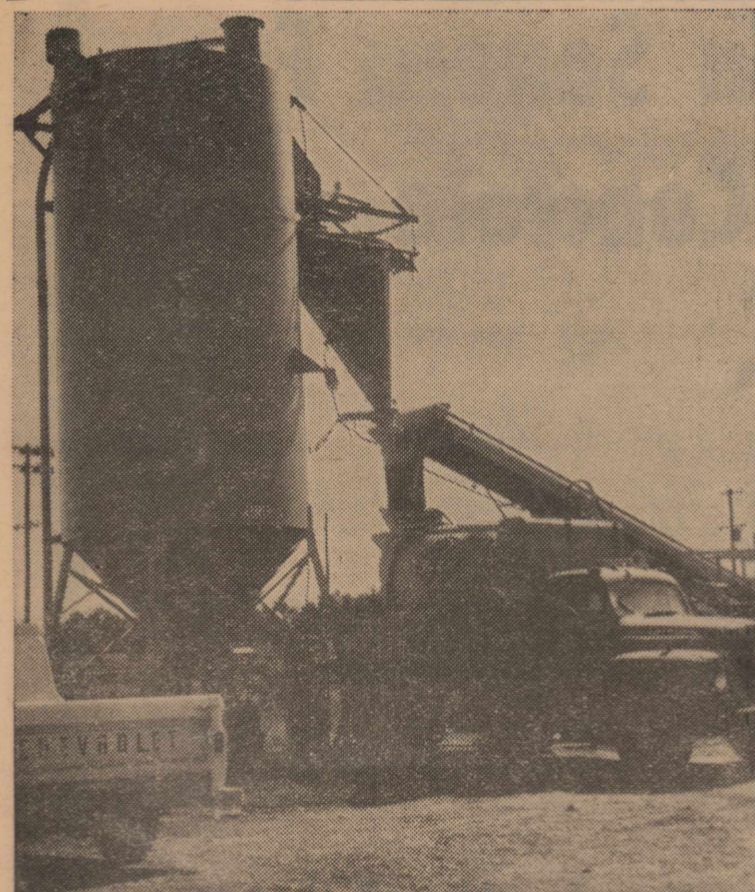

Chris Berger exhibited the champion ram and reserve champion ewe in the junior Delaine-Merino sheep division of the Pan-American Livestock Exposition.

The show was held Saturday, October 10, as a part of the State Fair in Dallas.

In addition to his championship exhibits, Chris's sheep also received the following places in the exposition:

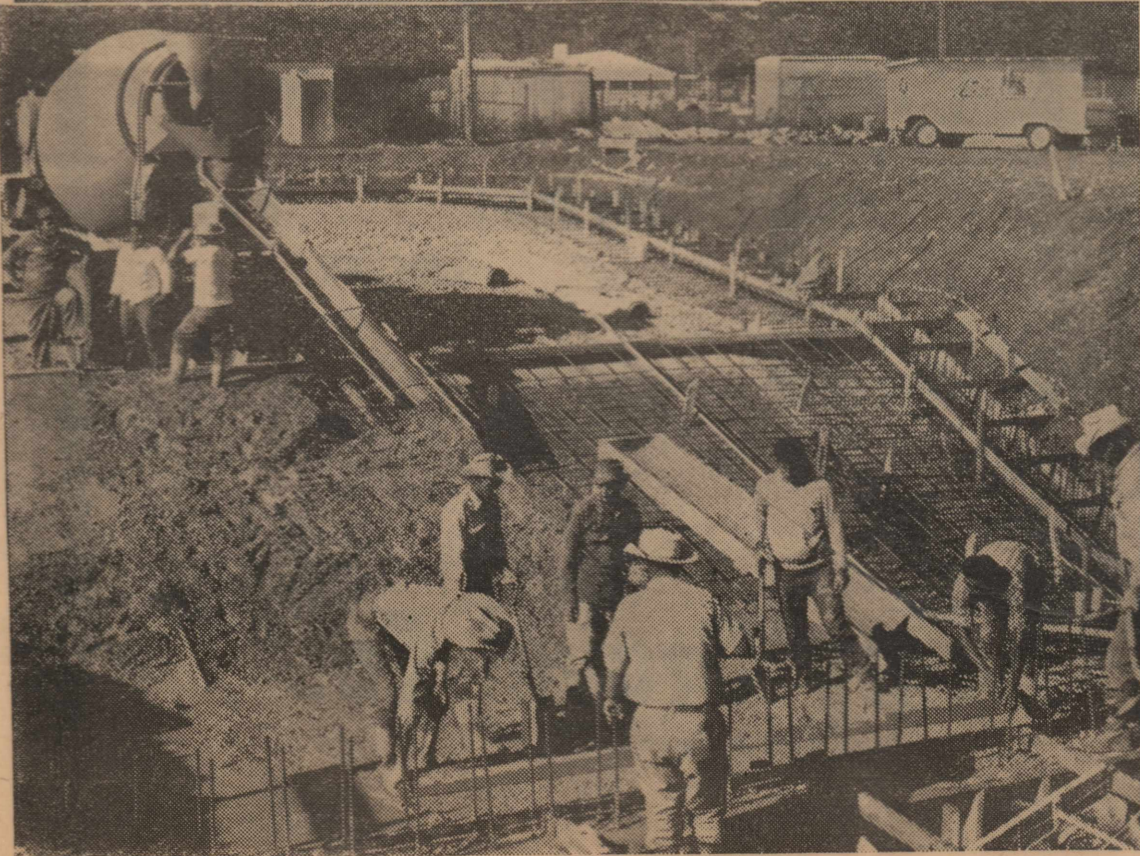

Ram lamb—1 and 3; pen of three lambs—1; ewe lamb—2 and 3; pen of three ewe lambs—1; and lamb flock, three ewes and one ram owned by the exhibitor—1.

A sophomore at Sonora High School, Chris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Berger. He is a member of the Sutton County 4-H Club.

New Plant Starts Cement Operation

HAYS COUNTY GRAVEL CO. got a chance to try out its new ready-mix plant recently by furnishing concrete for the new Sonora swimming pool now under construction. Roy Evans, plant manager, said that the company would operate within a 30-mile radius of Sonora, but this first job was hardly a block away. Below, workmen smooth out the first loads of concrete into the pool.

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK

National Newspaper Week is to be observed during the October 11-17 period. And when, over those days, editors risk the appearance of immodesty by blowing their own horns, they have a right and an obligation to do just that. The local newspaper provides a service that is unique, irreplaceable, and a fundamental part of our national life. Its pages tell an endless story of the events, great and small, that influence and determine the destinies of each of us. There is good news and bad—but, whatever its character, it is part of the scheme of things. Only the newspaper can adequately record it—and keep it as history in the ever-growing files of past issues. Beyond this, there is no freedom more vital than that freedom of the press. A good newspaper is, in a sense, a watchdog of the public. It stands for integrity and fair dealing in public and private affairs. Newspapers, on innumerable occasions have unearthed and revealed violations of trust that would otherwise have remained forever buried. And newspapers have successfully fought for every conceivable kind of reform, often against disheartening odds, that the public interest demands. No other nation has a press quite like ours, ranging as it does from great metropolitan dailies down to the smallest of the country weeklies. Every one of our thousands of papers, each working in its own special way, is a vital part of the great edifice of freedom on which this country rests.

Col. Hagan Retires From Military Service

Col. John F. Hagan recently retired after 23 years in the U.S. Army. He is entering business in El Paso.

Colonel Hagan had served as Transportation Officer and Base Executive Officer at Sandia Base, Albuquerque, New Mexico, from November, 1960, to September, 1964.

In a review ceremony he was presented a certificate of achievement citing his outstanding performance of duty while at Sandia Base. The certificate states, "Colonel Hagan's professional competence, initiative, and inspiring leadership resulted in uniformly high standards of performance... His exceptional performance of duty reflects great credit upon himself, the Defense Atomic Support Agency, and the United States Army."

He came to Sandia Base from Washington, D. C., where he was Transportation and Traffic Officer.

Colonel Hagan is a former president of the National Defense Transportation Association, and is also a former director of the Albuquerque Transportation Club.

During his military career, he has served in Africa, Italy, France, Korea, and Japan.

He is married to the former Katha Lea Keene, daughter of Mrs. Stella Keene. The Hagans have a 10-year-old daughter, Candace Lea.

Financial Statements Worrying Philosopher

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his Bitterweed ranch on Devil's River tackles the presidential candidates' financial statement problem in his letter this week.

Dear editor: As I understand it, it's not a Constitutional requirement, it's just a new fad, but Presidential candidates and their running mates are now publishing financial statements and we have now heard from all of them, none of whom is living in what you'd call a poverty pocket.

What I'm wondering is if the thing will spread and voters will be expected to publish their financial statements before voting?

If so, there's one point I'd like to get over. I noticed that there is considerable argument over the kinds of financial statements the Presidential and vice presidential candidates have published. Some are using figures based on what their holdings cost, others on what they could be sold for now.

This has brought on an argument, with one side arguing what something costs is no basis for determining what it's worth now. "That's no way to reflect your financial standing," they argue. "Publish the true current figures."

Well, now, technically I guess maybe they're right, but let's not go overboard about it. There are times when a cost basis is better than a sales basis.

For example, take my 1948 model pickup. It'd show a lot better on a financial statement at its cost when new 16 years ago than its' current market value, which I estimate is around $135, if I could get all four tires to stay up long enough at the same time to get it to town for an appraisal. The same is true of my two shares of General Livery Stable stock, or the rubber-tired buggy I've had in a shed out here all these years, holding it against the day when man finally pumps all the gas-line out of the ground.

The current market value, you see, is not always the best basis for making a financial statement, but on the other hand, lots of times it can be fine for tax assessing purposes. A man who doesn't know whether he's making out a financial statement to the bank or a tax report to the tax assessor, he's in bad shape to start with. I'm not saying this is the way it ought to be, only the way it is.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

YOUR MINISTER SAYS

By the Rev. Arno Melz, Pastor, Hope Lutheran Church

"Wives, be subject to your husband, as is fitting in the Lord. Husbands, love your wives, and do not be harsh with them. Children, obey your parents in everything, for this is well pleasing to the Lord. Fathers, do not provoke your children, lest they become discouraged." Colossians 3: 18-21 R.S.V.

Who is the boss in your family? This used to be a joke between husband and wife. Today there is little doubt, for the child is slowly becoming the boss of the family. This has not been a violent overthrow of parental authority. It probably began when the child was quite small.

The change in authority was so gradual the parents may not have been fully aware of it until their child became a teenager.

The blame can not be placed on the child, for somewhere along the line there has been a breakdown of family life. Families no longer have time to spend evenings together. Often father or mother is not available when the child needs help or discipline. Some homes are not happy because husband and wife are quarreling constantly, and drive the children out of the home to seek the love and understanding they need.

If this decay of home life is allowed to continue unchecked, our country will have a complete moral breakdown. There is only one cause for this trouble, and there is only one cure. The problem is parents who do not take their God-given responsibilities seriously. Paul gives a beautiful description of a Christian home: where wife submits to her husband, the husband loves his wife, the children obey their parents, and parents are concerned with the welfare of their children.

We need to return to this God-given home life. When we follow God's plan, our homes will have peace and harmony. We will also have peace of mind because we will be living a God-pleasing life. If your home life is unsatisfactory, rebuild it today on Christian principles and you will find great joy and happiness. Amen.

MAKE CHURCH-GOING A HABIT

WATCH FOR THE SIGNS

Mike was lucky! He lost his way completely along the thickly-wooded roads during his vacation last summer until suddenly he came upon a small service station. The friendly attendant told him he was only a short distance from the lake. "Just watch for the signs," the man said.

It's easy to get lost . . . it could happen to anyone. At times, our lives get so confused that we don't know which way to turn, and we feel that nobody cares. When that happens, just watch for the signs.

What signs? Well, there's the fragrant beauty of a rose, the laugh of a child, the glory of sunrise, the sound of great music . . . signs all around that point to the constant presence of God who loves us.

The Christian Church is the most important sign of all . . . created solely to reveal a new and meaningful way of life to all who seek it.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and read your Bible daily.

lary and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Restaurants, Other Service Businesses Must Adjust to Meet Competition

By S. S. Talbert, Ph.D.
Dept. of Journalism
University of Mississippi

Service firms more than any other type of business must adjust advertising to meet changing conditions.

The reason is simple. The leisure-time needs of the public are changing faster than other needs.

Two long-established restaurants recently sought the help of a marketing specialist to determine why their trade was falling. Since the city was a small one, the owners knew their old customers were not suffering financially or that they had not taken a sudden fancy to cooking and dishwashing. They asked if the restaurant business in the town was doomed.

Some revealing facts were uncovered by the expert. Within two years, eight new competing restaurants had been started in the town. Each new business was advertising specific features related to the price of meals, location, decor, menu, or service. Several of the new places were doing a better business than the older restaurants had ever done. In truth, the tastes of the public had changed in a very short time. Increased travel had resulted in a demand for a greater variety of foods, more elegance, and more attractive dining spaces.

The eating-out public, actually much larger than ever, deserted the older places when advertising indicated that new cafes in town could provide the satisfactions which had become commonplace on vacations and business trips.

In the face of such evidence, the firms took effective action. The action consisted of making changes to meet the new competition. But no less important, it consisted of aggressive local newspaper advertising which informed the public how they had updated services to meet demand.

Texas Prison Rodeo Known As Meanest In United States

During each Sunday in October the best inmate riders of the Texas Department of Correction will compete in what is known as the meanest rodeo in the nation. Though the inmates are not professional rodeo performers, some of them turn in near-professional rides. But the thrills come from those contestants not so fortunate as to stay aboard their bucking horses and grating bulls; those trying desperately and spunkily to cling to their mounts at all costs.

Two prison rodeo events that have proved to be crowd pleasers are the calf tussle—40 men and 80 calves loose in the arena at the same time. In two-man teams, the cowboys will try to wrestle their calf across the finish line for top money—and the hard-money event—a tobacco sack with $50 inside is tied to a Brahma bull's horns. The object is for the cowboy to wrestle the money away from the very uncooperative bull.

For added attractions the rodeo officials have booked some of the greatest names traveling the professional rodeo circuit today. These include trick riders Ted and Betty Lamb, Maureen Moon, and Connie Griffith; such famous trick riding clowns as Billy Keen and Bill Garsee who have appeared at every major rodeo in the Southwest the past several years, plus the widely known Jacksonville Youth Quadrille.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE (BUD) SMITH look over their oak-wood coffee table designed in the shape of the state of Texas. Exhibited on a green felt cloth are over 100 arrowheads from Smith's collection of more than 1,000 Indian artifacts. The display is protected by a glass top.

Coffee Table in Shape of Texas Displays Arrowhead Collection

One of the most interesting pieces of furniture in this area is a coffee table custom made for Mr. and Mrs. George (Bud) Smith.

It is designed in the shape of the state of Texas, and it is built so that it displays over 100 arrowheads. Smith says that a San Antonio builder took over three months to complete the oak-wood table, which is now in the lobby of the Twin Oaks Motel.

The table, with removable legs and its own carrying case, is portable, and the glass top may be removed so that other items may be displayed in it. Smith believes that it would be an ideal display counter in exhibits at fairs.

Smith has more than 1,000 arrowheads which he has collected over the past seven years. He searches for them along the Pecos and Rio Grande rivers in overhangs, or small caves, which the Indians used as shelters.

"It's a lot of work," he says. "We take a shovelful of dirt, put it in a basket, take it outside the shelter, and sift it through a screen." Sometimes he digs down four or five feet without finding one arrowhead.

While working he wears a mask to protect his nose, since the fine dirt he is sifting is actually ashes from ancient Indian campfires.

Also in the lobby of the motel is a square coffee table displaying more than 200 arrowheads and other artifacts, including several small glass beads which Smith found near Christoval. He says traders gave the beads to Indians in exchange for hides.

Other artifacts are displayed on the wall in a framed board. Smith has several other display boards which are currently being exhibited at Central Elementary School.

While talking about his collection, Smith frequently mentions the difficult time the Indians had surviving in rugged West Texas. "They didn't even have any horses until the Spaniards came," he points out.

"They learned that they could use rattlesnake venom to poison the tips of their arrows. This helped them kill animals, and they knew they could eat these animals. It was a long time later that the white man learned that this wouldn't hurt him. But the Indians knew—they had to know."

Smith's collection includes tiny arrowheads less than an inch long which he believes may have been used in ceremonies or as a medium of trade. Many of them are artistically carved with bevelled, fluted edges.

Several of the larger hunting arrowheads have saw-toothed edges, which Smith says worked into the animal, helping to make the kill.

Another arrowhead displayed in the "Texas" coffee table has a slight twisted shape. "This one," Smith explains, "was used for shooting fish. The design helped it go straight in the water."

Another Indian implement included in the collection is an awl, which was used to punch holes in leather for moccasins and clothing. One end is rounded so that it can be held by the seamstress, and the other end is shaped like a pointed stick.

Two very rare artifacts in the collection are a corner-tang knife and an arrowhead with a broad, rounded point. Smith says that for many years the corner-tang knife was found only in Texas, and at one time only 800 were known to exist.

He believes that the bluntly shaped arrowhead was used in shooting small game. The arrow would not pierce the animal's flesh, but the blow would kill it. One arrow is still on the wooden shaft where an Indian tied it many years ago with sotol fiber. Smith explains that the shelters are very dry, helping to preserve the artifacts. He has often found woven matting used for beds as well as woven shoes.

Many of the stones are quite colorful, and Smith says the Indians seemed to enjoy the beauty of the rocks.

Some of the artifacts found in the shelters he has worked in have been dated by the Tarrant County Archeological Society as over a thousand years old.

Smith points out that there are many other people in this area interested in Indian artifacts including Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Spraggins, Monroe Turman, Horace Hill, Mrs. Lois Young, Sonny Barrow, and Mrs. Auther Simmons. Giles Hill of San Angelo, formerly of Sonora, has been Smith's partner on many arrowhead-hunting trips, and Smith says he learned much of the craft of searching for Indian artifacts from Hill.

"Anyone is welcome to come see the arrowheads and the new coffee table," Smith adds.

Mrs. Pat Cooper recently attended Parents Weekend activities at Texas Christian University, where her daughter, Betty Jack, is a student. Joining Mrs. Cooper and Betty Jack was Mary Adele Wilson, a student at Texas Technological College in Lubbock. The group also visited Mrs. E. A. Brodhead in Grand Prairie. Mrs. Brodhead was formerly a Sonora resident.

Governor Price Daniel, while Attorney General, wrote an opinion on the question of party loyalty in which he said, "The courts of Texas have answered this question by holding that the pledge taken at the time of voting in the primary election DOES NOT create a legal obligation."

Governor Daniel repeated that opinion by saying that the pledge on the primary ballot does not obligate anyone "legally or morally" to vote for the Democratic ticket in the general election.

The opening of the Olympic games in Tokyo last weekend adds interest to the following facts about early Olympiads compiled by Jesse A. Pardue of the American Athletic Union: Today's young Olympic supermen would undoubtedly beat the socks off the Greek athletes who competed in the first Olympics in Athens around 3,000 years ago.

And, the odds are great that they would also make mincemeat out of the contenders in the first modern Olympic game which was launched in Athens in 1896. Especially such strong Texas hopefuls as Fred Hansen of Rice University, who has unofficially pole vaulted higher than anyone in three different competitive events (17 feet 4 inches); and Randy Matson of Texas A&M, who shows great promise with the shot put.

Better equipment, superior training, and more Wheaties undoubtedly give our modern contenders the edge. But it is also a continual striving to beat the "last" world's record. There is truth in the Olympic motto: "Citius, Altius, Fortius" (Swifter, Higher, Stronger). For instance, the 1896 pole vault record was 10 ft. 9-3/4". The 1960 record was 15 ft. 5-1/8".

But let us not look too far down our noses at the original Olympic athletes in those ancient games. Take for instance, the Olympic youth who after running a long distance race at a meet, immediately ran home 32 miles to tell his girl friend. And these early chaps were no slouches when it came to building stadiums, either. They had one that was every bit as big or bigger in area than any arenas built in modern times, seating 40,000 on grassy slopes.

But probably there will be more participants (7,000 from 90 nations) in the Tokyo Olympiad than there were spectators at most of the ancient meets. Tokyo expects a crowd of at least 1 1/2 million to view the 18th Modern Olympiad being held October 10-24. This event should provide more thrills, heroics and records broken than ever before.

There were other differences between modern and ancient Olympics. No women were allowed to participate, or even to watch, under the threat of being thrown off a nearby cliff. And possibly it's a good thing, too, since all of the young stalwarts performed in their birthday suits, as was the custom of the day.

Funeral Rites Held For James N. Kirby

Funeral services for James N. Kirby, father of Mrs. Ova Greenage, were held Saturday, October 10, at Millersview Baptist Church.

Mr. Kirby died Friday in St. John's Hospital in San Angelo after a long illness.

Born in Coryell County August 6, 1882, Mr. Kirby had lived in the San Angelo-Eden area most of his life and had been a stockfarmer. He was married to Alice Taylor October 21, 1900. He was a Baptist and a Mason.

Mexico Ranchers Hope To Take Part In Worm Program

Ranchers from Mexico, after touring the screwworm eradication headquarters early in August, expressed the hope that their country would soon be included in an expanded eradication program.

Indication that a cooperative program between the United States and Mexico is a strong possibility was evident from the announcement that the groundwork is being laid for a study of the economic and technical feasibility of eradicating screwworms from Mexico. This study would also supply valuable data on the severity of the screwworm problem in Mexico that would be necessary for conducting an eradication project.

The ranchers were visibly impressed with the operations of the facilities near Mission where more than 100 million screwworm flies are reared and sexually sterilized through exposure to gamma radiation each week. Dispersed by airplanes over screwworm-infested land areas, the flies mate with native, fertile flies and prevent production of offspring.

More than two-thirds of the flies are being released in northern Mexico to keep fertile flies from migrating into the United States and reinfesting areas freed from the pest. While this is chiefly a protective measure for the U. S. livestock industry, ranchers in northern Mexico report considerable reduction in their own screwworm problems.

And this contribution comes from Zilpha Wheelis:

This poem is dedicated to the memory of John F. Hamby who will be missed by the people of Sutton County for he gave us what money cannot buy—sunshine and a smile.

He came into this ole world like the rest of us it seems, But he had that extra something—a broad smile and a gleam!

He had a zest for living, a desire to see it all,

But always time for, "Howdy, and how you been, you all?" When he made a bargain with you he always strove to win, But when the deal was over he could always call you, Friend.

He loved to make you happy, tell a story, see you smile, That rare thing called humor—God had granted him awhile to share with others as he passed along our way.

What a booster for Sutton County, its livestock, land and folk,

A good horse race couldn't thrill him more, or being with an old cow poke.

When the roll is called up Yonder, and the gate is opened wide,

We will each one have our chance to step up, and look inside.

And there beside Saint Peter, in western garb, big hat and grin will stand John F. Hamby—"Howdy Pardner, Where you been?"

CANCER BOARD TO MEET

The Board of Directors of the Sutton County Unit of the American Cancer Society will meet Thursday, October 15, at 7 p.m. in the office of Dr. Charles Browne.

The leaders of the Mexican delegation, Dr. Oscar Valdes Ornelas, secretary of agriculture for livestock, and Octavio Ochoa y Ochoa, president of the Mexican National Livestock Confederation, enthusiastically endorsed the program and urged the governments of both countries to proceed with action that would lead to expansion of the campaign to include all of Mexico.

Workshop on History, Tourists Planned

The State's first workshop on History and Tourists will be conducted in Austin October 23-24 under the sponsorship of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee, according to John Ben Shepperd of Odessa, president.

The workshop is designed for the exchange of ideas and information on the development of historical and tourist resources in every Texas county and to give an understanding of state tourist and history activities, through forum-type discussions.

Featured discussions will include how to finance and plan historical and scenic tours, how to recognize and develop historical attractions, and how to plan and publish local and regional maps and tour guides.

Sixty-three per cent of highway funds are spent for construction among all the states; in Texas, 78 per cent goes for construction (five-year average 1958-63). The national average cost for highway maintenance is approximately 25 per cent, in Texas 15 per cent.
