

CINDERS

By John T. King

The turkey, which is always associated with Thanksgiving, is truly an American bird, as no other country has a similar fowl.

Long before the white man came to America, Indians caught the wild turkeys, tamed and fattened them, and used them for ceremonial feasts.

After the coming of the Spaniards, turkeys were sent to European markets, and there gained their name. The merchants, mostly Hebrews, thought this new bird was a new kind of peacock.

They called it by their name for peacock, "tukki." Constant use of this term resulted in the English word, "turkey."

—The Open Door

With Thanksgiving here I'd like to say that we here at the Devil's River News, in addition to being grateful for other blessings, are thankful for all our news sources and for our advertisers. Without news tips we wouldn't have anything to write about and without advertisers we wouldn't have any money to print what we learn.

We get compliments on the paper's news content and pictures. But I wonder how many times our advertisers get thanked for making the service possible.

Not all readers know the facts of newspaper life, but the reader doesn't really pay the bulk of the cost of printing the newspaper. It's paid for by the advertiser who thinks his message is important enough to plunk down cold cash to get a message to the reader.

Readers show their thanks by reading his message and trading with him. So the Devil's River News and the reader owe thanks to the advertiser as well as the news sources.

Enumerators Named For Ranch Census In Sutton County

Enumerators have been named in Sutton County for the 1964 Census of Agriculture, Jene Moore, crew leader, said this week. David D. Shurley in the west part of the county and Mrs. B. F. Turney in the east part of the county have been appointed as key workers in the agricultural census.

Enumerators are responsible for locating each farm or ranch in their districts, determining if the operator has answered all questions on the questionnaire mailed to him by the Census Bureau, helping the rancher complete any unanswered questions of the form, checking the answers for accuracy, and delivering the form to the Census Bureau.

A Census of Agriculture is taken every five years to gather needed information on the nation's agricultural resources and production.

The enumerators will be trained in a special four-day home study course designed to prepare them for the farm census.

Moore said that the visits by Shurley and Mrs. Turney were scheduled to begin Wednesday, November 25.

Top Speakers Slated For TSGRA Convention

A State Department spokesman and one of the country's foremost authorities on styling and production of fabrics will be featured speakers at the 49th annual Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association convention in Dallas December 9 to 12.

They join Governor John Connally to bring to three the number of top speakers at general membership sessions.

The textile expert is Paul Honig, executive vice president and creative director of Anglo Fabrics, New York. Originally from Vienna, he works with leading American and European fashion designers. He has introduced many "firsts" which became fashion successes, including "poodle cloth," "the polished look," and the opulent "bulky look" of mohair. His work, and that of others like him, helps give Texas ranchmen a market for their wool and mohair.

Because world trade conditions have a strong bearing on prices of Texas fibers, a State Department official is on the program. He is Clarence W. Nichols, special assistant to the Assistant Secretary of State for economic affairs since 1959. As an international economist he advises and assists in the formulation and application of several NATO committees as well as at three United Nations conferences on international trade.

Governor Connally will speak at 7:30 p.m. Friday, December 11, at the Annual Membership Banquet. Honig will speak at 10:30 a.m. on Friday at the general session. Nichols will speak at 2 p.m. at the general session.

Convention headquarters will be the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel. Registration starts at 2:30 p.m. December 9. An unusually large slate of specialists is being lined up for the December 10 committee meetings on various subjects including lamb feeding, ranch labor, marketing, research, taxes and other problems. These committee meetings are open to anyone interested. Committee membership is not required. The general membership sessions are December 11 and 12.

The Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association is the only organization which serves as a voice specifically for the approximately 25,000 wool and mohair producers of Texas.

THANKSGIVING

The fragrance of pumpkin and mince pies being lifted from the oven, the cheerful sound of beaters whipping cream, the lively chatter in the kitchen about whether the turkey is brown enough, the wonderful smell of cornbread dressing, the rich red of cranberry sauce: these are the smells and sounds and delights of a peaceful Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving—the uniquely American holiday when we take time out to count the blessings of our "fruitful fields and healthful skies," as Abraham Lincoln said in proclaiming the first national day of thanks in 1863.

Typifying these fruitful fields is the wealth of vegetables and fruits on our table, some for every taste, and reigning over all a big, beautiful brown bird.

These are the tangible symbols of the day, but more important are the intangibles: the love that overflows when family and old friends are reunited, the joy of sharing that love with new friends, and the tranquility in which to enjoy these and all the blessings for which we are so thankful.

Thanksgiving is a time to remember and be grateful for our heritage, for a little pride in the wellspring of courage.

Let us endure unflinchingly whatever sacrifices we are called upon to make to defend our free institutions from the night of communism, which is bent on undermining our faith in ourselves.

Let us rely not only on the gold in our vaults, but on the iron in our blood. And let us cling like ivy to the faith of our fathers and trust in God's vision.

And let us be thankful above all—for thankfulness is a wonderfully warm and profoundly decent thing. To feel it, and express it, is a blessing of the highest order. For to be grateful is to be happy.

Thankfulness is a reflection from the mind that realizes man's insignificance. Such a mind, holding itself receptive to the Infinite, receives guidance and protection and provision.

Men whose lives are lighted by such illimitable trust place themselves beyond the pettiness in which human misery is bred. They are happy men.

Rather than wait for some especially bountiful gift from Providence, let us be thankful for what we already have, remembering that much good may come from heartfelt thanksgiving for simple, little things.

All of us have so many things to be thankful for this good Thanksgiving 1964. We live in a country where people vote their choice . . . have a voice in the leadership they feel is right.

Ours is a nation that thrives on new ideas and constantly seeks out better and brighter ideals. We live in a community which works for the good of all its citizens with projects like United Fund, better hospitals, more schools, safer streets and good churches.

Shouldn't we be thankful for all this?

An Idle Mind Column

By Della King

What are you thankful for this Thanksgiving?

Some years ago a newspaper advice column urged women to write down all the good qualities of their husbands that they could think of. Each year the wife should review her list—and add to it.

It is true that in the hurry of the washing, ironing, cleaning, cooking, and shopping our complaints often grow larger than our appreciation. Thinking that this idea is true in many areas of life—not just concerning our husbands—I believe we should make a list during this Thanksgiving season of the things for which we are grateful.

I am thankful for
A good husband
A happy home
A loving family
Our church
Our country
Freedom
Health
The beauties of nature
A bountiful table
Loyal friends
Laughter

Modern appliances that make a woman's life today so much more pleasant—I am grateful that I don't have to make soap, light a wood fire, and scrape my knuckles on a rub board to keep our clothes clean.

My mother, who grew up in hot West Texas (Ozona), says she is thankful each year for the invention of air conditioning.

What are you thankful for? Make your own list. And have a joyous Thanksgiving Day.

Garden Care Is Needed During Winter

By A. F. DeWorth
Professor of Floriculture
Texas A&M University

Since considerable planting will be done in Texas gardens during the December and January, soil conditioning and watering well in advance of planting dates are important. This will not only avoid a last-minute rush that usually results in poor preparation, but it often makes planting possible when the soil is too wet to work later in the winter.

Prepare the soil now in all areas where shrubs, hedges, shade and fruit trees or bare-root dormant rose bushes are to be planted.

It is a good practice to secure a supply of pine bark, peatmoss or other organic matter as well as some soil that may be required for later operations. Pile these materials so they can be covered with a sheet of polyethylene or other cover to keep them dry for future use.

Many gardens do not drain properly; these should be inspected before general watering. When soggy soil becomes cold, the root damage on plants in such locations may be more severe than any caused by frost to the above ground parts.

Where well-drained soil conditions are prevalent, light waterings can be applied. However, adequate drainage must be provided and water reservoirs such as watering basins and other retainers around established plants must be cleared away.

Watering during cold weather should be done early in the day so the foliage dries off before nightfall. Soil will hold more water for longer periods when it and the atmosphere are cold and the air is calm.

Much plant damage blamed on insects and disease attacks is due to excessively dry or moist soil during the winter months. Existing soil conditions and proper watering practices are just as important during this season of the year as in the hot summer months.

Our Pilgrim Fathers

We Have So Much to Be Thankful for!

Let us pause at this time of the year, as our Pilgrim forefathers did so long ago, to give prayerful thanks not only for the food on our table, but more important, for those freedoms we hold so dear . . . freedoms our forefathers sought and won in the new land, America.

Our country has come a long, hard way from the day of that first meager harvest in 1621 . . . to truly become the "Land of Plenty" and the "Home of the Free."

Let us pray it will always be!

Sonora Youth Recalls Tour Through Europe

An exciting ten weeks for Robert Kelley III began June 15 when he boarded an airplane at Kennedy International Airport in New York City at 10 a. m. bound for Europe. Six hours later he was at London International Airport being greeted by the C. T. Driskill family.

Col. Driskill, son of Mrs. Juliet Driskill, has lived in Europe for several years. The Driskills invited Robert, a Sonora High School student and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelley, to spend the summer with them and go on a tour of Europe.

As the family drove home, Kelley received his first feelings of being in a strange land as he observed the English custom of driving on the left side of the road. "It kind of scares you at first," he says.

Three days later the group went to Southampton, where they boarded a ferry to cross the English Channel. They spent the night on the ferry, and the next morning they landed in France. During the next two days they drove through France in their "camper," which carried all the necessities for cooking and camping out, including beds, hammocks, and a tent.

"All through France camp sites are available," Kelley says, "and many of them are very nice. Some have swimming pools, and others are near beaches."

About the French food he commented, "The pastries and bread, which comes in 28-inch loaves, are really great."

In Spain, where the weather was quite balmy, he enjoyed seeing Madrid; the aqueduct near Segovia, which he termed "very beautiful"; Toledo; the Valley of the Dead; and Granada, where he was impressed by the poverty of the people.

The country Kelley seemed to enjoy most was Switzerland, where he went on a cable car to the top of Mount Blanc. "It is a pretty country, and the people are very friendly," he noted. "And it is a modern country with good roads."

After touring Luxembourg, Germany, and Belgium, the group ferried back across the English Channel, where Kelley saw the White Cliffs of Dover.

For small smiles and loud laughs—we are thankful.

For salt and pepper, for sugar and spices, for wool and mohair, for little things and big things—we are thankful.

For you, our customers, we are thankful. And we are thankful, too, for the opportunity we have to try to render the kind of service that will make you thankful for us, too.

STRONG CHURCHES

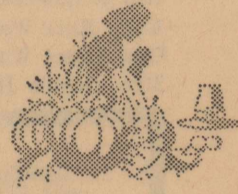

Make STRONG COMMUNITIES

More Than Enough

We are the most prosperous people the world has ever seen! Even the poor among us live in princely comfort compared to some in other lands. Our country is famous for its beauty and fruitfulness, our cities are as modern as tomorrow, and our future glows with promise. God has indeed been good to us.

But with His bounty of wealth and power, God has given us responsibilities. Because we have so much, we are called upon to share what we can spare. And we are required to work and pray for the end of ignorance, poverty and suffering wherever they are found.

To be able to give is a blessed privilege. Let us fill our churches and join in heartfelt thanks to God that we have enough . . . and more than enough . . . to share.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Proper Freezing Of Deer Insures Tastier Venison

Although freezing game meat is a simple process, foods and nutrition specialists for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service offers a few pointers that should be followed to produce a good-quality product.

1. Start with a good-quality animal that has been properly cared for and dressed.
2. Age big game one week or longer at 40 degrees F. to improve tenderness and flavor.
3. Cut carcass the same as for beef. Boneless cuts save freezer space, although it is not advisable to bone steaks, chops, and short ribs.
4. Store the size package required for a meal. Thawing and then freezing lowers meat quality.
5. Divide steaks or chops with two pieces of freezer paper if more than one is to be frozen in a package. This permits meat to thaw uniformly and pieces are easier to separate.
6. Use only moisture-vapor-proof freezer paper for wrapping meat for freezing.
7. Label all packages as to the name of animal or cut of meat and the date.
8. Freeze wild game immediately after packaging, keeping the meat at 0 degrees F. or lower until it is used. Quality meat that is correctly wrapped will keep frozen at this temperature from six months to a year, except heart and liver which should be used within six months.
9. Do not freeze more than four pounds of meat per cubic foot of freezer space within a 24-hour period. If there is more meat than adequate freezer space, take the remainder to a commercial concern.
10. Thaw meat before cooking to retain the greatest amount of moisture content. At room temperature meat usually thaws in about two hours per pound. If thawing is done in the refrigerator, allow about five hours per pound.

Philosopher Discovers Key to Traffic Problems

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitter-weed ranch on Devil's River has an odd idea this week, which we publish for what it's worth. Dear editor:

I had to make a trip to San Angelo a while back and ever since I've been calming my nerves and reflecting on the traffic and parking problem and have concluded that if it isn't solved cities are done for and I would hate to see this happen, because if the city people leave the city you know where they're coming—right out here in the country.

But I think there is a solution. I was reading in a newspaper last night which I'd found blowing along a street in the city and brought home with me, as a matter of fact, I discovered that at least for picking up papers the city beats the country ten to one, at any rate, I read that a man has invented a new parking system which he thinks will solve the parking problem. With it, you can park 20 cars in the space now occupied by two. All it is is a tower with an endless belt that stacks cars one on top of the other. When you want your car down, push a button and in 40 seconds it comes down to ground level, ready to drive if you can get it out without taking off a fender or door handle.

This is going at the problem the wrong way. It might solve the parking problem, but not the traffic problem. You don't want to stack the cars on top of each other. The answer is to stack the streets on top of each other.

New Scout Troop To Be Sponsored By West Side Lions

A new Boy Scout Troop, No. 325, was organized November 19 at a meeting at the "Lion's Cage", the West Side Lions' new club house.

J. B. Morris and Roy Shahan of San Angelo and Reggie Trainer, scoutmaster of Sonora Troop 19, were present to help with organizing the troop to be sponsored by the West Side Lions.

Named as officers were Pete Samaniego, assistant scoutmaster; Felipe Flores and Richard Perez, advancement men; Beto Perez, secretary and publicity chairman; Lalo Gonzales, treasurer; Claud Flores, outdoor man; and Robert Duran, patrol dad.

Sixteen boys ranging from ages 11 to 13 were at the organization meeting as well as ten men and two women.

Agents Recognized For Contributions To Worm Program

County Agricultural agents of Texas have received special recognition for their efforts in connection with the screwworm eradication program. The recognition came during the state conference of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service held on the Texas A&M University campus October 26 - 30.

Dolph Briscoe Jr. of Uvalde, president of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation, presented a plaque to the agents for their assistance in organizing the project nearly three years ago, and for supporting its activities within their counties. V. G. Young, state agricultural agent, accepted the plaque in behalf of the more than 380 county and assistant agents whose activities he supervises.

D. C. Langford, Sutton County agricultural agent, was present for the ceremony.

Briscoe said, "Never before in the history of the livestock industry have the producers of this state been so indebted to such a small group for making this successful program possible."

He pointed out that county agents served in important advisory capacities to the county committees that collected more than $3 million from livestock producers to get the project started.

There is a tradition in the Shenandoah Valley that only young courting couples can stir the boiling apple butter.

Yours faithfully

Game Meat Can Provide Delicious Meals If Care Is Used in Preparation, Cooking

Many homemakers will soon have game meat available with which to prepare delicious and palatable meals if proper care and cooking are exercised.

Game meat adds variety to meals and is high in nutritive value, report foods and nutrition specialists for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. It is an excellent source of high-quality proteins, fats, minerals, iron, copper and phosphorus and the B vitamins, thiamin, niacin and riboflavin.

Fresh and properly handled game meat can be tender and palatable when cooked by dry or moist heat. The method of cooking is determined by the quality and tenderness of the carcass.

Young and tender game is best cooked by dry heat such as roasting, broiling, pan-broiling, and frying, say the specialists. Dry heat preserves flavor and insures tenderness. Basting with additional fat may be necessary if the meat is lean.

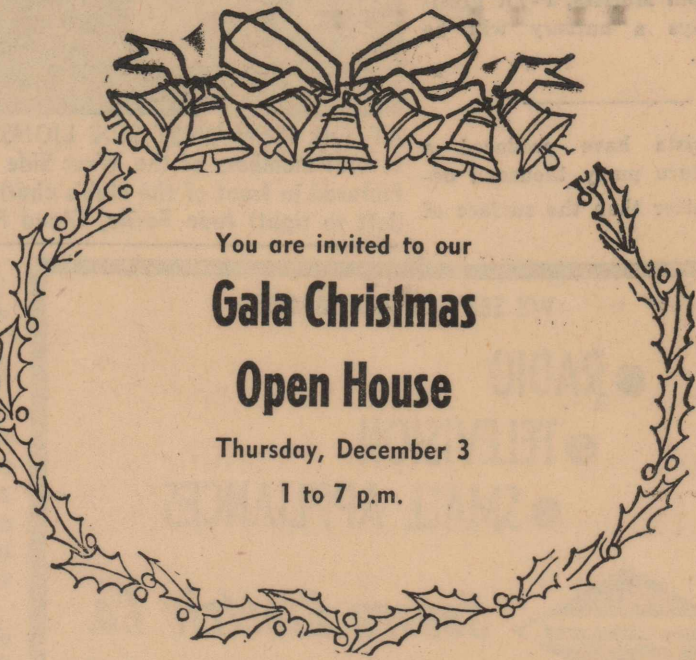

Old and less tender game, on the other hand, is best prepared by moist heat such as braising, stewing and simmering. Swiss steaks and pot roasts should be braised, and a small amount of liquid should be added to meat in a covered container. Stews, fricassees and boiled game should be prepared by simmering in hot liquid partially or completely covering the meat.

With moisture, the high temperature necessary to soften connective tissues can be obtained.

Parboiling strong game will reduce any objectionable flavor, nate meat from more mature animals to reduce gamey flavor and make the meat more tender, report the specialists. A marinade is made by combining one-fourth part vinegar, three-fourths part water, sugar and seasoning. Meat should be placed in the solution and refrigerated for 72 hours or longer.

Various methods of preparing and cooking big game and small game and game birds, as well as numerous game dinner menus, are found in the Extension bulletin. "Wild Game Care and Cooking," available at the county Extension office.

Sonorans Named To Serve as Officers At Meeting of American Cancer Society

Dr. Charles Browne was elected to the medical board of the American Cancer Society at the organization's annual meeting in San Antonio November 18-19.

Mrs. Alvis Johnson was re-elected a director of District 4. Other directors of the district are Dr. Eugene Harris of San Angelo and Sam Boynton of San Saba.

Newly elected state president is Dr. B. L. Aronoff of Dallas, and Clayton Williams of Sweetwater is treasurer.

On a taped recording Mrs. John Connally, Texas' First Lady, announced her acceptance of the position of State Crusade Chairman for 1965.

Guest speakers for the meeting were Dr. R. Lee Clark, director of M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, and Dr. F. J. L. Blasingame, executive vice-president of the American Medical Association and national president of the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Clark told the group that the influx of trained researchers into Texas was vastly improving the research climate in the state. He pointed out that the ACS has contributed more than three million dollars to research projects in leukemia and virus research now being conducted at Anderson.

Dr. Blasingame stressed the vital role of the individual in the volunteer work of the ACS and the value of the dedication of two million ACS workers from coast to coast.

More than 350 delegates, members, and guests attended the two-day meeting to evaluate and set goals for the Society's program in Texas. Attending from Sonora were Dr. Browne, Mrs. Johnson, Albert M. Everett, and Mrs. Joe Hull. Louis Droll, ACS representative from District 4, also attended.
