Cahill Construction Honors Robert Mendez For 53 Years of Service.

By Ben D. Taylor

When I walked into the Cahill Construction office to begin my research on Robert Mendez, one of the first things that was said about him was that he is an artist. I admit that at first the idea of referring to a man that spent the past 53 years in construction as an artist seemed strange to me. In my mind I had an idea of what an artist was, and to be honest, Robert did not fit with the mold I had set. I listened to everyone talk about how loyal, hard working, and honest he is. Just the mention of his name made people in the room smile. It was then that I changed my interpretation of what an artist is. In its base form it is someone that creates, or does something to capture indefinable concepts. Art is something that evokes feelings in others. In the five decades of service to his craft, Robert Mendez was able to embody the indefinable concepts of loyalty, kindness, honesty, hard work, and humor; that was his art. Robert's masterpiece took 53 years to complete, and will endure with those that know him for many years more.

Robert started working for Cahill Construction in 1963 when he was only 16 years old (before that he worked part time helping Carl Cahill haul dirt). The oldest of nine children, he worked to help support his family, "before I went to Cahill I worked at the Sonora Wool and Mohair Warehouse for $25 to $28 dollars a week, I always handed the paycheck to my mom". Robert continued that trend with his wife, "when I got married I always gave my paycheck to my wife (actually Francis went up to the Cahill office and picked up his checks). She saved me a lot of money." Robert and Francis raised 3 children, Viola Solis, and Ruben Mendez still reside in Sonora, and Belinda Perez lives in Houston. As is the case with most children Viola always knew her father but never got to see the impact he had on so many other people, "all I knew my whole life was that he worked there. I was pleased to hear that he taught so many people how to work the machines. I was so glad to see what everyone at the retirement party said about him." Roberts's co-workers call him "Fierros" (iron), as a testament to his work ethic and toughness. Jimmy Cahill commented, "he always did his part, and sometimes

In the winter of 1992 the Iron Man was put to a test as he suffered a stroke, and was told that he would never work again. His daughter, Viola, started the long task of getting Roberts disability paperwork filled out, when Robert's strength of character shone through, "I was in the hospital and I looked out the window. I said I could lay here and die, or I could get up and go die somewhere else". When Robert made the decision to go back to work Viola asked him about all the disability papers they had already filed, Roberts response was typical, "well since we already filled out the papers then they have them on file in case I get hurt again". Doctors from the Shannon Hospital commented that they have never seen "a tougher person rehab so hard". In a matter of months Robert was back at work for Cahill, "since his stroke Robert probably finished over 1,000 well sites", Jimmy Cahill Commented. The Devil's River News reported on Roberts recovery in September of 1993, "Life-long resident of Sonora, Robert Mendez, suffered a stroke and was told by doctors that he would never work again. But, that was last year. This year he can be found working a road grader here in town. Robert is one of those proud Americans who does not mind working and who does not like quitting. Hats off to a fine Sonoran and a fine American—ROBERT MENDEZ.'

In talking to Robert I have discovered that I may have "Occupational ADD" as in the entirety of my 30 year life I have been employed in over 10 different places. I asked Robert why he stayed with Cahill for so many years and he said, "everybody was good to me. They are like my family, I treat Jim more like a friend than a boss, and I liked the job. It was something different every day, sometimes we worked next to the river and the very next day we would be out in Ft. Stockton." Now that Robert is no longer formally employed with Cahill I asked him what he is doing with his time after 53 years of hard work, and his answer made me laugh. He said very simply, "I am going to watch TV." In Cahill Construction everyone referred to him as a "finish man", "People wanted Robert to finish their jobs. He truly was a By Becky McAngus master of his craft." Robert has earned his rest, and this year lived up to his name as the finish man as he retires from Cahill Construction.

At the end of a conversation I had with Robert he told me that there is a person that may end up working at Cahill longer than he did. With a mischievous grin he simply said "Chacho Cahill".

Governor Rick Perry Names 152 Counties By Ben D. Taylor as an Extreme Fire Hazard

Landowners that have scheduled prescribed fires in the near future are going to have to put their plans on hold. On January 29, 2008 Governor Rick Perry issued a proclomation that may have implications for landowners in Sutton County as he certified that 152 counties in Texas (Sutton being one of them) are currenty threatened by an "extreme fire hazard". This goes beyond burn bans issued by counties (members of the Edwards Plateau Burn Association have been allowed to perform prescribed burns in Sutton County when a burn ban is in tion have been allowed to perform prescribed burns in Sutton County when a burn ban is in effect) as the Prescribed Burning Board states in their standards for certified burn managers that, "No burning shall be allowed if a current Governer's and/or Presidential Declaration of emergency or Disaster for fire is in effect in the county where the exemption is sought". Dr. Charles Taylor (expert on prescribed burning and superintendant of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Sonora) stated that, "I have been here 37 years and never have seen a better opprotunity to burn. Its unfair to stop prescribed burning when it is needed to improve rangeland productivity.'

In the past the Edwards Plateau Burn Association has been granted an exemption and alowed to burn during a burn ban, but even that is going to change in the future. It is state law that a certified burn manager be on site during a prescribed burn (during a burn ban). "There is no prescribed burn manager in Sutton County right now. We are working to get one of our staff certified, but with the Governer's burn ban we can't get him the on site fire experience he needs. Its a catch 22." The prescribed burn board is meeting this Thursday February. 14th to discuss clarification of the Governer's proclomation and possible modification of the ourning rules for the State of Texas.

Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Highlights Research at a Recent Field Day

Ranchers crowd the pavaillion at the Sonora Experiment Station to listen to Dr. Winston Trollope and Dr. Erika Campbell Discuss their research findings.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station was established in 1915 through a cooperative between Texas A&M University and local ranchers. The original mission of the Experiment Station was to investigate the reason behind local livestock die offs (it was found that livestock were grazing on the toxic sacahuista (beargrass) flower), but over the years the Station evolved to encompass many different aspects of agricultural issues effecting ranchers in the region. This past Friday on February 8th the Experiment Station continued its mission to service to landowners as they invited people to come listen to world renown scientist Dr. Winston Trollope speak about his research on the combined use of prescribed fire and grazing to control an invasive species of Acacia (South Africa's version of cedar). Texas A&M researcher Dr. Erika Campbell followed Dr. Trollope with her presentation highlighting research she conducted on the Experiment Station on trying to identify goats that have a natural genetic disposition to consume high amounts of Cedar.

In his opening comments Dr. Trollope commented on the similarities between South Africa and the Edwards Plateau in terms of vegetation and rainfall, "The people, trees, and grass are similar to what is seen back home. The only difference are the hats" (there were a good number of cowboy hats in the audience). Dr. Trollope compared the effectiveness of controlling brush on three different plots: burning alone, burning followed by cattle grazing, and burning followed by grazing with goats. Burning alone had no effect on the long term brush management on his plots, this was also seen with burning followed by grazing by cattle, however; on the plots where he initiated a prescribed burn and followed with a grazing regime with goats they were able to measure a 90% mortality of trees in the plots. His research also evaluated the impacts burning and grazing had on wildlife, and reported that, "there were no negative impacts associated with grazing with goats and their interaction with wildlife as long as a proper stocking rate is maintained." The data Dr. Trollope presented was consistent with what has been seen at the Experiment Station here in Sonora.

While South Africa's invasive Acacia shares many similarities with our cedar tree

While South Africa's invasive Acacia shares many similarities with our cedar tree (both of them re-grow from the base after a burn, and decrease the productivity of rangeland for livestock and wildlife) the presence of a toxin in cedar makes it resistant to grazing by livestock. Dr. Erika Campbell commented that, "alcohol terpins (cedar oil) are chemicals that naturally occur in cedar trees that are toxic to many grazing animals. Goats, however, evolved mechanisms to detoxify those chemicals." Goats will graze on cedar, but their level of consumption is relatively low, so in 1990 the Sonora Experiment Station initiated a study to determine if they could bread a goat that would consume high amounts of order. The term to determine if they could breed a goat that would consume high amounts of cedar. The team of researchers consisted of Dr. John Walker (statistical analysis), Dr. Dan Waldron (genetics), Dr. Chris Lupton (fiber specialist), Dr. Travis Whitney (nutritionist), Dr. Charles Taylor (fire specialist), and Dr. Campbell (toxicologist). Initial work focused on looking at whether a breed of goat consumed more cedar than others, and it was found that individual goats (not

SISD Awards Architectural Contract

In a brief, 30-minute, regular meeting, the Sonora ISD school board on Monday discussed action taken at a special meeting on Wednesday, February 6th, to award the architectural and engineering contract for a multi-million dollar upgrade and expansion of Bronco Stadium to Chapman Harvey Associates of Lubbock. Specific details of the contract were not presented at the regular board meeting and no vote was taken Monday night to confirm action taken at the Superintendent Doug Bawcom informed the board that he has negotiated a one-half percent reduction in the architectural and engineering fee and has worked with the architectural firm to reduce the reimbursement ratio for miscellaneous expenses, including travel and copying fees. "The contract is ready to be signed and sent back," Bawcom told the board. Responding to a question from board member Barbara Jennings regarding the opinion of the district's legal counsel, Bawcom stated that the contract was a "standard contract containing architectural jargon." It was unclear, from discussion at the meeting, if the district's legal counsel has reviewed the contract.

At the same meeting, the board voted to approve the district's annual membership in the Individual Retainer program with the legal firm of Walsh, Anderson, Brown, Schulz and Aldridge, PC. Bawcom noted that the firm has worked with the district as their counsel for several years.

Bawcom urged the board to get started on the athletic facility project, which will include the construction of both a boys and girls dressing room and upgrades in public amenities at the athletic facility. "If the money wasn't there to do both, (build both dressing rooms) I wouldn't suggest that we (begin working) on both immediately," Bawcom said.

Work on the new vocational building is stalled at present, according to Bawcom, due to the district missing production timelines. He explained to the board that the cause for the delay was from the architect and building manufacturer working out design details. Once the prefabricated building is delivered, the project is expected to be quickly completed, he stated.

The superintendent also recognized the achievements of Sonora students, stating that the Middle School One-Act play, with a presentation of "Romeo and Juliet" took second place in the school's first competition. A public performance of the play will be held on February 18 at 6:00 p.m. Sonora High School won the sweepstakes trophy at the recent Sonora Speech meet.

Bawcom reported that 21 area schools participated in this year's meet. He thanked the entire district staff and community volunteers for their assistance in the meet. Sonora High School's Lady Broncos have earned a third-place finish in district play

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I have made a lot of mistakes, and most of them I cannot correct although I wish I could; however, there is one I would like to try to correct. In my letter to the editor in last week's paper, I said, "The Wuests reared three boys who all became educators, and Mike and David also coached." What I should have said was, the Wuests reared four boys, and three became educators; and Mike and David also Coached.

I left Randy completely out. Many of the current Sonora residents probably remember Randy better than they remember the other three. Randy lived in Sonora several years and worked for Thorp's Laundry, and his wife managed the Dairy Queen. I be- Submitted lieve they now live in Abilene.

Card of Thanks

We would like to give thanks to Carl J. Cahill, Inc. for the special retirement dinner honoring Robert Mendez on Friday January, 18th. A special thanks to those who assisted in making the celebration possible and to those who attended. We are very blessed to celebrate such an astonishing achievement. This was a wonderful event that the Robert Mendez family will never forget.

Thank you all, Robert Mendez and Family

Valentine Date Tips

Valentine's Day is coming up and baking treats for Sorry, Randy, I did not intentionally omit you that special someone is a great way to show that you care. Homemade treats also are fun to make and add a personal touch that will be remembered. For those of you that will be taking your Valentine out to dinner, keep the following tips in mind, whether your relationship is new or you have been with your Valentine for a long time.

Valentine's Dinner Date Etiquette

1. Don't order the most expensive item on the menu; you do not want your date to think they are being taken advantage of.

2. Enjoy a glass of wine or cocktail at dinner (or two, if you're saucy), but try to avoid drinking too much and getting carried away.

3. A great date involves balance in the conversation: don't talk too much or too little.

4. If your date is dressed nice (we are hoping that your date will dress nicely), let them know. Compliments go a long way.

5. When looking over the menu, ask if your date likes to share. If so, suggest small dishes to split-or swap plates halfway through the meal if you feel at ease.

6. Have fun!

The Commission will review today's proposals and act on them at the Commission's Feb. 26 conference.

"No other state regulatory agency and no federal regulatory agency has made the determination that compression couplings are unsafe," said Chairman Mi-chael L. Williams. "However, as one accident is too many, the Railroad Commission has taken a national lead in safety once again. In an abundance of caution, we have initiated directives that address not only the use of compression couplings in our state, but also, other known pipeline safety concerns. In November, we required the removal of known compression couplings at service risers. At the same time, we began rulemaking that will require more frequent pipeline leak detection and shorter leak repair time frames. Today's proposals intend to enhance those measures'

TxDOT Requires Permit Before Installing Driveway

If access to your land crosses Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) right-of-way, you are required to comlete a "Permit to Construct Access Driveway Facilities on Highway Right of Way" form prior to any driveway con-

This form, number 1058, is available free of charge at any TxDOT maintenance office.

It is also available for download by visiting TxDOT's Web site at the following link: http://www.dot.state.tx.us/forms/ maintenance.htm. A completed form must be returned to a TxDOT maintenance office for review. This process typically takes a week, during which time a TxDOT employee will evaluate the proposed location of the driveway to ensure that it meets safety and line-of-site regulations. Once the application is approved, the landowner is responsible for building

TxDOT will return, following completion of the driveway, for a final inspection.

Declining worldwide oil and natural gas? True or False?

Price increases for food, fuel, and energy will be a reality. Many city and even state governments are making plans in response to this.

Please join together for a meeting February 20, 2008, at 6:00 pm at the Back Door Cafe at Simon Bros Mercantile, (Ranch Road 291, off Interstate 10 about 16 miles west of Junction and 96 miles southeast of San Angelo) for a discussion of what our community will do to prepare for this.

We can discuss car pooling since we live so far from large shopping and medical centers and organizing local farmers markets. Hope to see you there!!

mined the level of consumption. A breeding program was then initiated to breed goats that seemed to have the ability to consume high amounts of cedar with the eventual goal of producing a flock of what Dr. Taylor calls, "Super Juniper Eating Goats". Early in the study researchers developed a method to determine the difference between high and low juniper consuming goats by analyzing fecal samples (if the goat pellets had high amounts of cedar then that goat was classified as a high consumer). This process required a good amount of time to determine the differences between the two types of goats. Dr. Campbell has developed a new technique that tests the individual goat's physiological ability to detoxify the alcohol terpins. This technique dramatically decreased the time it takes to determine the difference between high and low consumers, increasing the efficiency of the breeding program.

Unlike some scientific institutions, the Sonora Experiment station strives to conduct science that will either produce a product or technique that can be used by landowners in their agricultural practices. The field day conducted on February 8th demonstrated both techniques that can be used by landowners to manage their brush (the combination of prescribed burning and grazing), and researchers also announced that the first "Super Juniper Eating Goats" will be for sale in June. If you are interested in this project (or purchasing some of the goats) contact Butch Taylor at 325-387-3168 or Chris Lupton at 325-653-4576.

The Smell of Snow

By Tumbleweed Smith

Jerry Thomason of Pecos has an unusual ability.

"I have been known to smell snow before it gets here," he says with a chuckle. "To me, snow has a particular odor. A lot of times it'll be snowing at Orla or Carlsbad north of us and if there's a strong wind coming off of it I can detect the smell of snow."

Jerry found out about his talent when he was ten or twelve years old.

"I remember going in one night and telling my mama that it was gonna snow that night. She asked me how I knew. I told her I could smell it. The next morning we got up and there was about two inches of snow on the ground."

about two inches of snow on the ground."

Jerry was living in El Paso then and could smell snow on Mount Franklin.

"Of course in El Paso it doesn't snow that often, but usually Mount Franklin gets snow on top of it. I lived about twenty miles away."

I can smell snow a hundred miles away.
"I don't know why. I just seem to pick it up in the wind. All at once it has this dusty, musky odor to it. Someone told me one time that each snowflake is built around a particle of Occasionally he'll give a weather forecast to Bill Cole, manager of KIUN Radio in Pecos. "I remember going in there the first time and telling him it was going to snow. He asked me how I knew. I told him I smelled it. He said, 'what.' I said I can smell it. And in about 30 or 45 minutes it started snowing. Every once in awhile he'll call me and ask if I smell snow. If I do, I'll tell him.'

He doesn't know of anyone else who can smell snow. "I don't know what it's good for. People look at me like I'm crazy when I tell them I can smell snow coming. Then in a little while it starts snowing on them.

He can fine tune his smeller.

"Nearly everybody can smell rain. It has a distinct odor to it. If the rain changes to snow, I can detect a different odor. If it starts out raining, just barely sprinkling and it changes to snow I'll sniff a couple of times and realize it smells like snow. Sure enough, it'll go to snow-

He is a very normal person with an extremely discriminating sense of smell. His talented nose came in handy when he was a milkman delivering milk to the homes of Pecos residents. "If I smelled snow, I'd put chains on the tires of my delivery van. I've delivered milk in all kinds of weather. But I was never surprised by a snow storm.'

BROWNWOOD, TX - February 6, 2008 - Susanna Street, of Sonora, was named to the President's List for the 2007 fall semester at Howard Payne University in Brownwood, Texas. Susanna is the daughter of Mike and Robin Street and is majoring in math. Students must earn a 4.0 grade point average to be named to the President's List.

The 8th grade boys basketball team ended their season on Monday, February 4th with a 13 point win over Comfort. The final score was 34-21. These young men learned and improved all year under the direction of Coach Lamar Evans. Scoring recap of the game was as follows: Word Hudson-16, Cadesman Pope-6, Matt Young-6, Zach Badeaux-2, Robert Hernandez-2 and Braxton Snyder-2. Davis Jimenez, Cole Shirtum and Dakota Daniels contributed with many rebounds and assists. Zachary Leonard was not able to play the last and assists. Zachery Leonard was not able to play the last game due to another school event. These young men finished with a winning record of 7-5. Congratulations on a great sea-

Sonora Youth Represent at the San Antonio Livestock Show and Rodeo

By Shawna Faris

Saturday, February 9, 2008 Sutton County 4-H members participated in the San Antonio Livestock Show & Rodeo Wool Judging Contest. There were 29 teams and 98 total individuals that competed in the contest. The contest duration is a little over two hours and is made up of four wool classes and a rail of twenty fleeces in which one must determine each fleece's grade, length of staple, and percentage yield. Sutton County competed with nine contestants and came up very successful. The team consisting of Emily Earwood, Savannah Leonard, Steely Ingham, and Colton Moore placed 1st overall with Emily Earwood being named overall high individual and had she not been so successful in the Angera Goat division a few years. not been so successful in the Angora Goat division a few years back would have been the recipient of a $10,000 scholarship. However, due to the fact that she has won a scholarship in another division she unfortunately wasn't eligible to win another one. Nonetheless she is the proud owner of a brand new beautiful belt buckle and will always hold the prestigious title of being named High Individual of the 2008 San Antonio Livestook Show & Badea Wood Judging Contact. Additionally, and stock Show & Rodeo Wool Judging Contest. Additionally, on that team Savannah was named 6th high individual and Steely finished up 9th high individual. An extremely impressive finish for that team and I was once again overly pleased and proud of their accomplishments. The team of Sterling Love, Stella Ingham, Chelsey Lou Campbell, and Daman Evan placed 11th as a team and displayed great success individually. Zachary Loopard competed as an individual in the contest and also fin Leonard competed as an individual in the contest and also finished well, his score overall would have contributed nicely to a team. Congratulations Sutton County for another outstanding performance - what a perfect way to start the year!!

Working With Your Health Provider for Better Care

Kelly L Thorp, MS County Extension Agent-Family and Consumer Sciences Texas AgriLife Extension-Sutton County

In the past, the health provider typically took the lead regarding your health and you, the patient, followed his or her directions. Today, a good patient-provider relationship is many of contractions. tionship is more of a partnership. You and your health provider should work as a team, along with other health professionals, to solve your medical problems and keep you healthy.

This may mean asking questions if your health provider's explanations or instructions are unclear, bringing up prob-lems even if he or she does not ask and letting your provider know if you have concerns about a particular treatment or change in your daily life.

Taking an active role in your health care puts the responsibility for good com-munication on both you and your health provider. Your health provider may ask you how your life is going. This is not being impolite or nosy - information about what is happening in your life may be useful medically. Let your health provider know about any major changes or stresses in your life, such as the death of a loved one, but do not feel pressured to go into great detail. Remember the line from the television show: "Just the facts, ma'am."

It is tempting to say what you think your provider wants to hear, for example, that you smoke less or eat a more bal-anced diet. While this is natural, it is not in your best interest. He or she can suggest the best treatment only if you say what is really going on. Too, asking questions is paramount to good communication with your provider. If you do not ask questions, he or she may

Free Web Service Offered to Landowners with Hunting Leases

AUSTIN, Texas — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is inviting Texas landowners to advertise their hunting leases at no cost through a new Internet service the agency is developing called "Hunt Texas Online Connection."

In the first half of 2008, the department wants landowners to register for the new free service. In May, TPWD plans to begin promoting it to the hunting public. Hunters are advised to check back in May after landowners have had a chance to register their leases.

The service allows landowners to list hunting lease opportunities in Texas for free, including last minute openings. It provides complete anonymity for landowners until they are ready to contact potential customers. Hunters will eventually be able to search for hunting opportunities by lease type, county, game species and other parameters.

"We want to make it easy for people looking for a place to hunt to connect with landowners offering hunts on their prop-erty," said Mike Berger, TPWD wildlife division director. "This is one way we're trying to better serve our license-buying public. It's important to keep the Texas hunting tradition strong, since hunting supports wholesome family recreation, pumps more than a billion dollars per year into Texas local economies, and provides an economic incentive for private land stewards to protect wildlife habitat."

To register, landowners can visit the main Hunt Texas Online Connection Web page on the TPWD Internet site. Click "Get Started," select a username and password, log in, and begin typing in fall 2008 lease oppor-

The department is reaching out to landowners this winter and spring, hoping to build up a substantial base of lease opportunities for the public. In mid-May, TPWD will begin promoting the new service to hunters via hunting publications, online and through print, radio and TV news coverage.

Anyone can send questions, comments and suggestions about the new service to hunt.texas@ tpwd.state.tx.us, with separate email addresses also available for support and general inquiries not related to Hunt Texas Online Connection. Interested parties may also phone (512) 389-4505 for more information.

2008 Daddy-Daughter Date Night

Chamber Chatter

By Becky Covington

The annual Daddy-Daughter Date Night attracted about 200 fathers and daughters Feb. 7 at the Sutton County Civic Center. The focus of the night was to give girls an opportunity to spend quality time with their fathers.

A sea of grinning girls and their fathers laughed as they danced to music provided by Eclipse DJ and were surrounded in decorations of "High School Musical". It's a social thing for them and a neat thing for the dads at the same time. You can see the sparkle in the girl's eyes when she knows it's just her night.

The girls were dazzled in glamorous hairstyles, glittery lip gloss and wore beautiful party dresses and some were adorned with wrist corsages.

The dads were dressed up and were donned in jackets and ties or suits. Others just wore a nice shirt and slacks - whatever they enjoy. Most joined their daughters on the dance floor; some bopped their heads to the music on the side and watched their daughters twirl around with their friends.

Of the 200 dads and daughters in attendance, some had experienced the fun and excitement before and it has become a tradition for some families. For others, the annual Daddy-Daughter Date Night was a new experience.

This is one of the most favorite events the Sonora Chamber of Commerce does. It's fun to see the girls all dressed up with their dads. The dads are so excited to be with their daughters, and that's part of what makes it so special. The dads are dancing and jumping around — stuff they wouldn't normally do. But they know it's special and you know daddies will do what ever to make it an exceptional experience for their daughters.

Girls and their fathers also were able to have a professional photograph taken by Memories by McBride during the event.

This year the whole civic center was rented to have plenty of room to dance and have fun, since the event has grown tremendously. The Middle School Sweetheart dance was scheduled at the same time as ours so we lost a few of the older girls who wanted to attend that dance but some chose both, just because the dance is special and they wanted to be with their dad.

A lot of its success is word of mouth. Dad or daughter will say how much they enjoyed it, and then someone else will become interested. The Chamber always looks forward to both events Mother - Son and Daddy - Daughter Date Nites and have already been discussing and making plans on what will be the theme for both events next year.

A Special thanks goes out to the Chamber Board of Directors who helped significantly with the event. An extended thanks to Kendra Vyvlecka, Tamara Fleming and Mariah Castro for volunteering their time. Once again, thanks to those in attendance for supporting the Chamber and the many events it brings to the community.

"Love is like playing the piano. First you must learn to play by the rules, then you must forget the rules and play from your heart."
