Sutton County Sheriff Joe Fincher (far right) celebrates with his family after learning of his re-election.

By Ben D. Taylor

The 2012 election in Sutton County had 58.65% of all voters casting their votes. Of all the items on the ballot the contested Sutton County Sheriff's race has been on the forefront of most local interest. That race resulted in a Joe Fincher victory (1,166) over Earlie Williams IV (313).

The other point of local interest on the ballot was the proposed Sonora ISD bond, which passed 804 to 383.

Running unopposed was Laurie English (District Attorney), David Wallace (County Attorney), Erica Berry (County Tax Assessor), Mike Villanueva (County Commissioner Precinct 1), and Carl Teaff (County Commissioner Precinct 3).

Sutton County carried Mitt Romney 1,110 to 369 over Barack Obama, Ted Cruz 1,081 to 329 over Paul Sandler (US Senator), Francisco "Quico" Canseco 988 to 398 over Pete P. Gallego.

All other items on the ballot were carried by the Republican Party.

Sonora Highschool Gets A New Feature

The Sonora Highschool has gotten a bit of a facelift with the addition of a scrolling marquee sign placed at the front entrance of the school. High school principal Raul Chavarria commented that, "This sign has been in the works for a long time, but we were finally able to purchase it do to our fundraising efforts."

Local Business owner David Walsh was on hand to assist Sonora ISD employees with the final instillation of the marquee sign.

Broncos Clinch Playoffs

By Ray Glasscock

It is hard to believe that the regular season of the 2012 football season is coming to a close. As the Broncos finished their warm-ups, 15 senior football players, senior Bronco Band members, senior cheerleaders and trainers, along with their families, met at the entrance to the big, inflatable Bronco. Each of the seniors was introduced as they came through the Bronco for the last time.

The Broncos and the Buffaloes entered the game with identical district records of one win and two losses. The Broncos had to play the game with the possibility of being in a three-way tie for third place after next week's game. In order to win the three way tie breaker, the Broncos needed to beat the Buffaloes by 12 points or more. In effect, the Broncos were behind by two scores at the opening kickoff.

The Broncos got the ball first. Brett Castillo fielded the kickoff, came up the near sideline, and was tackled at the Bronco 42-yard line. The first series didn't go well: Damon Evans ran the counter for four yards, the option pitch to Darien Lopez lost a yard, and Michael Rollert threw incomplete on third down. Andres Acevedo boomed a punt and the Buffaloes took over on their 12-yard line.

The Bronco defense forced a three and out and Stanton punted. The ball bounced at the Bronco 45 yard line and Lopez fielded it at the 42 just short of full speed. He made the first Buffalo miss and started across the field toward the near sideline. He made the corner and was forced out of bounds at Stanton's 20. Lopez then ran up the middle for two yards, Will Dutton gained nine yards on the counter play, and Rollert sped to his left through the defenders for the first touchdown of the game. Kade Wimberley just missed the PAT, and the scoreboard read 6 to 0 with 7:27 left in the first quarter.

Wimberley boomed the kickoff out of the end zone for a touchback. Stanton was able to make one first down before facing a punting situation near mid-field. They attempted to pass for the yardage, but Lopez intercepted at the Bronco 34-yard line.

The Broncos shifted into a formation familiar to long time Bronco fans. The play featured Lopez as the left of the two backs behind Rollert and Scott Martinez moving to the slot flanker to the right of the tight end. Rollert took the snap, turned and pitched the ball to Lopez starting the famous Bronco sweep. Ethan Patlin took care of the defensive end by blocking him out of the play allowing Lopez to get the end of the line untouched and start up field. Ricky Martinez sealed off the pursuit as he blocked the outside linebacker, and Lopez's speed did the rest. He ran 66 yards for the touchdown. Rollert ran the keeper and made it into the end zone on pure determination. With 1:32 left in the first quarter, the Broncos led 14 to 0.

The Buffaloes returned the kickoff to their 40-yard line. They proceeded to use 14 plays to drive the 60 yards. They scored a touchdown on a fourth and goal play by throwing for the score. Their kick was good, and the score was 14 to 7 in favor of the Broncos with 8:18 left in the second quarter.

Stanton got off a short, high kick that hit at the 35-yard line that just died like a very, high sand wedge. Sid Anderson just barely beat a Buffalo to the ball and recovered for the Broncos. Even so, the Buffaloes striped the ball out of Elijah Cross's hands on the first and only play of the next Bronco

Way Off Broadway Performs this Fall

Eldorado's Way Off Broadway Players Fall Production is right around the corner and should prove to be a wild 'n wooly, foot-stompin', knee-slappin', Old West good time! The evening's entertainment will begin with the WOBP Band playing western tunes from way, way back when. Band members include many of your WOBP favorites: Terry Weaver, Tammy Doan, Janet Pullen, Sandy Stokes, Jon Cartwright, and Carl Weaver. In a fast-paced poker game, to the tune of rinky-tink piano renditions, a gamblin' woman by the name of Lou produces "one big ace from some secluded place" to win the deed to Katy's establishment. With the help of "an eastern dude who's a rude, crude, prude" and Little Nell—"pure and sweet can't be beat; we'll let her help when we cheat"—Katy and her cohorts retrieve the business.

Performances will take place at the Tom Ratliff Civic Theatre in downtown Eldorado November 10 & 11, 17 & 18, and December

1 & 2. Saturday evening performances will begin at 7:00 p.m. and Sunday afternoon showings will begin at 3:00 p.m. General admission tickets are priced at $10.00 and dinner theatre tickets for $25.00. possession. Five plays later, Stanton scored on a one-yard run with most of their yardage coming on a well executed slant pass that covered 19 yards and ended at the one-yard line. Their PAT was good, and the score was tied at 14 with 6:32 left in the half.

Once again, the Buffs tried to kick it high and short, but it went out of bounds. The Broncos took over at their 30-yard line. On the third play, Rollert pitched the ball to Lopez going to his left. When the Buffaloes had him trapped, Lopez reversed his field, retreated slightly, and sprinted toward the far sideline. He managed to get outside of the defenders and turned up field. After one more juke, he broke into the clear and completed his 68-yard touchdown run. Mr. W kicked the PAT, and Sonora had regained the lead at 21 to 14 with 4:49 left in the first half. At this point in the game, Sonora had only run 11 offensive plays making three first downs.

On the kickoff, Michael Chavez hustled down for a nice open field tackle. During this series, Damon Evans forced a fumble but the Buffs recovered it. Just when it looked like the Buffaloes had made a first down on a nice pass and catch, they were flagged for holding. When they tried to punt, Hagen Kennedy blocked it backwards toward their goal line. Anderson recovered it in the end zone for a Bronco touchdown. Mr. W. split the uprights, and the Broncos once again had their tie-breaking two touchdown lead at 28 to 14 with 1:21 left in the half.

The second half started with Stanton receiving the kickoff. They responded with a 19 play drive that covered 60 yards and produced no points. On fourth and goal, Brett Castillo logged a pass broken up, and the Broncos took over at their own three-yard line. Virgil Burge, the voice of the Broncos, said, "the Broncos need a long drive to take some time off of the clock." The Broncos responded with part of that suggestion. On third and five from the nine-yard line, Rollert probably threw one of the shortest passes in Bronco history (about a 1 foot pass) to Dutton who was running the flanker counter play. Dutton started around the left end and Lino Villanueva led the way. Villanueva slowed Stanton's number 28 enough so that Dutton could turn the corner. From the 20 to 50, Stanton's quarterback kept using the angle hoping to catch Dutton. At the 50-yard line, Buff reinforcements arrived. Stanton's number 6 overshot, Dutton split them, and turned back into the middle of the field. At this point, Patlin had caught up and arrived to help. When Dutton reached the 30-yard line, both Chance Campbell and Lopez also came to help. Patlin and Campbell took out the last defender as Dutton was stumbling after almost losing his balance. After regaining his balance, Dutton raced into the end zone with Lopez providing top cover/escort for the last 18 yards of the run. The PAT was wide. The scoreboard read 34 to 14 with 2:50 left in the 3rd quarter. At this point in the game, the Broncos had 253 yards of offense and 234 of those yards had come on three plays!

Stanton and Sonora each had three and outs. Acevedo punted and Lopez chased down the bouncing punt killing it at the Buffalo one-yard line. After these two series, Stanton had run 60 offensive plays to Sonora's 17.

Stanton managed a first down and moved out of the danger zone before having to punt. Lopez fielded the punt at their 40-yard line and was tackled by the last Stanton defender at their ten-yard line. After three good defensive plays, Sonora faced a fourth and goal at the five-yard line. Rollert rolled to his right and threw to Kennedy for the touchdown. Wimberley's kick was good, and the score was 41 to 14 with 8:08 left in the game.

Stanton tried the flea flicker. The running back took the handoff, ran into the line, but he tossed it wide. The Stanton quarterback had to hustle to retrieve the pitch. When he picked it up, he had to throw immediately to avoid being sacked. Anderson was waiting and had an easy pick.

It took the Broncos only four plays to score the last touchdown. Rollert threw to Kennedy who made a leaping catch at the 30-yard line. Campbell and Castillo gained five yards each on consecutive plays. From there, Campbell "danced" his way through their defense for the touchdown. Wimberley's PAT finished the scoring at 48 to 14 with 4:57 left in the game.

Rollert completed three passes out of five for 110 yards and two touchdowns. He also ran for one touchdown and one two-point conversion. Lopez carried four times for 135 yards and two touchdowns. He also had two punt returns for 55 yards. Campbell ran three times for 26 yards and one touchdown. Dutton caught one pass for 91 yards and one touchdown while Kennedy caught two for 19 yards and one touchdown. Anderson scored a touchdown on the blocked punt. Campbell had an incredible night as he made 22 tackles with three of them solo. Anderson and Cross logged 11 tackles each while Ricky Martinez and Owen Friess had ten tackles apiece. Kennedy, Anderson, Evans, Cross, and Sam Powers combined for five sacks.

On a strange statistical game, the Buffaloes had 261 yards of offense and made 15 first downs. The Broncos only had 7 first downs and 315 yards of offense.

This week, the Broncos travel to Crane for the final game of the regular season. This game will determine the playoff seeding of each team. If we win, we will be second; otherwise, we will be third. Make the trip and support our Broncos! Go Big Red!

Sonora Varsity Volleyball Team Ends Season With A Trip To Bi-District

The Sonora Varsity Volleyball team earned a trip into the Bi-District playoffs this year with a history making season.

"These girls worked so hard all year. I pushed them from day one and they pushed themselves," said Coach Amanda Rollert. "We have learned so much about the game in one season. I look forward to a fruitful off season and lots of great volleyball in seasons to come. Our athletes from junior high through high school are committed to solid fundamentals and self discipline. These are two keys to success!"

Eventhough the girls fell short of the Bi-District title, several Bronco Volleyball athletes were recognized with All District Honors:

Offensive Player of the Year was sophomore Gracie Dozier. Newcomer of the Year was Freshmen Tyler Hampton. Co-Defensive Player of the Year was Junior Morgan Badgett

First Team All District Honors went to Junior Katie Hartman, Senior Taylor Hampton, and Sophomore Alexa Sykes. Second Team All District Honors went to Junior Sidney Dermody.

Honorable Mention All District Honors went to Senior Micaela Moore.

"I am so very proud of these girls and their awards! We were well represented in our district. I expect great things from all returning athletes!" applauded Coach Rollert.

Not only do these ladies work hard on the court but they work hard in the classroom as well. Several Bronco Volleyball athletes were named to the Academic All District Team. These young ladies were as follows:

Thank you Sonora for all your support of these young women this season!

Texas Crop, Weather: El Niño Fizzles And Winter Might Be 'Nothing Special'

COLLEGE STATION – El Niño has fizzled, and you can forget the forecasts of a wetter, cooler Texas winter, said the state climatologist.

Though many agricultural producers may be disappointed in not having a wet winter to replenish soil-moisture levels, there's some good news mixed with the bad, said Dr. John Nielsen-Gammon, state climatologist and regents professor at Texas A&M University.

"The closest thing to a sure bet is that this won't be another La Niña winter," Nielsen-Gammon said. "But next year the odds are La Niña will ramp up again, and with them the chances that next winter will be a dry one."

As recently as late August, forecasters, including those at the National Oceanic Atmospheric Administration's Climate Prediction Center, were expecting a stronger-than-average El Niño to develop in the tropical Pacific, he said.

The earlier prediction of a strong El Niño was good news for drought recovery for most of the state, Nielsen-Gammon said. Though an El Niño's effects are usually stronger in the southern parts of the state and along the Gulf Coast, it generally leads to wetter, cooler weather for the entire state.

Typically, the development of an El Niño begins with warmer ocean temperatures, at least about 1 degree Fahrenheit, above normal, which is what climatologists were seeing during the summer, he said. The situation, once it begins, usually results in a "feedback situation" that further raises ocean temperatures and magnifies the effect.

"As the warm temperatures spread across the Pacific, the winds weaken, allowing the warm water to remain at the surface longer before losing any of its heat," Nielsen-Gammon said. "However, the feedback failed to develop, and now we are expecting a neutral situation," he said.

"Neutral situation," means there are now equal chances of either a wet or dry winter, Nielsen-Gammon said.

"In the meantime, the tropical Pacific is likely to stay neutral, he said. This means a good chance that rainfall this spring and summer will also tend to be close to normal, to the extent that Texas weather is ever normal," he said.

More information on the current Texas drought and wildfire alerts can be found on the AgriLife Extension Agricultural Drought Task Force website at <http://agrilife.tamu.edu/drought/>.

Frost or Freeze?

By Pascual Hernandez,
Sutton County Agricultural Extension Agent

We are fast approaching our average first freeze, and for those of us with vegetable gardens, we watch for that date. We'd like to protect the tomatoes a little longer. But some of us get confused with frost and freeze warnings. What's the difference?

Frost occurs on clear, still nights, as heat radiates from surfaces. On a warmer night, the moisture would be dew, but as the temperature drops below 32 degrees, water vapor freezes on those surfaces. The temperature won't go much below freezing, because energy is released as the water freezes. Most plants that aren't tropical can handle temperatures a few degrees below freezing with no problem. Also keep in mind that clouds or fog will trap heat, usually preventing a frost.

A freeze, however, is caused by cold, Arctic air moving into a region. It is a relatively dry air mass that is much colder than freezing, and you can have strong winds. Much of the damage on plants from a freeze is desiccation.

Usually a hard freeze marks the end of a growing season. So how can we extend the garden a bit?

The idea is to provide a heat source at night. Soil warmed by the sun in the daytime is the source of heat for frost protection at night. Moist, smooth soil absorbs more heat. To trap heat from the soil around low-growing vegetables at night, place a covering that is low to the ground and spreading. To recharge the heat source for the next night, any covering over crops must allow sunlight to shine through to the soil or must be removed in the daytime.

The old method of covering the garden with blankets works well as long as the fabric remains dry. If the fabric absorbs water, evaporative cooling can lead to colder temperatures adjacent to the blanket. To recharge the heat stored in the soil, remove the fabric in the daytime.

There are also floating row covers. These covers are light-weight fabrics that lay directly over crops. Since they transmit light, they provide crop protection over an extended period of time without being removed. They provide 2 to 4 degrees F of frost protection and cut wind on plants.

These ideas may prolong your gardening for just a little longer. At some point, though, it becomes impractical and it's just better to put an end to this year's gardening season.

FROST ASTER

By Jake Landers

Early fall brings out the Asters. One of the most common on our rangeland and roadsides is Frost aster. It starts blooming in late September, sometimes a mass of white flowers hiding its green leaves, and continues past a few light frosts. Each bloom is smaller than a dime when it's expanded. By touching or overlapping its neighbor, the flowers give the whole plant a white appearance.

As a member of the grassland community, Frost aster extends today from central Texas to Iowa, maybe even a bit farther in both directions. Over this distance, it's a wonder how such a plant knows when to start blooming in time to make seeds before winter sets in. I'll spare you the details, but basically the plant has pigments which react to the decreasing length of daylight as fall approaches and which act as a biological clock. Flower buds develop when triggered by the time-keeper pigments. Oddly enough it may be the same set of chemical signals that causes horses, dogs, and other animals to grow a thicker coat for winter, and Monarch butterflies and birds to migrate south. It should not be a surprise that as we discover more information on DNA, we will find out how closely all life is related, that green plants and animals, including humans, have some of the same genes that run our biological clocks as well as other vital functions.

The scientific name of Frost aster is Aster ericoides. It is a member of the Sunflower family of plants. The second part of its name refers to the resemblance of the plant to Heath, a shrubby plant of the eastern mountains. Another common name is Heath aster, but I seldom hear it used around here. The plant tends to be hairy, and the leaves are narrow, but this does not prevent it from being grazed by sheep, goats, and deer which keep it thinned out in our pastures. It grows much more abundantly in our roadsides and parks. I saw a cluster of it in a vase in the main living area of a newly built ranch home the other day. It made me feel good that there are some among us who appreciate the earthy beauty of our native plants enough to display them along with more classy items in a beautiful home.

Frost aster is successful without being aggressively weedy. It can establish by means of wind blown seeds following mechanical disturbance of the soil, but an individual plant has a life span of only a few years. As one of the last of our native plants to bloom, it may provide a parting shot of pollen and nectar for Honeybees before settling into the hive for the winter as well as a reminder that we are also connected to the plants that grow around us. ## The Battle for Second Place

Senior Damon Evans (#32) and Junior Chance Campbell (#8) team up and bring down a Crane offensive player.

It all comes down to the final game in District 3-2A play on Friday night. Crane, 3-1 in district play, will be at home to host Sonora (6-3, 2-2). The Cranes have been to the Regional Finals five times since 1998 with the latest being 2009. Crane has also been to the Quarter Finals once; however, Crane has never won a State Championship in football.

As many of you who also follow track and field, we'll be seeing a lot of speed on the field. The Cranes and the Broncos always go head to head at all the spring track meets. This season in district play, Crane defeated Coahoma 21-7, Reagan County 28-20, and Stanton 23-13. Last Friday Alpine defeated Crane in Alpine 33-9.

According to a very short article in the Odesa American, Alpine's Fightin' Bucks (8-1, 4-0) amassed 322 yards on the ground and outgained the Golden Cranes (6-3, 3-1) by 486 to 192 overall. Crane's Oscar Murguia kicked a 38-yard field goal in the second quarter. Charles Tapia, Crane's quarterback, passed for 91 yards and rushed for the only touchdown. This was the first time Alpine had beaten Crane in six years.

Now for a little pre-playoff discussion....if the Broncos defeat Crane, both teams will have a 3-2 district record; however, the Broncos would finish in second place. If "the other thing happens" in Crane on Friday night, the Broncos take third place.

The game will be on artificial turf at the El Street Stadium in Crane at 7:30 PM. Take the 147 mile drive to support the Broncos in this important game.

I want to say thank you to all the people that helped my campaign. I also want to say thanks to all those who encouraged me to keep my head up during this election. I am asking all of the young people in Sutton County to get involved in Public Service. No one person owns Sutton County, we all do! There comes a time we must all take a stand together and be on the Right side of History. I look forward in whatever Jesus Christ has in store for me and you.

It was Arthur C. Clarke that stated "The only way of finding the limits of the possible is by going beyond them into the impossible"!
