MYRTLE BLAKE was weary, cold and bitterly discouraged. Her three weeks in the big city, where work was supposed to be plentiful...

Now it was noon, so she could interview nobody else till after one o'clock; therefore she came again to this great public mart and waiting-room as she had done several times before.

Unable to indulge in a soda here, Myrtle, who had those who could, and particularly the cashier who took their checks.

She had short, shining dark curls, a face of alabaster and roses, great dark eyes enhanced by heavily mascaraed lashes and faultlessly powdered and penciled eyebrows.

Each time that Myrtle had seen her it had been the same—at this time she evidently did her work with her other hand; she never seemed to remove the straws to speak...

"Wonder how much she makes," mused Myrtle. "It must be fine to work in this building! To think of that beautiful automaton having a good job like this while I must trudge in vain and starve!"

The next day was no better and than a severe headache kept Myrtle in her bed most all the rest of the week; it was miserable and long, she felt! Really knowing nobody in the city and having only a bowing acquaintance with one or two in the house where she stayed.

A too-fitting door separated her room from her neighbor's and sounds came through with annoying distinctness. The other's table stood right against this door so, each morning now, Myrtle was tantalized by the delicious fragrance of good coffee and she heard the crisp little noises of teeth biting into hot buttered toast.

"Miss Blake, I'm your neighbor, Mrs. Stead," said the tall, slender woman, pleasantly. "I had prepared to have my little boy with me today, but they can't bring him. As you and I are both alone, won't you please come in and have lunch with me? We ought to get acquainted, don't you think so?" Myrtle was only faintly well acquainted with this woman, whom she had never even seen—she must be short, matronly and comfortable.

Sunday afternoon found Myrtle feeling a little better and anxiously searched the "help wanted" columns of the newspaper when there came a light tap on her door. "Come in!" she called.

"Yes," said Mrs. Stead as Myrtle rose to return to her own room, "if you'll come with me tomorrow morning I'll introduce you to Mr. Wilms and I almost know he'll be glad to have you work for him—it's all ladies' wear." Then she added with a grimace, "Now I must get busy on my darning-up process. How I detest it! You see, I work there, too, in the Public Mart. I'm easilier for the soda fountain."

"Kill King Cotton," Says Expert; He Costs The South More Than He Is Worth; Cites Substitutes

The statement so persistently propagated that, without cotton, the South is doomed is branded as a gross fallacy by Wally Hasen in an article on "Let's Dethrone King Cotton" in the June issue of Texas Parade.

"It is impossible for anyone," writes Mr. Hasen, "to approximate an accurate figure as to the amount of depletion cotton has caused in our soil, water and human lives." A North Texas State Teachers college instructor who has made extensive studies in the field of cotton cultivation on soil, Mr. Hasen is a recognized authority on conservation problems.

"Rather than have our leaders engage in a campaign to save King Cotton, we should recognize cotton for what it is—a great waster of both natural and human resources—and we should do all in our power to eliminate this destructive force as quickly as possible," he writes. "It is time we cease paying tribute to a King who for many years, has been draining the South of its best resources. One authority estimates that the average acre of land loses 30 tons of soil each year cotton is grown. Government experiments near Tyler show losses up to 57 tons of soil per acre each year. Many farmers each year lose more from their land in terms of soil erosion than is received from the sale of cotton."

"Cotton, by virtue of the fact that it is a clean tilled crop, is one of the most destructive forms of land utilization practiced in the United States. A report from the Southern Forest Experiment Station at Holly Springs, Mississippi, shows that the time required to remove six inches of top soil from a 10 per cent slope under oak forest conditions is 40,000 years; from a Bermuda grass plot, 10,000 years; from a plot where cotton is planted on the contour, 28 years, and from a plot where cotton is planted in sloping rows, 10 years.

"Since six inches of top soil generally represents nearly all of the really productive soil provided by nature, one can readily understand why many farms no longer provide a living. The decline in production certainly is not a case of 'lazy niggers' or 'poor white trash' but essentially a case of soil depletion. 'Government authorities' still think in terms of maintaining King Cotton his throne. It is true that the AAA has aimed at some acreage reduction, but at the same time the growing of cotton on the better lands of the South is encouraged by price pegging. In other words, the government is encouraging the destruction of the remaining productive land in the South by offering upwards of double the world market price for cotton produced under its plan."

"The 'Domestic Allotment Plan' advocated by many leaders in the Cotton Belt has even less to offer than the present government plan. The main argument presented for this plan is that it would increase cotton acreage and thus keep more people on the farm—growing cotton! More acres, more people, wasting our great heritage, soil

PEONY NOTES: Cut peonies in the bud and they will last longer than when they are fully unfolded. If only fully-blown flowers are cut, carry a pail of water into garden and place cut blooms into it immediately. Peonies absorb a large amount of water and should be kept in three or four hours before taken into living room. If handled properly peonies last a long time.

FISHING FACTS: Keep leaders out of sunshine when not in use. Sunlight will make them brittle. To catch grasshoppers go into field before the morning sun is shining. Hoppers will be clinging to grass or grain, too stiff with cold to try to escape.

Small-mouth bass often feed in riffles of stream but are apt to be found in warm weather in deep water under ledges. If, when trout fishing, you find a low bridge which creates a shady dark spot in the water, try it. Rub juice of milkweed on leader to dull it. The flash of sunlight on a shiny leader frightens fish especially if water is low and clear.

INSPIRATIONAL: "A young man idle, and old man needy."

Giants Short Lived The circus giant, the man with abnormally long legs or other abnormalities of frame is a short-lived human. Tall men fall into two classes, those who attain their extraordinary growth because of inherited tendencies and those who become freaks because of some upsurge in the glandular functions. The man who "comes by his height naturally" usually lives a normal life span, but the freak seldom attains middle age. An insurance company, given to research in such matters, found that a number of men ranging from 7 feet 6 inches tall to 8 feet 7 inches had an average life of thirty-four years. The oldest died at forty-five, the youngest at twenty-seven.

Use of Mallow Mallow was known in Mahomet's time. To eat mallow in the morning would prevent one from getting disease. Ointment made from mallow was supposed to cure all those affected by witchcraft and also to prevent burns from hot metal.

Treasure Island Throng Enjoys Fair

On foot, in rolling chairs, rickshaws and on Elephant Trains, thousands visit every part of the California World's Fair daily, seeking out each beauty spot, every fascinating exhibit and attending each important event. Here is a part of the crowd along the Avenue of Olives, which separates the exhibit palace area and the Gayway. The Elephant Trains, Treasure Island "taxis," furnish the chief means of mass transportation about the 400-acre island.

Deeper drilling, advancing wage rates and constantly increasing taxes on Texas oil are raising prices of that commodity and its products, according to the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas association. Practically all items of equipment have also advanced, today's oil field supply bill running 3 per cent above 1932 and 31 per cent above 1922. This, in connection with restricted production, contributes largely to increased retail prices, it says.

This beautiful reflection of Dorothy Farrington is one of many alluring views at the California World's Fair. You aren't gazing at Miss Farrington in the glass bathroom of the Libby-Owens-Ford exhibit, however, but at her mirrored loveliness. The bathroom—which you can't peer into because it isn't that kind of glass—is a feature of the display in the Palace of Homes and Gardens, and visitors say it is a perfectly appointed room.

Hay Fever Season Is Coming; Wind Up Your Sneezes

Austin, June 26.—"It will not be many weeks until a large number of Texans will be sneezing, wheezing and in other ways evidencing that they are victims of so-called hay fever. Many of these persons, either because of ignorance or carelessness will endure their affliction, bolstered only by the distant hope of the "Fall frost" which will mark the end of their ordeal for this year. On the face of it, these allergies have a rather hard row to hoe. However, for many of them, this situation could be altered most favorably," prophesies the Texas State Health Department.

"Indeed, science has developed a successful method of combating many forms of this seasonal affliction. For persons who possess this unusual sensitiveness to the pollens of certain plants, weeds, grasses, and trees serums have been developed to counteract it. "Before this type of treatment can be effective it is essential that the particular pollen causing the disturbance be discovered. Guesswork plays no part in this investigation. The physician will make simple and painless tests with extracts of pollens that are suspected of causing the trouble. By way of a needle prick a minute portion of each of the pollens under suspicion is placed under the skin. And that extract which generates a slight local reaction points to the offender. Inoculation of that type of serum then is administered.

The potency of this treatment depends upon its use prior to the pollen season. Immunity must be established early. Eddy reactions to this type of therapy are slow. In fact several months, involving several treatments at intervals, are required.

In order to prevent spoilage of food, botulism which is a food poisoning, and to aid in conserving the food value of canned foods, it is necessary that gauges on pressure cookers register correctly.

As a part of the expansion program of the County Home Demonstration Council, Cooker clinics will be held throughout the month of July and the last week in June in the following places: West Camp school house, June 27, under direction of Mrs. J. J. Gross; Baileyboro school house, July 11, under direction of Mrs. Ruth Clements and Mrs. Curtis Moore; Progress, July 18 at the school house; Fairview July 25, at the school house with Mrs. Walter Rector and Mrs. J. H. Liston in charge; Circleback, July 27, at the school house with Mrs. Lester Patton and Mrs. George Garner in charge.

All these clinics will be held beginning at 10:00 a. m., and lasting through the day. Everyone in doubt about their pressure cooker be sure to bring it to one of these places. This applies to members of the Home Demonstration clubs and non-club members throughout the county.

Arrangements will be made later for clinics at Enclos, Maple, Watson, Bula, and Goodland.

COLD STORAGE LOCKER PLAN PROGRESSING

At a meeting held last Saturday afternoon at the court house here, considerable progress in securing stock received was reported, more than $1,500 now being offered for the plants at Muleshoe and Needmore, 14 miles south of here. Commitment declared there would be no difficulty in securing the $1,000 required for each of the plants before perfecting the organization and making application for loans to the Cooperative Bank at Houston, and it was proposed to finish such stock subscription this week all interested parties reporting back at another meeting to be held at the court house Saturday afternoon.

A world congress for leisure time and recreation will be held in Stockholm, Sweden, next year.

PROPOSED FARM TENANCY WOULD PLACE TWO-THIRD OF FARMERS BACK ON THEIR OWN PLACES

By BRUCE CATTON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—One of the big things the New Deal was going to do—back in its green and promising days—was to solve the farm tenancy problem.

It diagnosed the disease, described the symptoms copiously, and set to work, entrusting the task to the Farm Security Administration. But the Bankhead-Jones farm tenant act, with which it equipped FSA to do the job, didn't go far enough.

Under the first year of that act, FSA was able to put just 1800 land less farmers on farms of their own. This year it hopes to raise that number to 7000. It figures the maximum number it can handle under the act at 12,000 a year.

Meanwhile, it estimates that the number of tenant farmers and share-croppers is increasing at 40,000 a year—which leaves FSA much in the position of the cat that tried to get out of a well by jumping up two feet and sliding back three on each leap.

Now, at last there is a fair chance that a real, two-handed effort will be made.

Pending before a Senate subcommittee is the Lee amendment to the Bankhead-Jones act, which in effect, would apply FHA mortgage-insurance principles to the farm-purchase program to the extent of $350,000,000.

Fifty-two senators have signed the bill as co-authors, rendering Senate approval virtually certain. Prospects in the House, though less bright, are still encouraging.

Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma, originator of the bill, believes that ultimately it would get something like two-thirds of the nation's tenant and share-crop farmers back on land of their own. That is a large order; as he remarks, 42 per cent of American farms today are tenant farms, with the percentage far

TEXAS APPROACHES PENSION CRISIS; GOVERNMENT CO-OPERATION SLOW; CUT IN PAYMENT MAY LOOM

AUSTIN—Texas is rapidly approaching a pension crisis which can not be delayed longer than the first or second week in July.

There is a dispute and officials of the old age pension commission, unpleasant possibility that it may be necessary to cut down July pension payments from the present average of around $14 per person, to something less than $7 per person.

But that possibility is only one of a number of perplexing problems in which the old age pension commission finds itself as a result of failure of the Forty-sixth Legislature to provide new revenues while at the same time liberalizing the Texas assistance law.

Here is the future for pensions as seen Saturday by an official of the assistance commission. The immediate problem is federal approval of the new liberalized Texas law. The new plan has been submitted to Washington for approval, and officials are hoping against hope that an answer will be received early this week.

U. S. Approval Slow

But federal approval of any plan is notoriously slow, and unless some relief is received by about the second week in July, state officials feel they will have to go ahead and pay out what state funds they have. Since the state furnishes only half, pension checks necessarily

Bailey Co. Farmers To Get Premium On Wheat

College Station, June 26.—A dry year in Texas usually means high protein wheat, and that's one reason why wheat farm leaders here are glad to know that the Commodity Credit Corporation will grant premium premiums this year in addition to the regular loan rates, already announced.

The grain must contain at least 13 percent protein to be eligible for a premium. The bounty is 1 cent a bushel for Texas wheat of 13 to 13.9 percent protein, and one cent for each additional percent, beginning at 14.

Undoubtedly a lot more farmers will take advantage of the wheat loan this year than did last year, as the 1939 program has come out in time for the farmer to get it, plenty of thought and soon enough for the AAA to set up lending mechanism before harvest is too far along.

Wheat loans likely will be made in 127 counties this year, he said. To explain how the wheat loan and protein premium apply, Thomas cited the hypothetical Mr. Blank of Potter county.

MORE GOVERNMENT CHECKS ARRIVE

A consignment of 70 wheat checks, 1939 payment, totaling $1,474.54 was received here last week at the AAA office, making second payment of wheat funds received here, the first one of 50 checks totaling $1,952 having been received about three weeks ago.

Cotton parity checks are also being received weekly, nearly $300,000 of the total $400,000 expected having been received.

Cotton checks to farmers who became involved in the Jayton warehouse fiasco, where deductions have been made by the Commodity Credit Corporation, are being mailed direct to them.
