By CARLA BARANUCKAS
Pampa News Staff

It took the Gray County Commissioners' Court less than an hour to approve a redistricting plan for Gray County precincts Aug. 31.

Putting the plan into effect will be a lot more difficult. At best it will be confusing and expensive, according to county officials.

"I don't know that much about it," said Venora Cole, justice of the peace Precinct 2 Place 2. "I do know it's going to cost the county a whole lot of money."

The commissioners' court redistricted the county because of a court order by Judge Grainger McIlhany's 31st District Court.

The court order was issued as a result of a civil suit filed by Ralph Prock against the four commissioners at the time, Joe Clarke, J.O. McCracken, Ted Simmons and Don Hinton, along with Don Cain, county judge at the time.

The suit contended that 20 percent of Gray County's total population was represented by three commissioners, and 80 percent, Precinct 2, Pampa, were represented by one commissioner.

The plan approved by the commissioners' court leaves existing county precinct lines the same, but the city of Pampa is divided into four precincts. Each of the four divisions in Pampa is connected with one of the four precincts in the county by a strip of land 30 feet wide.

The plan follows a Texas Supreme Court ruling requiring that precinct lines must be contiguous or not separated by other precinct lines.

The redistricting plan will make other changes besides redefining precinct lines, according to Don Hinton, county judge.

Voting boxes in the city will have to be changed, constable and justice of the peace lines will have to be changed, and "in all probability" another justice of the peace and constable will have to be added, Hinton said.

The redistricting proposal may be cause for holding elections for wet and dry precincts, Hinton said. Currently the only wet precinct in the county is Precinct 2, in the northwest corner of the county, Hinton explained.

Until elections are held, wet and dry lines will remain the same as they were in the past, Hinton said. The only way to change the lines is for citizens to petition to hold a wet-dry election, he said.

Justice of the peace jurisdiction will apparently be affected, according to Cole and Nat Lunsford, justice of the peace Precinct 2 Place 1.

Persons receiving tickets for traffic violations must appear before the justice of the peace in the precinct where the ticket was written, according to Lunsford.

That would mean depending on what part of Pampa a ticket was written in, the person receiving the ticket may have to appear before the justice of the peace in McLean or Lefors.

However, if a justice of the peace is not available in the precinct where the ticket was written, the person receiving the ticket must appear before the justice of the peace in the next closest precinct, Lunsford said.

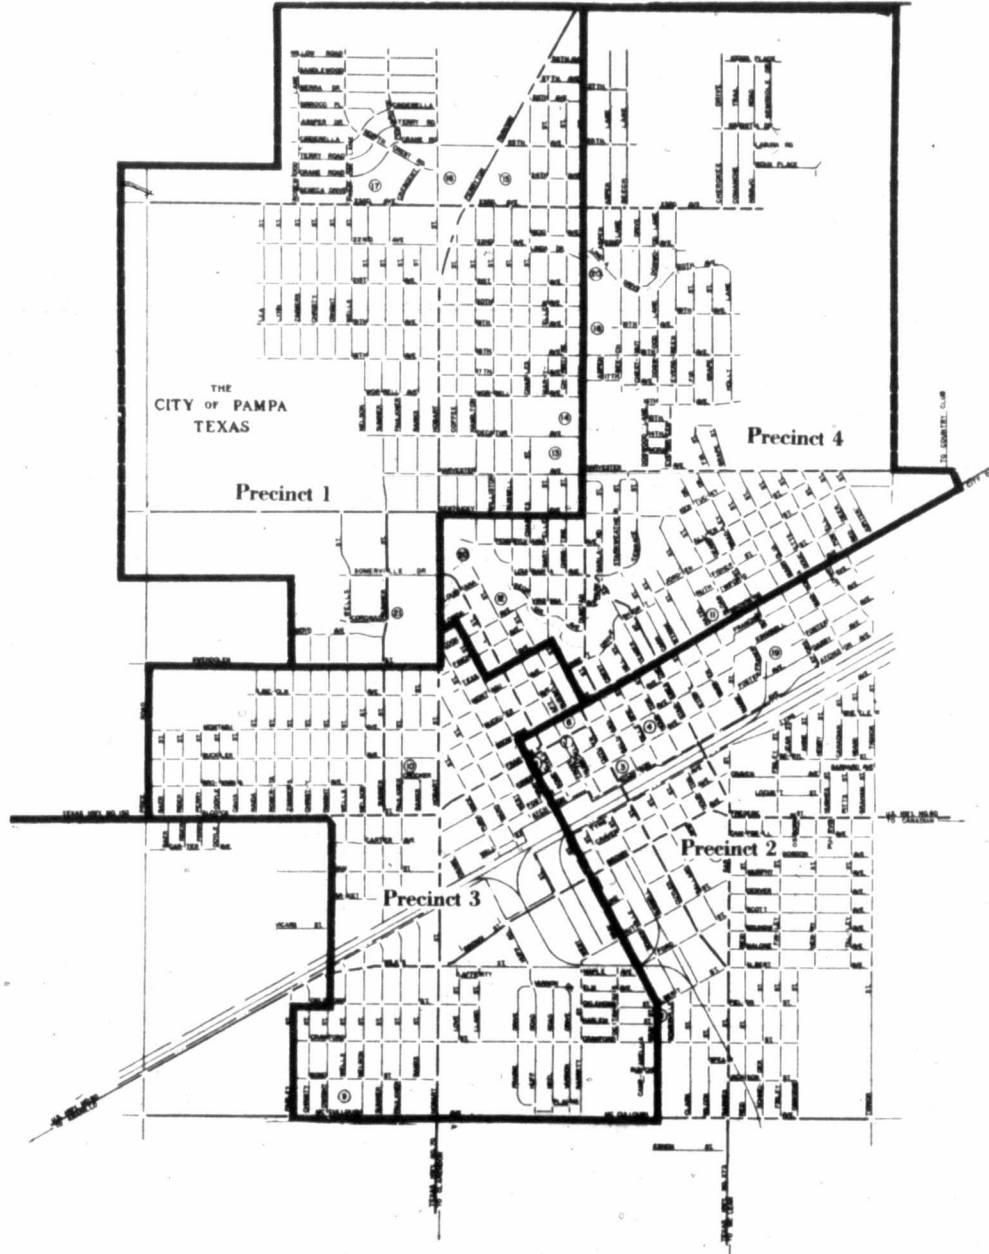

A ticket may be transferred to another justice of the peace at the request of the person receiving the ticket, according to Cole.

The procedure governing traffic violations would not be the same for small claims and evictions, according to Cole. Small claims and evictions must be handled by the justice of the peace in the precinct where the persons involved live, according to Cole. They cannot be transferred to another justice of the peace.

Because of that requirement, the McLean justice of the peace conceivably would have to handle some small claims and evictions in Pampa.

Precinct 3 does not have a justice of the peace now. If another justice of the peace and constable, are added to the (See REDISTRICTING page 4)

Local Democratic riff may hurt in November

(Editor's note: This is the first of a two-part story that will conclude Monday.)

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff

With elections only a couple of months away, a rift has surfaced among Gray County Democratic officials, which some of those officials say may damage the party in November.

Two factions have developed, one supporting County Chairman Ruth Osborne, the other opposing her. This two-way part alignment apparently became open in May, and has been intensified recently by a controversial move by Osborne — her challenge of the county delegation to the state Democratic Convention in Fort Worth Friday and Saturday.

Members of each faction claim to be in a majority, and downplay the size of the other faction. Since Osborne's challenge, the faction opposing her has been seeking her resignation.

A dispute began when the county delegation to the state convention was chosen at the county convention May 13. In the election for convention chairman, Edward M. Dunigan was chosen over Osborne by a vote of 51 to 16. The delegation chosen consisted of eight men (Walter Elliott, Ott Shewmaker, Jake Hess, J.L. Holmes, Ernest Wilkinson, Robert A. Wood, Foster Whaley and Fred Vanderburg, Jr.) and two women (Los Wilkinson and Mary Simpson).

In a letter dated Aug. 30 and sent to State Democratic Chairman Calvin Guest, Osborne challenged the delegation for failure to comply with the party's affirmative action rule, which requires at least one-third of the delegates to be of the opposite sex.

Following Osborne's challenge, members of the Gray County Democratic Executive Committee called a meeting of delegates and alternates Sept. 5, at which there was reportedly discussion of Osborne's resignation. The meeting was unofficial because Osborne neither convened nor attended it, so the faction opposing Osborne decided to wait until an official meeting to ask her to resign.

The two sides tell different versions of the past events. "There is a movement underway to dump Ruth Osborne," said one party official. He said many people are dissatisfied with Osborne's leadership and her lack of cooperation following her loss to Dunigan for chairmanship of the county convention in May. At that time, Osborne refused when asked for assistance with running the convention.

Osborne attributed Dunigan's victory to the fact that "they had their people there." She and her supporters said she spent long hours preparing for the convention, while Dunigan was unprepared; therefore, she did not feel obligated to help him.

"I took my papers and walked off the podium, which I think anyone would have done," Osborne said. She said lack of preparation led to a delegation not in conformity to the affirmative action rule. "They had not read the rules," Osborne said. "Consequently, they came up with more men than we were entitled to."

The faction opposing Osborne claims she challenged the delegation because of resentment for losing the county convention chairmanship, and out of jealousy for not being chosen as a delegate (she is an alternate).

"I really think this is just an outgrowth of her bitterness for not getting a seat at the convention," said a person involved with the party. "In the past sometimes our delegation has been mainly women and sometimes mainly men. She

Nixon plans tour around-the-world

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the absence of welcome mats in some countries doesn't dissuade him, Richard M. Nixon this week will announce an around-the-world trip to begin at the end of the month.

Although it would be a private undertaking, such a trip would return Nixon dramatically to the diplomatic stage he left when he resigned as president four years ago.

Texas senator finds humor

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (AP) — Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas has injected some humor into Virginia's U.S. Senate race at the expense of actress Elizabeth Taylor's movie career.

Bentsen summed up the race by using titles of some of Miss Taylor's movies: "Andy Miller is smooth, but he's running against National Velvet."

Summit talks show progress

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Carter's Mideast summit has produced progress on some fundamental issues but "substantial differences remain" and the outcome is unclear, U.S. spokesman Jody Powell said Saturday.

Lifting the secrecy lid a bit as Carter, Israel's Menachem Begin and Egypt's Anwar Sadat paused in their deliberations for stock-taking, Powell said all three governments concurred in his assessment

"The focus in the main has been substantive," Powell said. But he again declined to discuss which of the key topics on the summit agenda were yielding to compromise and which were stubbornly unresolved.

"We're not there yet," commented a member of one delegation, who asked not to be identified.

The visiting diplomat said that despite intensive exploration of the unresolved issues, the divergences between Israel and Egypt on these points were sharp. If they persist throughout the conference, Carter's summit may not properly be termed a success, he added.

President Sadat is pushing for Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank of the Jordan River as well as concessions for the Palestinian Arabs. Prime Minister Begin has offered civil self-rule to the Palestinians and has declined to commit Israel to a pullout.

Progress does seem to have been made in some areas," Powell told reporters at the daily briefing in an American Legion Hall at Thurmont, Md.

six miles from Camp David.

"However, substantial differences remain on other important issues and there is simply no basis for any informed speculation about the final outcome," he said.

Acting as spokesman for the three leaders, as he has throughout the four-day-old summit, Powell said Carter, Begin, Sadat and their advisers on Saturday were reviewing what has transpired to date.

Beyond the summit, new violence was occurring in the Mideast.

Smith to broadcast plans today

By MAUREEN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith plans to tell Rhodesia's angry whites in a nationwide broadcast Sunday how he plans to reply to the downing of a civilian airliner by black nationalist guerrillas.

There was speculation his "new course" for Rhodesia would include some form of general mobilization for the country's 260,000 whites — many of whom are in a vengeful mood over the air disaster a week ago in which 48 persons died. Rhodesia has a black population of 6.7 million.

Leaders of black nations which shelter guerrillas on Rhodesia's borders were reported expecting imminent attacks against guerrilla bases in their territory.

Witnesses said 10 of the 18 persons who survived the crash in a remote area near the Zambian border were murdered by guerrillas.

Joshua Nkomo, the guerrilla chief who met Smith secretly in Zambia last month in a new bid to end the guerrilla war, said his men downed the plane with a missile. He denied they slaughtered survivors.

After the crash, a minister in Rhodesia's six-month-old bi-racial administration said the transition government would not be able to meet its Dec. 31 target for transferring power to the black majority.

Rollo Hayman, co-minister of internal affairs, said at least four months would be needed after finalization of the as yet unpublished majority rule constitution before a referendum and universal suffrage elections could be held.

In Nairobi, a Kenyan newspaper criticized Nkomo's guerrillas for shooting down the plane, saying they had discredited themselves and committed a "barbaric blunder."

"War is abhorrent and in itself barbaric," the mass-circulation Daily Nation said. "But combatants are expected to show some measure of restraint in their conduct. This in wartime passes for decency. On this score, the guerrillas who shot down the plane and their leaders pass for outright barbarians."

The newspaper said the incident "ruined the nationalists' image" and "will cause more bloodshed."

Kenya, a former British colony, is now ruled by its black majority, but has retained a large white population.

The forces of Nkomo, co-leader with Robert Mugabe of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance, are based mainly in Zambia. Mugabe's guerrillas are stationed in Mozambique.

Youthful preacher just a boy

At first glance, David Powers looks like any other 13-year-old boy. The five-foot-eight-inch, sandy-haired boy bursts through the door as he gets home from school, puts his books away in his room and collapses in a chair.

He squirms a little as he talks and like most boys his age is embarrassed to be talking about himself.

What makes Powers different from most 13-year-olds is he is a preacher. He will preach for the first time here today at 9:45 a.m. from the pulpit of Calvary Assembly of God Church, where his father is pastor.

"I thought if he could do it, I could do it," said Powers. So he asked his father if he could preach.

"Sure," his father replied. "When?" asked Powers. "Sometime," his father answered. "Why not this week?" asked the eight-year-old boy.

That week Powers was allowed to speak for a few minutes, before his father gave the sermon.

Powers gradually spoke for longer and longer periods of time until he was giving the entire sermon.

Powers prepares his own sermons and always has, according to his parents.

"From the beginning, I told him that if he wanted to do it, it was his baby," said his father.

When Powers began preaching he would read some scripture passages and then speak from inspiration, he said. Now he usually works from an outline.

"We never knew what he was going to say," said his father. "That's why we have him use an outline now."

Before Powers preaches he prepares with scriptural study and prayer he said.

"It's a serious thing," said his mother. "We never let him step into the pulpit without preparation. It's not a show or a gimmick."

Powers said he gets a little nervous before he preaches, especially when he is preaching to people he doesn't know.

"I'm getting up there for the first time in this church," he said. "If you know the people, you can put more into it. When you don't, you don't know who they are or what they are or how they'll accept you."

When he finishes preaching a sermon, Powers says he has a feeling of great happiness.

"It feels like you've accomplished something," he said. "It makes you feel good that you have done something for your Lord that you know you can do."

Powers has preached in nine states and on television. A tape he made for a program to be broadcast regionally in the Midwest was picked up by the PTL Club.

The PTL Club is broadcast by satellite to approximately 700 stations around the world.

According to Powers, preaching on television is a lot different than preaching in person.

"That was more scary," he said. "All you're preaching at is a camera."

It was exciting and a little bit strange to be on television, Powers said.

"It was a real thrill, because I never knew it was going to be on the PTL

Railroading taxpayers

The Southern Railway has been ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) to keep a moneylosing train in service for another year. It is the road's Southern Crescent passenger train. This service has lost $6 million during the year 1977 alone but the ICC will force the Southern Railway to operate the train.

Now just suppose that instead of forcing the railroad management to continue a money - losing part of the business, the government would demand that stockholders directly subsidize the losses. What could we expect if each and every stockholder was billed for their part of the loss?

There would really be no difference to the stockholders. As far as income and asset value is concerned the ICC's arbitrary ruling would have the same effect.

The effect of a direct demand of money to subsidize transport users would probably have far - reaching ramifications, with none of them boding any good for expanded bureaucracy.

Arbitrary decisions by the ICC have been costing railroad investors millions for years.

Along with that, the overregulation this agency has forced on the roads have all but stopped real progress in this, one of our most vital industries.

A history of the railroad industry will show that at times the ICC has forced competition (or what it deemed proper competition) and in other rulings forced a noncompetitive arrangement.

Changes in rate structures have been demanded to favor certain localities and the rails have been forced at times to make large donations through rate drops for transport to disaster situations.

If livestock growers found themselves in feed difficulties through the drought or other reasons, would it not have been more honest to tell the roads they must donate a certain amount of money, rather than forcing them to lose that amount by a reduction in rates?

Going just a little further, why not just hit the railroad owners (stockholders) for their share of the amount of forced charitable contribution? Hidden in a loss through a rate change, no one thinks to challenge the government's assumed right to cause the eventual loss in earnings.

Amtrak has been negotiating to take over the Southern Crescent train system. Amtrak is one of the leading attempts by the federal government to nationalize railroad transport. This project has been just about as successful as the postal system.

An Amtrak official (bureaucrat) has suggested that the ICC order might press the Southern Railway toward agreeing to an Amtrak takeover. If this doesn't work, then Congress might be enlisted to order the takeover by congressional directive.

It is apparent that no matter which way the management of the railroad turns, it will be forced to a position where it will lose money.

Railroad stockholders are so greatly blessed with government interference that their investments are continually placed in jeopardy by such intrusion. Shippers and passengers are hurt by management hamstringing by regulations and controls. And taxpayers must pick up the tab for all the activities of unnecessary agency officials and their constantly growing staffs.

As a detriment of economic progress, the ICC ranks high on our list of little needed government agencies. Its demise could be the beginning of a great rebirth of progress for our vital railroad industry. We hope it will some day rank that way on the list of all the people it hurts. Only then will a change for the better occur.

The results are in!

After only three days back in school the results of a highly scientific study on the eating and drinking habits of high school students has been released to The Pampa News.

Never before have these findings been reported, although dozens of people were aware of the nature of this study.

Sonic Drive-In was the leader in where to eat, followed by Mr. Burger and Kentucky Fried Chicken. Maybe it's too far to drive to Burger King.

The Dairy Queen malt or shake was the favorite beverage, followed closely by Coors - kids in high school don't drink, do they - Coke, Miller Highlite, Pepsi and a Guanabana Nectar.

Guanabana Nectar? What do you mix with that?

This study was taken by counting the trash on front lawns and the gutter of one-half block of property located one block from the high school. Altogether 35 different cans, bottles, sacks, and assorted wrappings were counted. And this only three days back in school.

Just think to what heights this pile of trash will rise by the end of the school year. And how much fun the people that live near the high school will have in picking up after the unthinking slob who throw it out.

Ministers are always looking for something to bang on their pulpits about. How about this?

Yeah I know, people don't go to hell for littering... but it's a thought.

By ROBERT LEFEVRE

The successful delivery of a healthy infant who came into existence by test-tube insemination throws considerable light into an area that heretofore contained little more than conjecture. There is no longer any doubt that the feat can be performed. And since it has occurred, with more events of similar nature on the docket, the possibility of success now becomes probability. What does this do to all the traditional mores?

Until this event it could be reasonably argued within religious and theological bulwarks that insemination was entirely in the hands of God. Now it appears that the steady hand of a gynecologist skilled in biochemistry can become a surrogate for the Creator. The doctor's hands look more and more like those on the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel at the moment life was first given to Adam.

Some are already calling the act impious and sinful. But that complaint is as old as the physical sciences. Each time knowledge has emerged that revealed new truths, the church has protested and condemned those who pioneered. Then, in time, the church has backed away, made a one hundred and eighty degree turn and insisted that the new information was proof of God's existence rather than a pagan challenge.

The difficulty with this new development, as I see it, will not arise from the church so much as from the attorneys. Already the politicians are smacking their lips over the assumption that it will require a whole new body of law. Is the child whose birth was artificially stimulated outside the womb, a human being? Does it have rights? If it has rights, at what moment does the acquisition of rights take place? Does the child acquire rights when it emerges from the mother's womb? Does it acquire rights at the time the doctor places the fertilized ovum in the womb? Does it acquire rights at the time of conception? And if the latter question is answered affirmatively, does that mean that a medical practitioner is in the position of bestowing "natural rights?"

Symposiums will be scheduled and hosts of persons will now be self-proclaimed experts in the field once they have developed a point of view.

Whatever the point of view taken, the facts will endure. It is now a fact that the human ovum can be successfully impregnated by human sperm in a laboratory by a third party who supplies neither ovum nor sperm. Whether the process is desirable or undesirable becomes a matter of prejudice and judgment. That it can be done is now a matter of fact.

That this process will be a boon to many lonely couples goes without saying. Condemned by this or that physical impairment so that normal insemination is impossible and thwarted repeatedly by the red tape, the arrogance and the autocracy of the bureaucrats in matters of adoption, childless couples now have a method at hand that will offer an acceptable alternative to childlessness or adoption. They can, in fact have a child of their own.

The legislators, presuming themselves endowed with wisdom which fact has yet to be demonstrated, will, of course, try to regulate the process. I would urge them to desist, but they have never listened to me so I don't expect them to in this case. either. If government says that artificial insemination may not occur, we will find a black market emerging. When deep emotional commitments exist, people will do as they please and the government can go jump in the lake.

But legislators are notoriously fearful of mental cleanliness and principle. They will point out that some women, perhaps those of considerable means, will now be able to have their own children by arranging for insemination in the lab and then by developing the fetus in the womb of some other woman who will rent her facilities for the purpose. Since someone might take a living by this process it is predictable that government will cry out in horror. Making money is deemed wrong unless one happens to be a legislator.

But it will go beyond this. For the fertile mind of the legislator will point out that woman A, married to man AA, may very well provide an ovum which will be voluntarily fertilized by the sperm of man B. Indeed, it is possible that woman A will provide sufficient ova (funds being available, of course) so that man B, C, D, and E may all become fathers of her children without a single instance of dalliance in the arms of someone other than her spouse.

Will these children be illegitimate? Will they be human?

But worse. What is to prevent the following event? Woman A arranges for insemination by her husband, man AA. But the doctor discovers after several attempts that the sperm of the male lacks the vigor and vitality necessary for conception. So the doctor selects a sperm more to his liking (possibly one of his own) and performs the insemination clandestinely. If a large fee hinged upon a successful fertilization, there could be motive for such actions. In that case would the doctor be guilty of adultery?

I can imagine future court cases in endless (costly) numbers in which defendants charged with this, or that infraction may be placed under the burden of trying to establish their true identity, if, indeed, they were the products of laboratory insemination.

It is certainly time that we took a good look at what all of the foregoing indicates. What it means is that more and more we human beings are unable to face facts. We turn to government to define our mores; to declare our ethics and to enforce our morals. I'd like to suggest that this development ought to inspire us to realize that we must deal with people as they are, not by some archaic notions respecting their births. And that the whole process of legal meddling in this area can be safely bypassed if we could only learn to mind our own business.

When gadflies draw blood

Most of us, if only subconsciously, appreciate the gadflies.

Conservative women who would never think of carrying a picket sign nonetheless secretly applauded the ice-breaking crusaders who are out there in the front lines making headlines with their insistence on women's fights.

Americans are inspired by a Howard Jarvis who, with persistence, forced a whole state to reduce property taxes. His is becoming a national tax revolt now.

The arguments advanced by these Don Quixotes inevitably eventuate in battle cries that we can all rally 'round.

It takes the likes of them to make a point sharp enough to draw blood.

When he took on the automobile industry, Ralph Nader got a lot of mileage out of his slogan: Unsafe At Any Speed.

The handle for the Proposition 13 tax revolt in California was the "tea bag." Reminiscent of our nation's earliest revolt against Britain's tax collectors when we dumped that British tea into Boston harbor, the California effort was labeled "the tea bag tax revolt" and the tea bag was effectively used as a symbol.

Also, some of the rhetoric which evolves from these campaigns is highly useful in clarifying complex issues.

Jarvis said: "The only way to cut government spending is not to give them the money in the first place."

He said, "I can list 25,000 things which the government ought to get out of tomorrow."

There is an element of truth in the jest of tax resister Irwin Schiff who said, "Products are recalled if they shrink, malfunction or don't do what they are supposed to do; perhaps our government should recall the dollar for those reasons."

And in the accumulation of ammunition for his cause celebre he came up with this:

A hundred million Japanese live on an island the size of California with no oil, no natural gas, no iron, no vast farmland and no timber.

Yet that nation, with fully half our nation's population, creates a higher standard of living for its people, enjoys a trade surplus and has currency increasing in value daily.

And Mr. Schiff orders this sobering comparison relating to our nation's inflation.

This year's 10 percent-plus inflation rate will wipe out $100 billion of purchasing power. All our money in and out of circulation will be worth that much less.

That is a greater financial loss to our nation in this one year than all of the bank failures during all of the years of the Great Depression of the Thirties.

At 70 times greater loss!

It may be that the battle cry for the next "revolution" has already come from the lips of Alaska's Wally Hickel. He says, "The next revolution in our nation will be when those Americans who work refuse to support those who can work but will not."

In slogans we distill the essence of a grievance. Or, as we say in the Missouri Ozarks, these most effective proponents of a cause have a way of "shucking right down to the cob."

Regulation and inflation

and the regulatory agencies are responsible for decreasing the production of certain goods and services.

The impact of output on prices is illustrated in George Edward Dickey's recently published doctoral thesis concerning money, prices and growth from 1869 to 1896. This period was characterized by a strong downward trend in the general level of prices accompanied by a rapid economic growth and a rising per capita income. Price indexes for 1869 showed wholesale prices at 151, consumer prices at 147, the cost of living at 95, and rent at 187. (Please note these are index figures and have no relationship to each other.) By 1879, the indexes were down to 90, 108, 79 and 148 respectively, and in 1896 the wholesale index was 68, and the cost of living index, 74. (Rent and consumer indexes are not shown for that year.)

Thus in 1896, wholesale prices were only 46 percent of their 1869 level and in 1879, the wholesale index was 59 percent of the 1869 figure. Yet during the 27-year period, the money supply increased a total of 237 percent. It rose on average, over 1 percent annually between 1869 and 1879 and about 6 percent from 1879 to 1896.

Dickey explains that the nation's output was so great as to overcome any inflationary tendency of the increasing money supply. The primary cause of the price decline was the growing output. He lists a number of factors apart from profit incentives that caused economic expansion, among which was the laissez-faire atmosphere characterizing governmental attitude toward business. In contrast, today the government rules and regulations inhibit investment and risk taking, limiting the production of goods and services and making them more expensive, overall.

The Federal Reserve adds to the problem when it increases excessively the money supply. In their classic study of monetary history of the United States from 1867 to 1960, Milton Friedman and Anna J. Schwartz show a strong correlation between the amount of money in circulation and the level of prices. During those 93 years, there were only two major price inflations: a more than doubling of prices from 1914 to 1920, and again from 1939 to 1948.

Each covered a period preceding and following world wars. In both wars, the money stock more than doubled in a relatively short period of time. During the 93-year interval, substantial and continuous rise in prices during peacetime took place during only one period, from 1897 to 1914, when prices rose by 40-50 percent. Again, a connection is apparent with the money stock, whose average annual rate of growth (about 7.5 percent) for those years, was higher than during any other period of comparable length, excluding those covering the world wars.

Friedman and Schwartz characterize four segments of the 93 years as displaying a relatively high degree of economic stability and these same years were marked with a high degree of stability in the annual change in the money stock.

Those seeking to curb inflation should make sure that these lessons of history are not ignored. While it does not seem possible for the Federal Reserve System to disappear, the lesson provided by the recent airline experience should encourage deregulation at all levels of government, if for no other purpose than merely to increase production and thereby lower prices.

Prosecutor named to probe

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — A special prosecutor from the attorney general's office has been appointed to help a Hidalgo County grand jury in its probe of alleged misuse of federal manpower program funds.

John Blanton, an assistant attorney general from San Antonio, will work with the grand jury that asked for an extended term to look into the manpower programs.

The grand jurors are working with evidence gathered earlier this year at a court of inquiry convened here by State District Judge Joe Cisneros. Eight area residents — including officials from various cities and anti-poverty agencies — were charged with misuse of public funds as a result of Cisneros' investigation.

No indictments have been returned on those charges.

State District Judge Joe B. Evins, who granted the extended grand jury session, and Blanton had no comment about the precise nature of the investigation. The grand jurors have been in special session since Thursday.

Evins said Blanton was sent in after the grand jurors asked for a prosecutor not connected with the local district attorney's office.

Investigator Don Lee of the attorney general's organized crime unit was also sent to aid the grand jurors.

Investigations into the federal manpower programs have already led to guilty pleas from several Rio Grande Valley men. The programs have been scrutinized by state and federal grand juries.

Organ donor program kickoff set Donations may save lives

By KATHY BURR
Pampa News Staff

Many people will never need a kidney transplant, but people like Paul Trolin, and J.C. Wainright know what it is like to need a kidney.

On April 24, J.C. Wainright, Amarillo, received a kidney transplant, after being on a dialysis machine for a year.

Paul Trolin, Pampa, has been on the machine for four and a half years, is looking forward to the day when he can receive his transplant.

What can be done to help kidney patients?

Monday is the kick-off day for the organ donor program.

Bill Jackson, executive director of the Kidney

Foundation of the Texas Panhandle, said candy will be sold by various Pampa organizations for one dollar a bag in order to promote this program.

The goal for the program has been set at $20,000. "We want to make people aware that they can donate their kidneys."

Trolin and Wainright explained dialysis can be a very time consuming process.

Currently Trolin is using the machine three times a week for six hours at a time.

What's it like to go on the machine?

"It's an adjustment," Wainright said. "You can't work and you have to go on disability."

Trolin added people needing kidneys have to go on a strict diet.

How many people are organ donors?

Jackson said more and more people are starting to use organ donor cards, but out of 12,000 people on the organ donor list, he explained only 4,000 will receive transplants, because of the shortage of kidney donors.

And it isn't that difficult to donate an organ. It can be done by signing the back of your driver's license, or by filling out an organ donor card.

Jackson said anyone can give a kidney and there is no expense to the family. The transplants are government funded according to Jackson. Although an individual can stay on a machine indefinitely, as Jackson said, it is better to get that individual off the machine and back into productivity.

Texas schools may get federal money

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Board of Education approved Saturday a speedy hearing policy for handicapped children that board officials hope will make Texas eligible for $41 million in federal funds.

Joe Kelly Butler of Houston, board chairman, said the action was the final step necessary to qualify the state for the new federal program of education for the handicapped.

Board members took these other actions:

- Denied the appeal of former Southland Independent School District Superintendent T. E. Dickerson, who claims he was fired in 1976 for campaigning against several local school board members.
- Put off, in effect, a major decision on whether special education for the handicapped must be provided in local schools without regard to cost.

—Recommended legislation increasing state support of driver education from $25 to $78 per student and making the program available to 39 percent of 10th through 12th graders instead of 25 percent.

The board said the $18.7 million annual cost would be insignificant compared with the lives saved, not to mention $212 million annually in property losses.

—Requested legislation establishing nine pilot programs, starting as early as kindergarten, in "education for parenthood."

—The highest identified reason for leaving school continues to be marriage or pregnancy. The number of child abuse cases among teen-age parents increases yearly. An appropriate response to their needs may be a program of educating for parenthood in public schools," the board's statement said.

The board established a new policy, designed to comply with the new federal law (Public Law 94-142), for appealing local decisions on identifying handicapped children and placing them in classes.

Six hearing officers were appointed immediately and must hold hearings within 10 days after a parent complains. Parents may appeal to the commissioner of education if they remain dissatisfied, and the commissioner must act within 30 days.

Board counsel Bill Bednar said the entire process fits within the 75 days prescribed by the federal law. He told the board he felt hopeful the federal government now would accept Texas' plan for educating the handicapped.

United Fund kickoff set in Canadian

CANADIAN — A goal of $16,940 has been set for the upcoming United Fund Drive in Canadian.

In a meeting earlier this week, United Fund Directors reviewed budget requests from 10 organizations and said the campaign will kick off with a breakfast on October 2 at the First United Methodist Church.

A one week drive has been planned by the volunteers; however, many of the businesses will be contacted in the two weeks prior to the actual drive.

Volunteer workers in last years drive collected 5,000 over their goal of $11,200.

This year's drive is headed by Jim Pollard, president; Gary Minyen, vice president; George Cook, treasurer and Dorothea Morehead, secretary.

PARAMOUNT APPOINTS LOS ANGELES (AP) — Francis O'Brien has been named vice president and executive assistant to Michael D. Eisner, president and chief operating officer for Paramount Pictures Corp.

O'Brien previously served as vice president of marketing administration for the Motion Picture Division.

A complainant at 802 N. West St. reported the theft of a bicycle. It was later recovered under the bridge on Cook St.

An officer observed a vehicle eastbound on East Frederic, driving with expired license plates. The vehicle was stopped and the driver, Dale Glen Collins, 17, was found to be intoxicated. He was charged with driving while intoxicated.

An officer received a prowler report in the 1000 block of N. An officer received the report of a prowler in the 1900 block of North Faulkner, and found a suspect in that area. When the suspect, Glen Edward Black, 20, saw the police unit he fled and jumped a fence into a private residence. The officer found the suspect and cited him for fleeing a police officer and criminal trespassing.

Troops, tanks used to enforce law

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Thousands of troops backed by tanks fanned out Saturday to enforce a martial law decree in this capital city where at least 86 persons died Friday as soldiers battled anti-government rioters.

The shah of Iran postponed a trip to Romania and East Germany to deal with the violence, among the bloodiest in the wave of anti-government protests that have claimed more than 1,000 lives since January.

An uneasy calm prevailed as troops and tanks weapons guarded most street corners

(Continued from page 1) Club," he said. "But viewing the tape - I guess you could have said it looked a little strange. I've never seen myself preach before."

Being a 13-year-old preacher does have its problems, according to Powers. His voice is changing, and it will suddenly change pitch while he is preaching.

"It kind of throws him," said his father. "But he just turns red and goes on."

On occasion Powers has been the target of ridicule from other people his age.

When he lived in Benton, Ark., he had a little teasing at school, according to his father.

"I just ignore it," said Powers. "It doesn't make me want to stop."

And apparently he doesn't plan to stop preaching. What does he want to be when he grows up? A minister, of course.

Behind the Scenes

with
Pampa News City Editor
 Greg Hardin

WE WANT TO REMIND everyone that school is open again and everyone that gets behind the wheel should be watchful for children as they drive the city streets. Small children forget and dart from behind parked cars so keep your eyes on the road and your foot off the gas when traveling around town.

WE WERE GLAD TO GET word in writing that Zales Jewelers and Stevenson's will be opening stores in the mall when construction is completed. Pampa is fortunate to have the people in city government behind them in developing the city's resources to better Pampa's way of life. We are waiting patiently for other businesses to finalize their agreements before announcing their future plans in Pampa.

LABOR DAY WAS A DAY OF LOVE for all those that participated in the Muscular Dystrophy drive here. We noticed the young people that volunteered their time and efforts to make the drive a success. We offer all the workers for MD a big thank you. We believe little kids shouldn't be the only volunteers seen on street corners though. We realize many adults put in a lot of time but we think everyone should get behind a project like MD with their full support.

TODAY IS THE BEST DAY to start regular attendance at the church of your choice.

WE WERE TOLD that the mall has been awarded its building permit by the city and is proceeding without any drawbacks. The developers of the $7.5 million complex paid the city $4,211.50 for the permit we have been told. We know that the revenue from the construction of the mall will benefit the people of Pampa. We hope there are plans being made to earmark some of the money for recreation for Pampa's young people, they could use a place to hang their hat.

WE ARE IMPRESSED by the great care that is given to Pampa's parks but we can't say too much about the tennis courts. We noticed the lawns in the parks are beautifully kept and virtually litter free but the various things supplied by the recreation dept., such as the courts, are not maintained at all. We think that a little less care could be given to the grass at the parks and a little more care given to the courts and pools the city has spent thousands of dollars on but now are not keeping up. A little paint on anything improves the item and a little rake and broom could help.

PAMPA PRECINCTS 1, 3 and 4 are connected to the county precincts by 30 foot wide strips of land running along the county line. The strips of land are represented by heavy black lines in the map above.

Redistricting problems

(Continued from page 1) county payroll. It will cost approximately $17,000 in salaries alone, based on current salaries of justices of the peace and constables. Office expenses would raise the cost even higher.

The tax assessor-collector's office will have the job of changing the voter registration in Pampa to correspond with the new precinct lines, according to Jack Back, tax assessor-collector.

"Nineteen eighty is when we'll have to rearrange them," Back said. "That'll be a big job to change them. We'll have to add at least two more (voting) boxes in Pampa, maybe three. It's the kind of thing that we won't know how it's going to work until we get into it. I do know it's going to cost the county money and time."

When voters receive their reregistration in 1980, the registration card will show what precinct the voters are in, according to Hinton.

The county clerk's office will be affected by the redistricting because of the change in voter registration, according to Wanda Carter, county clerk.

"The special problems our office will have to deal with regard redefinition of the voting precincts," Carter said. "The voter registration will all have to be changed. This is handled by Jack Back's office, but we have to handle the elections and absentee voting. It directly concerns us in that we work with the election judges in each precinct."

While no one seems to be sure how redistricting will work, all the county officials interviewed indicated it will cost the county a lot of money. Where will all the money come from?

"There's not but one place it can come from - the taxpayer," said Hinton. "I don't want to raise taxes and I do not plan to. We're just going to have to live within the budget. We're going to do our level best to keep from raising taxes."

Most Pampa residents are unaware of the redistricting proposal approved by the commissioners' court, according to a random survey of people in front of the post office Wednesday afternoon.

Attendance a must in Pampa

Well, school is back in session and for some students that means cutting classes. If you're a student at Pampa High School, maybe you had better think again.

According to Scott Dunham, assistant principal in charge of attendance, the attendance policy will be enforced stronger than it was last year.

year, but it will be enforced stronger this year," he said. "We want to make it a workable situation."

Dunham explained last year's attendance was better than ever but prior to that some abuse had taken place.

"When dealing with 1400 kids, someone will abuse it," he said. "We have a good policy, and the kids realize it is fair."

Under the present policy if a student is absent from a class they must present a written excuse from their parent or adult guardian explaining their absence before they can be admitted to class.

Dunham said he would take this policy one step further and call the parents in order to check on the absence.

The policy will also deal with an excessive amount of tardies.

Dunham said the student would be placed in the detention hall, and if the situation continues he will be suspended from school.

He explained he does not have to deal with this policy by himself. "The entire faculty works with me, because they realize that I am going to try to do a good job."

He has had a few problems with teachers not working with him, but at one time there were a few who were allowing students back in the classroom without an excuse.

Dunham said, "That was when we hadn't placed that much emphasis on the policy."

He explained the tighter policy came about when the changes were made in the reporting policy.

"We want to make what we have a better working policy."

Leslie Johnson, a former Pampa DECA student, entered her freshman year at West Texas State University this fall as a marketing major.

During her junior and senior years at Pampa High Leslie was active in DECA and attributes much of her personality development to this.

"Because of DECA I have gotten a lot of training, have become more mature, and DECA has helped my personality develop."

If you are not familiar with DECA, Leslie explained that DECA stands for Distributive Education Clubs of America. The club, which deals with marketing and distribution, is open to students in their junior and senior year in high school.

Why did Leslie join DECA? "I thought a vocational club would be good."

Distributive education works with the general public."

Several of the activities she was involved in, because of DECA, included the annual picnic for new students, the Top O' Texas Rodeo and the Jerry Lewis Telethon.

DECA students also participate in local, area, state and national contests. She explained that during this past year the Pampa DECA Chapter was named the outstanding chapter in the area. During area competition Pampa won more competitive events than any other chapter present.

They were also named the chapter of the year at state competition by winning both the project and the competitive events.

Nine DECA students attended national competition and one competed among 12 finalists for the student of the year award.

Leslie says after college she hopes to buy merchandise for a fashion department or go into her own business.

"DECA gives students a lot more opportunities, she said.

Be prepared for emergencies

My recent column on the Vial of Life program brought a flood of inquiries from readers. I hope this follow-up will help answer some of the questions posed in those letters.

The vial itself is usually one of the cylindrical plastic pill containers about 3 inches long that are often supplied by druggists when filling prescriptions. But anything similar can also be used. The most important part of the program is the information within the vial. Listed separately for each member of the household should be the name and telephone number of his or her physician, recent illnesses (particularly a heart condition or high blood pressure), special medication and the name, address and telephone number of the next of kin. The vial and its contents are then taped to the top right side of the refrigerator shelf.

But the program cannot end here. Vial of Life must be a community affair, linked with the local rescue squad. The vial will do you no good if the paramedics do not know whether it exists or where to look for it.

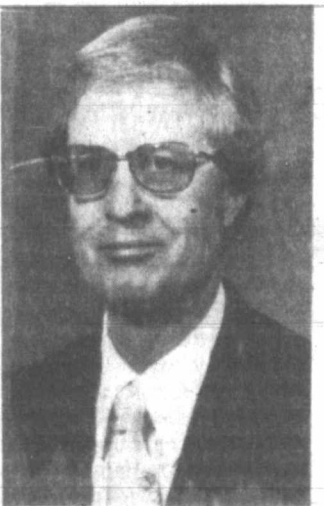

So, bring the program to the attention of the nearby facility that offers emergency rescue service. It may be the fire of police department, a hospital or the American Red Cross.

While we're on the subject, here is other valuable advice to help you prepare for medical emergencies:

Do you live in an area where 911 is the emergency number to dial for the police and fire departments? You can save precious moments by dialing the rescue service direct instead of using the general 911 number. Find

DECORATING TRENDS...

by Charlie's

LIVE, OUTDOOR COLOR has always been an effective part of interior decoration. Every woman knows the fresh charm flowers bring to a room. With a little thought you can use cut flowers from your garden as an integral part of your color scheme.

But you don't have to be dependent on the seasons or the state of your rose bushes to have outdoor color and life in your home. The "garden look" is good the year around, and it is inexpensive to obtain.

Artificial flowers are much more lifelike today, and you can create your own floral arrangements, so real you have to touch them to be sure. Lacquered flowers, leaves under glass or in plastic, are only a few of the outdoor effects available.

Equally effective, if not more so, are live plants that grow well indoors. Use them in imposing pots in the hall, in a room divider, or to brighten an empty corner. Touches of greenery are welcome in any room.

Don't underestimate the psychological effect of floral prints in upholstery fabrics, too. Our fabric selection right now is excellent. You'll find prints and stripes and solid tones to choose from, available in lovely furnishings from the nation's finest manufacturers. Come in and look over our showroom!

Big play has holiday at Hereford

By JOE BLOBAUM
Pampa News Sports Editor

HEREFORD — Football fans who get their kicks from the big play got their money's worth here Friday night from Pampa and Hereford.

The Whitefaces downed the Harvesters 13-7 in a contest that featured electrifying runs, a punt return for a touchdown and loose balls all over the field. And the fans didn't have to wait long for the fireworks to start.

The first play from scrimmage was a 53-yard gallop by Hereford quarterback Jackie Mercer, setting the Herd up on the Pampa four-yard line with less than a minute gone in the game. Mercer's ramble was set up by Kevin Finch's 19-yard return of Pampa's kickoff to the Hereford 43.

One five-yard penalty and two downs after Mercer's crowd-pleasing run, halfback Joe Walker took a pitch from his quarterback and broke two tackles on his way to a lurching eight-yard touchdown run. Bunch's kick made it 7-0 with more than ten minutes remaining in the first quarter.

The Harvesters hardly had time to recover from the shock before the Herd had its hands on the ball again. Doug Kennedy returned the kickoff to the Pampa 35 and, with the aid of a 27-yard run by Doug Smith, the Harvesters had a first down on the Herd's 36.

But with third down and two facing them, Pampa's offense lost the first of two fumbles as quarterback Greg Quarles lost control on the exchange from center. Hereford's Glen Yosten fell on the loose ball at the 33 for the first of his two recoveries for the game. The Whitefaces ran into some problems of their own, however. Some stout defense, a fumble and an offensive pass interference penalty forced Hereford into a fourth and 32, but the Herd got into scoring position on its next possession.

Starting from their own 37, the Whitefaces picked up a pair of first downs and were on the Pampa 39 as the first quarter ended.

Faced with a second and 11, Mercer hit split end Keith Adams with a pass at the 34, but the force of Greg Koch's tackle shook the ball loose. Hereford recovered for a three-yard loss on the play and punted to the Pampa 26.

The Harvesters failed to move the ball, however, and Pampa's punt set up the Herd's final score of the game. The kick was shanked and bounced backward after hitting the turf, giving the Harvesters a net gain of one yard.

The defense sacked Mercer for a two-yard loss on the Herd's first down, but Robert Graves knifed his way through the Pampa defense for 31 yards on the next play to give the Whitefaces a 13-0 lead.

That was all the scoring in the first half, but the Pampa defense and a clipping penalty managed to force Hereford into second and 28, fourth and 30 and third and 30 situations before the intermission.

Pampa managed to change one of the night's patterns by getting good field position on the second half kickoff. Rudy Roland gave a preview of things to come by returning the boot 37 yards to the Harvesters' 44.

The offense couldn't move the ball, but a good punt put the Herd in a hole at its own 16. Minutes later, Roland couldn't find the handle on a Hereford punt but still gave his team the ball on its own 39.

Halfback Mike Porter and Quarles combined to bring Pampa within inches of a first down on three downs and Kennedy made the Harvester gamble pay off as he carried tacklers past the first-down marker at midfield.

Following a three-yard gain and an incomplete pass, another big play came along to stop the Pampa drive. Linebacker Richard Olson intercepted Quarles' screen pass and promptly fumbled, but Yosten jumped on the ball to take away another opportunity for the Harvesters.

Hereford quickly picked up a first down on the Pampa 23 as Walker zipped around the left end for 16 yards, and threatened to go ahead by three touchdowns when Walker's five-yard effort the Herd a first down on the Harvester 12.

But linebacker Clyde Coffee covered a Whiteface fumble on the next play to give Pampa its only recovery of the night. A Quarles-to-Roland aerial gave Pampa 36 yards in the passing column and a first down on the Hereford 37, but another fourth-down gamble didn't pay off for the visitors.

This time, Kennedy was stopped inches short of a first down, and the Whitefaces took over on their own 29. The squads exchanged punts and, with 6:58 to go, the Herd found itself with first down on its own 14.

Two minutes later, Mercer was forced to punt from his own 20 and the explosion Pampa fans had been waiting for all night finally went off.

Fielding the kick at his own 45, Roland spun around, raced to the right side of the field and was escorted by a wall of blockers along Pampa's sideline en route to the end zone. With the help of some textbook downfield blocking, Roland went 55 yards for the Harvesters' first touchdown of the season.

Third-string placekicker Bobby Ward, forced into action due to minor injuries sustained by those higher on the depth chart, came through with the extra-point kick as 4:40 remained on the clock.

The Pampa defense held and forced Hereford to give up the ball with just under three minutes left, but Quarles' 12-yard pass to Henderson was about all the offense the Harvesters could muster before giving up the ball on their own 44 with 1:15 left.

Open finals feature three past champs

By CHRISTY BARBEE
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg will play runner-up Jimmy Connors again and defending champion Chris Evert will play 16-year-old Pam Shriver Sunday in the finals of the U.S. Open tennis championships.

Playing in crisp, rain-freshened air but a brilliant, baking sun, Borg, the patient, versatile Swede, downed Vitas Gerulaitis 6-3, 6-2, 7-6 Saturday. Connors came from behind in the third set to down 19-year-old John McEnroe in the other semifinal 6-2, 6-2, 7-5.

Evert, who will be trying to win her fourth consecutive U.S. Open crown, downed Wendy Turnbull easily, 6-3, 6-0, in a semifinal that was resumed Saturday morning after heavy rains Friday.

Shriver, overthrew top seed Martina Navratilova Friday, 7-6, 7-5, to become the youngest finalist ever in the American championships.

If Evert beats her, she would be the first woman to attain four in a row since 1935 when Helen Jacobs won her fourth.

Borg was ready for another showdown.

"I think Jimmy is very happy I won. I know he wants to beat me very badly," he said. Borg has beaten Connors in five of their last six meetings, including the last two Wimbledon finals.

If he does it again this time, he will have won three of the year's Grand Slam events — he won the French Open and Wimbledon titles earlier — and would need only the Australian title at the end of the year to complete the sweep.

Borg did not get nearly so tough a match from Gerulaitis as both had predicted he would. They had been practicing together at Gerulaitis' home nearby, and both had said they were about even in practice matches.

Gerulaitis held service only in the first and seventh games of the opening set. He broke for 2-4 but was not steady enough to ward off a final game break.

Borg built a 4-1 lead in the next set. Gerulaitis held for 2-4, but got only three more points as Borg ran out the set.

Gerulaitis began to combine accuracy with his quickness in the next game, though, and broke for 1-0, winning all our points. He stayed just a step ahead through the seventh game, in which Borg toughed out three deuces to hold at 3-4.

But Borg evened it in the eighth game, when Gerulaitis double-faulted. Gerulaitis had break point at love in the next game, but Borg held service.

hitting a good drop shot and waiting for three errors by Gerulaitis.

Gerulaitis got another break for 6-5 when Borg's backhand went into the net on the second point of a deuce. But he blew his service game, forcing the tiebreaker, on three errors from near the net and one hit too long from the baseline.

Borg got the first four points quickly. Gerulaitis got two in a row, then another for 3-5. But he fell hard after leaping for and missing a volley. He double-faulted on match point to give Borg the tiebreaker 7-3 and the match.

Connors played eagerly and well through the first two sets. He broke McEnroe's service in the third and seventh games of first set. McEnroe, who turned pro just this summer, held just once in the second set, the first game.

They traded breaks in the third and fourth games, but Connors broke again in the fifth and seventh games as his own passing shots heated up and McEnroe's approaches faltered.

But McEnroe became more aggressive in the third set. Connors held only in the second game before McEnroe ran off four in a row.

Once again, though, Connors showed how much he loves to come from behind. He won the next six games in a row, hacking in at volleys and pounding passing shots and ground-strokes down the lines.

He served hard and rushed up each time to win the final game at love. He retained his perfect record against the 15th-seeded teen-ager, 4-0, and had an easier time than in their first meeting, when McEnroe extended him to five tough sets in the 1977 Wimbledon semifinals.

Evert, who has not dropped a single set on her route to the final, took just 32 minutes to finish off Turnbull when they returned Saturday morning. She had built a 3-1 lead in the 16 minutes they were able to play Friday.

Turnbull did not hold service once Saturday, although she broke in the fifth and seventh games of the first set.

SOUNDNESS A MUST
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — S is for speed, stamina, and soundness and all three go into the makeup of a great race horse, according to the famous breeder, Leslie Combs II.

"Soundness rates just as high with me as speed and stamina," Combs said. "The important thing is you can't win a race unless your horse is sound enough to run in it."

Groom runs past Claude in opener

GROOM — The Groom Tigers rolled up 349 yards in total offense and quarterback Gary White tossed a pair of touchdown passes Friday night as the Tigers stopped Claude 21-6 in the season opener for both schools.

Groom tallied all its points in the first half. White found Neil Wieberg for a 72-yard touchdown strike in the first period to give the Tigers a 6-0 lead.

Wieberg set up the second score when he returned a punt over 50 yards to Claude's 2-yard line. Sophomore fullback Dwain Weller, who picked up 101 yards on 26 carries, bulled his way into the end zone from there and Jigger Britten ran in the two-point conversion.

Late in the second quarter, White hit sophomore Pat Koetting with a 20-yard strike to pad Groom's lead to 20-0. Wieberg's kick was good to finish the Tiger scoring for the night.

Claude's lone touchdown came on a 70-yard pass from Mustang quarterback Jon Norwood to Gary Stephenson in the fourth quarter.

Britten, a converted tight end, led all rushers with 107 yards on 22 attempts and was one of three Tigers to complete a pass. Reserve quarterback Wieberg hit on his only two attempts to help add to Groom's 136 yards through the air.

The Tigers were assessed 145 yards in penalties, which accounted for about half of Claude's 15 first downs.

"That's kind of a tradition at Groom," Coach Russell Roberts said. "The kids play aggressively and Claude's a traditional rival, so it gets the kids after it."

"We felt we looked a little sloppy at times, but our senior offensive line did a super job of blocking," Russell said of the 213 rushing yards amassed by the Tigers.

The Tigers travel to White Deer on Friday for their next action, while Claude will play host to Miami.

Mahaffey in Texas Open field

By GREG THOMPSON
AP Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — It looked like Texan John Mahaffey was going to be just another sentimental favorite at next week's $200,000 Texas Open, hoping to use the late 1978 tour stop to secure a qualifying exemption for next season.

That was before he won the coveted PGA Championship last month in Oakmont, Pa., by nailing a 12-foot putt on the second hole of a three-way sudden death playoff. He followed that with a victory the next week in the Pleasant Valley Classic in Sutton, Mass.

The streak suddenly transformed Mahaffey into a top drawing card for Texas Open crowds at the 6,525-yard Oak Hills Country Club — only about 55 miles down Interstate 10 from his hometown of Kerrville.

Eight of the PGA's Top Ten money winners, including Mahaffey, defending champion Hale Irwin, No. 2 Andy Bean and Masters champion Gary Player, are in this year's field, making it, tourney officials say, the strongest field since the Texas Open began in 1922.

The only Top Ten players missing will be top money-winner Tom Watson and No. 3 Jack Nicklaus.

"When I started this year, I just wanted to make the top 60 on the money list, getting an exemption," said the 30-year-old Mahaffey, currently No. 10 with $146,709. "And going into the PGA I was 61st, so I felt I was in a good position. Winning was kind of a surprise. Things turned out very well."

The two victories were worth

$95,000 and the PGA title meant a 10-year tour exemption.

Mahaffey, whose only other tour victory was in 1973, has struggled through a divorce and nagging injuries during the past two years. He missed the cut at last year's Texas Open even though it was played on the same Oak Hills course that he toured frequently as a schoolboy golfer.

McLean rips Chillicothe

McLEAN — Coach Bill Coward had his doubts about McLean's offense before Friday night's opener against Chillicothe. After a convincing 34-6 victory, his mind should rest a little easier.

"The offense had me a little worried, because we hadn't been scoring," Coward said Saturday morning. "But they put it all together last night."

David Tolleson exemplified that "all together" philosophy by scoring three touchdowns. He got the Tigers started by intercepting a pass and racing 29 yards for the game's opening score, tallied the Tigers' third touchdown of the first quarter on a 30-yard jaunt and added a 14-yard effort to close out McLean's scoring. In between, Steve Ellison rammed over from the two for McLean's second touchdown of the opening quarter and Dudley Reynolds scored from seven yards out in the second quarter.

Richard Lockett got Chillicothe's touchdown on a seven-yard run in the final period.

McLean gave up just 11 yards through the air and intercepted three Chillicothe passes.

"I felt our secondary would be our strongest area on defense, and that seems to be holding true," Coward said, "but the forcing unit, the linebackers and the line, did a good job of shutting them off."

The Tigers travel to Shamrock

Wheeler lengthens winning streak

By CARLA BARANAUCKAS
Pampa News Staff
WHEELER — Defending Class B state champion Wheeler opened defense of its crown and stretched its state-leading winning streak to 20 games here Friday night with a 46-6 trouncing of Shamrock.

The Mustangs dominated the entire game gaining 511 total yards compared to Shamrock's 116.

"It wasn't much of a contest compared to last week's scrimmage with Wellington," said new coach Joe Allen. "If we could scrimmage Wellington before every game we'd have no trouble."

Wheeler depended on their ground game, rushing for 456 yards compared to only 55 in the air. The Irish gained just 85 yards on the ground and 31 yards passing.

Allen predicted Wheeler would continue to depend on their ground game.

"We're going to be a running ball club," he said. "Although, our passing game wasn't bad. Out of 10 attempts we completed four with only one interception."

Allen said he was generally pleased with the Mustangs' performance, although there were a number of mistakes in the game.

"We didn't make our cut on our sweep plays and we didn't read the bootleg too well," Allen commented. "We had too many penalties, but the kids blocked well and tackled well. I was surprised the offense moved the ball as easily as they did."

The first score of the game came on Wheeler's second play from scrimmage. Senior Kent Vise ran 51 yards for the touchdown. Junior Mike Evans added the extra point to make the score 7-0.

Wheeler scored on their next ball possession after Shamrock was unable to make a first down. Junior Bret Mosley set up the score when he ran 48 yards for the touchdown from the 8-yard line, boosting the score to 19-0. Wheeler failed to get the extra point when a pass from Jolly intended for Vise was incomplete.

With 2:15 left in the half, Benny Baker carried the ball over the goal line from the two-yard line to make the score 25-0. Evans missed the extra point attempt when his kick went wide.

Vise scored the only touchdown of the third quarter when he carried the ball in from the 2-yard line. Evans' point made the score 32-0.

With 8:56 left in the game, junior quarterback Rich Brown handed off to Baker on the Shamrock 46 and the sophomore fullback rambled into the end zone, upping the score to 38-0. Evans' kick made the score 39-0.

Wheeler's final TD score came after Russell Gaines recovered a fumble from Miller on the Irish 22. Brown threw the only touchdown pass of the game, connecting with Evans from 19 yards out.

Shamrock's touchdown came on a one-yard plunge by sophomore Stacy Prather. It was the only time the Irish were inside the Wheeler 20 all night.

Giants-Cowboys matchup no picnic for either team

By GARY MYERS
Associated Press Writer
EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Playing the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys Sunday at Giants Stadium promises to be no picnic for the New York Giants, and Coach John McVay is well aware of the task ahead.

The Giants opened the expanded 16-game schedule with a 19-13 victory over Tampa Bay. It's the second year in a row they began the season on an up note, and the second year it's been followed up by the Cowboys in week No. 2.

The Giants surprised the Washington Redskins, 20-17, in the 1977 inaugural before the Cowboys brought them back down to earth with a 41-21 beating.

Dallas was awesome in its Monday night opener — a 38-0 blitz of the Bert Jones-less Baltimore Colts.

"They looked extremely impressive," McVay said. "I tried to eat dinner and watch the game. It was tough to eat and keep up with the pace they were moving."

The Cowboys racked up 583 yards on offense, with former Heisman Award winner Tony Dorsett accounting for 147 on the ground in 15 carries and 107 on three receptions. The Cowboys offense was so masterful that punter Danny White wasn't even used.

"We didn't get to see them punt," McVay said. "But we have some old films when they had to punt once."

The Giants will open with Joe Pisarcik at quarterback. The second-year player replaced Jerry Golsteyn when the latter went down with a back injury in the second quarter. Pisarcik was in the game for all but 23 of the Giants 238 yards of offense. He connected with Johnny Perkins on a 67-yard scoring toss.

"Pisarcik is the man," McVay said. "He did a good job when he was put in the game and I'm pleased with what he did. I've said repeatedly that I feel strongly about both guys."

Dallas Coach Tom Landry was extremely pleased with the play of Dorsett and wide receiver Tony Hill — both second-year men.

"A year's experience makes a lot of difference for Dorsett," Landry said. "Last year he was running by feel, he didn't understand the offense. Now he sees things and is getting better all the time."

Hill started for the first time in the opener and played well enough for Landry to trade incumbent Golden Richards to the Chicago Bears for a pair of draft picks. Hill caught two passes, including a 49-yarder that brought the Cowboys to the 1-yard line, positioning them for their first score after a shaky start.

"He can adjust to the ball and jump for it," Landry said. "He can catch and has the speed to turn it on."

Landry now has 150 victories in his Dallas coaching career, which dates back to the team's inception in 1960. The Cowboys defeated the Giants twice last year and hold a 22-9-2 edge in the all-time series.

Aggies explode for win over Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Doug Teague caught two touchdowns passes 41 seconds apart and Curtis Dickey flashed for 128 yards and another tally, leading 16th-ranked Texas A&M to a 37-10 victory over Kansas Saturday in the season opener for both schools.

Underdog Kansas had knotted the score at 10-10 on a Mike Hubach field goal with 6:46 to play in the third period before the Aggies struck for two quick touchdowns.

Teague, a 165-pound junior, grabbed a seven-yard touchdown pass from Mike Mosley to cap a 65-yard drive that gave the Aggies a 17-10 lead with 3:18 remaining in the quarter.

Kansas then fumbled on its first play from scrimmage, with Carl Grulich recovering at the Jayhawk 22. Three plays later, Mosley found Teague in the far corner of the end zone from 17 yards out.

Tony Franklin, A&M's record-breaking soccer-style place kicker, booted a 34-yard field goal in the first quarter and teed four extra points.

Texas A&M mounted a 10-7 lead at the half on Franklin's field goal and a six-yard touchdown burst by Dickey, a Southwest Conference sprint champion.

Tracy Levy put the Jayhawks on the board with one-yard touchdown plunge in the third period.

David Beal, A&M's second-string quarterback, skirted right end and broke loose for an 80-yard touchdown run midway in the fourth quarter for the Aggies' fourth touchdown and Roger Wiley, a reserve running back, burst 10 yards up the middle for their final tally following a Kansas fumble.

Pampa girls beaten in finals

BORGER — Pampa's volleyball team fell to the host school in the finals of the Borger Tournament here Saturday afternoon.

After whipping Perryton 15-0, 15-8 and Dumas 15-4, 15-6 in the preliminary rounds, the Harvester spikers dropped 12-10 and 15-5 decisions to Borger.

"This is the first time we've been pushed this year and it showed our weaknesses," Coach Lynn Wolfe said.

Pampa's main problem was ball handling, according to the Harvester coach.

"Their spikes weren't any better than ours, but we couldn't handle what they hit at us," she said.

Borger has had a long wait since its last win over Pampa, according to Coach Wolfe.

"They've been waiting for this for a long time," she said. "I think the last time they beat us was three years ago."

The eight-minute time clock expired in the first game against Borger, but the second game wasn't quite as lopsided as the score indicated.

"They were trying awfully hard," Wolfe said of her team, "but they've (Borger) got a lot of girls back. At least we put them away in the first two."

Pampa travels to Hereford Tuesday night. The girls are also scheduled to play in the West Texas State Tournament Friday and Saturday at Canyon.

Rutgers falls to Lions

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Matt Bahr kicked four field goals and Chuck Fusina became Penn State's career leader in touchdown passes as the third-ranked Nittany Lions rolled to a methodical 26-10 football victory over outmanned Rutgers Saturday.

The win, which followed Penn State's narrow 3-point escape against Temple the week before, was the final tune-up before the Nittany Lions' big test next Saturday at Ohio State.

Bahr's four field goals of 32, 37, 23, and 27 yards, matched the Penn State single game record set by his brother, Chris, in 1974.

Fusina's lone touchdown pass

Dirden runs like cement truck

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — When Johnnie Dirden, the cement truck driver, first walked into Houston Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips' office and asked for a tryout, Phillips decided to humor the kid.

Now that Dirden is a Houston Oiler and leading the National Football League in kickoff returns, Phillips is congratulating himself on his great sense of humor.

Although he has no intentions of replacing Oiler favorite Billy "White Shoes" Johnson, Dirden filled in admirably last Sunday for the ailing Johnson by returning three kickoffs 127 yards for a league leading 42.8 yards average per return.

But the fact that Dirden was able to detour from his cement truck into an Oiler uniform is even more amazing than his performance in his first NFL game.

Before Rocky came along, you would have called Dirden a Frank Merriwell character.

It started last February when Dirden strolled into Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips' office wearing a hard hat and tracking the carpet with cement dust and asked for a tryout.

With great effort, Phillips kept from swallowing his chaw of Redman (chewing tobacco) and agreed to clock Dirden. When Dirden reeled off a pair of 4.5 40 yard dashes, Phillips chewed a little harder and invited Dirden back the next day for a more thorough inspection.

"This time I came back cleaned up and he didn't recognize me," Dirden said. "But I was able to run a 4.4 on the Astroturf and so they decided to sign me."

But the battle was only beginning for both Dirden and the Oiler coaching staff. Dirden reported to training camp in such a fit of frenzied determination, Phillips finally told him to quit working so hard.

Dirden came to workouts early, stayed late, pestered offensive coordinator Ken Shipp day and night to look at film and worked out on his own late at night outside the team dorm.

During these nighttime drills, Dirden would run up and down the stairs countless times and throw a football against an outside wall and try to catch it — in the dark.

"I figured if I could catch the ball in the dark I'd surely be able to do it in the light and it would also help my concentration," said Dirden, who played two seasons at nearby Sam Houston State.

"I just had a lot of catching up to do. With guys like Ken Burrough and All-Southwest Conference players like Mike Renfro around I needed the work."

"I've never seen anybody work harder," Shipp said. "During camp I like to relax awhile between the morning and afternoon workout but he didn't let me take a single nap."

Dirden said he started making mistakes from trying too hard and that's when Phillips stepped in.

"He told me, 'don't come to practice early, don't stay late, quit working out in the dorm, just relax a little,'" Dirden laughed.

It hasn't been easy but Dirden is trying. Despite his outstanding first game performance, he's not satisfied.

"I wasn't too happy with it," he said. "I should have broken one but the Good Lord has blessed me and I'll get my share before it's over."

Dirden, who played semi-pro football in Houston prior to his Oiler tryout, returned the second half kickoff 60 yards to set up Houston's second touchdown in a 20-14 loss to Atlanta last week to highlight his afternoon.

"For the first time I feel like a part of this team," Dirden said. "I'm a rookie with a lot to learn, but seeing my name up there at the top (of kickoff return list) and everybody patting me on the back makes me feel at home."

Dirden says he'll still be working hard however.

"I'm just feeling my way along now," he said. "I haven't shown everything I've got. My problem now is getting used to my teammates and knowing what they'll be doing. And I still get too emotional when I make mistakes."

Dirden also has a reputation — and a quota — to keep with his two children, who have told him what he should average per game this season.

"My daughter, she's five years old, told me I should break four touchdowns this season and my boy, he's four, says I should average 100 yards (in returns) per game," Dirden said. "So far so good."

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You view your hopes realistically today, even though some associates may lack your vision. Follow your star, not theirs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're extremely adroit financially today, but there's a danger you may weaken your position when you shouldn't. Don't give away the store.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Not everyone you associate with today will have ideals comparable to yours. Avoid persons who lack your integrity.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Even though you may be tempted to do otherwise, keep friends out of your personal financial affairs. They could do you more harm than good today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be a free spirit today. You don't need cooperation to accomplish your aims. You're quite resourceful and fare better solo.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try to see the big picture today and you'll be able to handle situations coming your way. Distortion will occur if you begin to pick things apart.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Stay loose and alert, as something beneficial may surface today. You might miss an opportunity by being uptight.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) With a little effort today you can readily see an opposing party's point-of-view and win a reluctant ally. The opposite will occur if you're unyielding.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Shelve old routines today. Apply your ingenuity. New methods will get the job done more efficiently. Old procedures will only bog you down.

What's Coming Up?

Debra Clinger (left) and Priscilla Barnes co-star in "The American Girls," an action-drama series centered on two research assistants on a TV news magazine, Saturdays on CBS.

Jack Dodson plays Monsignor Benoit in "In the Beginning," CBS's new Saturday night comedy series about a priest and a nun who try to run a downtown, storefront mission.

On Monday, Sept. 18, CBS will launch its new fall schedule with eight new series.

Richard Daly, president of CBS Entertainment, maintains that CBS will make a big effort to produce quality drama. The network's big gamble is "The Paper Chase," an hour-long Tuesday night drama based on the Academy Award-winning movie. John Houseman reprises his movie role as intimidating law school professor Kingsfield, and James Stephens portrays James Hart, a naive but potentially brilliant law student.

CBS has slotted "The Paper Chase" opposite ABC's blockbuster, "Laverne & Shirley," and "Happy Days," on Tuesday nights.

Another familiar face will get a shot at her own series on Monday evenings. Phyllis George, a former Miss America and formerly host of CBS's NFL pre- and post-game telecasts. Ms. George will host "People," a half-hour Monday night series based on the People magazine format.

Also on Monday, is "WKRP in Cincinnati," a half-hour series about a floundering radio station, which plays old-time hits. It undergoes a drastic change when Andy Travis (Gary Sandy) becomes the new program director and institutes a rock-and-roll format.

Tuesday night "The Paper Chase" debuts, while the Wednesday night entry is "In the Beginning," a half-hour Norman Lear production. McLean Stevenson and Priscilla Lopez star in this comedy as Father Cleary and Sister Agnes, two divergent personalities who work together in the operation of an inner-city storefront mission.

"Flying High" will soar into a Friday slot. The romantic comedy series revolves around Pat Klous, Connie Sellecca and Kathryn Witt, three beautiful stewardesses.

Priscilla Barnes and Debra Clinger break into Saturday's lineup as Rebecca and Amy, two young assistants on a fictional TV news magazine "The American Reports" on "The American Girls." Finally, Mary Tyler Moore will return to TV on Sunday, Sept. 24 in "Mary," a one-hour musical-comedy-variety show. The best of contemporary music and dance will be featured, but the show's accent will be on comedy.

TV Star Scene

By RUTH THOMPSON

Sneak previews have been followed by warm-up weeks, to be followed by "premieres" scattered around almost nightly on TV from now through late October. The newspaper schedule page was never more essential to guide a viewer to what's where and when.

If you had a favorite show that's coming back, however, don't be too confident about who's on.

NBC's "Project U.F.O." has already launched its new star, Edward Winter. Still to bow is Alan Feinstein, who is replacing Robert Reed in "The Runaways."

Do you sometimes feel that daytime TV isn't getting its due? Then hear this:

"Sorry, there's a private party going on," would-be patrons of Manhattan's sky-high Rainbow Room were told on the last of summer's sultry Sundays as former Hollywood columnist Joyce Becker emceed the first Soap Opera Festival, which she and her producer husband, Allan Sugarman, have staged in Manhattan. It's their native heath, and they have nothing against it. It's just that when Joyce first used her clout at enlisting actors to greet — not just meet — their fans, she and Allan felt they should travel with the stars to the outposts where soap devotees live, but personal appearances are rare. Well, whatever. Joyce and Allan hit Washington, D.C. before tackling their hometown. Dorothy Malone showed up as a surprise guest, and a White House son and daughter-in-law showed as surprise fans.

The NYC event was sold out the day it was announced. The theme was very specific: cast members (not from assorted shows as is the festival custom) but just from NBC's "Another World." Invited to speak into a roving mike, the fans' big gripe was "Telling Iris that she's adopted on a Friday before she went on vacation." Not surprising. What did surprise this columnist were the fans themselves. Sleek good-looking actors, Victoria Wyndham (Rachel Cory in the serial), Jay Morran (Vince), and Lionel Johnston (Michael) faced one of the best-looking gatherings ever assembled in the stylish restaurant atop the RCA building. There wasn't one woman or girl (and plenty of college types sprung for the $15 luncheon fee) who wasn't well-groomed and well-coiffed.

The guys — and there were plenty of them, too, were nifty in ties, plaid jackets, etc. One silver-haired smoothie took umbrage with executive producer Paul Rauch, "for showing lawyers as louses." This otherwise devoted fan — you guessed it — is a lawyer.

Lee Meriwether, one of the swellest of the one-time Miss America's, confided during her second season of "Barnaby Jones" on CBS that her role as the widowed daughter-in-law may have paid the mortgage on her house, but it wasn't apt to grow any more. "Buddy Ebsen is the star. The writers focus on him. My job is to react. But I don't resent it, heavens, no, because Buddy is so gracious, such a gentleman." Well, as you may have observed, it was that gracious gentleman himself who, last year, opened the way for Lee to move more to the front and more to the center. He would stay with the series, he let it be known, if he carried fewer of the episodes, "Don't want to work that hard any more." So Lee carried more.

The record, says, however, that the Ebsenian energy is still in good supply. He's just diversifying. He's put on his top shoes (he was a dancer who ranked with Ray Bolger in the old Ziegfeld Follies) for a couple of TV specials. And, he has a major acting role in an NBC mini-series, which he filmed while on hiatus — "The Critical List."

TV Dialogue

BUDDY'S BABY — In the movie "The Buddy Holly Story" (a magnificent performance by Gary Busey, I must say), Buddy's wife is expecting a child at the time of his untimely death. I was wondering if the real Mrs. Holly ever gave birth to his child; if so was it a boy or a girl? What did she name the child? The child would be almost 20 years old now, did he or she see the film and what did they think of it? I understand Maria Elena (Buddy's wife) was very moved by it. — Linda Kambitsch, Santa Cruz, Calif.

Buddy's death was not the only tragedy his wife had to face. She suffered a miscarriage soon after Buddy's death and lost the baby.

The leader of the Sharks was played by George Chakiris, who also won an Oscar for Best Supporting Actor in 1961 for that performance. At 45, Chakiris is a bit old to lead a street gang anymore, but he's still a fine actor and dancer. Currently, he's signed to play the lead in a new production of the hit Off-Broadway play, "The Passion of Dracula." You can write him in care of International Creative Management, 8899 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90048.

POPS' POP — For a long time now I have been trying in vain to get some information about the late bandleader Paul "Pops" Whiteman. I've written a lot of places asking when and where he was born and who his parents were, but never received a reply. Maybe you can supply this information. — Lacy D. Fritz, Lebanon, Pa.

Now you've come to the right place. Great jazz man Pops Whiteman was born in Denver, Colo., in 1911 to Wilberforce J. Whiteman and Elfrida Dalison.

Holliman who's out of work.

DUKE — Could you please tell me how to get a letter to John Wayne? It would be a great help since I'm doing a school project. — Don Gwin, Oklahoma City, Ok.

You betcha. Write the Duke at 9750 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 400, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

SHARK ATTACK — I recently saw "West Side Story" on TV and the man who played Bernardo really caught my eye. I also saw him on an episode of "Fantasy Island." Could you please tell me his name, age, what he's doing now, and where can I write to him? — Del Yorke, Dolliver, Iowa.

Dracula films dominate Hollywood

GEORGE HAMILTON and Arte Johnson in "Love At First Bite": "My image is a dress extra in a world of blue jeans," Hamilton says.

By Dick Kleiner
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) - Dracula is hot. The Broadway play about the neck-sniper is a smash. Books about him are selling well. And there are a bunch of movies being planned on the old theme.

One is already in front of the cameras. It is "Love At First Bite," which, obviously, takes the comedic approach. It stars George Hamilton, who also co-produced it, with Robert Kaufman, who wrote the script.

Nobody is quite sure why this sudden renaissance in things Draculaian. Frankenstein's monster lies cold and still in his morgue. The Creature From the Black Lagoon is, presumably, back in the Black Lagoon. There hasn't been a confirmed werewolf sighting in years. But Dracula is alive and well.

"Dracula is exciting," says Kaufman, "because he's committed. He never gives up until you put a stake in his heart."

"Dracula is what every man wishes he could be," says Hamilton.

Maybe so, especially the way Kaufman wrote this one and the way Hamilton is playing him. This Dracula is a lover as much as he is a monster. He is also a practicing male chauvinist, and everybody connected with the film is certain the active women's libbers will despise it. The film takes the position that the male should be the dominant one and that females, generally, desire that domination.

"Genetically," Hamilton says, "the man is provider and protector. I don't care if women's libbers don't like the picture. Too many men are weak with women, and the women are angry."

"Here, in this country, women look for faults and men are apologizing. In Europe, men are strong and women are happy."

So Dracula, as played by George Hamilton, will be dominant as he woos and pursues his lady, played by Susan Saint James. In Kaufman's story, Dracula is 712 years old and he's only seen the girl of his dreams (she keeps being reincarnated) three times in all that time. Now he sees her again, and this time, nothing is going to stand in his way.

Miss Saint James, who may be the only woman in captivity who can effervesce at long range, has gone blonde for this role. It is designed to serve as a contrast with the very dark Dracula. She looks good as a blonde, but says it's too much trouble, so she will revert to brunetness after the shooting is over.

Hamilton, always handsome, makes a striking Dracula. There is a wisp of grey at his temples and they've done something to his eyebrows and he adds a gleam in his eye. The result is a monster who has a great deal of charm and humanity.

He is reputed to be a skillful businessman, and, as part-owner of this project, has reportedly carved out a fine deal for himself. He is active, as the co-executive producer with Kaufman (Joel Freeman is the line producer), and says he serves as a liaison man.

"In a film," he says, "you need a middle ground between the artist — who wants to do something totally uncompromising — and the producer — who just wants to stick to the budget."

"I've done 79 films," he says, "and that's more than anybody else involved in the project."

It's certainly more than the director. This is Stan Dragotti's second feature. The first was "Dirty Little Billy," with Michael Pollard about five years ago. Since then, he says, he's tried to get financing to do, first, "Bury My Heart At Wounded Knee" and then Isaac Asimov's "I, Robot," but without success.

There is, apparently, a race to be the first "Dracula" movie to reach the theaters. Several have been announced. Bob Kaufman believes that the ones proposed by directors Roger Vadim and Ken Russell will never be made.

"But Universal's $10 million film with Frank Langella as Dracula," he said, "will get made. And they have vowed to bury us. They think we ripped them off."

"But the truth is that I wrote this script before the Broadway play even opened. Still, they're out to destroy us, but we will be out first. They'll have a good picture, a kind of 'Exorcist' kind of picture, while ours is a comedy."

Dick Shawn, Richard Benjamin and Arte Johnson are others in the cast of "Love At First Bite." Shawn wrote the title song, which Dionne Warwick has signed to sing over the titles.

Hamilton, as Dracula, is in tails throughout the film, always elegance personified.

Dean of jazz takes a trip down memory road

By WILLIAM GLOVER
 AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "I don't say predestination is right," said Eubie Blake, "but I got a right to that belief."

The 95-year-old dean of jazz musicians, noodling a nimble keyboard obligato, is taking a long look down memory lane at fateful career quirks. "Take what's happening now," he reflects.

"I always wanted a fifth Broadway show. Well, here it is, although I didn't have a single thing to do with it. It doesn't worry me, but I would like to have written some new songs."

Entitled "Eubie," the lavish revue that bows Sept. 20 at Broadway's Ambassador Theater after a rave tryout tour, uses about a score of Blake oldies. Many are from "Shuffle Along," which in 1921 became the first long-run black show in Main Stem history.

Any frustration over not being invited to contribute fresh material has been appreciably assuaged by the financial arrangements.

"When my wife showed me the contract — I won't say what I was supposed to get a week, every week — I said, 'Marion, do you believe this?' She said, 'No, I don't.'"

"So when the first check came in, she still don't believe it. That's why I believe in predestination."

James Hubert Blake, born Feb. 7, 1883 in Baltimore to a stevedore and a laundress who had been slaves, sensed the first twinge of destiny when he was 6. He was the last of 10 children, but the only one to live past 2 months.

According to legend — "this is what my mother said, not me" — he walked into a music store in 1889 and began playing an organ.

In school, Eubie was a tiny rascal, nicknamed Mouse, "always talking, always fighting." He left school in the fifth grade, but has five honorary doctorates from such institutions as Rutgers and Dartmouth.

"About that time in school, my father taught me a lesson I never forgot." It stemmed from a fight with another boy. "I went home and said, 'I hate all white people,' and my father said, 'I'll give you five seconds to see how dumb you are. All white people are not alike.'"

"Don't let me hear you ever say you don't like a person because of his color. Green, blue, anything, if you treat me all right, you all right."

In the rough years that followed when he was breaking into showbusiness in vaudeville tandem with Noble Sissle, another eventual jazz great, Blake evolved a philosophic tolerance about the racial intolerance then rampant.

"Did I have trouble? Let me tell you. I'm working in a sporting house and a guy comes in and says, 'Hey, nigger, you know so and so? Play it!' And I say, 'Yes, sir.'"

"Now the youngsters call that being Tom, which it was, but it was Tom for us to get the money from him. You see, we was the smartest, even without education. Sure, it was the smart way, when you got money and I haven't."

Ragtime was just becoming popular when Blake was young, but its origin in disorderly houses kept it from being respectable — "My mother wouldn't ever let me play it at home."

Scott Joplin pioneered the trend to acceptance, and in 1899 Eubie penned his first piece, "Charleston Rag." "Somebody else wrote it down because I couldn't read music then." Later he learned composition, but still uses a numerical notation system.

"I've written a couple of thousand pieces," says Blake, "but only about 350 have been published. I could live the rest of my life if the four big ones keep on — 'I'm Just Wild About Harry,' 'Love Will Find a Way,' 'You're Lucky to Me' and 'Memories of You.'"

Blake rates Irving Berlin and George Gershwin "this country's two music geniuses, and I put Berlin first because he had no teacher." He also has special fondness for Cole Porter, whose friendship opened the doors for Sissle and him to the homes of rich party-givers.

For him that was predestination and so was meeting Sophie Tucker, whose acceptance of one of their songs opened the door to Broadway.

"The proudest day of my life was when 'Shuffle Along' opened. At the intermission all those white people kept saying 'I would just like to touch him, the man that wrote that music.' Well, you got to feel that. It made me feel like, well at last, I'm a human being."

Nick Nolte-success after 13 years

By Dick Kleiner
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) - If Nick Nolte had been a quarter-step faster, maybe somebody else would be a movie star today and he'd be breaking rushing records in the NFL.

But that's life, and so today Nick Nolte is a booming commodity in the movie star market. It took a while for him to become an overnight sensation — around 13 or 14 years to be exact, or almost exact. But he did it.

It was TV's "Rich Man, Poor Man," that mini-series that bowled the public over; that did it for Nick Nolte. He became, instantly, a major star. But, thanks to those 13 or 14 years of knocking around theaters everywhere, he had his head screwed on pretty well and the excitement hasn't turned him around.

It's been a strange life. Nolte grew up here and there as his father, who was in the agricultural pump business, moved here and there. He had no place he considers his home town.

"As a kid," he says, "football was everything to me."

He played quarterback in high school — this was in Omaha, Neb. — and he just knew that he was going on to star in college and then have a great career with the pros.

"I got out of high school in '59," Nolte says. "At the time, I was deeply influenced by Jack Kerouac's book, 'On the Road.' So when I got out of high school that spring, I got in my car and took off."

He had a destination, which is more than most Kerouac fans have. He was going to Arizona, because he had a football scholarship to Arizona State. But that turned out to be the first stop on a four-college tour. He went to other colleges, following that football dream.

"I never paid much attention to classwork or anything else," he says. "Just football. Then I realized that I was a quarter-second too slow, a quarter-second off in my timing, not much but enough so I knew I'd never be great."

"But that didn't stop me from playing, and it didn't make me think about my future and it didn't make me think about anything except football."

One of his college stops was Pasadena City College, hardly a gridiron powerhouse. While he was there, he met a man who suggested that he should think about acting. The time was right for Nolte, who had begun wondering what college would take him next, so he took the advice.

"I went to a class with Brian O'Byrne," he says, "and I liked it right away. So I began studying. I found that acting was a lot like football — they're both entertainment and they both have you perform in front of the public."

Then Nolte came to a big, and bright, decision. He says it occurred to him that if someone wanted to learn how to act, he had better get out of Los Angeles. This runs counter to what most youngsters think, but it made sense to Nolte.

"L.A. is OK if you want to carry a spear," he says, "but you'll never get much of a chance to act in L.A. The competition is too stiff. But out of L.A. there are many small theatrical companies — I think there are 50 Equity companies within a radius of 100 miles of Chicago, for example. So if you go out of

And that's what he did. He left the big city and he went looking for acting companies, and he found them. For the next 13 or 14 years, he wandered around, mostly in the Midwest, working in theaters in Phoenix and Denver and Greeley, Colo., and Chicago, playing all kinds of parts, making $40 or $50 a week.

"And I was very happy," he says. "I was in a good spot. So many of the men who are in the 20-to-35 age bracket feel they can be stars, so they quit the theater companies and go to L.A. or New York. That left the Midwest, where I was, pretty devoid of men in that age bracket."

"So, for me, it was great. I pretty much had my pick of parts."

And he learned his business. He enjoyed it and cheerfully roamed the country, acting here one week and there the next. He says he'd still be doing that, but a play he was doing was brought to Los Angeles and he was spotted in the cast.

"A few casting people and producers had seen me in the Midwest," he says, "but nothing ever came of that. It didn't bother me, I was working, I was happy. But then, when I was spotted here, that changed things. I began doing TV, and I did TV for three years until 'Rich Man' came along."

After "Rich Man," he didn't work for a year, waiting for the right thing. Then came "The Deep" and his current release, "Who'll Stop the Rain?" He's a hot property now.

Ruiz case may bring trouble to corrections

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — David Ruiz, the inmate with the black attaché case, has spent all but one of the past 18 years in Texas prisons. You might say he has a proprietary interest in them.

"I don't want to bring destruction to the Texas Department of Corrections. I just want to improve conditions," says Ruiz of his sweeping civil rights suit against the TDC.

Ruiz, 36, claims he has suffered beatings and the equivalent of almost two years in solitary confinement as retaliation for his "writ writing" — complaints to federal courts.

The big one, seeking numerous costly changes in the way prisoners are housed, fed, guarded and treated when ill, goes before U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice in Houston Oct. 2.

Ruiz, a twice-convicted robber, always prefaces Justice's name with "The Honorable" when talking about him.

That's the same William Wayne Justice who ordered sweeping changes in Texas reform schools and hospitals for the criminally insane. Ruiz' case is roughly on a par with the Morales case that turned the reform school system upside down.

Ruiz was interviewed Thursday in the Travis County jail. He was in Austin to contest his ex-wife's suit to terminate his parental rights to the 10-year-old daughter he hasn't seen since she was a year old.

He wore a white suit, dark green shirt without a tie and dark glasses when he testified. He carried a black attaché case.

Not surprisingly, Ruiz still believes in rehabilitation at a time when many penologists — not to mention politicians — see prison's value as punishment and deterrent.

And the Texas prison system is 50 years behind the times in what it takes to change criminals into useful and law-abiding citizens, he maintains.

"Rehabilitation is just a word, but by the same token, what it modifies all depends on the person. They could build you a golden house and feed you steaks every day and if you were just plain mean, nothing would change you. But my belief is everybody responds to kindness — everybody with common sense," he said.

He said TDC does out its chief form of rehabilitation, vocational training, to "just a selected few. . . . But they are conformists. A man like me who stands up for his beliefs would be the last in line for every program at TDC."

"I know I am strongly disliked at TDC," said Ruiz.

He is a short, thin, clean-shaven man, with high cheekbones and tattoos on the backs of both hands.

He claims he has overcome the "hate and the disrespect for the authorities" that marked the days when he was committing armed robberies.

Ruiz went to reform school four times, starting at age 12. His first prison sentence came in 1960. He was released seven years later but was back behind bars in less than nine months. He received his present 25-year sentence for armed robbery in 1968.

Ruiz claims his attitude was changed during his present term by Frances Cruz, who represented numerous inmates in suits against the prison system.

"She motivated me not only to think of myself but to think of others. Everything that is accomplished through this suit, credit will be hers," Ruiz said.

Ruiz wants Justice to force TDC to issue a comprehensive plan for operation of Texas prisons and see that it is carried out. The plan would have to end such alleged civil rights violations as:

—Inadequate medical treatment.

—The use of inmate "building tenders" to guard other inmates and —Ruiz claims — brutalize them.

—Opening and reading letters to and from courts, lawyers and government agencies.

—Not enough guards to protect inmates from other inmates and maintain order.

—Overcrowding.

—Unsafe working conditions. —Substandard food preparation facilities that endanger inmate health.

The prison system is asking the Legislature for $130 million to do something about overcrowding that is so bad that three men sleep in cells designed for two.

Postmaster McBee

Lefors is People

Norma McBee grew up in and around Lefors. Toward the end of 1945, 1946, and 1947 she worked in the post office while her husband was in the service. She has been postmaster since 1965. She was quick to explain that whether male or female a postmaster is a postmaster not a postmistress. "I just am on a dead run most of the time," she said.

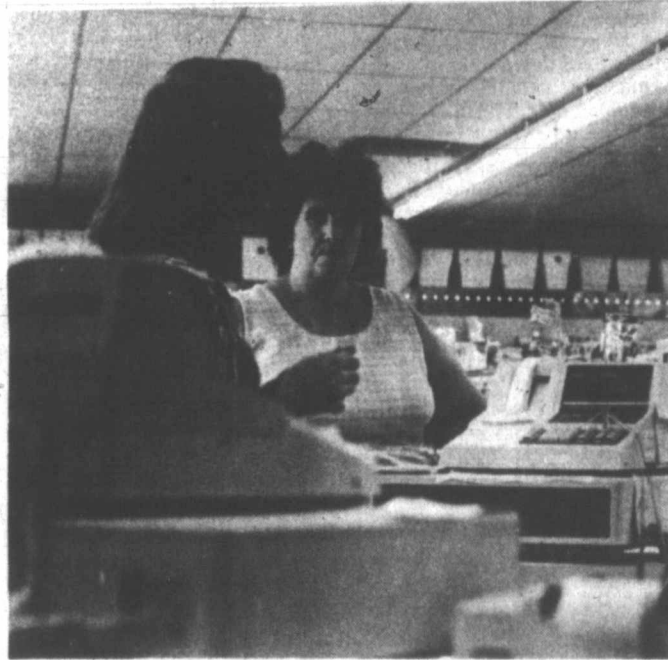

March 27, 1975, the city of Lefors woke up to discover a tornado had hit. Mrs. McBee has pictures showing what was left. The north wall of the post office was gone. The safe and a sorting table which were pushed against the wall were still there unharmed. "I left my own personal stamps on my desk the night before," said Mrs. McBee. The stamps were where she had left them. Nothing had moved except the north wall. Because of the tornado, Mrs. McBee's post office is a little unusual. The mail boxes are located outside and the office is in a trailer. Mrs. McBee will move into new offices next week, much to her pleasure. No one thought the office would be located in the trailer this long. "I've been sick to my stomach out there and dizzy (from the heat). I just can't believe it," she says about the long awaited move into the new office building. She has waited three years and six months.

Mrs. McBee's family moved to the Lefors area in 1928 when her father, Guy Hedrick, went to work for the Texas Company. This was at the time of the Lefors boom. There was some ranching in the area. "We lived east of town and I was in the second grade in Lefors," the petite postmaster said. Previous to that she attended the Webb School which is now gone. At that time there were "no paved streets or street lights like there are now." Employees lived in "company houses" on the leases. When Norma McBee was growing up there were seven houses on the lease where she lived, soon it dwindled to none. People either moved into Lefors or away completely. The vivacious and friendly Mrs. McBee is proud of Lefors as are the other citizens.

"There are more post office boxes rented now than before the tornado," Mrs. McBee said. Lefors seems to be growing.

GORDON PATON sits under an apple tree where the Lefors dance hall was during the oil boom. His parents moved to town the day the courthouse was being moved down the highway.

JOAN BURIS describes making a quilt "of all the kids round the world," to Liz. "I have a Russian one (square), Polish one..." Liz and her husband grew up in Pampa and moved to Lefors, he is an electrician there.

D.T. PFEIL, a shade tree mechanic in Lefors, is overhauling the Ford engine to his car. "We've lived in this same spot for 45 years." The large trees on the lot, Mrs. Pfeil explained, were rejects from a Pampa park...

Likes quieter times

In Lefors at the corner of Fifth and East streets hangs a sign: W.R. Combs, Retired Cowpuncher. Combs has lived in Lefors for the past 50 years this last June.

June 4, 1928, he bought a general store. The deal hinged on whether or not the city's first oil well came in. He slept on a counter waiting for the news. It was positive news.

This was not Combs' first visit to the city. He came through when he "made the harvest in 1912." There were four residents in the city at that time.

Memories of his first visit include the Thut Hotel. "I ate dinner at the Thut Hotel." They told him if he couldn't find work to come back. He recalls walking nine miles to the Ben Beard Ranch. "One of the first jobs I did was build a grainery and it's still standing. They hauled all wheat by teams and wagons then. There were no elevators - just scooped the grain out of the wagon on to the trains."

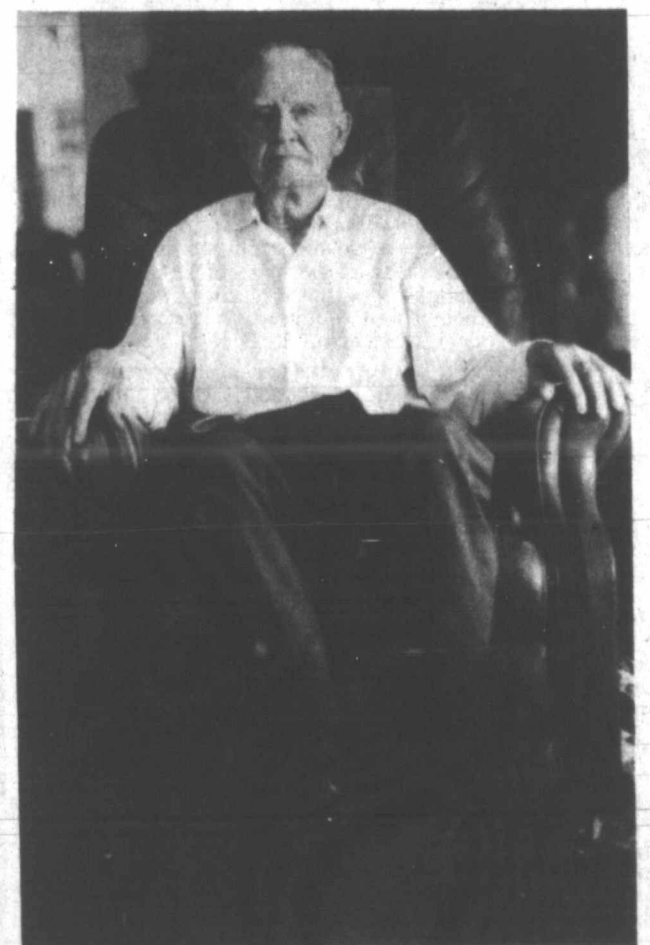

Combs, too, recalls the tornado of 1975. He described, "it blew the porches off - we rebuilt and repaired - we never did find one of those steel chairs (that belonged on the front porch). There was 10,000 pieces of glass on my wife and I. We got out of bed and cut our feet. We thought it was hail - pieces of pipe knocked holes in the side of the house. There was lots of sheet iron in the air."

Combs moved to Lefors from Borger as many did. People followed the oil boom as it hit. "There was a lot of people coming in here," is how he described Lefors.

The soft-spoken gentleman was in law enforcement for a number of years. He was elected justice of the peace four times, was a councilman, and served as mayor. "I was mayor when we got dial phones - that was in 1948 - I was the first one to call," he said. Combs also served as constable and worked for the sheriff's office. "Be sure to say 'hi' to Rufe for me," he said.

The County courthouse was moved from Lefors to Pampa in the late twenties. One citizen recalls his mother telling of going down the road and having to move over because a team and wagon were hauling the courthouse to Pampa. Combs explained that the building sold for $400 to George Thut. Thut built his ranch house from the bricks and three or four other houses were built in Lefors from the remains.

One experience he shared was about a Judge Greever. During court that day, "someone, I don't know who - said if you give my wife a divorce I'll kill ya. The judge gave it and the man killed him on the porch of the Thut Hotel. Then the man went down the street a few yards to a barn and shot himself," said Combs. When asked if he like today or the "old days" better, Combs replied, "it's was a lot quieter living (then), not all those motors."

Advice

Dear Abby
by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After 44 years of marriage, my husband moved out of our home and asked me for a divorce so he could "look for another woman to marry." He is 67 and I am 62.

He apparently found one in a hurry, or else he had her waiting in the wings, because he got married one week after our divorce was final. (She's younger than our daughter, who is 40.)

My problem is that he now lives near me and keeps coming around asking if he can do odd jobs for me as he did before. He is very handy, and I would have to hire a plumber and electrician to do what he does. When he's here I give him lunch, etc., like old times.

Our daughter says I shouldn't let the old fool come near me. Our son (he's 38) says I should let Dad help if he wants to.

What do you say?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UN: Never mind what your children say. How do YOU feel about him? If you really want him around, by all means let him be your handyman. But don't give him lunch, etc., "like old times," unless you want him back, because I think that's what "the old fool" has in mind.

DEAR ABBY: I am not complaining, because my husband provides very generously for me and is a kind and considerate man. The problem is his first wife, who has custody of their two children, 10 and 13. She is now married to a man who has a very limited income, but she acts like she is still married to my husband. She is constantly asking for money over and above the $600 a month the courts awarded her for child support.

My husband never refuses her because he doesn't want to deprive his children of anything. Like I said, he gives me everything I want, but it bugs me to see her take advantage of him.

There may not be an answer to this, but it makes me feel better to talk out my feelings. I never bring it up to him. Should I?

NUMBER TWO

DEAR NUMBER TWO: No. Since he can well afford to support two families, say nothing. Your problem is a thorn in the side of almost every woman who marries a man with a previous family. Be grateful that he's the kind of father who is more generous to his children than the law demands.

DEAR ABBY: This is my second letter to you. I wrote to you 20 years ago in care of the Houston Post and asked your advice about marrying a man 17 years older than myself. I was 25 at the time and Mel was 42.

You wrote back and said, "There are no rules about age. Some people are 'old' at 30, and others are 'young' at 60. It all depends on their health, attitude and outlook."

Well, I felt that Mel was young at 42, so I married him. We will celebrate our 20th wedding anniversary next week and couldn't be happier. Oh, yes, we have two fine sons, 16 and 18, of whom we are very proud.

I thought you'd enjoy knowing how your advice turned out. Thanks, Abby. I sure do owe you a lot.

MEL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: You owe me nothing. Your letter made my day. Thanks for writing, and congratulations!

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (25 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 72-year-old man and I need your advice badly. I'm in apparent good health and I wasn't taking any medications.

I saw a doctor in Los Angeles and a test showed that my uric acid level was 8.9. He recommended two Zylorim tablets a day which reduced the uric acid level to 7.

While I was in London I consulted an outstanding doctor and he exploded when he learned I was taking Zylorim. He informed me that I should stop the Zylorim as it would ruin my kidney's ability to excrete uric acid.

When I went back to Los Angeles I went to a very prestigious hospital and saw their top man and after a four-day fast my blood uric acid went to 4.5. He told me I didn't need to take anything. I inquired about 8.9 being dangerous to the kidneys and vessels and he poo-pooed that, but he said that the British doctor was absolutely wrong about Zylorim.

Now I'm not sure what to do and would really appreciate your suggestions. I have never had an attack of gout.

DEAR READER — It makes a difference what kind of test was done and the level of uric acid will fluctuate. So will the reliability of laboratory tests. That's why good doctors don't rely simply on laboratory tests but on the total picture of the patient.

I would suspect that your uric acid levels were measured by a device called the Auto Analyser. This technique gives readings about one unit (milligram) higher than those by previous techniques. We used to say that 7 was the upper limits of normal but with the Auto Analyser technique the 8.0 value should be the upper limit of normal.

What does all this mean? Well, in the first place you are 72 and have never had an attack of gout and your reading on a careful repeat test at Los Angeles was actually on the low side. Before you take any medicines for any length of time it would be worthwhile to have enough repeated tests done in a reliable way to find out whether you even really have a significantly elevated uric acid level or not.

You might be interested to know that with using the Auto Analyser values an individual with the level of 8 or less is unlikely to develop gout. For individuals who have 9.0 using the Auto Analyser method, about one third may develop gout. If your value happened to be 10 and you were a male then you would be almost certain to develop gout. So you see even your level of 8.9 means that you have two chances out of three of never developing gout.

To give you more information about gout I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-3, Gout, Uric Acid. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Zylorim does not damage the kidneys in any way. Since you have taken it without having any side effects from it, it seems obvious that you would tolerate the medicine without difficulty.

My suggestion would be to forget about the medicine for the moment and have several repeat tests under reliable circumstances to establish once and for all what your real uric acid level is before anyone decides whether or not you need to continue or take any medicines to control your uric acid levels.

DEAR POLLY — After 20 years of service my steam iron will no longer produce steam. Is there something I can do or try? — MRS. A.K.

DEAR MRS. A.K. — Maybe it is time to get a new iron since you have certainly had long years of service from yours. Are you sure the holes where the steam escapes are not clogged up? Mineral deposits from the water can often cause this. With an iron the age of yours it might be time to at least have it serviced by a professional. — POLLY

Myths cover the bald truth

By Charles Hix

Even before Delilah clipped Samson, myths and theories abounded about the mysteries of hair loss. Although scientific study has progressed, not all factors are completely understood. Hair loss can vary among males in the same family and from generation to generation.

Balding is not a dread disease. In fact, it's not a disease at all; hair loss is associated with some illnesses, such as anemia and thyroid conditions, but the loss is reversible by treating the disease.

Because hair pretty much grows according to an established cycle, some daily loss of hair is a healthy sign, indicating that the ongoing process of hair replenishment is taking place. Each scalp hair grows for two to six years (the average is four), then rests for about three months before being pushed out by a new hair growing from the same root. Fortunately, follicles don't work in unison, so at any given time considerably more hairs are growing than resting. However, more hairs do fall out during the autumn, perhaps a subconscious acceptance of the world's natural rhythms. Only when the rate of loss exceeds the regrowth rate does thinning or balding become evident. As men age, regrowth does slow, so thinning is inevitable.

While there are various contributory reasons for baldness, the principal one is the accumulation of androgen (the male sex hormone most related to balding) that accompanies maturation.

Androgen shortens the growing phase, since the hair root is prematurely placed in the resting phase when the androgen level in the blood reaches a certain level. As the androgen level continues to increase, so does the frequency of resting cycles. Thus, the hair fails to grow to any appreciable length because the roots have atrophied, though they are not necessarily dead. The hair that is now produced looks more like fuzz than hair.

Eventually this downlike growth is barely visible, although the roots keep repeating these feeble cycles of growth and rest for many years. Surprisingly, perhaps, it's very difficult to kill the roots, and it's therefore possible to grow new hair on a man whose head resembles the proverbial billiard ball. If the roots are dormant, this can be accomplished by injecting the chap with the female hormone estrogen — only he may actually start sprouting breasts, experience a reduction in his sex drive and have other unsatisfactory side effects.

There is no actual proof that changes in the diet or mineral and vitamin supplements taken internally can alter the course of hair loss. Yet many men firmly believe in and swear by such "remedies," claiming that their hair growth has improved.

Physicians, in addition to condemning "hair vitamins" or "antibaldness lotions" as frauds, also dismiss scalp manipulation as a means to prevent or retard hair loss. However, even the most adamant detractors of scalp massage and treatments to prolong hair health do allow that these measures feel good and are relaxing. As one plastic surgeon freely admits, there is greater value in what a man perceives as truth than there is in the actual truth about baldness. Many duped men actually do find their hair growing more healthily again. Whether or not this "impossible" phenomenon is explained by the fact that the acute anxiety over hair loss has been relieved simply can't be ascertained. But some myths are absolutely unfounded. Cutting hair doesn't make it grow faster, for example, or else there'd be herds of men shaving their heads simply to cure their hair recession.

Historians believe the first marriage between Europeans in the American colonies occurred in 1609, between Anne Burrows and John Laydon in Virginia.

The following was reported in New York's Daily News:
The State Department of Mental Hygiene has circulated a three-page illustrated memorandum instructing its employees on the approved method of splitting an English muffin in half. According to the memo, "The type of cut (fork-pried versus knife-sliced) significantly affects the flavor and texture of the toasted product. We recommend the fork cut. Fork-prying provides the peak and valley symmetry necessary for maximum flavor and texture." The memo was circulated by nutrition director Jack Bellick to all muffin-splitters.

HOME ENERGY CONSERVATION
The Home Demonstration

Clubs are having programs on 'Home Energy Conservation' to learn how to lower utility bills. Most everyone who pays home utility bills is looking for ways to keep them under control. You can keep your home utility bills below average in two basic ways. First, you need to make your home as energy-efficient as possible in terms of construction, equipment and features. Then you should operate your home in a manner that will save you energy and money.

The air conditioner is the greatest energy-consuming device in most southern homes. On the average about half of the energy you use goes to heat and cool your home and up to 17 percent to heat your water.

You will save some energy by adding insulation to your attic or walls if you don't already have the optimum levels, but it may not be a cost-effective action. The Texas Energy Extension Service recommends R-11 to R-13 in the walls, R-26 to R-30 in the attic, and R-11 beneath floors with unsealed crawl spaces. It could cost you more than it will save you in a reasonable time. If you have no insulation in your attic, you should install some - at least an R-19 level.

Other ways you can conserve energy are to install multiple pane or insulating glass, caulk and weatherstrip, install attic ventilation, install a super insulated water heater, use fluorescent lighting and replace refrigerators, refrigerator-freezers, dishwashers, clothes washers and home appliances that use less energy to do the job.

We have an assortment of publications on home energy conservation available free to the public. If you would like a copy of the publications stop by the County Extension Office in the Courthouse Annex or call 669-7429.

At wits end

By ERMA BOMBECK

I'd give anything if my husband watched football. There's something so "American" about sitting up there in the stands Saturday after Saturday watching 22 burly men pitted against one another in brute animal strength to see who can get that ball over the goal.

Oh, I know what you're thinking. You're remembering all those rotten things I used to say about my husband when he watched football. About how all of our children talk like Howard Cosell. How we moved once and he didn't even notice. How I used to wear nightgowns made out of Astro-Turf to get his attention. How he's seen more bowls than the latrine officer at Ft. Dix. How we used to decorate him for Christmas and he never even moved.

I was kidding. Why, there's no healthier sport for a man in this world than a football game. His Saturdays used to be like a ritual. Fill the thermos, sling the blanket over his arm, the binoculars over his neck and hit for the stadium. No weather was too inclement. No season too scoreless. No bed or disease that could restrain him come Saturday.

And how I used to tease. The time I hired the Goodyear blimp to inform him I delivered a son. (And he called me at halftime.) And what about Mother's Day, when I put his mother in a band uniform and he waved and thought it was his dental hygienist? Those were the good old days.

Last Saturday, he got up at the crack of noon, filled his thermos, slung his blanket over his arm and his binoculars over his neck and we hit for the stadium.

His excitement was an extension of his old self. "Is that a tight end?" he yelled.

"It looks like a split end to me," I said sullenly.

"Would you look at that line!" he said shaking his head in disbelief. "That is some kind of defense."

"I think it's offensive." "That's because you don't know anything about the game. Oh, oh, backfield in motion! I tell you that center has to be the kicker of the century."

The pom-pom girls — 50 girls — at that moment left the field taking their spaghetti legs, their concave stomachs, and their inflatable made-in-Japan chests with them.

"Let's get something to drink," said my husband, "while the game is being played so we'll make it back in time for halftime when the girls come back."

I'd give anything if my husband watched football again.

Rice - Culberson VOWS

The Rose Garden of the Zalud Museum of Porterville, Calif., was the setting for the July 15 wedding of Marlene Louise Kolb Rice of Porterville and Edward M. (Skip) Culberson, Jr. of San Diego, Calif.

Both bride and groom are former Pampa residents and graduates of Pampa High School Class of 1955.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Cary of 430 N. Sumner and the late Judge C. E. Cary. She is the daughter of the late Mary Ellen Harris and Henry Kolb of 321 N. Purviance. The groom is the son of Mrs. E. M. Culberson of 217 Miami St. and the late E. M. Culberson.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. William Presley of Brea, Calif.

The music for the early morning vows was "Oh, Promise Me," played on the flute by Miss Diane Chiapa.

Attendants for the ceremony were the couple's nine children: E. M. III (Buster), Jeffrey, Brian, and Lisa Culberson, all of San Diego; Lt. Lawrence Rice, Jr. of Sacramento; Tim, Sherry, Ronny, and David Rice, all of Porterville.

A reception followed the wedding.

The bride was recently employed by the City of Porterville as a secretary to the planning department.

The groom is a Chief Warrant Officer 4 in the United States Navy currently stationed in San Diego.

Following a wedding trip to Three Rivers, Calif. and Sequoia National Forest the couple will make their home in Pacific Beach, San Diego, Calif.

It's the season for It's the Berries Salad! Combine three cups, each of chilled blueberries and diced pineapple, two cups of thinly sliced, peeled oranges and one cup chopped pecans. Use a separate bowl for the dressing, combining two cartons, eight-ounces each, of plain yogurt, one-half cup of orange juice and three tablespoons of honey. This will give you six servings of one and one-half cups each.

Crunchy salad has flavor of Orient

By Aileen Claire NEA Food Editor

Interest in Oriental cooking leads to some tasty variations on basic recipes. Take salads, for instance. Thousands of Americans are just discovering the mushroom as a salad ingredient as they learn more about Oriental cooking.

This crunchy salad with a Far Eastern slant combines green beans, snow peas, bean sprouts, water chestnuts, tuna and fresh mushrooms with a dressing spiked with soy sauce and ginger.

The growing of cultivated mushrooms makes fresh mushrooms available year-round at supermarkets and produce stands. Take advantage of them!

Old cookbooks may direct you to peel fresh mushrooms. That advice dates from the days when people trusted to luck, picking and eating wild mushrooms in season. For today's cultivated mushrooms, merely rinse briefly in clear water, pat dry and, if you wish, slice. Use an egg slicer for a quick, neat job.

- ORIENTAL MUSHROOM AND TUNA SALAD
- 1 pound fresh mushrooms or 2 cans (6-8 oz. each) sliced mushrooms
  - 1/4 cup oil
  - 1/2 cup lemon juice
  - 2 tablespoons domestic soy sauce
  - 1 clove garlic, minced
  - 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
  - 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
  - 1 package (9 oz.) frozen French-style green beans
  - 1 package (6 oz.) frozen snow peas
  - 1 can (1 lb.) bean sprouts, drained
  - 1/2 cup sliced water chestnuts
  - 2 cans (6-7 oz. each) tuna, undrained and flaked

Rinse, pat dry and slice fresh mushrooms or drain canned mushrooms. Place in a large bowl. Set aside. Combine oil, lemon juice, soy sauce, garlic, ginger and black pepper. Pour over mushrooms. Toss to coat well. Set aside.

CRUNCHY Oriental mushroom-tuna salad has tangy dressing.

Cook green beans and snow peas as package labels direct. Drain. Add to mushroom mixture along with bean sprouts and water chestnuts. Cover and refrigerate until chilled, about 1 hour. Gently stir in tuna. Spoon into a serving bowl. Sprinkle with sliced scallions and diced pimento, if desired. Makes 6 portions.

Pasta beats inflation

By Gaynor Maddox

Say "pasta" and most Americans think of Italian dishes with sauces of tomato and meat. Actually, however, pasta is eaten in most countries of the world — from China to Greece, from Norway to Mexico.

Each culture has its own method of preparing basic pasta. The adventurous consumer can create a wide variety of pasta dishes to beat — or, at least, slow down — the inflation in food prices.

"Pasta is the generic Italian term for that multitude of products made from semolina and water," explain Jack Denton Scott and Maria Luisa Scott, authors of the new book, "A World of Pasta."

Golden, sugar-fine semolina is the flour ground from the heart of durum wheat, the hardest and purest of wheats.

"Commercial pasta is made by mixing the proper amounts of semolina and water, shaping the dough, and drying it," write the Scotts. Noodles are made similarly, except that eggs are added.

Riboflavin, thiamine, niacin and iron are added to U.S.-manufactured pasta.

What about noodles for the mouth-watering Asian pasta dishes described by the Scotts? The book notes that such noodles are readily available in Oriental or specialty shops.

"One thing is certain," the authors insist. "These around-the-world pasta dishes are an adventure in cooking that will eliminate dullness in dining for many a month to come."

Here are just a few examples: German Spaetzle and Potato Soup, Noodles with Clams and Black Bean Sauce from China, Farfalle with Tuna and Yogurt Sauce from Turkey, Caribbean Spaghetti with Chorizo Sausages, Noodles with Ground Meat from Hungary, Danish Macaroni Salad.

Noodles with Kasha is a popular Jewish dish. Here is the Scott's version:

In a deep frying pan, melt 4 tablespoons chicken fat or vegetable oil. Cook 2 medium-sized onions, chopped, until soft. Stir in 1 cup of kasha (buckwheat groats), 1 beaten egg and 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Add 2 cups of chicken broth. Cover and bring to a boil. Then lower heat and simmer for 25 minutes. The broth should be absorbed and the kasha grains light and fluffy, but separated.

In a large heated bowl, place the kasha, 3 tablespoons butter and 1/2 pound egg noodles, cooked al dente and drained. Grind freshly milled black pepper over the top, and gently toss until well-blended.

Pageant contestants not equal

By PETER MATTIACE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — At Miss America, the contestants are sometimes created unequal — and not just by God's design.

Behind the smiles and songs that Americans see each year on television can be loads of cash for clothes and training designed to bring the crown home to Alabama or Texas or some other state where the pageant is popular, typically in the South or West.

By contrast, some young women — those from North-eastern states for instance — are supported by little more than their enthusiasm.

Take Miss Vermont, Lisa Volkert, for instance. "I am so pleased I'm in this pageant to begin with," she says.

Now listen to Sandi Miller, Miss Texas: "Why should they send someone who isn't trained? It's a job like every-thing else."

Here they are, two potential Miss Americas who will compete in the pageant Saturday night.

Lisa Volkert from Middlebury, Vt., seems more like a regular woman than do many Miss America contestants. She doesn't expect to win and isn't sure she wants to.

"The idea of winning really scares me," she said. "I don't know if I could change from being a simple girl to a girl on the go all the time."

Miss Volkert, 20, said she has had "no preparation whatsoever" for the contest. She will tell jokes during her talent performance Friday night. One of her favorites:

"What are things? That's what Frank Sinatra sings."

"I know I wouldn't have even won a local pageant in Texas," said Miss Volkert, a brown-haired, hazel-eyed senior at Castleton State College majoring in theater arts.

"No one from New England has ever won," she noted. "No one from Vermont has ever been in the top 10."

Miss Vermont — who is 5-foot-11, with a 34-27-37 figure — expects to go home with the minimum $2,000 in scholarships and $1,000 in clothing money given to each contestant.

So far, as Miss Vermont, she has been in four parades, been promised use of a car that she has not yet seen and has earned $50 announcing the winners in a golf tournament. "And I wasn't even paid for two of the parades," she said.

Miss Vermont also says things that most Miss America contestants don't. For example, she says that homosexuals "are people as well as we are" and those she knows are "wonderful people."

She doesn't object to people living together before marriage and she "perhaps" might find herself doing it someday.

Contestants who give all-American answers on social issues are "guarding their real opinions to win this pageant," she said. When it was suggested her candor might hurt her chances, Miss Volkert paused.

"Maybe I should've kept my mouth shut from the very beginning," she said, "but then I'd be just like them."

There's a lot riding on Sandi Miller to win the Miss America Pageant because, partner, Texas plays for keeps.

Like a Dallas Cowboy primed for the Super Bowl, the 5-foot-10, 130-pound Miss Miller has been molded into a contender by six weeks of rigorous physical and mental training.

"It's a very professional program. It's a business," says Miss Miller, 20, from Mesquite. "If you're going to be Miss Texas, you've got to do it."

Miss Miller has a $13,000 wardrobe, funded by a high-powered state pageant organization which told her not to worry about price tags. She has different advisers for her clothes, hair, makeup, interviews with judges and piano playing.

Since she was crowned Miss Texas, a state pageant official has been at her every public appearance to critique her performance. She even listens to motivational tapes while she sleeps.

"You can't afford to think negative when you're up here," she said. "You can't worry."

The brown-haired, brown-eyed Miss Miller is in prime condition after a high-protein, low-carbohydrate diet built around steak and tuna fish and designed to perfect her 36-25-36 figure. She also lifted weights and did exercises for two hours a day, six days a week.

"It was six weeks of pain and torture," she said. "They wanted to build up the muscle and take off the fat."

They did, and she is happy that she had added two inches to the circumference of her long legs, which now "touch where a woman's legs are supposed to" — at the thighs, knees, calves and ankles.

In agriculture

By JOE VANZANDT County Extension Agent Windbreak seedlings

The Texas Forest Service has announced they are accepting applications for windbreak seedlings. Interested applicants should send orders in early because certain tree species will be sold out if you wait until the deadline of Feb. 12, 1979. Orders must be for 100 trees or more, in multiples of 50 of any one species. The cost is $10.00 per 100 trees. These trees are seedlings and must not be used for landscape or ornamental purposes.

The species available this year include: Arizona Cypress, Austrian Pine, Black Walnut, Catalpa, Cottonwood Cuttings, Green Ash, Honeylocust, Osage Orange, Ponderosa Pine and Shumard Oak. Additional information and application blanks are available at the Gray County Extension office.

Halfway field day

The latest research on cotton varieties, corn, irrigation, and weed control will be featured attractions for the 69th annual field day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station for Lubbock and Halfway. The event begins at 1 p.m. Tuesday, Sep. 12, at the Halfway Research Site, 14 miles west of Plainview.

Producers will find the program particularly applicable as research efforts at the Lubbock and Halfway station focus especially upon the needs of producers throughout the High Plains of Texas.

The annual field day alternates between the TAES locations at Lubbock and Halfway. Field tours will be conducted throughout the afternoon, with tractor-drawn trailers shuttling visitors to key demonstrations.

The field day is a cooperative presentation of TAES, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the High Plains Research Foundations, the Science Education Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the National Weather Service.

Principal stops on the tour of the Halfway station will feature reports on irrigation effects on corn, tests of new cotton varieties, research on weed control, effective management of farm labor, and a new mobile trickle irrigation system.

During the stops on the tour of the 320-acre research site, Experiment Station scientists and Extension Service specialists will answer questions and discuss problems with the visitors.

The field day also will present a display of machinery and equipment by area implement dealers.

Horticultural activities

During the month of September, the following list of gardening activities are timely around your home landscape.

Prepare beds for planting bulbs. Select a well-drained spot that has at least six hours sunlight if possible. Apply a complete fertilizer high in phosphorus and spade in or till to a depth of six to eight inches, water and allow to settle before planting bulbs.

Select and order or purchase on local market any bulbs needed as soon as available.

Complete digging, drying and storing gladioli corms. Continue to irrigate when needed.

Continue to spray roses at regular intervals for blackspot and mildew control. Continue the weekly preventive spray until killing frost.

Chrysanthemums are in a critical stage and need plenty of moisture for the development of large buds and lowers. Don't allow to suffer drought stress. Stake and tie tall leggy varieties.

Clean up flower and vegetable garden areas. Cut back or pull out faded and dying plants. Makes good material to use in compost bin.

If there has been a past history of brown patch fungus in the lawn area apply Terraclor (PCNB) according to label instructions.

Divide, transplant and establish perennial beds including bearded iris, daylilies, violets, cannas and Shasta daisies.

Plant peonies anytime this month through mid-October.

Texas Furniture FABULOUS

Thomasville Week SALE

Thomasville
NATIONALLY ADVERTISED

Kenilworth

by Thomasville

The sturdy, yet elegant furniture of English manor houses of the 17th and 18th centuries inspires a new Thomasville dining room collection. This period of great commercial and cultural growth in England brought about many new furniture designs for the lovely homes that continue to grace the English countryside. Thomasville has adapted the designs of this historical period for the gracious living of today's discriminating consumer. The case features a splendidly shaped and rounded end post that extends from the flowing top to the sculptured and curving base. The tops are beautifully accented with handsome outlined parquet treatments. Important arch overlays on drawers and doors and interesting moldings of different levels blend into the handsome case details. Here is grand elegance for truly magnificent decorating in the country theme. Dining room pieces are scaled for large and small areas. China storage pieces feature beautiful bonnet tops and elegant beveled glass doors with graceful arch forms. Three table designs - an oval, a pedestal and a trestle offer wide variety - all offer important veneer treatments. The three chairs - a country Queen Anne ladder back, a cane back and an upholstered back style are beautifully designed to complement each of the tables. The woods are pecky pecan veneers and pecan solids and are finished to a mellow and distressed fruitwood tone. Skillful padding and highlighting add to the custom finish. Here is the popular country English styling that so beautifully blends today's casual living with the graciousness of one of England's most romantic periods.

You'll really "Save" when you buy a THOMASVILLE Bedroom during this SALE.

CEREMONY

by Thomasville

Distinguished design features of Old World elegance and opulence are featured in this collection of fine furnishings from Thomasville. Detailing in the classic mood and unusual wood treatments offer unique historic references rarely seen in furniture. A medium fruitwood tone with unusual depth and clarity brings crispness to the selected pecan and olive ash burl veneers, pecan solids and wood products. For crisp detailing and lasting strength, certain decorative parts and carved effects are of simulated wood. A special note of this collection is the magnificent traditional wall storage system. It will function as storage for a bedroom, dining room, living room or an attractive family room or study. In addition to the modular storage are handsome free-standing triple dressers, chests and a beautifully scaled armoire. In all the pieces the emphasis is on beauty, simplicity and refinement... elements that create furniture with "that Thomasville look."
