The Hampa News

By FRANK CORMIER Associated Press Writer CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) -

The Mideast summit, now in its sixth day, is moving ahead in fits and starts with no sign of a major breakthrough in resolving sharp differences between Israel and Egypt.

Although progress on some key issues has been reported by an official spokesman, there has been no formal conference of the three major summit participants since last Thursday

> Begin made his optimistic comment about the meetings when he encountered reporters during the battlefield tour.

'You can see they are going well," said Begin. He seemed to be referring to the evident rapport among the participants rather than to the Arab-Israeli dispute itself. Weizman was more cryptic than the prime minister when he was asked, "How are you doing?

"We are doing," the defense minister responded.

Before the Gettysburg trip, Carter attended Protestant religious services here and conferred by telephone with the Shah of Iran Carter lent the Shah his personal support but also called for more "political liberalization" in the troubled coun-

Reporters were kept far enough away from the summit principals to maintain the Carter-imposed secrecy that has marked the summit Meanwhile, there were these comments on the summit:

-Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., predicted that Egypt will not be satisfied unless Israel produces "definite movement" in its stance on Mideast

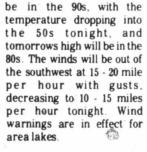

-Syria's president. Hafez Assad, said in an interview published in West Germany that the talks will fail.

Peterson dies in crash

MONZA, Italy (AP) - Mario Andretti has clinched a longsought world Formula I driving title on the very track where he had dreamed of becoming a racing star when he was a boy.

Yet he achieved it "in the worse way I could ever expect," the 38-year-old veteran from Nazareth, Pa., said Sunday after a controversial Italian Grand Prix was marred by the death of Andretti's Lotus teammate, Ronnie Peterson.

The 34-year-old Swedish ace underwent surgery several times since he suffered multiple leg fractures

Commission to consider ordinance

Ordinances adopting and unding the proposed 1978-79 operating budget will be considered on first reading by the city commission at its regular meeting at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in City Hall

The commissioners will look at an ordinance approving and adopting a budget for the new fiscal year, and an ordinance providing for the levy and collection of ad valorem (property) tax.

To finance budget increases, the commission will consider ordinances increasing the rates for water, sanitary sewer service, and residential and commercial solid waste disposal.

The commission will also receive a request by Pampa Cable T.V. for modification of its rate structure.

Because of increased business costs and plans for additional services, the company wants its present monthly rate of $7.75 raised to $8.50, an increase of 75 cents a month. Pampa Cable is also seeking to raise its secondary outlet charge from $1 to $1.50 a month.

In addition, the commission will receive bids for water and sewer construction in Davis Place.

House committee studies tests

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Assassinations Committee is studying the results of acoustics tests designed to show whether three gunshots or four were fired at President John F. Kennedy when he was slain

The tests could provide an answer to one of the most important questions lingering from the assassination in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

To make that determination, the committee hired the acoustics firm of Bolt. Beranek and

They were to present their findings in public testimony today as the committee began its second week of hearings on the Kennedy assassination.

The Warren Commission concluded from its investigation that three shots were fired. That determination was based largely on the fact that three cartridge cases were found on the floor beneath the sixth floor window of the Texas School Book Depository, where the assassin allegedly was.

But conspiracy theorists claim four shots were fired, gunmen. The Warren Commission said Lee Harvey Oswald was the lone assassin

The House committee retained the Cambridge firm to find out whether there could have been a fourth shot.

It is the same firm which analyzed the 181/2 minute gap in one of the White House tapes during the Watergate investigation and reported the tape was deliberately erased.

The work on the Kennedy case involved a tape recording made during the assassination when a motorcyle police offi-stuck in the "open" position. Some students of the case say the tape contains the sound of a fourth shot

More than 40 shots were fired, some from the depository and some from the grassy knoll where some theorists say the alleged second gunman was.

Company officials have said the analysis involved comparing the police tape with tapes of the test-firing to judge whether the "sound fingerprints" matched.

Senators want probe continued

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rival government investigators probing the General Services Administration are being pressured by a prominent senator to bury the hatchet and get on with uncovering what has been termed the largest money scandal in federal government his-

Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., has undertaken the peacemaking effort after becoming upset at what he calls the "internecine warfare between bureaucracies.

Chiles had a meeting scheduled today with Assistant Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti and GSA Special Counsel Vincent Alto.

"As public interest in the GSA scandals rises, the race for glory becomes more intense," Chiles said in announcing the meeting last week. "Unfortunately, this race is working to the detriment of the investigation itself."

Chiles, who heads the main congressional probe into the GSA scandals, also planned to meet with Attorney General Griffin Bell about the problem.

The antagonisms, which have sparked investigators to trade accusations of incompetence. are rooted in the often parallel nature of the GSA and Justice Department probes.

Both probes are searching for corrupt employees and contractors. Officials say the various theft and fraud schemes involve as much as $66 million annually.

Alto's task force has the job of rooting out corruption and suggesting changes to prevent reoccurence while the FBI and U.S. Attorneys offices concentrate on prosecuting criminal

The cooperation among the agencies has varied widely.

Sources say that a Baltimore probe involving GSA self-service stores and government credit card fraud is a good example of smooth cooperation. GSA investigators, say the sources who asked not to be identified, are working as a team with FBI agents and U.S. prosecutors.

The FBI Washington field office, however, has been mentioned often as a source of little cooperation.

For example, one non-GSA source said GSA investigators are frustrated because they have seen little FBI action.

"They gave them 40 nearly complete cases months ago. said the source who asked anonymity. "Now depending on who you talk to, six or a dozen of the cases are ready accord ing to the Justice Department

But Justice Department investigators have, in turn, been frustrated by what they see as GSA trying to take all the cred-

A brief glimpse into the current set of antagonisms was seen Friday when GSA Administrator Jay Solomon and Bell disagreed about what role Charles Kirbo, President Carter's close friend and unofficial adviser, would play in monitoring the probes.

Nicaraguan troops battle leftist guerrillas

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) President Anastasio Somoza's troops battled leftist guerrillas in Managua and other cities trying to crush a widescale offensive aimed at forcing Somoza from power.

"There is no longer any doubt. It is a civil war," said Alvarro Chamorro Mora, vice president of the anti-Somoza Conservative Party. The national guard. Nicaragua's 7,500man army and police force, claimed that its forces were "maintaining control and order in the whole country." But the Red Cross said there was heavy gunfire Sunday night in two sections of the capital and in the cities of Esteli, Masaya and Leon.

The government newspaper Novedades said at least 16 persons were killed in one of the five districts of Managua where there was fighting. Unofficial reports said there were many casualties in other parts of the capital, and incomplete reports told of at least 20 dead and many more wounded in other "Casualties among the terrorists were high," said a government communique, but it gave no figures.

Chamorro Mora said the Sandinista guerrillas, named for a guerrilla leader killed fighting the U.S. Marines in the 1930s, had launched an offensive throughout the country.

Blazes set by the guerrillas Saturday night were reported still burning more than 24 hours later in Leon, about 60 miles northwest of the Managua, and Masaya, 18 miles south of the capital.

The Sandinistas struck almost simultaneously at five police stations in the Managua area, witnesses said. They also attacked national guard command posts in Leon, Masaya. Esteli, Diriamba, Chinandega and Granada. All the attacks began between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday, launched by guerrillas firing automatic weapons

The national guard claimed it ended the fighting in Leon by 2 p.m. But the Red Cross said there was heavy firing again late Sunday night.

The current crisis threatening Somoza, whose family has ruled this Central American nation for 41 years, is the second this year. It began Aug. 22 when Sandinista guerrillas took over the capitol and about 1,500 hostages and forced the president to free 59 imprisoned Sandinistas, pay the guerrillas $500,000 and let the prisoners and their liberators leave the country.

A nationwide strike, called by opposition political parties and joined by the country's major business organizations, began

Democratic faction challenges Osborne

(Editor's note: This concludes a two - part story that began Sunday.) By JOHN PRICE

Pampa News Staff The Gray County Democratic faction opposing County Chairman Ruth Osborne wants to know why she waited until the end of August to challenge the county delegation to the state convention, which was chosen in May. They claim she decided to challenge the delegation only after she, an alternate, was unable to pursuade any of the Osborne cited two reasons for her delay. She didn't have a list of the delegates, she said, until early in July, when she called the secretary of state's office in list was not complete; three delegates - J.L. Homes. Foster Whaley and Fred Vanderburg, Jr. - were omitted from the delegate list when the minutes were typed. (This was corrected in a letter sent to Austin July 21 by Edward M. Dunigan, Gray County Convention chairman, and Pat Ward, convention secretary.

Osborne said she then decided to delay her challenge until after a Democratic barbeque scheduled fo Aug. 31 and cancelled before - hand. The barbeque would have featured several candidates for statewide office, and Osborne said she wanted to "keep as much harmony as possible" during the event. 'Ruth didn't want to embarrass Gray County politically," a supporter said.

"The county convention minutes state "Ruth Osborne moved that we acccept the slate (of delegates) as read." If so, why did she later challenge the delegation? Osborne denied making the motion. "That is not true," she said. "There are several executive committee members met the evening of Sept. 5 in the Gray County Courtroom. some of the directors."

The meeting was initially

A couple of persons who attended the meeting voiced the opinion that Osborne deliberately avoided it because she was afraid she would be asked to resign. Osborne said Shewmaker called her at 6 p.m. Sept 5 and told her there would be an executive board meeting at 7:30 p.m. She didn't attend because "I didn't feel the executive board had any immediate business that had to be taken care of." Osborne said. "It should have been a caucus, not an executive meeting.

Most of the executive committee board of directors were reportedly at the meeting, and several other prople who attended claim it was the consensus of those directors to ask for Osborne's resignation. This was denied by an alternate to the state convention, who insisted "The executive board is evenly divided down the middle - there is no consensus." The delegate accused " a small handful of people" opposed to Osborne of "railroading" in their efforts to get Osborne to step

"This other group represents less than one third of the voters of Gray County," said the alternate. (See FACTION page 4)

Co-signing for New York

The president insists that the $1.5 billion city bond guarantee given the Big Apple is not a federal handout. With this we agree, but hasten to add that although it is not a federal handout it is a hand - over of all the nation's taxpayers as note co - signers for New York City politicians.

President Carter delivered the country's tax base as collateral while saying, "Those who thought that the United States was going to stand by while its greatest city went under were wrong." He made the remark at New York's city hall as he signed the legislation.

He was speaking for the United States as the chief of the nation. We doubt that the states would unite to add this mortgage liability to their citizens if it had been left up to them to decide in local legislation. If left to individual taxpayers to decide, we are afraid our leader would find that he did not speak for the people with their consent.

Carter said that as long as New York "keeps its commitments, as I'm sure it will, then this bill will not cost the American taxpayer a cent."

It does appear that the present officials of this city have made many improvements toward a return to a sane fiscal policy. But, no one city administration can bind future ones to its policies. Future New York politicians may see this bail - out as a repeatable performance and may again embark on another long journey down the easy road to economic irresponsi-

Whether this happens or not, the action will cost all American taxpayers, by acting as co - signer of New York's debt, there is now an added liability of $1.5 billion to the nation's debt structure. It is the gigantic federal debt which has done the most to give impetus to the inflation which has deprived all productive citizens of a big part of their earnings.

We may not be able to pin - point the exact dollars and cents that will finally filter down to the American taxpayer through adding this tremendous liability, but it will have its adverse effect. And, the possibility that the federal treasury will be called on to make good the guarantee and pay off the notes might not be as remote as Carter would have us believe.

There are other great cities which are, or may be, in big financial trouble. How can they be denied, now that the precedent has been established?

If the federal government did not have the absolute power to take whatever it deems it needs from every producer, it would now be bankrupt. On the basis of its present income, it is in debt up to its ears. It is also adding to that debt in unprecedented amounts each day of the year.

Without the ability to take more and more from its productive citizens, it could not guarantee a loan for a compact car.

Carter used a writing table once used by our first president as the bill was signed. We wonder what George Washington would have had to say about this action? It is easier to get funds from Congress today for bread and circuses than it was for Washington to get warm clothes and food for his troops at Valley Forge. But, that was a long time ago.

Drug use probe needed

By REED IRVINE (Accuracy in Media)

WASHINGTON — When Dr. Peter Bourne resigned his post as White House adviser on drug abuse, after it was alleged in print that he had been observed snorting cocaine, he told a reporter that there is a 'high incidence of marijuana use' and 'occasional" use of cocaine by others on the White House staff. Congressman Henry Hyde (R-Ill.) has written a letter to Atttorney - General Griffin Bell asking for an official investigation of these allegations of illegal drug use by members of the President's official family Congressman Hyde said that charges of "serious criminal activity" by White House staff cannot be allowed to go unanswered. He said that what was at stake was "not only the possibility of widespread illegalities at the highest levels of government, but questions of national security as well." He noted that the American people are entitled to know if those in whom they have placed their trust are users of illegal drugs that could impair their judgment and lead this nation into grave and irrevocable national security-

Senator Howard Baker, minority leader of the Senate, has also called for an inquiry into this matter. Senator Schweiker of Pennsylvania has said that the White House has a responsibility to either open its doors for an external investigation or to conduct its own investigation of the Bourne charges. Congressman phillip Crane (R-III.), who recently announced his eandidacy for the Republican nomination for President, also thinks that an investigation is called for. He said that use of illegal drugs by members of the White House staff was a "horrifying example to be setting." he said that he would go along with congressman Hyde's demand for an investigation by the Justice Department.

Others who have voiced support for the probe include Sen. Domenici (R - NM) and Congressmen John Ashbrook (R-Ohio), Richard Ichord (D-Mo.) Richard Kelly (R-Fla.), Raymond Leaderer (D-Pa.), Bob Wilson (R-Calif.), and Charles Wiggins

The chances are that you have not heard much about these demands for an investigation of the White House staff, since the news media have shown virtually no interest in seeing the matter pursued. There have been no thundering editorials from The Washington Post, The New York Times or The Washington Star demanding that Dr. Peter Bourne be required to tell under oath what he knows of illegal drug use by members of the President's official family. The media, which were so zealous in insisting that the White House should set an example of strict obedience to the law in the Watergate days, have seemingly abandoned that insistence in this case.

The editorial page editor of The Washington Post explained that he did not think the matter was "going anywhere." He said that he had not heard much about any interest in an investigation on the part of members of Congress. This is understandable in view of the failure of his own paper to report the pro - investigation nt in Congress and the "stonewalling" by the White House on the Bourne charges.

Bruce Herschensoh, a member of the White House staff under President Nixon, has said that he doesn't understand why Peter Bourne has not already been put under oath to tell what he knows about drug use by White House staffers. He says that if such charges had been made about the Nixon staff the major media would have demanded the appointment of a special prosecutor to handle the investigation. Patrick Buchana, a speech writer for Presdient Nixon, agrees, he says that the entire White House staff would have been hauled before a grand jury by the U.S. Attorney's office.

Buchanan makes the point that in addition to the questions of lawbreaking by officals and the possible impairment of their judgment when under the influence of drugs. White House staffers who use drugs are potential targets for blackmail by those who supply them with narcotics and who know of their habits. Buchanan and his fellow columnist. Michael Novak, agree that the media are assisting in a serious

The new Etruscans?

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN In the view of historians, the africient Etruscans, who occupied part of the Italian peninsula, were ope of the most gifted and sophisticated peoples of ancient times. Unfortunately, Etruscan civilization was obliterated by the ruthless, militant power of Rome. Some historians see in the death of Etruscan civilization a disturbing parallel for the American people.

Prof. Robert H. Brophy of the University of Georgia, writing in the summer issue of Modern Age, admits that "the situation we face in regard to the Soviet Union is vastly different from that the Etruşcan cities faced, confronting and aggressively expanding Rome." Nevertheless, he notes a significant parallel course of events, right down to the detail of using wheat to buy the very temporary good will of an aggressor who couldn't feed his own

From 700 B.C. to after 400 B.C., the Etruscans were the most advanced people of Italy. They pioneered many of the techniques and inventions that we think of as Roman, including great roads and aqueducts. The Etruscan League of the Twelve Cities held sway over much of Italy and dominated the Western Mediterranean.

"Over the next two centuries, however," Prof. Brophy observes, "Rome rose to dominate all peninsular Italy." By the time of Augustus (31 B.C. - 27 A.D.), the Etruscan religion, language and culture were things of the past.

The story of the decline and fall of Etruria is the story, in Prof. Brophy's view,

"Just for kicks, I brought home our school competency test for you to take."

DOE kills likely solar plan

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

LINCOLN . Mass. (NEA) - From his home in this tranquil Boston suburb, Joseph C. Yater has struggled in vain for three years to convince the federal government to explore a promising new approach to harnessing energy from the

In theory, Yater's task ought to be an easy one. The need for drastic action to alleviate the critical energy shortage and solar power has emerged as one of the most promising alternatives.

In practice, however, the Department of Energy (DOE), primarily responsible for identifying and developing new sources of energy, remains stubbornly committed to nuclear fission as the sole feasible alternative

That's because for more than a quarter of a century (from the early 1950s until the mid - 1970s) nuclear power virtually monopolized the government's research and development efforts. The work was conducted by the Atomic Energy commission (AEC), recently incorporated into DOE.

Despite the change in the name of the team, the players remain the same. thousands of men and women (including DOE Secretary James · Schlesinger, a Former AEC chairman) who have devoted much of their adult life to the promotion of

Your money's worth

atomic energy

They pay lip service to the potential of solar power, but invariably insist that many years of technological refinement are needed to make it commercially feasible as an energy source.

That's where Yater enters the picture. Three years ago, he asked the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) to examine his revoluntionary concept of using the fluctuating energy of electrons that have been heated by exposure to the sun. A respected and responsible physicist,

Yater had developed a plan for a device that he believes could convert solar enegy. at relatively low cost, into massive ounts of usable electrical no Energy conversion of solar power currently relies on silicon - based photovoltaic cells, which operate at only about 15 percent of maximum efficiency. An intense, dedicated and serious scientist, Yater is convinced that his approach could achieve efficiencies as high as 80 to 90

NBA scientists scutinized Yater's theory, then concluded, in the words of one agency official: "This invention may represent a very significant advance in the efforts to use solar energy more effectively. It meets... all the criteria for support" by

Yater's proposal was the first solar related concept referred to DOE under a federal program specifically designed to provide federal assistance for feasible energy innovations developed by individual citizens and small companies.

Scientists and NBS and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology who analyzed Yater's theory unanimously agreed that construction of a small working model is the necessary next step in testing the idea.

Such a demonstration model probably could be constructed in a year or less, at an estimated cost of $250,000 to $750,000 - a miniscule fraction of the billions of dollars the AEC and DOE have poured into nuclear research.

Instead of unenthusiastic DOE insisted on conducting another theoretical review. Selected to conduct the review were the employees of DOE's national laboratories, devoted principally to nuclear research.

After 18 months of skeptical examination. DOE informed Yater earlier this year that it "will not support further effort on your concept." The entire project was killed.

Rep. Leo Ryan, D- Calif., has revived the effort by convincing NBS to conduct another full review. But the future of all solar research remains in doubt because, as Ryan notes, DOE "has no real interest in moving forward" to develop alternative of "how a weaker power was able to borrow or be granted outright the wealth, the technology, even the food and grain of, superior but supine powers, in order to

The mistake made by the Etruscans was their regard to Rome as a splendid market for Etruscan grain instead of an implacable adversary that was set on the conquest of Etruria.

In modern times, Americans display the inventiveness that was characteristic of Etruscans in ancient times. America in the late 20th century, like Etruria centuries ago, enjoys a comfortable existence and wants to do business with its enemies.

Powerful organizations in the United States, such as the US - USSR Trade and Economic Council, push for close economic ties with the Soviet Union, America's principal adversary on the world scene. Companies such as Control Data Corp. and Dresser Industries promote the sale of American know - how and equipment that will enormously enhance the strategic military power and industrial might of the Soviet Union. The Carter administration, like the Ford and Nixon administrations. show no understanding of the national danger in permitting such trade.

The Roman yoke on the Etruscans was not as heavy as the Soviet yoke on captive nations in today's world. As Prof. Brophy writes. Rome "totally lacked the modern socialist advance of public slaves doing forced labor in state work camps, had no secret police, no public prisons, and few crimes against the state.

It's unfortunate that those who make U.S. national policy seem wholly uninterested in the useful parallels that history offers us. If they took note of them, great tragedies could be avoided.

Certainly, as Prof. Brophy tells us, there is, in the story of the Etruscans, an important lesson as to "the folly of wheat deals with barbaric power."

Q: Why do so many million of you fail to take advantage of superb tax shelter plans approved by the U.S. government and specifically designed to help you accumulate money for your older years? Could it be because you simply don't know enough about the plans to establish them? Or you don't know where to turn to get help? Or because it's just to much trouble to move on your own to benefit yourself?

Yet, the facts are that the benefits you can derive from setting up one of the two types of tax - sheltered retirement plans created for you (Keogh or Individual Retirement Account) are both immediate and long - term; the earlier you arrange to participate the better of you and your family will be; and despite any of your concern about complexities, the procedures really are easy.

More specifically: The most immediate benefit you will realize from establishing tax shelter for your retirement is on the contribution you make to the plan. The money goes directly into the plan and is FREED from current income taxes.

To suggest how significant this can be. Lord, Abbett & Co., a New York - based investment management firm currently managing assets of close to $2 billion. submits these figures. If you are only in the 19 percent income tax bracket and can contribute $750, you will save $143. Putting it another way, you will be able to invest an addition! $143 a year toward your retirement nestegg. If you are in the 50 percent tax bracket, and you can contribute $7,500 your tax savings jump to $3,750 each year. Another extremely important benefit of these tax shelters is that the money you put aside under the shelter grows tax - free. you pay no taxes on the dividends, interest or capital gains earned during the years your funds are under the shelter.

Again, merely to suggest the significance of this, if you are an individual in the 50 percent bracket and you contribute $7,500 a year for 30 years to a tax - sheltered account compounding quarterly at 5 percent (a cinch to arrange,) you will have $362,834 more for your retirement years than you would have if you didn't bother to create a tax shelter. Quite a difference, yes?

How big the difference will be will vary according to the number of years you have a plan until your retirement, the amount of money you contribute each year, the return you are able to get on your investment and the tax bracket you are in each year.

And as your income moves up and you shift into a higher tax bracket (even if inflation robs you of the increased buying power of your extra dollars), the benefits of your tax shelter grow.

Your tax dollars

Although the politicians continually talk of reducing the size of the government in Washington, it just never happens. The latest figures released by the Civil Service Commission show that there were 2,884,940 federal civilian employees at the end of May. This represents an increase of 17,224 in one month from April.

In May the total bureaucratic payroll came to slightly more than four and one quarter billion dollars. $4,277,133,000. This works out to nearly $18,000 per employee per year. Not bad for public servants.

If you are self - employed, whether full - time or part - time, you should consider a Keogh plan, under which you can set aside each year $7,500 or 15 percent of your self employed income, whichever is less. Your contribution into a Keogh plan is tax deductible. There are no estate taxes on a Keogh plan, if it is paid to your beneficiary over two or more taxable years. Although the contribution deadline is

April 15, a full 31/2 years after the close of the tax year for most of you, you must begin a new Keogh plan no later than the last day of '78 (or any other year) if you want to claim a deducation for that year. You can start to collect your Keogh funds at age 591/2 or earlier if you are disabled and cannot continue to work. You must start withdrawals by 701/2 years of age, even though contributions can continue as long as you have "earned income." And the money in your plan is not attachable if you suffer personal bankruptcy. If you are an employee not covered by a company, government, or union sponsored plan, an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) is for you. With an IRA, you can set aside 15 percent or a maximum of $1,500 of your annual earnings — and if you use a marital IRA to provide IRA benefits to your non - working spouse, you can set aside up to $1,750 or 15 percent of your income each year, divided equally between you and your spouse. The deadline for establishing a new IRA or for making contributions to an existing IRA is Feb. 14. Other provisions are generally similar to

Texans waging guerrilla war on property taxes

Associated Press Writer

From the blackland farms of the north and east to the oil fields of West Texas to the sprawling cities of Houston and Fort Worth, Texans are waging a guerrilla war on escalating property taxes and local government spending.

In Sherman and Palestine. citizen groups have successfully blocked implementation of new property tax rolls that would raise their levies as much as 500 percent.

About 100 residents of Odessa in West Texas, angered by property tax revaluations. burned a barrelful of tax notices at City Hall this summer.

In Fort Worth, 3,000 property owners attended a tax protest rally where Howard Jarvin, an author of California's Proposition 13, was the keynote speak-

In Houston, the state's largest city, a protest group has petitioned the City Council for property tax reform and threatened a recall of elected officials unless their demands are met.

While the Texas protest movement lacks the statewide coordination of the tax rebellion in California earlier this year, brush wars have sprung up all across the state.

"It wasn't until things like...this Proposition 13 in California that people got mad enough to make a big issue out of it (property taxes)," said Houston Councilman Homer Ford after residents in that city held a big rally earlier this

"These tax protestors are plenty mad, and we've got to damn sure do something," Ford added

Reports from Texas newspapers which are members of The Associated Press showed that property owners in communities across the state have stepped up their battles against rising property taxes and spending by local governments. City officials, like Ford, say California's Proposition 13 success has probably encouraged tax protestors and given them higher visibility, but griping about taxes is nothing new.

"The complaints I got about taxes came before the California vote June 4," said Nueces County Judge Robert Barnes of Corpus Christi. "But I couldn't say Proposition 13 doesn't encourage you."

'People are coming unglued when they discover their propby 40 to 50 percent within four years," said Mayor Pro Tem Jim Bradshaw of Fort Worth. "I think there has to be a way to assure these people their tax money is not being wasted through unnecessary bureau-

'They (the protestors) recognize, and I believe they are right, there is a lot of waste at City Hall and a lot of fat that can be cut without affecting essential services."

But determining what is "essential" is not easy. Corpus Christi City Council members voted to reduce property taxes by 16.1 percent this summer, then had to back down to a 7 percent reduction because of citizen protests against service cutbacks

And, even with the smaller

erty appraisals have increased reduction, the council - to balance the city budget - approved higher fees for such services as garbage collection, building permits, swimming, tennis, golf, slip rental at the city's marina and for keeping animals at the city shelter.

Smaller cities and counties have not escaped the taxpayers' anger, either.

In Sherman and Palestine, suits by taxpavers have blocked, at least temporarily, the certification of 1978 property tax rolls which contain revalued - and higher - propertv listings.

Farmers in Grayson County, around Sherman, had for years seen their land taxed at the 1920 level of $7 an acre. They sued to block the new roll that values some property at $500

The revaluation, however, was the result of a suit brought by taxpayers living in the city, whose property was valued at far higher prices than that of their rural neighbors.

Most communities, especially larger ones, revalue property in sections of the city each year, on a rotating basis, so that a home is revalued once every several years instead of annual-

And inflation in several years causes some big value increases

Many cities have partially offset the higher property valuations by lower tax rates. Politically, a city council does not have to raise taxes. It can simply allow the tax assessor to increase property values.

It was the revaluation notices that angered the Odessa residents who burned their tax no-

"If the council doesn't do something," threatened protestor Jim Coonce, "we'll be getting rid of them. The people are sick and tired of taxes and that is the general attitude of our oil field, which is the backbone of our city."

While Texas residents do not have the constitutional power of initiative, which was used in California to get Proposition 13 on a statewide ballot, they can petition to recall elected city officials, although there have been reported cases of recall

The brush wars have yet to turn into any full-scale, statewide protest, possibly because despite rising property values, Texans are still among the

Barnhart, a staunch backer of Reagan for president, handily put down a late-blooming leadership challenge by Houston oilman John Butler Jr., who

Shortly after Butler was defeated, he withdrew that resolu-

A storm of protests exploded less than two months after McConn took office when the city tax department mailed tax revaluation notices to residents in 250 subdivisions.

The notices, initiated by the previous administration, involved tax hikes ranging from 100 to 500 percent. One example: A three-bedroom, inner-city home of frame construction with a $340 tax bill in 1977 would have seen a 1978 jump to $1,730. More than 9,000 property

But that didn't stop continuation of a two-prong attack initiated by a Tax Protest Group organized in the spring by representatives of civic clubs in several of the 250 subdivisions.

McConn and the council now must give early attention to two demands from the protest group

-that the city charter be amended to limit property taxes to one-half of one percent of market value with annual increases through revaluation to be limited to a maximum 10

-and, that a tax reform ordinance be enacted to hold all property valuations at 1977 levels pending reassessment of the entire city.

DALLAS (AP) — FBI agent James P. Hosty Jr., who monitored Lee Harvey Oswald in Dallas before the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, says the House Assassinations Committee is trying to get out of calling him as a witness. And Hosty, whose checkered FBI career finds him now in Kansas City, says he has some explosive, new revelations for investigative panel. He won't say what they are, yet, however.

In a copyright story in the Sunday editions of The Dallas Morning News, Hosty said the "bombs" he could drop on the committee's public hearings this month are unrelated to a threatening note Oswald delivered to the Dallas FBI in early November 1963 or to recurring rumors that Oswald was an FBI informant.

The Warren Commission identified Oswald as Kennedy's lone assassin on Nov. 23, 1963, in Dallas.

Hosty, now an agent in Kansas City, said he is skeptical of the House committee's dedication to finding the truth about the assassination "If they are going to try and contain this (assassination probe) like the Church (Senate Intelligence) committee and the Warren Commission, they don't want me up there," Hosty said. He said committee investigators gave him the impression last month they were "all done with-the investigation and they were writing the report (due in December) — that they were not opening any new grounds any more. They almost didn't call me. I had to ask why I wasn't called (to testify in private) before they would call Hosty gave a deposition Aug. 25, but is not scheduled to testify publicly at the Sept. 20 hearing on the FBI and Department of Justice.

Hosty has drawn the FBI's displeasure several times for his comments regarding Oswald and his part in the assassination.

The agent was in Dallas before and during the Nov. 22, 1963, assassination. Only hours after the assassination. Dallas police detective Jack Revill sent a memo to Police Chief Jesse Curry quoting Hosty's telling Revill the FBI knew Oswald was "capable" of killing Kennedy before he allegedly Curry then drew the wrath of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover the day after the assassination by saying the FBI knew, but did not inform Dallas police, that Oswald was working in the building on the presidential motorcade route.

Hoover denied Hosty made the remarks to Revill, but suspended Hosty for a month without pay and reassigned him to Kansas City

Hosty's name, auto license and telephone number were in Oswald's personal notebook when he was arrested, but the FBI did not disclose that to the Warren Commission in its first report on the notebook. The FBI reported it to the commission in a "supplemental" report after the news media picked up

In 1975, it was revealed that two weeks before the assassination. The note, Hosty said, warned Oswald "would take acstop talking to his wife.'

Twenty-six percent of the taxpayers questioned said they made out their own returns in 1978, up from 23 percent in a similar survey in 1977. Those who prepared their own forms were broken into two groups; one group was asked to compare this year's forms with last year's and the other was asked how difficult the job was.

Thirty-five percent of the first group said this year's forms were less difficult than last year's and 45 percent said they were about the same. Forty-one percent of the second group said the forms were not very difficult to fill out and 34 percent said they were not difficult at all.

The Roper survey also found that 67 percent of the public believes the tax system is somewhat or quite unfair, up from 64 percent in 1977. One reason

Candidates may be hearing from Reagan campaign camp

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP) - In a year or so, people like Jim Skelton David Volk and Carroll Campbell are likely to be hearing from Ronald Reagan's presidential campaign camp with a reminder that one political favor deserves another.

For Reagan is out beating the political bushes, for them and other Republican candidates. planning to cover about 25 states with more than 75 appearances before the off-year elections.

His political action committee. Citizens for the Republic. already has sent campaign contributions totaling $176.500 to 142 Republican candidates. One of its managers says the organization is trying to spread contributions across the Republican board in anticipation of a Reagan campaign in 1980.

In other circumstances, Citizens for the Republic might concentrate on fewer races. But the more candidates the Reagan committee helps now, the more of those reminders it can send out later, when Reagan would be looking for sopport.

There is no better way to get into position for the 1980 GOP presidential campaign than to build a dossier of contacts and campaign favors among Republicans running for office this

So Reagan will be in Chicago on Sept. 21 at a reception for Skelton, who is running for state treasurer of Illinois. Volk. who wants to be treasurer of South Dakota, is on the Citizens for the Republic contribution list. In Greenville, S.C., on Sept. 27. Reagan will campaign for Campbell, who is running for Congress.

His list of engagements is a long one, heavy on campaign appearances for congressional and gubernatorial candidates, but with time for Republicans and other offices, too. In addition, Citizens for the Republic has put together an analysis of the voters and the issues and has sent it to every Republican challenger running against a Democratic House running for state legislatures member. By election day, those campaign chores and contributions will number in the hundreds, every one a prospect for support in the likely Reagan campaign for the 1980 presidential nomination.

It is not unlike the campaign Richard M. Nixon waged in support of GOP congressional and state candidates a dozen years ago, an effort that paid off two years later in his own quest for the presidency.

Most of the party's organizational leaders either wanted to support me or, at least, felt that I had earned a shot at the nomination by the hard labor I had done for the party," Nixon wrote in his memoirs: "I emerged from the campaign of 1966 as a seasoned. senior Republican statesman who could still deliver some effective political licks."

Gray County Democrats. A party official present at the Sept. 5 meeting said the directors decided to wait until an official meeting to ask for Osborne's resignation, and were trying to convene such a meeting for Tuesday night. "But she (Osborne) surely won't "call the meeting, the official said. He said Osborne is going out of town to avoid any meeting.

Osborne said she was asked by Shewmaker to call an executive meeting fo Tuesday night, but declined because she is going to Lubbock today on business, and will go directly from there to Fort Worth for the state convention. Shewmaker then asked her to call a meeting for Sept. 8, she said, but "I could not get a quorum together. Besides, "I don't feel we have urgent business now.' she said. Osborne said she will probably call a meeting for Sept. 21 if she can get a quorum. In a letter sent Sept. 8 to all delegates, altenates and members of the executive committee present at the Sept. 5 meeting, Shewmaker suggested postponing another meeting until after the state convention Friday and Saturday.

Osborne's opponents admit they can't force her to resign, and Osborne said if asked to "I'll tell them to forget it.'

"There is no way that they can take me out unless they get the secretary of state to call a special election." she said. Only three or four executive committee members "at the outside" want to see her ousted, she said. "I would say not over three of them are trying to get me to resign - I don't even know if they are." Osborne said 'Each of them were elected by a small percent of the county. I was elected by the entire county. "If I had won by only a small percent of the vote then maybe I should resign. But I received 66 percent of the vote, she said. (Osborne defeated Tim Haigood for the county chairmanship in the May 6, 1978 election)

Solution Osborne's challenge will be heard by the Democratic Temporary Credentials Committee at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Fort Worth. The committee will decide to change the delegation or leave it as is. "I talked to Democratic Party Headquarters in Austin and they said they feel we are now substantially in compliance with the rules,"

said a local party official. A party member opposed to Osborne said "I think the majority of the delegates to the convention would rather let them throw out the entire delegation than bargain with her." Osborne summed up her position by saying "I just think the county chairman should run the party."

Pentagon schedules test of peacetime readiness

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Out of public view, the Pentagon and key federal civilian agencies next month will conduct the biggest peacetime test of the government's mobilization readiness since World War

The objective is to determine how quickly military reserve and National Guard units can be alerted, troop transportation and supply movements set in motion, standby draft machinery restarted, and the nation's critical industrial resources mustered

Defense Secretary Harold Brown, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and top Army leaders will be watching to see how far the guard and reserve have progressed since a 1976 mobilizaton test shocked many officials. "The problems we found were monumental," said a general who declined use of his name. He and other senior Army officers agree that the 1976 test showed most guard and reserve units earmarked for early deployment could not have met their assignments.

smooth mobilization has become increasingly important U.S. planners say, because of the Soviet Union's increased capability to attack Western Europe with little warning.

This exercise, codenamed 'Nifty Nugget," will run from Oct. 10 through Nov. 8.

"The public won't see any thing," said one senior planner who asked to remain anonymous. The results will be kept secret too, the Army said, because their disclosure "would be detrimental to the security of the United States. No regular or reserve units will be moved. But about 725 Army National Guard and reserve outfits will receive mock call-up orders with very small detachments from each being sent to mobilization stations during weekend drills.

Reserve elements of all the armed services will be involved and some regular units may be placed on short alerts.

Although the armed services and civil agencies periodically have held separate drills, said Col. Jerry J. Burcham, "this is cham is one of the planners.

Col. George Ryhanych, another planner, said, "We're all following the same script for the first time, with emphasis on how we shift gears from peace to a war footing and mesh with the civil community.

Tom Simmons, an official of the Federal Preparedness Agency, said, "We on the civil side try to determine how to mobilize industry and our other resources in time of crisis. Representatives of civil agencies will be stationed at the Pentagon command post during the tests.

Among federal agencies taking part will@be the Energy. Transportation, Commerce, Labor, Interior, Treasury and Justice departments and the skeleton Selective Service System.

The tiny Selective Service System nucleus, reduced to only 98 employees, will simulate reestablishing state headquarters and local draft boards. About 700 to 800 reserve and guard personnel have been trained to serve in reviving the draft machinery in an emer-

Dear Abby ly Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I read so many letters about cheating husbands, I wonder if anyone ever wonders how they got that way. Well, here is MY day:

I go to the breakfast table to find my usual bowl of cold cereal and instant coffee. (No toast; we're out of bread.) My wife, who went from 120 to 180 pounds in two years, joins me in a soiled bathrobe, pinned together because she's been to busy watching soap operas and talking on the telephone to sew on buttons.

I'm wearing the same shirt I wore yesterday because she didn't have time to iron. (I couldn't even match up a pair of socks this morning.)

It's only 7:30 a.m. and I'm already disgusted and irritable before going to work as a supervisor in a noisy office.

When I return home at 5:15 p.m. I find our 2-year-old still in his pajamas, and my wife is wearing the same soiled robe. The breakfast dishes are in the sink, and I notice an empty one-pound box of chocolates and a half-eaten pie by the TV

When I'm about ready to go to the nearest McDonald's, she tells me "dinner is ready." ("Dinner" is canned spaghetti, instant potatoes and a tossed salad that should have been tossed into the garbage.)

Two years ago, she quit work to have our baby, saying she'd return to work when the baby was a year old. Obviously, she has no intention of going back. No matter how late I stay up, I go to bed alone because she wants to watch more television. Would you blame me if I started looking for a woman who cares how she looks, and offers me some pleasant conversation, companionship and a little affection? So far, I haven't, but I'm considering it.

I'd be better off being a bachelor, eating out, and sending my clothes to a laundry. At least, I'd have good food, clean clothes and warm arms, and it would be cheaper than keeping a worthless woman.

DISGUSTED IN BLOOMINGTON

DEAR DISGUSTED: Obviously, your wife is not the same woman you married. But why are you telling ME all this? Do you want to improve the situation, or set up some justification for cheating on her?

Has it ever occurred to you that your wife may have become lazy, slovenly and addicted to food and television because she's sick?

Before you write her off as a "worthless woman," try to find the reason for her apparent deterioration. With loving concern instead of criticism, plus professional help (starting with a physician) you might be able to save her. It's certainly worth a try.

DEAR ABBY: If you knew for a fact that your sister's husband had been keeping another woman for over five years, would you tell your sister?

Many others know it. My sister is bound to find out some way, and when she does, she will surely realize that I must have known it, too.

> Ask Dr. Lamb Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband and I are both in our 20s and we lost weight on a low-carbohydrate (40 grams a day), high-protein diet. He lost 40 pounds and I

We are trying to maintain our weight loss by eating fish, chicken, beef, ham and quite a bit of cheese. We eat vegetables such as spinach and broccoli. My husband includes one or two slices of high-fiber bread in his lunch but he is not a big fruit eater. I like salads and fruits and we sometimes go through a dozen eggs in a week. From reading your articles I am certain part of this diet affects our health negatively as far as fat and cholesterol content, but how can we avoid this and still eat protein low in carbohydrates? Why does there seem to be an almost instant weight gain of several pounds when we resume eating carbohydrates of any form? We find it hard to hold our desired weight and wonder if the constant see-saw of two to five pounds is harmful.

DEAR READER - First about that see-saw effect of two to five pounds that you're describing. That's a change in the amount of water that your body holds.

When a person does not have sufficient carbohydrate in the diet, the kidneys lose excess salt and water. That accounts for the initial loss of two to five pounds on many fad diets like vou've been on. That's not fat loss at all. It's the loss of normal healthy water and salt that your body needs.

Obviously as soon as you start eating sensibly again, the body starts reacting in a normal healthy manner and retains the salt and water it

Yes, your diet is terrible. The main point in avoiding calcium for your diet. Also you can use fortified skim milk in the same way. There isn't any reason a person can't have a lowcalorie, low-fat, low-cholesterol diet which is balanced and provides all the necessary vitamins and minerals. I am sending you a basic diet that purpose. I recommend that anyone who is dieting should have a regular, daily exercise program and, if possible, the exercise activity should be increased. If this is continued regularly, it will help immeasurably in protecting the body against some of the bad effects from dieting as well as helping you do a better job of getting rid of plan which you can use for

French dressing is sauce salade"

By CRAIG CLAIBORNE and PIERRE FRANEY (c) 1978 N.Y. Times

News Service

The salad dressing known in America as "French dressing" is not the one most commonly used in France. That salad dressing is sauce salade. consisting of approximately three parts oil to one part vinegar, with salt and pepper to taste. What Americans call "French dressing" is a creamy concoction which coats the greens in a way that the basic French dressing does not. It is made of oil, vinegar, a trifling amount of egg yoke, plus a touch of heavy cream to thin it. It is, in fact, made like a mayonnaise. The heavy cream tends to give a smoothness to the dressing, and it also prevents the dressing from "breaking down" or separating once it is made. Our version has a touch of finely chopped garlic for flavor and a bit of lemon juice

Gusto Julia's got. As much on holiday as everywhere else, her days are all food; buying it. cooking it, eating it, talking and writing about it, and even pondering it like an obsessive philosophical dilemma

Julia's Nicoise is based on tomatoes, anchovies, tuna, capers, olives, plus a touct of Escoffier's version that includes steamed potatoes and green beans. "What's good enough for Escoffier is good enough for me." she says.

This is absolutely non-traditional." she announces, "I'm going to make an aioli, or garlic-flavored mayonnaise, to accompany the salade Nicoise."

Off a pulley she took an enormous bouquet of garlic. Using an olive-wood mortar and pestle. Julia pounded furiously at enough garlic to hold off a small army - seven cloves for seven people.

Her solution for garlic breath is succinct: "We just tell everyone to eat garlic, and then you won't notice it.

As always, there were the typical Child tips: "Tomatoes shouldn't be kept in the refrigerator. They die! You should simply leave them to ripen on the top of the fridge.

Evert, Connors on top of tennis world

NEW YORK (AP) - Bjorn Borg's Grand Slam dream and Pam Shriver's Cinderella story both ended as tennis' love match, former sweethearts and current "good friends" Jimmy Connors and Chris Evert, waltzed off with the big prizes at the U.S. Ohen.

Connors was at his fiery, fistshaking, foot-stomping best Sunday in trouncing Borg, who was bothered by a blister on his right thumb, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2 for the men's title.

Hours earlier. Evert sent the

"I came here to play tennis, to win the U.S. Open - and I did it," exhulted Connors, who achieved a measure of revenge for the 6-2, 6-2, 6-2 beating he suffered against Borg two months ago at Wimbledon.

It was Connors' third U.S.

Open title. He won in 1974 and 1976 and was a beaten finalist in 1975 and 1977

Before the tournament, Connors had vowed to go "to the ends of the earth" to stop Borg's Grand Slam bid - the French, U.S. and Australian opens and Wimbledon, all in the same year. Borg already had won the French Open and Wimbledon, but instead of the ends of the earth, Connors was able to halt that streak in New

There should be plenty of next times for Shriver, the lean 6-footer who lent a breath of fresh air to this tournament with her on-court play and offcourt charm. The youngest Open finalist ever, she was to begin 11th grade classes at McDonough High School in Lutherville, Md. today.

Her strong serve and volley game was not enough to stop Evert from becoming the third woman to win the U.S. Open Bjurstedt did it in 1915-18 and Helen Jacobs in 1932-35.

Bob Lutz and Stan Smith won the men's doubles title, Billie Jean King and Navratilova won the women's doubles, and Betty Stove and Frew McMillan captured the mixed doubles.

Total paid attendance for the first Open to be held at the National Tennis Center, following the move from the West Side Tennis Club, was a record 275 -300 for 21 sessions.

All the papers are in order. gentlemen, let's wrap this deal up. Sixty-five yards the Oilers needed and 65 they got. The emotionally charged Kansas City Chiefs, gunning for a second straight upset victory that would have put their season in orbit, saw them coming but seemed powerless to stop them. Earl Campbell carried four straight times for 39 yards and and toted three times for 23 yards to the three. Let Tim Wilson make a vard

Campbell, last year's Heisman Trophy winner and this year's No. 1 selection in the college draft, collected 111 yards, the second time he's cracked the century mark in as many professional starts. But he lost game honors to Reed, Kansas City's second-year pro out of Colorado who enjoyed his greatest day as a professional with 141 yards, including 106 in the first half.

'Coming in here at halftime I felt so good," said the downcast home and feel good about today. I can't feel elated. Sure, I had a good day, but...'

Phillips was gracious in victory, heaping praise on Marv Levy, the Chiefs' first-year head coach, for the job he's done with a team that went 2-12

"Kansas City is a good football team...not an average football team but a good football team," he said. "They had a good offensive scheme and they blocked well. They are well coached. I mean well coached. I didn't expect them to execute as well against us as they did."

Dorsett touchdown helps Dallas top pesky Giants

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - Tony Dorsett gained 1,-007 yards as a rookie despite starting only the last five games of the season and being uncomfortable with Dallas' intricate offense.

Things are different this year, however, for the former Heisman Trophy winner. Two outstanding performances in the opening weeks of the season indicate the shifty halfback is finding life in the National Football League more to his liking this time around.

Dorsett followed up last week's 147-yard showing against the Baltimore Colts by rushing for 111 yards and scorthe New York Giants Sunday. "The difference this year is, No.1, I'm starting and, No.2, I'm more comfortable and relaxed with the system," Dorsett said. "I don't have to think about each move I make now, I just do it. Just like it was in Dorsett's 3-yard TD run made it 34-17 in the fourth quarter after the Giants had staged a second-half comeback. Roger Staubach connected on 18 of 28 passes for 212 yards, including short first-half TDs to Billy Joe DuPree and Jay Saldi. Robert Newhouse bolted over for scores of 1 and 2 on Bobby Hammond's 11-yard run, Dan Doornink's 1-yard plunge and Joe Danelo's 42yard field goal.

"It's easy to prepare mentally this year knowing I'm going to start," Dorsett said. 'Last year I knew I wasn't going to start but I didn't know how much I was going to play.

"Our team, in my opinion, has unlimited potential. We're explosive and can score from anywhere on the field. The best has yet to come," Dorsett added. "I cheated myself last year because I was hurt and I didn't feel in it. I fell behind on my studies and our system can be confusing. This year I got it down and am run

Kangers remain out of race

Texas Rangers, whose 1978 baseball season can be described most kindly as "disappointing," found themselves one out away from being back in the pennant race at Oakland Sunday. They never got it.

After winning an 8-3 opener. they took a 1-0 lead in the ninth inning of the second game, with two outs, and a runner on second. Steve Comer was pitching to Jeff Newman.

If Newman had been out, the double-header sweep would have left the Rangers in the following position: a 70-70 record, only six games behind division-leading Kansas City in the loss column and only four games down in that column to Califor-

The Rangers could then head home for a four-game series against the Angels, and coast through their last 18 games against Oakland, Minnesota and Seattle, old teams with losing records.

But Newman tied the game with a single to center, and two infield hits ended it. On Taylor Duncan's grounder over second, Bump Wills made a wild throw to first, letting runners wind up on second and third. When pinch hitter Tim Hosley produced another slow-bouncer past the mound, he was able to beat shortstop Nelson Norman's throw to first while the winning run scored. "Infield hits," Manager Billy Hunter acknowledged, "but they all count. They are part of baseball. The real answer to that situation is to get further ahead earlier in the game and believe me, we were trying. But that fellow wouldn't let

Raiders fumble way to victory

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

Yes, said Ken Stabler, I really did fumble on

Yes, said Dave Casper, I really did help the ball along. No, said Jerry Markbriet, there was nothing wrong with any of that.

The Oakland Raiders, a National Football League power for many years, appeared doomed to their second straight loss of the season Sunday.

But with 10 seconds to play and the Raiders 14 yards from the San Diego goal line, Stabler intentionally fumbled and Casper fell on the ball in the end zone for a touchdown. Errol Mann kicked the extra point with no time remaining and Oakland had a 21-20 victory.

Markbriet, the referee, ignored the howls from the Chargers' bench.

Victory is something Baltimore Coach Ted Marchibroda would like. For that matter, he probably would be happy with just a touchdown, a field goal, a safety, any kind of a score.

The Colts have not been playing the best brand of football this year. They've been shut out twice and have allowed 80 points - tops in the NFL. After their 38-0 loss at Dallas last Monday night, the Colts came home Sunday and were blitzed 42-0 by the Miami Dolphins.

In Sunday's other games it was Chicago 16, San Francisco 13; Cleveland 13, Cincinnati 10 in overtime; Green Bay 28, New Orleans 17; Houston 20, Kansas City 17; Pittsburgh 21, Seattle 10; Dallas 34, the New York Giants 24; the New York Jets 21, Buffalo 20; Washington 35. The parents still shield the children from publicity, but they don't try to hide them. All requests for interviews still go through the family attorneys. There are monthly requests, all turned down

The family house - a mansion with 17 rooms and five baths - is more secluded than ever after 15 years. It was built soon after the quints were born through services and materials donated by townspeople.

An older sister, Charlotte, 7 when the quints were born, has married and moved from home. The oldest brother and another sister will marry later this year. Two older children, the quints and Cindy, born a year after the quints and now in the same grade, remain at Three quint contracts were signed - one with Curtis Publishing for an exclusive Saturday Evening Post feature, one with Brown & Binelow for calendar paintings, and one with Borden, advertising cheese and disposable diapers. Fischer once said the Curtis and Brown & Bigelow contracts totaled $80,000 the first year.

Money from the contracts was invested in guardianships for all 11 children - payable at

ward, to their big family. Test developed to diagnose disease

By WARREN E. LEARY AP Science Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) -Scientists say they have developed a simple chemical test to diagnose schizophrenia, a group of mental disorders believed to affect millions of people.

Dr. Rajendra Varma, a biochemist with Warren State Hospital in Warren, Pa., said Sunday that a chemical test of urine would help back up traditional, imprecise ways of diagnosing the disorder such as watching for changes in behavior and attitudes over a period of time.

She said she knew of no other similar chemical tests.

Schizophrenia is a group of mental disorders that affect people in varying degrees. The condition can occur at all ages, but most frequently begins to appear in young adults.

Sometimes brought on by a traumatic event or another change in a person's life, schizophrenia can be expressed as a detachment from reality, difficulty in making logical associations and a decreased range of Doctors treat the disorder primarily with drugs and psychotherapy.

Ms. Varma's work involves measuring the level of glucuronic acid in the urine. Studies of 60 male schizophrenics showed that it was significantly lower in 72 percent of them than in 30 normal males, she said at a briefing during the national meeting of the American Chemical Society.

"As the patient recovers, the values should go up and these values could be coordinated with other tests to check the progress of treatment," Ms. Varma said in an interview.

Tests so far have been with white men age 25 to 45, but work with women is expected soon, she said.

Females normally have lower levels of glucuronic acid, so males were used first to better test the method.

In recent years, scientists have been looking at possible biochemical causes of schizophrenia, focusing on changes in affect how brain chemistry cessed or information is transmitted.

Glucuronic acid is a glycosaminoglycan protein substance that is a component of the blood-brain barrier and certain nerve-cell sites in the brain. These substances are made naturally in the central nervous system, but studies show they undergo chemical changes because of such environmental factors as learning, experience, stress and emotional changes, Ms. Varma said.

Changes in brain chemistry that could be involved in schizophrenia therefore could be of genetic or environmental ori-

"The brain is the organ primarily involved in schizophrenia," Ms. Varma said. "Since the brain is not accessible to chemical analysis in the live patients, analysis of the body fluids provides an alternative

Terrorist manhunt into second year

BONN, West Germany (AP) - The computerized, multimillion-dollar manhunt for West Germany's terrorist killers is well into its second year with 14 of the most-wanted fugitives

Terrorist suspect Willy Peter Stoll, wanted in the 1977 killings of three prominent Germans, was slain by Duesseldorf police last week in the first big strike in West Germany this year against the fanatical Red Army

But the taking of the 28-yearold Stoll brought chilling proof that some of the three dozen terrorists thought to have fled abroad last year have defiantly returned to resume their war on West German society.

"What worries us is that the terrorists have returned even though it was thought to be too hot for them here in the last six months," said a West German security official, who asked not

"They have lots of money, probably several million marks, from bank robberies and probably directly from countries like Libya...," he said. "You should see the quality of the phony identity papers Stoll had. That stuff costs mon-

Stoll was shot last Wednesday by plainclothes police who challenged him at a Chinese restaurant in Duesseldorf after a woman patron recognized him from a wanted poster.

Ordered to put up his hands, Stoll instead grabbed for his pistol loaded with dum-dum bullets, a soft-nosed bullet that expands when it hits. A policeman shot faster, hitting him four times, and Stoll died of internal bleeding, authorities

An extensive police search of the Duesseldorf area failed to locate other Red Army suspects, but police did find an apartment believed used by Stoll just before he was killed.

Stoll was the sixth prime suspect nabbed in recent months for the 1977 terrorist killings of chief federal prosecutor Siegfried Buback, banker Juergen Ponto and industrialist Hanns Martin Schlever Four suspects were captured by Yugosloslav police in May and are still jailed there while the Bonn and Belgrade governments try to work out a prisoner swap - the Germans for Croatian extremist opponents of Marshal Tito living in West Germany

Brigitte Mohnhaupt 28 Rolf

Clemens Wagner, 33, Peter Boock, 26, and Sieglinde Gutrun Hoffmann, 33, were captured in Zagreb after the Germans circulated their descriptions around the world.

Another suspect, 25-year-old Stefan Wisniewski, was arrested in France last May and has been extradited to West Germany for trial.

Ten women wanted in the killings remain at large: Susanne Albrecht, 27, Friederike Krabbe, 28, Elisabeth von Dycq, 27, Silke Maier-Witt, 28, Juliane Plambeck, 26, Inge Viett, 34, Angelika Speitel, 26, Sigrid Sternebeck, 29, Monika Helbing, 24, and Adelheid

The four men on the mostwanted list are: Rolf Heissler, 30, Joerg Lang, 38, Baptist-Ralf Friederich, 31, and Christian Klar and Miss Schulz, who are lovers, were spotted with Stoll in August while making charter helicopter flights in southwestern Germany, apparently in search of new terrorist targets.

Police were tipped by the helicopter pilot about three suspicious passengers. Agents watched and photographed them but did not recognize their true identities until after they had disappeared.

Police said Stoll, Klar and Miss Schulz escaped detection by altering their appearances from the hippie look of wanted posters to shorter hair, makeup and clean-cut clothing favored by young German business

The Federal Criminal Office in Wiesbaden stocked a sophiscated computer with personal data on the terrorists and other criminals, placing 1,300 terminals in police stations, airports, border control points and other public offices to enable instantaneous checks of suspects picked up with false identity papers or disguises.

The government has refused to reveal the exact cost and extent of the anti-terrorist campaign, but millions of dollars and thousands of police are involved. The national budget set aside some $650 million for internal security this year, some $100 million more than in 1977.

The computerized identification methods and a new spirit of cooperation among governments of the East and West has benefitted the German campaign against the Red Army Faction.

Soon after the four suspects were picked up in Yugoslavia, four other Germans on a second wanted list of Red Army suspects were captured in Bulgaria. Holland also captured three suspects in the 1977 wave of violence and is preparing to extradite Knut Folkerts, 26, Christoph Wackernagel, 26, and Gerd Schneider, 29. Guenter Sonnenberg, 23, was grabbed by West German police last year after a gunfight. He, Folkerts and Klar are believed to be the masterminds behind the assassination of prosecutor Buback in Karlsruhe, along with his driver and a police companion.

Ponto, chairman of the country's second largest commercial bank, was killed at his home in suburban Frankfurt apparently resisting would-be kidnappers believed led by Miss Albrecht, a Ponto family friend

Schleyer, head of West Germany's Industry and Employer's Associations, was kidnapped in Cologne in 1977 by terrorists who ambushed his car and killed his driver and three police escorts.

Schleyer was killed by the kidnappers after seven weeks of captivity when West Germany refused to release 11 jailed

Ginseng small product compared to grain

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Compared with the billions of dollars worth of grain American farmers sell to foreigners each year, ginseng is small but a lot more exotic.

Ginseng is a herb reputed to have sex rejuvenation properties and other medicinal values. It is a lot more precious than grain to those who sell it and, pound for pound, may be the most valuable of all U.S agricultural exports.

The Agriculture Department said today that ginseng exports in 1977 were valued at a record of $26.5 million, up 48 percent from $17.9 million in 1976.

About 386,164 pounds were sold last year, mostly to Hong Kong and other Asian markets. In 1976, some 329,000 pounds were exported. That was an average price of about $70 a pound, up from about $54 a pound in 1976, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said in a report. Comparatively, this year's grain exports are expected to total about $11.4 billion for roughly 85 million metric tons.

Thus, grain shipments will be around 187.4 billion pounds, an average value of approximately six cents a pound, compared to the $70 a pound that ginseng has been bringing.

Each metric ton is 2,205

The report, written by Gordon E. Patty, an agricultural economist in the agency, said that the American variety of ginseng is native to eastern hardwood forests and was exported to Asia in colonial times.

Daniel Boone was reported to have shipped — for eventual export - several tons of ginseng root that he had gathered in Kentucky," Patty said.

But as virgin forests disappeared, commercial production of ginseng began late in the last century so that today most is commercially culti-

The report said that although China has three species of native ginseng, it recently purchased about 500 pounds of U.S. ginseng seed in hopes that it will be more resistant to blight than the native varieties.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Scientists at the University of Minnesota have been using a panel of sheep to taste weeds. Of 12 weeds tasted by the sheep, eight came through with high ratings and six of those actually were "apparently enjoyed" by the participants. The weed tasting was described in a current issue of "Agricultural Research" published by the Agriculture Department One objective of the tests was to see if some common weeds scattered in newly planted alfalfa might not be as large a problem as many farmers sup-

The researchers, Drs. Gordon C. Marten and Robert N. Anderson, reported that "some of the weeds found in hay fields are just as good as alfalfa if they are harvested at early stages of maturity."

All the sheep enjoyed six weeds: redroot pigweed, Pennsylvania smartweed, common lambsquarters, barnyardgrass and both yellow and green fox-

"Some sheep also liked ragweed and velvetleaf, but others did not," the report said. "Four weeds unpalatable to sheep were: common cockleburr, giant ragweed, wild mustard and giant foxtail

Nine of the 12 weeds tested contained more crude protein than oat hay and 10 were more digestible than oat forage, the report said. .

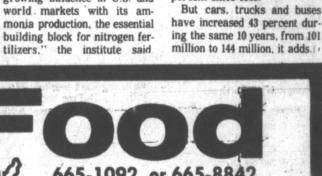

WASHINGTON (AP) - Representatives of nearly 50 countries will meet in San Francisco this week to talk over the world fertilizer situation.

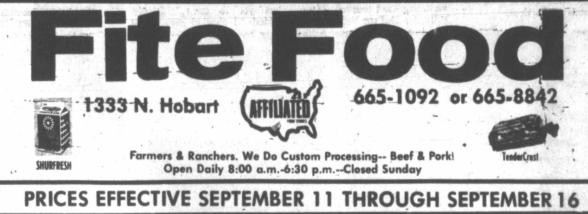

The Fertilizer Institute, an industry association, said that both fertilizer producing and consuming nations will be represented at the conference Sept. 13-16.

For example, the institute said, an official of Mexico's state-owned petroleum and nirogen complex, PEMEX, will be among the speakers. 'Mexico has emerged as a
