Tower appears as favorite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special interest groups have contributed thousands of dollars to both candidates in the U.S. Senate race in Texas, but incumbent Republican John Tower appears to be their favorite, according to Common Cause.

The citizens' lobby group reported in a special study released Thursday that Tower and his Democratic challenger, Rep. Bob Krueger, have received contributions from the same big business or special groups.

"These interest groups are making sure they will have easy access no matter who wins the Texas race," said Fred Wertheimer, a Common Cause vice president. "It's like backing both teams in a football game — you're bound to have a winner."

However, Common Cause said Tower received much larger contributions from almost all groups than Krueger did.

Tower received about 70 percent of the total of specific special interest group donations listed by the lobby group and more than 80 percent of special interest group contributions reported by both candidates to the Federal Election Commission through Oct. 1.

The special interest contributions were less than 10 percent of the total contributions reported by each candidate.

Of the $112,170 in 46 specific contributions listed by Common Cause, Tower received $79,395.

Common Cause said reports filed with the FEC through Oct. 1 showed Tower with $220,390 from special interest groups compared with $65,022 for Krueger.

Braniff Airways, Coca-Cola, General Electric, Texaco, United States Steel and Union Oil of California are included in the list along with organizations representing doctors, lawyers, bankers, realtors and automobile dealers.

The National Automobile Dealers Association easily led the pack with a $10,000 donation to Tower and $5,000 to Krueger — the largest donation from the 46 for the current House member.

Tower received $10,000 donations from the American Medical Association and the National Association of Realtors while Krueger received $250 from the AMA and $100 from the realtors.

LTV-Vought Corp. kicked in $7,500 for Tower and $450 for Krueger and the Houston law firm of Baker and Botts added $6,000 to Tower's total and $2,000 to Krueger's.

Braniff didn't show any favoritism, giving both campaigns $3,000.

Coca Cola poured $1,000 into Krueger's campaign coffers and $500 into Tower's.

"This is another classic demonstration of special interest groups using campaign contributions to invest in public officials," added Wertheimer. "It couldn't be clearer that interest groups are covering themselves with both candidates in order to protect their political investments."

Everyone should learn they just can't go back

LA MARQUE, Texas (AP) — The whole thing began with two stiff belts of scotch courage at the VFW hall, and ended with sunrise on a deserted beach.

It had been a hell of a night—absorbing 20 years of changing tides, times and people.

As one guy said, "I'll be damned. You really did grow up, didn't you?"

And, indeed, we had. Some outgrew their hair and others their belts. And, sadly, some of us had outgrown each other.

The occasion was the 20-year reunion of LaMarque High School's Class of 1958. Many of us had first met shortly after World War II ended, and shared our lives right up until that May evening when, properly capped and gowned, we accepted a diploma, smiled bravely and went off into the darkness toward whatever lay beyond.

Sufficiently fortified against the bittersweet pangs of nostalgia, and armed to meet whatever horrors lay ahead, I made my way to a small retreating in the pine woods.

The year 1958 was a good one for spawning lawyers. There was balding Buzzy Crosby, now a Houston attorney, and Faith Ford, a lady of some academic achievement, now a Dallas lawyer, and Milton Stewart, a Baytown lawyer.

Then there was Johnny Poole, a veteran comrade who grew to maturity and wisdom as a hubcap-popper with me, who now is a well-heeled psychologist.

A strange man approached—tall, heavyset, balding, friendly. Who was this? An encyclopedia salesman? A school principal? A police chief? An insurance man? None other than Eddie Fruge, a good-hearted, gangling youth I'd known since Harry Truman's presidency.

And there was buxom, beaming Barbara Boudreaux—matronly yet more beautiful than ever. Time had given her vivid silver streaks throughout her raven hair and all in all had been good-to-her in its work.

There were lawyers and naval officers and housewives in the crowd, a psychiatrist and a mechanic, a pilot and a musician, a carpenter and a pharmacist and a social worker. For the most part, the forgotten generation—the one that protested nothing—had turned out pretty well. Our fathers had taught discipline and obedience to a higher order, our teachers had taught an appreciation for knowledge in addition to skills, and President Eisenhower had taught us how to lay back and be at peace with the world.

The Honeydripper in "colored town" had introduced us to the evils of beer at a time when dope was something you put on a model airplane.

They've built a new high school here. Time and motion and the baby boom caught with the old one whose mute walls could they speak would fill volumes filled with tears and joy and the gangling, awkward uncertainty of being 17.

There were few if any witnessed tearful farewells. Most yawned, mumbled of the late hour and made off into the world they've built since 1958.

Dawn found one listening to the surf's roar in nearby Galveston. A derelict plank drifted hesitantly toward a rock groin, banged ginge

Oldsters vote against tax-relief

BRYAN, Texas (AP) — The executive board of the Texas Senior Citizens Association has voted 12 to 2 to oppose the so-called tax-relief amendment on the Nov. 7 ballot.

The vote is significant because the proposed amendment provides benefits for the elderly.

"I learned a long time ago that when you're not sure of you don't understand a bill, vote against it," said Doug Porter of the Bexar County Senior Citizens Association. "Once it is approved, it is hard to change. You never hurt yourself by voting no. It can be brought back next time and changed."

Former State Sen. D. Roy Harrington and Bob Gibbons, vice presidents of the association, objected to the proposed amendment on three grounds:

—The "family farmer" was changed to include "corporate farmer" in the provision to tax agricultural land on the basis of productivity.

—It would allow the Legislature to redefine "homestead."

—The Legislature would have the authority to make the increased homestead exemptions for the elderly dependent upon income.

Amarillo to be added to Southwest air route

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Beaumont-Port Arthur and Amarillo will be added to Southwest Airlines' flight schedules within six months, following action Thursday by the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

The commission gave the intrastate carrier permission to add the cities to its nine-city service area. Flights must begin from the added cities within six months.

The Amarillo routes were opposed by Braniff International, which also serves that city. The Beaumont-Port Arthur routes were uncontested.

The airline plans nonstop flights between Amarillo-Dallas and Beaumont-Dallas. Direct flights would be offered between Amarillo-Austin and Amarillo-Houston. Connection service will be available between Amarillo and San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Harlingen and Beaumont.

Beaumont passengers also could travel to Amarillo, Lubbock, Midland-Odessa and El Paso.

Herbert Kelleher, Southwest general counsel, praised the commission for allowing the airline to compete in the Texas market.

"Your enlightened and restrained regulation has not only changed the face of Texas, it has changed the face of the nation," Kelleher said, pointing to eventual deregulation of interstate airlines.

Southwest expects to carry 451,000 additional passengers in the first year on operation on the Beaumont and Amarillo routes. Kelleher said the airline anticipates $8.5 million in additional revenue and $2.4 million in profits.

Flights between Beaumont and other cities, especially Austin, will be added if flight loads prove adequate, Kelleher said.

Clements says opposition 'public relations move'

By The Associated Press

Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements says opposition to the recently passed federal energy bill by his opponent, Democrat John Hill, is a "carefully orchestrated public relations move."

Hill, the state attorney general, met with his counterparts from Oklahoma and Louisiana in Dallas Thursday to discuss court action by all three states against the new bill.

"Our contention is that there is no constitutional authority for the federal government to control the price of natural gas within a state," Hill said. The three states agreed to file a joint lawsuit in Oklahoma City.

Clements, campaigning in Corpus Christi, said Hill was "trying to jump on the bandwagon at the last minute."

"Where was John Hill when others in Texas were working hard to defeat the bill before it ever got out of Congress?" Clements said. He said Hill was trying to "take credit for challenging this so-called energy plan."

In the U.S. Senate race, incumbent John Tower's re-election campaign staff has asked for a federal investigation of whether a Raza Unida candidate was offered money to drop out of the U.S. Senate race.

The staff asked U.S. Attorney Tony Canales to investigate Luis DeLeon's claim that he was offered financial and employment benefits to abandon his campaign. DeLeon claimed supporters of Tower's opponent, Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Texas, offered him "over $2 million worth of proposals" to quit the campaign.

Speaking on another matter in San Antonio, Krueger said he has appealed to President Carter to sign the 1978 Meat Import Act which Krueger said "severely limits the discretionary power of the president to allow (foreign) meat into the country at his personal whim."

Krueger, a co-sponsor of the bill, said, "The people in the meat-producing industry have for too long been victimized by federal regulations that favor foreign importers over our nation's own domestic meat raisers and for too long have been victimized by a quota system that works against them, as well as against the consumer."

Texan jailed for kidnapping banker's son

TYLER, Texas (AP) — An East Texas man and his teenage girlfriend have been jailed on kidnapping-extortion charges in the Wednesday abduction of the son of a Jacksonville, Texas, bank president and holding the youth for $38,000 ransom.
The 16-year-old youth was later found unharmed, locked in the trunk of his car.
Charles Winfred Carpenter Jr., 22, and his girlfriend, Lisa Gay Jackson, 19, of Tyler, were arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Joe D. Huffstutler on kidnapping-extortion charges. Bond was set at $40,000 for the man and $15,000 for the woman.
The boy, Jeff Austin III, whose father is president of the First National Bank of Jacksonville, was abducted from the front yard of his home as he left for school about 8 a.m. Wednesday. He told police he was blindfolded, bound and shoved in the trunk of his car by a shotgun-toting man wearing a ski mask.
Mrs. Sissy Austin, the boy's step-mother and vice president of the bank, received a phone call about 1 p.m. demanding $38,000 be left at two drop points. An FBI agent traced the phone call and followed the man talking on the phone, the spokesman said.

Death toll increasing for smoking women

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of women dying of lung cancer nearly doubled between 1973 and 1976, a new study shows, and the American Cancer Society says it's because women have taken up the smoking habits of men.

The fatality statistics, from a report prepared by the National Cancer Institute, show that while both the number of lung cancer cases and the death rate among women are still well below those for men, new cases among males are increasing at a much slower rate, and women are closing the gap.
"Women began to smoke much later than men, and now it's catching up with them," said Irving Rimer, a spokesman for the American Cancer Society in New York. He noted that for the first time teenage girls are smoking at the same rate as teenage boys, whereas the proportion of women who smoke traditionally has trailed that of men.

Fifteen percent of teenage girls and boys now smoke, he said, predicting that lung cancer death rates for the two sexes will be equal in about 30 years when today's teenagers reach the age at which lung cancer begins to take its toll.

The report, released Thursday, said that only 12 percent of all lung cancer victims live more than three years after their disease is diagnosed.
Increases were also noted for uterine cancer in women and prostate cancer in men. The death rates from those diseases, however, aren't nearly as high as the toll from lung cancer.

While the incidence of cancer generally appears to have risen about 1 percent to 2 percent per year between 1970 and 1976, the institute said, the lung cancer rate among women has risen about 8 percent yearly.

The statistics are the first to be published from an ambitious five-year-old study seeking to keep track of the incidence of cancer, its victims and survivors for years to come. The study costs about $9 million a year and collects data from 11 areas representing about 10 percent of the U.S. population.

The report shows that lung cancer killed 13.2 women per 100,000 population in 1973 and 17.6 women per 100,000 in 1976. Those figures compare with a lung cancer death rate of 60.3 per 100,000 males in 1973 and 65.5 in 1976. While the rates for each sex thus rose between four and five per 100,000, the number of women who died of lung cancer in the 11 areas during that time rose from 1,100 in 1973 to more than 2,000 in 1976.

The institute said the mortality figures for the sample are representative of the national population.

The report shows that lung cancer is by far the most deadly of the most common human malignancies — lung cancer, breast cancer, and colon and rectal cancer. Each strikes nearly twice as often as any other form of the disease.

Police backtrack murder trail

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Billy Edward Hardesty, who neighbors called a "terrible kid," lay wounded in a hospital as police backtracked over a grisly trail of five deaths that included Hardesty's mother and his father, whose body was found in the family freezer.

The 21-year-old Hardesty was arrested Thursday and charged with the murders of three acquaintances. Some of Hardesty's neighbors said they were shocked by the carnage — but not surprised.

"It was a very, very sad thing to happen, but I could see it coming," said Fred Fensch, a retired electrical engineer who has lived next door to the Hardesty family for six years. "He was very, very aggressive. He tried to bully everybody. And very, very vulgar. He would go around the yard swearing at everything."

Other neighbors said fistfights between Billy and his father were common.
"We've had trouble with him many times in the past," State Police Lt. Robert Pifer said of Hardesty, who served 30 days in jail in 1976 for an assault and battery conviction.

Hardesty remained in critical condition today at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

He was shot twice by police during an hour-long siege at his parents' home Thursday morning.
Inside, authorities found the body of his mother, Jan Hardesty, 40. She had been shot once in the head. State Police Lt. Robert Pifer said he was certain police bullets fired during the siege did not kill the woman.

Later, they found the body of his father, Ronald Hardesty, 43, in a freezer chest on the back porch. Police said he was shot in the back. The body was bent double, frozen stiff and covered by packages of food.

Hardesty was charged with three counts of first-degree murder and two counts of assault with intent to commit murder in warrants issued by Washtenaw County Prosecutor William Delhey. He was not charged in his parents' deaths, which remained under investigation.

Hardesty, divorced and unemployed, is charged with shooting two men to death with a .22-caliber rifle during what police said was an "altercation" in the parking lot of a bar near here around 2 a.m.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Tokyo is the world's most expensive city for international civil servants, the U.N. Secretariat says.

The October Monthly Bulletin of Statistics reports it cost U.N. officials 62 percent more to live in Tokyo than New York City.

Colombo, capital of Sri Lanka, was the least expensive of 124 cities. Living there was 53 percent cheaper than in New York.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Three men armed with pistols held up a branch of the Banco de America in a Managua suburb Wednesday and escaped with $107,000. The government blamed the Sandinista National Liberation Front, the leftist guerrilla group that led the uprising last month against President Anastasio Somoza.

BAMAKO, Mali (AP) — Forty-three officers of Mali's army are being tried on charges of plotting to overthrow President Moussa Traore.

The defendants were headed by the former minister of defense and interior, Lt. Col. Kisima Doukara, and the former security chief, Lt. Col. Ticoro Bagayo. At the opening of the trial Wednesday, they repudiated confessions attributed to them and said they were extracted under torture.

Maore, a former colonel, has been president of the former French colony below the Sahara since 1968, when he deposed President Modibo Keita.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Health officials say polio has killed two Dominican infants and nearly 100 children have the disease.

Doctors are trying to vaccinate 1.3 million Dominican children against the disease. The outbreak was discovered three weeks ago and was declared an epidemic last week.

MADRID, Spain (AP) — The Spanish Transport Ministry blames a KLM pilot for aviation's worst disaster, the collision of two 747 jumbo jets in which 581 persons were killed. "The fundamental cause of this accident was the fact that the KLM captain took off without clearance," said the Transport Ministry's report of the collision of the KLM and Pan American airliners on a foggy runway in the Canary Islands on March 27, 1977.

The report said the Dutch pilot, Jacob Veldhuizen van Zanten, did not obey the control tower's order to stand by and "did not interrupt takeoff on learning that Pan Am was still on the runway."

All 248 persons aboard the KLM plane were killed.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Helen Hayes has been ordered by her doctor to drop out of an upcoming television movie project because she's suffering from exhaustion, a spokesman says.

Miss Hayes, 78, was to play a central role in the NBC television dramatization of Helen Van Slyke's novel, "The Best Place To Be." The movie is scheduled to begin filming Oct. 30.

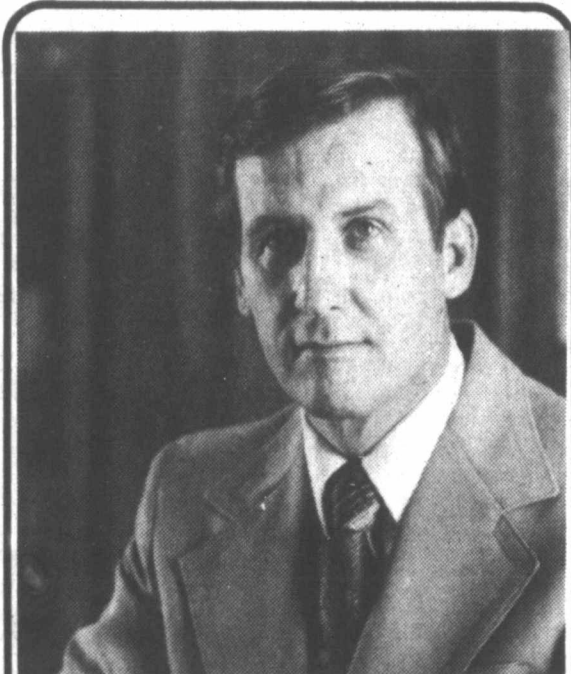

"Miss Hayes' doctor has insisted that she curtail all activities until she has fully recovered from sheer exhaustion that has her bedded in her Nyack, N.Y., home," Ross Hunter, the movie's producer, said Wednesday.

Miss Hayes, best known for her work on stage, has earned two Academy Awards — a best actress Oscar in 1932 for "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" and a 1971 Oscar for her supporting role in "Airport."

NEW YORK (AP) — John de Butts, under whose leadership AT&T's revenues have nearly doubled, says he will retire Feb. 1 as chairman.

De Butts, 63, said Wednesday that he will take early retirement, confident he is leaving "a business that is strong financially, strong in its service quality, strong organizationally, strong technologically and especially strong in its management capability."

"He's just tired," said one AT&T executive who asked not to be identified.

LET'S VOTE FOR NOT AGAINST!

This is the most important political contest we have this fall. We do not diminish the vital choices we will make for national or state offices, but we have to solve our problems at home before we can make any headway in Austin or Washington.

Over the past years Gray County has been fortunate to have many qualified local office holders, representing both major parties. We are able to continue this tradition by having a fine man as a candidate for honest, dignified and capable county government.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 24 and Larry is 29, and here is my story: We moved in with Larry's parents right after we got married. ("Only until we find a place of our own," he promised.) Well, it's been five years, and here I sit with two lovely children and a closet full of unused wedding presents.

My in-laws are very nice, and some people think I've got it easy with Larry's mother to do all the cooking, and a built-in baby-sitter for the kids, but I'm miserable. Larry's mother has her own way of doing things, and I help her as much as she lets me, but it's still her house, not mine.

Every time the subject of moving comes up, Larry's father says, "Why move and pay rent when you can live here for free? We have plenty of room." (It's true, but I would rather have a place of my own.) Larry has a good job and we can afford it.

The children are getting spoiled by their grandparents, and I'm getting fed up. Please help me.

TRAPPED IN ILLINOIS

DEAR TRAPPED: Face it, your husband is reluctant to give up the comfort and security provided by his parents. But if you don't insist that he cut the cord and leave the nest, you will be living with them indefinitely. Start a campaign now for your independence. (A suggested slogan: "A place to call mine in '79!")

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently visited some out-of-town friends we hadn't seen in years. We wanted to stay at a motel but they wouldn't hear of it, so we ended up staying with them, which was a big mistake.

During our visit our hostess spent half her time doing housework and cleaning up.

After every meal, out came the vacuum cleaner! She was constantly mopping, scrubbing or polishing. As soon as my husband dropped one ash in the ashtray, she'd grab it and clean it. She ran around with a mop or a dust cloth in her hand all the time we were there.

I realize that cleanliness is next to Godliness, but she wore us out just watching her clean up.

Her fussiness spoiled my vacation. Are such actions normal?

DIRTY DELORES

DEAR DELORES: No. Your hostess sounds like a compulsive cleaner-upper. Although she may be a meticulous housekeeper, that's not what hospitality is all about. Hospitality is the art of making one's guests feel genuinely comfortable.

DEAR ABBY: By looking at me you wouldn't think I had a problem in the world. I'm middle-age, attractive and married to a beautiful guy (my age). He's handsome, good-natured and generous. We're both healthy, young at heart, and love a good time. We take fabulous vacations (Hawaii, Switzerland, cruises) and we get along great. I really love the guy and he loves me.

The problem: On weekends he takes me to dinner and then to a club for dancing. We both love to dance, but as soon as we get there he starts looking around for women without escorts. The pretty ones he asks to dance. (He says he feels sorry for them.)

I've sat out plenty of dances while he dances up a storm with these unescorted ladies.

Should I let him dance to his heart's content while I sit alone? Or should I give him a taste of his own medicine and pick up the stag men to dance with?

HUMILIATED

DEAR HUMILIATED: Don't pick up any stags to dance with or that will be the beginning of the end. Tell your "generous, good-natured" guy that charity begins at home. And let him know you mean business!

Ask Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently, I was listening to a TV program but missed the first part. The doctor was discussing artery blockage of the heart causing angina or heart pain. He mentioned a medicine called Inderal. Can you tell me more about this medicine and what it does? My husband has coronary insufficiency, coronary artery disease. Would this pill help him?

DEAR READER — You can't prescribe for a person without knowing exactly what his problem is and how serious it is, as well as the rest of the health status of that person — in this instance, your husband.

I can tell you that Inderal is frequently used to treat high blood pressure and also to treat individuals who have irregularities of the heart, and to help relieve angina or chest pain caused by heart disease.

That doesn't mean it is indicated in all these cases because there are other medicines that sometimes work better for a particular case, but it is a very useful medicine and often is the proper choice.

The basic action of Inderal is to block the effects of adrenaline. Some individuals have irregularities of the heart because they are particularly sensitive to adrenaline products produced either by their own nervous system or by the adrenal gland. Adrenaline tends to be stored in the heart muscle and causes it to be more irritable.

Incidentally, when exercise is possible in an otherwise healthy person, it helps to deplete these adrenaline stores and seems to protect such individuals from occasional irregularity of the heart.

If your husband has recurrent chest pain because he has coronary artery disease, then Inderal is one of the medicines that might be considered to be used in his case. Excessive adrenaline stores or increased sensitivity of the heart muscle to adrenaline often increases the oxygen requirements of the heart muscle. This, in turn, increases the demand for circulation to the heart muscle itself. By blocking the effects of the adrenaline on the heart muscle, some individuals are able to do more physical activity without developing heart pain.

The decision, then, as to whether such medicines should be used in your husband's case, depends entirely on the rest of his medical condition. I would like to make a plea, however, for a major effort to reduce his body weight to the point where he is definitely as thin as possible by using a proper dietary approach and exercising within the limits permitted in his case.

If he can get thin, and stay thin, as well as develop the capacity to improve his physical condition, that may go a long way toward helping his problem. Of course, anyone with such a disorder should not smoke cigarettes at all.

To give you more information about angina, I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-10, Heart Attack, Myocardial Infarction, Angina Pectoris. These are the three conditions that are sometimes confused with each other, but all may be related to the same underlying disease of the arteries to the heart muscle.

Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — After living overseas for over 20 years I have returned to see what I think is the breaking down of the American family structure. Pity the modern teenager — half the adults tell him to find himself and the other half tell him to get lost. The good old days were when a teenager went into the garage and came out with the lawn mower. — P.B.L.

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Mrs. F.G.G. how I clean the bricks on our fireplace. I spray on oven cleaner quite heavy, let it stand a while and then rinse off with water and a sponge. This works every time and is not a messy job. — MRS. J.W.

Lady with a pen, Myra Hargrave Comiskey

MYRA HARGRAVE COMISKEY

Elise Waerenskjold (1815-1895) marched to her own drummer and left her mark on both Norway and Texas. The daughter of a Norwegian Lutheran pastor, Elise was a woman's advocate when such activity was unheard of in Norway. She married and divorced the inventor of the bomb-tipped harpoon which revolutionized the whaling industry. If the shock of a divorce was not enough, she resumed her maiden name.

In 1846 Elise began editing, a forbidden task for a woman, the "Norge Og Amerika," a periodical which informed Norwegians of the conditions in the new world. Apparently inspired by the information she received from John Reiersen, founder of the first Norwegian settlement in Texas, she immigrated in 1847 to Van Zandt County.

Elise married Wilhelm Waerenskjold and eagerly took on the rugged life of a pioneer farm wife. She wrote letters to Norway, telling of the life and opportunities in Texas. Her letters are credited with encouraging many Norwegians who were "gathering crumbs from the table of the aristocracy" to immigrate to Texas. They have been compiled by the Norwegian-American Historical Association into a book called, "The Lady With The Pen." Warmed by her letters, all the new comers, upon their arrival, went directly to the Waerenskjold home and stayed a few days or weeks. The Civil War, drought, and grasshopper invasions added to the family's financial burdens. To supplement the income, Elise taught school, sold books, magazine subscriptions, and garden seeds. She spoke out against slavery and called for temperance. After her husband was murdered in 1866, she raised their three sons alone.

The Texas Historical Commission has placed two OFFICIAL TEXAS HISTORICAL MARKERS in honor of this courageous woman on the Courthouse Square and in Howard Cemetery at Hamilton.

Bryan collects for 26 years

BY PAM TUREK

Pampa News Staff
More than 12,000 sets of what? Atha Menefee Bryan has devoted the last 26 years to collecting salt and pepper shakers.

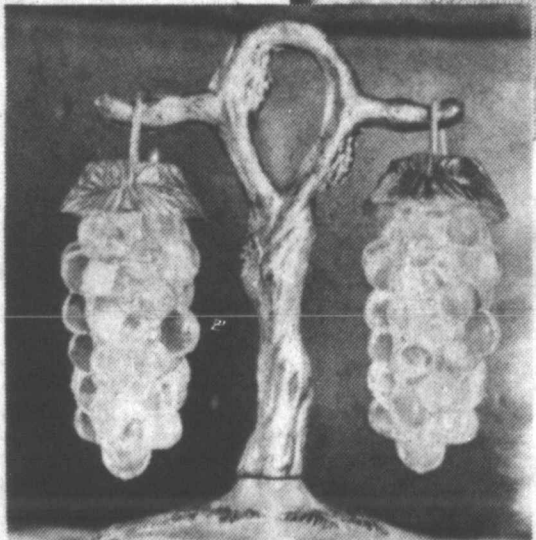

"My husband bought four dozen duplicates (salt and pepper shaker sets) and a china cabinet from Mae Fish." That was the beginning. She now has six rooms, cabinets, boxes, drawers full of her collection.

On display are numerous kinds of sets. Glass grapes hanging from a stand; a hen-when the top is lifted reveals two eggs—one for salt the other for pepper; a small television when the on-off button is turned on two small shakers pop up and two steer heads to name but a few.

The proud collector explained she has shakers "from everywhere, even Hawaii and Cuba."

When asked how she managed to get a response from Cuba, she answered, "Mae Fish gave me an address and I sent for them." She also has a friend in Germany that sent a set; friends and relatives bring them home from trips.

A few years ago Bryan organized a family get together and conned the clan into washing and drying the whole kit and caboodle.

Efficient knives

COLLEGE STATION — Cutlery's "last stand" may be due to improper care.

Knives in good condition are more efficient, and they are safer, advises Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She offers these guidelines for knife care:

— Store knives individually so blades do not contact other blades or other hard surfaces.

— A small block of wood fitted with slots for the blades is quite satisfactory.

— Use a cutting board for chopping and slicing.

— Do not use knives to cut string or wire — or as a screw driver or lever.

— Do not allow knives to soak in water.

— Do not subject knives to heat.

— Do not clean any knife in a dishwasher, unless the label says dishwasher safe.

HOW TO SHARPEN

To sharpen a knife on a sharpening steel, hold the steel horizontally — in the left hand, slightly slanted away from you. Hold the knife by the handle in

Rest the blade edge — at the heel of the blade — lightly near the far end of the steel. The knife blade should be resting at an angle of about 20 degrees.

Then draw the blade toward you, letting the blade edge — from blade heel to point — move across the steel.

Use only light pressure. Three of four strokes are enough.

Repeat this operation on the other side of the steel with the other side of the blade edge.

Clean the knife before and after sharpening.

FOUR BASIC KNIVES

Four knives will meet most cutting needs. They include a paring knife, utility knife, 8-inch narrow slicer and an 8-inch cook's knife.

Improve safety

COLLEGE STATION — Apartment dwellers can take steps to improve fire safety in their apartments, says a housing and home furnishings specialist.

First of all, make sure everyone living in the apartment knows what to do in the event of a fire in the apartment or building.

Then, follow these fire prevention guidelines:

— Use all matches and smoking materials with care.

— Don't smoke in bed.

— Never carry lighted matches or cigarettes into closets.

— Teach children to never play with matches.

— Don't abuse electrical service and appliances.

— Repair and replace defective electric cords and appliances.

— Keep kitchen ranges clean — make sure nothing is stored in the oven before turning it on.

— Don't store mops, brooms or other combustible material near water heater or furnace.

— Keep trash in container with close fitting lid.

— Don't accumulate rubbish, such as old papers, broken furniture, old clothes, paint cans or other useless items.

In case fire does occur, get out of the building immediately, the specialist advises.

Notify the fire department — don't depend on someone else to do it.

And, never re-enter the building, she cautions.

MIKE CHIAPPETTA, center, shown standing on Chicago street corner, is an unhappy private eye. (AP Laserphoto)

An unhappy private eye

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent
CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Chiappetta lives in a two-story brick and cedar house in the suburbs with a grotto in the Virgin in the back yard which he built himself. He's a bad guy.

At least he says he's a bad guy, always doing lousy things. "My work doesn't make me feel good," he said. "I'm not proud of it. Sometimes I feel really crummy. I'm going to get out of it soon, try something else. Got to. I'd like to be a movie director."

Whaley speaks to Rotary Club

Foster Whaley, Democratic Nominee for State Representative, spoke to members of the Pampa Rotary Club recently.

Whaley reviewed legislation that was passed during the special session of the State Legislature this summer.

"In addition to repealing the sales tax on utility bills, the inheritance tax was amended and the exemption raised to a substantially higher level," Whaley said.

An amendment was passed that will be on the ballot on November 7 which will make a host of changes in the state constitution according to Whaley.

Among them are:
1. Removal of intangibles (stocks, bonds, and savings accounts) from the property tax base.

2. Exemption of household goods.
3. Mandate that farm and ranch land be taxed on productive value.

4. Mandate a $5,000 homestead exemption by school districts for all residential property owners, and permit the legislature to give from zero to $10,000 additional dollars to those over age 65.

5. Impose a limit on the growth of state government to that of the state's economy as determined by law.

Whaley said this was the most significant legislation affecting taxation that had been passed in over three decades.

The legislature passed a bill that would set up a $450 million state fund to reimburse school districts for losses created by the mandated reduction in taxes.

Right now he is Mike Chiappetta, private eye.

He is a private eye in the Sam Spade tradition. No necktie. No nonsense. No questions asked. He'll bodyguard you, spy on your spouse, dig up dirt on your rival in the company.

The latter duty is called "employee evaluation."

"I'll get a call from a guy to do an employee evaluation on another guy in his company, another vice president. I'll say, 'Now look, you don't want to know if he's fooling around or anything that doesn't have to do with his work, do you?'"

"The guy will say, 'Oh, I suppose you better let me know everything.' See? Nice people these businessmen."

For his part, Mike says he'd rather work for the less "respectable" element, gamblers, shady characters, if for no other reason than they pay their bills on time.

"Doctors and lawyers are the hardest to collect from. The only thing they understand is intimidation."

"Well, I understand it too. I'll send over a friend, a street guy, carefully chosen. He will say, 'Mike says you have an envelope for him, sir.' There is something in the voice and the look that is genuine and evil and unmistakable. Scares hell out of 'em."

Chiappetta believes that private detectives, using their own methods, are far better investigators than their police counterparts who are burdened with subpoenas and warrants and such.

"I can get into any place I need to get into. I have a guy who can print me a business card or receipt book in two hours, whatever I need. I've been inside more fancy apartments on Lake Shore Drive than I can count."

"I usually pose as a plumber sent up by the superintendent. I'm good at it. I told one guy I had come to fix the leaky faucet and he gave me a $10 tip for fixing the toilet while I was there. Once inside, I get what I came for. Just give me a few minutes alone."

Chiappetta believes the future of private detectives is in public service, as it were.

"The government could be the best client of all. They're doing more investigations than anybody — the Kennedy and King assassinations, all those other investigations in Washington."

"Trouble is, their investigators are all rich college kids who don't know the streets and also have their own personal interests and politics."

Washington briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has approved a tentative $37 million settlement of Indian claims to two-thirds of the state of Maine, says press secretary Jody Powell.

Powell said Wednesday the deal calls for the federal government to appropriate $27 million to be held in trust for the Passamaquoddy and Penobscot tribes, which have total membership of about 3,500. The other $10 million is to come from the sale of 100,000 acres of privately held land. The proceeds are to go to the tribes who would give up claims to the land. Powell said the proposed deal still requires approval by Congress and ratification by the Indian tribes.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Norfolk & Western Railway and a clerks union that led a nationwide strike last month have agreed to extend a 60-day "cooling-off" period until mid-December.

President Carter ordered establishment of an emergency board that was to have 30 days to recommend a contract settlement. After a recommendation was made, the union — if it rejected the proposal — would have had to wait 30 days before it could resume the strike. The board asked the company and union to accept a two-week extension so it would have more time to find a settlement.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Postal Service has released the designs for its 1978 Christmas stamps. One has a madonna and child and the other features a hobby horse.

The service has offered two different designs on separate sheets the past eight years, calling one a reproduction of a masterpiece and the other a contemporary design.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-ranking Justice Department official, saying "at some point you say we have enough," has told reporters the department has no plans to bring additional criminal charges against Rep. Daniel J. Flood, D-Pa. Flood already has been indicted on bribery, conspiracy and perjury charges. The congressman has denied the charges.

On the light side

How Do I Love Thee?
LONDON (AP) — Every day for 20 years, Antonio Dos Santos wrote his wife, Rosamunde, a love poem.

But Judge John Latey ruled at a divorce hearing Wednesday that the Portuguese-born Dos Santos didn't write the poems to celebrate the joys of marriage to his English wife, but because his domineering spouse expected her "mild and gentle" husband to write them.

Dos Santos did so in the hope his wife would leave him in peace, the judge said.

"She dominated him in every part of his life and everything had to be as she wanted," Latey said. During their marriage she "overpowered" him "and made him her creature."

The judge granted Dos Santos a divorce, saying his wife behaved unreasonably.

Lots of Pie Potential

HALF MOON BAY, Calif. (AP) — A California pumpkin tipping the scale at 297½ pounds won the eighth annual World Heavyweight Pumpkin Championship.

The blue ribbon pumpkin, grown by Francis Collings of Petaluma, was measured Wednesday at 98 inches around and nearly 3 feet high.

Too Much Light at Night
BRECKENRIDGE, Minn. (AP) — Mercury vapor street lights in this western Minnesota community are confusing some $18,000 worth of poinsettias.

The lights are so bright the young poinsettias think it's time to start producing Christmas flowers, said Bruce Campbell, owner of Mehl's Plant Center.

Breckenridge officials decided to help out by covering eight light fixtures with black plastic garbage bags to diffuse the intense light.

HEALTHFUL HINTS

Most often asked Questions On Nutrition
BY: KATRINA BIGHAM

Q. Can I take brewer's yeast tablets instead of the powder and still derive the same benefits?

A. Yeast tablets are fine. The only problem is that it takes approximately 90 tablets to equal the mineral, vitamin and protein content of 1 heaping tablespoon of powdered yeast. Since 2 to 4 heaping tablespoons of yeast are usually recommended, that would mean swallowing 180 to 360 tablets daily. Therefore, most people naturally prefer the powder even though the taste sometimes takes getting used to.

Q. Why is coffee bad for you?
A. According to "The Nutrition Almanac", an excess of coffee can cause increased nervous symptoms, aggravate heart and artery disorder, and irritate the lining of the stomach. It may also create inositol and biotin (2 B vites) deficiencies prevent iron from being properly utilized, and cause other vitamins to be pumped through and out of the body before they can be properly absorbed.

Church of Christ hosts sermon week

The Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ invites local and area residents to attend a week of gospel sermons with Guy V. Caskey, minister of the Randol Mill Church of Christ in Arlington, Texas.

The five days of gospel

Guy V. Caskey

sermons will begin Sunday with services at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Evening services for remainder of the week will be at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday and 7 p.m. Thursday.

Weekday morning services will be at 10 a.m. Monday through Thursday with a special early morning service beginning at 7 a.m., ending at 7:30 a.m., for those wishing to attend before going to work.

Caskey has been the minister of Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ on two previous occasions, 1942-45 and 1962-69.

He has spent more than eight years in missionary work in South Central Africa and East Africa, including nine months in Rhodesia holding meetings and teaching in Nhowe Mission, four years in Johannesburg, and other cities in South Africa working among Africans and Europeans.

Caskey has spent three years in Tanzania, East Africa, directing the school of preaching. He was instrumental in establishing a hospital in Chimala, Tanzania.

More recently he has worked with the school of preaching in Kingston, Jamaica. He has conducted several written debates and has had both television and radio programs.

Pentecostal Church hosts 'Singles Sunday'

Single adults (never been married, formerly married, and widowed) now constitute 40 percent of the adult population in the United States—close to 50 million persons. The number is increasing at the rate of two million annually. Population experts predict that within ten years, single adults will outnumber married adults in nearly all major cities. Some of these singles are living around you—perhaps in the house next door, up the street in an apartment, or somewhere across town. Many of them are unchurched.

This Sunday at the First Pentecostal Holiness Church, 1700 Alcock, has been designated "Singles Sunday." An all out effort is being made by the Sunday School department to invite singles. Activities throughout the day will emphasize the church's interest in and concern for this large, but often overlooked, segment of our population.

Pastor Maggard said, "We won't go into the joys of being married versus the joys of being single; or argue whether divorce is right or wrong, for this would not solve the problem nor eliminate the people. The church today is faced with the question: "How can we minister to these single adults?" Single adults want to be part of the church today, not only to be ministered unto but to minister to others as well. We plan to recognize that they exist and to welcome and accept them as God welcomes and accepts all of us."

The pastor also announced that the Womans' Auxiliary of the church is sponsoring a Chile and Stew supper on Saturday night, October 21, from six until nine o'clock p.m. The ladies will be serving all the stew and chile you can eat. The price is $2.00 for adults and $1.50 for children under the age of twelve. Everyone is invited. The supper is being held at the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Company.

An investment in Your Future

...ATTEND CHURCH

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

DO YOU RECALL.....

THOSE WONDERFUL YEARS...

They shall abundantly utter the memory of thy great goodness...

The Lord has blessed us with children and now grandchildren. Our lives, and now theirs have been molded in the church. One generation shall praise thy works to another, and shall declare thy mighty acts. Pass on this priceless heritage to your children and grandchildren.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Office for Black Catholics has appointed Brother Cyprian Lamar Rowe, a Marxist brother and noted scholar, as its executive director. His selection came after a year-long search for a successor to the group's co-founder and first executive director, Brother Joseph M. Davis.

Salvation Army's image has changed

Through its 113 years of existence its image has changed. It has become more than a free-meal place. It helps people in need.

The Salvation Army is another one of the twelve agencies supported by the United Way.

Lt. David Craddock, runs and supports the Pampa Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army was founded in 1865 by William Booth, a young Methodist minister. He saw the conditions of East London and believed that something had to be done. Booth gathered a few supporters and set up soup kitchens to feed the poor and hungry.

In time, centers of rehabilitation were set up for alcoholics.

Today the Salvation Army is more than food and shelter.

Camp Hbittelle in Midlothian offers swimming activities to underprivileged boys. The Salvation Army has supported this activity for the past 22 years.

The Salvation Army also offers community centers, a home for girls, a home for boys, missing persons bureau and Christmas activities across the state of Texas.

The store at 104 S. Cuyler offers clothing and household goods at low prices.

Salvation Army workers visit people in nursing homes and hospitals.

Other activities include working with young people in organizations similar to Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

The Salvation Army in Pampa receives about two thirds of its income from the Pampa United Fund.

The Salvation Army program is a continuing program because new boys and girls, men and women come along who need the services of the Salvation Army.

Church-state guidelines to be discussed at meeting

Church-state guidelines and a $31 million missions budget will be considered by the 93rd annual session of the Baptist General Convention of Texas Oct. 31 - Nov. 2 in Austin.

About 6,000 laymen and ministers are expected to attend the meetings at the Austin Municipal Auditorium and Convention Center. The convention sermon will be presented by Jimmy R. Allen, president of the Southern Baptist Convention and pastor of First Baptist Church of San Antonio.

The convention theme, "With All Boldness," relates to the Southern Baptist plan to present the gospel to every person in the world by the year 2000.

A Church-State Study Committee will recommend updated guidelines on church-state relations for Texas Baptist institutions. One recommendation will be that the Texas Baptist convention declare opposition to government restrictions that adversely affect the ability of the institutions to fulfill their distinctive purposes as Christian institutions.

Messengers from many of the 4,300 Texas Baptist churches and missions will vote on a proposed $31 million Cooperative Program budget for 1979. The budget includes $10.9 million for home and foreign missions and Christian education; and $20 million for Texas Baptist missions and church growth, colleges and universities, hospitals, children's homes and other ministries.

Convention speakers in Austin will include: James H. Landes, Texas Baptist executive director; Milton E. Cunningham, Texas Baptist president and pastor of Westbury Baptist Church in Houston; and Grady C. Cothen, president, Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville.

Churches taking new image

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

American churches have taken on a "corporate image," becoming business-like, industrious and bureaucratic, but alienating many people in doing so, says an assessment of U.S. religion for church visitors from overseas.

"We're going to have to re-examine our whole style," the Rev. Arthur Moore, editor of the United Methodist mission magazine, New World Outlook, told a unit meeting of the United Methodist mission magazine, New World Outlook.

The analysis was part of a panel presentation to the council's section on education and renewal, which drew about 100 overseas leaders to a meeting last month at Stony Point, N.Y.

"Most Protestant denominations have become increasingly imitative of corporation style," Moore said. "We are increasingly bureaucratic."

"To some people we seem like just another institution which is interested in passing resolutions, getting business done, working in a very corporate, impersonal style which does not correspond with where peoples' needs and interests are."

The trend has come, he noted, in the midst of widespread questioning of past assumptions about the "benevolence of institutions, society and government."

Other problems cited in U.S. religious life include differing methods of interpreting the Bible, and sexual issues such as abortion and homosexuality.

Regarding current friction over the place of homosexuals in church life and over whether to allow ordination of avowed homosexuals, he said indications were that most church members disagree along age lines.

"Older people, whether politically conservative or liberal, have fairly rigid sexual attitudes, which is not true for younger people," he told representatives of Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations from various nations.

He predicted the controversy will continue to come up, doing so shortly in countries that have not yet confronted it.

Claire Randall, general secretary of the U.S. National Council of Churches, reviewed ecumenical activity in this country, saying issues of abortion, women's ordination and tax aid for parochial education have strained relations between Roman Catholic and Protestant churches.

But she said efforts were being made to stave off any "separating" conflict.

Dorothy Height, a United Methodist who heads the National Council of Negro Women and who also is vice president of the interdenominational church body, traced U.S. progress in civil and human rights.

"We have advanced in law," she told the foreign visitors, but added that much more remains to be done to implement equality and justice, with minorities and women still lacking a fair role at decision-making levels, even in church life.

"Alice's Adventures in Wonderland," first published in 1865, was written by C.I. Dodgson under the pen-name Lewis Carroll.

FOCUS

Andrei and Cyrus

Cyrus Vance, U.S. secretary of state, and his Soviet counterpart, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, meet again in Moscow Sunday to continue the SALT negotiations. Both men have histories of hard work and dedication in government service. In 1943, when Gromyko was appointed Soviet ambassador to the United States, Vance was an American naval officer. Since then, both have persevered relentlessly. Recently, Gromyko, 69, nearly collapsed while addressing the UN General Assembly. But he recovered quickly, and blamed his illness on the assembly's hot lights. At 61, Vance travels more than 100,000 miles a year, although he suffers from a slipped disc and must wear a back brace to play tennis.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

October 21, 1978

A secret desire you've been praying for, or something for which you've worked hard, may come to pass this year. This will not be luck — it'll be something you deserve.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you've been holding back an important trump card, you might consider playing it today. Now is the time you're likely to catch your opponent off-guard. Find out to whom you're romantically suited by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 480, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) When you made mistakes in the past you've had to take your lumps. Today, however, you'll cash in on those experiences and bring much good out of them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A boost could come today from someone you'd least expect. This extraordinary support will spur you to triumph over what had been an unsurmountable hurdle.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You don't kid yourself today. You know how to face issues. If a decision has to be made, you'll base your conclusion on realistic facts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Any project you select today will not go unfinished, so tackle that job you've been putting off. You now have the time for it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Someone you have had a difficult time getting together with will now be available. The long wait will prove worth it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Taking care of domestic chores first will clear the way for a fun weekend. The quicker you get your tasks done, the more time there'll be for play.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll find the time today to take care of piled-up correspondence or to fulfill a social obligation. The day should prove to be delightful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A realistic approach to your financial picture will set things right again. Be honest with yourself as to what you can afford to do.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Standing up for what you believe in is necessary sometimes. This is one of those days. Stick to your guns. Don't be bullied.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your instincts are keen and sharp today, especially in the area of finance. No one will know better than you how to make a buck.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Lasting relationships can be formed at this time. If there is someone's friendship you'd like to cultivate, this is a good day to do it.

National briefs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The national tax revolt will result in black Americans turning back to traditional black universities for their higher education, says Georgia lawmaker Julian Bond.

Bond, who addressed the United Negro College Fund annual dinner Wednesday, also told reporters the poor of both races will feel the pinch of the revolt first. "This whole tax cut syndrome means that publicly supported education, both for blacks and whites and for blacks alone, is increasingly going to be able to offer less and less in the years ahead," he added.

NEW YORK (AP) — The newly elected president of the National Letter Carriers Union says the recent contract, forced on the union and the postal service last month by an arbitrator, is "an abomination."

Vincent Sombrotto said he doesn't believe in arbitrated settlements. I think that's an abrogation of the responsibilities of collective bargaining. Collective bargaining is a democratic way of resolving your differences. I think people should be reasonable enough to come to a negotiated settlement."

CINCINNATI (AP) — The chief lobbyist of the American Medical Association says the shape of any future national health insurance program is unclear.

"There's a high probability for a national health insurance program in the near future," Dr. John Zapp said. "But national health insurance as a term is probably not as accepted as several years ago. I suppose there isn't another good term (for it) at this time."

NEW YORK (AP) — Attorney General Griffin Bell says the United States is "coming around" after its recent past difficulties.

The disillusionment associated with Watergate and the divisiveness sparked by the war in Vietnam and the civil rights movement are rapidly becoming part of the past, Bell said here Wednesday.

"It's a good time because people are coming together," he said. "No one is really interested in doing anything too radical. It's sort of a time when the government is being fine-tuned."

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A board of review has been appointed to determine the cause of the failure of the $75 million Seasat-A, an ocean-monitoring satellite now in orbit, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration says.

BUCKLAND, Mass. (AP) — Dogs may lose their best friend in this northwestern Massachusetts town.

Joseph Schneider, 73, said he will stop caring for stray and abandoned animals unless he can get a group willing to operate his Hilltown Animal Shelter at a new location. "If it doesn't work out, I will give up in January," he said at a public hearing Tuesday about closing the shelter. Neighbors have complained about barking dogs, improper disposal of dog manure and rat infestation.

Employees honored

Amoco Production Company recently honored seven employees, three who are from Pampa, at a dinner held at the Liberal Country Club.

W.R. Simpson, G.F. Havenhill and H.E. Crawford, each serving 30 years with the company, helped to conduct the company's oil and gas producing operations in Kansas, Northwestern Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle under the direction of the Liberal District Office.

Supervisors of the honorees presented them with awards in recognition of their service to the company.

The United States, U.S.S.R. and the United Kingdom announced an agreement in 1963 to ban nuclear weapons from space.
