Issues remain unsolved on SALT agreement

MOSCOW (AP) — Four issues remained unresolved as Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance arrived in Moscow Saturday for a new round of negotiations on a treaty limiting U.S. and Soviet strategic weapons.

"I have no assurance we can clean all of them up at this meeting," a senior American official told reporters during Vance's flight here.

All his key advisers seemed to share the view that the talks Sunday and Monday may not settle the differences between the two sides and produce the treaty that has eluded them for six years.

"We could end up at dead center for some time," said one arms specialist who asked not to be identified.

He said there was little chance of reaching final agreement on terms of a treaty during this visit. At best, he said, there could be an understanding on general principles.

A treaty limiting long-range bombers and intercontinental ballistic missiles would be a milestone in arms control and a major boost to U.S.-Soviet relations.

The four issues in dispute are:

—The kind of limitations to be imposed on the American cruise missile, a pilotless, hedge-hopping weapon assigned a major role in the strategic arsenal of the 1980s.

—Details of restricting the kinds and sizes of new missile systems during the life of the treaty, until 1985. There is tentative agreement to allow each side to set up one new land-based and one submarine-launched system.

—The timing for phasing out about 250 Russian bombers and missiles. The total number of such weapons must be reduced to 2,250 under the treaty. The United States, having about 2,050 weapons, does not have to cut back.

—The specific way the Russians will promise — outside the treaty — to base their Backfire bombers beyond easy striking distance of the United States and to limit their refueling capability.

The treaty almost certainly would be signed by President Carter and President Leonid I. Brezhnev at a meeting in the United States. At that time they could try to come to terms on other matters as well.

There could be a summit even if all provisions of the weapons limitation treaty are not nailed down, the senior official said. They would be left for Carter and Brezhnev to thrash out at the meeting.

Arriving in a light rain at Vnukovo Airport, Vance was greeted by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. Once indoors, Vance read a brief statement pledging "our best efforts" in the continuing search "for a sound and balanced agreement."

He said completing a treaty "demands a full measure of our perseverance and dedication." Gromyko stood silently at Vance's side and offered no remarks of his own.

There was no clear explanation for the cautious forecasts freely offered by top American officials. Since Vance has held eight negotiating rounds with Gromyko, and progress was reported after most of them, the two sides were generally believed to be on the brink of an agreement.

Good morning

News in brief

PARTLY CLOUDY

The forecast for Pampa is partly cloudy and continued warm with a slight chance of showers today. Today's high will be in the low 60s, with the winds becoming northerly. There is a 70 percent chance of rain today.

Remember about absentee voting

Absentee voting is scheduled to continue through Nov. 3, according to Wanda Carter, county clerk.

Persons eligible to cast absentee ballots are those who are:

- out of town on election day.
- unable to vote on election day for religious reasons.
- over the age of 65.
- ill or physically disabled.

- election clerks or poll watchers.
- confined to jail in some instances.
- Absentee voting runs from 8:30 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.
- Friday afternoon 86 absentee ballots had been cast in person and 46 ballots had been mailed, according to Carter.

Dean refuses to meet with students

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A University of Texas dean has refused to meet outside his office with 150 students demonstrating against the denial of tenure to Armando Gutierrez, a political science instructor.

The students waited for about 40 minutes Friday outside the building where Dean Robert King's office is located. They chanted "We want the dean." UT police refused them admittance.

King is dean of the university's College of Social and Behavioral Sciences.

"It was a no-win situation

What they wanted to hear was someone say Armando Gutierrez will be given tenure. I don't have that power," King said.

He did meet with a small delegation who presented a petition signed by 1,200 students supporting tenure for Gutierrez.

King said he would review the recommendation of a six-member committee of political science professors that Gutierrez be denied tenure. His decision then will go to UT-Austin president Lorene Rogers and the board of regents for final action.

Correction

A story about the public hearing Thursday night published in Friday's Pampa News misquoted Don Hinton, county judge.

What Hinton actually said was, "I know there's been a lot of questions about this. The commissioners' court for about the last year and a half or so has been overly concerned about our hospitals because of the financial crisis and the maintenance of the hospital."

"We have looked at a bond issue, which would take care of the maintenance and repairs of the hospital plus equipment needed. A bond issue would not get us out of the financial crisis which the hospital is in."

Referring to the hospital's inability to keep up with bill payments Hinton said, "At the last commissioners' court meeting when the hospitals presented their bills, they were $96,000 short of meeting all of those bills. We are holding some of those bills until funds are available to pay those bills."

Congressional mood on law changing

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Make old laws work, don't make new laws," says Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., summing up a growing mood in Congress.

Call it the mood of Proposition 13, of the tax revolt and fear of inflation.

To Moffett and other junior members of the House who often bucked the orders of the old guard leadership, the overwhelming vote for tax-cutting Proposition 13 in California came as no great surprise.

They'd already picked up the mood of discontent over budget deficits and high taxes. They supported President Carter in 1977, when he first tried to cut back on water projects that he felt were wasteful and inflationary.

And they formed the key block of votes that overcame the House Democratic leadership and sustained Carter's recent veto of the latest water projects bill.

But to many members of Congress, the California vote last June on Proposition 13 forcing a reduction in property taxes, was a surprising show of the strength of the feeling that people wanted changes in Washington — the same mood that led to the election of an outsider named Jimmy Carter.

What did Congress do with that message?

"Somehow you had a feeling there was a little bit of restraint," a congressional aide said when he tried to assess the impact that Proposition 13 had on the 95th Congress.

But how powerful a long-term impact it will have on the federal government will be measured more accurately by the actions of the Congress that convenes Jan. 15.

One measurement will be whether Moffett is correct in asserting that the time has come for Congress to look at old programs rather than enact new ones.

The leadership appears to be falling into line behind the young Turks.

"More attention to oversight ought to be a major thrust of the 96th Congress," said Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., the House Democratic Whip.

Brademas also predicted that the next Congress will "take a tougher look at the inflationary impact of government regulations."

His views were echoed by other members of the leadership in both the House and Senate.

Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, the assistant Republican leader in the Senate, noted that Congress cut $20 billion from administration authorization requests and cut nearly $10 billion from the funding levels sought by the administration.

Stevens called the cuts a clear reaction to Proposition 13, but he added that "the key to it is what's going to happen next year."

"I have the fear we held the lid on until the election," he said.

Reminded of the congressional tradition of pumping up the economy with federal spending in the weeks before an election, Stevens said, "Things are a little changed around the political world. Motherhood now is a balanced budget."

Rhodesian forces attack guerillas

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesia said today its forces killed at least 1,500 black nationalist guerillas in attacks on 12 guerilla bases in Zambia this week, one of the biggest and bloodiest military operations in six years of war here.

A communique issued by the Rhodesian military command also announced the completion of strikes against guerilla bases in Mozambique that began last Wednesday.

The communique said one Rhodesian serviceman was killed and three others injured in the twin cross-border operations.

Associated Press correspondent Eddie Adams reported from one of the camps attacked in Zambia, Mkushi, that the Rhodesian raiders blew up and burned the low-slung clay buildings, mud huts and squad-sized gray tents that survived an initial bombardment by warplanes and helicopters.

A Rhodesian security force spokesman, who declined to be identified, said "hundreds" were killed in the assault on Mkushi Thursday morning, just two hours after a strike on the military headquarters of guerilla leader Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe African People's Union at Chikumba, 12 miles from the Zambian capital of Lusaka.

Twenty-four hours after the raids, Rhodesian troops were still at the Mkushi camp, 20 miles northeast of Lusaka. About 50 uniformed bodies, mainly men but including two young women, were scattered around the one-square-mile camp. Almost all the dead clutched Soviet-made rifles.

Camp records produced by the Rhodesian military showed Mkushi as a base for 2,036 persons, of whom 1,082 were described as "trainees," 38 "old age," and the rest instructors, administrators and "security" personnel.

In Lusaka, Nkomo confirmed the attack on the second camp, 80 miles east of the Rhodesian border, and vowed his insurgents would take Rhodesia by force.

Nkomo, whose guerillas are fighting to topple the government in Salisbury from bases in Zambia, said only that Rhodesian jets and helicopters made further attacks against ZAPU camps in Zambia over the past 36 hours.

After talking to journalists

Pope shocks Vatican audience with hand shakes

VATICAN CITY (AP) — As Swiss Guards stood by nervously, Pope John Paul II concluded a formal audience with 1,500 journalists Saturday by wading into the pushing crowd, shaking hands and fielding questions like a seasoned politician on the hustings.

John Paul II gave the traditional press audience on the eve of his installation as the first non-Italian pontiff in 455 years, and in a speech he praised the ideal of the freedom of the press and urged the reporters to "use it correctly."

History's first Polish pope then cast aside centuries of papal protocol and shocked his Vatican aides by stepping down from the dais in the ornate Hall of the Benedicitions and mingling with the journalists for about 40 minutes in an unprecedented give-and-take session — in effect, history's first papal news conference.

Meanwhile, hundreds of Polish pilgrims waving the red-and-white flag of their country arrived at Rome's airport for Sunday's inaugural ceremonies.

President Henry Jablonski of Poland flew in separately as the head of the official Polish delegation for the installation of former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla, who as archbishop of Krakow firmly defended the interests of the Roman Catholic Church in the communist country.

Vatican officials announced that the Mass to mark the beginning of John Paul's reign as "supreme pastor" of the 700-million-member church will be televised live to 42 countries, including Poland. It is the first time Poland has a live hook-up for a religious ceremony in the Vatican. All three U.S. networks will broadcast delayed taped shows on the inaugural Sunday morning and afternoon.

After finishing the 15-minute speech in French and English on press ethics, the 58-year-old, vigorous-looking pontiff stepped down to clasp hands with the throng of reporters and embraced an Italian television news director who had been shot and wounded by Red Brigade terrorists.

Photographers popped their electronic flashbulbs and microphones jutted out of the crowd to catch each papal pronouncement as John Paul quipped with reporters in five languages.

All popes since John XXIII have called in journalists for a special audience, sometimes before their investiture, but they never engaged in such free-wheeling sessions with reporters.

Among those arriving from Poland was a grandniece of the pope, Krystyna Gruszynska, 21, who said, "For me, for all of us, it was an enormous joy. Many of us cried at the announcement of his election."

While an estimated 600 Poles were given visas, a leading Roman Catholic editor, Tadeusz Mazowiecki, said in Warsaw that he and three other Catholic intellectuals with ties to the Polish dissident movement were denied exit permits to attend the installation.

Rio Grande City has faded into bad memories and debts

RIO GRANDE CITY, Texas (AP) — Contrary to the misleading name, there is no city of Rio Grande City, Texas.

There once was a city of Rio Grande, Texas, but it's long gone — having left only bad memories and conflicting stories of unpaid debts.

Some of the residents in this unincorporated county seat of Starr County would like to reincorporate. Some oppose a new city. Most don't seem to care.

"If this were a city," says junior high school Principal R.C. Salinas, Jr., "the motto would be 'city of eternal apathy.'"

While most Rio Grande Valley cities are spilling beyond their limits, Rio Grande City lies dormant — as if the sandy hills have fended off the 1970s. Most of downtown is boarded over, and motorists slalom their way along battlefield-like streets.

This may be the place where the words "dusty little border town" were first uttered.

In 1976 talk of incorporation cropped up. A city could levy a sales tax, attract industry and get in on the federal revenue sharing grab-bag, say supporters like Salinas.

Bah humbug, say the opponents. There's no such thing as federal revenue anyway, they claim.

"We've got too many deadbeats on the payroll already," said John A. Pope III, Salinas' cousin and attorney.

In an impressive display of apathy, the incorporation proposal died a 632-143 death on Jan. 28, 1978. The proposed city would have had nearly 10,000 residents.

Beneath the philosophical and practical arguments were unanswered questions about the ghost of the city of Rio Grande — a ghost some say could cost up to a million dollars.

In August 1926, residents here sent a petition to their county commissioners. They wanted a city. An election was held and the city was established by a 133-5 margin.

At the first council meeting on Oct. 21, 1926, the commissioners, in the first ordinance, tried to clear up some of the confusion about the city's name. It was changed from the city of Rio Grande City

(as it appeared on the ballot) to simply Rio Grande.

"Whereas, the second 'city' is confusing and superfluous..." the ordinance said.

Things went well for awhile. Streets were repaired, and the city bought a firetruck. But the Depression set in and the city struggled.

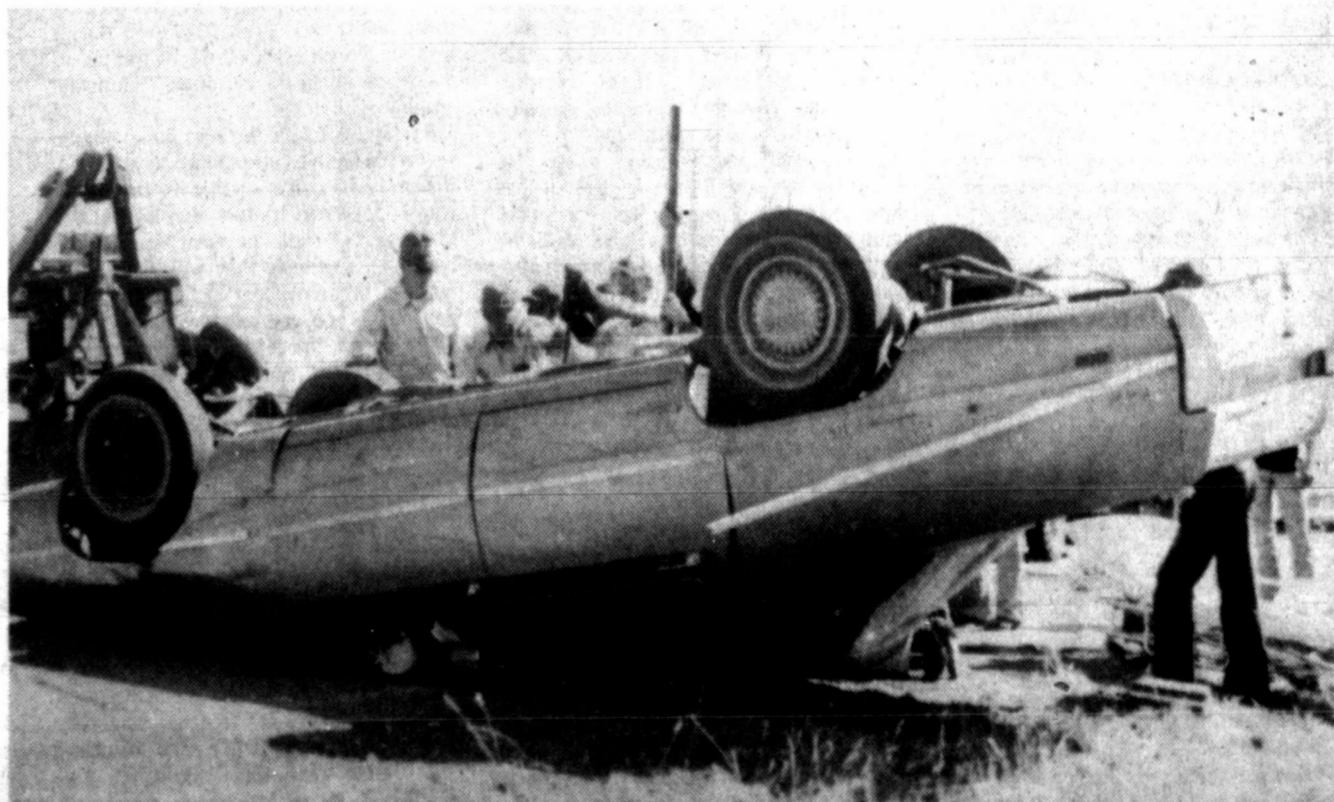

Present-day residents here recall that the city ran up quite a tab before it was abolished. Pope, whose father was a mayor of the old city, said the debt was in the million-dollar range.

But Lauro Lopez, incorporation supporter and president of the local industrial foundation, disagrees. He says a bond attorney studied the old city records.

"There is zero balance owed now. The statute of limitations cleared it out," Lopez said.

The 414 pages of minutes from the old city meetings offer a very low key picture of New York City-like financial woes.

There are hints of pending doom, but they are subtle and in the careful and vanilla wording of a city secretary.

A PAMPA MAN was killed Friday in a one-car accident. T.B. Parker, 84, of 508 South Barnes died at Highland General Hospital after his 1970 Plymouth

The wrong way to re-inforce the dollar

Another golden Band-Aid has been prescribed for our seriously injured monetary patient. The U.S. administration has decided to increase the sale of gold to more than double the amounts which have been sold previously.

If this is an indication of what the President is going to do to back up his promise of support for the dollar, we don't believe the world currency market is going to be much impressed.

And for the citizens of this nation, it is just another indication that our national stockpile of gold bullion is being frittered away.

While many Americans are buying gold (mostly foreign coins) as a hedge to combat the dollar's value decline, our "leaders" are letting the national store of value drift away. As of August 3, the U.S. stockpile of gold was stated at 277 million ounces. This is more than is held by any other nation, so far as we know.

With the present attitude of our money managers, our enviable position in regard to gold may not last too long. They got rid of most of the silver stockpile and profited from the sale of silver in the pre-1965 coins at the expense of the people.

They did not indulge in clipping the edges of precious metal coins as had been the practice of the kings of old. They simply took all the value out of the coinage and replaced the coins with base metal, termed "clad coins."

In spite of the "official" policy to demonize gold, it is still a statutory base for the Federal Reserve System. When gold is sold by the U.S. Treasury, it receives cash and then redeems an offsetting gold certificate from the Federal Reserve. This means that the Federal Reserve then has the cash. That cash is declining in value while the value of gold is increasing by the day.

The use of the cash received acts as a further inflationary impulse. When the government first announced it would sell gold at auctions, it was proclaimed that this was to arrest the decline of the dollar. Since the first sale by the U.S., the dollar has continued to drop and the price of gold has increased.

Now that the medicine used to treat our monetary disease has only added to the scourge, Dr. Fixit prescribes more than double the same remedy.

As long as this nation is bound by a corrupt monetary system, there will be no real cure for our greatest economic problem. Even official Washington will not concede that continuing inflation is our number one problem.

There is a strange silence among our political leaders concerning the basic causes of the inflationary cycle. Proliferating debt, profligate spending and currency debasement are the root problems.

Any real move to correct any or all of these is not in the political interest of our elective or appointed career manipulators. The only way they will be induced to move in the correct manner is by extreme pressure from an informed and wary public.

We hope Americans will become aware of the all-consuming danger of monetary collapse in time to head off the political regime in its race toward economic chaos.

Nothing short of shambles

By MARTHA ANGEL
and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) - If it proves anything, the record of the 95th Congress surely demonstrates the wisdom of the old adage that legislation, like sausage, is best viewed in its finished form.

The output of this particular Congress, while nothing to write home about, was generally respectable, assuming that one disregards the hash made of President Carter's energy program.

Targeted economic stimulus programs knocked two points off the unemployment rate, while fiscal restraint pared $20 billion from the federal deficit. The Social Security system was rescued from its immediate crisis, and the bite of higher payroll taxes was softened by income tax reductions.

Congress approved a precedent-shattering Middle East arms sale, lifted the arms embargo against Turkey and ratified the Panama Canal treaties. Not a great record, perhaps, but not bad.

The same, unfortunately, cannot be said of the process used to address the nation's most pressing problems. In the Senate especially, that was nothing short of a shambles.

Time and again over the past two years, the "world's greatest deliberative body" tied itself into parliamentary knots that cut off forward progress for weeks on end. Only the extraordinary skill and patience of Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd averted a total breakdown.

No one likes to speak ill of the dead, but the truth is that much of the procedural chaos was a direct legacy of the late Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., who mastered the arcane and intricate Senate rules better than anyone in recent history - with the possible exception of Byrd.

Allen, up until his death earlier this year, used previously overlooked procedural gimmicks to hogtie the Senate in parliamentary rope even after the traditional delaying tactic of the filibuster had theoretically been halted through cloture votes by 60 senators.

Worse still, other senators with their own special axes to grind quickly emulated Allen's methods. From Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., on the left to Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, on the right, members with strong personal feelings about everything from natural gas deregulation to labor law reform tried and sometimes succeeded in keeping a majority of their colleagues from voting on legislation.

To a lesser degree, obstructionists in the House likewise wasted countless hours by repeated quorum calls, demands for roll call votes where none was really needed, and various other dilatory maneuvers. House leaders eventually prevailed, but the wheel-spinning was time consuming.

Both Byrd and House Speaker Tip O'Neill were new to their leadership jobs when the 95th Congress convened, and neither was inclined to expend valuable political capital on a rules reform battle when a new Democratic president was rapidly loading the congressional platter with program initiatives.

Byrd actually introduced a series of proposed rules changes back in February 1977, but made no serious attempt to press them once Allen and other senators who like the existing set-up threatened a major floor fight.

The story is likely to be different next year. Byrd plans a full-scale assault on the dilatory tactics which plagued the Senate so often during this Congress, and O'Neill may offer his own, more limited, rules reforms in the House.

The changes are obviously overdue, even if the 96th Congress has to spend its first month or so wrangling over procedural reforms. No one is ever going to make the legislative process either swift or tidy, but there is no excuse for either the tedium or the chaos that characterized this last session.

Coping with an unholy alliance

By ROBERT LEFEVRE

This story begins in Colorado Springs fifteen or more years ago. At that time, my father was hospitalized at a local hospital there with a terminal case of bone cancer. Some years before he was fatally stricken, he had taken out Blue Cross and Blue Shield policies, and presumed they would pay for his hospitalization and other medical services that had been contracted for.

But a change in policy had occurred at Blue Cross and Blue Shield. From my point of view, many of the rising costs and other attendant evils afflicting the medical profession and millions of persons with Blue Cross or Blue Shield coverage begin with this change of policy.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield had tied themselves to Social Security. Thanks to the ever-present notion that somehow, by some kind of legerdemain, the government can pay for everyone's illnesses, the Blue services had climbed into bed with the Ponzi racket, dignifying the illicit relationship with legal and sanctimonious hypocrisy.

Despite his illness, my father had sniffed at the idea. Blue Cross wanted him to agree to transfer a portion of their liability to Social Security, which could be done if he would only sign a particular form. He refused to sign, and quite properly stood on moral grounds. Blue Cross was liable. They had contracted. He did not intend to accept welfare payments which is all Social Security paychecks ever had been or ever could be. Therefore, he demanded specific performance and refused to let the contracting party off the hook. He had prepaid his medical costs. Blue Cross and Shield were honor bound to expend his money as directed and agreed upon.

But because the opportunity had existed for Dad to sign, Blue Cross and Shield now refused to honor their commitment. He could have gotten "so much more" if only he had signed. I was told.

The battle between the Blue sickness people and myself went on for months.

Dad was out of it, barely alive, and I backed his position. Blue refused to pay the medical costs at the hospital for which they were liable. I refused to pay them since neither Dad nor I was liable.

The people at the hospital were caught in the middle. Understandably, they wanted their money. And they couldn't just throw a bedridden patient into the streets. They came to me more than once, pleading for me to advance the funds until the matter "could be straightened out."

I know the answer to that one. When you pay an unwarranted charge it is wholly unlikely that the matter will ever be straightened out. When the hospital was finally convinced that I wouldn't budge, they added their voices to mine against the Blues.

Finally, the general manager or president, or principal factotum of Blue Shield and Cross came to Colorado Springs, looked over the situation, and reluctantly capitulated. The services paid up; the hospital got its money and Dad rests in peace.

But I wrote a column about the event then and now have occasion to remind my readers about it. Naturally, from that day to this I have had nothing to do with Blue Cross and Blue Shield, although I had originally had policies similar to those of my father. But that messianic with the Social Security strumpet cured me. I want nothing to do with Social Security, directly or indirectly.

While I was an employee of Rampart College, the institution maintained a group health and accident policy for all employees. This was with a private company which had no connection with either Blue Cross or Blue Shield. Or Social Security. But when I resigned from Rampart College (1973) I had to be dropped from the group coverage. In vain I tried to find a private insurance firm that would sell me a health and accident policy having no connection with Social Security. All I had to do was accept government assistance and announce my willingness to become a governmental dependent and the world was open to me. Refuse, and I was shut out.

I refused. And, of course, as it always does, time continued to pass. I am now well into that part of my life when I could, by law, put my feet on the rail and accept rocking chair money, Medicaid, and Medicare. For all I know, rentacare, clothsaid and pedicare are available to me if I'll just smile sweetly and admit to having no spine.

Well, a pox on those rackets. All of them are paid for by taxpayers, groaning under the mounting burden of the Social Security rip-off. And while I'm paying an enormous amount of taxes I refuse to ride on the backs of my laboring brothers and sisters. Now just what that has gotten me into you'll find out, if you'll read my column next week when I'll bring you up to date.

Your exciting nights

The most up-to-date sleep research is a real eye-opener!

Your nights are exciting! If you did the things while you are awake which you do in your dreams... well...

There was little serious scientific sleep research until 25 years ago when the University of Chicago got interested. It was there that Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman and Eugene Aserinsky began to measure brain waves, eye movement, pulse, respiration, blood chemistry, heartbeat and muscle activity during sleep and dreaming.

They discovered REM and non-REM sleep - the stages or degrees of sleep through which one passes during the night.

But this year the Chicago Tribune sent medical reporter Ronald Kotulak to 20 sleep research centers across the nation to compare and report on the newest findings.

My goodness! At Stanford's Sleep Research Center, Dr. William Dement discovered that either too much or too little sleep can kill you!

He calls sleep "a very perilous condition." He says, "Some people may be healthy when awake but seriously ill during sleep."

When dreaming your brain leaps into a tumultuous state, becoming perhaps twice as active as during wakefulness. As it races it may produce your best thoughts - but it may also trigger a heart attack.

Half of all heart attacks occur during this explosion of excitement.

At the University of Texas Health Science Center in Dallas, Dr. Howard Roffwarg finds that "many of your brain and body functions are just as active at night as during the daytime."

If your body did not impose a partial paralysis on your muscles while you sleep, you would be unconfined at night.

Reporter Kotulak returned to Chicago with no scientific consensus as to what sleep is or why it is important. All that's certain is that, without proper sleep, a child's mental and physical growth may be stunted - and the more you dream the smarter you become.

Some recent studies indicate that after sleeplessness the memory portion of your brain deteriorates. After sleep has manufactured certain proteins, the memory function is rejuvenated.

Said another way, while the body is forced to rest the brain has a chance to regenerate itself. "Recharging the battery," so to speak.

One unusual recent discovery involves sex stimulation during sleep which may be unrelated to sexual dreaming. It appears that both males and females are sexually stimulated repeatedly and unknowingly during the night as though nature intends thus to keep the reproductive machinery in working order.

Hormones are thus released to stimulate different parts of the body.

Summarizing his findings, reporter Kotulak says, "Now we know that when you cradle your head on a pillow in preparation for a time of peace, safety and quiet sleep - all hell is about to break loose."

Public employee collective bargaining

By CHARLES D. VAN EATON, Ph. D.
(Dr. Van Eaton is an R.C. Hoiles Fellow)

"There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, anytime." That statement in reply to a telegram from labor leader Samuel Gompers, catapulted the Governor of Massachusetts, Calvin Coolidge, into national prominence after he had taken action to stop the 1919 Boston police strike and had refused reinstatement of the strikers.

Coolidge's action was praised by politicians in both political parties because then, unlike now, it was believed that it was, as President Woodrow Wilson put it, "a crime against civilization" for public employees to strike.

The strike is not the real issue. Public sector collective bargaining is the issue. Unions will strike - that is their only weapon. When public employees are granted the right to form unions and bargain collectively they will also strike. When it becomes clear to them that they can strike and get away with it without suffering the fate of the Boston police in 1919 they will continue to employ the weapon. That is where we are now in this country and that is exactly where we should expect to be after having permitted public employee collective bargaining in the first place.

The Rand Corporation has released a four-year study of federal intervention into the schools. Its finding: The feds have made a major botch of it, failing to improve the schools, even contributing to a decline in performance, despite 12 years of funding.

"The mistaken assumption," quoth a Rand press release, "is that social

Prior to 1962, the date when President Kennedy opened the door to public employee collective bargaining, it was generally argued that the concept of all the people as sovereign foreclosed collective bargaining in the government service.

The argument based on sovereignty goes like this: People alone are sovereign and government exists only as an agent holding power in trust for all, not just for selected groups. To bargain collectively with public servants organized as a union is a surrender of sovereignty and an abdication of responsibility since it permits a group less than all the people to share absolute power. The organized public servant in essence wrests power from the people - an outcome which cannot be tolerated in a democratic system. Thus, the argument goes, collective bargaining in the public sector cannot be permitted.

Why has this argument been rejected in principle? Is it because the argument is invalid at its very base? Not at all. If the general principle that government serves only as an agent and that sovereignty ultimately rests in the people is rejected then the only moral basis for the existence of government falls.

In fact the principle has been rejected and public sector collective bargaining, with the strikes which necessarily follow, has come because the increasing militancy of public employees and their organizations forced the issue. Rather than stand on principle and do their job, government officials backed down to the threats of chaos which the unions were quite prepared to unleash upon the people. There is no Calvin Coolidge around today and the public employee union chiefs know it.

It is illegal for public employees to strike but they do and get away with it. It is legal in most political jurisdictions for public employees to form a union and bargain collectively and it should not be. To the argument the public employees should enjoy the same collective bargaining rights as private sector employees the answer which must be given is that public employees do not offer their product in a market where buyers may accept or reject what they have to sell. Rather, public employees operate in a political context where coercion rather than free exchange rules - (try deducting something from your tax bill because you didn't call the police during the past year and see what happens).

Granted that public employees may have grievances or that pay scales are inconsistent in some jobs - as when police are paid less than street cleaners or teachers less than bus drivers, but collective bargaining cannot be the answer. A free society cannot survive the power of union bosses as masters of the terms under which government services will be provided.

If public employees are not happy with their lot they can present their case to the voters as the San Francisco firefighters did in 1968 (they won, too). If the public accepts their case and is willing to pay the bill, good and well. If not, let the public workers find other employment. But public sector unions are not acceptable. We have seen what they do and it must not continue.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Oct. 22, the 25th day of 1978. There are 70 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1962, President John Kennedy ordered U.S. air and naval forces to quarantine Cuba after concluding that Soviet missile bases were being built on the island.

On this date: In 1721, Peter the Great took the title of Czar of all Russia.

In 1859, Spain declared war against Moors in Morocco.

In 1907, a run on a New York bank set off a financial crisis known as the Panic of 1907.

In 1942, during World War II, the British air force pounded the Italian port of Genoa.

In 1953, France granted independence to the Indochina kingdom of Laos.

In 1954, West Germany joined the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Ten years ago: The U.S. Apollo 7 spacecraft splashed down safely in the Atlantic after 11 days in space.

Five years ago: World-renowned cellist Pablo Casals died at the age of 96 in Puerto Rico.

One year ago: Forty-two nations asked the United Nations General Assembly to take up the problem of airplane hijackings.

Today's birthdays: Songwriter and singer Dory Previn is 49 years old. Actress Catherine Deneuve is 35. Pitcher Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox is 37.

Thought for today: Among famous traitors of history one might mention the weather - Actress Ilka Chase.

Krueger would welcome probe

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Democratic senatorial candidate Bob Krueger's campaign manager says he would welcome a federal investigation of Raza Unida candidate Luis Diaz DeLeon's charge he was offered inducements to quit the race.

Garry Mauro was quoted Saturday by the Austin American-Statesman as saying the Krueger campaign's lawyer called U.S. Attorney Tony Canales of Houston on Friday to say "we welcome an investigation."

"The sooner he can get down here, the better. ... We want a full investigation of the allegations and also where DeLeon is getting his funding. ... We haven't done anything wrong. ... Every campaign I have been in, the third party candidate has always accused somebody of trying to pay him to get off the ballot," Mauro said.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., Krueger's opponent, also has asked Canales to investigate the allegations made by De-Leon at news conferences in Laredo and Houston last week.

DeLeon has said Marc Campos, a top aide in the Krueger campaign, approached him with offers of a $28,000-a-year job and help in getting federal projects to benefit Mexican-Americans if he would drop out.

At a news conference held Saturday in Edinburg, Texas, DeLeon said he has told his attorney to prepare a defamation of character suit against Campos.

"Marc Campos has twisted the facts and this has forced me to begin preparations to file a civil suit against him and others," DeLeon said. He did not say who the others were.

DeLeon repeated his claims that Campos urged him on Sept. 5 and Sept. 20 to get off the ballot because the race was so close that even a few percentage points going to Raza Unida might defeat Krueger.

Campos said DeLeon's statement was "irrational."

"He's got it completely turned around. The first thing he (DeLeon) did was drop his resume and civil service qualifications on me and told me if he would get a federal job he would withdraw. I told him, 'Look, we don't operate that way. It's not right,'" Campos said.

DeLeon's version is that Campos summoned him to a Sept. 5 meeting and asked what it would take to get him off the ballot.

"I decided to give him rope to hang himself and told him every man wanted economic security. ... He said this could be arranged. I told him I wanted two things — the gas in Crystal City turned on immediately and a presidential pardon for Ramsey Muniz," DeLeon said.

Muniz, twice the Raza Unida candidate for governor, is serving a federal prison sentence on a marijuana smuggling charge.

City and State news

Amendment receives support

Proposed Constitutional Amendment Number Two received powerful support when endorsed by State Representative Phil Cates of Shamrock.

In a statement released today Representative Cates said: "We urge all Texans to give favorable consideration to Proposed Amendment number Two on the November ballot."

The amendment provides a new tool for attracting industry to Texas with several safeguards to maintain healthy tax income to our taxing agencies. The law provides that no city or county issuing the revenue bonds can tax its citizens for repayment. In fact, that statement must be printed on the bonds.

Representative Cates said he would probably be endorsing other amendments as the November election nears.

Kiwanis club donates machine

The Pampa Kiwanis Club has donated a cassette-filmstrip machine to the Plan A Learning Disabilities classes of Pampa High School.

The audio-visual teaching aid will be used for both individual and group tutoring and will benefit the approximately 70 students enrolled in these classes.

The machine was paid for by Kiwanis money-making projects conducted during the year, such as fertilizer and popcorn sales.

Presenting the machine to Deana Milliron of the high school were Glen Courtney, John Warner and Keith Barker of the Kiwanis.

William Shakespeare is often called the Bard of Avon, while Scottish poet Robert Burns is known as the Bard of Ayrshire.

Police notes

Allen D. Pruisner, manager of Pizza Inn, reported to the police that three male patrons, known only by their first names, had left the Inn without paying. Their ticket totaled $11.61. A threat made toward the manager by the third subject was also involved in the incident. Investigation continues.

An officer was dispatched to 1410 N. Charles where Given W. Vance reported a student had beat him up. The student left the scene after the incident.

An officer was dispatched to 2131 Perryton Parkway where J.P. Wright reported an unknown subject had thrown an object at his vehicle and damaged the rear of the car.

An officer was dispatched to 600 W. Francis to a non-injury accident. Aide V. Manning and Larry D. Howell were in collision.

A 1978 Oldsmobile, driven by Patrick Allan Youngquist, 610 West, was south bound in the 1400 block of N. Hobart. Youngquist was following too closely behind a 1978 Oldsmobile driven by Lillian Ledbetter Everett, 1133 E. Harvester, who was also southbound in the 1400 block of N. Hobart. Everett slowed down to make a left turn. Youngquist was cited for following too closely.

A 1978 Chevrolet driven by Florence Radcliff, 1237 Wilcox, was southbound in the 400 block of Cuyler attempting to change lanes, when she struck a 1974 Oldsmobile, driven by Mahota Hapeman, 330 Davis. Radcliff was cited for unsafe lane change.

Deaths

THOMAS B. PARKER
 Thomas B. Parker, 84, 508 S. Barnes, died at 5 p.m. Friday at Highland General Hospital.

Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Carmichael-Whately Colonial Chapel with Dr. Jim T. Pickens of the First United Methodist Church officiating. The burial will be in the Fairview Cemetery. Masonic graveside services will be held with Pampa Masonic Lodge 966 AFAM.

Parker was born on Feb. 28, 1894 at St. Louis, Mo., and was reared at Leadville, Colo. He married Juetta Lambright on Aug. 2, 1921 at Greeley, Colo. They moved to Pampa from Tulsa, Okla. He retired in 1959 after 55 years of service with Skelly Oil Co. Parker was a veteran of World War I and was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He was also a member of the First United Methodist Church, and a 50 year member of Oakcreek, Colo. Masonic Lodge.

He is survived by his wife, one son, John Parker, Pampa; one daughter, Mrs. Robert Boyd, Pampa; six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Masons are requested to meet at the Lodge Hall at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

MARY VINCENT

Mrs. Mary C. (Katie) Vincent, 99, of 303 E. Atchinson, more recently of the Pampa Nursing Home, died at 8:30 a.m.

Saturday in Highland General Hospital.

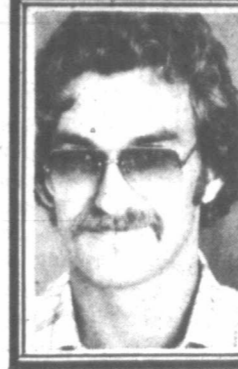

Funeral services are pending with Duenkel-Smith Funeral Home.

Born on Dec. 27, 1878 in Kingston Tenn., she grew up in Stevens Co., Texas. She had been an area resident for the past 75 years. She led a very active life which included being a charter member of the First Presbyterian Church of Pampa and a charter member of the Daughters of American Revolution, Pampa. She was a member of the Civic Culture Club, the Texas Federation of Womens Clubs, and was honored by that organization in 1965. She was also a member of the order of the Eastern Star Chapter 65, the Texas Historical Society, the Legion Auxiliary, and was chosen as senior citizen of the year in 1975 by the Altrusa Club of Pampa.

Mrs. Vincent was married to W.P. Vincent, who died in 1922. She was also preceded in death by two sons, Cliff and Joe.

She is survived by one son Jack R.C. Vincent, Amarillo; one daughter, Mrs. Kathryn Steele, Pampa; seven grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren.

In addition to flowers, memorials are requested to the Book of Remembrance of the First Presbyterian Church or to ones favorite charity.

Behind the Scenes

with Pampa News City Editor Greg Hardin

WE WANT TO APOLOGIZE to County Judge Don Hinton. Staffer Carla Baranaukas wrote an article Friday dealing with the proposed lease arrangement of the hospital, in which Hinton was quoted several times. During the process of getting the story into type we made a rash of errors on the story which, if not for the good nature of Hinton, would have been a disaster. We again want to apologize to the judge and are re-running his statements today.

TODAY IS THE BEST DAY to spend an afternoon with the love ones of your family.

A PERSONAL NOTE FOR CATHY: We would like for you to call us again about an interview. We have misplaced your name and number so try us again, please.

WE HAVE NOTICED lately that several events in the Pampa area are featured on the same day. Since it is hard, at best, to be in two places at one time we think a little more planning is needed. We have seen other cities of approximately the same size handle the problem by simply furnishing a calendar of events for the year. Most of the events in Pampa are of a fund raising nature and should get maximum support. Floyd, this gives you and the boys at the Chamber a project to work on in the cold winter months ahead.

WE WANT TO BRING to your attention that a special oil and gas edition will be coming out in the News this week so be sure and check your papers for it. News editor Fred Parker, a native to this area, and staffer Pam Turek have spent a lot of time on this project and have come up with some interesting stories about Pampa.

WE WANT TO ASK everyone to vote in our poll on hospital leasing. A coupon has been made so everyone may cast their vote for or against the leasing proposal. Just clip the coupon and mail it or bring it by our offices.

WE WOULD LIKE TO TAKE TIME OUT to say goodbye to Bridget Vinson, the sheriff's secretary, who is leaving Pampa. Bridget will make her home in Colorado with her husband Steve. We want to wish them the best of luck in their new home.

In Agriculture

By JOE VANZANDT
County Agriculture Agent
The cooler weather tells us that frost will soon arrive. Frost can cause prussic acid poisoning in livestock grazing certain grasses and forages.

Although many plants contain the toxic material that causes poisoning, those causing the highest mortality in livestock when grazed after they have been frozen and wilted are Johnson and Sudan grasses and sorghum or hybrids of these. The most dangerous time as far as the grazing of these plants is concerned is following frost when the plant material begins to wilt. Livestock should not be allowed access to the wilted material until it has dried completely. This usually takes three or four days of good sunlight.

As far as prussic acid poisoning is concerned, the poison acts rapidly and can kill animals within minutes. In most acute cases, animals become affected within 10 - 15 minutes after eating toxic material and can die in 2 - 3 minutes. Symptoms may include a brief period of stimulation followed by depression and paralysis. Signs of colic may be present. Stupor (loss of sensibility), difficult breathing and frequent convulsions may result. Death is caused by suffocation since oxygen remains in the blood and is not exchanged to the tissues. This also causes the blood to appear bright red.

To prevent prussic acid poisoning follow these steps:

- 1. Allow plant material affected by frost to dry thoroughly before grazing.
- 2. Feed animals hay or a supplement before turning them in on suspect plants. Animals that are not hungry will not be affected as seriously by toxic material since their intake will be limited.
- 3. Remove all animals from the pasture if one in the herd shows any signs of poisoning.
- 4. Call a veterinarian immediately if an animal appears to be poisoned. An antidote to treat affected animals is highly efficient if given early. This product is available from veterinarians.
- 5. Have suspect plant material checked by the Texas

Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory at Amarillo. Local veterinarians can submit samples for you.

The overall key to preventing prussic acid poisoning in livestock is to be aware of plant materials that may cause poisoning and then to keep cattle from grazing such plants until a safe period has passed.

Peach tree borer treatment

The peach tree borer is the most destructive pest of peach trees in Gray County. The borers feed near the soil line between the bark and wood often girdling the cambium layer of the tree. When this occurs, the tree soon dies because all water and nutrients are transferred from the roots to the leaves through the cambium layer.

The best way to determine if a peach tree is infested by these borers is to inspect the trunk of the tree at the soil line. When large masses of gum which contains a brown sawdust like material is found at the base of the tree, peach tree borers are present. Peach trees should be inspected several times each year to determine if control measures are needed for this pest.

These borers can be controlled by an application of paradichlorobenzene crystals applied around the base of the tree during the period of Oct. 20 to Nov. 15. The use of these crystals in the proper manner will, in most cases, eliminate the infestations. The crystals should be applied when the soil is dry and the temperature is 55 degrees or above. Weeds should be removed from around the base of the tree and the soil leveled one foot from the tree trunk. Place the crystals in a narrow groove encircling the tree about two inches from the tree trunk.

Care should be taken to keep any of the crystals from coming in direct contact with the tree. Clean soil should be placed over the crystals so as to form a cone-shaped pile about six inches high around the base of the tree. When putting and compacting the soil around the base of the tree, care should be taken not to put any of the crystals against the tree. During the winter, the peach tree borers that are at the base of the tree will be killed. In late March or early April, the cone-shaped pile of dirt should be removed from the base of the tree.

The amount of paradichlorobenzene crystals to be used is determined by the age and size of the tree. In general, one-half ounce of crystals should be used for two to three year old trees, three-fourths ounce for four to five year old trees and one ounce for mature trees.

Where peach tree borers are a problem, the use of this control measure for this pest will greatly lengthen the life of the peach tree. Further information on control of the peach tree borer is contained in MP-999, "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects for Commercial Fruits and Nuts." This publication is available through your county extension agent's office. Cool weather attracts house insects.

With cooler weather, insects begin seeking a warmer place, and homes are ideal locations.

The most common invaders are earwigs, crickets, pillbugs, spiders, millipedes and cockroaches. These pests will damage fabrics, feed on food products and may also transmit disease-causing organisms within the home.

The first control step should start outside. Remove hiding places such as plant debris around the foundation and perform any needed maintenance on portals of entry to keep insects outside.

If insects have been a problem in the past, treat the foundation 12 to 24 inches above the soil line with a recommended insecticide such as diazinon, malathion or carbaryl (Sevin). Also apply the insecticide to the soil surface next to the foundation and around sidewalks, patios, driveways and storage areas. Be sure to read the label and follow directions closely when applying any type of insecticides.

If insects are already inside the home, it is usually best to hire a certified pest control operator rather than to take care of the problem yourself.

Tower, Krueger square off

WAXAHACHIE, Texas (AP)— "Look me right in the whites of my eyes," U.S. Senator John Tower, R-Texas, urged a crowd of supporters in the meeting room of a highwayside restaurant here.

"Don't be bashful, ask me anything," the spunky senior senator said as he collected comments at another stop in his windssock-hopping campaign from coffee pot to coffee pot across Texas.

It's the fifth time on the trail for the incumbent Republican, facing strong opposition from U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, D-New Braunfels. However, Tower repeats the same optimism every time his plane bumps to a stop at a rural airport.

"Every indication is that we are ahead, and will win on election day — unless I do something wrong." That always draws a chuckle from the small knot of loyal partisans assembled to greet the man they sent to Washington 17 years ago.

Whether huddled in a windy aircraft hangar in Hamilton or sipping yet another cup of black coffee with backers in an eatery in Cleburne, Tower draws similar responses from the similar supporters.

They are usually over 50, a few dressed in Sunday best, but most taking time off from work in the fields or factories, dressed in grimy t-shirts, coveralls and work boots, topped by a baseball cap advertising fertilizer.

Tower's twin-engine turbo-prop Mitsubishi, "a Japanese plane made in San Angelo," he says, bounces across washboard runways to park alongside crop dusters.

"We don't have landings, we have arrivals," one of the two pilots quipped after a touchdown that splashed soft drink in the lap of a Tower aide.

Most voters ask Tower about agri-business matters, or national health care proposals. "When I was a boy, picking cotton in Cass County..." he'll begin. Or, he will say, "National health care would put us on the doorstep of socialized medicine."

Rural America has serious problem

WASHINGTON (AP)— Rural America "has a serious illiteracy problem, particularly among minorities and those who live on farms," a new Agriculture Department study has found.

The study on rural education said 30.2 percent of the black men and 19 percent of the black women over age 25 in rural areas fit that description in 1975. That's triple the illiteracy rates for urban blacks.

Among blacks on farms, the figures were 41 percent for men and 31.9 percent for women.

The rates were slightly higher for Hispanics, wrote Frank A. Fratoe of the department's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service.

For whites outside central cities and suburbs, the rates in 1975 were 4.9 percent for men and 3.4 percent for women — or about 68 percent greater than the illiteracy rate among metropolitan white men and 21 percent higher than among similar white women.

For all races taken together, the rates were 2.6 percent for men and 2.2 percent for women in the suburbs and 5.3 percent for men and 4.8 percent for women in cities.

Among all rural residents, they were 6.6 percent for all men and 4.7 percent for all women but 7.1 percent for men and 5.1 percent for women living on farms.

The study defines a functional illiterate as a person who has completed less than five years of elementary school, rather than a person who can't read or write.

Those findings were just one aspect of the 36-page report that describes from an educator's viewpoint an underdeveloped country-within-a-country, where one out of every six residents is officially poor.

Such findings are certain to become a factor, at least behind the scenes, in federal farm policy, which now rewards large-scale farmers who are decidedly not poor.

Some policy-makers in the Carter administration feel strongly that the government should spend less money propping up inefficient farmers or those undercut by foreign competition and instead focus on finding other work for them.

That's where Fratoe's study could become important. He notes that functional-illiteracy rates are higher among older residents and farmers. That will present barriers to a purely economic approach to farming's problems.

"Older farm residents forced to leave their farms for financial reasons do not have the educational training in basic academic skills and specific job skills to seek other employment," he said.

Also, he said, "functionally illiterate parents and grandparents cannot provide a motivational example for their children and grandchildren to go to school, stay there and obtain the educational foundation necessary."

Protests of seal hunting

LONDON (AP)— The British government backed down — but insisted it was right. Ecology activists celebrated — but acknowledged their war is far from won. And 2,000 baby seals will live — at least until they are older and less winsome.

That was the status after a week-long dispute over a plan to "cull" — or slaughter — gray seals in the Orkney Islands off the North Coast of Scotland because they allegedly eat too much from dwindling fish stocks.

Because of "widespread public concern" — the prime minister's office alone received 16,800 protest letters — the government announced Monday it was calling off six Norwegian marksmen who had been hired for $40,000 to kill 900 adult seals.

Licensed local hunters, who were to have killed 4,000 seal pups, will be restricted to 2,000 as in the past, said the announcement from the Scottish Office.

"We achieved what we set out to achieve. They're going to review the whole subject of the seal population," said Ken Weiland, 28, a spokesman for the Greenpeace organization.

Greenpeace stationed two dozen volunteers in tents on rocky islands pledged to stand between the seals and the hired guns, who were brought in, said the Scottish Office, "because they are experts in killing the adult seals, which requires a heavier weapon than the pups."

The confrontation never came off, although the Greenpeace trawler Rainbow Warrior shadowed the Norwegians' ship Kvitingen. Relations between the vessels warmed after Rainbow Warrior relayed a government message, which couldn't otherwise get through to the hunters.

But a change of heart? No, said Weiland. "Governments don't change their nature overnight. It was pressure — pressure from us and pressure from the people. Still it's going to make the government more aware and make them be absolutely sure of their facts and figures before they embark on a course that's going to outrage a lot of people."

However, Scottish Secretary Bruce Millan repeated he is sure of his facts, and that three different advisory groups concerned with seals and other wildlife endorsed the six-year plan aimed at halving Britain's gray seal population.

From a low of 500 in 1914, the grays in Britain have multiplied to an estimated 60,000 — two-thirds of their species in the world, Millan said, adding: "There is no doubt that they are consuming a considerable quantity of fish, which has been put at a value of some 12,000 pounds ($24 million) per annum."

"I am also concerned that the future of the species is not endangered," he declared. He said Greenpeace and other opponents of the cull have brought forward no evidence that the grays' existence would be threatened by the cull.

He called for anyone with facts to submit them for study and publication before next year's seal season.

But he warned that in the end the decision is his, and that sparing seals now might just mean more to cull in the future.

Greenpeace, also known for daring mid-ocean harassment of whaling fleets, had objected to the lack of published evidence from the Scottish office. Weiland said supporters did "an immense amount of research in a very short time."

EVANGELIST JIMMY SNOW will be preaching and sharing his testimony tonight at Lamar Full Gospel Assembly at 7:00 p.m. Jimmy is the son of the well-known country and western singer, Hank Snow of Nashville, Tenn. at the age of 16 his singing career began with a contract with R.C.A. Victor Records. While traveling in show business he made many acquaintances and worked with many people, and one was the late Elvis Presley. Colonel Tom Parker was Hank Snow's manager when Jimmy recorded one of his most popular songs, "My Falling Star". In 1956 a car accident, in which Jimmy's leg was seriously injured, began a turning point in his life. Jimmy tells that after turning to drugs, alcohol and many other things to escape reality, the Holy Spirit began to deal with his heart. In the Fall of 1957 Jimmy committed his life to Jesus Christ. Jimmy has travelled eight years as an evangelist, and now pastors Evangel Temple Church in Nashville, the church where Jimmy committed his life to Jesus Christ. The public is invited to this service at 7:00 tonight. There will be a nursery.

Pecan harvesting now in full swing

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Harvesting of early pecan varieties is getting into full swing in West and South Texas, with a good crop in prospect, according to Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Pfannstiel added that statewide the crop is down because of dry weather in the past year. Some early varieties are also hulling in Central and East Texas, he said.

Pecan harvesting continues in Central and West Central Texas and in Southwest Texas and the Coastal Bend. The crop is generally good in yield and grade although recent wet weather in the Coastal Bend has caused some losses. Harvesting in the Rolling Plains will start in several weeks.

Cotton harvesting is continuing in North Central Texas, and some early harvesting is under way in the South and Rolling Plains and Trans-Pecos area, where farmers have applied desiccants, he said. Full-scale harvesting will not start until after the first frost.

Corn and sorghum yields are fair to good in the Panhandle and South Plains, where harvesting continues.

Some small grain planting continues over the state, with early plantings up and providing good grazing in some areas. But lack of moisture is hampering growth in some sections, and armyworms are damaging some stands.

Sugar beet harvesting has started in the High Plains while sugar cane harvesting is getting under way in the Rio Grande Valley. Some early oranges are also being harvested in the Valley, said Pfannstiel. Fall vegetables are making good progress in the Valley and Winter Garden area.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions.

PANHANDLE: Corn is almost harvested and sorghum harvesting continues, both producing fair to good yields. Cotton is opening but harvesting will not start until first frost. Wheat is nearly planted.

SOUTH PLAINS: Sorghum harvest is under way, with the corn nearly in. Cotton farmers are applying desiccants so they harvest. Sugar beet harvesting is beginning. Harvesting of lettuce, carrots and bell peppers continues. Ranges are improving due to rains.

ROLLING PLAINS: Most cotton has been defoliated but some farmers are awaiting first frost to harvest. The crop is generally poor. Peanuts look good, with harvesting to start in Motley County in about two weeks. Some pecans are starting to hull. Small grains are doing well, some already being grazed.

NORTH CENTRAL: About 70 percent of the cotton crop is in but yields are low. Peanut harvesting shows fair to poor yields. Early pecans are starting to hull; a short crop is expected. Small grain planting continues, with lack of moisture and armyworm damage hampering growth in early fields. Most cattle are in good shape despite poor grazing.

NORTHEAST: Dryness is hampering winter pastures. Some wheat and oats are sprouting and then dying. Sweet potatoes are producing good yields, but yields from other crops have been short. Pecans are beginning to hull. Movement of cattle to market is beginning to taper off.

FAR WEST: Cotton harvesting is about 25 percent complete, with yields fair to good. Early pecans are hulling, with harvesting beginning; a short crop is in prospect. Small grains are dying in some counties due to dryness. Armyworms also continue to damage some stands. Livestock are declining.

PASO VALLEY: Small grains are growing well and livestock have excellent grazing.

WEST CENTRAL: Sorghum harvesting is about 75 percent complete, with yields down. Harvesting of cotton and peanuts continues. The cotton crop will be short while peanut yields should be good. Small grain planting is about 80 percent complete; armyworms are damaging early stands. Livestock continue in good to excellent shape but rain is needed to boost fall grazing.

CENTRAL: Peanut harvesting is about 25 percent complete, with yields fair to good. Early pecans are hulling, with harvesting beginning; a short crop is in prospect. Small grains are dying in some counties due to dryness. Armyworms also continue to damage some stands. Livestock are declining.

EAST: Corn and sorghum harvesting is complete, with most of the cotton crop in. Peanut harvesting continues. All crop yields have been below normal due to the dry summer. Pecans are starting to hull, with a short crop expected. Small grain planting continues, but early plantings are suffering from dry weather and armyworm damage.

SOUTHEAST AND UPPER GULF COAST: Harvesting of the second rice crop is in full swing, and the soybean harvest is about to start. Some hay making continues. Additional rain is needed to boost fall grazing. Livestock are in good shape, with marketing steady.

SOUTH CENTRAL: The peanut harvest is active, with good yields. Pecans are hulling, with harvesting under way; a light crop is expected. The cotton harvest is winding down, and some hay making continues. Rain is needed to boost fall grazing and for small grains.

SOUTHWEST: Harvesting of peanuts and pecans is the major activity, with both crops producing good yields. Fall vegetable crops continue to make good progress, with some early cabbage being marketed and cucumber harvesting continuing. Livestock are in good shape, with market prices strong. Some hay making continues.

COASTAL BEND: About half the late peanut crop is in, with yields down in some areas due recent wet weather. The second

Names in the news

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — The makers of Britain's flashy Aston Martin automobile are sure Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev will appreciate the power of the $50,000 V8 Vantage — if he accepts an invitation to test-drive the car on Russian roads.

"I'm sure when he sees it rocket up from 100 miles per hour to 170 he will be most impressed," Alan Curtis, Aston Martin's managing director, said Thursday in announcing the offer to Brezhnev, who fancies some of capitalism's fanciest cars.

Brezhnev already owns, among other cars, a Rolls-Royce, a Cadillac limousine, a Mercedes Benz sports coupe, a Citroen-Maserati, a Chevrolet, a Lincoln Continental and a Matra Rancho cross-country car, a spokesman for the British motor industry said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — How does a president's only daughter spend her 11th birthday? Just about any way she wants.

Amy Carter, who celebrated her birthday Thursday, got a new pair of earrings from her parents for her recently pierced ears. Then she went to the theatre with President and Mrs. Carter to see the musical comedy "Hello Dolly," starring Carol Channing.

After the play, the cast sang "Happy Birthday" to Amy, and Miss Channing gave her a T-shirt with the show's logo.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alfred Hitchcock, the 79-year-old "master of suspense," will join the late John Ford, James Cagney, Orson Welles, William Wyler, Bette Davis and Henry Fonda as a recipient of the American Film

Institute's Life Achievement Award.

The award, given each year to an individual "whose talent has in a fundamental way contributed to the film-making art," will be presented at a nationally televised dinner and ceremony scheduled for March 7, 1979, the institute announced Thursday.

"Since 1925, Alfred Hitchcock has devoted his life to telling stories with film," said AFI director George Stevens Jr.

Meany might be right in thought

NEW YORK (AP) — George Meany might be right. When you talk about an upcoming anti-inflation program you encourage business to get its price increases in before any penalties are attached.

"Every time some government official talks about controls or guidelines or restraints, business takes it as a signal to raise prices," Meany, the AFL-CIO chief, told a union meeting this week.

It has happened before. When President Nixon was considering them earlier in this decade some companies did raise their prices. Better to do it while you can, they figured.

And so they changed their catalogs, listing prices they felt certain would keep them ahead of the game.

The beauty of high list prices, they felt, was that you could give discounts from them, maybe even leaving the customer with the feeling he was getting a break when he was really obtaining nothing special.

While it was a gimmick, the high list price was "official" also, and thus a company had room to raise its real selling prices later without violating whatever restrictive guidelines or controls might be imposed. Anticipatory pricing is inflationary, and there might be a good deal of it going on right now, especially since the Carter administration repeatedly has promised but postponed its anti-inflation program.

Warned so many times that price limits of some sort can be expected, businessmen would be poor businessmen if they did not seek to protect their businesses and their shareholders. It is a primary responsibility.

But even with price restrictions, business finds ways. In the past, for example, when prices remained within limitations quality might be sacrificed, and service and freight charges might be added.

The Carter program, when it comes, might demonstrate that the old loopholes have been knotted up, leaving some businesses with the option of violating limitations and accepting whatever is the penalty.

Under Carter the penalty might be the loss of some tax benefit. Under President John Kennedy the penalty was a public scolding. President Richard Nixon had stockpiles of goods he could sell to undermine markets.

Whatever techniques are used, and no matter how effective they are, the evidence seems to indicate that restraints or controls might have little permanent effect on underlying inflationary factors.

When Nixon's wage-price freeze came off, so did restraint, as current conditions attest to. And Nixon ran budget deficits — generally acknowledged to be inflationary — and so does Carter.

Over short periods the evidence of a positive effect seem clearer. Some believe Nixon controls were good for a year or so and Kennedy-Johnson guideposts for a longer time.

But the experience here and abroad shows that unless adjusted to changing conditions they eventually bend under the strain of elemental market forces and become unneeded or unenforced or even unenforceable.

A garrison of 187 Texans, including Davy Crockett, was wiped out by 3,000 Mexicans at the Alamo fort in Texas in 1836.

By Bernice Bede Osol

October 23, 1978

This coming year you could be offered several financial opportunities to add to your income through other-than-usual sources. You may be wise, however, to avoid business deals with close friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be wary of those who know how to exploit your generosity. You stand a good chance today of being taken in by a crafty person. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Keep your intensity under wraps today. Move in a gentle manner. Once your forcefulness is in motion, it might be difficult to control.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) All you have to do is look in the mirror to find out who your worst enemy is today. Fight off that negative outlook you seem determined to harbor.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be much better off today being as independent of others as possible. Your way of doing things and theirs may be totally opposed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Decision-making should be left to another day. Chances are tomorrow you'll regret that which you commit yourself to today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Forget about soliciting the aid of coworkers today. You'll get many volunteers, but they'll all turn out to be chiefs, with no interest in being Indians.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Discovering your trust in another was misplaced could cause you some inner turmoil today. Use this experience as a guide for future reference.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The key word for you today is "compromise," especially in family situations. A give-and-take attitude can go along way toward making things more comfortable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) No matter how difficult it may be to help one in need, don't turn your back on the situation today. You're going to need this person at a future date.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you don't keep a close tab on your budget today things may quickly get out of hand. Complicity could prove to be quite expensive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll have to be especially on guard today that your vanity doesn't get in your way. Its slightest misuse will be interpreted as haughtiness.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll have to realize today that not everyone will agree with your viewpoint. You could even be wrong.

Hogs get hooked by Longhorns

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senior quarterback Randy McEachern winged three touchdown passes, including two scoring shots to Olympian Johnny "Lam" Jones Saturday, lifting the eighth-ranked Texas Longhorns to a 28-21 upset Southwest Conference victory over the third-ranked Arkansas Razorbacks.

McEachern flipped a four-yard scoring pass to the swift Lam Jones with 6:15 to play, and Texas safety Johnnie Johnson short-circuited Arkansas' comeback attempt to give the Longhorns the victory.

Johnson intercepted a pass with 4:16 to play and then batted away a desperation fourth-down pass in the Longhorn end zone with 2:05 to go to preserve the victory before 78,000 fans in Memorial Stadium and a regional television audience.

Texas is now 5-1 for the year, and 3-0 in SWC play. The pre-season SWC favorite Razorbacks are 4-1 and 1-1.

Texas sprung a third-string surprise on the Razorbacks in freshman tight end Lawrence Sampleton, who caught a 36-yard touchdown pass and shagged a 33-yarder to set up Texas' final touchdown.

Arkansas, which hasn't won in Austin since 1966, started the game like the Razorbacks were going to chase Texas out of the stadium.

Ben Cowins dashed eight yards for a touchdown and the Razorbacks led 7-0 with the game barely four minutes old.

However, Texas countered with a long touchdown drive of its own, and Johnny "Ham" Jones scored on a one-yard run to tie matters 7-all at the end of the first quarter.

Then came a stunning reversal for the Razorbacks as McEachern threw two touchdown passes in the final 59 seconds of the first half.

The 6-foot-6 Sampleton caught a third-down pass over the middle and used his sprinter's speed to outrace the Razorbacks on a 36-yard scoring play.

Only 36 seconds later, McEachern whipped a five-yard scoring pass to Lam Jones.

Arkansas quarterback Ron Calcagni scored on a one-yard run, and Bobby Duckworth shagged a 27-yard scoring pass from Calcagni as Arkansas regained the lead 21-20 in the third period.

The loss snapped an 11-game Arkansas victory streak and was the Razorbacks' seventh consecutive loss to the Longhorns.

After Sampleton caught his touchdown pass — his first reception of the year — late in the second quarter, Arkansas' Dale White blocked the extra point.

But on Arkansas' next possession, Johnson intercepted a Calcagni pass and returned it 13 yards to the Arkansas 22. McEachern lobbed an 11-yard pass to Lam Jones who was running free and clear behind cornerback O.C. Jackson.

The towering Sampleton grabbed a 33-yard McEachern pass on a critical third down and seven situation to the Arkansas 11-yard line late in the game. Again on third down McEachern sent Lam Jones racing away from the Razorbacks' secondary for the clinching touchdown.

Arkansas started the third quarter by scoring on its first two possessions. Calcagni threw a 25-yard pass to Duckworth, playing his first game since early September, and scored himself on a one-yard fourth down run.

Arkansas then rolled 62 yards on nine plays in its next possession.

Follett blanks Warriors

FOLLETT — Randy Redelsperger celebrated Follett's homecoming by scoring all three touchdowns as the Panthers blanked Miami 18-0 in District 1-B play here Friday night.

Redelsperger gained 195 yards on 24 carries, which was more than Miami could collect on the ground and in the air. The Warriors finished with just 134 yards total offense as they slipped to 3-3 on the year and 1-2 in district competition.

Redelsperger broke a scoreless deadlock with a 40-yard run in the second quarter and added runs of 22 and four yards in the third and fourth quarters to give the Panthers the win.

Follett picked up all of its 330 yards on the ground as the Panthers upped their season's mark to 4-2. They are now 2-1 in district play.

Follett travels to Wheeler Friday for its next action, while the Warriors will take a week off before hosting McLean Nov. 3.

Bufs win big

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — West Texas State's ground attack, led by tailback David Johnson with 171 yards and one touchdown and quarterback Larry Thompson with 113 yards and another score, paced the Buffaloes to a 36-7 Missouri Valley Conference football victory over Indiana State Saturday.

West Texas State, now 1-2 in the conference and 3-6 overall, built a 27-0 lead in the third quarter and coasted the rest of the way.

For the game, the Buffaloes had an overwhelming advantage on the ground, piling up 411 yards to just 72 for the Sycamores, now 1-2 and 2-5.

Houston stops Mustangs with five stolen passes

DALLAS (AP) — The Houston Cougars intercepted five Mike Ford passes, one for a touchdown, and rode the running of Emmett King and passing of Danny Davis to a 42-28 victory over Southern Methodist in a Southwest Conference battle Saturday.

King gained 161 yards in 24 carries, including a 32-yard scamper that set up Houston's first touchdown in the first 90 seconds of the game. Fullback Randy Love added 121 yards to the potent Cougar ground game.

Davis scored once from four yards and three touchdown passes of 18 yards to Eric Herring and nine yards to Terald

Clark as the 11th-ranked Cougars jumped to a 21-14 halftime lead.

The victory raised Houston's SWC record to 3-0, tying it with Texas, and 5-1 for the season. SMU fell to 2-1 in conference play and 3-2-1 for the year.

Ford completed 21 of 42 passes for 357 yards, including two touchdowns to Emanuel Tolbert. The first one, for 77 yards, was SMU's longest gainer of the season.

After Davis left with leg cramps late in the third quarter, substitute Delrick Brown picked up the explosive Houston offense where Davis left off. Brown called his own number for a 12-yard touchdown run that gave Houston a 28-21 lead with 50 seconds left in the third quarter, then came back three minutes later to hit tight end Garrett Jurgajis on a five-yard TD pass.

Defensive tackle Leonard Mitchell reached up to snare a Ford pass and lumbered 30 yards for another touchdown to give Houston a 42-21 lead with 10:58 left in the game.

SMU's other scores came on a 12-yard run by Darold Turner and a 34-yard interception return by cornerback Davis Hill, who increased his national leadership in interceptions with seven.

Houston scored all three of its first-half touchdowns after SMU turnovers.

The very international view from the House of Lanvin is very much at home here in Pampa--exclusively at Brown-Freeman

On the Champs Elysees, on the Via Condotti, on Cuyler Street the indisputable fact is, wherever you find cosmopolitan men at the forefront of fashion, you'll see clothing designed by Paris' famed House of Lanvin, themselves at fashion's very foremost position since 1926.

Bernard Lanvin himself explains why: "One of the continuing challenges in designing men's fashions is to exhibit reserve and impeccable taste while taking a line, a silhouette, a detail where it has never been before. Our fabrics, colors and designs are the tools we use to create a certain look of elegance for the man to whom the world is home."

Never has this philosophy been more elegantly brought to fruition than in the current House of Lanvin collection now at Brown-Freeman. We're proud to offer the Lanvin "Living Label" collection, designed by the House of Lanvin, Inc. and tailored in America by Greif and Co., makers of fine men's clothing for 116 years.

To wear it makes a man, quite definitely, a fashion leader.

Pampa ends up on Short end of score

By JOE BLOBAUM
Pampa News Sports Editor

Bobby Short doubled his rushing statistics for the year to lead the Caprock Longhorns to a 21-8 spanking of Pampa in the District 3-AAAA opener for both schools at Harvester Field Friday night.

Short came into the game with just 210 yards to show for 56 carries on the season. Against Pampa, he toted the pigskin 34 times for 229 yards and scored twice to give the Amarillo school a surprisingly comfortable margin of victory against the spluttering Harvesters.

Caprock's defense was supposed to be its strong suit, and the Longhorns were true to form Friday night. Pampa garnered only 61 yards on the ground, mainly because quarterback Rick Dougherty spent most of the evening fleeing (and rarely escaping) from a swarm of Caprock tacklers when he wanted to pass.

Pampa did manage to pick up 82 yards through the air — it should have been more, but Pampa receivers dropped at least five of Dougherty's tosses — but it was an interception by Jeffrey Miller that killed Pampa's last comeback attempt in the game's waning moments.

Caprock scored on its first possession of the game and the first time it had the ball in the second half. The opening drive took the Longhorns from their own 44 to the Pampa end zone in 16 plays.

Winford Hodge kept the drive alive by breaking a tackle on a fourth-and-one situation at the Pampa 19 and quarterback Jerry Dockery did the same on the next series of downs by taking the ball to the 4 on a fourth and three.

From there, Lloyd Monroe burst over his right tackle for a 6-0 Caprock lead with 3:11 left in the quarter. Thomas Jones made it 7-0 with the first of his three extra-point kicks on the night.

That was all the scoring in the first half, due to a circus of turnovers in the second quarter. Hodge started the display by fumbling at his own 42. Kerry Adair recovered, but the Harvesters couldn't move and were forced to punt. Billy Grimes put Pampa back in business seconds later when he covered a Longhorn bobble on the Longhorn 24.

Mike Porter carried twice for eight yards, but fumbled on his third straight attempt and Caprock's Leonard Renteria covered at the 17. Short dashed for 40 yards in two carries, but Adair intercepted a first-down pass to halt the Longhorn drive.

Another Pampa miscue just before halftime kept the Harvesters off the scoreboard in the first half. Starting on their own 33, the Harvesters drove to the Caprock 33 on a roughing the passer penalty and a fine diving catch by Steve McDougall.

Rudy Roland caught his first and last pass of the night, but fumbled after the reception to give Caprock the ball at its own 20.

Caprock's first possession of the second half began on Pampa's 49, and it took the Longhorns just seven plays to reach paydirt. The Harvesters helped them along with a roughing the passer penalty, but it was Short who tore through the right side of Pampa's defense for the final 11 yards and a two-touchdown lead with 4½ minutes gone in the second half.

Pampa took the kickoff and finally got its offense untracked. Mike Porter picked up 11 on a quick pitch, a Daugherty-to-Brent Rogers aerial covered 12 yards and a personal foul helped set the Harvesters up on the Caprock 14.

But the fumble bug struck again, this time taking aim on Daugherty, and Caprock's Richard Baker recovered at the 12.

The Harvesters brought some life back into the game by scoring on a 52-yard, seven-play drive with 4:38 left in the game. A pass interference penalty gave Pampa a first-and-goal on the 1, from where Doug Kennedy plowed over for the score.

Porter outran two defenders to the right corner of the end zone to cut Caprock's lead to 14-8 and the stage was set for a miracle comeback that never came off.

Baker returned the kickoff to Caprock's 36 and Short promptly ripped off a 19-yard run to help destroy Pampa's hopes. The Longhorns were forced to punt with 2:30 left, but Miller's interception at Pampa's 41 sealed the Harvester's fate.

Short quickly added 41 yards to his rushing total, carrying the ball four straight times until he was in the end zone. His biggest gain in the series was a 33 yard-scramper around his right end. That took him to the Pampa 4, and he scored on the next play with 1:01 left to play.

Now 24 on the year, Pampa will try to regain its winning form Friday night against the Tascosa Rebels in Amarillo. The Longhorns will take on Amarillo High Thursday night.

Canadian stuns Boys Ranch

CANADIAN — Junior Randy Schmidt intercepted a screen pass and raced 25 yards for the winning touchdown here Friday night as Canadian stunned Boys Ranch 21-20 to open its District 1-AA schedule.

Ray Lee Price's toe also had a large hand in the Wildcat victory. Price connected on all three of his extra-point boots to account for the one-point difference.

The teams traded scores through the first three quarters in the evenly matched contest and racked up nearly 700 yards total offense between them.

"We ran up and down the field all night," Canadian mentor Charlie Russell said. "It was an offensive game, all right."

Eddie Taylor opened the night's scoring with a 46-yard touchdown scamper in the first quarter, but Price plunged over from the 3 to knot the score at seven entering the second quarter.

Shawn Lightfoot scored the first of his two touchdowns on a one-yard dive to push the Roughriders back on top 14-7, but Wildcat quarterback Dale Schafer returned the favor with a one-yard plunge of his own to forge a 14-all halftime lead.

Lightfoot's second touchdown, this time on a three-yard run, made it 20-14 for the Riders, but Ollie Johnson's extra-point kick was no good. That set the stage for the heroics of Schmidt and Price, and the Canadian duo didn't disappoint the hometown crowd.

Price also garnered the honors as the game's leading rusher, picking up 167 yards on 31 carries. Lightfoot accounted for 153 of Boys Ranch's yards on 23 carries.

Bucks caught in Memphis cyclone

WHITE DEER — Billy Srader's 34-yard field goal gave White Deer an early lead, but that was about all the offense the Bucks could generate here Friday night in a 13-3 District 2-A loss to Memphis.

"We played real good defense," White Deer Coach Mike Purcell said, "but they did too. We couldn't block them at all."

The Bucks wound up with just 74 yards total offense compared to 271 for Memphis, but the Cyclones hurt themselves by losing five fumbles on their veer offense.

"Up until the fourth quarter, we held them to seven first downs," Purcell noted. "We played a good team defensive game, but we couldn't block them."

Memphis drove 60 yards in the waning moments of the first half to take a 7-3 lead into the locker room. The Cyclone march was aided by 30 yards in penalties whistled against the Bucks, and Larry Evans' six-yard reception of Scott Vacca's touchdown pass

Wheeler declaws Tigers

GROOM — The expected cliff-hanger between the Wheeler Mustangs and the Groom Tigers never materialized here Friday as a solid Wheeler defense and two crucial Tiger injuries combined to shut out Groom 28-0.

The win before a crowd of over 2,000 upped the Mustangs season record to 6-0 and extended Wheeler's winning streak to 25, the longest current winning streak in the state. Groom dropped to 5-1 on the season.

Wheeler racked up 246 yards total offense for the game with only two of those coming through the air. Groom rushed for 109 yards and gained 19 yards passing.

All-State halfback Marvin Grimes led the Mustangs, rushing for 160 yards and three touchdowns.

Groom held the Mustangs to only two first downs in the first half, but the loss of Neil Wieberg to a suspected rib or kidney injury and a shoulder injury to Jigger Britten allowed Wheeler to open up in the second half.

"The point of it was their guns were out," said Joe Allen, Wheeler coach. "They lost Wieberg and Britten and that helped quite a bit."

"He (Britten) and Wieberg are their best two passers. They couldn't throw the ball and they couldn't run on us very much."

Russell Roberts, Groom coach, admitted the loss of the Tigers' one-two punch hurt Groom.

"They would have carried the ball 75 percent of the time (according to the game plan)," Roberts said. "Yes, it hurt us."

Before the opening kickoff, officials carefully instructed the game statistician that penetrations and first downs would be used to determine the winner in case the game ended in a tie.

However, the score was tied only until Wheeler's first offensive play from scrimmage, when Grimes romped 59 yards for his first of three touchdown runs.

"That first TD was mine, not the team's," Roberts said. "I called the wrong defense. We had put in a special defense for the game and I ran a basic defense with a stunt instead. We ran that defense one play, and we never ran it again."

Although Groom held a 6-2 edge on first downs in the first half, Wheeler held a 101-80 advantage in total yards gained and a 7-0 lead on the scoreboard.

The "turning point" in the game came early in the third quarter, according to Allen.

Groom had the ball on their own 19-yard line when the Mustangs' Kevin Andis dived in front of Pat Koetting to pick off a pass from Gary White.

Five plays later Grimes carried the ball over the goal line to increase Wheeler's lead.

"Andis made the play of the ballgame," Allen said. "That was the turning point of the game. The point there is that it turned the ball game around and we got some momentum. We made it 14-0 and had some breathing room."

Wheeler's two other touchdowns came in the fourth quarter on a 5-yard run by Grimes and a 3-yard run by Benny Baker.

Although Roberts admitted the Mustangs "shut us down," he said he was proud of his team's effort.

"There are very few coaches who win who can be proud of their teams as I am," Roberts said. "I'm proud to be a coach of the Groom Tigers."

Cowboys respect Philadelphia

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles have a lot of respect from the Dallas Cowboys for a team that has lost seven consecutive games to the Cowboys and never won a game in Texas Stadium.
The defending World Champion Cowboys know they will have to pay in bruises for any scalp they extract from the Eagles Sunday in an important National Conference Eastern Division game.
"They are a hard-nosed team and our players will tell you it's usually our most physical game of the year," said Cowboy special assistant Ernie Allen.

"They worry me," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry.
"The way the Cowboys have been playing worry is justified."
"We are flirting with playoff potential but we just haven't put everything together at the same time," said Landry.
"We've got to start running the ball and get some production from our offensive line."
The Cowboys are 5-2 and trail Washington by a game in the NFC East.
The Eagles, who shocked Washington last week, are 4-3. Coach Dick Vermeil said they are still short of playoff power.

"It would be a thrill but there are just too many areas where we have to improve," he said. "I don't think we are there right now."
The Eagles haven't beaten Dallas since a Monday night game in 1974. They have not won in Dallas since 1965.
"There's some talk that Dallas isn't as good as last year but I believe the Cowboys are every bit as potent as in the past," said Vermeil. "They still have the same people. Of course, everybody plays harder when they play Dallas."
Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach, who has an 11-2 career mark against the Eagles, will establish a club record for career pass attempts on his first aerial against Philadelphia. Staubach and Don Meredith are currently deadlocked at 2,308 attempts.

Wilbert Montgomery, who had a 125-yard rushing day against the Redskins, leads all National Football League rushers and is the catalyst of the Eagle offense.
The Cowboys feel they will have to jump on the Eagles in a hurry because of a strong fourth quarter record.
Philadelphia has outscored opponents 69-20 in the last period.

"I don't know if it's mental, psychological or physical, but we feel we can play longer and harder than most teams," said Vermeil.
The game has a 1 p.m. CDT kickoff and a sellout crowd of 65,000 was assured. Dallas was an eight and one-half point favorite.

Bears surprise Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Baylor quarterback Steve Smith caught Texas A&M napping on the second play of the game for a 78-yard touchdown play to Robert Holt, and freshman Walter Abercrombie raced for 207 yards in his first college game Saturday as winless Baylor shocked the 12th-ranked Aggies 24-6 in a Southwest Conference game Saturday.

It was the second consecutive SWC defeat for the faltering Aggies, who were shelled 33-0 last week by the Houston Cougars. A&M is 4-2 for the season and 1-2 in the SWC, while Baylor is 1-5 and 1-2.

Smith went without a huddle on the second play of the game and flipped the scoring pass to Holt, who had sneaked nearly 10 yards behind the Aggies' secondary. The touchdown gave Baylor a 7-0 lead 29 seconds into the game and the Bears never trailed after that.
Abercrombie came into the game in the second quarter to spark a misfiring Baylor offense which was held to only three first downs in the first half.

With Baylor leading 7-6 at the half after two Tony Franklin field goals, Smith opened the second half by guiding the Bears on a 15-play, 80-yard scoring drive. Abercrombie carried the ball on nine of the plays and Steve Howell capped the march with a one-yard touchdown dive.

Abercrombie then darted 32 yards early in the final period to help set up Fred Maness' 32-yard field goal that gave Baylor a 17-6 lead.

Tennis team bows to Borger

Hereford was late getting here, but the Whitefaces made up for lost time in a hurry with a 9-7 win over Pampa's tennis team Saturday.
Mark Spence was the only member of Pampa's boys team to record a victory as Hereford built its lead with a series of wins in the boys division.
The Harvester girls fared somewhat better, although No. 1 player Kris Douglass lost in three sets. Laura Johnson downed Lisa Blakely 6-4, 4-6, 7-5. Cindy Quattlebaum beat Carla Driskill 6-3, 3-6, 6-4. Kathy Wall topped Lynn Mitts 6-4, 3-6. 6-1 and Janine Van Kluyve rallied to beat Karen Compton 5-7, 6-4, 6-0.

The girls doubles teams of Douglass-Johnson and Kessel-Wall also recorded victories in the shortened dual match.
Lubbock High School,

Pampa's second opponent of the day, arrived long before the Hereford-Pampa match was over and the lateness of the match made the final results unavailable at press time.
Partial results in the Lubbock match had Douglass, Johnson, Susan Lane and Wall recording wins in girls singles matches. Steve Kotara and Kurt Krause won their doubles match in boys competition.

Borger snares title trophy at Amarillo meet

AMARILLO — Amarillo High's Steve Russell beat Gary Ray of Borger in a playoff to determine the individual medalist, but the Bulldog golfers came away with the team title at the Amarillo Boys Invitational Golf Tournament Friday.
Borger carded a team total of 301 strokes to edge the second-place Sandies, who finished at 306. New Mexico Military Institute was third at 314 and Pampa totaled 322 strokes to take fourth place.
Barry Terrell led the Harvester golfers with a 78, but he was the only score under 80. He led the field by two strokes at the turn, but a 43 over the back nine wrecked his chances for the medalist trophy. Paul Beck and James White had 81s for Pampa, while Chad Darce and Mike Warner finished with 82s.
The Harvester B team finished in an eighth-place tie with Tascosa's B squad at 341. Jim Hall shot an 82 to lead the B team, while Bob Phillips had 83 and Gary Cudney and Jeff Hanson took 88s. Bob Brandt's 110 did not count in the team score.
Pampa will host Palo Duro in a dual match Saturday to close out its fall schedule.

Booker bombs McLean

BOOKER — Booker's Kiowas picked up just 249 yards total offense and 13 first downs, but they turned those modest statistics into a fistful of points as they bombed McLean 54-13 here Friday night.
Booker put points on the board just about every way imaginable in the first half to build a 34-0 edge at the intermission.
Adrian Juarez and Mark Bechthold scored on one-yard plunges. Curtiss Huffaker recovered a blocked punt in McLean's end zone. John Sheets took a 24-yard pass from Martin Lemon and Brent Guy ran 15 yards with an intercepted pass to bury the Tigers.

Juarez tallied another touchdown on a three-yard run in the third quarter before Randy Suggs took a 23-yard aerial from Tommy Eck for McLean's first score of the night. But Booker got into the end zone twice more before Steve Ellison ended the night's scoring with a one-yard dive for the Tigers.
The loss dropped McLean to 1-5 on the year and 0-2 in district play. Booker climbed to 3-2 and 2-0 in District 1-B and hosts Groom Friday for its next action. The Tigers will host Texline in a 2 p.m. contest Friday.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE Kennedy

This is the most important political contest we have this fall. The race is not for the Presidency, the U. S. Senate or the U. S. Congress. It doesn't involve many thousands of voters or millions of dollars in campaign expenditures. It does involve honest, dignified and capable administration of local government and an outstanding candidate. This race is for Gray County Judge and the candidate is Carl Kennedy.

Carl Kennedy was born and raised in Pampa; was president of the student body in high school, fullback for the Harvesters and a member of the National Honor Society.

Carl Kennedy graduated from Tech, with a degree in Business Administration, was president of the senior class and is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Carl Kennedy served in the U. S. Air Force and as Captain received the very important experience as Purchasing Officer.

Carl Kennedy has had extensive experience in business and industry as well as administration and has a first hand working knowledge of ranching and farming.

Carl Kennedy married Patricia Reynolds in 1959 and they have 5 children and he is chairman of the board of the Bible Church of Pampa.

When we say this contest is the most important we face we do not diminish the vital choices we will make for national or state offices, but we have to solve our problems at home before we can make any headway in Austin or Washington.

Over the past years Gray County has been fortunate to have many qualified local office holders, representing both major parties. We are able to continue this tradition by having a fine man as a candidate for Gray County Judge.

We have the opportunity to vote FOR rather than AGAINST this Nov. 7th.

"I want to take this opportunity to tell you that I am sincere in my objective to seek the office and serve as Gray County Judge.

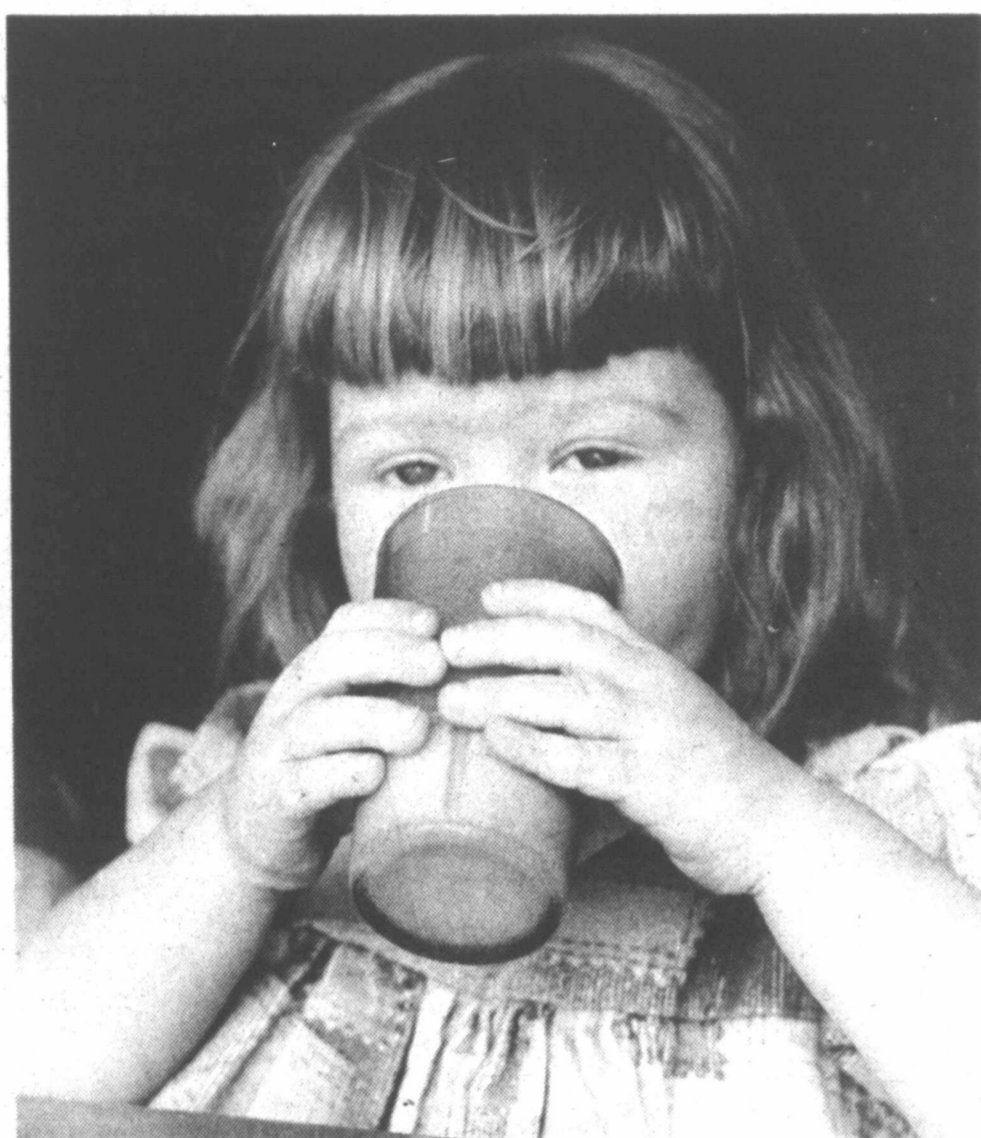

"The knowledge I have gained working in business, industry, and agriculture during the past 23 years assure me that I can fulfill the Administrative responsibilities of the County Judge.

My involvement with family and church, business and social associations provide the confidence that I can properly carry out the Judicial responsibilities of the office."

FOR COUNTY JUDGE Kennedy

Paid for by the Kennedy For County Judge Committee, Buz Tarpley, Treasurer. A copy of our report is filed and is available from the County Clerk's office, Gray County Texas.

United Way It works for you

United Fund. It can't be summed up briefly, because of the variety of meanings it has to so many people.

To the directors it means more than work. It means a chance to provide opportunities to the underprivileged.

To the agencies it means a supplementary source of income.

And to the people of the community it is a chance to give and help those who need it.

There are twelve agencies that will reap the benefits of this year's campaign drive.

The first of these agencies is the Girl Scouts, who are probably most commonly known for girl scout cookies, but in the Pampa area Girl Scouts have come to mean much more than cookies. They attend workshops on arts, crafts, songs and games. Girl Scouts also attend neighborhood leadership training, basic outdoor training and Day camp training.

Helping others, an integral part of the Girl Scout law, is exemplified in the projects the Girl Scouts take on. Some of the projects have been cleaning the cities alleys, working with the elderly, and making tray favors for the hospital.

A second agency involved with the United Way program is the Genesis House.

It began as a temporary shelter for a homeless girl, and through the years has evolved into a type of haven for teenagers.

It opened its doors in 1971 under the sponsorship of the First Presbyterian Church, and within a year the home became a community sponsored project.

In 1975 St. Vincent de Pauls Catholic Church donated the old Catholic rectory and six lots of land to create a home for boys.

A variety of teenagers from a variety of backgrounds come to the Genesis House for aid — and aid they receive.

The Genesis House has received statewide recognition for the work it has done.

The Family Service Center is a third agency receiving benefits from the United Way campaign.

The Family Service Center is designed to help individuals with social or personal adjustment.

The center's services include individual therapy for children, adolescents and adults, psychometrics (testing), group, family and marriage therapy are offered to all age groups as well as individuals of all races, colors, or creeds.

The center provides referral services, and deals with chemical abuse.

The center is funded primarily by Texas Mental Health - Mental Retardation, which provides 79 percent of the center's financing. The other 21 percent comes from United Fund and various service group donations plus private donations.

The center maintains a toll-free telephone number 24 hours a day which can be used by anyone seeking advice or help, the number is 1-800-692-4458.

The Community Day Care Center is also among the agencies aided by the United Way.

The Community Day Care Center is basically an agency that provides a reliable place to watch the children of working parents.

Regardless of whether the mother wants to work or has to work, the child is accepted on what is defined as a sliding income scale. This means children from all income levels are accepted and the fee is based on this scale.

Children accepted range from infants to six years of age.

The center provides a variety of activities for the youth, and all of the staff members are trained in a variety of areas.

The Comprehensive Employment Act pays a large portion of the salaries, but the rest of the income comes from local donations. The money that is provided to the center by United Way is among the donations.

The Salvation Army is also among the recipients of the fund received by the United Way campaign.

It is headed this year by Lt. David Craddock and through the years its' image has changed quite a bit.

It used to be the place to stop to get a free meal but now provides individuals with much more than a free meal.

The Salvation Army's work today has progressed to disaster aid in the event of a tornado, flood, hurricane or some type of community disaster.

They are also prepared to step in and provide disaster funds on special cases.

The Salvation Army in Pampa receives about two thirds of its' income from the United Way campaign funds. With this money food and clothing are provided and boys and girls are trained to be productive citizens.

Because the Salvation Army is a continuing program it will always need an organization such as the United Way to support its services.

The Boy Scouts receive approximately 50 percent of their funding from the United Way fund drive.

Seventeen churches and clubs in Pampa sponsor 23 packs, troops and explorer posts that serve over 800 youth and their families.

Scouting is a program that is designed to build citizenship, character and personal fitness.

A variety of activities are available to the scouts no matter which group they are involved with.

The scouts have helped promote the United Way program this year by placing the United Way posters in a variety of store windows.

The High Plains Epilepsy Association is another one of the twelve United Way organizations.

Epilepsy, which can best be defined as a neurological disorder of the brain and nervous system, effects over two percent of the population. There are 6,800 people in a 25 county area served by the High Plains Epilepsy Association that suffer from the disease.

Among the services provided by the association are the purchase of anticonvulsant medication, physician referrals, payment of doctor and hospital bills, transportation, counseling on an individual and family basis and information and agency referral.

The association also works with those trying to find a job. A variety of services are performed in this area. One is to provide a realistic evaluation of the individuals productive skills.

The Gray County Chapter of the High Plains Epilepsy Association was chartered in 1976 and became a member of the United Way in 1977.

The Pampa Milk Fund is another agency aided by the United Fund.

The Milk Fund receives $2,000 a year from the United Fund for the purchase and distribution of the milk.

Family problems can happen when one least expects them, but they do happen and that is when the Pampa Milk Fund can help. The reason doesn't matter. Perhaps Dad lost his job, maybe Mom lost her health. In cases like this often the children will suffer, and it is those children the Milk Fund hopes to help.

The Red Cross also receives assistance from the United Fund.

The Red Cross is an organization that provides a variety of services, offering something for almost everyone.

A few of these services are swimming lessons, health courses in the school, First-aid and a mother-baby care course.

The Red Cross is also at hand in time of national disaster and emergencies.

For many years the Red Cross performed its own fund raising activities but since it became a member of the United Way program it has been free to work with its many services.

Whatever type of service it is performing it is an agency meeting human needs.

The Southwestern Diabetic Foundation is another United Way organization.

The foundation was organized in 1947 and joined the United Way program in 1968.

The foundation is also known as the Camp Sweeney Diabetic Educational Training Center.

At Camp Sweeney youngsters suffering from diabetes are taught to understand and accept their diabetes, along with being taught how to live with it for the rest of their lives.

One of the goals of Camp Sweeney is to produce a healthy, active, responsible child who can become a well-adjusted worthwhile citizen.

Camp Sweeney is an educational research and training center.

There are two other organizations that will receive funds from the United Way campaign. They are the Gonzales Warm Springs Rehabilitation Council and the United Service Organization.

This year's campaign drive was kicked off on Sept. 27, with a luncheon at the Coronado Inn and will continue through the end of this month.

Chairman of this year's campaign is Vic Raymond, vice president and general manager of Cabot machinery. Raymond is assisted by David Fatheree, chairman of the board of directors. Fatheree is part owner of Fatheree Insurance Agency.

This year's goal is $158,000. Last year's goal was $149,000 and the campaign exceeded that goal.

CHRISTMAS IN OCTOBER

Everyone is invited to attend the "Christmas in October" program to be held tomorrow - October 23 from 10-4 in the Heritage Room - M.K. Brown Auditorium. Admission is $1.00 for adults - 25 cents for students to cover room expense.

The show, tell and sell of Christmas gift ideas will feature demonstrations and exhibits. There will be exhibits by local merchants and women's groups. Demonstrations will feature information on Christmas sewing ideas, gift wrapping, denim ideas and Christmas Napery.

Come join your friends at the Christmas in October program. Demonstrations will be repeated and continued through the noon hour for working girls.

MEAL ON WHEELS
The Pampa Meal on Wheels program is working. Volunteers are delivering meals 5 days per week to approximately 40 patrons. It takes about 45 minutes to deliver meals on one of the five routes daily. If you can spare 45 minutes one day per month call Shirley Kucifer at 665-1461 to help with this worthwhile program.

APPLES, APPLES, APPLES - IT'S THE SEASON
You can count on lots of apples, this fall. That's the word from the USDA that points the second largest crop in 45 years.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service has issued a special Food Alert on apples, to call attention to fall marketings that likely will run 11 percent more than last year. You are invited to share in the abundance. Food wholesalers and retailers have been asked to feature apples in special promotions, as often as they can.

You already have seen and enjoyed a good supply of early apples. Now look for the later varieties - the firmer, better keepers - as they appear in volume at fruit markets across the country. Each variety has its own appeal and special advantages for a wide range of uses. Choose those you like the best, whether for eating out of hand or lending flavor and nutrition to the main course, a salad, a bread, or a dessert.

Four major varieties account for 70 percent of the apples produced this year. They are Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, McIntosh and Rome Beauty. Production of Red Delicious is forecast at 63.3 million boxes, or 36 percent of the total apple supplies. This is a new record for this variety. Golden Delicious production may be down slightly, but still will account for 16 percent of the total. McIntosh apples will account for about 10 percent, and Rome Beauty, about 8 percent. The remaining 30 percent of our supply will include such favorites as Winesap, Newtown, York Imperial, Northern Spy, Stayman and a host of others.

One nice thing about apples is that they thrive in every state of our nation, although only about 35 states have extensive commercial production. Also, apples ship well from one part of the country to another. And, they're good keepers.

The old saw about "An apple a day..." is not sheer myth. Nutritionists point out that apples are important to consumers of all ages, including growing youngsters and dieters. An average - size apple contains 70 to 80 calories. Apple energy is supplied by quickly available fruit sugars, making an apple a natural for a healthy snack. Studies show that children who eat apples, regularly, instead of excessive amounts of candies, pastries and soft drinks during the crucial 6 to 16 year period have markedly fewer dental cavities.

When first coming to work at The News a survey had just been taken as to what people would like to read in the paper. There were quite a few negative comments that it was the "Pampa Band and Choir" paper.

After watching John Woicikowski and the Pampa High Choir in action practicing for South Pacific, the realization came as to what a professional group they are. For the production at M.K. # Hankering for feathered ears?

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK (NEA) - Naturally a turkey looks better on a plate than walking around. When he's standing up, all you see are his baldness, warts and that dieter's nightmare of a throat. Isn't that so?

"In the right hands, a turkey can become pretty splendid," insists Lucille Krasne, half of Krasne Two, a jewelry firm she and her sister, Abbie, run.

Take his feathers, stick them on hat pins, pendants, satin belts, pouch bags — and earrings — like the Krasne sisters do and suddenly he's a different bird.

Suddenly, he's blue-blood like the quail and pheasant whose plumes Ms. Krasne also uses. But he's a lot easier to get hold of than they are and, she says, "The turkey also produces the glamorous marabou."

That's the fluffy stuff at the base of his wing and tail feathers that boas get made of.

Plus which you can dye him red, turquoise, chrome yellow, magenta, or take him the way he comes. Ms. Krasne does both. Not that she actually goes to the trouble of dyeing him. She just goes to New York's "splendid" feather market, buys pound bags of feathers and brings them back to the large apartment on the lower East Side she works out of.

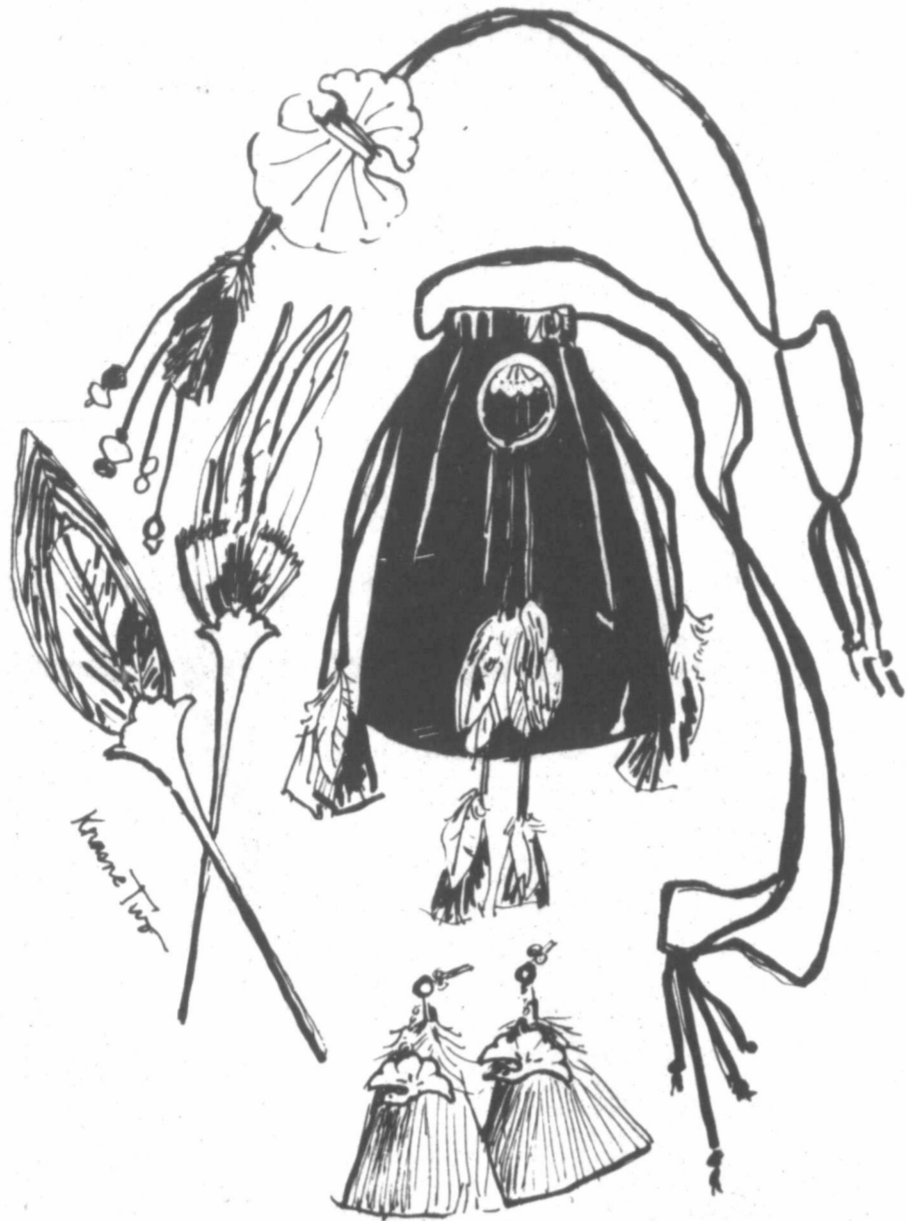

She's been doing that for a few months now, ever since she and her sister decided feathers made fashionable accessories.

"They're a very decorative and exciting material now, when people are self-costuming themselves. So we started doing feather ties, bags and belts."

Then they eyed the ear and gave themselves a headache. "Our feather earrings are the end result of a lot of research and trial and error," she says. "You have to get the right findings — the hardware that holds it all together — so that when you attach a feather to the metal it won't come apart. You have to worry about the glue, how it might harm the feathers; about breakage of ornaments, the width of the wire, will it support the piece."

They ended up fretting themselves into pretty solutions, priced $18-to-20 a pair, some with semi-precious stones or cast brass pieces in the shape of a bird, a fan, a flower; all with a bright or natural feather.

Still, when you get down to it, working with feathers is a nuisance, she says. "There's a lot of waste and selection with them, an enormous amount of throwing out. And a lot of care. They often come smashed down in these pound bags and although they're hardy, some have to be fluffed up again. We do that by holding them over a kettle of steam and then they puff up."

FROM TOP LEFT, clockwise: brass pendant with semi-precious stones and feathers; black leather pouch with brass ornament, feathers (also made with glass stones); earrings with hand-finished brass drops; hair-sweater ornaments with pheasant and rooster feathers, etc.

In fact, taking a bird's eye view of things, "We may never want to do this again," she says. "It takes far too long to assemble a feathered earring. Each one is a little piece of art."

Each is hand assembled — as her other jewelry is — today, by a pretty Peruvian woman named Norika Maldonado who patiently uses a tweezer to pick up the tiny metal loops and studs she then attaches to a feather, a stone, etc. Then she puts them in cellophane bags which travel to boutiques and stores like Joseph Magnin. Which is where you should fly if you've got a hankering to hang a turkey on you. (Ms. Krasne says you can do that no matter what else you're wearing: "Feathered earrings go with a tweedy jacket as well as a ball gown and our hair picks can go through a bulky sweater, if you want.")

Last seen, she was eyeing her bags of feathers the way people eye the ugly old bird they came from when he's not trussed and stuffed. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Ghosts munch on popcorn treats

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Halloween may not be as exciting as it was in great-grandfather's day, when young rakes played such tricks as putting buggies on barn roofs. But the evening is still the time for an eerie — but safe — brand of fun.

Then as now, popcorn was an All-American treat especially suited to Halloween merrymaking.

Have plenty of Halloween popcorn logs or popcorn balls on hand for the neighborhood tykes. You might suggest to the little ghosts and witches that they deliver some of these treats to their favorite oldsters.

HALLOWEEN POPCORN LOGS
3 quarts popped popcorn*
12 candy sticks (about 4 1/2 inches long)
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
Cellophane
Ribbon

Keep popcorn warm in a 300-degree oven while preparing syrup.

In a large saucepan, combine sugar, water, corn syrup, vinegar and salt. Cook to hard ball stage (250 degrees on a candy thermometer). Stir in vanilla.

Pour over popped corn, stirring to coat.

Butter hands. Shape about 1 cup of popped corn around each candy stick to form logs. Let stand until cool. Wrap each log in clear or colored cellophane or any bright paper. Secure each end with ribbon. Makes 12 logs.

One ounce (2 tablespoons) of unpopped popcorn kernels makes about 1 quart of popped corn.

GOLDEN POPCORN BALLS
1 cup white grape jelly
1 cup water
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 quarts popped popcorn (about 2 1/2 cups unpopped)

In a large saucepan, combine jelly, water, sugar and vinegar. Bring to a boil. Cook to hard ball stage (250 degrees on a candy thermometer).

Place popcorn in a large buttered bowl. Remove syrup from heat. Stir in vanilla. Slowly pour syrup evenly over popcorn. Stir with a buttered spoon until popcorn is completely coated. Cool slightly.

With buttered hands, shape mixture into 2 1/2-inch balls, pressing firmly. Cool until hard. Makes 24 2 1/2-inch balls.

POPCORN logs and balls are part of Halloween hauntings.

Soups make tetrazzini simple

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Chicken tetrazzini — rich with egg noodles, cheeses and almonds — is a very special casserole. But it is not hard to make if you use cream soups to meld ingredients.

Serve with a hearty green salad and baked apples for dessert.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI
1 whole broiler-fryer chicken
4 cups water
1 small onion, sliced
3 celery tops
1 sprig parsley
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 package (10 ounces) medium egg noodles

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained

1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup sliced ripe olives
1 cup cubed pasteurized process American cheese spread
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 cup sliced almonds

Place chicken in a deep saucepan. Add water, onion, celery, parsley, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil. Cover tightly. Reduce heat and simmer about 1 hour, or until fork can be inserted with ease. Remove from heat.

Strain broth and reserve. Refrigerate chicken and broth at once. When chicken is cool, remove meat from skin and bones. Cut meat into chunks.

In a large saucepan, heat to boiling reserved chicken broth plus water to make 3 quarts. Add noodles. Cook according to package directions. Drain.

In a large frying pan, melt butter or margarine. Add onion, green pepper and mushrooms. Saute until vegetables are tender. Stir in soups, milk and olives. Heat through.

Stir in pasteurized process American cheese. Add diced chicken and drained noodles. Transfer mixture to baking dish. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes, topping with almonds during last 10 minutes of baking. Makes 8 servings.

Recipe may be divided before baking into two smaller casseroles, one for immediate use and one to be frozen for use within 3 months. To use frozen casserole, remove from freezer and place in refrigerator overnight. Then bake as directed. Bake smaller casseroles only 30 minutes. Each casserole makes 4 servings.

Tailgate lunch

AP Newfeatures Writer
With Fall here and the football season in full swing, the time has come again for one of America's most enjoyable customs: the tailgate lunch.

If planned right, that hour before kickoff time when you whet your appetite with a Bloody Mary or glass of white wine, then pitch into a hearty spread, can be the high point of the day.

If the day you have chosen turns out to be brisk, try this recipe for beef-eggplant casserole laced with bourbon that should sustain you through the game.

1 eggplant, medium size, peeled and sliced
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 pound ground beef
1 medium onion, chopped
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
2 teaspoons rosemary

1 teaspoon oregano
1 ounce butter
2 ounces chopped ripe olives
1/2 pound mozzarella cheese, sliced
2 cups beefstock
1 tablespoon prepared mustard

2 teaspoons seasoning salt
1/2 cup bourbon whiskey
Saute eggplant in oil and set aside. Saute meat, onion, garlic powder and herbs in butter. Place layers of eggplant, meat cheese and chopped olives in greased casserole. In saucepan bring to boil stock, mustard, salt. Pour half hot stock plus bourbon over casserole contents. Cover casserole and bake in 375-degree oven 45 minutes. Remove cover and bake another 15 minutes, using remaining stock to keep moist. Remove from oven and if you're ready to go, wrap casserole in aluminum foil and pack in insulated bag. Serves 4.

Tomato Apple Pie Coffee
MRS. CARPENTER'S
TOMATO APPLE PIE
As made in Oklahoma and brought to South Carolina.

1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup firmly packed light or dark brown sugar 2 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon cinnamon
Dash of nutmeg
Pastry for a 2-crust 9-inch pie

6 to 8 tart green apples (pared, cored and thinly sliced to make 5 to 6 cups)

2 medium-size green tomatoes (skinned and very thinly sliced)
Juice of 1/2 of a lemon
2 tablespoons butter
Milk

Stir together the sugars, flour, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Roll out half the pastry and line a 9-inch pan with it; sprinkle the bottom with 1 tablespoon of the sugar mixture. Layer with 1/3rd of the apples, 1/2 of the tomatoes and 1/2 of the remaining sugar mixture; repeat layers. Top with the remaining apples; sprinkle with the lemon juice and dot with the butter. Roll out remaining pastry for the top crust; seal well; brush with milk; sprinkle lightly with extra granulated sugar; cut slits near center in top pastry. Bake in a preheated 450-degree oven for 10 minutes; continue baking at 350 degrees until top is richly browned and filling bubbles through slits — about 45 minutes more.

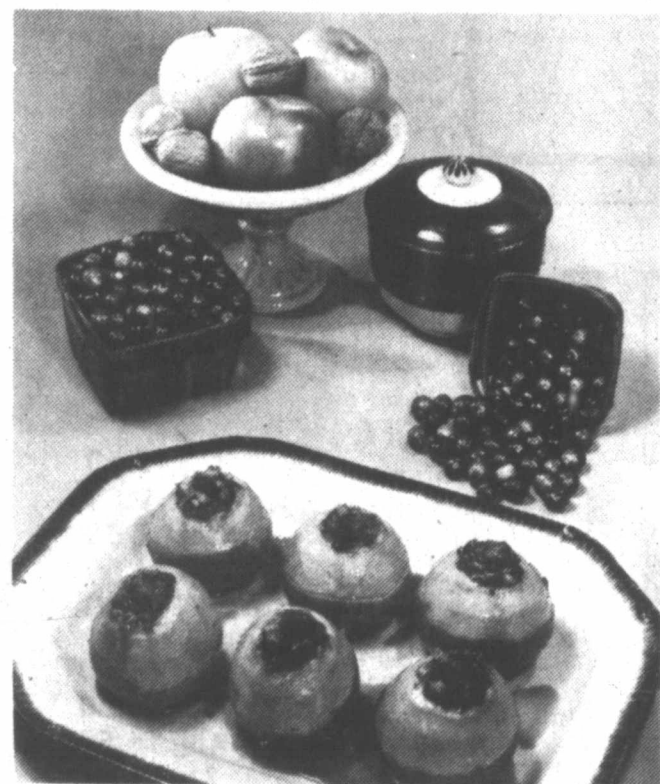

species and sold them via mail. When I saw "Russets" on their list, I sent for some because years ago in Canada they were relished by my family. But the Russets I received didn't belong to the clan we had known — they weren't at all delectable! — C.B.

CRANBERRY APPLES
6 medium baking apples
1 tablespoon lemon juice
mixed with 1 tablespoon water
2 tablespoons butter, soft
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup fresh cranberries, coarsely chopped
1/4 cup chopped walnuts, if desired

Core the apples but not all the way through to the blossom end. Starting from the stem end, pare each one-third of the way down. Brush the lemon juice mixture over the cut surface of the apples to prevent discoloration. With a spoon, beat together the butter and sugar; mix in the cranberries and walnuts. Stuff the apple cavities with the mixture; dot the tops with a little extra butter. Place in a shallow baking dish (11 1/4 by 7 1/2 by 1 3/4 inches). Pour 1/2 cup water around the apples. Bake, uncovered, in a 350-degree oven until tender when pierced with a fork — about 1 hour. Spoon the juice in the bottom of the dish over the apples. Good served warm. Makes 6 servings.

AUTUMN HARVEST - Apples baked with fresh cranberries.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
DEAR CECILY: I know that Rome Beauties are touted as THE apple for baking, but I find them tasteless and so did my mother. She used the apples from a tree behind our house, but we never knew their name. Which variety do you prefer? — NEW COOK.

DEAR NEW COOK: Rome Beauties keep their shape well during baking, but I agree with you — that's about the most you can say for them. When I first came to New York, some restaurants made a practice of showing baked Rome Beauties in their windows. The apples were enormous and were glazed in a mouth-watering way. But how disappointed I was when I tasted them!

On the other hand, many cooks would say that an apple I like in some cooked dishes and for baking, the Yellow Delicious, is insipid. However, I enjoy their delicate flavor and they do keep their shape. I also like McIntosh apples baked, just because they "mush up."

Many apple fanciers vote for Staymans, Cortlands and York Imperial for baking. About that apple tree behind your house, I regret to say that a variety of apples one loved in childhood, garnered now, can be disappointing. Some years ago I heard about an experimental farm in Massachusetts that grew old-fashioned

by Charlie's

A BRIDGE OVER TROUBLED WATERS may not seem to have much to do with home decor... but it does lead us to the thought of bridge and its popularity, along with other games... and the troubled decorating waters that often result.

If cards, bridge or other games are not part of your living pattern, then you have no problem here. But if they are, there's a good chance that this is a neglected area of your home furnishing plans.

When you play games, from poker to bridge to Scrabble, frequently, either in the family or with friends, you'll find these evenings are much happier when you have a special setting for them, not just a table you fold up and stick in a closet somewhere, then drag out and set up while someone looks for enough chairs.

A handsome game table can be an effective focal point for a family room or an area of the living room. Make sure the chairs are comfortable for long sessions, and the table large enough for your usual group.

The moral is: keep your way of life and habits at the front of your mind when planning your furnishings. And whatever your needs, you'll find that we can help... with advice and with the fine furnishings made by famous manufacturers that you'll own and use with pride.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I went to a doctor who specializes in fast weight loss. He took a special interest in me and said it wouldn't do me any good to take off weight unless I kept it off, and in order to do that we would have to find out why I was overeating, and deal with that problem.

Well, he asked me a lot of questions about my personal life, and I told him the truth. Then he told me that I was using food to compensate for sex—which I've had practically none of. I am 24, unmarried and never had a steady boyfriend, but I have had three or four sex experiences which I thought would get me a boyfriend, but never did.

This doctor said he would be glad to make up for the deficiency of sex in my life if I would take his last appointment every day. He said flat out that this has nothing to do with romance, it was purely part of the treatment, but he wouldn't charge me for it.

I am not all that excited about sex, but I would like to lose about 50 pounds. What should I do?

FAT IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR FAT: Decline his offer and report him to the ethics committee of the county medical association. It appears that your doctor has a problem which he hopes to solve by using YOU.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 59-year-old man and was a pretty good welterweight boxer in my younger days.

The place where I work has about 70 employees—men and women—and when you retire, they give you a big dinner and a gift. Then you have to give a little farewell speech.

I am only a common laborer and I'm not used to making speeches. Not only that, I'm afraid I might cry.

I considered getting drunk that night, but then I might really have a crying jag. Or maybe the best idea would be to just say I was sick and skip the whole thing. But at times I think I really would like to go through with the party and be honored.

I've got three years to prepare myself. What should I do?

ASHAMED IN TACOMA

DEAR ASHAMED: When your day comes, by all means, go! And don't worry about crying. If you shed a few sentimental tears—so what? Expressing honest emotions is nothing to be ashamed of. And as for the speech, bear in mind this simple formula: Be sincere. Be brief. And be seated.

DEAR ABBY: I noticed a letter in your column from LEARNED MY LESSON, which dealt with VD and its consequences if untreated.

I am the mother of a fine son who was the last person in the world one would suspect of having VD—an honor student, outstanding athlete and popular kid. But he had it—when he was 16. I regret to say that he didn't come to his father or me when he suspected something was wrong. Instead he went to our family physician who treated him without our knowledge or consent. We learned about it years later when our son told us.

Abby, in my view, a doctor has no business treating a minor for anything without informing the parents, regardless of what the law says. I think parents have the right to know what is going on in the lives of their children, and if the law states that children can be treated for VD without the knowledge or consent of their parents, then the law should be changed!

If you have the courage to print this, please don't use my name.

CALIFORNIAN

DEAR CALIFORNIAN: Ideally, all children should confide in their parents, but, unfortunately, many do not. I shudder to think of how many minors with VD would go untreated if they had to tell their parents.

Ask Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently, I read an article about roughage and fiber in the diet. The author claims that most of the so-called civilized world was a constipated civilization due to low fiber eating habits and that most of the so-called uncivilized nations are not constipated for the opposite reasons. The only food mentioned in the article was bran. Can you name several foods that include roughage or fiber?

DEAR READER — In the first place, the article you quoted is at least partially correct. It is true that the bulk in the diet of many less industrialized societies seems to improve colon function.

The colon is a long, muscular tube and, if there is adequate bulk in the colon, it can contract a modest amount in a rhythmic fashion to move along the food residue. If there is not enough bulk in the food residue, then the muscular tube over-contracts, resulting in cramps or spasms which lead to spastic colon, constipation and complications.

One of the best bulk formers is bran, coming from the cereal group, because it swells and retains moisture. This way, the food residue is kept moist as well as providing adequate bulk.

Most of the raw vegetables contain bulk. Lettuce, carrots, the kinds of food you normally think of for salads, all contain bulk. So does the wonderful apple, and there is some truth to the old saying that, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away."

The fibrous apple is slowly digested by the stomach, which means that its carbohydrate is slowly absorbed into the blood stream, and this provides for a smooth, relatively constant level for the blood sugar rather than the up and down peaks that you get from eating concentrated sweets such as sugar, or honey for that matter.

Most of the raw fruits and vegetables, then, provide fiber as do most of the entire cereal group. You want to avoid the processed foods, particularly processed cereals. The classic example here is white flour in which all the bran has been removed to make it white. That means the bulk is gone and you don't get the bulk action that you would in the natural bran if you were eating whole wheat flour.

The person who includes adequate whole cereals in his diet, plenty of fresh raw vegetables and fresh raw fruits will be getting quite a bit of fiber in his diet. The foods in your diet that don't provide any fiber at all are, principally, the refined carbohydrates such as sugars, jellies, jams, honey and the processed starch, specifically white flour. Of course, the products such as candies, cakes and desserts made from these also lack fiber.

The answer to bowel problems, or constipation, is not solely limited to the intake of fiber. There is more to it than that, although fiber or bulk is an important consideration.

To give you more information about this I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Spastic or Irritable Colon and Constipation. It will provide you with additional information. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — Always wash off the top of a can before opening it. Sometimes the lids fall into the opened cans and any dirt and dust on them go into the food. When opening frozen juice cans rinse the inside of the lid with a bit of water as lots of the juice clings to the top. Swish out the bottom of your laundry detergent container because granules always cling to the bottom of such boxes.

Never forget the cooling and soothing value of corn starch. Mix a little in your dusting powder, especially during the hot months. — MRS. A.V.A.

DEAR POLLY — When transferring eggs from the carton to the refrigerator moisten the fingertips to prevent an egg slipping out of your hand. — LINDA M.

Model representation

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK (NEA) — "I'd leave it for a divine man, I promise you I would."

Nina Blanchard means the multi-million dollar West Coast modeling agency she spent 17 years building. And the six agents, 150 models and sprinkling of actresses and stunt people who comprise it.

She'd probably hold onto her new six-bedroom house, but not because it's a refuge from aggravation and tension.

"At the end of the day I think I'm losing my mind and I lie awake at night. For one thing, I can't stand the staff problems: this one's not doing her job and doesn't get along with that one."

"But the hardest problem is the new talent wanting representation. We average 200 calls a day, and they make me crazy," says the pretty, fair woman who discovered a 17-year-old named Cheryl Tiegs and represented her until Tiegs signed with ABC.

"Every Wednesday we have an open call for qualified girls," she continues. "Last week a girl walked in who was 5-foot-7, weighed 175 pounds and lied about it on the phone. I said 'What are you here for?' I'm finally beginning to lose my temper; the patience I lost a long time ago. 'Can I be a model?' she said. And I said 'Are you aware you're fat?' She said 'Yes, but I want your opinion' and I said, 'You're too fat. Lose weight and get out of my office.'"

Compound that with the lovelies she does represent, whose lives overrun hers because "that's the nature of the business," and wonder why she has high blood pressure.

"They're impossible because they're fragile, emotionally needy people who don't really believe in themselves, and you have to understand that," she says.

"Money, success, love they never get enough and those needs have to be fed." So she feeds them. She gets up at six to take in the model crying at the door over a lover's fight. She holds the hand of the one who needs an abortion or who's too fat or whose career is slipping.

"All these personalities are at you all the time, plus the photographers if they don't show up on time. Two of my employees actually won settlements with my insurance company for nervous breakdowns. It's that kind of rotten job," she says, smiling.

And she executes it in Hollywood, the neurotic wishing well she grew up in and where she doesn't really fit because, for one thing, she won't tolerate drugs. "I'm very hostile about them. I leave a party when grass or coke comes out so I don't go to many parties. And I tell models who stay with me two things: close the patio door when you go out and don't bring drugs in."

But worse, yet, is the occasional man her age who, she says, "pretends a sexual interest in me and really wants to meet the models." Why not get out, then? "I don't know what else to do," she answers.

NINA BLANCHARD: "Two of my employees actually won settlements with my insurance company for nervous breakdowns. It's that kind of rotten job."

reer is slipping.

"All these personalities are at you all the time, plus the photographers if they don't show up on time. Two of my employees actually won settlements with my insurance company for nervous breakdowns. It's that kind of rotten job," she says, smiling.

And she executes it in Hollywood, the neurotic wishing well she grew up in and where she doesn't really fit because, for one thing, she won't tolerate drugs. "I'm very hostile about them. I leave a party when grass or coke comes out so I don't go to many parties. And I tell models who stay with me two things: close the patio door when you go out and don't bring drugs in."

But worse, yet, is the occasional man her age who, she says, "pretends a sexual interest in me and really wants to meet the models." Why not get out, then? "I don't know what else to do," she answers.

she was still at NBC, bored but earning $35,000 a year in make-up and trying not to watch her husband kill himself.

"At the height of his success, he became addicted to drugs. He finally died of them, and the last three years, before our divorce, he didn't leave the house."

They were in California then and life was the usual ugly drug story, she says — selling cars, borrowing money, losing friends. She went to work for a charm school as a receptionist for $75 a week because, "I wouldn't work in makeup. Women in California did the dreadful jobs like body makeup."

Then she went bankrupt running a franchised charm school because she wouldn't exploit the losers who enrolled. At last, a friend said, you know makeup, you have an eye for talent, why not be a model's agent? So she borrowed office space and $300 and, until super-model Dolores Hawkins sought her services, ran out all day to move the car before the finance company did.

Now, 17 years later, under different but equally intense pressures, she says, "I don't know if I enjoy what I'm doing or not. It took a long time to dig my way out of the debts from my marriage and I'm just beginning to believe my success."

So she probably won't give it up, even for a man who can make her laugh. But she is giving wise counsel and solid information in her new book, "How to Break into Motion Pictures, Television, Commercials and Modeling." (Doubleday).

To be read by all lovely hopefuls who need a jolt about the business, but will probably pursue it anyway. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Besides, there are rewards: finding that face before the others — like Tiegs' — and watching it succeed, like Christina Ferrare and Erin Gray, two current top clients.

And she's no longer jealous of them as she was in the beginning, as any woman would be who grew up feeling "grotesquely ugly" alongside two prettier sisters, in a home where it was either "no money and they shut off the lights or three servants and boarding school depending on which husband mother had."

There were five, plus lots of lovers, she recalls.

Later on, friends at the studios got her a screen test and she made a couple of movies. "Then a director friend said, you have a nice figure but a long nose. Go to New York, get on the stage and let them bring you back as a star. Otherwise, you'll have to do it on your back."

So she came to New York, failed at acting, starved some, went to Columbia School of Journalism and tried writing, and finally lied her way into a job in make-up at NBC-TV. "I said I'd worked in the studios in L.A."

A month later, she married a TV director. Nine years after that, in the '50s,

Wood-Jenkins vows

Karen Kay Wood and David Lee Jenkins exchanged wedding vows at 7 p.m. Oct. 6, at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints with Bishop L.B. Voyles officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wood of Amarillo. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlin Jenkins of 333 Perry.

Music for the wedding was played by pianist Doris Goad. Neil and Jerilyn Brooks sang "The Twelfth of Never."

Attending the bride were: Judy Hausen, matron of honor; Ruth Wood sister of the bride was a bridesmaid; and Kathy Cloud attended the guest book.

The bride wore a formal wedding gown of organza applied with Alencon lace. It was fashioned with a high banded neckline and long lace sleeves. The skirt flowed from the empire waistline to a chapel length train in the back. The veil was a waltz length illusion edged with Cluny lace.

The reception was at the church.

The couple will make their new home in Amarillo.

The bride graduated from Pampa High School and attended West Texas University and Amarillo College. She is now employed with General Office Supply in Amarillo.

The groom graduated from Pampa High School and is employed by Zenith Drilling Company.

At Wit's End

By ERMA BOMBECK

Have you any idea what fear was rated No. 1 in a recent survey among adults?

Speaking before a group. How do the professionals handle it?

Demand a podium capable of supporting a dead body (yours) up to 187 pounds. Throw yourself over it, being sure to hook your arm over the microphone so you won't slip away.

Adhere to the oldwife's tale. "Feed a cold crowd, starve a speaker." It cuts down on spitting up.

Insist on a table near the restroom. For some unexplained reason, speakers have a kidney wish.

Never read a speech. Use note cards which serve a double purpose. You can rearrange them to fit your audience and in the event the person who introduces you uses the jokes on your first eight cards, use the sharp cutting edges on your wrists.

Believe me. I know what you are going through. A couple of years ago, my son brought home a mimeographed memo from school announcing that the principal was having 12 parents in at a time to "engage in dialogue about the future of the school."

At the beginning of the meeting, he announced that before the session was over he wanted to hear from EVERYONE. If they didn't volunteer, he'd call on them. One by one, I watched them get it over with. Questions on what the administration was doing to raise standards of education, could he please interpret the test scores in relation to those given the previous year. did he feel that schools were becoming isolated or were they addressing themselves to alternatives, such as technical or vocational classes.

As a professional speaker, I waited until he called upon me. Then I casually poked myself in the eye with a green felt-tipped pen and stood up to reveal the back of my dress which was super-bonded to my body. I opened my mouth to discover my tongue had dried up, causing my lip to shrink. I cleared my throat, folded my arms over my chest (the green ink would never wash out) and asked, "Yes, do the nuns really shave their heads?"

SOUND COUNTRY

1978 marks Kraft's tenth anniversary as sponsor of the annual Country Music Awards show and the corporation commemorated the event with a multi-media blitz that garnered for this year's broadcast the largest audience in the show's 12-year history.

The show was broadcast live from Nashville to living rooms throughout the United States on Oct. 9 on CBS-TV. For the first time it was also carried live to an estimated three-million Canadian viewers through the 42 participating stations of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. In still another first, a radio simulcast of the show was aired in its entirety by more than 50 country music stations throughout the U.S.

Another facet of Kraft's multi-media effort was the release of a record album entitled "Award Winners of the Country Music Association, 1968-1977." The album features songs by performers who have won the CMA's top honors in the period.

An insert featuring a selection of the best recipes from the Kraft Kitchens, 1968-1977, is included as a premium with each album.

Battlestar Gallactica may be familiar

By David Handler

If ABC's biggest fall premiere seems familiar it's because you've seen it before. Battlestar Gallactica is a rag-tag band of pioneers crossing a vast expanse in search of a place to start over. It even has Lorne Greene, who wears the brand of 14 seasons of Bonanza on his forehead, in the role of judicious wagon master.

Instead of Indians and stagecoach robbers Gallactica gives us Cylons, shiny chrome robots that can be wiped out by the hand-held lasers our heroes brandish like Colt 45s. Since Cylons aren't really people they don't bleed and they don't, in fact, die — very important since we're officially down on violence these days.

REVIEW

Instead of chases and showdowns there are intergalactic fighter planes swooshing across the solar system, blowing each other out of the sky. Yes, the special effects are delightful. I might be missing the total experience by watching this show on a nine-inch black and white set, but the effects are a welcome change of pace after five seasons of being hemmed-in by live audience sitcoms.

Unfortunately Battlestar Gallactica crashes when it goes indoors and tries to be something more than a showcase for those effects. Unlike Star Wars, Gallactica commits the cardinal sin of taking itself very seriously. The spirit of fun is gone. In its place is ponderous allegory, poorly played and politically reprehensible.

It gets off on the wrong foot by tossing a batch of solemn Biblical and astrological mumbo-jumbo around and then just leaving it there for us to mull over. There are these 12 colonies of man, you see, named for the signs of the zodiac. At the beginning of the show they're wiped out by the Cylons. The few survivors set off in search of the last 13th colony of legend, which according to ancient lore, settled in a faraway place called ... Earth (wow!).

Their leader is Colonel Adama (get it?), whom Greene plays as if this were a Charleton Heston toga epic. Admittedly, the script is no help — he can't ask for a glass of water without first saying "Let the word go forth ..."

Gallactica further dares to draw an obvious parallel to post-Vietnam world politics and to oversimplify it with comic strip thinking. Make no mistake about it, the Cylons — bent on the destruction of free men everywhere — represent the Russians. In the three-hour pilot Uri (Ray Milland), a legislator painted as a greedy pig choking on his own corruption, argues that man lived peacefully with the Cylons until he interfered with them. Uri recommends conciliation and negotiation: "If we mind our own business there's every reason to believe the Cylons will leave us alone."

Adama disagrees vehemently: "We came into conflict because we helped our neighbors to free themselves from enslavement." Adama, the man of action, further argues that any attempt to negotiate with these totalitarian bullies is a waste of time. "To them freedom is an alien way of existing," he intones. "They will never accept it." Adama is proven right — talk is cheap, the only way to deal with Cylons is to blast them.

Yes, Gallactica has the right to speak its mind. But I think this sort of Red Menace propaganda is wrong, especially in a show targeted for teen-agers. The issues are a tad more complex than that.

Structurally, Gallactica's elements of action, story and character business just don't mesh. Suddenly the heavy rhetoric grinds to a halt and we're on The Loveboat. Adama's warrior son Apollo (Richard Hatch), spends his free time with a little boy whose doggie got killed. Apollo arranges for the tot to get an insipid robot canine (at least it doesn't have to be taken for walks) and meanwhile romances the kid's sexy mom. Ace fighter pilot Starbuck (Dirk Benedict) is a gambler and a womanizer who's continually getting himself caught in these zany love triangles (see Three's Company).

If that's not bad enough, both Hatch and Benedict are intertable Malibu Beach stiffs.

The special effects will bring us back to Gallactica for a few weeks but this show won't survive over the long haul unless it jettisons the pretension.

WKRP - no laughs

By David Handler

It might take politicians five years to catch up with the mood of the nation, but it takes television 10.

Witness "WKRP in Cincinnati," an outing which perispires with up-to-the-minute zaniness but never manages to rise above low-hum generation gap comedy. Yes, it's the straights vs. the hipsters all over again. Welcome back to the '60s, hold the mace, please.

WKRP is a sleepy, Muzak radio station headed by a balding conservative who likes to be called the Big Guy. "I'm in charge here," claims Big Guy, "but sometimes Mama scares me a little."

The DJs are relics like Johnny Caravello, jettisoned from the big time years ago for employing the word "booger" on the air. The newsman is a pint-size nerd in a bow tie who has no sense of humor. The sales manager is a slimy creep who's always making passes at the Big Guy's secretary, who's so well-equipped that she can knock your eyeglasses across the room without taking a deep breath.

Enter Andy, the new-breed programming manager. He's a good ol' boy, just a heap o' fun, but he has this cub-ra-zy idea he wants to make WKRP a rock 'n' roll station. No way, says Big Guy, until he finds out there's tons of you-know-what to be made off that noise.

So WKRP switches over. Only you wouldn't know it unless someone sneaked you the info. Caravello still doesn't know what town he's in. The newsman still does his eyewitness weather ("I go outside and witness the weather"). The salesman still tries to win over the secretary, who still parades around in dresses that look painted on.

In short, nothing happens. WKRP is not, repeat not, the funniest station in the nation. It can't be — its characters do exactly what you expect them to do. Furthermore, everybody likes each other and gets along. No tension. No laughs. Not a one.

Dick Van Dyke shown in new light

By Dick Kleiner

ROSLYN, Wash. (NEA) — Making a movie, for some four months, in this tiny central Washington town has turned the entire crew into celebrities. Even the grips and the electricians are asked to sign autographs by the locals.

It's also made everybody in the company shooting "The Runner Stumbles" a little stir-crazy. When you even know the names of all the dogs "Hello, Maynard," said Dick Van Dyke to an aging German shepherd who ambled by — it's time to leave.

Maureen Stapleton grabbed me, a fresh face, sat me down and said, hungrily, "Let's play sit-down charades," and we played sit-down charades. Kathleen Quinlan, the exciting young talent who made "I Never Promised You a Rose Garden" so vital, sits in her costume — a nun's habit — with a pink baseball cap atop her wimple, reading "Death and Dying."

The book has nothing to do with the picture, she says. "I'm reading it to try and keep my soul together." "The Runner Stumbles," based on a play by Milan Stitt, is being directed by the old master, Stanley Kramer. It's a drama, based on a true story, about a murder in a Catholic church and a romance between a priest and a nun.

Kramer now lives in Seattle, Wash., and says he decided he wanted to make a film in his new home state. The property lent itself to this locale, particularly when Kramer's location scouts it. Roslyn is a small town that had been a coal mining center in the early years of this century. The coal ran out in the '20s, and Roslyn died. It looks, today, just as it did in the mid-'20s, that makes it ideal for this film.

Van Dyke has a deadly serious role as the priest. Kramer says he had never met the comedian, "but I had always felt there was something more than comedy behind his facade."

"He projects a pleasant man, a comedian," Kramer says, "but underneath you can sense there's so much going on."

So he met with Van Dyke and discussed the production and the part. At first, Van Dyke says, he felt Kramer must be a crazy man to offer him such a part. But he thought that if the director wanted him, he was willing to go along.

Now it has become a mutual love affair. Kramer calls Van Dyke "the most exciting performer I've directed since Brando." And Van Dyke says he'll do anything for Kramer — "If he wants me to do the phone book, I'll do the phone book."

For Kathleen Quinlan, this is only the second part she has accepted since "Rose Garden." The other was a picture, "The Promise," she is excited about, as she is about "The Runner Stumbles." She says "Rose Garden" has enabled her to pick and choose; she gets many scripts submitted, but finds few she likes. "I want parts that give me a change," she says. "After playing a nun in this, I'd like to play something totally different, maybe a hooker."

Ever the serious actress, when she accepted the role of a nun she researched the part carefully. She went to a Catholic retreat in Milwaukee and she says she had modeled the character she's playing in the film, Sister Rita, after a certain Sister Helena she met at the retreat.

She says the nun's habit — since this is set in the '20s, it is long before the nuns modernized their habits — is a very uncomfortable costume to wear. "The cof and wimple are very uncomfortable," she says. "It is so itchy and I can't reach my ears. I love to scratch my ear."

Milan Stitt, who wrote the play and was persuaded by Kramer to write the screenplay, says the play had a disastrous exposure in Dublin. It was done there by the famed Abbey Theater, but, because of its religious theme, ran into problems. "The Catholics in Dublin wouldn't go," Stitt says, "because it was written by a Protestant. And the Protestants wouldn't go because it was about Catholics. My problem was that there just weren't enough Jews and

VIRGIL FOX, THE MOST CELEBRATED ORGANIST IN THE WORLD TODAY

VIRGIL FOX CONCERT

FRIDAY — NOVEMBER 24, 1978 — 8 PM
AMARILLO CIVIC CENTER AUDITORIUM

Virgil Fox recently had the Allen Organ Co. build a touring organ to his specifications. The organ, 4 tour-municipal console with more than 150 stops and more than 300 miscellaneous controls ... also has 2800 watts of power and 600 speakers. The largest audio system Allen has yet created for a single organ.

Playing to unbelieving "sold-out, standing room only" crowds ... some shouting "bravo," "fantastic," and others yelling "right on" ... A Virgil Fox performance is one you'll never forget.

TICKETS ARE RESERVED SEATS ONLY—PRICED AT $5.00 — $6.00 — $7.00

National briefs

HONOLULU (AP) — Monthly homeowner costs here are higher than in any mainland city and almost double the national average, according to a published report.

The Honolulu Advertiser said Thursday the typical Honolulu homebuyer in 1977 faced monthly costs of $759. The U.S. League of Savings Associations said Wednesday the mainland average was $400.

The Honolulu costs include $116 for mortgage, $57 for real estate taxes, $51 for utilities, $15 for hazard insurance and $20 for lease rent, the newspaper said. Many single-family homes on Oahu are on leased land and cost an average of $132,000 in September, says the Honolulu Board of Realtors.

CORINNE, Utah (AP) — With an ear-splitting roar, more than a million pounds of solid rocket propellant sent a white-hot flame 400 yards up a sagebrush-covered hillside as the prototype motor for America's space shuttle program passed a critical test.

The motor, described as the standard workhorse for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's shuttle series, fired for 2.03 minutes Thursday. The blast from the 149-foot motor assembly, anchored to a 20 million pound block of concrete, burned nearby vegetation down to bedrock.

WARSAW, N.D. (AP) — An electrical short circuit was blamed for a fire that caused an estimated $250,000 damage to St. Stanislaus Catholic Church, which was built in 1900.

Walsh County Sheriff Ernie Shouls said a short circuit in a junction box sparked the blaze Thursday in the 1,200-seat church. The fire originated in a basement storage room and burned a 20-foot hole in the main floor, said the Rev. Frank Ringwelski of neighboring Oslo, Minn. A spokesman said a Mass scheduled Monday in honor of Pope John Paul II will now be celebrated in the Warsaw community hall.

DOVER, Del. (AP) — An Air Force Reserve unit is searching for an apparently rare copy of "Shoo Shoo Baby," an Andrews Sisters record after which an equally rare World War II B-17 bomber was named.

The "Shoo Shoo Baby" plane is being restored here for eventual display at the Air Force Museum in Ohio. Except for the "Memphis Bell" in Memphis, it is the only B-17 known to be still in existence out of 8,000 that flew in World War II. Wesley Bell of Dover Air Force Base said Thursday he has had no luck in finding either the record or sheet music of the song after contacting radio stations and record collectors.

ATLANTA (AP) — Robert Vesco is an accessible fugitive willing to chat with reporters, but not very informative, says an Atlanta newspaper.

In a copyright story in today's editions, The Atlanta Constitution said Vesco came to poolside at the Britannia Beach Hotel in Nassau to talk with reporters. "Sure, I'll have a drink with you," the newspaper quoted Vesco as saying. "We'll talk all you like, but I won't tell you anything." Vesco, 42, accused of stealing at least $200 million from a mutual fund complex, has been living in the Bahamas. Attempts to extradite him to the United States have failed.

Foreign briefs

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo (AP) — The government has ordered owners of black automobiles to paint them another color within a month.

The decree said black was "strictly reserved" for cars of government officials and foreign diplomats.

Any privately-owned black car not repainted by Nov. 20 will be confiscated by the authorities, the decree said.

LONDON (AP) — The London Daily Telegraph was published today for the first time since a strike shut down the newspaper two weeks ago.

In a message addressed to "the readers of the Daily Telegraph who are still with us," Lord Hartwell, editor-in-chief, referred to the dispute as a "nightmare."

Before the settlement, Hartwell said unless the strike stopped "the ship will sink — bankruptcy will ensue."

On the light side

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Wives of Gainesville firemen say they're upset because a female firefighter uses the same shower and bunkroom as their husbands. But the woman's presence has apparently had a beneficial effect on the men.

"Having a woman around there has made the station a more pleasant place to work," said Assistant Fire Chief Freddie Miller. "The men have cleaned up their language quite a bit."

The wives see it differently. "It's completely immoral," declared one wife. "The men there sleep wearing only their underwear, and those bunks are only a foot apart."

"What are the kids supposed to think?" she asked.

The city's first female firefighter, Ellie Sorel, began work at the Main Street fire station about two weeks ago. Like the men, she is on duty 24 hours and off duty for 48. She sleeps at the station while on duty and uses the one bathroom. Miller said a separate shower period has been set aside for Ms. Sorel.

The wives, however, aren't satisfied and are petitioning for her transfer to another department. A spokeswoman, who didn't want to give her name, said that half the wives have signed and that they'll picket the City Commission on Monday night if they have to.

"If something isn't done, we're all going to go down there ourselves and apply for jobs," the woman said.

Let There Be Light
WEST RUTLAND, Vt. (AP) — Pope John Paul II will be responsible for bringing light into St. Stanislaus Church on Sunday.

The Central Vermont Public Service Corp. says it will delay a scheduled power interruption that day to avoid interfering with special services in the pope's honor.

The utility was planning to cut off power to the area between 10 and 11 a.m. Sunday — the day of the new pope's inauguration at the Vatican. But it decided to put off the repairs for a week after it learned of the services.

Will They Leave When Asked?
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The Toledo Troopers, the perennial power of the National Women's Football League, are opening their locker room to male reporters after their playoff game with the Columbus Pacesetters on Saturday night.

"It's the first time we've opened our locker room to the men," said Ken Dippman, a spokesman for the Troopers, who have lost just one game in eight years in the NWFL.

He said reporters would be granted several minutes immediately after the game to interview the Toledo players. Then the locker room will be cleared of the newsmen to permit the players to shower.

"Maybe some of the girls will have to physically throw the men out," said Dippman.

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. government was secretly assured that the marriage of Christina Onassis to a Soviet citizen would not endanger American interests, according to a magazine article.

"The U.S. government was worried because Onassis' companies frequently carry out (U.S.) government contracts, and four of the Onassis ships are registered in the United States," according to the article, which appears in the latest issue of McCall's magazine.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Adm. Hyman Rickover, father of the nuclear submarine, is the winner of the Harry S Truman Good Neighbor Award.

The 1979 award, announced Tuesday by the Harry S Truman Good Neighbor Award Foundation, is given at a yearly ceremony held on the late president's birthday, May 8.

Rickover, 78, known as a sharp-witted and brilliant naval maverick, guided the development of atomic-powered submarines after World War II and the nuclear aircraft carrier program in the 1960s.

Canadian chamber offers foliage tour

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has announced its annual foliage tour from Canadian to Lake Marvin for the week-end of October 29.

In conjunction with the foliage tour, the business and industrial tour will include a tour of the Moody Building and Canadian Millworks followed by a bus trip to an oil rig.

Prior to the bus trip, a film entitled "Making a Hole" may be seen across the street from the Moody Building.

Tickets for the business and industrial tour will be $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children to be purchased at the Moody Building where the tour will start.
