Highland General faces money problem

By KATHY BURR
Pampa News Staff

is the hospital losing money or isn't it? Well, it depends on who you talk to. Jean Scott, county treasurer, said the county has had to hold some of the hospital's checks approximately three times because of lack of funds in the hospital's account. Guy Hazlett, hospital administrator, explains this has happened because there wasn't any cash from the prior fiscal year left over. "We didn't have any of this when we started this year," Hazlett said. "In March we had to borrow $50,000 to pay the payroll because of no excess." He explained that non-profit hospitals operate as close as possible to a break-even point. "During the 1978 year we have managed close to a zero balance in the bank with no cash to fall back on." Scott said Monday morning the county was holding $32,893.79 worth of checks. "The treasurer will hold these until they (the hospital) have enough money," said Scott. Hazlett said Tuesday morning a week-end deposit had been made and the checks were released Monday afternoon. He added that although this has happened in each instance the funds were available within eight days. Highland General Hospital also has a note at First National Bank for the amount of $128,073.66 which has to be paid off by Dec. 31. According to Hazlett it will be paid off sooner than that. And where are the funds coming from? Hazlett said the hospital has just settled their 1977 account with Medicare and out of this settlement the hospital will receive $104,000. They expect to have this in by the first part of November. The hospital will also receive a third quarter bi-weekly medicare payment of $33,000 and a fourth quarter medicare payment of $44,000. Hazlett said in addition to these funds the hospital has applied for a medicare adjustment, which will give them a settlement payment of approximately $25,000. "This adjustment will give us $22,000 more a month." He added, "There is no way Medicare can deny this adjustment." Another area of concern seems to be the payroll. On Oct. 1 Highland General Hospital had a payroll of $197,495.99 compared to a January payroll of $159,000.

Hazlett said the hospital is expecting a November payroll of approximately $145,000. The reason he cited for the October increase of 8,000 was because of an increase in employees. "When the nursing service salaries were increased, several nursing positions were filled." Hazlett explained that in order to find the number of accounts receivable, divide the average daily billing for the reporting period into the accounts receivable. Hazlett said the standard number of accounts receivable days for a private hospital ranges from 45-60 days and for a non-profit public hospital, it will range from 45-75 days. Highland General has an average of 74 for accounts receivable days. "The problem is not generating revenue or excessive expenditures. The problem is cash flow." Hazlett said the hospital operates on a 90 day billing period. As an example it is not until April that the hospital can expect 100 percent of the amount that was billed in January. According to Hazlett this is why problems such as the county having to hold checks arise. Hazlett said the months that there are large number of cash receipts doesn't coincide with the months when there are large expenses. Hazlett said the hospital may come up short around the first of the month for payroll, "but we shouldn't need more than $70,000 worth of help for several days." Referring to the $128,000 note at First National Bank, Hazlett said, "It's possible if we pay this money to the bank it will again restrict us."

He added, "Hopefully, things will keep growing and by the second half of next year we hope to put some back." A.C. Malone, county auditor, said "They're showing revenues earned. Real money is what I'm speaking of." Scott said, "As far as their collections covering their expenditures they're not." Scott added, "They may be speaking of actual collections, but I can't release checks on a paper balance." In September of 1978 the hospital paid $450,727.91 for their bills payable, payroll and matching funds. Their receipts totaled $350,141.02, according to figures in the county treasurer's office. "What I know is what the books show," said Scott. Hazlett said, "No matter how well things go next year, there still won't be enough funds to complete the plumbing project."

Carter asks for cooperation in inflation fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says American workers who cooperate with his new anti-inflation program may qualify for limited federal cost-of-living insurance and businesses will be rewarded with eligibility for government contracts. Carter used a carrot-and-stick approach in calling on business and labor Tuesday night to support new guidelines of 7 percent for wages and an overall 5.75 percent for prices next year. He also said the federal budget deficit will be slashed to $30 billion or below in 1980 and that only one of every two federal job openings will be filled. All Americans must be prepared to make some sacrifices in the fight against inflation, the president said. "We must face a time of national austerity," he said. "Hard choices are necessary if we want to avoid consequences that are even worse." White House inflation adviser Robert S. Strauss said Carter would announce later today who he wants to head the new anti-inflation program. The president is known to have offered the job to Alfred E. Kahn, 61, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

If successful, the wage and price guidelines would reduce inflation to between 6 percent and 6.5 percent in 1979, down from 8 percent this year, Carter's advisers said. "This is a standard for everyone to follow. Everyone," Carter said in a 20-minute television address from the White House. Referring to the 7 percent wage guideline, Carter said, "From tonight on, every contract signed and every pay raise granted should meet this standard," which includes fringe benefits. Workers with hourly wages below $4, about 26 percent of the full-time labor force, will be exempt from the guidelines. To make the plan appealing to workers, Carter said he will ask Congress in January to approve a so-called real wage insurance program providing — if inflation surpasses 7 percent in 1979 — tax rebates to those whose wage increases are limited to 7 percent. Workers whose wage hikes exceed the guideline would not qualify for the rebate, which would be paid at year's end by the Internal Revenue Service. Those who agree to the guideline would get a rebate compensating them for the degree to which inflation exceeds 7 percent.

Good afternoon

News in brief

CLOUDY

The forecast for Pampa is partly cloudy today and tonight with a chance of showers and thunderstorms late this afternoon becoming cooler tonight. It should be fair and mild on Thursday. Today's high will be in the mid 50's with the low tonight in the mid 30's and the high on Thursday should be near 70. The winds are out the north at 15-20 miles per hour and gusting, decreasing to 10-15 miles per hour tonight. Wind warnings are in effect on area lakes.

Tickets still available for Clower
Tickets are still available for the Chamber of Commerce sponsored appearance of Jerry Clower. A spokesman for the Chamber said that limited number of tickets would be available at the door Thursday night. Clower will be the guest speaker at the Chamber function to be held at the M.K. Brown auditorium at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Employees granted pay raise
S K E L L Y T O W N Employees of this city were granted a 10 percent pay boost, retroactive to Oct. 1, by city council Tuesday night. Approving the pay increase, part of the city's budget for the fiscal year which began Oct. 1, were Councilmen Willie P. Harris, Mike Chaney and Wayne Pogue and Mayor P.M. Cousins. Councilmen Howard Coday and Richard Mills were absent. In other action Tuesday night the council approved the third and final reading of an ordinance continuing the city's one percent sales tax on utility bills and submitted a proposed city ordinance dealing with operating of junk yards within the city limits to the city attorney for legal review. And, council took under advisement the current problem of stray dogs and other animals within the city. It was noted the local leash ordinance will be enforced with "stern measures" to be taken regarding loose dogs.

Remington recalls rifles
BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Remington Arms Co. today began recalling "under 200,000" guns because of a damage suit in which Remington agreed to pay $6.8 million to a Texas lawyer paralyzed from the waist down, a company spokesman said. The company is recalling four different models of bolt-action guns so their trigger assemblies can be replaced, said Edmund S. McCawley.

Pride of Pampa takes division I

By ELENA CALLEN
Pampa News Staff

The Pride of Pampa demonstrated to the state it's championship form Tuesday as the Pampa High School marching band won the division I title in Class 4A. The win marked the 24th time Pampa has won the division I crown in the past 25 years. In 1970 Pampa won Division II. A total of six high school bands took part in the competition with Amarillo and Hereford High Schools winning the first step marching contest towards the Sweepstake Award. Pampa was the first band to demonstrate before the panel of judges. The officials rated each school individually and then averaged the scores together. Pampa received first place votes from each of the judges. "Everyone is optimistic of a win," said band director Jeff Doughten before the competition began. Jim Duggan, assistant band director also acknowledged his faithfulness prior to the event. Senior drum major, Jimmy Hammer said, "I'm not terribly surprised that we did make it," when he learned of the win before the official announcement was made. Competition was held all day for all class members in bands from Tulsa to the north Panhandle of Texas. Pampa Middle School marching "C" class band made division II in their first competition march earlier in the day. The band is under the direction of Joe DiCosimo.

Ronnie Rice-enjoys the work

Ronnie Rice

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is one in a series of interviews by Carla Baranauckas with candidates running in the Nov. 7 election.
"I enjoy the work," is what Ronnie Rice, Democratic candidate for Precinct 2 county commissioner, says when he is asked why he is running for office. Rice was appointed to the office approximately a year and a half ago when it was vacated by Don Hinton who was appointed county judge. "It's a job where you get out in the field a lot and get to see a lot of the county," Rice said. "I don't want to tie you down in an office." What are Rice's qualifications for the job? "For one thing I do have experience at the job," Rice said. "Primarily that's the biggest point. I'm knowledgeable about what the county is up against. I've been in business since 1964, and I'm concerned as a taxpayer." Rice says he strongly favors keeping taxes down. "Everyone feels like we're pretty well taxed to the maximum," Rice said. "Proposition 13 hurt the local government more than the federal government, but the taxpayers are more fed up with the federal government than the local government. We need to start holding spending down." The major problem facing the commissioners' court is the county hospital situation, according to Rice. "The number one priority right now is finding a solution to Highland General Hospital that the county can afford and also gives the residents of Gray County a good medical facility we can all be proud of," Rice said. Rice said he favors leasing the hospitals. "I sure don't want to see taxes go up," he said. "Let a company that knows how to run it take it over. The county doesn't know how to run it, I think we've proven that." Rice warned that the county better be aware that something like Proposition 13 may come along and affect the money situation in the county. "We should not be looking for places to spend money," he said. "We might not have that money further down the line." What promises does Rice have for the voters? "I pledge I'll be a conservative candidate, and anyone who knows me knows I am conservative," he said. Rice, 40, has lived his entire life in Pampa. He is married and has one daughter and three sons. Rice graduated from Texas Tech in 1961 with a B.A. in industrial management. He is a member of the First Baptist Church.

Jones Seitz-no burning issues

Jones Seitz

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is one in a series of interviews by Carla Baranauckas with candidates running in the Nov. 7 election.
There aren't any "burning issues" in the campaign for Precinct 2 county commissioner, according to Jones Seitz, Republican candidate. "I've lived in Gray County all my life, and I want to make some contribution," Seitz said. "I am retired and have plenty of time to devote to it." Seitz was a Cabot employee for 41 years, he said. He served as plant manager for 15 years and says he has a large amount of experience with budget and personnel problems. "I feel qualified to handle the county business," he said. "There aren't any burning issues," he said. "The most important thing right now is the hospital, and it looks like it's pretty well taken care of with the lease proposal." Seitz did not say whether he was personally in favor of leasing the hospital, but he said it seemed most people that attended a public hearing favored leasing the hospital. As a county commissioner, Seitz said he would want to do what most county residents wanted. If elected, Seitz said he would look into consolidating county equipment. "More consolidation and better usage of county equipment would mean not so much duplication of purchasing," Seitz said. "I think some equipment can be used from one precinct to another." Seitz was asked if he had a conservative philosophy. "Very much so, yes," he said. "I'm certainly not for raising taxes just at the drop of a hat," Seitz said. Although there are no big issues in the campaign, Seitz encouraged everyone to vote in the Nov. 7 election. "I do think everyone should cast their vote to indicate how they feel toward the candidates and how the county is operated." Seitz said he has been fairly well satisfied with the way the county has been operated in the past. "I think we've been very fortunate, but I think there's always room for improvement," he said. "I've had just a normal life and enjoyed working with Cabot," Seitz said. "I feel like I made some contribution." "I'd like to see a bigger turnout at the election, and more people get out and vote," he said. "We've got some real lively candidates." Seitz, 67, graduated from Pampa High School and attended Amarillo Junior College. He also attended several management courses while employed by Cabot. He worked for Cabot for 41 years and retired in 1975. Seitz is a member of Veteran's of Foreign Wars and the First Baptist Church. He lives with his wife Freda in Pampa.

Thursday the Pampa News will publish interviews with Don Hinton and Carl Kennedy, candidates for Gray County Judge.

OPINION PAGE

The nation comes first

Party loyalty is one thing, but a sincere regard for one's nation is another, and it overshadows all partisanship.

On a local level, this applies to a sincere regard for the well being of one's state, and that is the reason some strong Democrats have come forward to urge the re-election of Republican Senator John Tower and the defeat of his opponent, Rep. Bob Krueger.

Just the other day, Allan Shivers, former Democrat Governor of Texas, in urging a full rallying of the people of the state behind the Texans for Tower movement, and in summing up a number of the negative actions Krueger has taken, said, "The plain fact is that Krueger does not believe in the things that you and I and most Texans stand for."

Shivers pointed out that Tower has consistently opposed United States military aid to militant Marxist countries, and that on May 24, 1977, Krueger voted against attempts by Tower and other conservatives to slive $100 million in United States Military aid from the American tax dollar for Marxist nations such as Zambia, Mozambique and Angola.

THE FORMER GOVERNOR added that Tower fought the Panama Canal treaties "every step of the way" while Krueger voted to appropriate funds for treaty negotiations and waited until late to express any reservations. Shivers added that Tower has opposed opening diplomatic and trade negotiations with Castro's Cuba while Castro foment revolution and war in Africa. On the other hand, Shivers said, Krueger voted to allow State Department funds to be used to pay for diplomatic and trade personnel in Cuba and he voted against a bill that would have prohibited international lending institutions from using United States funds for aid to Castro.

Another matter of immediate and broad concern to most Texans was pointed out by the former governor. He said, "John Tower is also a principle target of George Meany and eastern liberal labor bosses because he opposes legislation to increase the power of labor unions."

"He is leading the fight against the pending labor 'reform' bill and has consistently opposed legislation to increase the power of labor bosses. Krueger voted for this labor 'reform' bill which George Meany claims is the first step to eventually destroying Texas' Right-to-Work Law. He also repeatedly voted with labor on a number of other issues designed to increase their power."

Shivers said he had studied the voting records of both men who are running to represent Texas and he believes Tower the best to represent the interest of Texas and Texans.

"AS A FORMER DEMOCRATIC Governor of Texas," he said, "I have not reached this decision easily. In fact in 1961, when John Tower first was elected, I supported the Democratic nominee. Since that time, I have come to admire and respect Senator Tower's courage and judgement. Now, I am proud to recognize the strong Texas voice of John Tower in the United States Senate."

Women's lib, Soviet style

Still on Soviet social problems, there's one area in which the Soviets are drawing closer to the United States - and aren't too happy about it.

One out of every three marriages now ends in divorce. That is still considerably short of the U.S. ratio of more than one out of every two, but it's a tripling of the Soviet divorce frequency in the last 16 years and has worrisome consequences for the Kremlin.

It is considered a major factor in the drop of the birth rate, particularly among Russians. A manpower shortage is expected to develop later in the century and even worse, the population will tilt toward Asian nationalities and away from the long-dominant Russians.

A primary cause for the increase in divorces, according to some Soviet sociologists, is that women are increasingly well educated, most of them work and many take home larger paychecks than their husbands.

Aware of their contribution and tired of nevertheless being relegated to a subordinate position in the household, women increasingly are rebelling and insisting on equality within the family, including help from the husband with housework - and going to the extreme of divorce if they don't get it.

Index tax idea gaining

It is always hard to foresee the trajectory of any idea that's sent aloft in Washington, D.C., but we've really been astounded by some recent reactions there to the proposition that the tax system should be indexed. The point of indexing, of course, is to adjust taxes for inflation - so that people don't get pushed into higher brackets when their real incomes haven't risen. Milton Friedman and other academics have long campaigned for indexed rates, but they have generally got nowhere. As of mid-1978, their proposition still looked like another of those ideas that are invincible so far as logic and equity are concerned, but that can't be sold on Capitol Hill.

Astounding event No. 1 was a sudden sale in the House Ways and Means committee last month. Representative Bill Archer, a Republican from Houston, proposed the indexing of capital gains, and when he looked around he found that a majority of the committee was agreeing with him. Al Ullman, chairman of the committee, registered astonishment and immediately began trying to get the provision knocked out. However, it was still hanging in there several weeks later.

We would not have thought so many congressmen were smart enough to go for indexing. On the other hand, we would never have suspected that Federal Reserve Chairman G. William Miller could be so dense on the subject. We're counting Miller's inexplicable attack on the idea as astounding event No. 2. Interviewed by U.S. News & World Report a few weeks ago, he said he was against indexing the tax system and provided the following rationale: "I'm opposed to indexing in every form... Every index is an insulation from the consequences of inflation, and every insulation from the consequences of inflation makes inflation acceptable and destroys the will to fight inflation."

The chairman of the Fed has got things exactly backward. A non-indexed tax system insulates policy makers from the consequences of inflation and gives them minimal incentive to fight it. Under a non-indexed system, inflation generates tremendous windfall revenues for government - revenues that allow Congress to invent endless new federal programs while still pretending to cut taxes. An indexed system would put some real pressure on Congress to stop playing Mr. Nice Guy.

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS
WASHINGTON (NEA) - A handful of diehards in the House of Representatives, embittered by new limitations on the amount of outside income they are allowed to earn each year, already are talking about ways to evade the law.

While considering government-wide ethics legislation last month, the House overwhelmingly rejected (by a vote of 290-97) an effort to delete from the bill the previously approved ceiling on representatives' non-congressional income.

As a result, House members' outside earned income will be limited, beginning next year, to 15 percent of their $57,500 congressional salary or $8,625 annually.

"We have not been elected congressmen to use our titles for our benefit," says Rep. Newton I. Steers, R-Md., "nor to spend our time on matters of personal gain."

But the ceiling is applicable only to salaries, fees, and other forms of earned income - not to interest, dividends, rental payments and other types of unearned income.

Some disgruntled congressmen are discussing both privately and publicly, the possibility of circumventing the law by taking advantage of the exemption.

During the floor debate on the new law, Rep. M.G. (Gene) Snyder R-Ky. bluntly told his colleagues of his plans: "I am going to form two corporations. I or some good friend will probably be the president, and I am not going to have any earned income from those corporations."

Like most other opponents of the new limitations, Snyder is quite wealthy. "I do not play golf," he says. "My hobby is going out peddling real estate and messing around the coal market a little bit."

That "messing around" in the coal market last year produced almost $69,300 for Snyder, while "peddling real estate" was worth another $58,400 in outside income. Both figures were higher than his salary as a legislator.

Rep. Gene Taylor, R-Mo., bragged during the floor debate: "Of course, I can circumvent it (the limitation). I can play the hull and pea game. I can fool my people. I can take dividends. I can buy my building out of my corporation and rent it back."

But, Taylor quickly added, "that is not right. That is not fair to my constituents." It's not surprising that the angel and the devil inside Taylor are struggling over the issue because he also has considerable outside business interests.

The congressman has more than $50,000 invested in a Ford dealership that last year paid salaries to both him and his wife. An affiliated insurance agency sells credit life insurance to auto buyers.

Earlier this year, Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., warned that "there are enough loopholes" in the new ethics code to allow recalcitrant legislators to continue with business-as-usual.

"Congressmen who control businesses can reduce their salaries, which are deemed unethical, and increase their dividends, which are deemed ethical. Lawyers can be 'bought out' by their partners instead of earning money."

"Anyone in business can be paid rent, which is ethical, instead of fees or salaries, which are not. Wives and children can get the money congressmen used to earn."

Most of the legislators who previously maintained outside law practices now have abandoned them. But two who have not, Reps. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., and Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., are reported to have privately told colleagues that they're investigating alternatives that would allow evasion of the law.

One knowledgeable Capitol Hill source suggests that many of those talking about circumventing the ethics code are only "blowing smoke" and eventually will black down from their throats.

In addition, the House Select Committee, which drafted the code, now is preparing supplemental guidelines that will prohibit many of the schemes already suggested.

Nevertheless there's no excuse for the legislators' brazen attempts to violate the spirit, if not the letter, of the law.

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, October 25, the 298th day of 1978. There are 67 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1971, the United Nations seated the Chinese Communists and expelled the Chinese Nationalists.

On this date:
In 1701, a city charter was granted to Philadelphia.

In 1854, Britain's heroic Charge of the Light Brigade took place near Sevastopol in Russia during the Crimean War.

In 1874, Britain annexed the Fiji Islands.

In 1938, the Chinese government, fleeing Japanese invaders, established itself at Chungking.

In 1936, Germany and Italy forsook the Rome-Berlin Axis, pledging mutual assistance in case of war.

In 1954, a session of the U.S. Cabinet was televised for the first time, with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles reporting on a foreign ministers' meeting in Paris. Ten years ago: Thirty-two persons were killed in the crash of a Northeast Airlines prop jet on a mountain in Western New Hampshire.

Five years ago: The United States ordered its military forces on a worldwide precautionary alert because of concern that the Soviet Union was planning to send troops to the troubled Middle East.

One year ago: The United States agreed in principle to support a United Nations arms embargo against South Africa. Today's birthdays: Ex-king Michael of Romania is 57 years old. Country music star Minnie Pearl is 66. Singer Helen Reddy is 37.

Thought for today: The business of America is business - President Calvin Coolidge, 1872-1933.

China rediscovered

By DON GRAFF

What hath Richard Nixon wrought? A scant six years after the former president's journey to Peking, China is a nation whose American time has come in a massive way. More than an area of interest, it has the makings of an obsession.

That is Mainland China we're talking about. The People's Republic Red China, the yellow Peril updated according to Marx, as correct thinking on our side had it during 20 years of diplomatic deep freeze. Who would have predicted that the thaw would progress so fast so far?

Americans, officials and growing numbers of the just plain curious, are all over China - or would be, if more of it were open to the foreigner. It soon may be. To develop tourism, China is looking to U.S. firms for help that may include construction of hotels and tourist-related transportation facilities. For the upwardly mobile American politician, Peking is becoming an obligatory port of call as Moscow once was and the Vatican and Jerusalem still are.

The interest is reciprocal. Chinese visitors to the United States may not be so numerous, but are no longer rarities. They come as parties of politely inquisitive journalists, industrial shoppers and specialists of one variety or another. And if Peking carries through reported plans to tap the West's intellectual resources, they soon will be coming as students by the thousands. No tourists yet, but just wait a bit and don't be surprised.

U.S. oil firms are stumbling over each other in anticipation of dealing themselves into exploitation of possibly massive Chinese reserves. Excitement is also beginning to stir in other industries, with discussions initiated as to the feasibility of cooperative production operations within China. The China market itself, once upon a time the basis of the clutch of great American fortunes, is beginning to look interesting to traders again. U.S.-Chinese exchanges are expected to top $1 billion this year. That may be very small lice nuts in terms of world trade - last year U.S. business with its top partners, Canada and Japan, reached $55.1 billion and $39.1 billion respectively. But for an opener, it shows promise.

Diplomatically, the two governments are either tacitly cooperating or carefully not opposing each other in a number of areas.

In terms of very recent history, all this Sino-American togetherness may be mind-boggling. But in the long term it reasserts the historic relationship between the two nations. A tie bound a very young United States and a very old China throughout the 19th century. The difference today is that the Soviet Union rather than imperialist Europe is prompting a classic demonstration of that most durable rule of alliances: The enemy is my friend.

Peking openly acknowledges its immediate purpose is to strengthen itself in its confrontation with the Soviets and, beyond that, to speed realization of the late Chou En-lai's goal of transforming China into the world's most powerful Socialist state by the year 2000. That the policies now being pursued to achieve this involve consorting with the once detested West bothers Peking's present pragmatic leadership not one whit.

Premier Teng Hsiao-ping explains it: "It doesn't matter whether the cat is black or white. What matters is whether it gets the mouse."

For the present, the detente that is becoming rapprochement works to the American advantage. But one of the many lessons to be learned from China's long history is that for the Chinese there are no lasting friends; all foreigners in the end are devils. Or perhaps, in Teng's neo-Confucian terms, mice.

The Chinese do not have a monopoly on sage sayings. There is also a Western one to the effect that China is a sleeping giant, and others might be well advised to let it go on sleeping.

Your money's worth

Beware of the gold bug! It bites

(First of three columns)

With gold prices still soaring and the value of the U.S. dollar still shrinking under the relentless pressure of accelerating inflation in the U.S. and global dismay at our country's failure to tackle the challenge with the courage so imperative to success, buying gold as a profitable investment as well as the traditional hedge against inflation appears about as sound a money move as you could make.

But beware! The latest gold rush has brought out the telephone con men in the largest numbers ever and they're spreading from such centers as New York to every part of the nation with one objective:

To lure you to part with as much of your nest-egg as they can manage so you will speculate in gold.

The baits: such exotic-sounding speculations as "supervised gold accounts," "deferred delivery gold purchases."

The technique: the time-tested "boiler room" fast-talk by high pressure promoters representing firms that were not in business last year, almost surely will not be in existence next year. These tipsters are touting speculations that are out-and-out frauds.

Of course, gold contracts can be and are being sold legitimately, and most companies selling actual gold or gold stocks are undeniably in this legitimate category. But the crooks besmirch and blotch the entire field and you must be on the alert - for this is a highly complicated sphere in which you all too easily can be misled.

London commodity options were complicated, too - and this is a key reason so many tens of thousands of you were swindled out of tens of millions of dollars between my warnings to you back in June 1977 and the government-imposed ban on London commodity options a year later.

The same con men with the same boiler rooms then moved into diamonds, art, and managed commodity accounts. Now, they have invaded the gold markets. Be on guard!

Here's how it works:

You get, say, three phone calls in one day from a pitchman touting gold. He tells you his firm specializes in gold, has dozens of experts watching the minute-by-minute fluctuations in the gold markets and computing as well as charting future price actions. He reminds you how magnificently gold had acted in the recent past and volunteers that his firm's experts

"think gold will cross the $300 an ounce price by May 1, 1979." He explains that his company offers a unique program under which you, the small investor, can with limited risk profit in gold for the first time. "The chances are excellent," he emphasizes, that "you can double your money in a few months."

You are skeptical, say, "No, thanks," but you are interested. The pitchman sends you the firm's promotions and other literature, including expensive glossy brochures and reprints from leading business publications. The firm's name sounds prestigious, the address is in New York City's Wall Street area, and its references include several well-known New York City banks, commodities exchanges, and even a federal government agency.

A few days later, you get another phone call from the firm, with the pitchman telling you this time that "if you had invested last week, you would have made $400 by today. You better get in right away before the price rises even more."

"Your investment of $4,000 will control ounces of gold worth over $20,000. We invest the money for you in a supervised account... My commission? No commission. We make money when you make money. We take 25 percent of the profits we make for you..."

What are the pitfalls in the sales pitch? As the glossy promotional literature may look impressive, but usually tells you few facts about the firm or the sale.

As the firm is not a "gold specialist" but a "telephone sales specialist," the firm's help-wanted ads reveal its real specialists - "telephone pro...heavy closer...$2,000 to 4,000 per week."

As contrary to the pitchman's promises, the chances are NOT excellent that you will double your money in the next few months. The chances are excellent that YOU WILL LOSE YOUR entire cash outlay.

As the reprints from well-known publications are nearly always used without the publication's authority. References often are misused and it's always an error for you to take them at face value.

As for commissions, a hefty percentage of your cash outlay (which may be as much as 50 percent), goes immediately to the firm for fees, commissions and other charges. The claim that the only cost is 25 percent of the profits is almost always a lie.

Tomorrow The gold bug! don't send money!

Hill, Clements differ during televised debate

HOUSTON (AP) — Bill Clements, the Republican candidate for governor was complimentary of his opponent, Democrat John Hill, when asked during a televised debate if the campaign had been dirty.

"I have tried to keep the campaign on a fairly high level, and I think my opponent has tried to do the same," Clements said. "There are real differences between us, and I think we have been able to talk about those differences."

Hill could not say the same of Clements, however.

"There have been a lot of allegations made by my Republican opponent that were false, and I'm not going to try to characterize what that is in politics," the attorney general said. "But I don't approve of that kind of campaign."

The only other fireworks came after the taping of the television show Tuesday at the studios of KPRC-TV, when the Socialist Workers Party candidate for governor, Sara Jean Johnston, confronted Hill.

He was telling the press entourage that he had "won" the "debate," which was actually a question-answer session between Miller and the candidates, and mostly a draw.

She stepped into the circle of reporters, demanded a reason why she wasn't invited to participate in the event and challenged Hill to set a date when he would debate her.

He declined, however, and told her to talk to his staff since it took care of his campaign details. He reminded her that she would have a chance to debate him later during a meeting of gubernatorial candidates in Dallas.

Clements had long since slipped out the door and driven away.

Taxes, education and energy were the major subjects covered during the telecast.

Hill opened the show with a pledge to veto any state income tax or "any other tax bill," and to give voters property tax relief.

He promised to work for decrease in utility rates, the abolition of the sales tax on utility bills, and a cut in inheritance taxes.

Clements emphasized the fact that he is "a businessman, not a politician," and promised to improve education in the state by bringing the system "back to the basics of reading, writing and arithmetic."

Farmers look for questionnaires

From mid-November to early January, thousands of Texas farmers and ranchers will receive a crop or livestock questionnaire from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service or will be personally interviewed by the Service's field staff.

The information gathered through the questionnaires and interviews provides the basis for determining the final acreage, yield, and production of crop and end-of-the-year livestock and poultry numbers for the state of Texas and for each county.

Reliable information on what is produced, how much, and where is important to farmers, ranchers, and others in making production and marketing decisions and in providing an unbiased picture of Texas agriculture. These are also essential to farm organizations and legislators in promotion, planning, and enacting wise legislation and are used in establishing acreages and payment levels to producers under the various commodity programs.

The collection and publication of agricultural statistics are a cooperative effort between the Texas Department of Agriculture and USDA. This cooperation avoids duplication of effort, promotes economies, and increases the effectiveness of statistical reports. All individual farm and ranch information is kept confidential, and only state and county summaries become part of the final published estimate.

County statistics for 1977 and January 1, 1978, are available on Livestock, Poultry, Dairy, Field Crops, Small Grains, Cotton, Vegetables, Fruits and Pecans, and Cash Receipts from the Sale of Texas Farm Commodities. Bulletins can be obtained from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, P.O. Box 70, Austin, Texas 78767, or by writing Reagan V. Brown, Commissioner of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

AA to hold public meeting

The Central Office of Alcoholics Anonymous will hold an open public meeting at the First Christian Church, 3001 Wolflin, Amarillo, Texas at 2 p.m. on Sunday, October 29th.

The theme of the meeting will be cooperation between Alcoholics Anonymous and the community. We hope to show how AA and members and the professional community, working together in a spirit of cooperation, but not affiliation, can offer hope of recovery to the practicing alcoholic and his or her family.

The speakers will be Major Jerry Hodge, and Reverend John Bridwell and the Reverend John Sperring of the First Christian Church, Dr. Don Tilliston, MD., of Kansas, who is familiar with the AA program, a recovered alcoholic and a recovered Al-Anon.

Alcoholism is no longer a hopeless condition. All that is necessary is the admission that the problem exists and the acceptance of the help that is available. Alcoholics Anonymous and the professional community, working together, can accomplish what neither could do alone.

We hope this meeting will be informative and that the program of recovery through AA will be better understood by the general public.

Senior citizens for tax relief

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Elderly Texans need passage of the "Tax Relief Amendment" Nov. 7 as protection against inflated home values and taxes, committee of senior citizens organizations said Tuesday.

"This will benefit people who are on such very limited incomes and who are not profiting one bit by inflation in the price of homes," said Ernest Cabe, retired Austin school administrator.

Cabe and other representatives of the ad hoc Steering Committee of Texas Retired Citizens Organizations announced support of the amendment at a capitol news conference.

"We want it clearly understood that, even though we have an obvious interest in the benefits accruing to older citizens, we are convinced the Tax Relief Amendment is of benefit to all citizens in a fiscally responsible manner," he said.

The amendment would give homeowners a $5,000 exemption from school taxes and would authorize the Legislature to give the elderly and disabled up to an additional $10,000 exemption.

Cabe said the steering committee's member organizations represent between 600,000 and a million Texans, including members of the Texas Farm Bureau. The committee was formed after the Texas Legislature approved the amendment in special session this summer.

"We're without financial resources," Cabe said. "Our work is through organizations, by talking with groups, people, the telephone and talking to neighbors."

The Texas Senior Citizens Association board voted against the amendment Oct. 18, but their former lobbyist said the board vote was controlled by organized labor.

Lyle Hammer, 71, resigned from the association after the vote and said Tuesday the group's membership would have voted for the amendment.

Cabe said younger persons would benefit from the $5,000 exemption.

"They probably have parents and grandparents who have homesteads," he said. "There's the question of dependency, if humanitarian or paternal feelings aren't involved."

Senior citizens always have a good turnout on election day, said Cabe, who predicted a similar showing Nov. 7.

"We feel a high percentage of the vote will come from senior citizens," he said. "They're 13 to 14 percent of the Texas population, but cast usually 30 percent of the vote."

Additional amendment provisions would:

- Remove intangible property — bank accounts, pensions, stocks — from the property tax base.

Texas forecast

By The Associated Press
 A new cold front blustered into the Texas Panhandle today, kicking up gusty winds and promising lower temperatures for most of the state by Thursday. The front blew into the north-west corner of the state before dawn, stirring up winds gusting to 25 miles an hour. "It ought to plunge pretty rapidly southward into the state," said chief meteorologist Herbert Roseman of the National Weather Service office in Fort Worth, "especially out in West Texas." Roseman said the Pacific front will lower temperatures as it rolls across the state today and Thursday, but no drastic changes such as those associated with arctic fronts are expected. Tonight's lows in the Panhandle are forecast to dip into the mid 30s. A separate storm system brought light rain to a wide area of the state from West Texas to North Central Texas during the night. The rain drifted eastward and early today fell on an area from Dallas to Denison and from Waco to Kerrville.

MARGARET WOODCOCK BAKER, Okla. - Services for Mrs. Margaret Woodcock, 64, will be at 1:30 p.m., Thursday at Hooker Nazarene Church. The Rev. Bill Johnson of Yukon Nazarene Church and the Rev. Jack Lowe of the Hooker Nazarene Church will officiate. Burial will be in Ochiltree Cemetery in Perryton by Roberts Brothers Funeral Home of Hooker. She died Monday at Liberal, Kan. Born in Perryton, she married Donald Woodcock in 1942, at Siloam Springs, Ark. She was an elementary school teacher for 24 years and retired last year from the Turpin School System. She had lived in the Baker area since 1968. Her husband preceded her in death in 1976. Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Jerry Shoemaker of Liberal; two sons, Luther and Alan both of Oklahoma; one brother, Lance Rhea of Pampa; and one grandson.

IPAA producers seeking unity

HOUSTON (AP) - The president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America says independents must now forget their differences over the new natural gas bill and jointly seek restoration of market pricing for all energy products. Jack M. Allen, Perryton, Tex., said independents also must unite in ridding the industry of unnecessary regulations and price restrictions "which mock the free enterprise system." "We must work together in seeking to make the new controls as light a burden as possible to the entire industry," Allen said Tuesday in a presidential report submitted at the concluding session of the trade group's annual meeting.

The new Natural Gas Policy Act now awaiting President Carter's signature extends, for the first time, federal price controls to intrastate natural gas markets although it is to phase out some price controls by 1985. The national association long has championed decontrol of natural gas prices but some independents supported the bill that received final congressional approval Oct. 13. "Now that the Natural Gas Act is enacted and we will be living with controls for the foreseeable future, it behooves us to seek unity in our approach to conducting our operations under the act," Allen said. "Our division on the merits of the gas bill led to confusion in Congress, confusion on the part of consumers, and even to confusion on the part of producers."

TRS members should make appointment

Members of Teacher Retirement System planning to retire in 1979 may schedule an individual meeting with a TRS retirement counselor at one of 22 locations across the state this year.

Amarillo area TRS members may schedule meetings with counselors to be held at Holiday Inn, Amarillo, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. Deadline for scheduling an appointment is Nov. 8.

Counselors will have a complete retirement estimate for each member at the meeting and will be able to discuss the retirement options available and application procedures.

The area counseling program, which began with nine locations in 1975, places individual retirement counseling close to every TRS member. Members may visit TRS offices in Austin for retirement counseling during weekdays throughout the year.

Tower slaps Krueger verbally

U.S. Senator John Tower called his opponent, U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, a "desperate man" who is "out of touch with Texas people."

Tower, 53, made the comments at a brief press conference at Perry Lefors Airport Tuesday at 11 a.m.

Tower and his wife Lilla stopped at the Pampa airport as part of a final blitz of Texas to ask voters for their support.

Before stopping in Pampa Tower stopped in Borger. He also made stops in Amarillo and Plainview.

When asked about a recent Texas Monthly poll which showed the Republican senator to be trailing his opponent by three to four points, Tower said the poll results were several weeks old by the time he saw them.

"I don't think it's conclusive," he said.

"The Tower campaign is 'trending upwards,'" he said, based on daily tracking and feedback from a telephone bank the campaign operates.

"This is the time for momentum, and I think we clearly have it," Tower said.

Monday Tower's campaign manager filed a formal complaint about Krueger's campaign practices.

The complaint was filed, Tower said, because Krueger "takes pot shots, falsifies my record and falsifies his own record."

Tower charged that Krueger "deliberately falsified" Tower's vote on the 29 percent federal pay increase. Tower said he voted against the bill three times.

Tower said he hopes filing the complaint will serve to "underscore the credibility" of Krueger.

Tower also attacked his opponent's voting record on the Labor Reform Act.

Krueger tried to sabotage the right-to-work law in Texas by voting for the Labor Reform Act and then voting against amendments that would soften the bill, according to Tower.

Following the press conference, Tower stopped to talk with area residents and Republican officials before boarding the turbo-prop jet and leaving for Amarillo.

Faces possible jail term Woman won't bow to system

COST MESA — It wasn't the $10 license fee (by her monetary standards that amounts to little more than a gram of gold) but it was the principle of the thing that bothered Jane McLaughlin — so she went to jail the other day rather than answer personal questions to get a city business permit.

The former biochemist operates a printing shop and she was cited for conducting a business without a license when she refused to fill out forms that asked, among other things, how much money she makes.

Miss McLaughlin, 31, said she feels it is none of the city's business how much money she makes and, upon being released from jail on $100 bail, she sued a judge for damages — asking 1,500 grams of gold or its equivalent in bullion, coin, or U.S. currency (about $11,000 as most people figure it).

The hard line libertarian businesswoman insists on figuring the cost of things in gold (including the salary of her employees and things like damages) because she says gold is a more stable unit of value than conventional currency. To help her beat the case the city has filed against her, she is even paying a legal adviser a gram of gold per hour (about $7.30).

Miss McLaughlin says city officials think she is crazy for going to jail rather than compromising her principles but she says she feels "lucky" to be able to stand up for what she believes is opposed to "all those robots who do nothing but what they're told to do."

The city license collectors who knocked on her door tried to explain that the answers to the questions were necessary since the city computes its business license fees on the amount of gross sales generated by a company, but Miss McLaughlin wouldn't buy the explanation.

She insists that her small printing shop isn't a state corporation and that her ownership of it as "a private, sovereign individual" is constitutionally protected by the Bill of Rights under common law.

Signing the business license form, she says, would automatically waive her rights to her own property. Therefore, she says she cannot allow the city to check her gross receipts.

Miss McLaughlin offered, however, to make a monetary contribution to the city — in gold, if desired — rather than pay the license fee but deputy city attorney Mark Huebsch said that such a contribution would constitute a gift and the city could not accept gifts from citizens in such cases.

After all of that, the city didn't feel it had much recourse except to cite the businesswoman. But, when Miss McLaughlin was served with a summons to appear in Municipal Court, she fired a document right back declaring that she didn't recognize the statute under which she was being served and asked to be notified of what common law crime she was violating.

When she received no answer, she didn't appear in court, and they came and got her.

She says it didn't surprise her that she was arrested and booked into jail but it might have surprised Municipal Judge Donald Dungan when he was served with Miss McLaughlin's damage suit for supposedly depriving her of what she termed a "procedurally fair trial."

Her arraignment has been set for Nov. 6 and Miss McLaughlin says she plans to demand a jury of her peers — all non-registered voters like her — and to have the entire trial video-taped so that there will be visual record of what she says is the "persecution" of an honest businesswoman trying to earn an honest living.

National briefs

CLEVELAND (AP) — The U.S. Justice Department has asked that the Cleveland school system be ordered to either set aside money for buying buses for desegregation or close its doors in September 1979.

The alternative proposals were submitted Monday to U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti, who has ordered that a desegregation program begin in February and be carried out by September. The school system, citing its huge debts, has yet to purchase buses for desegregation.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Exposure to asbestos will kill about 1.6 million workers over the next 30 to 35 years, says an expert on causes of work-related cancer.

Dr. Phillip Polakoff, director of the Western Institute for Occupational-Environmental Science in Berkeley, said 4 million workers have been heavily exposed to chemical fiber since the start of World War II. He appeared before a House subcommittee on compensation, health and safety hearing on Monday.

CLEVELAND (AP) — There are no signs that the Soviet Union will slow its military buildup in Europe in the near future, says NATO Commander Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr.

In Cleveland to speak to the Cleveland World Affairs Council, Haig said Monday that he is cautiously optimistic the NATO alliance is meeting that Soviet buildup in Europe.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The defense budget can be cut by 39 percent — about $47 billion — in five to 10 years without endangering U.S. security, according to a study by a Harvard-MIT group.

The report by the Boston Study Group includes eliminating all manned strategic bombers and land-based missiles and depending almost solely on missile-bearing nuclear submarines for retaliating against the Soviet Union or other potential enemies.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A Superior Court judge has imposed a program of restitution on a man accused of obtaining $16,000 in bank funds by false pretenses from a 90-year-old woman.

Judge Albert E. DeRobbio gave Howard A. Brown Jr. a suspended sentence with five years probation; ordered him to pay $8,000 to Sarah M. Alexander now and $2,000 more in two years, and told him to deed to her his interest in a condominium.

Brown pleaded no contest to the charge of victimizing Mrs. Alexander. He said she had allowed him to treat the money as his own, leading him to believe it was a gift.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cigarette smokers exposed to asbestos are 90 times more likely to get lung cancer than persons who neither smoke nor are exposed to asbestos, a cancer specialist says.

Dr. Donald Austin, an official with the California Department of Health Services, told a U.S. House subcommittee Tuesday: "The tragedy of asbestos is that once it is in the body, it is there forever and it is known to interact with other carcinogens to multiply their individual effects."

CHICAGO (AP) — United Airlines has been sued for $50,000 by a woman who says her daughter was removed from a flight because she is retarded.

Lillian Farr of Chicago said in the federal court lawsuit that her daughter, Rita, 21, boarded a United flight June 9 in Newark, N.J., after airline workers were told of her retardation. Ms. Farr was removed from the plane, the lawsuit says, after two passengers complained. A United spokesman said the airline had no immediate comment.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your advice that mothers should give their daughters sex education is ludicrous! If a daughter confides to her mother that she is shoplifting to support a drug habit, would you then advise the mother to instruct her daughter on how to shoplift without getting caught?

If not, may I say that sex without marriage is just as morally wrong as shoplifting and drug use.

RIGHT AGAIN IN FLORIDA

DEAR RIGHT: Wrong! The crime of shoplifting cannot be equated with the "crime" of premarital sex.

I hear from enough teenagers to know that once they have gone all the way with someone they think they love, they will continue to have sex every chance they get. (The sex drive is one of the most powerful of all natural urges. Second only to the need for food!)

It is the responsibility of every parent to teach their children ALL the facts in order to protect them from VD and accidental pregnancies.

Uninformed kids who are sexually active (and face it, millions are!) not only ruin their own lives, but they place a heavy burden financially and socially on society with problems of VD and unwanted children.

DEAR ABBY: I am 10 years old and want to become a famous actress. I think I would be very good at it because ever since I was a little girl I have been very good at "pretending" and that is what acting is, isn't it? Do I have to finish high school to be an actress?

FUTURE ACTRESS

DEAR ACTRESS: Finish high school. And college, too, if you can. Being good at "pretending" might help a lot because there may be times when you have to "pretend" that you are eating.

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to say that several years ago she falsified her birth date on her driver's license because she didn't want her husband to know how old she was, and now that she's eligible for Social Security she's afraid to apply for fear they will revoke her driver's license, fine her, or put her in jail!

She asked what the penalty would be if she confessed, and you said all she had to do was send a copy of her birth certificate to the department of motor vehicles, and all would be forgiven and forgotten.

It's not quite that simple. In most states (and certainly in Missouri) it is a misdemeanor to falsify one's driver's license. Minors have been known to do this in order to pass for legal age to buy alcoholic beverages.

Perhaps the lady who falsified her driver's license by deducting a few years committed no serious offense, but minors who falsify their drivers' licenses should be made aware that this is a very serious offense which should not be taken lightly.

ST. LOUIS READER

DEAR READER: Thanks for making an important point which I overlooked.

Ask Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am in a State Hospital for alcohol. For treatment I have to take Antabuse everyday. Now, I don't have any sex life and I have a hard time passing my water. Can I take anything to bring my sex life back? Should I take vitamins? I would appreciate an answer since you are my last resort.

DEAR READER — It will take more than an answer to your letter to solve your problems. At least you started on the right course by getting off alcohol.

Many men find out that alcohol is not conducive to good sexual performance. It provokes the desire, but takes away the ability. Your problem may not be the treatment of your alcoholism, but the alcoholism itself. The constant consumption of alcohol can damage your liver which, in turn, may affect your male hormone levels and your sex drive.

Whether you need additional vitamins at this time or not depends on your current diet. It is not unusual, however, for people who have been consuming lots of alcohol and have liver damage to have increased vitamin requirements above those normally recommended for healthy people.

To give you a better understanding of what alcohol is doing to your body, and why it is so important for you to stop it, and stay off it forever, I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-4, Alcohol, Whiskey, Gin, Vodka, Rum, Wine and Beer.

It's equally important to other people, so if others want a copy of this issue, they can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — So often we come up with several missing checkers. Our milk comes in gallon containers with red and blue caps so we round the edges of these caps and use them as checkers. — MRS. G.J.

DEAR POLLY — We often travel with two small children in the car but when nap time comes there is not room for both of them on the back seat. We solved this problem by making a frame and legs from some old two-by-fours that fits between the front and back seats in the car. We covered the frame with striped ticking that was doubled for added strength. Now we have a place for both children to sleep. Their toys and books are put under this "bed." — MRS. F.B.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with toilet tank covers. The back of the tank sweats as much as the front and sides. The people who make such covers should make them to fit all the way around the tank. This could be done by putting elastic around the top of the covers with snaps at the bottom. Those of us who sew can make them at home. — DORIS

by Kathy Burr

South Pacific, a musical performance by the Pampa High School Choir, has been in rehearsal for approximately six weeks, and will play on Nov. 6-7 in M.K. Brown Auditorium.

The musical is adapted from James Michener's "The Tales of the South Pacific."

"At first we were going to do Liat and Lt. Cable as the primary story," said John Woicikowski, director of the production.

"Later we made the story of Emile, the planter, and Nellie, the nurse, of primary interest."

He added, "The story is of two loves, that of Emile and Nellie, and Lt. Cable and Liat."

"It is a story of marines, World War II, and Lt. Cables attempt at setting up an outpost on the South Pacific Island."

The story begins when Nellie, a small-town girl and Navy nurse falls in love with Emile, a French planter on an island occupied by the American Navy during World War II.

This love story is paralleled by Lt. Joe Cable, an officer, and Liat, the Tonkinese daughter of Bloody Mary, a shrewd entrepreneur, who sells souvenirs to American sailors.

When Emile proposes to Nellie, she doubts her ability to overcome age and cultural differences and refuses him.

Emile then accompanies Cable on a volunteer mission behind enemy lines. Cable is killed and Nellie comforts Liat. It is then she realizes she must seize her chance for happiness and puts prejudice behind her. When Emile returns the two are reunited.

Putting together this musical hasn't been fun and games for Woicikowski and his crew.

"We have rented drops from Peter Wolf in Dallas." He explained this includes the Bali Hai drops and the Company Street drops. Drops have also been rented from a company in Michigan.

Woicikowski said Jerry Luck will be the assistant director for the show, and is building the rest of the sets for the production.

Don Taylor, of the Naval Recruiting Office is helping Woicikowski obtain uniforms and many of the authentic props.

"We've got a jeep for the production if we can get it on stage," said Woicikowski.

The production will be as close to professional as possible and this is probably evident in their staging.

"This will be done in the same staging technique as the Broadway show," said Woicikowski.

He said that Jeanne Willingham has staged many of the dance and musical numbers.

"This includes Happy Talk and I'm Going to Wash That Man Right Out of My Hair."

Woicikowski hasn't staged this show without first researching the Broadway musical that was done in 1945.

"Mary Martin, who played the lead role on Broadway was terrified about singing against Izo Pinzo, a baritone. She was assured by Richard Rogers that no competition would take place on stage," said Woicikowski.

While it was on Broadway over 2,500 performances were made, with scalpers selling tickets for over $100 in 1945, according to Woicikowski.

"We are selling tickets for $2 and $2.50."

South Pacific garnered eight Tony awards and nine Donaldson awards in addition to holding the second longest run record. The only Broadway musical with a longer run is

"Oklahoma."

On Nov. 1, Woicikowski and his crew will move to M.K. Brown Auditorium to begin rehearsal on the actual stage. The dress rehearsal will be held on Nov. 3-4.

They haven't gotten by cheaply either. It has cost them money to rent the auditorium and drops, to have costumes made and to get the publicity done.

A lot of time will go into the production of South Pacific before it closes.

"There is no way to estimate the number of hours that goes into this."

"Right now we are spending about four hours a night three nights a week working on South Pacific."

The performance will also feature a Cherokee artist from New Mexico.

"It will be a military exhibit including patches, authentic naval scenes and pictures of American history."

Woicikowski said this will be on display in the foyer of M.K. Brown on Nov. 6-7.

"Clubs, schools and anyone that is interested can view it free of charge."

A TAXPAYER'S BILL OF RIGHTS IS PAST DUE

Bill Clements believes we still have a chance to preserve our future by establishing constitutional protection against excessive taxation and runaway government spending.

Bill Clements believes the people of Texas should have the power necessary to ratify or reject tax policies made by legislators.

To establish this power (of the people), Bill Clements will introduce an amendment to the Texas Constitution that would give the people of Texas this right.

Bill Clements' "Taxpayers' Bill of Rights" would:

- Give Texans the right of initiative and referendum, a phrase that means we, the people, have a right to vote on the taxes to be levied on us.
- Place a ban on corporate or personal income tax in Texas.
- Require a two-thirds record vote of both houses of the legislature to pass a tax bill.
- Allow local taxpayers to call an election to ratify or reject a tax increase created by a local governmental unit.

Bill Clements believes in Texas and the people of Texas.

Bill Clements thinks that elected officials must work for the people and represent them properly.

As governor of Texas, Bill Clements will work for and with the people of Texas.

It's about time someone recalled that our form of government was conceived to be a servant of the people and provide the means to insure that principle endures.

A Move for "Guernica"

Spanish artist Pablo Picasso, born on this day in 1881, and his famous painting "Guernica" are making news, although Picasso died five years ago. This work, created in 1937, shows people screaming as Guernica burned. It was created to protest the German bombing of that Basque town during the Spanish Civil War. Picasso lent it to New York's Museum of Modern Art in 1939. His will said it should return "to the Spanish people" once democracy was established in their country. Now that a more democratic government has come to power, the museum has promised to allow "Guernica" to return to Picasso's native land for the first time.

DO YOU KNOW — What dictator ruled Spain from 1939 till his death in 1975?

Can roll up headway for 1980

Candidates with landslide victories

WASHINGTON (AP) — In theory, a candidate with an eye on the White House can gain headway for 1980 by rolling up a landslide re-election margin at home this year.

In practice, forget it. Victory margins may be good national advertising for a few days. But by the time the competition for the presidential nomination begins, few will remember — or care — how much the candidate won by in 1978.

That assumes, of course, that the presidential hopeful gets more votes this year than his opponent. Losing can spoil your whole presidential campaign.

But winning big doesn't necessarily advance it very much.

Take, for example, the case of Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who sought the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972 and again in 1976. His incredible 82.4 percent of the vote in his Senate run in 1970 didn't do him much good when he ventured into the presidential primaries and started losing.

Nor was there solace for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, who won with 61.7 percent of the Senate vote in 1970. That margin did him no good two years later when his presidential campaign came unglued.

Two prime cases of the off-year margin theory in this year's elections are Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee and Gov. James R. Thompson of Illinois.

Both are all-but-declared candidates for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination. Both are up for re-election, and both won by landslides last time out. Democrats in Tennessee are suggesting that even if the challenge of Jane Eskind, 45, of Nashville, falls short of upsetting Baker, she will come close enough to put a crimp in his presidential plans.

Baker won his last Senate contest with 61.5 percent of the vote, and under the margin theory, anything short of that landslide would be a less-than-successful beginning for a national campaign in 1980.

Thompson was elected govern-nor of Illinois with 64.7 percent of the vote two years ago. He's not likely to match that landslide this year against Democrat Michael J. Bakalis, the state comptroller.

But if Thompson wins, he'll remain a prime prospect for 1980, whatever his edge this year.

Circumstances are different for Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, who seeks a second term and never quite rules out the chance that he might challenge President Carter in 1980.

Brown was elected governor with 50.1 percent of the vote, and he'll have to do at least that well to defeat Republican challenger Evelle J. Younger, the state attorney general.

The one declared candidate for 1980 presidential nomination is Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane, heavily favored to win a sixth term in his suburban Chicago congressional district.

For the record, Crane won two years ago with 72.8 percent of the vote.

Guidelines aren't likely to succeed

NEW YORK (AP) — The administration's new wage-price guidelines aren't likely to succeed, says Prof. Michael Wachter, one of the economists who advised Jimmy Carter during his election campaign.

This outlook is by no means unique, even if held by a former adviser. In fact, it is shared by thousands of other economists, and there are suggestions that some even work in the administration.

Wachter, who says he is sympathetic to the administration's plight, is disturbed because, as he sees it, the guidelines contradict other policies, and because they do little to build up the private economy.

Part of the problem, he believes, is that "Carter is not as close to his economists as were other recent presidents," who had economists in their kitchen cabinets. "He's getting political advice."

In his view, "A controls policy makes sense only if you move toward fiscal and monetary restraint." But the administration and the Federal Reserve, he said, have not been achieving such restraint.

"The guidelines being put out," he said, "are entirely inconsistent with present fiscal and monetary policy," both of which the University of Pennsylvania economist said have been nonrestrictive.

"What is the purpose of controls in this environment?" he asked in an interview. He said guidelines cannot contain an expansive economic policy, and that any attempt to do so is futile and misleading.

Wachter said he did not wish to appear insensitive to the pressures faced by the administration, and that his comments were meant to be constructive.

But, he said, he and other were discouraged. Why?

"Because, he said, while seeking restraint through guidelines, Carter not only runs a big deficit but seeks 5 percent unemployment within the next year or so. It's contradictory, he indicated.

Wachter, who terms job studies "a specialty with me," believes full employment — the level of joblessness below which further cuts lead to more inflation — exists at a rate of 5.5 percent to 6 percent.

In pursuing a lower rate, he maintains, the administration is not merely at odds with itself but is beaming misleading cues — almost suggesting the guides be broken.

The only purpose of controls, according to Wachter, is "to signal in advance what to expect." — to tell unions and businesses "what are the employment and output targets we are aiming for."

To issue guidelines inconsistent with fiscal and monetary policies, which he termed expansionary, will be seen as misleading, Wachter indicated. And he suggested Carter's credibility might be damaged.

Names in the news

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan says it didn't take her long to conquer her awe of the presidency but she had other adjustments to make.

"I got invited to the White House more often during the Carter administration," the Texas Democrat told a crowd at Eckerd College Monday night. "But Mr. Carter doesn't serve hard liquor. When you were born in bourbon and branch water country, you have a little difficulty adjusting to those fine wines."

At a news conference earlier, Ms. Jordan said she decided not to run for re-election this year because the challenge was gone and she felt she'd accomplished her goals during six years in Congress.

"I felt it would be good for my constituency if I changed directions and did something else," she said. She plans to teach intergovernmental relations and political values and ethics at the University of Texas.

DUBROVNIK, Yugoslavia (AP) — Prince Charles piloted his plane from London to Dubrovnik to begin an official five-day visit to this communist nation.

The heir to the British throne arrived Monday to a picturesque welcome at Cilipi airport near this Adriatic resort. A schoolgirl, clad in a colorful folk dress, presented Charles with a bouquet, as federal and local officials looked on. Then Charles, a former British naval officer, inspected a Yugoslav navy honor guard.

Charles is scheduled to visit

Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito, who is resting at his south Adriatic residence of Igalo. A nationwide tour is also planned.

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Ailing Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba has flown to Paris for what an official communique described as "further medical examinations."

Bourguiba, 75, president for life, has been suffering from a form of arterio-sclerosis. His activities as head of state have been reduced to little more than weekly meetings with Prime Minister Hedi Nouira, officials say.

Tunisian sources said Bourguiba, who has been unchallenged leader of this North African nation since its independence from France in 1955, may be hospitalized in the United States following his Paris stay.

He arrived in the French capital Monday.

TORONTO (AP) — Rolling Stones guitarist Keith Richards has pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of heroin and faces a maximum punishment of seven years in prison.

A jail sentence is not mandatory, however, and Richards, who pleaded guilty to the possession charge Monday in a county courtroom packed with his fans, could be placed on probation.

Richards, free on $25,000 bail, was charged after police searched his room in a downtown Toronto hotel and allegedly found a pouch containing 22 grams of heroin. Richards and the British rock band were in Toronto to record their album, "Love You Live."

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq says that national elections will be held early next year.

He said at a news conference Monday that voter lists are being prepared and electoral districts drawn up. "This basic task will be completed by the end of March or early April, when it will be possible to announce a schedule for the elections," Zia said.

The Pakistan People's Party of former Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto has called for elections by this December. Bhutto was ousted by a military coup in July 1977. He has been sentenced to death for allegedly ordering the murders of several political opponents and has appealed his conviction.

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Former Premier Suleyman Demirel has been re-elected chairman of the conservative Justice Party at a convention scarred by scuffles and name calling.

Demirel received 1,439 votes Monday compared to 88 for his main rival, Sen. Kamran Inan. The Justice Party has 174 seats in the 450-member National Assembly.

TOKYO (AP) — A commune on the northwestern outskirts of Peking has been named the "China-Japan Friendship People's Commune" to mark the peace treaty formally ratified in Tokyo. Peking's official Hsinhua news agency reported.

It said more than 2,000 commune members celebrated the occasion Monday along with "200 Japanese friends."

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — A spokesman for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration told members of Interpol, the international law enforcement agency, that heroin use in the United States dropped 20 percent in the past year.

Peter B. Bensinger, a DEA administrator, told the 47th general assembly of Interpol Monday that heroin-related deaths had dropped below 150 per month, but that there was no drop in the use of cocaine and marijuana in the United States. He said many heroin dealers were switching to the other drugs because of lower risk and high profits.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A bomb apparently meant for a British army patrol blew up in a primary school in Crossmaglen, wounding several pupils, none seriously.

A British army spokesman said one soldier received scratches Monday, and that the bomb apparently was meant for a passing patrol of soldiers.

The Irish Republican Army has often used such devices in its nine-year-old war to free heavily Catholic Northern Ireland from British rule and annex it to the independent Irish Republic to the south. Official figures record at least 1,866 deaths since the fighting started.

Julius Caesar is reported to have boasted that 12 million Celts were killed by Roman soldiers in Gaul (now France).

Huge reserve of corn may cause problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — A huge left-over reserve of corn, the largest in six years, is in storage just as farmers are in the midst of harvesting another record crop this fall.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that corn inventories on Oct. 1 totaled more than 1.06 billion bushels.

That was slightly more — about 57 million bushels — than experts earlier estimated the Oct. 1 corn "carryover" to be.

The Oct. 1 inventory is the amount of corn left over as the new 1978-79 corn marketing year began. Farmers are harvesting another record crop, estimated by USDA at 6.82 billion bushels.

In a related report, the department said that for the first time since the program was initiated by the Carter administration farmers have more corn than wheat in a three-year reserve aimed at holding grain off the market until prices go up.

The department said that as of Oct. 20 about 414.6 million bushels of corn were in the reserve program, up from about 386 million bushels the week before.

Wheat in the reserve totaled about 402 million bushels as of Oct. 20, the report said.

Administration officials have been working on final details of an acreage set-aside program to help curb production of corn and other feed grains in 1979.

Although Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland indicated some time ago that the set-aside program would be announced around mid-October, no announcement has been made.

A source said late Monday it will be mid-week at the earliest before the set-aside is announced.

The quarterly report showed that the Oct. 1 corn stockpile of 1.06 billion bushels included about 620 million bushels stored on farms and 444.4 million bushels off farms.

A year ago the corn inventory totaled about 884.1 million bushels, including 446.1 million on farms and 438 million off farms in elevators and elsewhere in storage.

The Oct. 1 corn inventory was the largest at the beginning of a new marketing year since USDA reported almost 1.13 billion bushels on hand in 1972.

Recently, the department projected that, counting this season's domestic use and exports, there will be around 1.36 billion bushels on hand Oct. 1, 1979, the most on that date since 1964.

The report also showed Oct. 1 inventories of:

- Sorghum, 191 million bushels, 109 percent more than a year ago's 91.3 million bushels.
- Oats, 658 million bushels, down 3 percent from 674.8 million bushels on Oct. 1 last year.
- Barley, 465 million bushels, up 15 percent from 403.3 million bushels a year ago.
- Wheat, 2.11 billion bushels, down 12 percent from a record Oct. 1 high of 2.4 billion last year.
- Soybeans, 159.1 million bushels, up 55 percent from 102.9 million bushels a year ago.

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's probably easy for a farmer who sees the price tag on a new tractor of $50,000 or so to rationalize that a few dollars more for a heater and an air conditioner are well worth it.

But those options can add 15 percent to 20 percent to the cost of a new tractor or combine, says the Agriculture Department.

Looking at what happened in 1972-75, a USDA report says that prices of farm production items overall rose 65 percent in those years. But within that general group farm machinery prices soared 83 percent.

The steepest rise occurred in 1973-75, a period when market prices of many commodities — including grain — climbed sharply. Farmers' incomes, as a general rule, also were up.

"While costs for the basic farm machines were soaring, the total outlay was also increased by greater demand for optional equipment," the report said. It was published in the current issue of Farm Index, a monthly review by USDA's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service.

For example, in 1975 about 64 percent of all the tractors in the 120-129 horsepower class sold that year included air conditioners. In 1973, only 42 percent had them, the report said.

"Among large tractors with 130 horsepower or greater, 85 percent of 1975 sales were air conditioned, compared with 65 percent in 1973," it said. "Heaters achieved a similar 1975 popularity."

Sales of medium-sized combines included 57 percent with air conditioning and 84 percent with heating, compared to 27 percent and 69 percent, respectively, in 1973.

"These options, while perhaps being a welcome change to farmers who spend so many hours operating equipment, are far from cheap," the report said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A

weekly newsletter published by the Agriculture Department for more than 35 years ceased publication Monday.

The newsletter, Food and Home Notes, was sent free of charge to about 6,000 subscribers each week since it began on July 31, 1943.

Shirley Wagener, the newsletter's editor for the last eight years, said it was started as a recognition by USDA of a growing demand for more "women's news" by newspapers, magazines and other institutions.

Ms. Wagener, the newsletter's fourth and last editor, said it was sent only to those who requested it.

About 500 copies a week were sent to the news media; 3,400 to economists, educators and trade association representatives; and about 3,000 to extension people in the states and counties, she said.

The end of the newsletter came as part of a general reorganization of USDA information programs.

Ms. Wagener will continue working with food-and-home subjects, however, as part of a new "USDA Feature Desk" operation in the department's Office of Governmental and Public Affairs.

Art Club to exhibit

The Pampa Fine Arts Association and the Pampa Art Club will present an art and sculpture exhibit in the lobby of the M.K. Brown Auditorium Thursday evening prior to the Annual Chamber of Commerce Meeting.

The exhibit will contain 87 works of 29 people of some of the finest works of Pampa artist.

The 53rd Annual Meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. featuring the Pampa High School Band and Choir. Tickets are available at the Pampa Chamber of Commerce office and from any director of the Chamber of Commerce.

'Tortilla Curtian' compared to wall

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "Tortilla Curtain" is being compared to the Berlin Wall as Mexican-American groups protest plans to construct 12 miles of sturdy fences along the Mexican border.

"The Berlin Wall is a pretty potent symbol... it would be strange if (Russian Premier Leonid) Brezhnev made a speech from a platform on the (Mexican side of the fence)," said Ed Pena, director of the League of United Latin American Citizens referring to President Carter's speech at the Berlin Wall earlier this year.

The LULAC spokesman was joined by representatives of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, the American G.I. Forum and the U.S. Catholic Conference at a Monday press conference that coincided with the government's official announcement of the 10-foot-high fence featuring concrete bases and hard-to-cut, razor sharp steel meshing.

The first of three such fences will be built in the urban areas of El Paso and San Ysidro, Calif., with a third fence scheduled for San Luis, Ariz., next year.

"Building these fences is an act of unwarranted, stepped-up hostility directed both towards Mexico and Mexican-Americans," said MALDEF President Vilma Martinez. "Is this the administration's new good-neighbor policy? Is this the new proposal to defend human rights — barbed wire fences?"

However, Immigration and Naturalization Service Commissioner Leonel Castillo, one of the highest-ranking Hispanics in the Carter Administration, said reaction to the fences "draws a lot of inference from a $2 million expenditure."

Bellard gone despite record

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard, stung by two straight losses and campus signs proclaiming "Make Emory A Memory" has resigned despite a seven-year record as the winningest football coach in the Southwest Conference.

Tom Wilson, a master of the information when he played in the same backfield with Donnie Anderson at Texas Tech in the mid-1960s, was named interim head coach. Assistant athletic director Marvin Tate assumed Bellard's athletic directorship, also on an interim basis. Bellard, criticized by vocal Aggie fans for sticking with his wishbone formation despite the presence of fleet Curtis-Dickey, handed his resignation to Tate, who read it to a shocked Aggie team prior to Tuesday's practice.

"I've certainly got some beliefs and I'll certainly express them," said Wilson, finalist last year for the head coaching job at Texas Tech before Rex Dockery got the job. "But we line up against Rice Saturday, and it's hard to change in three days." Bellard, who posted a 44-27 record including losses the past two weeks to Houston and Baylor, declined to say why he resigned, but indicated he may get out of the coaching profession.

"I have no plans at the present," Bellard said. "And I have no plans to remain in athletics, but I've always been able to earn a living." Starting safety Carl Grulich said, "I'm as shocked as the rest of the players. It's difficult at this time to understand if he quit on his own or if it was because of the pressure." Tight end Russell Mikeska said Bellard's action really surprised him because the happiest he'd seen Bellard recently was at Monday's workout.

"We kind of came together on the field and were hollering and jumping around and he looked almost jubilant as he said, 'Damn. I love that spirit.' "The thing that hurt me so bad was I've been with Coach Bellard five years and he's been so good to me. When they told us, I felt like all of a sudden part of my life had been torn away." Mikeska said he was so angered by signs on campus criticizing Bellard that he and a teammate went out looking for the signs to tear them down. Mikeska said the signs were gone, however.

Bellard, who fathered the wishbone formation as an assistant coach to Darrell Royal at the University of Texas, posted a 3-8 record in 1972, his first season at A&M.

The Aggies were 5-6 the next year before reeling off consecutive winning seasons of 8-3, 10-2, 10-2 and 8-4. A&M started this season with a 4-0 record and ranked sixth in the nation until two weeks ago when the Aggies were shut out by Houston, 33-0.

Last week then-winless Baylor scored a 24-6 upset over the Aggies as the A&M offense, ranked third nationally in total offense prior to the Houston game, failed for the second week to score a touchdown.

EMORY BELLARD resigned as Texas A&M's head football coach Tuesday. His team has lost its last two Southwest Conference games and failed to score a touchdown.

Dolphins to begin vigorous training

The Pampa Dolphins swim team walked off with several awards from a tough meet in Amarillo over the weekend. Midland's team won the meet easily, with the Amarillo Aquatic Club coming in second.

Swimmers doing exceedingly well for Pampa included Cindy Raymond (200 free, 100 fly and 500 free), Clay Douglass (500 free, 50 free), Richard Steger (200 breast, 100 free and 200 back), Amy Raymond (100 fly, 100 breast), Lisa Raymond (400 medley, 100 back), Susan Darling (50 fly) and Tim Anderson (100 fly).

Missing their times but still swimming well were Robbie Hill, Reid Steger, Rickie Hill, Raymond Hill, Julie Turner and Shane Ethridge. Ethridge and Douglass will travel to Midland for a meet this weekend, but return to begin vigorous training on Tuesday. Coach Mike Eckhart said the team will begin one-hour (6-7) morning workouts, as well as their 4:30-6:30 evening sessions. The Dolphins will swim an average of about 8,000 yards per day with the two workouts. Eckhart said the swimmers put in many long hours of practice and would welcome any visitors to their club at the Pampa Youth Center Monday through Friday.

AHS blows past Pampa

The Pampa High School volleyball team was handed its first loss in district competition here Tuesday as the Amarillo Sandies topped the Harvesters 6-15, 14-9, before a crowd of about 200.

The loss gives Pampa a 3-1 record in District 3-AAAA competition and a 17-3 record for the season. Amarillo moved up to a 3-0 district record and 20-2 on the season.

The Harvesters jumped to an early lead in the first game, picking up two points with Mia Dacus at the serving line. The serve changed hands three times before Amarillo was able to get a point on the board.

The game seasawed back and forth until Mary Skoog came to the line for Pampa with the score 3-5 in Amarillo's favor.

Skoog added four points with the help of some good blocks from Sharron King and Demetria Simmons, giving the Harvesters a lead they never lost.

With King serving, the Harvesters took advantage of some mistakes by Amarillo and chalked up eight straight points for the 15-6 win.

"They let us win the first one," Coach Lynn Wolfe commented after the match. "They just stood there." Amarillo came back in the second game with team play and solid serves, but were still unable to totally dominate the Harvesters.

Amarillo's Karen DeArmond quickly put two points up for the Sandies, but Dacus came back with three for Pampa with Simmons and Teresa Stafford making key blocks.

The Sandies regained the lead with Shana Kelly behind the line, giving Amarillo a 4-3 lead. The serve changed hands twice before Skoog was able to tie the score at 5-5.

Amarillo took the lead for the last time but the Pampa defense allowed the Sandies to score only nine points in five minutes.

The eight-minute clock ran out with Amarillo leading 14-9.

The final game of the match saw Amarillo build up a five point lead. However, the Harvesters fought their way back to an 8-8 tie with Dacus picking up four of those points.

With 1:16 left in the game and the score tied at 9-9, Amarillo's Carol McDaniel put the go-ahead point on the board. The Sandies held on for the win as time ran out with the score 14-9.

"They (the Harvesters) played a pretty good game," Wolfe said. "It was a tough team they were playing. We hoped to catch them in another lull, but we didn't."

Perry oldest Cy Young recipient

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "I'm going to dedicate it to people over 40," said Gaylord Perry, the San Diego Padres' 40-year-old right-hander after running away with the Cy Young Award, as the National League's best pitcher and setting some records doing it.

Perry's landslide victory, announced Tuesday in New York after voting by the Baseball Writers Association of America, made him not only history's oldest winner of the coveted pitching honor but also the first to win it in both leagues.

The only pitcher named on all 24 ballots — from two of the association's members in each NL city — Perry received 22 first-place votes and a pair of runner-up ballots. The five-three-one point system gave him 116 points, far ahead of Burt Hooton of Los Angeles, who had 38 points, Vida Blue of San Francisco, with 17 points, and J.R. Richard of Houston, with 13.

"It was exciting when I won it the first time," said Perry, the American League's Cy Young winner in 1972 when he had a 24-16 record with Cleveland. "But this one has more power and pleasure in it."

"This time I was 40 years old and it was the first time the Padres have ever played .500 ball or better," he said. "I hope I'll be part of the San Diego franchise for a long time."

Perry, 21-6, topped the 20-victory mark for the fifth time in a dazzling career stretching back to his major league debut with the San Francisco Giants in 1962. He has won 19 games twice and 18 games once, and it was also the 13th consecutive season he has won 15 or more.

Perry, whose NL record is 155-115 and AL mark 112-91, led the Padres to their best season ever, a fourth-place finish in the NL West with an 84-78 record. He has also pitched for the American League Texas Rangers and his career total 267 victories makes him the winningest active pitcher in the big leagues.

"The thing I'm most proud of," Perry drawled in a telephone call to his San Diego mates as he swilled champagne at his Williamstown, N.C., farm, "is my consistency. I started the season figuring to win 12 to 15 games. I wanted to help the team develop a winning attitude and it did."

Perry's 1972 award came in his first year with the Indians after he was traded by the Giants. The Cy Young trophy he walked off with Tuesday also came in the first year following a trade, this time by the Rangers for $125,000 and relief pitcher Dave Tomlin.

Altobelli named best manager

By ERIC PREWITT AP Sports Writer SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joe Altobelli knows how to get those 1.7 million baseball fans — more than anyone believed existed in San Francisco — back to Candlestick Park next season.

"They'll come back if we play the game the way it's supposed to be played," said the manager whose San Francisco Giants played good enough to lead the National League's Western Division most of the 1977 season.

Altobelli was named The Associated Press' National League Manager of the Year on Tuesday, receiving 199 votes of the 363 cast by sports writers and broadcasters. Pittsburgh's Chuck Tanner received 70 and Tom Lasorda of Los Angeles was third in the voting with 56. "I'm very honored, but I feel our success was an organizational thing," Altobelli said by phone from his home in Rochester, N.Y.

"Spec Richardson (general manager) did such a good job, making the trades which helped our club. The front office did a great job, starting with (owners) Bob Lurie and Bud Herseh," he added.

Preseason trades brought the Giants pitcher Vida Blue and first baseman Mike Ivie, and the team's bench was strengthened later by the addition of such players as Roger Metzger and Heity Cruz.

The Giants became one of the few teams in baseball history to improve home attendance by more than 1 million in one year, going from 700,056 last season to 1,740,477 this year.

"They are different."

"The last thing I want to do is think about death. But the time will come. Maybe not today or even tomorrow, but the time will come. For my family's benefit, I took time to check into the facts about funerals and the available benefits from Social Security and the Veterans Administration. I went by and visited with the people at Duane-Smith Funeral Home. They are different. Different because they were really interested in me having the facts. They answered all my questions and even gave me a booklet to take home. They told me they had those books for anyone who wanted them; and just for the asking too. I liked their open attitude and that's why when the time does come, I'll trust the Duane-Smith Funeral Home."

Break turns into blowtorch

BROOKSIDE VILLAGE, Texas (AP) — The explosion of a natural gas pipeline into a giant blowtorch seared, killed five persons and turned a trailer park into a battle scene — wrecked homes, blackened fields, and the weeping screaming injured.

"When we got here it looked like something from a war," said Frank Noe, a volunteer firefighter. "We found the first body in the field and it was still burning. We put it out."

"I went through World War II, but I never saw anything like this."

The unexplained explosion of the 30-inch pipeline ripped through the mobile home park as its residents slept at 3 a.m.

Tuesday. At least 50 residents and rescue workers were injured, and one woman was still missing a day later. About half the 23 mobile homes at the Royal Mobile Home Park were destroyed.

At least one official feared the death toll would climb. "Some people may have been completely incinerated from the heat and we may not find them at all," said Fire Chief Bill Wilcox of nearby Friendswood.

Julie Bertothy, the first police officer to reach the scene, said he was met by the screams of panicked residents.

"People rushed my car," the Pearlland police officer said. "A lot of them were screaming, many were in shock." The injured, he said, had "flesh dripping from their bodies like water."

All around the rural mobile home park was a twisted mass of metal and charred ruins, steel frames and trailer home siding and burned-out cars, their paint boiled away by the furnace-like heat.

A 30-foot crater smoldered after the gas fire burned itself out some three hours after it began.

One resident described the blast. "I thought it was a tornado," said Kathie Mahaffey, who had been asleep in her trailer with her two infant daughters. "Everything started falling off the walls and I knew it was time to get out."

Others felt the same fear, but died. The five victims were found face down in an open field — apparently fleeing for their lives.

The Brazoria County sheriff's office identified the dead as Thelma Sue Hardcastle Jones, 39; Wilbur Hanegan, 61; Sandra Worthy, 28; Fred Worthy, 36; and Peggy Sue Worthy, 4.

A fourth member of the Worthy family, 14-year-old James, was hospitalized in serious condition at the Shriners Burns Institute in Galveston.

Officers identified the missing woman as Ivey Beasley, about 60. Police said her frame house, near the trailer park, was razed by the blast.

Brookside Village is on the southeast outskirts of Houston in an area covered by a patchwork of oil, gas and chemical pipelines that supply a 200-mile industrial area extending from Freeport to the south and to Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange on the east.

Headquarters is calling but I won't go

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyle Pichelman is general manager of a metal manufacturing company in Peoria, Ill. He and his family have moved 10 times in the last 16 years, always because he was offered a better job.

But times are changing for today's executives.

The last time Pichelman, 41, was offered a new job — which meant another move and about a $4,000 salary increase — he turned it down.

And it will take more than a few thousand dollars in pay to get Pichelman — and thousands of professionals like him — to move again.

"I left the decision up to him, but we both knew that this time there was my job to consider," said Mrs. Pichelman, who at 38 is the mother of two children, ages 12 and 15. "I had been at home for 13 years, but two years ago I decided I wanted a paying job."

She got one and now earns about $18,000 as a financial analyst for the City of Peoria, bringing the family income to $45,000-$50,000.

"If the right job for Lyle came along, we'd take it," she said. "But I wouldn't want to step down financially or professionally. I like my job."

The Pichelmans are not alone.

Executive recruiters, management consultants and company personnel officers report that American professionals agonize more now over job transfers. And more people turn down jobs, even promotions.

Behind the wariness are myriad changing social attitudes. More wives are working, and they are contributing significantly more to family income. And couples are finding that uprooting a family has more hidden costs than once realized, psychological and financial.

"Back in the mid-1960s, the go-go '60s, there was a risk-taking tempo I don't see today," said Gerard R. Roche, president of New York-based Heidrick & Struggles, one of the largest executive recruiting firms. "People would go anywhere for an extra $4,000 and a new title."

"But there's been a swing back to the hearth. People are saying, 'I have a beautiful home; my kids are in school. I'd prefer not to uproot.'"

Carl W. Menk, president of another large recruiting firm, Boyden Associates, put it this way: "Five and 10 years ago, people were more inclined to change jobs. Today people have different goals and different values. Not everyone wants to be chief executive officer anymore. They get to a point where they say, 'I've achieved what I want to do. This kind of thinking didn't exist 10 years ago.'"

Dr. Eugene Jennings, a Michigan State University business management professor, said that with inflation growing, he finds people get choosier about whether and where they'll move.

"People are developing geographic tastes in ways I've never seen in the 25 years I've been monitoring mobility in corporations," he said. "A whole psychology has developed that says, 'I want to be environmentally free of congestion, pollution, commuting.' It's a resurgence of the old theme — go West. Now it's not a direction but a spirit. People are saying, 'Get off my back. Let me live my life.'"

Jennings' research shows the most popular places in which to live are: San Francisco, Seattle, Boston, Connecticut, Denver, Dallas and Cleveland.

A study this year by the Employment Relocation Council in Washington shows that 30 percent of its member companies report problems with employees accepting transfers to high-cost or undesirable locations. However, only 3 percent reported serious problems.

"California was noted as a problem most frequently, generally due to housing problems," the report says. "The New York-New Jersey area followed, problems mainly attributed to the cost of living. Other (problem) areas mentioned were: Chicago, the northeast United States-New England; Washington, D.C.; Houston; Detroit; and Philadelphia."

The study shows the average cost of moving a homeowner in 1977 was $11,740 — up 12 percent from the 1976 average of $10,440 and 50 percent higher than the 1973 cost of $7,800.

And rising moving costs are only part of the problem. Researchers say executives who once demanded salary increases of 10 to 15 percent to move now are getting 20 to 30 percent.

On the light side

President Carter, We Want You OXFORD, Neb. (AP) — Oxford Community School students and teachers were determined to impress President Carter.

School principal Kris Strunk called the White House recently and was told Carter would consider coming to Oxford to kick off American Education Week.

Nov. 12-18, if he received a formal invitation.

Ken Wolzen, an Oxford sign painter, was armed with craft paper and asked to create something "eye-catching."

He came up with a 30-foot-long letter that cost $3.50 to mail to Washington.

The school's students, teachers and administrators can only hope the president is properly impressed, but from the invitation's P.S., it appears they're hedging.

"If you can't make it, we'd love to have your mother," they wrote.

Rate hike to affect Miami area

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Cities Service Gas Co. is seeking a 7.7 percent average increase in natural gas prices in a five-state area in an application to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

The requested hike of $22.2 million a year would increase the average homeowner's gas bill by about $1 per month, a company spokesman said.

Cities Service serves more than 500 communities in Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Texas.

The company spokesman said the revenue is needed because of increased pipeline operation costs and the need for a reasonable return on investments. He said transportation costs were a major item listed in the application.

Although Cities Service asked the rate change be made effective Nov. 23, it could be delayed by the commission.

Washington briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three American cities are making big efforts to land the 1980 Republican National Convention, with New Orleans bragging about the Superdome and fancy restaurants and Miami Beach modestly claiming that it "has it all."

Michigan Gov. William Milliken had a different approach in backing Detroit's bid. He said, "One thing that both the Republican Party and Detroit have had in common in recent years has been a tendency on the part of a number of people to write them off as dead. I personally have refused to accept either verdict."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York congressman says strict U.S. compliance with NATO restrictions on technological exports to the Soviet bloc is hurting American producers but hardly stopping such exports from other NATO countries.

Rep. Jonathan Bingham, a Democrat and chairman of an international relations subcommittee on economic policy, said Monday a Cleveland company tried for two years but failed to obtain an American license to export a machine to the Soviet Union "despite the fact that a French company is filling a Soviet order for nine comparable machines."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Travel on U.S. airlines, up nearly 20 percent this year, won't hold that pace but should grow steadily at a rate of 6 to 7 percent in the next few years, says Transportation Secretary Brock Adams. He said Monday, "Travelers are finding air transportation within their means, and are changing their habits accordingly."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government auditors say the Environmental Protection Agency should search diligently for less costly ways of fighting pollution.

The General Accounting Office noted Monday that the nation will spend $423 billion on pollution controls by 1984 and asked, "Have all the pros and cons been weighed objectively?" The report said such "questions should be answered as definitively as possible before the nation embarks on multibillion-dollar decisions that have environmental, energy and economic consequences."
