"The killings and chaos in many parts of the country reached such a stage as to endanger the country's independence. The deplorable events of Sunday which set the capital on fire caused the resignation of the government. Campaigning to go down to the wire

Most major candidates are saying they will find the time for some last-minute campaigning even after casting their own ballots Tuesday.

Then comes the hard part, waiting for the returns. Democrat John Hill, seeking the Texas governorship for the next four years, will vote about 7:30 a.m. Tuesday at his home precinct then fly to Houston, San Antonio and McAllen for one last chance to round up voters. Hill will be at the historic Driskill Hotel in Austin Tuesday night to wait results.

Republican Bill Clements will vote early at his home precinct box in Dallas then take his 90year-old mother to vote at her about 9:30 a.m. Clements plans some informal handshaking and campaigning in downtown Dallas and shopping centers before flying to Austin. He will have his headquarters in the Sheraton Crest Hotel election night.

Republican John Tower, seeking re-election to the U.S. Senate, plans to make his last campaign appearance Monday night at a rally in El Paso, then he will fly home to Wichita Falls. Tower plans to be at the Trade Winds Hotel in Wichita Falls Monday and to wait for returns that night.

Democrat Bob Krueger, also seeking the Senate seat, will be up early to vote about 7 a.m. in his hometown of New Braun-day campaigning in San Antonio and perhaps some of the nearby small towns. He will return to the Faust Hotel in New Braunfels to listen to early returns, with plans to go to Driskill in Austin later in the night.

Mark White, Democratic candidate for attorney general, will vote at 10 a.m. Tuesday at his home precinct in Houston. Later. after some campaigning in Houston, he will go to Austin where he also plans to wait for returns in the Driskill Hotel.

Jim Baker, the Republican candidate for attorney general. plans to finish his campaigning in El Paso Monday night and return to Houston.

Bobby Armstrong-it's a dog's world

Armstrong is Pampa's Animal Control Warden, i.e. "dogcatcher." He's been on the job for six months, and worked more or less on his own until recently, when the city hired Travis Howell as his partner.

It's a dogs' world for

Bobby Armstrong. It's

supposed to be.

"This job is alright," he says of his admittedly unglamorous profession. "It ain't the greatest, but omebody has to do it."

Armstrong, 20, was born in Pampa but grew up in Amarillo. Before signing on with Animal Control, he worked at Malcolm Hinkle Inc. for three years.

He and his wife. Linda have been married for one and - a - half years; they have a nine - month - old son, Robert Jr. His wife, who assisted him until Howell became his partner, now works at the Hendrick Animal Hospital.

The Animal Control men work through the Pampa Police Department under the supervision of Lt. J.J. Ryzman. They spend their time attending to the city pound located in the Hobart St. Park, and oruising the city in a green municipal pickup truck, answering

Nature, the polluter

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is riled, and it is easy to see whyit would be. When a child turns from the thinking of strong willed parents, reaction can be expected. Even though the child is studious and dedicated to objective truth, trauma of the parents is not les-

A recent article reveals that nature is a major polluter and that vegetaion is a sizable contributer to so called smog. The revelation evolves from a study funded by EPA.

A statistical hypothesis was made by a team from San Francisco's Bay Area Pollution Control District. The team was headed by James S. Sanberg, chief meteorologist and the study triggered an angry reaction from the EPA, as well as a qualifying press release from Sandberg's own agency bosses.

"This challenges the status quo of EPA and other air pollution control agencies," said Reinhold A. Rasmusen, professor at the Oregon Graduate Center. "It raises a volatile subject," he declares and asks: "How much positive effect are we really going to achieve by rolling back man - made hydrocarbons?"

The Sandberg research portrays a convincing relationship between winter rainfall and summer levels of ozone, the oxidant used as a measure of smog. He suggests that vegetation growth increases the emissions of hydrocarbons which in turn form ozone. He estimated that during hot weather in the Bay Area, the hydrocarbons produced would exceed that produced by all human sources.

Some scientists urge cautious appraisal of the new findings, but others grow increasingly worried that federal officials are underestimating the role of nature in creating all that is at present being termed "pollu-

In California's celebrated Dow Chemical Co. case, plant emissions of less than 30 pounds per hour figured importantly in the denial of the project. This was despite the fact that calculations of the area's natural emissions were as much as 300 tons per day.

Patrick R. Zimmerman, environmental scientist at Washington State University, estimates that overall biomass emissions may exceed the contributions from human activity in the U.S. by as much as four times.

Although Zimmer man's studies were founded by EPA, the agency has chosen to ignore natural hydrocarbon emissions in the base used for regulatory decision making. And the Bay Area District failed to include natural emissions in a regional environmental plan unveiled in San

Sandberg's team found that hydrocarbon levels actually peaked during the 3 a.m. to 6 a.m. period, rather than during the commuter rush hour when man - made smog might be expected to be at its peak con-

Nature puts many things into the air which would come under the term "pollutant" as used by EPA and other environmental agencies. The wind carries powder dust from the deserts of Arizona, New Mexico and Utah into the upper atmosphere and this is carried hundreds of miles. Many hot springs areas exceed the ambient air limits and over the oil shale areae, hydrocarbons from oil in the shale are inviolation of air quality standards.

The recent antics of EPA officials does nothing to establish credibility and their cohorts. for them If nature is the greatest of all polluters, then perhaps it is time for our regulators to begin to define what actually constitutes dangerous pollution. They might even start by defining what is meantby clean air as it is directly applied to the health of mankind.

23,000 jobs lost to Texans

In testimony given by officials of the Texas Industrial Commission to the Texas House and Senate, it was revealed that in the past five years Texas lost 25 industries to surrounding states ... a loss of 23,000 jobs. The reason? Texas couldn't compete with surrounding states in the vital area of financing. This situation can and must be corrected

A very important amendment to the Texas Constitution will appear on this November's election ballot. It's Amendment Two - Jobs for Texans, and it will allow political subdivisions such as cities and counties to issue revenue bonds for the purpose of creating jobs.

The passage of this amendment will not mean any additional tax burden. Statutory legislation was passed safeguarding the taxpayer against additional taxes ... no taxes can be used to repay the bonds. The industrial project must pay for itself totally from the lease of the facilities. Furthermore, city and county governments will suffer no loss of tax revenue because no tax exemptions can be granted to the industry. No land can be taken through "eminent domain" for the purpose of an industrial project. What 'Jobs for Texans" will do is allow local governments to decide their individual economic future. It will allow both the banks and the citizens to participate in building a better future for their community through the purchase of these

A vote for Amendment Two - Jobs for Texans puts the decision in the hands of the people .. and that's what our system is all

When the "Jobs for Texans" Amendment is passed. Texas cities and counties can compete on a nationwide basis in attracting industry. Amendment Two - Jobs for Texans will allow cities and counties the power to put people on the job rolls and off the welfare rolls.

When "Jobs for Texans" passed both the House and Senate, there was not a single vote in opposition. The need for this amendment is very clear ... building industrial activity is to everyone's benefit in your community!

Technology transfers

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

A major, bipartisan effort to halt the sale or transfer of American technology to communist nations has been lauched in Congress. It's an effort that is long ovedue.

U.S. Rep. Clarence Miller of Ohio has introduced a bill - HR 14081 - to ban the sale of any goods or technology that has potential military, law enforcement, or intelligence - gathering value to the Soviets and other communist states

Congressman Miller and the co sponsors of HR 14081 deserve the thanks of the American people for introducing this legislation. Since the beginning of the so called detente era, the Soviets have been acquiring sophisticated American technology which has enhanced their war making capabilities.

In 1972, the State Department approved for export to the USSR 164 Centeralign - B precision grinding machines manufactured by the Bryant Chucking Grinder Co. of Springfield, Vt. These were used in the production of precision miniature ball bearings in advanced nuclear warheads. According to Rep. Miller, the ball bearings enabled the Soviet missiles "to rapidly change direction in flight and to achieve greater on - target accuracy

One wonders: how stupid can the American people be, to permit such sales of military technology? Yet the stupidity continues

Only recently, President Carter allowed the sale of a $144 million plant for making oil drill bits. This sale will speed development of the Soviet union's Siberian oil and gas fields, thereby augmenting the national power of the USSR.

Ample supplies of petroleum are especially important to the Soviets as the principal ground striking forces consists of tank armies equipped with more than 50,000 tanks. While Mr. Carter proposes increased assistance to NATO, his green light on the oil drill bits assures large fuel reserves for the huge Soviet combat formations in Europe.

There is plenty of blame to go around. Presidents Nixon, Ford and Carter - all have allowed or encouraged the transfer of strategic technology to the Soviets in the name of detente.

The Miller bill would give Congress a means of preventing the Soviets from upgrading their military capabilities through the use of American technology. Under terms of the bill, Congress would be allowed to veto any technology transfer

after it is notified by the President of the proposed export to the communist country and after the Defense Deaprtment gives Congress a military impact statement on the technology.

The congressional veto would consist of a simple majority disapproval resolution by either House or Congress.

This legislation is wisely directed at all communist countries, not simply the Soviet Pressures are growing for the sale of transfer of U.S. military technology to Communist China. One sale of advanced mapping equipment already has been made to Peking. The long - range impact of the transfer of American military technology to the Chinese Communists hasn't been studied. Indeed there is a ban inside the State and Defense Departments on serious studies of the impact. It's a taboo subject for U.S. researchers.

The powers that be apparently have decided that covert assistance to the Chinese Communists, via NATO partners of the Unted States, is to be encouraged. Congress should insist that U.S. technology or equipment isn't transferred to Peking by any roundabout route.

In the case of sales to the Soviet Union. it's unfortunately true that a few companies are willing to risk U.S. security in order to make a profitable deal. In the words of Congressman Miller, "We're selling the Soviets the rope that some day they would like to hang us with."

The bill to ban technology transfers to communist countries is necessary in order to deny the Soviets an opportunity to hold a necktie party for the United States.

How does it look in Illinois

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

CHICAGO (NEA) - Unless the Republicans surprise everyone with a sweep on Nov. 7, the off-year elections of 1978 are not likely to offer many clues to Jimmy Carter's re-election prospects for

But that doesn't mean that this year's balloting has no relevance to presidential politics. On the contrary, for at least three men who are eyeing Carter's job with more than casual interest, the Nov. 7 results will be crucial president's most likely Democratic challenger. The second is Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn., and the third is GOP Gov. James R. Thompson of Illinois All three are up for re-election this year. and all three must not only win but win big if they are to remain credible as presidential contenders for 1980. Which imposes added strains above and beyond the ordinary pressures of a campaign, especially for "Big Jim" Thompson. Thompson. 42, became a figure to be reckoned with in national politics when he won the governorship two years ago by a record-shattering 1.4 million votes, a 65 percent margin. But the very size of his 1976 victory is what makes his election sticky; it is a hard act to repeat

Thompson, a former federal prosecutor who made his name fighting corruption in Chicago, was blessed two years ago with an inept and unappetizing Democratic opponent put forward by the machine of the late Mayor Richard J. Daley.

This time, he wasn't nearly as lucky. The Democrats nominated their attractive and aggressive state controller, Michael Bakalis, 38, who has made a career of winning elections that were considered

Furthermore, Bakalis and his fellow Democrats who control the state legislature managed to steal the initiative last summer on the big issue of 1978 — tax reduction. They did so with a property tax rebate bill that Thompson felt obliged to veto for budgetary reasons.

Ever since then, the tax issue has dominated the gubernatorial campaign. Thompson belatedly countered his opposition with his own drive to put a referendum on the ballot asking voters whether the state constitution should be amended to impose a ceiling on taxes and spending. The referendum, however, is purely advisory and contains no specific

The petition drive for the "Thompson proposition" was scarred by charges of forged signatures and other irregularities, and cleared a court challenge only Oct. 18 - a bit close for comfort, since Thompson had already decided to peg his entire campaign to the proposal Bakalis is still pushing his property tax

Thompson needs every edge he can find. Although polls show him well ahead of Bakalis, voter turnout is likely to be way down from 1976 and that could spell trouble for the governor. Machine Democrats in Chicago will go to the polls come hell or high water, but the same is not necessarily true of Republicans in the suburbs and collar counties.

Thompson is banking on his tax proposition to entice voters to the polls, on the theory that a vote for it will translate into a vote for him. He insists he is not looking beyond this November's election, although he refuses to rule out a 1980 presidential bid. As a practical matter, it's all the same. Unless he wins - and wins big - this year, he can forget about 1980.

'TIP' -- and idea whose time has come?

The "real wage insurance" program which President Carter has asked Congress to approve in its 1979 session is a form of "Tax Incomes Policy," or "TIP" among the few truly innovative anti inflation concepts to emerge in the U.S. in

Under Carter's version, a worker who had accepted the wage - benefit guideline of an annual increase of 7 percent or less and then had been hit-by an annual rise in the cost of living of more than this limit would receive a "tax rebate" to make up the difference between his wage hike and the inflation hike

To illustrate, say you earn $20,000 a year and you get a pay - benefit increase in 1979 of $1,400 or 7 percent. Then, say the consumer price index next year jumps 10 percent. You would receive a check for $600 from the IRS (3 percent of your base pay and equal to the difference between your pay increase and your cost increase.) Your total pay boost would come to $2,000 or 10 percent - and you would have been insured" against '79's inflation.

But as Congress debates Carter's "wage insurance" proposal, you may be certain it will probe into the whole concept of a Tax Incomes Policy. And what may emerge at the end may be a whole new program of curbing inflation. Thus, this Q. & A. to guide you now: Q. Just what is "TIP"? Its full name is Tax - based Incomes Policy and it would use tax rebates as a "carrot" to encourage unions and businesses to moderate wage . - price increases or would slap on tax increases -

as a "stick" to punish them if their actions

The scheme rests on the principle well known to psychologists: you can alter people's actions by rewarding their desirable behavior and by punishing their bad. And its rationale is that if the tax system can be used for such desirable goals as spurring business spending on new plants and equipment or encouraging insulation of homes, why can't it be used to combat Evil No. 1 - inflation?

It first came to my attention back in 1971 when Dr. Henry Wallich, then of Yale University, and now a governor of the Federal Reserve Board, told me that he and an associate, Sidney Weintraub of the University of Pennsylvania, had developed the program. The Wallich - Weintraub concept favored the stick or penalty

Much more recently, Brookings Institution economist and former chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers Arthur Okun developed a version of TIP favoring the carrot approach. The Okun version of a tax rebate to those who obey guidelines is the one Carter adopted.

Q. What are some arguments in favor of a TIP concept?

In today's atmosphere of steep inflation and a deep inflation psychology, everyone tries to look out for me first. Costs are passed along to ultimate consumers; the free market provides little incentive for anyone - labor or business - to keep wages and prices under a lid and put the nation's overall economic welfare first. A version of TIP might provide precisely the prod needed.

"Nobody says TIP is easy, lovely or_ elegant," Okun told my Washington associate, Brooke Shearer. "The question is: is it manageable?" Okun thinks it is and so Congress well may conclude too.

Sylvia Porter

What's more, Okun continued, "there's not a lot of dialogue in this town really confronting these issues. There's just a lot of whistling in the dark." Talking TIP is one way to force more courageous thinking about beating inflation.

Q. What are some arguments against

A common criticism of penalty plans (the stick) is the unions still will demand - and firms will pay - increased wages above the guidelines, and the business simply will pass along their penalty taxes to their customers, thereby fueling more inflation. Another fear is that as a TIP proposal transformed through legislative tinkering into a system of wage - price controls. Some labor leaders fear it is a hidden way to keep labor's share of the nation's wealth from rising, fear that wage restraint wouldn't be matched by a slowdown in prices. Other administration officials think enforcing TIP would be a

made its way through Congess, it would be

Q. What's likely to happen? As the nation's dread of inflation intensifies and the traditional inflation fighting methods (credit restraint, government spending cuts, slashing budget deficits, higher interest rates) undermine the expansion (or kill it) TIP (carrot, stick or both) will get a try in some form. Its time has come

Clements attempting to show political gap

Associated Press Writer One year and $6 million later. Bill Clements is convinced he'll be the next governor of Texas. the first Republican to hold the office in 110 years.

The Dallas millionaire has blitzed the state with both per sonal appearances and broadcast commercials in an effort to defeat the favored Democratic nominee. Texas Attorney General John Hill

Clements has spent $6.2 million in the primary and general election, 60 percent of which was budgeted for media advertising.

In these final days before the Tuesday election. Clements is concentrating on the vote-rich areas of Houston and Dallas and making an effort to get some of the black vote, traditionally a Democratic strongpoint. Sunday, Clements attended services in a black Houston church and then was present at a banquet hosted by the United Negro College Fund

During the past week. he brought his campaign cry of "anew face is needed in Austin' to all sections of the state.

Clements, a former oil field worker who bought a couple of old drilling rigs and turned them into a multi-million dolfar, international company, became more optimistic each day as he received reports from his campaign workers. He also told voters that the polls showed him only a few percentage points behind Hill with about 15 percent of Texans undecided. During the past week, in his travels from the flat lands of the west to the piney woods of the east, he leveled some sharp personal attacks at Hill for his 'dirty campaign" and at President Carter for his stand on energy and economics.

He made every effort to put

Hill and Carter in the same political basket and warned that if Texans wanted the President reelected the best way to do it was to put Hill in the gover-

Carter has not been popular in Texas particularly because of his energy proposals.

Many of the attacks on Carter by Clements were welcomed with loud applause from those attending the numerous rallies, breakfast meetings, and nighttime barbecues

Clements had a few bumpy days when his campaign plane developed electrical problems. forcing him to miss the last scheduled major address of the race, a talk to an architectural society in San Antonio.

Then, as he tried to tell newsmen of his growing popularity among voters, he was forced to answer a flurry of questions concerning a lawsuit filed against his company

The legal action was taken by an Iowa businessman who claimed that SEDCO, a firm organized by Clements many years ago, had cost a loss of $16 million in a Persian oil ven-

Republican candidate said the lawsuit was nothing but an effort to harrass him and probably had been planted

Clements attempted to show the political gap that exists between him and Hill and repeatedly said voters should select a businessman with no obligations to anyone rather than a politician who had been running for governor since 1962 and bore a lot of political scars.

He also attempted to link Hill with "the old system and machine politics

"This should be the last year of machine politics in Texas. We owe it to the generations past who have suffered under this system and to the generations vet unborn.

In an effort to put juice into his campaign. Clements brought into the state Sen. Harrison Schmidt, R-N.M., a former astronaut and a member of Apollo 17. the crew that made the last landing on the

Investigators probe cause of child's death

DALLAS (AP) - Homicide investigators say they will await an autopsy report before questioning a mother further about the death Sunday of her 3-year-old son.

James McLean was dead and his twin sister, Christie, in serious condition when they arrived Sunday afternoon at the emergency room of an osteopathic hospital. Christie was transferred to Parkland Hospi-

Police said the children probably weighed less than 25 pounds and their arms and legs were about as big around as a A medical investigator quoted

Dr. Robert Sparks as saying the children appeared to be suffering from "malnourishment and dehydration.

Officer S.D. Jones said the children were covered with bed sores and bug bites, and that some of the sores were infested

"The little girl was just eaten up with them." Jones said he was told by members of the hospital staff.

Investigator Gerald Robinson said the mother. Kathy McLean, and other members of the family refused a request by police to allow officers to inspect the living conditions inside the home.

Robinson said the children's 26-year-old mother, who is divorced and is employed as a real estate salesman, called her mother Sunday afternoon and said her son would not eat. The mother called Mrs. McLean's sister, who went to the residence and found Mrs. McLean sobbing and holding her son's limp body in her arms, officers

Now is the time to plan tax return Assume you are married, fil-

Associated Press Writer Now is the time to start planning for the tax return you must file by next April 15 and the recently passed tax reform act could affect your actions.

Most of the bill's provisions do not take effect until 1979, but that doesn't mean you can wait to find out about them.

A key change is the increase in the standard deduction formally called the "zerobracket amount." And knowing about the change could help you decide whether to itemize your deductions for 1978.

When you spend can some times be as important as what you spend in determining your deductions and you may be able to save money by advancing or delaying major purchases and payments.

The idea is to use deductible expenses when they will do the most good, lumping them together into one year or another to boost your total deductions above the standard level.

Start by estimating what your 1978 deductions would be you itemized them. Try also to estimate your deductible expenses for 1979. Compare the totals to the standard deduc-

The new law. which will apply when you file your return in 1980, increases the zero-bracket amount to $3,-400 for married couples filing joint returns and $2.300 for single people.

If your itemized totals will be on the borderline - just about equal to the standard deduction - you might want to shift spending and, therefore, deduc-

Suppose you are considering buying a new car or other bigticket item. If you make the purchase in December, you would be eligible, if you itemize, for a sales tax deduction on your 1978 return. If you wait until January, to buy you'll get the deduction on the return you fill out in 1980

Two Party Tradition

When James Monroe, who became the nation's fifth president, described political parties as "the curse of the country," many of our first leaders agreed, and left them out of the Constitution. But parties have existed since our nation's beginning, as Americans banded together to elect candidates and influence government decisions. Unlike most democratic countries in Europe, the United States has generally had only two major political parties at a time. Today's major parties, the Republicans and Democrats, have taken turns controlling Congress and the White

With the cooled weather, rats and mice begin to look for more shelter and a warm winter home. Rats and mice have three requirements in order to live around your home or farm food, water and shelter. If you take away or prevent them from obtaining any one of these three itmes, then you should elminiate your rat, mice problem.

Sometime this is difficult to do and you may need to undertake a baiting program. Bait stations, located in barns, garages, grain bins and hog houses should be supplemented by perimeter baiting on the outskirts of these buildings.

Advice

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: It's 2 o'clock in the morning and I've torn up three letters to you, but I'm mailing this one because I

Over a year ago I met the finest man I've ever known. We became the best of friends. I don't know how it happened, but I fell in love with him, which is outrageous because he is

At first I tried to laugh it off. Then I tried avoiding him, but we work for the same company and I see him every day. I'm single, and I tried dating several men, but my mind was always on him. I'm not a 17-year-old school girl. I'm old enough to know better. I'm known as a very intelligent, rational person. I'm often called the "Dear Abby" of the office because everyone comes to me for advice. I have no one to talk to. If this man knew how I felt, he'd be shocked. And his wife would never believe it. She's a dear friend of mine. I never could come between a man and his wife. I wasn't raised that way, but I love him, Abby, and my only solution is to leave town.

I've lived here for years and I love my job and my friends. I don't want to leave. I know this sounds like a soap opera, but it's true. Please help me.

ACHING HEART

DEAR ACHING: You have built a strong physical attraction into a one-sided love affair through fantasizing. But what's been built can be dismantled. Don't run away. You'll only take your aching heart with you. Find a competent counselor (psychologist or psychiatrist) with whom you can talk freely about your feelings and the futility of loving another woman's husband.

Please take my advice, then write again in six months and tell me how you're doing. I care.

DEAR ABBY: About that woman who wanted to have a chastity belt made. A competent metalsmith should be able to make one without any problem. I don't happen to be one. but I would sure like to be at the airport when she goes through the scanner.

PHIL McNELLIS: DETROIT

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion of an incident: After not having spoken to me in almost three years, my sister recently sent me a copy of an insurance policy she took out before she took an airplane trip, naming ME as the

Do you think she's trying to tell me something?

DEAR BAY: Yes. She still lacks the courage to start talking to you, but in the event of her death, she'd like her money to talk for her. In other words, she's not as mad at

Have a question or comment for Abby? Address: Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ask Dr. Lamb Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband, 73, and I, 65, have been eating oranges or grapefruit for breakfast right along, Now I hear we should not be eating citrus fruits because we both have osteoarthritis. Is it true and are there any foods that make it worse

We have a rowing exknow if it is all right to use when we have arthritis in the back, hips and knees. Could we be irritating the arthritis more? We got it in the winter when it was difficult for us to get out and walk much for exercise.

DEAR READER — That's wild. There is nothing in citrus fruits that will in any way be detrimental to your arthritis. In fact, if anything, they might help. Go ahead and enjoy your oranges and grapefruits and ignore anyone who tells you they are harmful for your arthritis because they certainly are not.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-10, Osteoarthritis: Degenerative or Wear and Tear Arthritis, to give you more information on your prob-

Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. This issue will also tell you a number of things you will need to know about exercise and arthritis.

I wouldn't like to say specifically that you can use any particular exercise machine in the presence of your arthritis, because I don't know how severe your arthritis is or what deformities it may have caused. Only your doctor, familiar with your own case, can tell you that.

There is a general misconception about exercise and arthritis. It isn't necessarily beneficial to your arthritis to do large amounts of exercise. The purpose of exercise, if you have arthritis, is to maintain the full range of mobility of all your joints and movement of your muscles

Also, you hope to maintain a reasonable amount of your muscular strength. Otherwise, you really should rest the joints that are involved. A mild exercise routine that involves the full range of motion of all of your joints each day is useful. Excessive working of body parts may not be.

Swimming is good exercise for people with arthritis who can do it. The water helps to buoy the body and you don't have to bear the weight on the spine, hips and knees. It makes it easier for you to move your joints through a full range of motion. If you can't swim, you can do exercises in water which will also help you. Perhaps you can find a local indoor swimming pool that you can use during the winter months. DEAR DR. LAMB - I would like to know if not having enough potassium in your blood would make you have a heart attack? Can you give the foods that are nigh in potassium?

DEAR READER - A low potassium level in the heart cells may cause irregularities of the heart. Some of these are difficult to control. In severe cases, the irregularity can be fatal. Loss of potassium resulting from low carbohydrate diets is thought to be one of the factors in deaths associated with these fad diets.

If you eat a balanced diet, and are not taking medicines that would wash potassium out of your body, there isn't any reason that you should have a significant potassium deficit. Fruits and fruit juices are the most common good source of potassium in your diet. There is a significant and useful amount of potassium in milk as well as sodium (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Polly's pointers By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve and problem are one and the same. How does one make colors that 'leak" colorfast? I have tried using salt, white vinegar and baking soda but none helped. I really think T-shirts are the worst offenders. - BERLE

DEAR BERLE - As far as I know there is really no sure cure for this annoying problem. Sometimes the excess color seems to be washed out after several washings. Never soak garments with colors that "run," wash them separately in cool suds and rinse in cold water. Do this job as quickly as possible and let the garment get almost dry before ironing. Otherwise your ironing board cover will be a rainbow of colors. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Wear that too-short shirtwaist dress under a skirt as you would a blouse. There will be no riding up and you will not need a slip. - VIRGINIA

KIELBASA DUMPLINGS- great for snacktime

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor DEAR CECILY: Of all the different recipes from all over the world - Italian, Irish. Scotch, Chinese and so forth printed in our daily newspapers, why is it that seldom are there recipes for Polish dishes? As everyone knows. Polish food is delicious! There are millions of Polish-Americans. They, too, subscribe to newspapers. - FEELING.

OVERLOOKED. DEAR FEELING OVER-LOOKED: I'm sorry you have missed the recipes for Polish dishes that I have used from time to time. The following recipe is not from Polish cuisine but its goodness comes from its inclusion of Polish sausage kielbasa - which is popular nowadays in every part of the United States. These baked dumplings have a covering that is a little more like pastry than bread. — C.B.

KIELBASA DUMPLINGS 11/2 cups fine wholewheat flour

- 11/2 cups all-purpose white 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 package dry yeast 2 cup milk
- 12 cup butter or margarine

Stir together the flours. In the large bowl of an electric mixer stir together 1 cup of the mixed flours, the sugar, salt and yeast. In a small saucepan heat the milk and butter until very warm (120 to 130 degrees); butter does not have to melt completely. Gradually stir the milk mixture into the yeast mixture; beat at medium speed of mixer for 2 minutes. Add the egg and 1 cup of the mixed flours; beat at high speed for 2 minutes. Stir in enough more of the mixed flours to make a manageable dough. Turn out on a lightly floured smooth surface; knead until smooth and elastic - about 10 minutes. Place in a greased bowl and turn to grease top. Cover and let rise in a draft-free, warm place (80 to 85 degrees) until doubled - about 1 hour.

Cover the kielbasa with water; bring to a boil; simmer for 25 minutes. Drain and cool. Remove kielbasa casing and cut into 25 equal slices.

Punch down dough; turn out onto a lightly floured surface. Roll out to a 15-by 15-inch square: cut into 25 three-inch squares. Place a piece of kielbasa in the center of each square. Pull up corners of dough; pinch together and seal with a few drops of water. Place well apart on greased cookie sheets; cover; let rise as previously until doubled about 1 hour. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until browned - about 20 minutes. Serve warm or reheat.

If you're concerned about our national defense...If you're concerned about our military posture and people, you can't afford not to read this message.

By JAMES McCRORY The fact U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger didn't serve in the military or a civilian service group has come under attack from campaign manager for U.S. Sen.

The attack indicates the battle for the U.S. Senate, with only 40 days remaining before the election, is going from pea shooters to howitzers. Krueger's own campaign materials provided the opening for the attack by Ken Towery before the Bexar County Republican Men's Club in the San Anto-Republican Men's Club in the San Anto-R

Observing that Krueger "has the audacity to circulate material poking audacity to circulate material poking fun at John Tower for having been just an average enlisted man in the Navy, Towery said that Krueger had no time to devote to his country in those days.

"He had to spend his time hiding out in academia, studying poetry, while his peers were being called to the colors by the thousands," Towery said, reading the thousands," Towery said, reading the thousands, "Towery said, reading the thousands," Towery said, reading the thousands of Americans of VISTA, as thousands of VISTA, as thousands of Americans of to Krueger telling audiences Krueger will be a stronger advocate for national defense than Tower, Towery said all

There's a big difference between the candidates for U.S. Senate.

SENATOR JOHN TOWER

Throughout his adult life, he's maintained close ties to the military...Volunteered and served in the Navy during World War II... Still maintains reserve status as enlisted man...Has served on the Senate Armed Services Committee since 1965, now ranking G.O.P member of that committee...Staunch advocate of a strong national defense...Recognized leader in decisions on policy and legislation that affect our military in Texas, the U.S. and throughout the world.

Rated by U.S.. News & World Report as one of the five most influential members of the Senate... As Armed Services Committee member, has helped shape all major legislation relating to military and defense...Includes measures that have provided loan guarantees for Texas defense industries, preserving thousands of jobs.

Krueger succe ded former Democratic Congressman O.C. Fisher, who endorsed Krueger when he ran for his first term four years ago. Fisher, who served many years on the Armed Services Committee, has now examined the voting record of both men and has strongly endorsed Senator Tower in this election.

"I found his (Tower's) record to be far superior to that of his opponent," Fisher said, on October 1.

REP. ROBERT KRUEGER

REP. ROBERT KRUEGER has no military ties whatsoever, personal or in the Congress. He should be named the "AWOL Congressman" since he has missed most of the major recent votes of importance to defense and to veterans.

In recent years, he missed the following votes:

- Military Construction Appropriations, FY76, 10/8/75
- Military Construction Authorization Conference Report, 7/1/76
- Supplemental Defense Authorization, FY78, 10/12/77
- Military Construction Appropriations, 6/16/78
- Supplemental Defense Authorization, FY78, 10/12/77
- Bill to increase funds for annual programs of grants to states for construction of veterans medical care facilities, 4/4/77.
- Veterans Disability Benefits Increase, 5/23/77
- Dependents Allowance for Disabled Veterans, 6/28/78
- Veterans Disability Compensation Bill, 6/28/78
- Amendment to Civil Service Reform Act to retain existing veterans preference standards, 9/11/78 and 9/13/78

The stakes are high on November 7.

Americans to write their own laws

By JANE SEE WHITE Associated Press Writer

In the stillness of the voting booth, Americans will write their own laws Tuesday, deciding questions ranging from whether gaming should be legal to whether smoking should be outlawed in many public

Public attention has focused largely on tax issues on statewide ballots around the nation. but in 38 states voters will consider csome 200 major constitutional amendments, initiatives, and referenda. Their decisions could cast long shadows into the nation's future.

Among the key statewide questions to be answered on Tuesday:

Voters in California will decide whether to ban or regulate smoking in practically every public place. Californians will rule, too, on whether school boards should be required to fire or refuse to hire teachers for public homosexual acts.

Homosexuality is an issue as well in Dade County, Fla., where voters will decide whether to, in effect, restore the local gay rights provision which under the prodding of singer Anita Bryant - they repealed last year.

Floridians will consider an amendment to the state bill of rights that would ban discrimination on the basis of sex. Supporters think approval of the measure could create the momentum needed to compel the legislature to ratify the federal Equal Rights Amendment.

ERA is also an issue in Nevada, where voters will say "yes" or "no" to the measure. Their decision is termed a "non-binding, advisory" message to state lawmakers, who have not ratified ERA

Back in Florida, voters will rule on whether to legalize casino gambling along a 21-mile strip of Miami Beach. In Virginia, too. gambling is a question; voters there will decide whether to legalize pari-mutuel betting at horse tracks.

Just six months after the first legal casino opened in Atlantic polled on whether to allow sports betting on jai alai. And Missourians will decide whether to reword the definition of a lottery so that they can join in games like the Reader's Digest Sweepstakes.

Nebraska and Alaska ballots will ask environmental questions: The Alaska measure would outlaw throwaway bottles and cans; Nebraska's proposal would impose a 5-cent deposit on all beverage contain-

Michiganers will consider whether to raise their legal drinking age to 21. Montanans will decide if the legal age should be hiked to 19 and if wine sales will be allowed in grocery and drug stores as well as in state-licensed liquor

North Dakota voters will address themselves to health costs, deciding whether to allow the state health officer to hold hearings to set maximum charges on all medical serv-

In New Hampshire, residents will vote on a measure guaranteeing their right to keep and bear arms. In Idaho, they'll decide whether to prevent confiscation, licensing, registration or special taxation of firearms and ammunition. And, in Nevada, voters will decide whether they want to eliminate a constitutional measure that bars duelers from holding office.

He absorbed a three-fold increase in his office caseload by hiring top legal talent capable of higher productivity. Federal programs may have risked recession

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

DALLAS (AP) - Robert S. Strauss, the President's special inflation counselor, had just listened to a newsman say that Washington's combined savethe-dollar and anti-inflation program perhaps risked recession.

He bristled. "Some people will say damn near anything." he snapped. "There is a risk," he said, and his irritation served to demonstrate it. "But the upside is 10 times the downside. You have to take risk."

The White House-Federal Reserve plan, he said, was "total, balanced, comprehensive." If it was risky also, he seemed to say, well so be it. "We need to do positive things," he said. Nevertheless, the newsman was merely expressing a new thought that suddenly had been introduced into the convention of savings and loan associations here last week: the probability of recession

In most previous recessions. housing led the downturn. This time the home lenders had felt secure against the warnings because they had plenty of money to lend. But with interest rates bound to go even higher, they wondered who could afford to borrow, even for a home.

"I think we're beginning to see the top in the amount of interest that home buyers are willing to pay." said Kenneth Thygerson, chief economist of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, who were in con-

This is the most important political contest we have this fall. The race is not for the Presidency, the U. S. Senate or the U. S. Congress. It doesn't involve many thousands of voters or millions of dollars in campaign expenditures. It does involve honest, dignified and capable administration of local government and an outstanding candidate. This race is for Gray County Judge and the candidate is Carl Kennedy.

Carl Kennedy was born and raised in Pampa; was president of the student body in high school, fullback for the Harvesters and a member of the National Honor Society.

Carl Kennedy graduated from Texas Tech, with a degree in Business Administration, was president of the senior class and is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Most often asked Questions C Nutrition BY: KATRINA BIGHAM

Q. Tell me about alfalfa A. According to nutritionist Linda Clark, alfalfa is one of the most complete and nutritionally rich of all foods tested. In addition to a fabulously high potency of vitamins and minerals, it is high in protein and contains every essential amino acid. Alfalfa has been found to provide resistance to disease and seems to help those ailments that end in "itis" such as arthritis. It is also known to help prevent exhaustion.

Q. Which of the B vitamins are particularly good for teen-age acne problems?

A. "The Nutrition Almanac" states that in addition to vitamin A, of course, the B-complex vitamins, B-2, B-6 and pantothenic acid help reduce facial oiliness and blackhead formation. Remember that individual B vitamins should not be taken alone in large potencies over long periods of time, but should be taken with a good, balanced B-complex supplement or, preferably, with a natural source of B-complex vites such as brewer's yeast, liver, wheat germ, rice, polish or blackstrap molasses.

Vitamin C aids in resisting the spread of acne infection, and vitamin D guards the body's store of calcium from excretion. And remember what we told you about taking a vitamin E capsule, pricking the end with a needle and applying it directly to the blemish to aid in healing and the prevention of scarring.

Most newspapers pick Hill over Clements

"John Hill may be the best candidate for governor in decades. Judging from his record, he should win easily over his Republican opponent, whose chief qualification is money. Unlike his opponent, Hill is not given to outrageous promises, intemperate personal attack or underhanded tactics. He will work hard for the best interests of the state and its people."

— Austin American Statesman

"The more Mr. Clements has explained his blunt viewpoints — even those views we could agree with - the more he has raised doubt as to how effective a bulldozer could be in Texas government. Conversely, John Hill has grown in our evaluation as a man who not only is the best state attorney general in recent history, but also is a man with the intellience, savvy and ability to serve Texas well as governor."

- Abilene Reporter-News

"We believe Hill will bring vitality and leadership to state government. Hill is not an advocate of big government. Nor is he a free spender. He has pledged that no new taxes will be levied if he is elected. His anti-inflation program is the kind of fiscal conservatism Texans can accept gleefully."

- Corpus Christi Caller

"I co-sponsored strict beef import legislation and the Flexible Parity Act. American agriculture is our best hope for a sound economy."
