Surprise snowfall blankets Pampa

A blanket of snow covered most of the Pampa area this morning as a storm, predicted to travel far to the south, changed direction and dumped eight to 10 inches of snow on Pampa and the surrounding area.

However, the snow appeared to be over by noon as the sun peaked through the clouds.

The National Weather Service issued a travelers advisory after three to four inches of snow fell within a three-hour period.

It changed direction suddenly and then just stalled over the Panhandle, a spokesman for the service said.

We extended an advisory for the Texas Panhandle, western Oklahoma, the Oklahoma Panhandle and parts of eastern New Mexico.

Local authorities advised motorists to stay at home and off city streets.

From 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. we worked 17 accidents and more occurred that we didn't work, a police spokesman said. "All travel is discouraged. If a person is supposed to work we advise that they leave for their jobs as late as possible."

The streets are blocked by cars that have slid out of control or that have become stuck in the deep snow, the spokesman said. "State Highway 152 west bound has been closed and other roads are in simply terrible shape. No one should drive unless it is absolutely necessary."

The service had predicted that the snowfall would end before noon but a revised forecast called for continued snowfall with the possibility of 12 inches of snow before it begins to diminish.

City schools were scheduled to close at 1 p.m. today and the snow stopped several school buses this morning as they became stuck in the streets. Clarendon College-Pampa Center reported that all classes had been cancelled tonight.

A spokesman for the Department of Public Safety said that vehicles left by motorists along the roadway were causing extremely dangerous situations for other motorists and advised that all Panhandle highways were virtually impassable.

"We are having trouble driving to the scene of accidents so we know that the driving situation is terrible," the spokesman said. "No one should be driving on the highways unless it is an emergency situation."

Road crews made a futile attempt to clean some of the main roadways in Pampa but as one worker said, "We're fighting a losing battle. As soon as we get one street plowed it is just snow-packed again."

All city outdoor personnel were mobilized and patrolling Pampa streets this morning, assisting stranded motorists.

A HEAVY SNOWFALL impeded traffic throughout Pampa this morning and apparently caught a couple of motorcyclists by surprise at the Central Fire Station.

School board approves two band trips

By EUGENE LAYCOCK
Pampa News Staff

The planned trips of the Pampa High School Band to Nashville, Tenn. in May 1980 and Hawaii in June 1981 were approved by a 6-1 vote at the Pampa Independent School District Board Meeting Monday night.

Both plans were treated as one item. The dissenting vote came from Dr. Robert Lyle who said after the meeting that he was opposed to the trip outside the continental United States. Band Director Jeff Doughten said the eight-day trip to Hawaii will cost about $700 for each of the 196 band members and 25 sponsors expected to go.

About 125 extra seats are expected to be available on the jet, he said, and will be sold for $800 through the band department.

The band will compete in the 65th Kamehameha Day Celebration Parade and will tour the islands.

Meanwhile, members will probably spend three days away from home competing in Nashville against other schools. That excursion will cost between $23-24,000.

Several fund-raising projects will be sponsored by the band to make the necessary money for the trips.

In other business, the board unanimously accepted a bid from Western Building Specialties of Lubbock to replace some exterior doors at four schools.

Three types of doors were listed on the bidding table, which also contained six competing companies.

Joe McKay of Brasher

Goyette & Rapier Architects Engineers, school architects, said that the hollow metal vestibule doors were more durable than the aluminum entrance and vestibule doors.

McKay said that more than half of the aluminum door is shatterproof, tempered glass while the metal doors have an eight inch by three foot glass window.

He added that the aluminum doors will dent. The older doors at Pampa High School and at Baker, Mann, and Wilson elementary schools will be replaced with the metal doors.

The bids from the only two companies offering hollow metal door replacements were put to a vote. The Lubbock company's total bid of $43,441 was set against the $52,700 of Barnes-Smith of Amarillo.

Four unrepresented companies competed. McKay said that their bids were on the aluminum doors.

One year extensions of contracts were unanimously given to principals and to other school officials by the board. A leave of absence for Ramona Hite, a teacher at Pampa High School, was also granted.

Elections for Positions 4 and 5, now held by Al Smith and Curt Beck respectively, were set for April 7 at Pampa High School Music Building. Absentee voting will take place in the School Business Office of Carver Center, March 19 - April 3 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Candidates can file until March 7 with Dwan Walker, Business Manager and Tax Assessor-Collector, at the Business Office, 321 W. Albert Street.

Official: Oil finds strengthen Mexico

HOUSTON (AP) — Gale W. McGee, U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States, says vast oil and gas discoveries in Mexico have ushered in a new era of bargaining between the two countries.

McGee said Mexico now has a stronger bargaining position and no longer will be an underdeveloped nation to the south negotiating with the patronizing colossus to the north.

The ambassador was in Houston Monday to participate in a special project sponsored by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research. The current project is aimed at studying relations between the United States and Mexico.

Victor L. Urquidí, a professor at the El Colegio de Mexico in Mexico City, said his nation approaches negotiations with the United States with distrust.

"For Mexico, the United States is a superpower pursuing its own self-interest," Urquidí said. "I hasten to add that Mexico views the Soviet Union in the same light."

McGee said discovery of new oil holdings in Mexico "is a dramatic reminder of the urgency that already existed for better understandings. And, it would be best for Mexico and the United States if the oil and gas was sold to the United States because of the geographical conditions."

"Mexico should negotiate for the export of oil, but they have a built-in sale to the United States, the largest purchaser in the world."

McGee said when Mexican oil reserves hit the national market there could be a rapid development of the Mexican economy which would have a leveling effect on the flow of immigrant to the U.S.

"But, there will always be those in Mexico who want to come to the United States to work to supply the seasonal agricultural labor demand," McGee said. "This is useful in portions of the Southwestern United States and I don't think it will cease."

McGee's comments came a week prior to President Carter's scheduled visit to Mexico where a major issue will be the price the United States is willing to pay for Mexican natural gas.

Carter has said he will not personally negotiate the question of prices during the trip. He also has said that the United States is very interested in importing Mexican natural gas but that he sees no urgency in acquiring it.

Former Central Intelligence Agency director George Bush introduced McGee at Monday's program.

"Today, the United States is the preeminent economic and military power in the world, but has not effectively established a position of leadership appropriate to the new international picture," Bush said.

"The need for a fundamental review of our foreign policy is one of the most widely shared views in American politics."

test meeting by members of the American Agriculture Movement who are upset by low farm profits. Later in the day, police and farmers clashed.

Farmers blocked

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of militant farmers were dealt stern words by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland today while police stymied their traffic-snaring tactics by encircling their tractors with a wall of squad cars and other vehicles.

Bergland said the demonstrators, who tied the capital in knots Monday in a motorized display of force, "can't get their act together — so until they do, I'm not going to respond to their individual complaints."

In the first of several public appearances in which he was expected to reiterate a tough Carter administration line, Bergland said many of the farmers who participated in the American Agriculture movement protest were "generally representing what we describe as local problems."

"There are others who have made bad business judgments, paid too much money for land, others are seeking publicity and others are driven by old-fashioned greed," Bergland said on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" program.

Meanwhile, the capital's morning rush hour went smoothly as the farmers were denied their principal weapon of protest by police who kept their tractors penned on the Mall behind hundreds of cruisers, buses, garbage trucks, cranes and wreckers.

The police encircled the farm vehicles as they were parked during a rally at the Capitol Monday afternoon. The tactic guaranteed a smooth evening rush hour, and there was no let-up today despite the farmers' intention to put the tractors back on the streets.

"We feel like we're in bondage. I don't trust anybody I see out there," said Jerry Hanning, a farmer from near Lansing, Mich.

While the movement tried to get its machines in motion again — claiming a constitutional right to petition the government from the seat of a tractor — the indications were that this time the farmers would find stiff resistance in the government.

In Congress, Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said he would listen to the farmers' pleas for government action to insure higher prices.

Good afternoon

News in brief

The forecast for Pampa calls for snow today with an accumulation of 6-8 inches causing bad driving conditions. Temperatures are expected to reach the mid-30s and drop as low as 20 tonight. Wednesday's high should be near 50.

7,000 workers ordered back on job

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Union officials in Port Arthur ordered 7,000 idled members back to work today despite pickets thrown up at the mammoth Texaco flagship refinery here by strikers from a New Jersey local.

"They have a contract in effect and are expected to work," Larry Steffen, workmen's committee chairman for Local 423 of the Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers, said Monday night. But Steffen said he was unsure how many union workers were heeding the order.

Workers stayed away from their jobs Monday when unexpectedly confronted by pickets flown in by the striking OCAW Local 8-638 at the Eagle Point refinery in Westfield, N.J.

Voluntary youth program sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — A private group saying that alarming numbers of American youth are unemployed and unoccupied, advanced today a proposal for voluntary, non-military national service for young men and women.

The young people could be put to work caring for the sick, tutoring low-achievement pupils and providing day care for children, said the Committee for the Study of National Service.

2 more states join gas price suit

DALLAS (AP) — New Mexico and Wyoming have joined Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma in their federal suit to block federal price controls of intrastate natural gas, attorneys for several of the states said Monday.

The five states account for 87 percent of domestic natural gas production.

Assistant attorney generals for the five states met in Dallas Monday to discuss their pending suit, which challenges the constitutionality of the 1978 Natural Gas Policy Act.

Five of six other states, including one on the East Coast, have expressed interest in joining the action, assistant Attorney General Gary Geiser of Louisiana said. He did not elaborate on the states.

New administrations have taken over in Texas and Oklahoma since the suit was filed in November, but the officials said the momentum has continued.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coving Commandment.

A copper sword

At the same time that copper companies in the United States were having problems with a slump in demand and heavy competition from abroad they were forced to spend enormous sums to meet Environmental Protection (EPA) mandated pollution controls.

Today many of the leading producers are finding they have become cash-poor although still in asset-rich position. Copper industry executives reveal they have spent since 1970 about $2 billion to comply with EPA regulations on sulfur-dioxide emissions.

The EPA says they must spend another $1 billion before they are in complete compliance. In that same period the industry's debt has soared more than 12-fold to $3.2 billion from $250 million. Being in a cash poor situation makes some of the firms in the industry prime targets for take-overs.

Executives in the copper industry say the cost of compliance has been much steeper than necessary because they were forced to meet changing standards and much of the equipment had to be installed on a piecemeal basis. Copper company officials say that EPA regulations are far more stringent than scientists and public health officials had recommended. The industry was not given enough time to develop effective and cost-efficient technology to meet the regulations.

Hanging like the sword of Damocles over the industry are yet to be announced EPA controls regarding lead, arsenic and beryllium emissions. Specific guidelines for these elements have not been drawn up for compliance.

Richard Pendleton, vice president of Phelps Dodge, says his company had to rush to build a system that eventually didn't work. "We should be able to sit down and figure out a total approach," he said.

An analyst for a New York brokerage firm expresses the fear that EPA is out to shut down the copper industry. He said part of the shutdown "is happening now."

Officials of EPA admit that regulations exceed some recommendations, but they argue that stricter measures insure a "margin of safety." They say they cannot help but issue regulations, piecemeal because the law requires review and revision of the standards. They say, "There is no way of knowing that we would not find something new six months later."

We don't doubt EPA staffers will find many "new" things to harass this and other segments of our industries. This agency is awash with anti industrial activists. As careerists in the bureaucracy, they can fulfill their philosophical yearnings and at the same time enhance their own private fortunes as the growth of the agency's activities escalate.

We wonder how many of those in the EPA who are jeopardizing industry, its workers and investors, would give up anything they use which depends on resources development? These misguided souls don't seem to realize their activities could be dangerous to their own economic health as well as to all of the rest of us.

The damage to the copper industry cannot be related to any real cost-effective approach. It is more in the nature of death-effective edicts of an agency of the federal government.

Nature, higher law

When considering the futility of particular statutory laws, it is helpful to remember an important philosophical principle: natural law is stronger than any government might enact. Where the State tries to defy natural law (such as the supply-demand relationship), the result can only be painful dislocation.

This disruption occurs when government, as it is wont to do, tries to impose conformity in the behavior of unique and widely varied individuals. No two human beings are the same, either mentally or physically.

Often the disparities between individuals become bothersome to various interest groups which would prefer that all persons act in a particular way. Such pressure groups regularly use the apparatus of government to impose their designs of conformity by force.

In a broad sense it might be argued that such imposition is the raison d'être of government.

Not surprisingly, then, every government act violates the natural individuality of the citizens subject to the State's power. As a result, no government can ever really accomplish what its supporters desire. Even government cannot violate natural law.

In a rut? That's not all bad

By SAM CAMPBELL

Robert Browning wrote, "Grow old along with me, the best is yet to be." I don't know about that. Yet, on the other hand, the chap over 50 might as well believe it. Little is to be gained from believing anything else.

As the individual grows older, he tends to find the following in himself: 1. Less energy. 2. A diminished desire to try new methods. 3. A lessened ability to absorb new information easily. Often he is dissatisfied with what he has accomplished so far, and yet is reluctant to pioneer a different vocation. He is weary of the old rut, but whenever he looks at some other means of livelihood the more comfortable the rut becomes to him. Thus, he feels his universe to be shrinking. He envisions the time that he and his skills will be phased out.

At this time of life, the working man begins to envy independent professionals such as lawyers, accountants, physicians. He sees those occupations at the peak of their intellectual powers, and he wonders if he chose wrong at the onset of his own career.

But he is trapped. He can't go back to erase youthful decisions. Is there no escape?

Sure, there is. Browning summed it well. "The best is yet to be." You do well to peruse your personal liabilities, but look at the assets also. In a speech to the Springfield (Ill.) bar on how to run a law office, Abraham Lincoln said, "I've learned as much by my failures as by my successes."

Now a person age 50 or greater is bound to have made mistakes in his past. The question is, what did he learn from them? Experience really means the capacity to recognize one's own errors. The half-century-old man who can't do that has no more useful experience than a callow youth of 21.

Finding hitherto hidden virtues in the occupational rut is a mark of experience. You have learned to look at both sides — sometimes three or more — of a question. Sure, it would be glamorous to kick the employment traces, to scamper afield like a colt, but Experience (your experience) counsels that you examine existing virtues. See! You are smarter than you used to be.

Is your work boring, your days dull? No need for them to stay that way. Why not keep your job and learn everything that is new about it? What additional skills will improve your performance? Where may these be obtained? Check the library or bookstore. Look for listings of trade schools. Is there tedious or detailed work about the plant that younger workers lack the patience to pursue? That's when experience counts; it enlarges the working man's capacity for drudgery.

Lets look ahead; if we can

Forecasting is fun as long as one does not take it too seriously. A year ago did you know what would transpire in 1978? Nobody did.

The weather scientists can see ahead 24 hours quite clearly, a week dimly, more than that only speculatively. The economic soothsayers are even more nearsighted, but an increasing number of us get in the game each January. So, play ball!

Will there be a recession in 1979? A "recession" is when the economy "recedes" — that is, we produce a declining amount of goods and services — for a period of six months or more. There was no recession in 1978. Production kept on increasing, though at a rate of only about 3.8 percent.

In fact, there has been no recession for four years. Which, in itself, makes some folks say we'll get one in 1979 just because it's time. Traditionally, the economy rises for a few years or months, then falls for a similar period, then rises again. Don't embarrass the experts by asking them why. The bulls have an inning, then the bears. 1979 is high time the bears come to bat, they think. There is a more reasonable reason though. Much production is financed with borrowed money. But businessmen don't like to pay 14 percent interest for loans, which may be the asking rate before 1979 is over (the prime, or rock-bottom, rate has risen to 11.75 percent in recent weeks). Even if a company does not borrow to finance production — even if it used its own capital, saved from past production — it has the same high interest cost, for if it did not use this money in its own operations it could lend it to others at the same rate. Using the capital itself, it sacrifices that interest. The home buyers, and builders, too, are finding mortgage loans expensive. Some cannot borrow at any price because their state has a "usury" rate or legal ceiling on interest rates, and the rate on mortgage loans has crept above the usury limit. Usury laws are supposed to make loans less costly. They don't. They make them less available.

Many new homes were built in 1978. In 1979, the number will be less by 14 to 18 percent — Industry Week magazine says 20 percent fewer. That means demand for bricks, lumber, nails, paint, plumbing, furnaces, electric wiring, all the stuff that makes a new house a home will be down about a fifth.

Are we sure interest rates will rise higher? No, we are sure of nothing. We can only guess by examining the supply and demand of credit.

Credit is like rubber. It can be stretched, but not indefinitely. Like a rubber band, over-stretched it breaks. How far credit can be stretched depends upon the productivity of capital. (The loan officer of the bank has to judge this. It is he who controls the supply of credit.)

The demand for credit is the sum of the demands of the various would-be borrowers: consumers, home builders, industries, merchants, government. The aggregate demand for credit at present is very great. It threatens to run up against the limit of supply soon, perhaps early, more likely late in 1979. When this happens they call it a "credit crunch."

Some are softening their forecasts of recession in 1979 by calling it a "slowdown." Some are saying the sooner it comes the less it will hurt. The reason for that escapes me. But maybe.

Whenever it comes, a recession hurts the person who loses his source of income and does not find another. Some 5.9 percent of the labor force are in that boat now, down 0.5 percent from a year ago. It is bothersome to the person who loses part of his income.

In every recession, there are many people, probably a majority, who do not suffer at all. Some even benefit. During the recession we are supposed to have in 1979, the percentage unemployed will rise to about 7 percent, one estimates. This will not be a major disaster, considering the substantial unemployment compensation they will receive.

Will the inflation continue during the next recession? It did during the last one. If prices and wages were fully flexible, rising when demand exceeds supply and falling when the reverse is true, it would not. But if prices and wages were fully flexible, would there be any recession?

Two months ago, monetarist Milton Friedman was predicting 10 percent inflation in 1979. His theory is that inflation is generated by the creation of excessive money, that is, bank credit (stretching the rubber band too far). When the Federal Reserve stimulates too rapid growth in the supply of checkbook money, as it did during 1978, inflation is sure to follow about a year later.

No one but Jimmy Carter thinks Carter's anti-inflation program announced in late October will work. Carter says it is "voluntary," but others question this, and union leaders call for outright mandatory controls on prices and wages. Mandatory they could be before the year is up.

Through it all — and this is the only prediction I am confident of — the American economy will rock along, producing less than it can and should, but far out-producing any other. Government will regulate more, the people will clamor for more tax cuts and more goodies from government, and the illusion will spread that we can get something for nothing by political means.

But the good ship America will not founder. If experience is of any value we will end the year a wiser and a wealthier people.

What price gasoline

by paul harvey

Dollar a gallon gasoline is now in prospect for us — the United States — within the year.

The nations which have their oily hands ever deeper in our pockets are doing us a favor. They are forcing us to concentrate on accelerating the development and use of other sources of energy.

Can you believe that the United States is still "subsidizing" overseas oil producers? It involves a practice as complicated as it is silly which is known as the "entitlement program."

Also the United States is allowing itself to be hamstrung by homefolks in the development of our own resources.

Meddlesome interference by environmental radicals has become ludicrous.

The United States must promptly agree on reasonable environmental safeguards and then require unreasonable obstructionists to get out of the way.

In contemplating the appropriate response to any illness, physical or economic, one must balance potential risks against potential benefits.

There is no longer any doubt that the major threat to our nation's economic solvency is foreign oil. While there are other inflationary pressures shrinking our currency, this is the worst and most immediate.

While foreign oil producers blackmail us for another staggering 14.5 percent increase, our government continues to hold down the prices of gasoline and crude produced in the United States.

Price controls in effect right now in this industry are keeping oil company profit margins at the same level as 1972 — though the costs of producing and refining petroleum have continued to escalate.

The Energy Department officials of our government have wanted to lift gasoline price controls, but elected members of Congress have been reluctant to identify themselves with anything that sounds like higher prices.

Thus, in throttling the prices for the domestic product they have discouraged state-side production, thereby forcing us to become increasingly dependent on foreign suppliers.

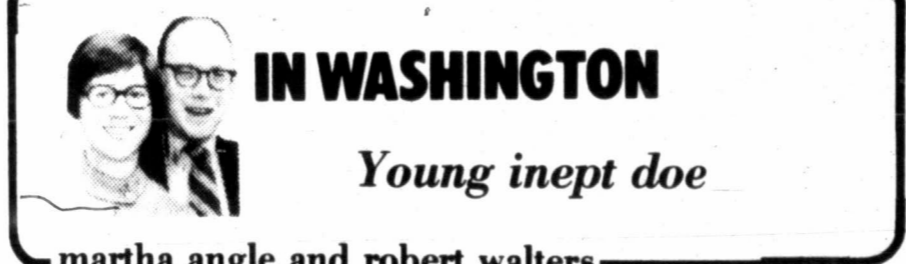

At least two things can and must be done by Congress to rescue us from the black maulers:

Encourage in every possible way the exploration and production of more oil and gas at home.

Accelerate development of our present and best alternative fuel — nuclear energy.

Andrei Sakharov, Nobel prize-winning physicist, says, "It is difficult to explain to a nonspecialist — yet we must — that the nuclear reactor of a nuclear power station is nothing like an atomic bomb... that the power station burning coal or oil actually offers much greater danger and harm to the environment."

Statistically, you are 2,000 times more likely to be struck by lightning.

IN WASHINGTON

Young inept doe

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Although less than 18 months old, the Department of Energy (DoE) already has earned the dubious distinction of being as insensitive to fraud, scandal and corruption as any old-line federal department.

DoE's responses to well-documented allegations of criminal activity within the petroleum industry invariably have been confined to bureaucratic buck-passing to escape responsibility, attempts to ignore the problems in the hope that they'll go away and incompetent enforcement efforts.

As a result, consumers of home heating oil, gasoline and other petroleum products have been overcharged billions of dollars, with the illegal profits going into the pockets of producers, shippers, brokers and refiners.

Typical of DoE's failure to seek prosecution of violators of the federal laws it's supposed to enforce has been the proliferation of "daisy chains" — a scheme to illegally manipulate oil prices.

The profits of the industry's numerous middlemen are limited by federal statute, but too many of those resellers have discovered that the law can be circumvented by establishing daisy chains of dummy corporations that earn substantial profits for no work.

In one case, fuel oil purchased from a refinery at 16 cents per gallon was passed through a daisy chain with each seller marking up the price 10 to 20 cents per gallon. The oil eventually sold for 60 cents per gallon.

In late 1974, federal officials announced they would conduct a massive investigation of alleged price gouging by fuel suppliers, possibly resulting in "tens of millions of dollars in overcharges being returned to the consumer."

But almost two years later, not a single case involving a daisy chain scheme had been referred to the Justice Department of criminal prosecution.

A few cases subsequently have been prosecuted in the federal courts, but in most instances the proceedings were initiated by aggressive U.S. attorneys — not by DoE enforcement officials.

During an appearance before a congressional subcommittee last autumn, a DoE attorney admitted that his department failed to follow up on a 1975 suggestion from the Justice Department that refunds be sought where suspiciously high brokerage fees were paid to middlemen.

DoE did go into court to seek $1.3 billion in refunds from 15 major oil companies — including Exxon, Gulf, Shell, Texaco, Sun, Arco and Phillips — in a case described as "the most important piece of enforcement litigation... against the oil companies."

But that suit, involving a conflict between the industry and DoE over the allocation of certain costs, was dismissed late last year by the Temporary Emergency Court of Appeals.

In its ruling, the court noted that federal energy officials could have resolved the "confusion and uncertainty" over its regulations, but "did not decide which interpretation was correct until the end of the relevant period."

Refiners of "middle distillate" heating oils, such as the "No. 2 heating oil" widely used in New England and elsewhere, may have overcharged the public $193 million in the past two years, DoE recently admitted.

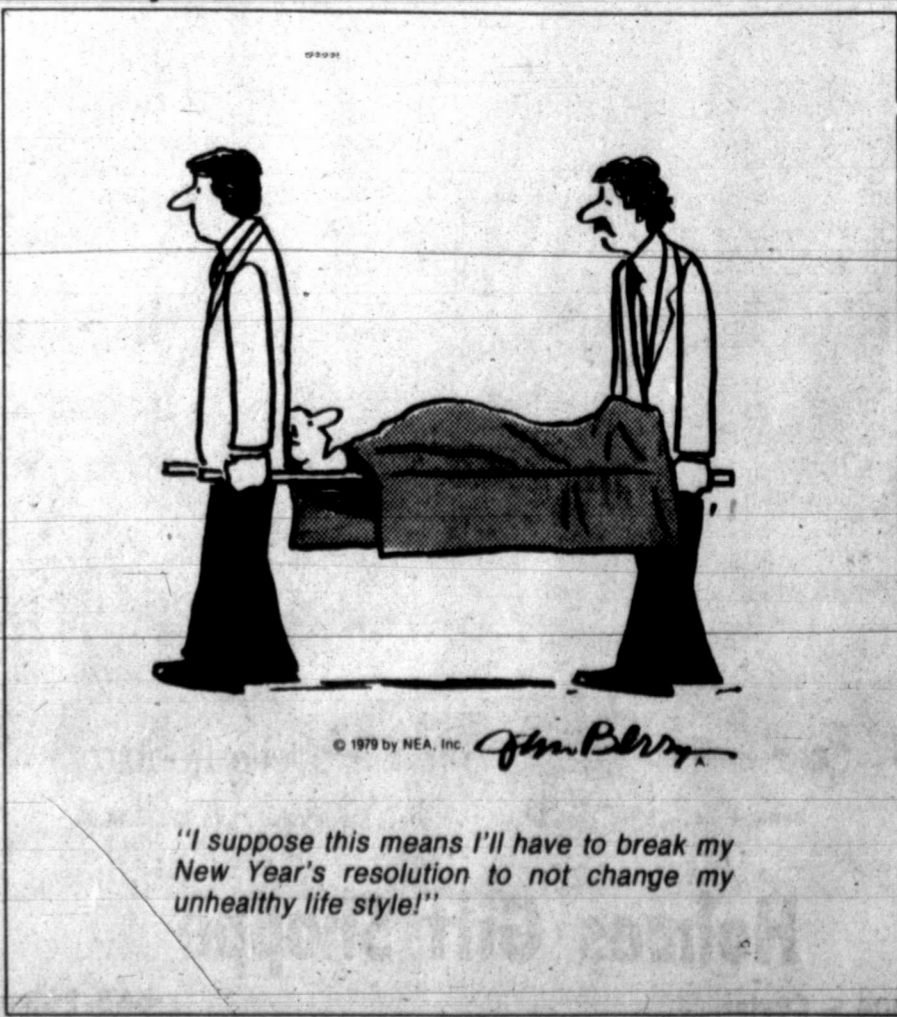

The department's spokesman estimated that additional overcharges this winter could total $138 million — but little is being done to remedy the situation.

Early this year, DoE did initiate litigation against nine of the country's largest oil companies, alleging that they had overcharged their customers almost $1 billion for natural-gas liquids used in making propane, butane and other fuels.

But the court case was a civil rather than criminal proceeding — and the oil companies claim that DoE is again basing its argument on murky regulations that never were properly clarified.

Under the high-handed leadership of Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, the department's enforcement record has been disgraceful — and there's no reason to believe the situation will improve in the future.

Tax cut proposal rapped

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Bill Sullivan, D-Gainesville, has accused the Texas Farm Bureau of trying to "stick it to" the people by seeking bigger rural tax cuts than were envisioned when the Tax Relief Amendment was approved last year.

Sullivan, a longtime crusader for taxation of agricultural land on its productivity, as opposed to market value, made the assertion Monday at a House Ways and Means Committee hearing.

He sharply criticized proposals by the farm bureau and Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, to tie agricultural land evaluations to a "capitalization rate" 5 percent above the Federal Reserve discount rate.

Based on the current Federal Reserve rate of 9.5 percent, that would mean a capitalization rate of 14.5 percent. Sullivan, in a bill introduced this session as well as in 1975 and 1977, has recommended a capitalization rate of 2 percent above the Houston Federal Land Bank interest rate, currently 7.9 percent.

The taxable value of a farm or ranch would be determined by dividing the capitalization rate into the average net income it should have produced over the preceding five years under careful management.

Pat Smith of the farm bureau endorsed Von Dohlen's bill before the committee and earlier told the Senate Economic Development Committee that a 14 1/2 percent rate would bring more tax relief to more people.

Sullivan said the farm bureau — and, by implication, Von Dohlen, who sponsored the Tax Relief Amendment in the House — never mentioned that high a rate before voters approved the constitutional amendment in November.

The Tax Relief Amendment instructed the Legislature to provide for productivity taxation as a means of keeping land in production.

"Well, we got it past the people, let's see how bad we can stick it to 'em. It seems like that is what is going on," Sullivan said.

Gold is mentioned more than 400 times in the Bible.

Militant protests possible

HOUSTON (AP) — Mexican-American leaders say more demonstrations may result from a failure by a federal appeals court to order stricter sentences for three former policemen convicted in the death of Joe Campos Torres.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in a 2-1 decision Monday that U.S. District Court Judge Ross N. Sterling acted illegally in administering probated sentences to the three officers.

The appeals court declined, however, to order resentencing for Terry Wayne Denson, Stephen Orlando and Joseph James Janish, convicted Feb. 8, 1978 of beating Torres and throwing him into the Buffalo Bayou where he drowned.

"We've been hit with so many decisions like this, it will be hard to tell the militants to cool it," said Johnny Mata, Houston district director of the League of United Latin-American Citizens. "The case was vigorously prosecuted but the people are losing faith in the court. I hope we can maintain tranquility."

Sterling's original sentence last March resulted in a wave of demonstrations, including a night of violence at Moody Park on Houston's heavily Mexican-American north side.

The Rev. Isabel Gomez, president of the Spanish-Speaking Ministerial Alliance of Houston said "I thought I had already accepted the injustice of what happened. This will stir up feelings. We will meet again and discuss what has happened."

Sterling sentenced each former officer to 10 years in prison on one count, but then suspended that sentence and ordered five years of supervised probation. Each defendant received one year in prison on another count.

MDA group plans activities

Pampa's bowlers and skaters will soon get a chance to have some fun and raise money for a worthy cause — the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA).

The Jerry Lewis Telethon may be the primary vehicle used to finance MDA, but much work is done on the local level. The Pampa MDA group has planned three fund-raising activities for the spring, according to Gary James, local MDA chairman.

A bowl-a-thon will be held March 3 at Harvester Lanes, 1401 S. Hobart, for Bantam, Junior and Senior League Pampans, with all proceeds going to MDA.

On March 17, MDA volunteers will be all over town, giving away St. Patrick's Day badges and balloons in return for donations. The local organization will also sponsor a fund-raising skate-a-thon June 16 at the Pampa Roller Rink, 123 N. Ward.

Pampa's MDA activities are but a small part of the national organization's year-long effort to raise the money necessary to combat muscular dystrophy, a catch-all designation covering a variety of puzzling diseases.

MDA maintains ten large research-clinical centers and supports a nationwide network of 193 outpatient clinics where victims of the 35 neuromuscular diseases covered by MDA programs receive free diagnosis, treatment, counseling, therapy and orthopedic appliances. MDA also operates a summer camp program for victims of muscle diseases, comprising 84 camp sessions in 35 states.

MDA's programs are funded almost entirely by individual private donations. The association receives no tax-supported government grants or funds from other health organizations. Of MDA's 1977 expenditures, 83 percent was allocated to program services including research, medical services, professional education and training and public health education.

Gary James became involved with MDA several years ago. "I knew a child with muscular dystrophy," James said. "I watched him grow up and then die. Ever since then I've wanted to help in any way I could."

The district MDA office is in Amarillo. James said the size of the local chapter he heads varies from time to time, and now stands at 12 full-time volunteers.

"We could use a lot more," he added. "If anyone wants to volunteer, we'd be glad to have them."

MDA recently received nationwide endorsements from the Advertising Council and the National Health Council. The Advertising Council is supporting MDA's research and medical services programs for inclusion in the Council's Public Service Bulletin, and the National Health Council has included the association among its approved member voluntary health agencies for 1978.

Stock show to be held in Pampa

Young people from seven area counties are invited to participate in the Top O' Texas Stock Show March 12-14 in Clyde Carruth's Livestock Pavilion, located north of the rodeo grounds in Pampa.

Weigh-ins for the show are at 4:30-6:30 p.m. March 10 and from 9 a.m. to noon on March 11. The show will begin March 12 with steer judging at 8:30 a.m. and swine judging at 2 p.m.

Registration for the Future Farmers of America (FFA) livestock judging contest will take place at 8:30 a.m. March 13. The contest will begin an hour later.

Registered Hereford cattle will be judged at 1 p.m. that day, and awards will be handed out at 3:30 p.m. At 7:30 p.m. a banquet for the Top O' Texas Hereford Breeders Association will be held in the Heritage Room of M.K. Brown Auditorium.

On March 14, a bidders' breakfast will begin the day at 7 a.m., followed by a junior livestock sale auction at 8:30 a.m. The stock show will conclude with registered Hereford sales at 2:30 p.m.

Only regularly enrolled FFA and 4-H members are eligible to participate in the show. Members from Gray, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Hemphill, Roberts, Carson and Wheeler counties are invited.

The grand and reserve champions will be awarded trophies, and youngsters placing in the show will receive ribbons. In addition, the Hereford breeders association will give trophies to the exhibitors of the champion Hereford heifer and steer.

Local company expands operations

As part of a full-scale expansion program, Sivalis Inc. is adding fabrication to sales operations in Pampa.

Sivalis recently bought the Surface Control plant on the Borger Highway west of Pampa, and moved in Jan. 2. The old Surface Control sign remains on the building, but will soon be replaced by a new sign received Monday by local manager Jerry Thomas.

The Odessa-based company has manufactured onshore and offshore oil and gas surface production equipment since 1947, and is now gearing Pampa operations to fill voids in Panhandle, Oklahoma and Kansas fields. Recently the company changed its name from Sivalis Tanks Inc. to Sivalis Inc. to "eliminate the limited product line image," according to President C. Richard Sivalis.

The local office is now engaged in sales and repair work. Thomas said, Sivalis hopes to begin fabrication in Pampa later this year, he said.

Would-be assassin recaptured

By ROBERT C. WELLING

Associated Press Writer
ALDERSON, W. Va. (AP) — Sara Jane Moore, serving a life sentence for trying to kill President Ford, scaled a 12-foot prison fence and got her first taste of freedom in three years. It lasted a few hours.

Prison officials said she would be put back into a phased-out maximum-security building she once called a "corner of hell."

Ms. Moore and a fellow inmate clambered over the barbed wire atop the fence and a left a trail of footprints in the snow as they made their abortive bid for freedom in the dark foothills of the Appalachians.

Ms. Moore was serving a life sentence for the 1975 assassination attempt.

She and Marlene Martino made their way out of the Federal Correctional Institution here sometime between 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. Monday, said Jack Fevury, an associate warden.

The two women were picked up by police while hitchhiking along U.S. 60, about 20 miles from the prison, just before midnight, said Capt. B.H. Casell of the state police.

The maximum security unit at Alderson — Davis Hall — was shut down Jan. 1, but officials said Ms. Moore and Ms. Martino would be housed there after the escape.

Ms. Moore, an activist at the prison here, once called Davis Hall a "corner of hell." She frequently complained about conditions there during her months in the maximum security unit.

Mrs. Moore, 48, was sentenced to life in prison in January 1976 on her guilty plea to a charge of trying to assassinate Ford on Sept. 22, 1975, in San Francisco.

Ms. Martino was serving a life sentence for conspiracy to commit murder on a government reservation in the contract slaying of a Fort Bragg, N.C. soldier.

Ms. Moore was seen by prison staff members at about 7:15 p.m. The two women failed to report during a count of inmates about 9:20 p.m.

Fevury said he believed that after climbing the fence enclosing the 95-acre inner prison complex, the two made their way through a wooded area and off prison property.

The legislative wheels are starting to spin in Austin. There have been 688 bills introduced in the House through Jan. 29, 1979. It is anticipated that 4000 bills will be proposed before the session ends in late May. Here are just a few briefs on some of the new legislation. H.B. 19 requires horses to be tattooed inside the lower lip. This would apply only to horses born or imported into Texas after Dec. 31, 1980. Several bills have been introduced that would restrict or prohibit foreign investments in Texas agricultural land. H.B. 227 would create an Agriculture Relations Board. This bill provides for collective bargaining between employers and labor organizations.

H.B. 491 is bound to bring forth a lot of action. This one tinkers with our long established Homestead Laws. I would take a hard look at this one since it prohibits the remortgaging of equity one has built up in his homestead. The old Homestead Law gives a lot of protection to home and land owners who encounter financial difficulty during the course of their lives. It leaves them a nest egg if things go wrong. This prohibits creditors from taking homes and nest eggs away from over extended borrowers.

I would not want to deny any legislator the right to introduce a bill. I am thoroughly convinced, however that entirely too much legislation is passed during each session.

An emergency appropriations bill for the Railroad Commission has just been introduced in both the House and the Senate. The need for additional money was caused by the newly signed Federal Energy Act. It requires the state to appropriate almost six hundred thousand dollars to complete this fiscal year. Next year the additional is supposed to cost over one million.

I would vote for a federal constitutional amendment mandating that each federal law have a fiscal note attached showing the projected costs to state governments. Such a proposal would require these costs to be paid by the federal government. At the present it is real easy for the federal government and the federal courts to demand that certain things be done without any thought to how much the ticket will be — or who will pick it up. If we don't already have one we need initiative and referendums as a check on federal legislation.

NEW YORK (AP) — "So many ideas, so many people who ought to be heard," says Bill Moyers, a man convinced that television can support a good deal more news and public affairs than is now offered.
 So isn't it frustrating that one man can do so little?
 "It's crushing," says Moyers, editor-in-chief and host of "Bill Moyers' Journal," back on public television Monday night after a two-year hiatus.
 "What I want to do is own a news network," Moyers says. "When I was at CBS, I told them, 'Give us half-an-hour a week to report on what's going on in America. I'm sure we'll have an audience, make a profit and develop a feel for what people are thinking.'"
 Moyers' return after two years as editor and chief correspondent for "CBS Reports" is a high point of the current public TV season.

Teng would like SALT discussion

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent
 WASHINGTON (AP) — It's too bad Teng Hsiao-ping won't be in town when the Senate gets around to debating a new strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union. He'd probably enjoy listening to the opposition arguments.
 Teng and the conservatives most skeptical about SALT may not speak the same language, but they say much the same thing. They argue that a new arms deal with Moscow would only mask Soviet efforts to gain military superiority.
 "Even if they stand by a particular agreement on SALT, for instance, they will try to expand or go for military buildup in some other field," the Chinese leader said.
 Teng said he does not really object to negotiations with the Soviet Union, and was not trying to undercut President Carter's advocacy of a new SALT accord.
 "We are just saying that we cannot place our hopes on such agreements, that such agreements cannot play too much of a restraining role on the Soviet Union," the vice premier said.
 That's a familiar thesis. American conservatives have been saying the same thing for years.

 Teng spelled out his skepticism about SALT while he was in Washington, saying that a new agreement would be the fourth since 1963.
 The first, a partial ban on nuclear tests, came when the Soviet Union lagged far behind the United States militarily, he said.
 By the time of the next agreement, nine years later, Teng said, "The gap had closed a great deal, although the United States was somewhat in the lead."
 Another came in 1974 and Teng said, "By that time, even opinion in the United States acknowledged that the military strengths of the two countries were on a par."
 "Doesn't that show the effects of agreements and disagreements?" he asked.
 When a new treaty is signed and sent to the Senate, opponents of ratification will be asking the same question.
 "All we want to say is that the people of the world should not have illusions in this respect," said Teng. "That is... they should not be lulled by such agreements."

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm 33, divorced, and have been dating Gary for two years. He says he loves me and wants to marry me, but I'm not ready for another marriage just yet.

My problem is the way Gary holds on to his money. He's never offered to pay my baby-sitter. (I have two children.) Twice I've had to ask Gary to lend me money for the sitter because I was short.

Now he wants me to go on a ski vacation with him and expects me to pay all my own expenses—plane fare, lodging, meals and even the ski-lift tickets!

My girlfriends tell me that when they go on trips with their boyfriends, the guys pay for everything. It's not that Gary can't afford to treat me. Far from it. He is very well-heeled.

This money problem is making me resent him. Am I expecting too much? What do you think?

MONEY TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: Generous he's not. But before you label him a well-heeled heel, consider this. Gary may need to prove to himself that he's not buying your companionship. Refuse. If you decide to say goodbye, you'll owe him nothing.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old woman who gave birth to a fine, healthy baby boy three weeks ago.

What should I say to women who criticize me for not breast-feeding my baby?

My mother-in-law suggested I tell them I don't have enough milk to nurse my baby, but that isn't the case. My decision was a personal choice, and one I am happy with.

I talked it over with my doctor, and he assured me that a bottle-fed baby gets as much nourishment as a breast-fed baby, and as long as a close physical contact is maintained during feeding time my baby will not suffer feelings of neglect.

Please help me.

NEW MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your honest response: "My decision is a personal choice, and one I am happy with" is far better than the cop-out suggested by your mother-in-law. Use it.

Dr. Lamb

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been dating my second cousin and we were thinking of not seeing each other anymore. If we get serious, we would get married and we are concerned about whether our children would be normal. My mother said she has heard of other cases like this and the children were fine. Was this just luck? Please tell me the chances of our children being retarded or having other defects. My grandfather and his mother are brother and sister. This isn't a weird relationship either.

The answer to your question really rests in genetic counseling. David Henkin and Joan Marks have a book called "The Genetic Connection: How To Protect Your Family Against Hereditary Disease" which can give you some useful information (William Morrow and Co., Inc., 105 Madison Avenue, New York, NY 10016, $8.95). This book also contains a list of the genetic counseling centers in the various states.

If you and your cousin have genetic counseling, one of the things the center will want to know is what diseases your families have had in the past.

Finally, if you marry a relative and have children, you could, of course, have tests done during your pregnancy to determine whether or not the baby was healthy or had a defect.

If you find out during the pregnancy that the developing baby has a genetic defect, then you're faced with a second decision: whether or not you wish to continue the pregnancy.

"The Genetic Connection" will give you additional information on how these laboratory tests are done and the techniques available to help you reduce the risk of genetic disease in your children.

There are other things besides genes that affect the baby. The mother-to-be who uses alcohol may damage her baby, whether she drinks too much each day or goes on a couple of binges during pregnancy. Alcohol has other bad effects on your health.

THOSE WHO want to know what alcohol does to the body can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 1-4. Address your request to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Polly's Pointers

by polly cramer

DEAR POLLY — Hang up a non-stretching sweater to dry without clothespin marks by putting a towel through the armholes and fastening the towel ends to the clothesline.

When I get too much liquid in frosting and do not have any more powdered sugar, I add graham cracker crumbs to the frosting and stir until it is the right consistency. The crumbs not only absorb the extra moisture but give the frosting a nut-like flavor.

Candles last longer and burn without dripping or smoking if they are all (except the wicks) coated with soapuds. Let them dry in the candle holders before lighting.

To thread a needle with yarn I take a piece of sewing thread, put it around the yarn and pass both ends of the thread through the needle pulling the yarn through with the thread. This is much easier than doubling the yarn and trying to work the doubled end through the eye. — DOROTHY

BLACK AND WHITE CLASSIC: A timeless black and white creation features white chiffon, Domansleeved bubble top, beaded in jet crystal and white satin bugle beads. The top has a V-Neck to flatter the neck and throat, while the pants are in black crinkle charmeuse. ## Collecting theater history

BOOTHBAY, Maine (NEA) - Snow and cold have taken command in this northeast corner of the country, and the tourists are long gone, not to return until well into spring. But occasional visitors continue to stop by the hospitable house across the road from the post office, to look at the finest collection of theater memorabilia in the United States.

They are greeted by Franklin Lenthall or James Wilmot, who never seem tired of describing the programs, posters, costumes, stage props, souvenirs and other items, each representing a moment of theater history. Maybe there will be tea in the living room. Good tea. And good talk.

Anyone who collects anything will tell you a story: where and how it began, how a collection grew, and the adventure of tracking down great "finds." For theater collectors, it is an attempt to capture the flavor, the ambience, the aura of players and performances long gone. Although the written word endures, theater itself — the playing of the play — is gone the instant it ends, except in memory. So people treasure programs or whatever will provide a tangible proof of something they might have experienced themselves, or have only heard about.

There was time — regrettably past — when theaters passed out souvenirs to mark special occasions, such as the 100th performance of a play. The Boothbay Theater Museum is rich in these. Consider the pressed glass slipper given to patrons of "The Crystal Slipper" co-starring Eddie Foy and May Yohe at the Boston Theater in 1888.

Each member of the audience at Ford's theater in Boston, the night of April 23, 1892, received a Shakespeare birthday memorial china pitcher, gift of the American Shakespearean actress Julia Marlowe, who was performing there. Silk programs also marked special events.

But the Boothbay collection goes far beyond theater souvenirs. There is the spear carried by Edwin Forrest as the titular Indian chief in "Metamora" in 1861; the staff used by Moliere at the Comedie Francaise in 1666; the transparent woman displayed in a "medical lecture" given by the late Doc Rockwell, certainly one of the funniest routines in the history of vaudeville. John Wilkes Booth's cane is valued at $50,000 (recently his signature on a check sold at auction for $1,900). Henry Irving's sword and prompt books are some of the memorabilia of that dazzling career. There is a full-length poster of Anna Dickinson as Hamlet; according to Lenthall, she was one of 200 actresses who played the male role.

A "junk collector" since childhood, Lenthall began the collection after reading Eleanor Ruggles' biography of Edwin Booth, the American actor, "Prince of Players," when it appeared in 1953. With $100 lent by his Methodist minister he bought 10,000 playbills from an old New Englander.

Since then he has learned that trading is a function of collecting. "I buy things at antique shows and flea markets that I do not want, that have to do with other arts, such as dance. By now I know all the other collectors, so when I see a good dance item, I buy it, then sell it to a dance collector, to make the money with which I can buy the things I want," he explains.

He obtains many items from England, mostly from three men who deal exclusively in theater mementos. But much of the best part of the collection comes from Maine: "Summer people, especially from Boston, long have had homes here. People emptying out attics when they are moving find interesting things, and tell us."

CAPTURED IN CAMEO as Napoleon's son in Edmond Rostand's 1900 drama "L'Aiglon" is French actress Sarah Bernhardt. The pendant is one of 200,000 memorabilia in the Boothbay Theater Museum in Boothbay, Maine.

Distaff side of Sherlock Holmes' fans

NEW YORK (NEA) - Dear Irene Adler:

In March, the Adventuresses of Sherlock Holmes (ASH) are throwing the Irene Adler Outwits Sherlock Holmes Commemorative High Tea in Brooklyn. Could you drop in and reminisce about "Scandal in Bohemia?"

Everyone still chuckles about that: how you sneaked past Holmes in disguise, right out of England; how he never did get his hands on your hot picture of the King of Bohemia who "done you wrong."

Anyway, if you can make the Tea, also make a tuna casserole. Not all 30 Adventuresses are coming, but those who are are bringing something: cheese or a dish from "Dining With Sherlock Holmes," written by a sister ASH-ette.

The nurse from Mt. Sinai Hospital may be there, and the book jacket illustrator, probably lots of "housepersons," and Evelyn Herzog, for sure.

Ms. Herzog, 31, a legal secretary in her spare life, founded ASH in '69 when she was a "stout Sherlockian" at Albertus Magnus College in New Haven.

Then, ASH was just a loose, six-women band of adventuresses who weren't members of the Baker Street Irregulars (BSI) because they couldn't be. That long-in-the-houndstooth Holmes' club was fathered at the Algonquin Hotel in the '30s on a gentlemen's agreement: no dames.

In '68, Ms. Herzog and her ASH-ettes finally decided to take a stand about that, directly in front of the New York restaurant where the Irregulars were celebrating Holmes' birthday, on or about January 6th.

"We picketed with signs reading 'Unfair to Women' and 'Let Us In Out of the Cold,'" she says.

Which the Irregulars did, at least as far as the bar for a hot toddy and then it was goodnight, ladies, and back to New Haven with "mild notoriety" trailing behind.

The Adventuresses quietly went back to rereading the 56 short stories and four novels which total 1,200 pages of Holmes' history. And they didn't get off the ground again until Katherine Karlson ran into them in January '75. (She's 26 and a writer at Business Week.)

Once again, Sherlockians

here and there were cutting cake and blowing horns. Here the birthday fetes also include an annual William Gillette Luncheon, named for the actor who imitated Holmes on the stage years back.

Gillette evidently thought women were cool, so the luncheon is coed and Ms. Karlson was there. "Afterwards, everyone was sitting around, talking," she recalls. "Then the men left for the BSI dinner and suddenly there was just this circle of women."

Lo and behold — it was the picketing adventuresses of '68! "That night we had our first annual ASH dinner, and since then we've been meeting two or three times a year."

And Ms. Karlson has been editing their magazine, called The Serpentine Muse, insinuating all kinds of things.

"Irene Adler, our guiding light, lived along the Serpentine Mews," she says. Not only swell to look at, she was brilliant, too, and notes Ms. Herzog, "'Serpentine' traditionally stands for the twistings of a woman's mind."

ASH is 10 years old now and a cinch to join. You just show up or show an interest. No dues, no oaths, no hoity-toity agreements.

But if you want to get The Serpentine Muse, you do have to pay $4 a year. Then, says the cover, you get "A quarterly publication of the Adventuresses of Sherlock Holmes containing ... learned articles, explosions of wit ... and a plethora of erudite and recherche items to amuse and intrigue the discerning reader."

The reader can be a he or she, which goes for membership, too, because the Adventuresses don't hold grudges, small, large or irregular. "We're BSI's loyal opposition," is how Ms. Herzog puts it.

Farm parity called poor figure

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As they did a year ago, farmers in American Agriculture's current farm protest here are talking about getting "parity" for what they sell.

Depending on your point of view, the government's own figures show that the farmers have a case in seeking higher price guarantees for wheat, cotton and other commodities.

The Agriculture Department says the parity ratio — an indicator that relates farm prices and expenses — rose last year from its 1977 average.

But department records also show that, even with that increase, the indicator was the third lowest in 45 years.

For years, various administrations and many agricultural economists have called the old parity formula a poor indicator of farmers' actual financial condition.

But parity hangs on, written into farm laws by Congress to help adjust federal price supports on many commodities, from milk to wheat.

It is a mathematical standard, a concept going back to before World War I, that in the 1930s was defined and put into a formula to help relate prices farmers get for various commodities with prices they have to pay out to meet expenses.

A base period for the years 1910-14 is used in the formula. Theoretically, at parity, farmers would have the same purchasing power they had in 1910-14.

In other words, as commonly used, a guarantee of parity would insure that farm commodity prices would go up enough to keep pace with rising costs of production.

The Agriculture Department is required by law to publish adjusted parity figures on many commodities each month to reflect changes in costs and inflation. Thus, parity "floats" according to those changes.

For example, the parity price of wheat at the farm in January was $5.61 a bushel. A year ago it was $5 a bushel. But farmers' costs have risen since then, and so has parity.

One of the most significant indicators for American Agriculture protesters is the "parity ratio" also published monthly by USDA. It relates the actual market prices of commodities to the parity price.

Thus, in January, when the average market price of wheat sold by farmers was $3.02 a bushel and parity was $5.61 a bushel, the parity ratio was 54 percent.

Other commodities are computed and reported in a similar way. A composite parity ratio also is computed for all the major commodities as a single group.

It is this overall parity ratio that is used so frequently by American Agriculture and some other farm groups and their supporters to make their case that farm prices are not high enough.

The overall parity ratio for 1978 was 70 percent, compared to an average of 66 percent reported for 1977.

According to department records, the annual parity ratio dropped to 70 percent or less in only one other year — 69 percent in 1971 — since 1933, during the nation's worst economic depression.

Department experts say the parity ratio is one of the most misunderstood indicators still used.

For example, last week's monthly price report said the parity ratio "is a measure of price relationships" and is "not a measure of farm income, of farmers' total purchasing power or of farmers' welfare."

The indicator, the report said, ignores a number of other factors such as changes in production efficiency and technology, quantities of farm products sold and supplemental income earned by farmers and their families.

But to angry farmers who say current prices of cotton, wheat and other commodities don't cover expenses, the parity ratio is evidence that supports their claims.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices paid by the Agriculture Department for ground beef for donation to school cafeterias have gone up 80 percent from a year ago.

In its latest purchases last week, the department paid about $1.30 a pound for more than 2.3 million pounds of ground beef.

For the entire 1977-78 school year, purchases totaled $67.8 million for 93.9 million pounds of ground beef, an average of about 72 cents a pound.

Since this year's buying started last summer, about 71.8 million pounds of ground beef has been bought for a total of $81.7 million, an average price of $1.14 a pound.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exports of dry beans rose sharply last year, says the Agriculture Department.

A total of 202,564 metric tons was exported in the 1977-78 marketing year, up 12 percent from the previous year, says the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

The shipments were the second largest on record, exceeded only by 232,169 metric tons exported in 1974-75, the agency said in an annual report.

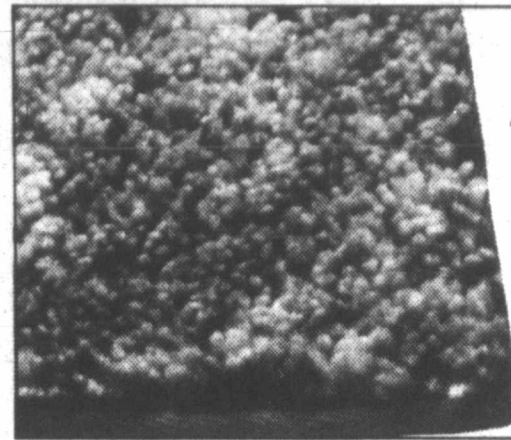

Navy or pea beans produced in Michigan, Minnesota and North Dakota "benefited by a short Ontario, Canada, crop" during the year, the report said.

Overall, the United Kingdom accounted for the largest volume of U.S. bean exports, followed by the Netherlands, Algeria and Canada.

The system of using fingerprints for identification was started by William Herschel of the Indian Civil Service in 1858, at Jungipur, India.

FOCUS

"Junk Food" In Schools

Candy bars, soft drinks, frozen desserts, and chewing gum are common ingredients in the diets of many of our nation's school children. But by the time the next school year rolls around, the sale of such non-nutritious "junk foods" may be severely limited in most schools. Nutrition experts warn that poor eating habits early in life can lead to serious health problems, including diabetes, softening of the bones, and heart disease. The Department of Agriculture is now conducting public hearings on proposals which would ban the sale of certain "empty calorie" foods until after the last meal period at most schools. Today's hearings take place in Detroit.

LSU takes over first place in SEC

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Louisiana State basketball team showed Vanderbilt all the moves — and as a result, moved into first place in the Southeastern Conference.

"We were just physically overpowered," said Vanderbilt Coach Wayne Dobbs after a 92-71 loss to eighth-ranked LSU in an SEC showdown game Monday night. "Tonight LSU was about as good as any team in the country and could go to the (NCAA's) final four if they play this well every night. They pulled every card out of the hat and couldn't do anything wrong."

DeWayne Scales and Lionel Green took the inside game away from the 17th-ranked Commodores, teaming for 41 points and 31 rebounds.

"I wouldn't know how to guard him," Dobbs said of Scales, who had 24 points and 10 rebounds. "You have to keep him away from the ball and we couldn't do that."

Elsewhere, top-ranked Notre Dame blasted Loyola of Chicago 84-66; fifth-ranked Louisville defeated Memphis State 103-82 and No. 16 Alabama stopped Georgia 67-59.

Vanderbilt led briefly in the early stages of the game with LSU, but the Tigers then outscored their SEC foes 12-2 to take an advantage they never relinquished. The Tigers built their lead to 20 points early in the second half, virtually locking up the contest.

Tracy Jackson came off the bench to score 18 points and lead Notre Dame past Loyola. The Irish never trailed in the game at South Bend, going ahead for good with 9:42 left in the first half.

Bobby Turner scored 23 points and Larry Williams added 16 as Louisville defeated Memphis State in a Metro Conference game. The victory was the Cardinals' 12th straight and 20th in 23 games.

Freshman Ken Johnson poured in 20 points and Reggie King contributed 18 as Alabama whipped Georgia. The Crimson Tide led by as many as 16 points in the game.

In other games, Steve Johnson's 33 points sparked Oregon State over Southern Cal 70-67; Wiley Peck scored 25 points as Mississippi State defeated Tennessee 90-84 in double overtime; John Johnson's 24 points powered Creighton to a 74-68 decision over Southern Illinois; Kyle Macy's 20 points led Kentucky over Mississippi 87-82; Pat Cummings poured in 23 points as Cincinnati whipped Georgia Tech 55-51 and North Texas State trounced Portland State 102-78 behind Jon Manning's 34 points.

Guard Greg Webb grabbed a game-high 12 rebounds and scored 16 points, leading New Mexico State past Tulsa 85-78; Colgate upset Army 77-75 in overtime as Dave Hargett scored 29 points; Carlyton Neversen put in 16 points to pace Pitt over Hawaii 71-53; John Schweiz provided the winning points with two free throws near the end as Richmond nipped Niagara 66-65 and Kevin King scored 20 points to pace UNC-Charlotte over Georgia State 90-69.

Winfred Reid and D.C. Smith combined for 33 points to lead East Tennessee State over Austin Peay 85-73. Mike Reese's free throw with 18 seconds remaining lifted Western Kentucky over Eastern Kentucky 78-77.

Boys play at PD; girls home tonight

With nothing but an upset of Tascosa separating them from elimination in the District 3-AAAA basketball race, Pampa's Hustling Harvesters take to the road to face Palo Duro tonight.

The Lady Harvesters, meanwhile, will try to reverse their fortunes in district play when they host the Dons at Harvester Field House.

Pampa took a 69-55 decision over Palo Duro when the Dons visited The Green Pit Jan. 19, but the game wasn't as close as the score indicated. The Harvesters held a 65-44 lead with three minutes to play before the contest turned into a run-and-shoot exhibition.

Since that meeting, Pampa has beaten Amarillo High to close out its first-half district season at 3-1, beaten Caprock and lost to Tascosa in second-half play. The Harvesters bring a 1-1 second-half mark (13-13 overall) into tonight's game, with their eyes set on a winning season. Palo Duro is 0-1 and 8-15.

Pampa's only chance for the district crown lies in an Amarillo High win over Tascosa tonight and another Reb loss — at the hands of Caprock a week from today. The Harvesters, meanwhile, must beat the Dons tonight and the Sandies on Friday to qualify.

Amarillo High faces much the same situation Pampa had with Tascosa Friday, when the Harvesters fell 68-64 in overtime. The Sandies must beat the Rebs to retain their hopes for the second-half title. A win by Tascosa would give the Rebs the district championship.

The Lady Harvesters, however, are starting their "second season" in district play. A five-game losing streak and 0-4 mark in the first half of play mean nothing to Mary Thomas' charges, who weren't blown out by any of the district competition.

Palo Duro (13-8 overall and 3-1 in first-half district play) took a 46-35 decision in Amarillo when the teams met Jan. 19. In that contest, PD pulled away in the final four minutes to take the victory.

Skellytown tops Lefors

SKELLYTOWN — Lefors Junior High's girls basketball team, which has had its share of rough times this season, put it all together at Skellytown last night — and still lost by two points.

"I'm real proud of all the kids we took over last night," Coach Don Parsons said. "The last two ball games the girls have really improved. They sure never quit last night."

Lefors led 11-10 at halftime, but fell by a 23-21 count to close their season. Annette Cates, Pam Reames and Angela Stanley had five points apiece for Lefors, while Karen Hudson contributed four and Cindy Stubbs two.

Skellytown won a 40-35 overtime thriller in boys play. The game was tied 33-31 at the end of regulation play, but Parsons said foul troubles plagued the Pirates in the extra period.

Cody Allison led Lefors' scorers in their season closer with 21 points. Mike Jackson added six. Don Winegard and Richard Kidwell and Billy West two apiece.

In peewee girls play, Skellytown took an 18-6 victory, despite four points by Sheri Stanley and two from Krystal Kirby.

Irish hang on in poll

NEW YORK (AP) — Notre Dame and Indiana State continue to run a fast-paced 1-2 in The Associated Press college basketball poll, with surging Duke coming on strong in the No. 3 spot.

The Irish held the lead today by a total of 33 points over the Sycamores, 1,036 to 1,003, with the help of 25 first-place ballots after posting victories last week over Brown, Xavier of Ohio and Dayton for a 15-2 record.

Indiana State, at 20-0 after decisions over New Mexico State and Tulsa, was given 20 votes for the top position this week by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Duke made the race more interesting, inching up to the leaders with 904 points. The Blue Devils were awarded seven votes for first after victories over Wake Forest and Maryland.

Notre Dame and Indiana State were named on all the voters' ballots. The Irish received nothing below a No. 6 ballot while the Sycamores were named as low as No. 9 on one ballot.

UCLA moved up one spot to No. 4 with 918 points, followed closely by Louisville in No. 5 with 874.

North Carolina dropped three spots to No. 6 after a loss to Furman, collecting 729 points. Syracuse was close behind in No. 7 with 718 points; Louisiana State moved up two places to No. 8 with 673 points, followed by Marquette, 619, and Michigan State, 498.

Boys hold class hostage

By LORRAINE CICHOWSKI
Associated Press Writer
MARIANNA, Fla. (AP) — A cocked revolver pressed to her head, 14-year-old Teresa Hill listened and looked at her 11-year-old assailant.

"He had a serious face," the pert honor student said later. "He kept saying he wasn't fooling around."

Miss Hill would learn later that the 22 caliber revolver had a faulty hammer, and would not have fired. But for a time, Miss Hill, about 30 other pupils and a teacher were shocked by the pistol-packing schoolboy and another knife-wielding classmate.

The two boys were in custody today, held by youth services officials. Marianna Police Chief Wiley G. Pittman says the boys were "just vying for attention," but, "there will be charges filed, aggravated assault at least."

No injuries were reported in the incident, which occurred Monday at the Middle School in this Florida community west of Tallahassee.

The boys were not identified by police because of their ages.

Principal M.R. Stokes said Miss Hill, an eighth grader, went to the language arts classroom to give a message to teacher Karen Hughes.

One youth jumped up with a gun, pressing it to Miss Hill's head, police said. Mrs. Hughes shoved the boy from the room and told another pupil to call the principal.

But when that boy tried to leave to sound an alarm, another youth threatened him with an eight-inch hunting knife, police said. The youth fled after he was disarmed by another student, Stokes said.

The two boys were picked up about eight hours later by an unidentified Marianna man about seven miles from town. Police said a loaded .22 caliber revolver was discovered nearby.

Miss Hill said students had overheard the boys discussing their plan for several weeks, saying they wanted to be sent to "the boys' school" — Stover School for Boys, a detention center.

Mrs. Hughes, who is in her first year teaching, said neither of the armed boys said anything threatening, declaring only that no one should leave the room.

She commended the boy who disarmed the knife-wielding youth. "I would never have told them to do that," she said of her pupils. "I would never tell them that was the thing to do."

And Stokes said students were worried about the boys' fate, in light of Florida's law setting a three-year mandatory sentence for anyone convicted of using a gun in a crime.

"This was a common concern of the kids today," said Stokes. "What would happen to them? They've all read the signs, 'three years to life.'"

Lawyers 'should' be bar members

By SOLL SUSSMAN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Bar of Texas, whose fate will be decided during the current session of the Legislature, says belonging to the bar should not be a matter of choice for lawyers.

Cullen Smith of Waco, president of the bar, told a House committee Monday that the right-to-work law does not apply because the bar is not a labor union.

"The right to practice law carries with it certain duties," he said before the House Committee on Government Organization.

The bar fell under the Texas Sunset Advisory Commission's review in 1978 and the Legislature must pass a bill this session if the bar is to continue as a state agency.

Two representatives have introduced bills that would make membership voluntary.

"It's the one profession that doesn't believe in the right-towork law," said Rep. Fred Head, D-Athens, who is a lawyer. "I'm offended more than anything else by having to join any organization."

The committee heard testimony on two comprehensive bills to keep the bar alive — one favored by the bar and another incorporating the sunset commission's recommendations.

Head and Rep. Doug McLeod, D-Galveston, also separately introduced series of bills to make membership optional, among other changes.

McLeod proposed keeping the bar as a state agency only for licensing and regulation of attorneys.

He said its other activities — lobbying, continuing education, publications, lawyer referrals — should become part of a trade association outside of state government.

No other profession has a state agency performing those chores, Head said.

The bar should keep its present status as a state agency and should also continue to keep its money outside the state treasury, said Tom Hanna, the bar's executive director.

The comprehensive bill with the bar's support has been introduced by Rep. Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood.

Opposing Nabers' bill was Joe Longley, an Austin attorney and former head of the attorney general's anti-trust division.

The bar's funds belong to all Texans and should be administered by the Legislature, urged Longley, one of the bar's directors.

"The state bar should be required to justify its expenditures at every session of the Legislature," he said.

"These are funds I feel should be administered through the appropriation process."

Bar funds have been used to lobby on legislation not related directly to the organization, he said.

State commission abolishes board

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — It was win one, lose one for the Sunset Advisory Commission on Monday.

The Senate voted, 27-0, to abolish the Burial Association Rate Board, which has not met in 14 years.

The Senate Economic Development committee approved Sen. Lindon Williams' real estate bill, S-1. A separate bill, which Shelia Cheaney of Common Cause said incorporated many of the Sunset suggestions, was sent to subcommittee without objection.

"The Sunset Advisory Commission spent over a year reviewing the real estate commission and making suggestions on how it could be improved," Ms. Cheaney said in a statement. "The economic development committee spent 30 minutes on the subject and decided that none of these changes need to be made. Such action is a slap in the face for the entire Sunset process."

Ms. Cheaney said the committee vote "seems to indicate that the real estate lobby and TREPAC" — the real estate political action committee — "are more important to the committee than the general interests of those Texans who are affected by the work of the real estate commission."

She said TREPAC gave more than $330,000 to legislative and statewide candidates in 1978 elections.

to insure adequate coverage for their members. In the burial association, assessments are collected from members to care for each other.

Man found guilty

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — A jury today convicted John W. McCrory of the rape-strangulation of a 17-year-old Lewisville girl whose body was found in Denton County last June.

Jurors received the case against McCrory Monday, and deliberated a total of about three hours before returning the guilty verdict. Jurors must now decide punishment for McCrory, 27, of Argyle.

Prosecutors said they intend to seek the death penalty for McCrory, convicted of killing Jeana Melissa Walker. Her parents, Al and Lee Walker have observed the trial and were present when the verdict was announced.

Jurors have been sequestered since testimony in the case began Jan. 29. The judge overruled a defense motion calling for a mistrial because a magazine in the jurors' sleeping quarters contained an article titled, "The Terrible Trauma of Rape."

The advisory commission was created by the 1977 Legislature to determine whether state agencies were executing their duties at a reasonable cost to taxpayers.

It has reviewed 25 state agencies and made numerous recommendations, including the elimination of the burial board.

"This is one of the few recommendations of the Sunset Advisory Commission to which there is no opposition — to my knowledge," said Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, the bill sponsor.

The State Insurance Board would assume the responsibilities of the burial board, which was established in 1947 to develop rates which could be charged by burial associations

Crop loss expected

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The real loss to Lower Rio Grande citrus growers from the Jan. 3 freeze will not be known until March when trees put out new growth, says Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown.

"From past freeze experience we feel that we will have a loss in next season's crop," Brown said Monday. "Just how much remains to be seen after the trees leaf out and bloom."

He said that 18 million pounds of fresh market citrus have been shipped since the shipping holiday ended Jan. 17 but the estimated loss to fruit still stands at 40 to 45 percent.

Freeze-damaged fruit is being sold to juice plants but "a considerable amount of citrus that fell to the ground has ruined and will not be recovered for juice," Brown said.

"This condition was brought about by a lack of processing facilities, labor and trucks to haul fruit to market."
