Bakhtiar held

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Former Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar was arrested today as Iran's new provisional government appeared to be making headway in its efforts to bring unruly supporters here under control.

But the newspaper Ettelaat reported that six persons had been hanged in Tabriz, 330 miles northwest of the capital, on orders of religious leaders and that insurgents had torn the emblem off the U.S. consulate there. Efforts to reach authorities in Tabriz for confirmation were unsuccessful.

The state radio reported that Mehdi Bazargan, head of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's new government, named seven members of his Cabinet. Two of the ministers are longtime leaders of the National Front, the coalition of parties that opposed the rule of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

National Front leader Karim Sanjaby was named foreign minister and another leading Front figure, Dariush Forouhar, was named labor minister, the radio reported.

Reliable sources also reported that unknown assailants opened fire today on Bazargan's Tehran office after Bazargan and Sanjaby had gone inside for a conference. There were no injuries and the two leaders left for Khomeini's compound, the sources said.

Meanwhile, with the future of Iranian oil production still clouded, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger is taking President Carter's appeal for increased fuel conservation to Capitol Hill.

Schlesinger was going before the House energy and power subcommittee today to discuss prospects for resumed Iranian oil exports under Khomeini.

The subcommittee chairman, Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., said in an interview that increased voluntary steps may provide some help, but more harsh government action — including gasoline rationing — may be needed if "the situation turns bad" and Iranian production is not restored.

Jim Bishop, an aide to Schlesinger, said that since there's been no formal contact with the new government, the energy secretary could not give the panel any assurances of when or even if Iranian exports may be resumed. They have been halted since last December.

Instead, Schlesinger was to dwell on the importance of making up for the losses in Iranian oil through stepped-up voluntary conservation. The Iranian cutoff has resulted in a net shortage in this country of about 500,000 barrels a day, or roughly 2.5 percent of total consumption.

The president said at a news conference Monday that Americans may be able to ride out the loss in Iranian oil by lowering their thermostats to 65 degrees, avoiding unnecessary driving and heeding the 55 mph speed limit.

This was Schlesinger's first appearance before Congress since a provisional government designated by Khomeini assumed power over the weekend.

But last week Schlesinger told the Senate Energy Committee the cutoff of Iranian oil has created a situation "prospectively more serious" than the 1973-74 oil embargo.

And the committee chairman, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., seized on the theme to subsequently predict long lines at service stations, an embargo on Sunday sales and $1-a-gallon gasoline in the near future.

Mixed views held on planned city grant

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff

Support and opposition were voiced this morning to Pampa's pre-application for federal community development block grant funds during a public hearing conducted at the city commission meeting.

The city is competing with other Texas communities with populations under 50,000 for a comprehensive grant that could amount to $1.5 million over the next three years. Pampa has twice unsuccessfully applied for similar grants. Because of Department of Housing and Urban Development criteria, it is difficult for Panhandle cities to compete for grants with other areas of the state, particularly east Texas, said Gary Pitner of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

City Manager Mack Wofford said the block grant funds would be used for street pavement, replacement of inadequate water lines, demolition of dilapidated structures, park and drainage improvements and housing rehabilitation in two southeastern areas of the city.

Robert Bridgeman, a resident of one of the areas, urged the commission to pursue the grant. "I almost think it's close to insanity when you won't ask for help," he said.

E.C. Sidwell of 1901 Charles spoke out against the grant and asked the commission to withdraw the pre-application.

"How can you ask the federal government to dole out money to the city of Pampa when they're operating under a $30 billion deficit?" Sidwell asked. "Bureaucratic handouts are not the answer. There's no such thing as a free meal."

Sidwell told the commission to "roll up your sleeves and tighten your belts. Let's do it (community development) ourselves."

The commission will conduct a second public hearing on the grant at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

A request from the Pampa Environmental Beautification

Foundation to place a bronze sculpture on the grounds of M.K. Brown Auditorium was approved, with the stipulation that commissioners okay the sculpture before it is obtained.

Richard Thompson of the foundation told the commission that city funds would not be used to purchase the sculpture. The theme of the sculpture will be "man in motion as related to the industry of Pampa," Thompson said.

An ordinance establishing new rates negotiated by the city and Pioneer Natural Gas Co. was approved on first reading by the commission. Ordinances limiting extension of Pioneer's main lines to new customers at 75 feet, and setting an $8 fee for setting and turning on customer meters, were also approved on first reading.

The commission will consider second reading of the ordinances at a special session at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Commissioners authorized an $8,716 contract with the Lubbock firm of Parkhill, Smith & Cooper for engineering services in connection with the construction of stormwater overflow ponds at the city wastewater treatment plant. The commission also approved a resolution establishing a 150-day schedule for the completion of construction.

Bids for the purchase of three vehicles for the city were awarded. Culberson-Stowers Chevrolet submitted low bids of $5,536.48 for a half-ton pickup truck and $8,996.16 for an emergency station wagon for the fire department. Purchase of a four-to-six-ton tandem roller was awarded to Shovel Supply Co., which bid $16,973.06 with a delivery time of ten days.

The commission authorized the sale of a surplus fire truck for $500 to Gray County for use at Perry Lefors airport. In addition, commissioners approved resolutions of commendation for former city employees Fince Dyer and Aubrey Jones, both of whom retired recently.

Good afternoon

News in brief

The weather forecast for Pampa calls for mostly fair skies with warmer temperatures today. The high should reach 70 while the low tonight is expected to be 40. Winds are predicted to be southwesterly at 10-15 mph. Wednesday's high is predicted to be near 80.

Pampa in serious condition

Rick Robertson, 26, of Pampa was reportedly in serious condition late Monday at Lubbock Methodist Hospital from an apparent fall at the entrance of Carlsbad Caverns National Park in Carlsbad, N.M.

He is being treated for a head injury suffered from an apparent 20-foot drop from a cliff that he and four companions had climbed.

He apparently lost his balance and fell to the pavement. Robertson was taken to the Lubbock hospital by his companions.

Court faces big backlog

By DAN LACKEY
Pampa News Staff

A backlog of about 400 misdemeanor cases will face the Gray County Court next Tuesday when the first jury week since October 1978 begins.

About half of the cases will probably be dismissed, says Gray County Attorney David Martindale, even though he intends to prosecute as many of the cases as he can.

"We're going to get it (the caseload) cleaned up, but we're not going to kid anybody," said Martindale Monday, referring to the dismissals.

The county court caseload has doubled in the last five years, according to records on file in the clerk's office, with 748 cases filed last year compared to 338 in 1974. In 1976 and 1977 a total of 216 cases were dismissed, compared with 433 last year.

Since July, the court has been under the deadline of the Speedy-Trial Act which requires a prosecutor to be prepared to bring a case to trial within 30, 60, or 90 days of the alleged offense. A Class A misdemeanor (an offense punishable by up to a $200 fine and a year in prison) has a deadline of 90 days; a Class B misdemeanor (an offense punishable by up to a $100 fine and three months in jail), 60 days; and a Class C misdemeanor (an offense punishable by up to a $200 fine), 30 days.

Pampa Attorney James Bowers said the new law has already proven workable. "If I'm arrested for drunken driving, I can now be assured of getting a hearing within 45 days, which is the way it always should have been," he said.

Under the law the prosecutor only has to say he's prepared to try a case, but Martindale said he doesn't "want to be put in the position of lying to the court."

"If I say I'm ready for a case, thinking it won't be scheduled for a while and it comes up for trial and I'm not ready, it would damage my credibility with the court," he said.

"This is what happens when you don't have jury weeks," Martindale said. "I'm not blaming any of the judges. They have a lot of other county responsibilities and it's up to them when they want to set jury weeks."

There is some doubt as to how the jury weeks will be scheduled under Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy. Kennedy said Monday it was his understanding that they were to be scheduled quarterly, although he said it was possible to set additional jury weeks.

Jury weeks were held quarterly until early in 1977, when they were switched to monthly to deal with the increasing caseload. Yet, no jury weeks were held in November, December or January.

Martindale said, however, that four cases were the maximum that could be prepared and heard in any one jury week. "It's a physical impossibility to run more cases than that. It takes a half day at least just to select a jury, and assembling witnesses for each case is time consuming."

Last fall the Commissioners Court approved funds for an assistant county attorney but Martindale says he has been unable to find anyone interested in the $6,000 a year post. Both county attorney positions are considered part time since, by law, the prosecutors can continue private practice with non-criminal cases.

Martindale said he thinks the state should consider legislation for a County Court of Law. Under that system, two county judges would split the administrative and judicial halves of the present position. "I think the growth of the county and the size of the caseload shows a need for it," Martindale said.

"We're going to try to get as much of the caseload resolved as possible," Kennedy said. "But that's easier said than done. We're not doing a good job. The problem is that the court is not the judge's only responsibility."

Kennedy said, however, that on a day to day basis, judicial matters took a majority of his time.

Cable TV improvements expected

Don't be confused if you call Pampa Cable T.V. and the person answering says "Sammons Communications."

"We started to do that Monday," said Wayne Stedum, manager of the company, "and people hung up on us, thinking they had the wrong number."

It's the same company, but with a new name that results from Sammons' recent purchase of Pampa Cable from American Cable T.V. Inc. According to Stedum, the change in ownership will eventually mean better service for cable customers in Pampa, Borger and McLean.

The Dallas-based Sammons Communications is the sixth largest cable television operation in the U.S., with resources that American Cable didn't have, Stedum said.

"We've got the bucks behind us now to do the things we want to do," he said. "I'm really enthusiastic about the thing from a managerial standpoint."

Sammons plans to replace all the electronic amplifiers in the Pampa system, some of which are 12 years old. The amps are located on poles, beginning at the cable tower west of Pampa and spaced roughly 1600 feet apart throughout the city.

The new amps will be "the latest state-of-the-art," Stedum said, and will improve picture quality and service. He said the amps will provide much more stable television signals, since they fluctuate and have to be adjusted whenever the temperature changes.

The equipment is being ordered, and delivery will take 30-60 days, Stedum said. Replacement of the amps will be a gradual process.

"This won't happen overnight," Stedum said. "It will probably be fall or so before we are completed. There are going to be many, many service interruptions during the repair interim."

Stedum said he plans to run newspaper ads stating which areas of the city might be affected by repair work, so residents will be aware of possible interruptions. The work will be done during the day and late at night but not during "prime time" viewing hours, he added.

Sammons will be replacing all of the Pampa company's vehicles, and is moving an engineer from Elk City, Okla. to Pampa, Stedum said. In addition, the local company will receive a lift truck to replace the ladders used by personnel when repairing the amps.

"The truck will be used for preventive maintenance, which the system never had before," Stedum said. "They've invested about $30,000 in new test equipment to keep the amps in top shape."

Last fall, Pampa Cable proposed a rate increase but met resistance from the city commission because of public complaints about the company's service. Sammons withdrew the increase proposal when it bought the local company, and Stedum said Monday he has "no anticipation of a rate increase, at least until all the technological improvements are completed."

Pampa Cable had announced plans to add a Christian broadcast network and Madison Square Garden sports to its schedule, but that idea has also been shelved.

"That is still in the offing, but it will be sometime down the line," Stedum said.

The company is about 40 percent finished with the cable system it started building a year ago in Borger, Stedum said. That system will be under the general management of the Pampa office, as is the McLean system, which was built in 1959-60. The Pampa system was built in 1966 and now has 5,500 subscribers, Stedum said.

Sammons Communications is one of several corporations combined under Sammons Enterprises Inc. (SEI), founded in 1938 when C.A. Sammons formed the Reserve Life Insurance Co. in Dallas. Besides communications, SEI is involved in insurance, distribution and hotels and travel. Sammons comprises 10 companies doing business in 21 states.

Office sought

H.R. Thompson Jr. of 100 W. Nicki filed Monday afternoon as a candidate for mayor in the April 7 city election.

Thompson, owner of H.R. Thompson Parts and Supply, 314 W. Kingsmill, served as a city commissioner for Ward 1 from 1973-77. His father was mayor of Pampa in the early 1960s.

"I think they've done a pretty good job down there (at city hall) and I plan to continue if I'm elected," said Thompson this morning.

Incumbent Mayor R.D. Wilkerson said he is uncommitted about seeking another term. Besides Thompson, the only other announced candidate in the election is O.M. Prigmore, the current commissioner from Ward 1, who filed Feb. 6. Candidates must file with the city secretary by March 7.

Government cause of farmers plight

The farmers who have driven their tractors to Washington say they are fed up.

They are fed up with the way government has been giving them the shaft, they said. They want more recognition. They want better prices. They want parity.

And what they mean by parity is that they want the federal government to pay the difference in what they got for farm products way back when and what they are getting today. If they were able, back then, to sell a bushel of wheat and buy with that money a shirt, that's what they want today.

And if they can't do that - and they can't - they want the government to do it for them.

You can't blame these farmers for feeling unhappy. They say they have seen their earning power gradually go down the drain, that their farms are hocked to the hilt and that they have to borrow this year to get next year's crops into the ground.

And they blame it all on government.

The government has been trying for decades to devise a formula that would give everyone what he or she deserves. Part of that formula deals with the farmer, part with the shipper, part with the middle man, part with the consumer, part with the person on welfare.

The government believes that it can pull strings here, move goods there and come up with a plan that will see everyone happy.

If it were not so tragic, it would be funny.

The first day that government got the idea it could do better for everyone than everyone could do for themselves was the first day of the worst of our lives.

Regulate and control. Give more to this group because it deserves more. Take from here. Allocate. Deny. Let some get rich; others go broke. The government knows best. Let government do it.

The old law of supply - and - demand gave way to pay for not producing. The Land Bank came on strong, and the less acreage that farmers had in production the more money they had coming from Washington.

Meantime, things were becoming so fouled up that farmers didn't know whether to hire out a manure spreader or a Philadelphia lawyer.

Now, the farmer finds that he is up to his head in debt and that the government is forcing him down.

What he needs is help, but not the kinds that he wants. He wants more of the same thing that put him where he is today - more government help. What he needs, as does most of the nation's economy, is for the government to butt out, take a powder, get lost; let the free market operate. It has worked well before, it will work well again.

It's tragic, however, that they have to appeal for help to the instrument that put them in the condition that they are in today.

Enormous cost of Conrail

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

The third quarter report for the Consolidated Rail Corp., the nation's federally financed railroad, shows a worsening financial picture.

Conrail's loss for the first nine months of 1978 was $325.4 million compared with a loss of $289.9 million in the same period in 1977.

This disturbing financial news recalls the warning voiced in 1975 by David P. Morgan, editor of Trains magazine, that in creating Conrail, Congress was obligating the taxpayers "to shore up a tax - exempt, deficit - incurring railroad - the nation's biggest - forever."

Unfortunately, Congress failed to heed Mr. Morgan. It proceeded to establish Conrail out of the wreckage of six bankrupt carriers in the Northeast.

The reason the private carriers were ruined is revealed in the latest Conrail report. It points out that when Conrail started operations on April 1, 1976, "it inherited 285 basic collective bargaining agreements from its predecessor railroads."

The plain truth is that the private carriers were destroyed by the railroad unions and excessive government regulation. Archaic work rules imposed prohibitive costs on the lines. They continue to impose such costs on Conrail.

Conrail deserves credit for striving to reduce the number of labor agreements. Negotiations have resulted in some improvements, according to Conrail chairman E.G. Jordan. Nevertheless the railroad unions continue to exercise veto power over Conrail and almost every railroad management in the country. Until Congress strips the rail unions of their monopoly powers, the country's basic heavy transportation system will be a captive of the union bosses.

John R. Kneeling, columnist for Trains magazine, has analyzed the American railroad situation in a new report, "America's Railroads: Ruin and Reform" (United States Industrial Council Educational Foundation). He describes Conrail as "compulsory diversion of tax money to buy unwanted services." Conrail, he notes, represents an attempt to compel disinterested consumers to buy certain services after the public refuses to do so voluntarily.

Conrail is a bottomless pit as far as the taxpayers are concerned. Each year, they will be required to invest more and more into services that are of value only to a limited number of communities and users. Rail unions will enjoy continued protection and benefits at public expense.

As of the end of the third quarter of 1978, the federal government had brought a total of $1.77 billion in Conrail securities. The end isn't in sight.

Mr. Kneeling's report outlines ways for private enterprise railroad operations to work successfully in the future. He believes that "the Iron Horse could rise again, providing Congress gets out of railroad job protection business."

If Congress continues on the Conrail route, railroads will become non-functional anachronisms operated by government as a colossal make - work project.

The court and inflation

By BERNARD SIEGAN

Between 1897 and 1937 the U. S. Supreme Court struck down many federal and state welfare and regulatory laws because they deprived owners and entrepreneurs of liberty of contract. For the Court of that period, freedom in economic matters was the rule and restraint the exception. That Court would not uphold laws fixing prices, and limiting opportunities to engage in business and to produce and sell unless it was satisfied that such laws were well justified.

Liberals and reformers condemned this policy because they said it prevented Congress and the state legislators from passing social and economic laws needed to improve the conditions of the poor and less affluent. With the advent of the Great Depression and the appointment of New Deal oriented justices, these sentiments prevailed and the Court changed policy. It would no longer annul a social or economic statute except when that law curtailed a political or civil liberty.

What the proponents of this policy failed to comprehend was that while it would lead to more socio - economic legislation, it would also encourage more special interest laws. And much of this kind of legislation would advantage a wealthy few. Thus, it has turned out that this judicial policy prevents the Court from overturning legislation that is promoted and sponsored by small, well financed groups and that disadvantages the consumer.

A case decided last December by the Federal High Court illustrates the problem. Automobile dealers in seventeen states have been able to persuade their legislators to pass laws that control the establishment of new car dealerships. The case in question concerned California's Automobile Franchise Act, requiring an automobile manufacturer who proposes to establish a new retail auto dealership to serve notice of such intention on the state's New Motor Vehicle Board, as well as on every dealer who handles the same line and make of car within a 300 - square mile area surrounding the proposed new location.

If any of the existing dealers files a protest with the board against establishing the new dealership, the board must hold a hearing on the protest and the manufacturer may not establish or relocate the proposed dealership until after the board approves the new location. This law provides existing dealers with two opportunities: First to block the entry of a competitor, and second, to hold back competition for a period of time. The record shows that very few protests are sustained by the board - only one denial of a proposed dealership in the first 117 contested cases. This of course could change in the future.

But the serious mischief that the law brings about is that an existing dealer can exclude competition for many months. The experience of the two complainants in the case, a Buick and Chevrolet dealer, indicate the harm that the law can cause for those who desire to invest in new dealerships.

The Buick dealer entered into a franchise agreement in May 1975, and because of various legal maneuvering, the board's hearing date was postponed until September 1976. In April of 1976, General Motors and the Buick dealer filed suit in federal court to have the law declared unconstitutional, and the case was not decided until December 1978. Both society and the dealer would have been much better served had the dealer been attending consumers during that lengthy period.

The Chevrolet dealer was prepared to locate his new operation in December of 1975, and the hearings were set by the Board for June 1976. In August a hearing officer approved of the proposed location and the Board had until the middle of September to concur. In that month before the end of the waiting period, the dealer was advised that the property in which he proposed to locate was no longer available because of his long failure to take possession and otherwise assume the obligations of a lease. The dealer thereupon gave up this effort and is starting all over again to find a new site.

The only dissent in the case was filed by Justice John Paul Stevens, who concluded the law was unconstitutional because it "confers a special benefit on a limited group of private persons" to control the business rights of others. He contends that the right to franchise without delay is the sort of interest that may be suspended only on a case by case basis, through individualized trial type hearings. Stevens noted that the Act was a member of a family of statutes adopted to protect retailers from the perils of open competition.

Justice William Brennan's majority opinion talks about the statute being passed to protect auto dealers from perceived abusive and oppressive acts by manufacturers. This view distorts the reality of the situation. Ultimately the person most abused in this process is the consumer, who is denied the benefits of competition and therefore may have to pay higher prices and suffer poorer services.

The U. S. Supreme Court is not ordinarily associated in the public mind with higher prices and inflation. However, as the California case shows, its policy on economic legislation inhibits production and distribution and thereby has an adverse impact on the nation's financial condition.

Court system improving under Burger

by paul harvey

There is absolutely no decision President Carter could be called upon to make - short of a declaration of war - which would be more significant than his choice for the next member of the United States Supreme Court.

There is no court vacancy and none imminent, yet either this President or the next one will likely "tilt" a now evenly balanced Supreme Court either to the right or to the left.

We are not doing nothing about our nation's congested and oftentimes inefficient and sometimes corrupt court systems.

Just this past year, for example, your odds for justice improved.

For the first time in a decade additional Appeals Court judges were authorized and federal District Court judges were added for the first time since 1970. The total 25 percent increase in judgeships was the largest in any one year in American history.

Though all the additional judges are not yet in place, the increased efforts of sitting judges and the assistance of scores of retired judges have allowed our courts to handle nearly 8 percent more cases than the year previous.

State and local courts were able to dispose of small claims including sensitive family problems and such with increasing dispatch due to new procedures which were studied and recommended by the 1976 "Pound Conference."

Nor is that all.

The Department of Justice has established three test projects in Atlanta, Kansas City and Los Angeles, to seek informal, inexpensive means of dealing with landlord - tenant arguments and shopkeeper - customer quarrels.

Three federal districts are now experimenting with "arbitration" of some federal civil cases to try to keep them out of the courts - at a saving in time and money to everybody concerned - including taxpayers.

Until recent years our 50 court systems operated in virtual isolation; that was largely remedied last year by the accomplishments of the National Center for State Courts and Federal Judicial Center.

The former will immeasurably expedite the proceedings in 23,000 state and local courts.

The latter has already "retrained" more than 90 percent of federal judges now in office.

Starting in 1978, computers were used in appropriately assigning cases to West Coast judges.

Careful monitoring of thousands of civil cases confirms that strong control over the pre - trial process has a marked effect on the early disposition of a case, either by trial or settlement.

Further, under the vigorous inspiration of Chief Justice Warren, Burger, trial lawyers and their ABA are taking a new look at those lawyers who misuse the judicial process either because they are poorly trained or because they are unbecomingly disrespectful.

Not all excesses have been remedied, but the problem has been acknowledged and that is a significant first step.

With as much progress this year as last year's accomplishments indicate, Americans have a right to be encouraged.

Public opinion

Editor, The Pampa News:

For 65 years there was never an occasion when I needed the services of a hospital. Matter of fact, I wasn't even born in one - the place where my mother labored and brought me forth being the sofa in Grandma's living room. Sofas were called "tees" in that section of the country, and that fact has left me nonplussed at those times when I filled out applications for employment and came to the item that read: "Place of birth -", and I darn' near wrote "Grandma's teet" in the space allowed! But I put tongue in cheek and named the town instead, which seemed to mollify the personnel managers. They might have misconstrued the word "teet", anyway, just as others among the uninformed would do.

But all of the above is beside the point I want to make, and that is the fact that I had an unfortunate experience resulting in a blow-out which had to be patched, requiring a week's stay in Highland General Hospital. And, getting right down to the nitty gritty, I had heard and read so much about the alleged shortcomings and ineptness (among other things) at Highland General that I was filled with trepidation - or to put it mildly, I was scared spittleless at the prospect of my first hospital admission taking place in that shaky institution. I was so far gone, in fact, that I asked my doctor if he wanted me to go to an Amarillo hospital instead.

It's for the birds

Not content merely to study wildlife, the federal government has also been housing and feeding it: $100,000 in federal money recently went to Anheuser - Busch Inc. for tending 205 Amazon parrots.

The federal Fish and Wildlife Service seized the parrots in the fall of 1974 because they had been illegally imported, but then discovered it had no where to put the birds. So it asked Anheuser - Busch to keep the parrots in the company's Van Nuys, Calif., Busch Gardens and run up a tab. The Fish and Wildlife folks then forgot about the parrots for three years, until they received a care - and - feeding bill from Busch Gardens this past April.

Election certified

By JOHN PRICE
Pampa News Staff
WHITE DEER — The directors election of the Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District No. 3, held Jan. 20, was canvassed and certified by the district's board of directors Monday night.

The session was the first quarterly meeting of 1979 for the district, which was established in 1956 and includes portions of Gray, Carson, Potter and Armstrong counties.

Election returns showed that Fred Vanderburg of Pampa was re-elected to the board from Precinct 4, which begins two miles east of Pampa and covers the western portion of Gray County.

James McCray, president of the board, was re-elected from Precinct 2, which comprises the center portion of Carson County. Board Secretary Raymond Blodgett was re-elected from Precinct 3, which comprises the eastern portion of Carson County and the northeastern portion of Armstrong County.

McCray, Blodgett and Vice President John Spearman of Pampa were also re-elected as officers for the coming year.

Temporary water well permits for Henry and Ethel Bobbitt, Jack Prendergast, William L. Bandy, Jack Martin, Charles William Philpott and Robert Sailor were approved. A hearing was also conducted on the permit application of Dennis Caldwell of Pampa, who sought an exception to district well spacing regulations.

Caldwell plans to dig an eight-inch diameter well where a six-inch well is usually required, on a plot of land in Carson County. The board voted to approve his permit provided the well is metered and restricted to produce no more than 560 gallons a minute, the maximum output allowed for a six-inch well.

Vanderburg and District Manager Felix Ryals, members of the board of the Texas Water Conservation Association (TWCA), discussed plans to attend the TWCA annual meeting Feb. 21-23 in Austin. The terms of both men are expiring, and they decided to nominate other district board members to fill their positions on the TWCA board.

The board set March 5 as tentative date to interview applicants to replace Ryals, who is retiring next year. Board members agreed to try to hire a new manager from within the district.

Tax collector endures slurs

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Dallas' chief tax collector says the property tax on cars is so unpopular he must endure repeated slurs on his parentage for making people pay it.

Ernest Cabe, speaking for retired teachers and the American Association of Retired Persons, said it would be impractical to grant the old age exemption only to the most needy States that do this also have income taxes, which enables the state to know everyone's income, he said.

City and State news

Old persons urged the committee to grant the full homestead exemption authorized by the amendment for the elderly and the disabled. It would exempt from school taxes a total of $15,000 of a home's market value, plus any other exemptions granted by school districts. Taxes of persons 65 and older would be frozen for their lifetimes.

School districts would be reimbursed by the state for the lost revenue but cities and counties would not. About 20 percent of all Texans live in communities where cars are taxed.

Hispanics rap Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mexican-American leaders are criticizing President Carter's decision to take only one Hispanic aide with him in his visit later this week to Mexico City.

minutes, said he told the President Mexico "should not be treated as a second-class citizen."

It is estimated that in an average lifetime a person walks 70,000 miles — nearly three times the distance around the world.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

This coming year you may become involved in a project which you will totally manage for another. A big bonus is likely if you do a good job.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is a very promising day for joint ventures. Something extraordinary could occur to please both you and the other party. How to get along with other signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your all-new 1979 Astro-Graph Letter. Get yours by mailing $1 for each in a long, self-addressed stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Rather than tie yourself to a definite schedule today, you and your special someone will have more fun doing things that are impromptu.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something unexpected could pop up today, causing you to think more about pleasure than work. Enjoy it. It won't detract from your business.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Look for spur-of-the-moment happenings to brighten your day. A flexible schedule will permit the latitude you'll need.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll accomplish a lot of little things today that were left unfinished. This time you'll complete each job.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A spontaneous get-together will occupy part of your day today, breaking up the mundane routine and serving as a good tonic.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A surprise gift could come your way today from someone who cares a great deal about you. This should brighten your day considerably.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be hesitant to discard an old, unworkable plan if you happen to come up with a better idea. Sometimes we need to switch horses in mid-stream.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You've been quite considerate of someone lately and today is this person's day to reciprocate. You might receive something you'll really like.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll know a good idea when you hear one today and several could come your way. Later you'll have a chance to use them advantageously.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) An opportunity fleeting in nature could cross your path today. If you are too coy it may evaporate before your eyes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone separated from you by miles, but not in spirit, is anxious to hear from you today. A call or note would be appreciated.

Farmers get formal hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee is beginning formal hearings on the complaints of hundreds of protesting farmers camped outside the Capitol.

But there was little indication House and Senate members, the only ones allowed to testify today, were flocking to support the protesters.

Almost six days after the hearings were announced, only nine members of Congress had signed up to speak at the opening round of hearings.

Five of those were committee members and all except Rep. Berkeley Bedell, D-Iowa, have already spoken out strongly on behalf of the protesters.

Representatives of the American Agriculture movement protest group are scheduled to testify Wednesday and Thursday. Officials from other farm organizations and the general public have been invited to speak next week.

The protesting farmers want Congress to pass a resolution urging President Carter to raise prices to 90 percent parity, a level that would give them 90 percent of the purchasing power farmers had during the 1910-14 base period.

Overall, farm prices are now running at about 75 percent of parity because of high livestock prices. Crop prices are lower.

On Monday, nearly 200 tractors paraded for more than two hours in a blinding snowstorm. To avoid further traffic snarls in the late afternoon, police said, the farmers agreed to leave their vehicles parked overnight near the Lincoln Memorial, where they had gathered for a demonstration on Lincoln's birthday.

Part of the group planned a two-mile march back to the tractors today, but the protesters said they would not decide in advance whether to drive the vehicles back to the area where they have been penned in for a week.

The Agriculture Department building which had been kept open for farmers after hours last week was closed at 6 p.m. as usual Monday. Only those with a building identification card could enter after then.

A Federal Protective Agency spokesman said the action was taken because of unauthorized use of telephones by farmers last week and isolated vandalism.

Meanwhile, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland told soil conservationists in a speech Monday that poor weather some place in the world this year could cut into grain surpluses so much that American farmers will have to return to full production in 1980.

Last year, a voluntary program for cutting back production was put into effect in an attempt to raise grain prices without higher supports or subsidies.

Bergland made no prediction that this will happen, but pointed out that in the past that "the world has produced four bumper crops back-to-back in the last four years" and that it "has never grown five good crops in a row."

Crash caused by 'terrorists'

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith said today available evidence indicates "terrorist action" caused the crash of an Air Rhodesia plane that killed all 59 persons aboard.

There were contradictory reports from black nationalist guerrillas as to whether they shot down the airliner, a four-engine, turboprop Viscount.

Last September they had claimed responsibility for a similar action, shooting down an Air Rhodesia plane with a ground-to-air missile. They claimed Rhodesia was using domestic airliners for military purposes. Forty-eight persons were killed in that crash.

A spokesman for the Zimbabwe African People's Union, the guerrilla group that operates in the area of the crash, denied responsibility for the latest crash, which occurred Monday in the same area as the September crash.

Willie Msarurwa, information secretary for ZAPU, said the crash "was not the work of ZAPU."

But ZAPU leader Joshua Nkomo, speaking to reporters in Nairobi, Kenya, said, "If the plane was brought down by a rocket, it could only have been our chaps."

Nkomo said, however, he had not been in contact with his guerrilla forces in Zambia since the incident.

There was speculation here that the Rhodesian government would respond to the attack on the airliner with raids on guerrilla bases in neighboring Zambia.

Police report

Jerry Largin of Utility Oil Co., 501 W. Brown St., reported a breaking and entering through a window.

William Schroeder of 518 Rider St. reported the breaking and entering of two garages at his residence and the theft of two tire wheels with tires.

Police received 29 calls in the 24 hour period ending at seven this morning. Police received 1069 calls for the month of January.

Weather

Texas weather

By The Associated Press

A blanket of dense fog covered East and Central Texas early today and cut visibility in many areas to less than half a mile.

Scattered light drizzle fell in the Hill Country between San Antonio and Austin. But skies remained clear over most of West Texas.

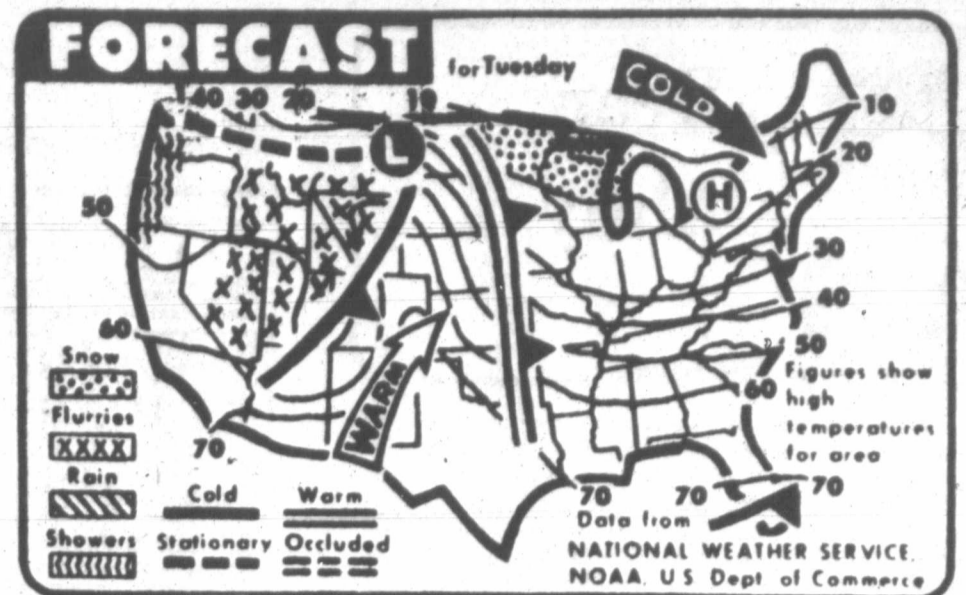

Pre-dawn temperatures today ranged from the 30s in North and West Texas to the low 60s along the Gulf Coast. Marfa, at 28, recorded the early morning low, and McAllen reported the early morning high with a reading of 62.

Forecasts called for partly cloudy skies this afternoon in East and Central Texas with scattered drizzle from the Hill Country to Southeast Texas. Skies will be sunny and warmer over most of West Texas. Temperatures will continue to be mild to warm in East Texas.

Texas forecast

North Texas — It will be mostly cloudy with fog at night and during the mornings becoming partly cloudy during the afternoons today through Wednesday. It will be mild today and warmer tonight and Wednesday. Highs today will vary from 57 in the northwest to 75 in the south. Lows will range from 40 northwest to 52 in the southeast. Highs Wednesday will be from 75 to 79.

South Texas — It will be partly cloudy and warm this afternoon and Wednesday and mild tonight. Highs today and Wednesday will range from the mid to upper 70s in the north to mid 80s in the extreme south. Lows tonight will vary from the upper 40s in the Hill Country to near 60 along the coast and extreme south.

THE FORECAST calls for rain in parts of California and parts of the Southwest. Snow is seen in some of the Rocky Mountain states. (AP Laser photo)

North Texas — Partly cloudy with scattered showers occurring mainly on Thursday. A little cooler Friday. Highest temperatures generally in the 60s on Thursday and Saturday and in the 50s on Friday. Lows near 40 northwest to the mid 50s southeast cooling to range from the mid 30s to the mid 40s by Saturday.

West Texas — Scattered showers Thursday and again Saturday. Partly cloudy Friday. Cooler Thursday and Friday with a warming trend toward the latter part of the week. Highs Thursday and Friday 40s north to 60s south warming to 50s north to 70s south Saturday.

State revenue estimate rises

AUSTIN (AP) — Money is pouring into the state treasury. Comptroller Bob Bullock indicated Monday in a surprise announcement that he plans to raise his revenue estimate by at least $200 million April 1.

"We've got good times — the money's just there," Bullock told the Senate Finance Committee.

Bullock indicated the prediction that legislators will have an extra $200 million to spend is conservative.

"I'm still going to get a little aside," he said, and several senators voiced their approval.

His announcement of the extra $200 million — "maybe more" — was a surprise because his aides have told House committees on two occasions not to expect the revenue estimate to rise over the figures presented two months ago.

On Dec. 18, Bullock told legislators new spending could top $2.8 billion in 1980-81 without running an unconstitutional deficit. That total included a projected surplus of $743.2 million at the end of the 1979 fiscal year, Aug. 31.

Also included in the amount was $450 million which the Legislature has promised to appropriate to local school districts to cover revenue losses caused by the Tax Relief Amendment approved by voters in November.

Bullock asked the finance committee for $114.8 million to run his office in 1980-81, an increase of nearly $18 million over the Legislative Budget Board's recommendation. The request is approximately $24.8 million more than the comptroller's current two-year budget.

Bullock reminded the committee he had made the "brazen statement" in 1975 that he would bring in an extra $100 million from audits and delinquent tax collections legislators would give him more workers and equipment.

In 1977, he said, he reported he had brought in $204 million in the previous two years.

He said Texas' sales tax collections have risen by 19.9 percent this year, compared with a national average of 11.7 percent, and part of the reason is good tax administration.

2 men sought in killing of girl

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Two men are being hunted in Michigan today in the slaying of an 11-year-old school crossing guard who was dragged into a car then dumped about a mile from her elementary school.

Linda Vanderveen, 11, a sixth grader at Mulick Park Elementary School and daughter of the city's personnel director, fought desperately as she was forced into a car Monday morning, a witness said.

Less than 10 hours later and about a mile away, the child was found dead — her hands tied behind her back.

Sgt. Gary Miller of the police juvenile bureau said the body was fully clothed and showed no obvious signs of violence. He said it had not been determined how she died or whether she had been sexually assaulted.

An autopsy was scheduled today to determine the cause of death.

Chuck Elkins, a safety patrol member and classmate of Linda at the 355-pupil school, described her as "probably one of the most popular girls in our class."

Officers said late Monday night that witnesses described both men sought in the case as black. The one seen at the abduction site was aged 25 to 30 and was of normal build. A second man seen in a car about six blocks away was 45 to 50 years old, heavy-set and had a pock-marked face, police said.

Compromise sought on bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sponsors of bills raising the maximum legal interest rate on home loans say homebuyers should have a chance to back out of high-interest loans when rates drop.

Both Rep. Nub Donaldson, D-Gatesville, and Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, made the first gesture toward compromise of the heated issue in hearings Monday.

Their bills would raise the ceiling from 10 percent to 12 percent. But they submitted amendments that would enable a borrower to pay off a loan of over 10 percent without penalty in order to refinance if interest rates fell below that level.

Also in the substitute bills presented by Meier and Donaldson was a provision authorizing variable interest rates, which would be adjusted every six months in response to money market changes.

The Senate Economic Development Committee and House Financial Institutions Committee heard testimony on the identical bills but neither took action to send them out for floor debate.

"We are not going to rush," said Donaldson, who explained there was no point forcing House members to take a stand unless preliminary polling showed the bill could pass.

Charles Sipple, an accountant and management consultant for Touche Ross & Co., said savings and loan associations are squeezed between Texas' 10 percent usury rate and the price they must pay for money.

As a result, Sipple said, financing for new homes is drying up.

He said a 30 percent decline in new home construction would eliminate 150,000 jobs and $600 million business activity from the Texas economy.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently retired, and he is driving me crazy. Julius and I have been married for 44 years and we're both in good health. He was always so involved in his business he had no time to develop any hobbies. He worked and I took care of the house. Now he's home and underfoot all day supervising the cleaning, laundry and cooking!

When the phone rings, Julius runs to answer it. If it's for me he has to know who it was and what was said. When my bridge club meets here, he hangs around listening to every word. The ladies feel inhibited and uncomfortable.

I find myself looking for excuses to get out of the house alone. (Julius even goes with me when I go marketing!)

I love him, but I hate to think of spending the rest of my life under these conditions. So what can I do about Julius? FRUSTRATED IN FLORIDA

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Your problem isn't Julius—it's your reluctance to level with him. Tell him what's on your mind. Gently, lovingly, honestly and IMMEDIATELY! Then together investigate activities for retirees in your community. (Florida is loaded with them.) Search out other couples like yourself. Get involved in community service, politics and volunteerism. Enroll in adult education classes and discover the arts, music, painting or gardening. Get into nutrition, meditation or travel! There's a whole new world out there just waiting to be discovered. And don't forget to thank God you still have your health and each other!

DEAR ABBY: I work in a very pleasant office and enjoy my job. My boss is kind and friendly, but he's fat, incredibly dull, and old enough to be my father.

He often asks me to have lunch with him, but I usually refuse. I accepted a few times last year only because I didn't want to hurt his feelings. But I do not enjoy spending my lunch hours with a boring old man.

Another girl I work with is having the same problem with him. You could help us both by answering this.

Are we obligated to go to lunch with him? FED UP WITH LUNCH

DEAR FED UP: No. Lunching with the boss does not come with the territory.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter concerning the disposition of Grandma's personal effects not provided for in her will.

I submit the perfect plan used by us four children when Mother's estate was settled.

Rule one was that anything given to Mother by any of us went back to the donor.

Rule two was that all items not specifically mentioned in Mother's will (dishes, silver, jewelry, furniture, etc.) would be auctioned off to the four of us. No money was used—just bookkeeping; the amount of the winning bid was deducted from the winner's cash inheritance. (Mother's will stated that we were all to share equally in her estate.)

That way, everyone got exactly what he or she wanted—or the cash equivalent. W.C. PICKARD: CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB—One year ago I had a hole in my lung (pneumothorax). At the time, the surgeon put a hole through my side at the back of my chest to let out the air. Two days after being released from the hospital the hole popped again. This time I stayed in the hospital for five days for bed rest with no tube in my back.

My problem is this, my back has been constantly aching around my shoulder blade and one doctor said it was just my nerves thinking it was lung trouble again. Another doctor says it will take a long time for my ribs to stop aching where the tube went through.

My question is this, what are the chances of another hole popping again? Is it normal for my back to still ache?

I am a 36-year-old woman and was told this problem usually happens in male teenagers. Is this right?

DEAR READER—A pneumothorax, or collapsed lung, is not a serious problem, even though it can be disconcerting. Your lungs are great air sacs. The windpipe (trachea) goes down your throat and divides into half and continues into smaller and smaller passages until they end in tiny air sacs. On occasion, one or more of these little air sacs thins out like a blister on the surface of the lung. It can blow out.

When that happens, the air whistles out of the lung through that hole into the space between the lungs and the rib cage. As the air fills this potential space, the lung collapses. That is why such a condition is sometimes called a collapsed lung.

When the lung collapses spontaneously, as in your case, it is sometimes necessary to slip a tube through the chest wall and into that space where the air is accumulating. This allows the lung to re-expand as the air in that space is pushed out through the tube. Otherwise, the air must be slowly absorbed, causing the lung to be collapsed for a longer period of time.

Once the ruptured blister on the lung has healed completely, the lung expands back to normal. It's possible that the lung can be expanded too soon, before the hole has fully healed, which may have happened in your case.

It's not too unusual to have pain and aching in a chest wall for quite some time after a large puncture is made, as in your case. The same is true for people who have had chest surgery, for one reason or another.

Whether you will have another collapsed lung or not depends upon how many more blisterlike formations on the surface of the lung you have, if any. This condition is more common in young, healthy men. I saw quite a few cases in the Air Force flying population. But a collapsed lung can occur in anyone at any age.

Polly's Pointers

by polly cramer

DEAR POLLY—Chris' Pet Peeve was that the top on a bottle of white glue always sticks. I just put a bit of good old petroleum jelly on the top before closing it and it opens easily the next time I use it. I wipe the remains off before using the glue. Hope this helps her as it has helped me. — GEORGE'S WIFE

DEAR POLLY—Recently I saw a device advertised that scrambles eggs in the shells. I have a device that does the same thing for a lot less money—a round headed straight pin. Stick the pin in the large end of the egg, shake vigorously, remove the pin, crack egg over the pan and there you have a scrambled egg in the shell. — JOANNE

If your birthday's in February ...

February is for lovers and, according to the Jewelry Industry Council, so is February's birthstone, the amethyst.

After all, the man who gave lovers their own special day in February, St. Valentine himself, wore an amethyst ring.

And believe it or not, there was a Cupid engraved on it.

But long before St. Valentine and Valentine's Day, Greek and Roman wives wore the amethyst as a charm to keep their husbands in love with them.

Lovers should also note that the amethyst was the first gemstone ever carved into the shape of a heart.

Since lovers should always be sincere, it's particularly appropriate that the amethyst, as February's birthstone, signifies sincerity.

Wine, of course, goes well with romance and, as you might have guessed, the romantic amethyst has an interesting connection with wine.

The gem's name derives from the Greek "amethystos" meaning "not drunk." For thousands of years it was believed that the amethyst could protect a person against drunkenness, and that's why the ancient Roman's served wine in goblets of amethyst.

The amethyst has been the favored gem among leaders of many different countries.

The ravishing Egyptian beauty, Cleopatra, prized her amethyst ring above all her other jewels.

England's early royal families thought that the amethyst represented power, so the terms "royal purple" and

"born to the purple" are attributed to the stone.

Another royal personage, Catherine the Great of Russia, was so fond of amethysts that she sent thousands of workers to search for them in the Ural Mountains.

The source of the amethyst's royal purple color still remains a mystery. Some experts believe that the lovely violet hues are caused by traces of manganese within the stone.

A fascinating ancient myth offers a more poetic explanation. Bacchus, the god of wine, was offended by Diana, goddess of the forest and the hunt.

For revenge he declared that the first person he met walking through the forest would be devoured by his tigers. The unlucky victim turned out to be the beautiful maiden Amethyst, who was on her way to worship at Diana's shrine.

When Amethyst called out to Diana to save her, the goddess quickly turned her into a pure white, sparkling gem.

Bacchus poured grape wine over Amethyst, giving the stone its exquisite purple color.

Although amethysts are found all over the world, the best sources are Brazil and Uruguay. The most beautiful stones have a purple to violet hue with an even distribution of color.

MARRIAGE, AMERICAN STYLE WASHINGTON (AP) — More Americans stay married rather than get divorced.

According to the American Council of Life Insurance, 62 couples out of each 100 marriages remain together. It says a government study of women who marry for the first time "shows that for every 100 who marry, 38 will get a divorce, but 29 of the divorced women will remarry and 13 of these marriages will again end in divorce.

"Because of the remarriages and second divorces, the original group of 100 will experience 129 marriages and 51 divorces. However, in 62 of the 100 couples the partners will not change."

The Gray County Courthouse is one of the community's most important buildings—even if you never enter it. In its vaults are stored the vital statistics of our community—the birth certificate containing the community's first recognition that a human life has joined the community; the marriage certificate stating the community's recognition that two people now live as one; the tax records, litigation records, and finally, the death certificate which is the recognition that a life has finally left the community. The funeral is also a public record—sort of a certificate given by the entire community that a person has lived, had worth and meaning, has loved and was loved, and now has died. At Duenkel-Smith Funeral Home, the community's death certificate for an individual—is handled with care for the same reasons. Valuable records are placed in carefully protected vaults.

One-Term President
 President Carter travels to Mexico tomorrow, for a three-day visit and talks with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo. Portillo, who took office in 1976, is one president who doesn't have to worry about being re-elected. Mexico's constitution requires the president to step down after serving a single six-year term. This system has provided Mexico with a much more stable government than the country had during the middle 1800s. Between 1821 and 1877, Mexico's rulers included emperors and dictators as well as presidents, and power changed hands about every nine months. U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell recently proposed that American presidents also serve single six-year terms.
DO YOU KNOW — How many four-year terms may U.S. presidents serve?
MONDAY'S ANSWER — Andrew Johnson became president after Lincoln's death in 1865.

DIGGER PHELPS of Notre Dame laughs Monday as he answers questions about the college double header in which his basketball team will play Manhattan. His No. 1-ranked Irish were upset by UCLA Sunday, but Phelps is still confident he can lead his team into the NCAA playoffs for the sixth consecutive year. Phelps said unbeaten Indiana State reminded him of the Princeton team of the 1960s led by Bill Bradley.

Indiana State in top spot

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Indiana State Coach Bill Hodges said his Sycamore basketball team should be No. 1 and they are today — but just barely.

The Sycamores, who rolled to their 23rd consecutive triumph with a 100-75 win over West Texas State Monday night, collected 43 of 62 first-place votes and 1,196 points in balloting by The Associated Press' committee of sports writers and broadcasters. They edged second-place UCLA by a scant six points.

"If we were good enough to be rated No. 2 with our schedule, we're good enough to be No. 1," Hodges said, replying to critics who felt Indiana State's schedule is weak.

And the AP committee agreed, although there were exceptions.

Indiana State and UCLA, which received 19 first place votes, were both named on all 62 ballots. The Sycamores were listed as low as No. 9 by one voter, while the Bruins, who upset then No. 1 Notre Dame 56-52 Sunday, were ranked no lower than fourth.

The Fighting Irish, who handed North Carolina State its first non-conference game home loss since 1968 Wednesday, slipped to third with 1,073 points.

Atlantic Coast Conference teams occupied the next two positions. North Carolina, No. 6 last week, jumped to fourth with 983 points following wins over Maryland and Providence. Duke, top-ranked in the preseason poll and third last week, slipped to fifth with 901 points after being upset by Pittsburgh 71-69 on Saturday.

Southeastern Conference leader Louisiana State, No. 8 last week, was a close sixth with 895 points while Syracuse, 20-2, remained No. 7 with 869 points.

Michigan State, which defeated Iowa 60-57 and bombed Ohio State 73-55 last week, jumped from 10th to eighth with 795 points. Louisville, No. 5 last week, tumbled to ninth after losing to Marquette, No. 10 this week.

Arkansas headed the Second Ten, followed by Southwest Conference rival Texas. Purdue, unranked last week, jumped to 13th, followed by Iowa, Temple, Georgetown, Ohio State, Detroit, Vanderbilt and Alabama.

Texas A&M, No. 11 last week before losing to Arkansas and Texas Tech, and Illinois, No. 20 last week, fell from the Top 20.

Detroit joined Purdue as the only newcomers to the Top 20.

Sycamores extend winning streak

By The Associated Press
Nothing's changed now that the Indiana State Sycamores are finally No. 1 — they're still winning basketball games.

Unloved by the voters throughout the season, the Sycamores have moved to the top of The Associated Press poll and established their new beachhead with a handsome 100-75 conquest of West Texas State Monday night.

Incidentally, that not only gave some more substance to their top-ranked status, but clinched the Sycamores' first Missouri Valley Conference championship.

"They are certainly one of the better teams in the country," said New Mexico State Coach W. Edwards of Indiana State, a possible answer to some charges that the Sycamores play a soft-touch schedule.

That was apparently the thinking of AP voters who in past weeks voted Indiana State No. 2 even though the spottish Sycamores had the best record in the Top Twenty. Indiana State Coach Bill Hodges was miffed, pointing out: "If you're voted No. 2 in the nation, why aren't you good enough to be No. 1?"

They certainly looked good enough Monday night.

"The second half, we just stuck it to them," said Carl Nicks, who scored 17 points for the winners. "We started to fast break."

Jordy Hultberg scored 16 of his 20 points in the second half as LSU rallied from a 12-point deficit in the final 17 minutes to beat Auburn. The Tigers, recording their sixth straight victory, went ahead for good at 58-56 on a basket by Hultberg with 8:42 remaining.

Ulysses Reed scored 10 points in the second half to lead a torrid Arkansas shooting spree that carried the 18-4 Razorbacks past Baylor. The Razorbacks hit 83 percent of their shots after intermission.

John Moore's 23 points paced Texas over Texas A&M in a key Southwest Conference game. The loss dropped the Aggies three games behind the league-leading Longhorns.

The Longhorns' iron-man starting five played the entire game.

Pampa swimmers at District

The timing couldn't be better for Pampa High's swimming team, said Coach Mike Eckhart on the eve of his team's District 3-AAAA meet.

"The kids are fired up and they're looking good," Eckhart said Monday. "Most of them were swimming over the three-day layoff (Friday was a non-school day). Their attitude is good, though I think they want to make a good showing for Pampa High School and the swimming team itself."

Eckhart isn't expecting any miracles as far as the team finishes. Amarillo High is an odds-on favorite to take the boys crown, with Pampa and Tascosa expected to battle it out for second place.

In the girls portion of the meet, AHS and Tascosa should be in a close fight for the team crown. Pampa is a solid choice for third, with Caprock and Palo Duro (relative newcomers to a full-time swimming program) rounding out the field in both divisions.

"We're going to finish third in the girls division," Eckhart said of his five-girl squad. "We can't beat Amarillo High and we can't beat Tascosa. But I'm hoping the boys can put it together and beat Tascosa."

Even though we lost to them by five points (78-73) in our dual with them, we've beaten them in every invitational we swam against them. We finished ahead of them in their own invitational."

Eckhart said he planned on taking all 20 of his tankers, even though some of them would swim in just one event.

"I want them to see what a good meet's like," he said. "They use electric timing and it's the last meet before regionals (in Lubbock March 2-3). If anything, the younger and more-inexperienced kids will give moral support to those that go on to regionals."

Pampa's best hopes appear to lie in Chris Alexander, Mark Lehnick, Cindy and Lisa Raymond and a pair of relay teams.

Alexander beat all of his district competition in the 100-yard breast stroke at the Amarillo Invitational Feb. 3, while Cindy Raymond was the titlist in the girls 500 freestyle. Lehnick, meanwhile, was third in the 100 butterfly and Lisa Raymond was fourth in the 200 individual medley.

Pampa's boys and girls 200 medley relay teams are also expected to finish in the money, although all relay teams will probably qualify for the regional meet. The top six finishers in each event are expected to qualify for the Lubbock meet, and there are only five teams in the district.

Others who could dent the scoring column for Pampa include Cindy Quattlebaum, Kris Douglass, Phillip Trusty and Eugene Thompson.

Preliminaries began at 10 a.m. today, with finals set for 3 at the Maverick Boys Club Pool in Amarillo. Here are Pampa's entries in the meet:

- BOYS
- 200 medley relay — Mark Lehnick, Chris Alexander, Richard Steger, Don Braswell, Scott Grayson — 200 freestyle, 100 freestyle, Phillip Trusty — 200 freestyle, 100 backstroke, David McDonald — 200 freestyle, 100 backstroke, Tyler Berry — 200 freestyle, Eugene Thompson — 200 IM, 100 breast stroke, Richard Steger — 200 IM, 500 freestyle, Chris Alexander — 50 freestyle, 100 breast stroke, Darrel Kyle — 50 freestyle, 100 freestyle, Mike Wheeler — 50 freestyle, 100 freestyle, Doug Auwen — 50 freestyle, Mark Lehnick — 100 butterfly, Don Braswell — 500 freestyle, Jerry Bond — 100 freestyle, Damon Cox — 100 backstroke, Mark Alexander — 100 breast stroke
- 400 freestyle relay — Mark Lehnick, Eugene Thompson, Scott Grayson, Don Braswell

McAdoo traded

NEW YORK (AP) — The trade of Bob McAdoo from New York to Boston has dramatically reshaped the futures of two of the National Basketball Association's most prestigious franchises.

The deal, arranged over the weekend and announced Monday, signals an end to New York's "open checkbook" policy of trying to achieve instant success by buying the most talented athletes available and a return to the more traditional route of rebuilding through the college draft.

From Boston's angle, it is a gamble that a player of McAdoo's magnificent offensive talents can be blended into the Celtics' time-honored team concept without upsetting the apple cart.

The trade was engineered by Sonny Werblin of the Knicks and John Y. Brown of the Celtics, two owners who are not afraid to roll the dice.

New York will receive the three first-round picks Boston had accumulated in the 1979 draft — Boston's own, Golden State's and Seattle's, the latter two having been obtained in deals for Jo Jo White and Dennis Awrey. Boston retains the draft rights to Indiana State's Larry Bird, whom the Celtics picked last June.

New York will also get a player to be named later this week, a front-court reserve from either Boston or another NBA team.

The Knicks had been without a first-round pick in the draft, which is what prompted the deal.

"I was in a ridiculous situation," said Werblin. "I was trying to rebuild without draft choices.
