Carter odyssey ends peace hopes bright

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter returned to a hero's welcome today bringing as the bounty of his shuttling summit agreement by Egyptian and Israeli leaders to accept compromise peace terms and their pledge to push for final approval of a treaty.

"I believe that God has answered our prayers," Carter said. Carter's optimism was bolstered by the Israeli Cabinet, which approved two remaining compromises already accepted by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. The Cabinet vote was 15 to 4 after nearly six hours of debate. "There will be a peace treaty," said minister Yitzhak Modai.

The Cabinet, which met in emergency session in Jerusalem at the request of Prime Minister Menachem Begin, was expected to send the treaty proposals to Israel's parliament, the Knesset.

Approval there also seemed likely. Begin said he would resign if parliament rejected them.

The prime minister said a treaty with Egypt could be signed within the month, possibly in a week or two, if the cabinet and parliament, the Knesset, approve. Egyptian Foreign Minister Butros Ghali agreed with Begin's assessment.

Begin said he, Sadat and Carter would sign the accord in Washington. Then, Begin said, he and Sadat would sign the Hebrew version in Jerusalem and the Arabic text in Cairo.

Carter told about 1,000 congressional leaders, members of his administration and other flag-waving well-wishers who greeted him after midnight at Andrews Air Force Base. "You are looking at a tired but grateful man."

The president said he is asking world leaders in private messages to support "what Egypt and Israel have done." Carter said he had telephoned some of them from Air Force One.

He did not identify the leaders, but presumably they included Arab heads of state whom the administration has been unable to persuade so far to rally support for Sadat in efforts for peace.

Egyptians still distrustful

By The Associated Press

The Israeli Cabinet and Parliament today appeared certain to approve the latest terms for peace with Egypt despite bitter opposition. On the other side, Egyptians were jubilant at the outcome of President Carter's peace mission but distrustful of Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

Begin and his Cabinet met today to take up the treaty clauses Carter mediated to resolve the last two issues blocking agreement with Egypt. The prime minister said Cabinet approval and endorsement next week by the Knesset (Parliament) could result in the signing of the treaty as early as next week.

Begin said he would resign if the Knesset rejected the new proposals, but approval was predicted by opponents as well as those in favor of the new terms.

The compromises were not made public, but reliable sources said they resolved Egypt's demand to station liaison officers in the Gaza Strip to supervise the progress toward Palestinian autonomy there and Israel's demand for direct oil sales from Egypt rather than through a middleman as Egypt wanted.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Butros Ghali said Egypt agreed to sell Israel oil but at world prices with no special privileges. He said the treaty would specify that negotiations for Palestinian autonomy in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank of the Jordan River must begin within a month after the treaty is signed and must end within a year.

Good afternoon

News in brief

COLDER

The weather forecast for Pampa today calls for cooler temperatures with a slight chance of rain tonight and Thursday. The temperatures should range from the mid-30s to the mid-50s. Friday's high is also expected to reach the mid-50s. Winds this afternoon are predicted to be from the east at 10-15 mph. Evening winds should shift slightly, coming from the south and gusting at 15-20 mph.

Crash victim released from hospital

CANADIAN — The 35-year-old victim of a head-on collision here Saturday was released from North West Texas Hospital in Amarillo, where he was listed in critical, but stable condition Monday.

Hospital officials said that Curtis Warren suffered a "depressed skull fracture."

Driving north on the 100 block of main at 7:30 a.m. Saturday, he collided with the pick-up of 16-year-old Robert Ishmael. He was treated and released at the Hemphill County Hospital.

Officers to get pay raise

The Hemphill County Commission voted to raise the salary scale for county law enforcement officers and approved a resolution requesting state legislation for the creation of a Hemphill County Hospital District Tuesday.

The salary scale for the three sheriff's deputies was raised from $830 to $885 monthly, while the scale for chief deputy was raised from $910 to $1000 monthly. The Court also approved $910 monthly for a new captain's position in the sheriff's office.

The Court also voted 3 to 2 in favor of renewing a two year $45,000 contract with the City of Canadian for police protection from the sheriff's office.

Legislation for the creation of a hospital district in Hemphill County has already been submitted to the legislature. State legislation of a hospital district requires local voter approval within two years.

The creation of a hospital district calls for the election of a hospital board which would have the authority to levy taxes up to 75 cents per $100 of valuated property for the operation of the hospital.

The Court also voted 3 to 2 to hire Merriman and Barber, Engineers, of Pampa, for services in the airport improvement project.

Border fighting winds down

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Fighting in the Vietnam-China border war wound down today, intelligence officials in Bangkok reported, but the propaganda battle escalated with Vietnam accusing Chinese troops of butchering children and raping women.

Official observers following the war since China invaded Feb. 17 said Vietnamese forces were trailing Peking's troops as they withdrew to the frontier and that the conflict had shifted closer to the border.

McLean hospital is not distant child of Pampa

By DAN LACKEY
Pampa News Staff

A representative from Hospital Corporation of America told a McLean audience Tuesday that the corporation doesn't see the McLean Hospital as a distant child of the proposed new facility in Pampa—but a vital arm of our new hospital.

Douglas B. Lewis, Director of Domestic Development for the corporation, spoke to a group of hospital employees and interested citizens in the McLean Elementary Cafeteria about the future of the small county facility during and after the building of a new hospital in Pampa.

The corporation, with which the Commissioners Court expects to finalize a contract by April 2, has agreed to construct a new facility to replace Highland General Hospital in Pampa within 30 months.

In response to questions Lewis said "I don't think McLean will ever be without a hospital facility of some kind." Lewis said, however, that the corporation "can always work to provide health care in McLean—but nobody can guarantee that the hospital will always remain a hospital."

Lewis cited the possibility that the present facility could be reduced from a patient holding facility to an ambulatory care service.

Answering questions about improvements at the hospital Lewis said one possibility was the establishment of a courier system by which more extensive lab tests could be made in Pampa from specimens taken in McLean. He said many lab tests could be done more thoroughly and at lesser expense with equipment he said would be available at the new hospital.

Lewis said that the corporation would attempt to recruit a third doctor for the hospital but that any recruitment would be done in consultation with the two doctors presently on the McLean staff. According to Lewis, the corporation has a staff of five at its Nashville offices who have recruited 51 physicians in the last year.

Lewis said that the McLean Hospital "would probably not change drastically in the next 30 months." In the contract now being negotiated the county and the corporation have apparently agreed on a 30 month lease arrangement with an option to renew that lease for another 30 months.

The hospital developer cited federal control or guidelines for hospital operation as a major factor in the future of the local hospitals. "A lot of these things are beyond our control," Lewis said. "It's difficult to predict what things will be like five years from now."

Lewis took issue with HEW Secretary Joseph Califano's proposal to reduce hospital expenses by closing unused hospital beds. "Secretary Califano feels that the number of hospital beds is what what runs up the cost of health care," he said. "This is not true. It's not the number of beds, it's the management of those beds that can increase costs."

Concerning other hospital costs, Lewis said that expenditures for specialized medical equipment were not the significant factor in increased hospital expenses. "The real expense involves the hiring of trained experts to operate the new equipment," he said.

The corporation has projected a need for 150 beds for the new hospital, Lewis said. But the number is subject to approval of the Health Systems Agency after the corporation finalizes a contract with the county. Highland General presently has 126 beds.

Although a site for the new hospital has not been chosen, Lewis said, the corporation plans to begin construction within a month of obtaining a Certificate of Need from the Health Systems Agency.

Estimates of the cost of the new facility range from $8 to $14 million.

Lewis said that the corporation would contract Joe M. Rogers Construction in Nashville for the building of the hospital. He said the construction firm would be subcontracting much of the building to local contractors and would "hire local people to do different jobs."

In a press briefing this morning, Lewis said he was optimistic about the chances of securing approval for a 150 bed hospital. But he said he did not know if an expanded facility would create new health service jobs.

Defending the need for a new hospital, he said that Highland General Hospital "building is useless as a health care facility."

"The basic structure of the building is sound," he said. "But the plumbing and electrical systems were designed for conditions 30 years ago." He estimated that complete renovation of Highland General would cost as much as a million dollars.

The hospital developer said the corporation was "prepared to take a loss on the new hospital for a few years because we can rely on hospitals that are making money for our profit." The corporation, based in Nashville, presently owns or operates 130 hospitals in the United States, including 12 in Texas.

Comparing the hospital corporate network to various chains business, Lewis said that a broad range of hospitals allowed the corporation to continue to make capital improvements in individual hospitals which did not show a profit. "With a county operated facility," he said, "You have to depend on the actual profit of the hospital for capital expenditures. You may need new equipment but if the hospital doesn't show a great profit, the county will say 'Where are we going to get the money?'"

Lewis said that a priority in the new hospital operation would be a 24 hour emergency room physician. The hospital now has a 24 emergency room doctor only on weekends. Staff doctors rotating emergency room duty on weekdays.

Grant to be reviewed

Pampa's community block development grant pre-application will receive a preliminary review Thursday by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission (PRPC). A PRPC committee will go over the pre-application and record comments at 1:30 p.m. in the first floor conference room of the Amarillo Building in Amarillo. Personnel Director David Callison will represent the city at the meeting.

Pampa is applying for a three-year, $1.5 million grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). If the grant is awarded, the money will be used to pave streets, replace water lines and rehabilitate housing in two areas south of Highway 60.

A final review of the preapplication will be conducted by the PRPC Board of Directors at 1:30 p.m. March 22 in Amarillo.

The results of their findings and final action on the pre-application will then be sent to the city.

CHAD BREEDING (right), exhibitor of the champion hereford steer in the junior show Tuesday, has to stretch a bit to receive his trophy Tuesday night at the Top O' Texas Hereford Breeders Association Banquet in M. K. Brown Auditorium. Presenting the award to the Roberts County 4-H student was Don Vance, president of the association. Also receiving trophies were B & C Cattle Co. of Miami, for grand champion bull, Wayne Maddox of Miami, for best pen of two bulls; Paul Dauer of Panhandle, for best pen of three bulls; and Mark Fields of Carson County 4-H, for champion heifer. A plaque was presented to Gus Carruth for outstanding service to the association.

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coving Commandment.

Hayakawa sees power struggle

In an address before a republican group late last year, Sen. S.I. Hayakawa reverted to his former occupation of professor and presented some observations about the role and function of government in our economy. He views elections as basically a struggle over this issue between two small classes, each representing no more than 5 percent of the population, fighting for the loyalties of the other 90 percent.

The California senator refers to these classes as the production and knowledge elites. The production elite believes that "the business of America is business," and the road to riches, wealth and the good life lies in manufacturing, mining, farming and "producing, producing, producing." Greater production will lower prices and enable more goods to acquire some or additional, goods and services, says the production elite. It relies on natural forces to improve the human condition.

But the knowledge elite rejects nature in favor of government regulation. "There is a tendency," says Hayakawa, "on the part of the people with Ph.Ds in the humanities and social sciences - I shall call them the 'soft - ware' disciplines - to believe they know better than other people how to run other people's lives."

That is, there is a whole mass of uneducated, unwashed or illiterate people in bowling alleys and other low places who don't have the moral sensitivity and the intellectual acuity of us who have Ph.Ds and therefore they don't know how to run their lives and they need to be regulated. They need to be ordered around."

Hayakawa's knowledge elite contains, among others, a good many lawyers and most college professors in the social sciences and humanities. It includes, says the senator, an enormous number of news media people who obtain a liberal arts education or majored in political science, economics or history, and then went into news reporting.

"When the business people complain about the liberalism of the networks, the liberalism of the New York Times and the Washington Post, they're just talking about a very, very fundamental class difference. The knowledge elite people are trying very hard to be fair - minded in their stories in the Washington Post, but they see the world through different eyes than the point of view of the production elite."

Until the Depression of the 1930s, the country relied on the production elite for leadership. During that former period, America was a land of great opportunity and millions of people flocked here to obtain economic gain denied them elsewhere. The producers were to an extent delegitimized by the Depression and gradually replaced in much of their power by the knowledge elite.

The senator reminds us that when Charles Wilson, a member of the Eisenhower cabinet, stated what's good for General Motors is good for America, the former GM president was hooted and derided for being morally insensitive, stupid and concerned only with profit.

Opinion on this subject is far different in Japan. There, observes the senator, "they take it for granted that what's good for Toyota Motors, what's good for Matsushita Electric, is good for Japan. They just take it for granted: they don't argue about it, maybe that's why they get along so well."

The two elites in America differ about abundance, according to Hayakawa. The producers believe abundance to be the key to improving the human condition, whereas the knowledge elite does not prefer abundance - if there is enough to go around there is nothing to regulate. This group delights in scarcity and likes to argue that it exists, regardless of the facts.

The alleged energy crisis illustrates the point. The production elite maintains that if government stops interfering, energy can be obtained and supplied to the people. But the knowledge elite insists there is a desperate shortage of oil and that therefore the only solution is conservation.

The government has an odd approach to conserving. The Department of Energy now has 20,000 employees and something like 35 classifications of natural gas "so that the deserving will get natural gas and the undeserving will not - and they'll decide who's deserving and undeserving. It's an absolute paradise for regulators."

The senator is concerned about the adverse effects of regulation on the poorer portions of the population. He notes that as a result of taxi regulation the cost of buying a license to operate a cab is now $50,000 in New York and $28,000 in San Francisco. Were regulation eliminated, the license cost would drop to zero and a lot of people who are now excluded would be able to enter the business.

Hayakawa's message is to open up the doors of opportunity by limiting government and thereby removing impediments of self-fulfillment. He wants to see America again become an open society encouraging the have - nots of today to become the haves of tomorrow.

Ideas on liberty

Freedom is destroyed between two persons to whatever extent either one uses violence or the threat of violence to impose his will or viewpoint upon the other. Regardless of who is the aggressor and who is the victim - or whether the violence is legal or illegal - freedom is still infringed. If you have rendered me helpless by throwing me to the ground and sitting on top of me, everyone understands clearly that my freedom has been severely curtailed. But what is not generally understood is that your freedom is also curtailed as long as you must spend your time and effort to hold me down. You thereby restrict your own progress and improvement just as you do mine. Freedom is a reciprocal relationship based on voluntary agreements and actions. This applies in all human relationships, even though they are seldom as clear and dramatic as person-to-person violence. The only real possibility for complete freedom for yourself as an individual is for you to refrain from initiating violence or the threat of violence against anyone else. This is the vital first step toward a condition of mutual nonmolestation - a step that any of us can take as soon as he is ready.

'Send 'em back home!'

"Send 'em back to where they came from!" That savage cry has been uttered with increasing frequency these past few weeks. On the one hand, Mexican citizens have come into the United States, in violation of the immigration laws, to seek employment. The labor union enthusiasts have, of course, picked up the "send 'em back" theme (in order to protect themselves from competition from people willing to work for less). The American government has responded with millions of dollars to support one of its more obscene undertakings: preventing people from entering the country.

Then there is the story of the boatload of 2,300 refugees from Vietnam who lacked the vision to want to stay in that earthly paradise of brotherhood and social harmony. The problem being faced by these refugees is this: no country - not even the United States - will allow them to enter. They are being told, in effect, "go back to where you came from: you're not wanted here!" The government from which they fled - Jonestown East - has stated that they would welcome them back "with open arms." What humanitarianism. When even the United States is no longer a haven for the victims of political oppression, it is time to reexamine some basic premises.

Another instance of this "send 'em back" attitude may be found in Jimmy-the-Progressive's decision to recognize Red China and to withdraw recognition of Taiwan. While he did not, in so many words, tell the Taiwanese to "go back" to the mainland, he certainly made it quite inviting for the Red Chinese government to "come and get 'em."

This "send 'em back" attitude is not a new one, of course. White racists have used it for years as a pet solution for their so-called "black problem." That the ancestors of these blacks never "came" here in the first place, but were "brought" here by prior generations of white racists, is a contradiction that probably never occurred to these characters. I even heard this absurd phrase used a few years ago by a man who, reacting to the disorders by American Indians at Wounded Knee, declared with nary a blush "send 'em back where they came from!"

Maybe that's a clue to the whole problem. Maybe the Indians would have been better off if, back in the seventeenth century, they had set up their own Immigration and Naturalization Service. At least people would now be able to walk through Central Park at night!

It is a sad commentary on a nation which uses the Statue of Liberty as one of its principal symbols, that the poem by Lazarus ("Give me your tired, your poor, Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free") is no longer reflective of the free and open society that was once America. Mexican workers are, instead, "huddled" in buses taking them back across the border. Vietnam refugees "yearning to breathe free" are, instead, literally kept at bay breathing salt air.

Some people are getting into the country, however. Among the honored group of anticipated arrivals is the shah of Iran and his family. America may, in other words, become a haven for the heads of political States who have deprived others of the freedom for which America is a symbol. How ironic.

Other Iranians are not so lucky, however. Following a recent violent demonstration in Beverly Hills by Iranian students protesting the arrival of the shah's family, the American government announced that it would take steps to deport those Iranians who participated in the violence. Perhaps it was only a fear by the limousine-liberals that violent demonstrations should arrive in Beverly Hills (instead of Watts or Harlem where they really belong) that prompted the government's action. I mean, it is one thing to break storefront windows in slum areas... but along Rodeo Drive? "Send 'em back where they came from!" Well, I have no defense to make of anyone who engages in violent behavior - for whatever purpose. But I do wonder if the American government might not have a difficult time in deciding just where these aliens should go. What we know as the country of Iran was, of course, formerly the country known as Persia, and the people living there were Persians. Long before that, a portion of that nation was known as Media, and its inhabitants were known as Medes. Now you can see the problem associated with identifying the nationality of these people for, as everyone knows, one man's Mede is another man's Persian.

IN WASHINGTON

Small hope for Brown's pet

by martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Jerry Brown's balance-the-budget crusade may garner a lot of headlines, but it isn't likely to attract much overt support from his fellow governors during their winter conference here this week.

Even in the normal course of events, the California governor is not what you'd call popular with his colleagues from other states.

Brown seldom bothers to attend these semi-annual meetings of the National Governors' Association, and when he does turn up, he often spends more time in the corridors sparring with political reporters about his presidential ambitions than he does participating in the formal meetings.

His endorsement of a balance-the-budget amendment, by constitutional convention if need be, irritates other governors not only because it smacks of grandstanding but also because Congress may just decide to balance the federal budget by slashing aid to the states - hardly an approach desired by the governors.

Well before the start of this week's conference in Washington, there were moves afoot to block Brown from seeking an official NGA endorsement of his position in support of a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

Leading the effort to "contain" Brown was Vermont Gov. Richard Snelling, a Republican moderate who chairs the fiscal affairs committee of the association.

Brown had sought an opportunity to address a full plenary session of the conference, but Snelling and other officials of the NGA short-circuited the Californian. Instead, Brown will have to settle for a presentation to the fiscal affairs committee.

He is not likely to make much headway with that group, even though the 11 governors who serve on the committee include a number of relatively conservative Southerners and Westerners. Snelling, in the weeks before the conference assembled, took the precaution of contacting all of his committee members to sound them out on Brown's pet issue.

And while the governor declined to reveal the tenor of his conversations with his colleagues, an aide said Snelling had a "comfortable" majority of the panel lined up in opposition to Brown.

As fiscal affairs chairman, Snelling also made sure there would be no resolution on fiscal matters pending before the full NGA at this winter meeting. And in the absence of a pending resolution from the NGA leadership, a three-fourths vote of all governors attending the conference would be needed to put a proposal before the group.

Last August at the NGA's summer meeting in Boston, then-New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson tried to get a three-fourths vote to allow the introduction of exactly the sort of balance-the-budget constitutional amendment plan Brown is now pushing. Thomson's effort fell flat, and Brown is unlikely to bother seeking the rules suspension.

At the August meeting, the governors did go on record in support of a resolution calling for a balanced federal budget by fiscal 1981 - the earliest target considered at all feasible by either President Carter or most members of Congress.

The primary concern of most of the governors now visiting Washington is to insure that Congress doesn't try to meet that objective by slashing revenue sharing and other programs that currently funnel some $82 billion a year to state and local governments.

Instead of answering the siren call of their California colleague, a majority of the governors will probably concentrate on smoothing ruffled feathers on Capitol Hill. They'd love to see federal spending cut and the budget balanced - but not at the expense of the states. They will stick to courting Congress instead of clubbing it with threats of a constitutional convention.

The operator is missed

A relative of mine answered our phone one night and it was a man who hadn't gotten his paper. "I'm the fellow who takes your call when you report trouble with your telephone," he said. "Tell you what," she replied, "I'll have the paper delivered to you by 5 p.m. next Wednesday."

And - to his credit - the telephone man laughed and said okay.

Insane system
We have an insanely contrived telephone system in our office which is so sophisticated it doesn't entirely understand itself. It is able to do a thousand outlandish things but all we want it to do is make telephone calls for us and, occasionally, switch a call from one line to another. This latter function it performs fitfully and I suspect it considers such a simple maneuver to be rather beneath its dignity. It is better, however, than a second direct line I have in my office which roars at me, whines, fetches me strange numbers in towns I haven't dialed, and shows a strong will if its own. I have sometimes thought seriously of employing an exorcist if one happens to drop by.

The change-over from dial to pushbutton was accomplished with "no trouble at all." I read that in the paper. They are coming out in two days to fix our phones which didn't give them any trouble, but they sure give us fits. Two of them won't ring at all and another one growls in an unfriendly manner. I am afraid to pick it up.

Exotic thinking
I am not faulting the phone company, mind you, because I understand the problem, which is that people who design phone systems and computers (such as those we have) think in exotic, challenging, improbable terms, reaching always for some spectacular new accomplishment however useless it may be. They aren't interested, really, in getting a bell to ring. Any kid in manual training can do that. They opt for ways of connectiv, by conference call, all the left-handed pencil salesmen west of the Rockies, which very likely they can do. It is of no consequence to them that this hookup serves no purpose whatever; it represents a triumph in engineering and that is the name of the game.

Girl Scouts celebrate 67th birthday this week

The Girl Scouts of America are celebrating this week 67 years of providing guidance for young ladies all around the world.

Local girls have honored the anniversary festivities in two separate ceremonies to accentuate the year's activities while some 3 million other members carry out their plans for the week.

The Quivera Girl Scout Council, the local organization's head, has 32 troops with 466 girls in Pampa.

A West Neighborhood banquet Monday gathered troops from Horace Mann, Travis and St. Vincent de Paul at the Pampa Optimist Club where dinner tables were decorated with hints of foreign countries.

The East Neighborhood event on the following day brought together troops from Austin, Baker, Wilson and Lefors. The theme of both banquets was "Festival of Children."

Skits, songs and dances focused on Czechoslovakia, Poland, the South Sea Islanders and Mexico, which was represented by the breaking of a pinata, said Mrs. W. Birkes, Girl Scout executive.

The Civil War was reenacted with the familiar tunes of "Dixie" while cowboys and Indians conjured up visions of the Frontier Days.

The group was also encouraged to make new friends and express their ideas.

The week's activities promote the International Year of the Child 1979, which calls for the recognition of the potential in all children and provision of opportunities for them to discover and express their abilities.

These Scouts have adopted a nation-wide project of "Find the Gift in Every Child," which indoctrinates that every child has hope, love and joy to give to the world.

The Girl Scouts have extended their headquarters to some 100 countries, and each branch will be projecting this message, by which the United Nations has made a stand in announcing its importance.

This celebration has also been marked by a change in the symbol, which has represented the Girl Scout promise since 1912.

The emblem for the organization - a three-leaf clover - portrays the profiles of three girls.

"The emblem reflects both the proud heritage of the Girl Scouts and its new position in a changing world of youth," said Celia Fowler, Girl Scout Executive Director.

The emblem is to be representative of the promise.

The pledge says: "On my honor, I will try: to serve God, my country and mankind, and to live by the Girl Scout Law."

The law is an oath to do one's best to be honest, fair, helpful, cheerful, friendly, and considerate.

The girl also says that she will be a sister to every Girl Scout, will respect authority, use resources wisely, protect and improve the world around her and show respect for herself and others through words and actions.

"In the profile (of the new emblem) the girls are young, vital, and eagerly look toward the future," she said.

By way of the Senior and Brownie Scouts, girls are taught many basic skills in camping, crafts and the arts to learn responsibility.

They also learn by recreational means. Weekend ski and camping trips are planned. The local girls have easy access to Camp Mel Davis, a 16-acre area near Lefors.

The girls hold leader training sessions and district, neighborhood and council events at the camps.

A new 29-acre area near Clarendon, called Cibola, was purchased in 1970 and is still being developed. The area has been used as resident camp, troop camp and other events since 1970.

The development of these camps is financed by the sale of Girl Scout cookies each year - another event that encourages growth.

Shellie Duke waits to begin the Annual Pampa Girl Scout Banquet. The Pampa Optimist Club was filled last night with gala from different countries, such as the pinata from Mexico, for the celebration of National Girl Scout Week.

Utility industry supports plan

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Bill Patman has some support in the utility industry for his proposal to help the elderly and disabled pay home heating and cooling bills.

"Irrespective of all these (private relief) programs, there still is a desperate need to provide more assistance to the blind, disabled and older people on fixed incomes," Dan Crowley, executive vice president of Southern Union Gas Co., said Tuesday in support of Patman.

Crowley and Lowry Carpenter, executive vice president of the Texas LP Gas Association, were among witnesses before the Senate Finance Committee.

The committee considered a constitutional amendment allowing for a program to give some 250,000 persons between $10 and $20 monthly for utility bills. The constitution currently prohibits direct state grants to individuals except as matching funds for Medicaid programs.

Patman, D-Ganado, already has won approval from another Senate committee for the program's enabling legislation.

The finance committee postponed a vote the measure for lack of a quorum. Chairman Grant Jones, D-Abilene, said it probably would be considered Thursday.

Patman's bills would dedicate 1 cent of the 7½-cent natural gas severance tax to a fund for utility bill relief. The tax generates $517 million annually and the proposal would take $65 million a year.

Want to start another one?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — "Want to start another one?" Gov. Bill Clements asked members of the Texas Farm Workers who had recently completed a 600-mile march from Muleshoe.

"Want to march from here to California to see Governor (Jerry) Brown?" a high-spirited Clements said Tuesday as he circulated among about 15 farm workers in his reception area.

He was pointedly informed that Texas union members have indeed traveled, if not marched, to California to help with the United Farm Workers' lettuce strike.

Clements and five union representatives then retired for a private half-hour conversation, and they emerged apparently satisfied.

"We had a very good conversation and everyone, literally everyone, participated," the governor said. "I don't know of any work that is harder than agricultural work."

Union President Antonio Orendain said, "He (Clements) was friendly and positive to hear our problems."

Clements said the talk included topics he had discussed previously: "less than a fair wage, living conditions, undocumented workers and of course education for children."

He promised to visit House Speaker Bill Clayton to see if an agricultural labor bill has any chance of reaching the House floor.

The proposal to extend collective bargaining laws to farm workers is presently mired in the House Committee on Agriculture and Livestock.

Its chairman, Rep. Forrest Green of Corsicana, has said it has "an uphill battle to even get out of committee."

Clements said, "As governor I have very little control over one of those committees. ... I have said on other occasions that I am opposed to unions for agricultural workers in Texas. Nevertheless, I am sympathetic with the problem."

Quake hits parts of Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) - A severe earthquake damaged buildings and sprayed broken glass over the streets of downtown Mexico City before dawn today, and there were indications of injuries.
 The Seismological Institute in Mexico City reported the quake measured 7 on the Richter scale and the epicenter was 196 miles southwest of the capital city.
 Radio reports from Red Cross headquarters indicated there had been injuries.
 Lights were out in several sections of the capital of 13 million people when a strong aftershock hit almost exactly an hour after the main shock rolled through the capital shortly after 5 a.m.
 The facade fell from a bank building on Juarez Street in the heart of the city. It appeared at least one upper story of the building had collapsed into the ground floor.
 Tourists gathered in small frightened knots in front of the towering hotels on Paseo de la Reforma Boulevard. Glass from broken windows littered the sidewalk.

Weather Texas weather

By The Associated Press
 A cold front moved through Central Texas into South Texas today, triggering some shower and thundershower activity as it moved into the Gulf of Mexico.
 The front brought with it slightly cooler temperatures.
 Dense fog cut visibility to less than a mile south of a line from San Antonio to Port Arthur during the pre-dawn hours.
 Forecasts called for partly cloudy skies and slightly cooler temperatures in the northern half of the state and for mostly cloudy skies and some shower and thundershower activity in the southern half of the state.
 Highs were to range from the 50s in the Panhandle to the 80s in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and the valleys of the Big Bend country.
 Early morning temperatures ranged from the 30s in the Panhandle to the upper 60s in South Texas. Extremes ranged from 30 at Dalhart to 70 at Corpus Christi.

Texans cannot buy generic drugs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Major federal agencies such as the Defense Department and Veterans Administration already buy lower cost generic drugs - something Texans cannot do - as a way to save money, says federal administrator Gene Knapp.
 Another federal employee, lawyer Dayle Berke of the Federal Trade Commission, said Texans could save as much as $21.9 million a year through the substitution of generic versions of 60 popular brand name drugs.
 Librium, for example, is the brand name of a drug and costs $9.31 per 100 at some Austin stores, while the generic equivalent is chloriazepoxide hydrochloride and costs $4.60 per 100.

 Knapp, associate director of the Food and Drug Administration told a Senate committee Tuesday.
 "The American consumer can be assured that our drug supply is of the highest quality in the world and that drugs will do what they are supposed to do in the human body."
 He said the FDA has compiled a list of approximately 5,000 approved drug products.

Ms. Berke reviewed a "model act" the federal agency has proposed for states such as Texas which do not permit pharmacists to substitute lower cost generic drugs.
 She said only 10 states do not allow such substitutions.
 A Texas bill based on the model act is before the human resources committee, but chairman Chet Brooks, the sponsor, said more testimony would be heard Wednesday before taking any vote.
 A physician would have the option, under the model law, to prescribe a brand name drug or its generic equivalent.

Former Pampa coach named to Ranger post

A former Pampa coach and science teacher has been elected as superintendent of the schools in Ranger by the board there.
 Paul Edward Boswell, who taught locally from 1962 to 1966, will begin his new job July 1 on a two-year contract.
 He had been superintendent of Cranfills Gap since 1974, where he is high school principal.
 His teaching time in Pampa was limited because he was on leave one year to Michigan

State University in Lansing, Mich. He received his masters degree there.
 He continued to teach science, but also served as dean of students at the Kwajalein Junior - Senior High School at Kwajalein, Marshall Islands in the Pacific.
 While sponsoring students at the International Science Fair in 1966, he participated at the National Science Teachers annual convention in Ohio in 1970.

Raising livestock has been a hobby for Boswell on his 200-acre ranch outside of Cranfills Gap.
 He has three children: Jeffrey, a student at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston; Anne, a sophomore at Tarleton State University; and Jaime, a fifth grader.
 The Little League Baseball program, the United Fund and the United Methodist Church are some of his activities.
 Partly raised in Pampa, he graduated from the high school here in 1950. He had played football and baseball and was an Eagle Scout.

 Afterwards, he received a bachelor's degree at West State Texas University, where he was class president and was active in student government. He also played varsity football.
 National Science Institutes granted him a scholarship to Howard Payne College, Northern Illinois University, The University of California at Berkeley, Michigan State University and the University of Hawaii, Tokyo campus.

Trudeau's book blockbuster

MONTREAL (AP) - Margaret Trudeau's autobiography is a publishing blockbuster a month before it goes on sale and the prime minister's estranged wife is expected to make more than $1 million.
 "The first printing is already sold out and the book is still a month away from the stands," Michael Baxendale, vice president of Optimum Publishing Co., said Tuesday.
 He said his firm already has orders for "well over 20,000 copies" of the $12.95 hardcover version, four times the level considered by Canadian standards to be a best seller.
 Baxendale said a televised interview with Mrs. Trudeau in which she discussed portions of the book would have cost the publishers a fortune had it gone off as scheduled last Sunday.
 After she granted the interview she changed her mind and a court upheld her attorneys' arguments against its airing.
 "We would have lost an enormous amount in royalties and there would have been innumerable legal disputes and lawsuits ensuing because everyone who had purchased serialization rights would have contended that the embargo was broken," he said.
 The West German magazine Stern paid $150,000, Paris Match about $100,000 and the London Daily Express about $80,000 to find out about the life and loves of the 30-year-old wife of Pierre Elliott Trudeau.
 Serialization rights totaling $100,000 were also paid by Canadian newspapers along with 40 others in the United States and South America. Simon and Schuster paid $250,000 for the paperback rights.

Dear Abby

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY: I was disappointed in your advice to carry no wedding gifts to the reception. You said gifts should be sent to the bride's home before the wedding or to the couple's home afterwards so as not to be a problem for the bride's mother, who already had enough on her mind. You also said it was a pain in the neck to have to haul a carload of wedding presents home. Boy, I should have had such a pain in the neck!

J. IN PASO ROBLES

DEAR J.: Although the mail has been running 2 to 1 in your favor and against me, here's one for my side:

DEAR ABBY: Let me add a loud "Amen" to your opinion that taking wedding gifts to the reception is very inconsiderate. I recently married off a daughter, and of the gifts that were brought to the reception, many mysteriously disappeared - having been either just or stolen. Some were broken when I got them home, and many cards were lost and mixed up.

Abby, please keep repeating your advice to send the wedding gifts to the bride before the wedding, or to the couple afterward.

POST-MARITAL HEADACHE

DEAR ABBY: I was jogging the other morning and when I came to an intersection (not a particularly busy one) a passing motorist leaned out his window and yelled, "Hey, you jerk, get off the street! What are you trying to prove?"

I ignored him and kept right on jogging. Abby, this wasn't the first time I've been insulted by a hostile motorist. Other joggers tell me they've had the same experience.

What do you think motivates these people to put down joggers?

KEEPING FIT IN SAN MATEO

DEAR KEEPING: Jealousy, probably.

DEAR ABBY: On Valentine's Day the gentleman I've been dating gave me a bottle of perfume in my favorite fragrance. He also took me to dinner and presented me with a beautiful orchid corsage. Then he spoiled it all by handing me a $100 GIFT CERTIFICATE!

I tried not to show my shock and disappointment, but I still haven't been able to bring myself to cash it. Should I drop him?

INSULTED IN ELMHURST

DEAR INSULTED: I can't see any reason that you should be shocked, disappointed, or insulted. But if you decide to drop this gentleman, let me know where you drop him. I know several women in Elmhurst who would love to meet him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO FAITHFUL FAN IN BREMER-TON, WASH.: Your character is what you ARE, your reputation is what people THINK you are, but once you get a reputation as an early riser you can sleep till noon.

Dr. Lamb

by lawrence lamb m.d.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Will garlic correct high blood pressure? What are the symptoms of high blood pressure? What can cause the top of your head to feel as though there were a weight on top of it and as if it were tight?

DEAR READER - No, garlic will not correct high blood pressure. I'm continually amazed at all of the fantasy around garlic. As a matter of fact, one of our early health food promoters, Adolphus Hohensee, urged the use of garlic to treat low blood pressure. He also urged people to put a piece of garlic in their rectum each night.

Don't expect any health benefits from garlic other than its ability to keep people away from you, when you have garlic on your breath. That might help protect you from contagious diseases you might get from oversocializing at close proximity.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Several months ago I noticed some lumps under my arms. Since I have been doing a lot of hoeing and digging in my yard, I thought perhaps I had overdone that. Also, I have quite an allergy, runny nose, sneezing, itching eyes, etc. I had a complete physical and the doctor didn't seem to be concerned about the lumps in my arm. He did some blood tests which were normal. I was uneasy about the lumps so a month later I had more tests done and they, too, were normal. The doctor just said to hang loose.

DEAR READER - You've done the most important thing by seeing a doctor to let him examine the lumps. The only way anyone can really determine whether a lump is important or not is to examine it. Those that are suspicious or larger sometimes need to be removed and examined under a microscope to be certain.

You can develop lumps under the arms that don't have any medical importance. Doing a blood test was helpful to your doctor in deciding that the lumps weren't a serious problem.

The lymph glands sometimes cause such lumps. They are literally a barrier against infection to the rest of your body. If you get an infection in your finger, the lymph glands filter the lymph that comes from your arm and traps the bacteria so that they don't invade the rest of your bloodstream and infect your whole body. In the process of trapping infectious organisms, the glands get swollen and sometimes tender.

Polly's Pointers

by polly cramer

DEAR POLLY - I am replying to Val who has an annoying urine odor in her carpet. We use ground cloves for the removal of many odors. Sprinkle it generously on the spot and then vacuum up the next morning. It is great for removing the odor of mildew from drawers and closets. Try it for removing that stale cigarette smoke odor that so often lingers in a car. It really works. - MRS. B.A.

DEAR POLLY - You recently advised the reader who had a doggie odor in her carpet to sprinkle dry salt thickly on the rug, leave overnight and then vacuum up. Polly, you should warn those who try this to empty their sweeper bags immediately. Salt as well as sand cannot be left in a sweeper bag for fear of corrosion. - CAROL

DEAR CAROL - Thanks for calling this to our attention. That warning is always put at the end of this Pointer and must have gotten lost along the way this time.

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peavee or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

Kristy McNichol: regular kid

TV's teen superstar, Kristy McNichol, may be spreading her wings professionally, but in real life she's playing it close to the nest.

Like the character she plays on "Family," of whom Kristy says, "I've turned Buddy into me," the 16-year-old actress is in no hurry to grow up.

"A lot of actresses my age want to look real spiffy and everything, with lots of makeup," she says in US magazine. "But what's the hurry?"

Her mother is as pleased about Kristy's levelheadedness as if her little scene-stealer had nabbed an Oscar. "I'm really glad you got into the Hollywood scene," says mother to daughter.

But that doesn't mean she doesn't go astray every once in a while.

Kristy was recently caught sneaking into a movie theatre to see "King Kong." The manager lectured her, "You're Kristy McNichol, you don't have to

Most tractors are gone but tempers still frayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the tractors that churned up the grassy Mall here last month are gone but tempers are still frayed as the bills for repairs and other costs come to light.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., normally a low-key advocate of many farm causes, reacted sharply Tuesday after hearing new official estimates that the month-long protests by American Agriculture demonstrators will cost taxpayers around $3.6 million.

Butch Neel of Windom, Kan., speaking for the farmers who brought 1,950 farm vehicles here Feb. 5, flatly denied any blame for damage.

"If there is any blame, it must rest with Congress and the Carter administration for allowing agriculture in America to get into such a position" that the farmers must drive across country in tractors to dramatize financial problems, he said.

"You have hurt the cause of farmers," shot back Leahy.

The exchange was at a hearing of an Appropriations subcommittee, of which Leahy is chairman, that handles the District of Columbia budget. He had asked city and federal park officials to testify on costs of the demonstration.

Neel had asked to be allowed to rebut the damage figures, Leahy said.

Most police forces have returned to normal patrols now, even though a symbolic four dozen tractors are being allowed to remain parked on a street near the Capitol, the officials said.

Neel said that blaming the farmers for the damaged turf, destroyed benches and toppled trees and lampposts, after the police penned them in the area, was like inviting a guest to your home and locking the door.

"Then if he spills a drink on your couch, you not only suggest that he should pay for a complete set of new furniture but should pay for new carpets, having the house repaired, repairing the gutters ... and so forth," he said.

"That's a nice analogy that doesn't really fit this situation, does it, Mr. Neel?" Leahy interrupted.

When Leahy suggested that congressional hearings were a better forum to make their case, Neel said, "We didn't get enough attention (that way) last year" when only 40 or 50 tractors were brought.

"You must be aware of the kind of feedback we've had nationally. We've been inundated with criticism for our support of farmers generally. Do you think you've accomplished anything? ... I don't," Leahy said.

Neel said regular pedestrian traffic and mowers have done more damage to the 29 acres of grass than the tractors and suggested Leahy look at it. "I did, on Sunday, and I disagree with you," he replied.

Washington Mayor Marion Barry said the net cost to his agencies was $2.57 million even though total spending was twice that, not counting physical strain on police officers from a month of 12-hour, seven-day shifts.

Subcommittee rejects appointee

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Senate subcommittee has rejected a mental health appointee portrayed by some parents as a threat to the state school system which, one said, is "the envy of the nation."

However, Family District Judge Criss Cole and other parents defended William Schnapp's appointment Tuesday, describing him as a knowledgeable man who cares deeply about mentally handicapped persons.

The nominations subcommittee voted 3-2 not to recommend Sch app's appointment to the State Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

The 31-member Senate, however, still must decide whether to confirm Schnapp.

The subcommittee approved Dallas bank executive William Daves Jr. as a member of the State Board of Insurance on a 6-0 vote but declined to approve or reject the appointment of W.B. "Monk" Edwards as a Houston district judge.

Edwards' appointment was merely forwarded to the Senate without any recommendation.

"Mr. Schnapp is obviously a fine person, a very dedicated person and has done a lot of work in mental health and mental retardation ... but he is too controversial to be effective," said Sen. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches.

Blake questioned the ability of Schnapp, former executive director of the Houston Association of Retarded Citizens, to handle hundreds of millions of dollars in mental health funds.

Schnapp was criticized by several parents last week for purportedly advocating the closing of state schools for the mentally retarded in favor of community centers, accusations he said were erroneous.

Cole said, "Nothing could be further from the truth."

Washington today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's hard sell for a lid on hospital cost increases may promise more than his bill can deliver.

Whatever the merits of a ceiling on soaring hospital rates, it won't make an immediate dent in the overall rate of inflation, and it won't be a decisive step toward balancing the federal budget.

What it will do, if Congress agrees, is put limits on the future price of hospital rooms and services, a difficult area because the consumer buys out of need, not choice, and because most bills are paid indirectly.

"In the past, hospitals have had little incentive to be efficient," Carter said in proposing his bill, a toned-down version of one that died in Congress last year. "The hospital sector is fundamentally different from any other sector in our economy. Normal buyer-seller relationships and normal market forces do not exist."

That's because people don't usually choose to spend money at the hospital. "And about 90 percent of those who are hospitalized have insurance to cover the bills."

So Carter wants to set a "national voluntary limit" of 9.7 percent on hospital cost increases in 1979, and then put mandatory limits on hospitals that fail to meet that goal.

In 1978, hospital costs rose 12.8 percent, well above the overall increase of 9 percent in consumer prices. The American Hospital Association says that shows the success of voluntary efforts, since prices rose by 15.6 percent the year before.

But it wasn't entirely voluntary. Nine states have imposed their own hospital cost controls. Carter said those controls have worked without impairing the quality of hospital care.

The industry says it should be allowed price increases of 11.6 percent in 1979. That's nearly two points higher than the administration wants, although its proposed limits could be relaxed if costs exceed current forecasts.

In proposing the bill, Carter said hospital cost inflation is uniquely severe, and uniquely controllable. "It offers us one of our best opportunities to bring down the rate of overall inflation," he said.

It could, if administration forecasts prove accurate. But not quickly, and not directly.

The price of services for hospital patients represents .363 percent of the overall Consumer Price Index, the government's basic measure of inflation.

Commemorating Einstein

Today marks the 100th anniversary of the birth of Albert Einstein, a scientist who changed man's conception of space and time. American sculptor Robert Berks, shown here, is playing a unique role in this year's Einstein commemoration. Berks is shown with models of a statue of Einstein which he designed. The bronze statue, which is 12 feet high, will be unveiled next month at the National Academy of Sciences in Washington, D.C. Some people have criticized the statue's $1.6 million cost, and the "bubble gum" style of Berks' work. Photographers and artists, including Berks, often asked Einstein to pose for them, and Einstein himself once listed his occupation as "artist's model."

Scrapping of pipeline 'tragic'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The scrapping of a proposed $1 billion oil pipeline that would have stretched from California to Texas has been termed "tragic, most tragic," by the chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission.

The Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) announced Tuesday it is abandoning the project that would have pumped 500,000 barrels of Alaskan crude daily through Texas and into America's heartland.

"We were counting on construction of the pipeline to allow Alaskan oil to enter the pipeline arteries of the United States," said Railroad Commission Chairman John Poerner.

Sohio Chairman Alton W. Whitehouse made the announcement in Cleveland just one day after Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger told a Senate Energy Committee hearing in Washington that he believed the pipeline was needed by the nation.

"The project-killing delays were endless government permit procedures, pending and threatened litigation, and the prospective unavailability of two natural gas lines which Sohio proposed to convert to the oil pipeline," said Whitehouse.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements, who headed an oil exploration firm before his election, also bemoaned the decision.

"This would have been a means by which we could have corrected the maldistribution problem on the West Coast in a highly efficient and cost effective way. It's a tragedy," he said.

"I think that again we have a clear demonstration of excessive government interference and red tape with the result being that a project has now been abandoned that was very cost effective and certainly needed in the energy crisis that we are in now."

Sohio has tried since 1974 to obtain federal, state and regional approval for more than 700 permits to build an oil tanker terminal, storage tanks and pipeline to move Alaskan oil from Long Beach, Calif., to a national pipeline distribution center in Midland.

Whitehouse said regulatory delays and inflation eroded savings of 75 cents to $1 a barrel Sohio hoped to realize by using a pipeline instead of shipping oil through the Panama Canal.

"I'm afraid new major energy projects in the United States have little hope of success today. A quagmire of federal and state regulations now exists that can bog down any project, no matter how worthy and regardless of the national interest," said Whitehouse.

Pipeline plans had federal approval, but California authorities had not completed action on the necessary permits, although Long Beach voters approved construction of the terminal for the pipeline.

Environmental and other citizen groups have challenged the project on the grounds that it would increase air pollution in an area that already suffers from poor air quality.

Whitehouse said changing estimates on the availability of two natural gas pipelines earmarked for conversion to crude oil pipe were a key factor in the decision but he said regulatory delays were the principal cause.

Whitehouse has met several times with California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who has said Sohio is entitled to a prompt decision. Whitehouse said California's regulatory system, rather than Brown was to blame for the delays.

But Poerner laid the blame on foot dragging by the State of California and its governor.

"It is most unfortunate that the state of California, especially the lack of enthusiasm on the part of the governor of California, has caused the company to abandon its plans," said Poerner.

But a spokesman for Gov. Brown said the decision to cancel the project may have been based on more complex reasons that publicly stated.

Murder count filed against pair

SAYRE, Okla. — Murder charges were filed against an Amarillo couple late yesterday in connection with the execution style slayings of two other Amarilloans near Sayre, Okla. Sunday night.

The suspects, identified as Michael Steven Forbes, 34, and Susan Ann Ratcliff, 18, were being held in the Potter County jail awaiting extradition to Oklahoma where the murder charges were filed.

Agents of the Tulahe State Bureau of Investigation questioned the pair most of the day Tuesday before advising District Attorney Richard Dugger of Sayre to file the murder count.

Forbes and Ratcliff were formally charged with the murder of Cecil Corbet, 24, of Amarillo. No charges have been filed in the death of Corbet's alleged boyfriend Steven Joseph Snyder.

A spokesman for the OSBI said that there were "some loose ends to tie up before we make formal charges in the death of Snyder."

The bodies of the victims were found in a culvert along Interstate 40 east of Sayre. Their eyes and mouths had been taped shut and their hands and feet bound with tape.

OSBI officials believe the pair were forced from their car, a 1979 Fiat registered to Corbet, and then forced to walk barefoot to the culvert where they were shot repeatedly with a small caliber weapon.

Authorities were able to apprehend the suspects in a relative short period of time after the deaths since Sayre police had stop the alleged killers in a parking lot in Elk City, Okla. around 5 a.m. Monday. Authorities released the pair after making a routine check of their vehicle.

Local authorities said the two couples had been living together in Snyder's Amarillo apartment and authorities believe the couples were close friends.

Additional charges including another murder count were expected to be filed today by Dugger.

The Gray County Courthouse is one of the community's most important buildings—even if you never enter it. In its vaults are stored the vital statistics of our community—the birth certificate containing the community's first recognition that a human life has joined the community; the marriage certificate stating the community's recognition that two people now live as one; the tax records, litigation records, and finally, the death certificate which is the recognition that a life has finally left the community. The funeral is also a public record—sort of a certificate given by the entire community that a person has lived, had worth and meaning, has loved and was loved, and now has died. At Duenkel-Smith Funeral Home, the funeral—the community's death certificate for an individual—is handled with care for the same reasons valuable records are placed in carefully protected vaults.

Silverdome assigned 1982 Super Bowl

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — The sun belt no longer holds exclusive possession of football's Super Bowl after the decision of National Football League owners to send their premier game to the Silverdome in Pontiac, Mich., on Jan. 24, 1982. It came as no surprise that the 1981 game will be held in New Orleans on Jan. 25, marking the fifth time the Super Bowl has gone to the Louisiana city. The owners awarded the Jan. 30, 1983 game to Pasadena's Rose Bowl in California, which also holds the 1980 contest next Jan. 20. The league also gave strong support to Max Winter, president of the Minnesota Vikings, in his battle to gain improved stadium conditions. Commissioner Pete Rozelle gave strong indications that Winter would be given permission to move the franchise if the situation "became intolerable." Michigan Governor William G. Milliken headed the delegation boosting Pontiac and the mayor of that city, Wallace A. Holland, and Detroit Mayor

Coleman A. Young also made presentations. The granting of the 1982 Super Bowl to Pontiac opened the way for other northern cities and Hartly Kruger of the unsuccessful Seattle group said, "We are very encouraged by the action favoring Pontiac. By 1984, we'll have our housing situation well in hand." New Orleans gets the 1981 game, the 15th in the series which has been limited previously to Miami; Southern California, Houston and New Orleans. The decision on sites for the next three Super Bowls cut out Miami, which held the 1979 game. Joe Robbie, managing general partner of the Miami Dolphins who is having a conflict with the Orange Bowl over contracts, did not endorse the Miami bid for one of the next three dates. Rozelle said there was no commitment that a certain number of Super Bowls would be held in the Rose Bowl.

NHL considers WHA proposal Bottle boycott may prompt expansion

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer
If the National Hockey League's Board of Governors follows through on its plan to meet at Chicago on March 22, it will offer membership to four teams from the World Hockey Association.

And if that takes place, the Canadian consumer will have won The Battle of the Bottle.

Last week, when the NHL's negative vote on expansion was announced, people in Winnipeg, Edmonton and Quebec City started boycotting the products of Molson's brewery.

Molson's owns the Montreal Canadiens, one of five NHL teams which helped kill expansion to WHA cities "once and for all" by voting against admission of Winnipeg, Edmonton, Quebec and New England.

At the Winnipeg Arena, where the WHA Jets play their home games, a Molson's plaque was torn off the wall. The brewing corporation, which sponsors the "Three Stars of the Game" awards, reportedly was informed it no longer was welcome to do so.

A Winnipeg paper ran, on its front page, a coupon which readers were asked to send to the seat of government in Ottawa, protesting restrictive trade practices by the NHL.

And people started returning their Molson's for refunds. Suddenly, Molson's announced it wanted the NHL to reopen the expansion talks. Speculators assume the Canadiens are under pressure to reconsider their negative vote.

It seems Vancouver, another member of the anti-expansion faction, also has changed its mind. So the NHL governors will gather for a recount favorable to expansion — or it will not gather at all.

"John Ziegler, as president of the National Hockey League, would have to know he's not going to be wasting everybody's time by calling this meeting," said Philadelphia Flyers President Ed Snider.

Tired Tide to face Aggies

NEW YORK (AP) — C.M. Newton and his boys are tired. Lee Rose, on the other hand, is sick and tired.

Newton is the coach of Alabama's basketball team, a tired Crimson Tide that was hoping for relief from the National Invitation Tournament but got, instead, an invitation to play one more game before next Monday's semifinals in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Instead, in one of Thursday night's quarter-finals to whittle the NIT field to four teams, Alabama will play Texas A&M in Houston. In the other game, Old Dominion will play Purdue in West Lafayette, Ind.

Two other teams, Indiana and Ohio State, had their names picked out of a hat Tuesday and drew byes to the semifinals. They'll play each other after the winners of the quarter-finals face each other.

The idea that Indiana and Ohio State can sit back and relax for nearly a week doesn't sit well with Rose, Purdue's coach.

"Can someone please explain to me the advantages of being the Big Ten champion?" he muttered after the 15th-ranked Boilermakers, the only ranked team still in the NIT field, heard their fate.

Actually, Purdue shared the Big Ten title with Michigan State and Iowa, both of whom were invited to play in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament.

Corporations to get same break as family farmers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Corporations that own agricultural land should get the same tax break as family farmers and ranchers, the House has decided.

Three decisions Tuesday on corporately owned land laid to rest one of the major issues surrounding House action on a bill implementing the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment.

In a long afternoon marked by action on 21 amendments, the House:

—Voted 70-44 against an amendment that would have excluded corporations from a provision taxing agricultural land on its crop and livestock raising potential instead of its value as real estate.

—Rejected, 80-56, a similar amendment that would have denied the special treatment not only to corporations but also to partnerships and joint stock companies.

—Refused, 72-60, to force corporations to disclose their land holdings to the secretary of state.

"If we're going to help the corporate farmers and ranchers of this state, let's at least find out who we're helping," said Rep. Ronald Coleman, D-El Paso.

This is another type of paper shuffling and record keeping imposed on people doing legitimate business in this state," replied Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, sponsor of the tax relief bill.

According to a computer printout, farmers and ranchers will save $58.9 million annually in property taxes because of the agricultural productivity treatment of their land.

Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, was one who tried to eliminate corporations from the agricultural value tax break.

He said said he had found "there is considerable concern over anything that would encourage the purchase of land for agricultural pursuits by persons who are not now in that endeavor."

Rep. Bennie Bock II, D-New Braunfels, replied the question was not who was growing crops and raising livestock but keeping land in production.

Rep. Froy Salinas, D-Lubbock, failed 111-19 to impose 1978 market values as a floor on taxation of agricultural land.

"That would tell the farmers, 'We really didn't want to help you, so King's X,'" Davis said.

"I am concerned about the taxpayers, the homeowners, who have been carrying the burden for years and years," Salinas said.

The bill would tax agricultural property by dividing a five-year average estimated "net to land" by a "capitalization rate." The rate would be 10 percent, or the Houston Federal Land Bank interest rate on crop loans plus 2 1/2 percent, whichever is greater.

So if an acre of land was capable of earning a $30 yearly profit, and the capitalization rate was 10 percent, its taxable value would be $300.

The Tax Relief Amendment automatically exempted $5,000 of the market value of owner-occupied homes from school taxes.

Monitoring prices is a dismal task

NEW YORK (AP) — Monitoring prices is a grim job, and you need not ask Barry Bosworth for verification. The Bureau of Labor Statistics will give you the dismal numbers. So will your own pocketbook.

And there is another source, too, one that has bad news for Bosworth and his aides on the Council on Wage and Price Stability. That source is the purchasing agent, whose job demands that he shave fractions of pennies.

And the bad news: There is more than one way to disguise a price increase. There may in fact be dozens of ways, such as changing the package size, lowering quality and discontinuing volume discounts.

Purchasing executives know about such things because inflation to them is war. While suppliers maneuver to get higher prices, the professional purchaser must counter with thwarting strategies.

Os late, that job has been getting tougher: the supplier, seeking to cut inflation's impact on him, has been seeking to pass it off on the buyer, without arousing the suspicions of Bosworth's watchdogs.

Surveying readers, Purchasing Magazine found subtle changes that could produce big effects.

Increasing repair or replacement charges, or adding them where they had not existed before, is apparently a common device. So may be the practice of insisting a component be replaced rather than repaired.

Paying a charge for formerly free services or components has become fairly common, as automobile buyers have learned. And others, too. Have you recently found the key to the sardine can missing? It happens.

A change in payment terms also can raise prices. And it can be instituted so quietly as to be unnoticed. Your bill simply comes minus the words "Two percent discount for payment within 15 days."

Packaging, as consumers know, can disguise contents. And so can changes in packaging. Not uncommon, says Purchasing Magazine, is the practice of enlarging both price and package — but price more so.

Transportation and mailing practices hide price increases. Products that once came postpaid now include mail charges. And more restrictive policies on lost or damaged shipments raise prices.

A popular price disguise involves quantity discounts. It is simple for the supplier to maintain book price but insist that in order to obtain that price the buyer has to order larger quantities.

But purchasing agents and consumers have limits to the scope of their purchases. The council on Wage and Price Stability does not.

Tuition grants

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Here is how Texas senators were recorded Tuesday in voting 25-6 final passage of a bill to remove the $600 ceiling on tuition grants to students of private and church colleges:

For (25): Andujar, Braecklein, Brooks, Clower, Creighton, Doggett, Harris, Howard, Gene Jones, Grant Jones, Kothmann, Longoria, McKnight, Meier, Mengden, Moore, Ogg, Patman, Price, Santiesteban, Short, Snelson, Traeger, Vale, Williams.

Against (6): Blake, Farabee, Mauzy, Parker, Schwartz, Truan.

CONCENTRATION

DE KALE, Ill. (AP) — Dave Petzke of Northern Illinois won the NCAA pass-receiving championship in 1978 with 91 catches, 29 better than the runner-up.

Petzke is a slow runner but insists the secret of catching a pass is concentration.

"Anybody can catch a football," he said, "if he concentrates and keeps telling himself that he has to catch that ball. You might as well catch it because you are going to be hit anyway and it doesn't hurt as much when you grab the ball."

American style: The store house of love

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Among the sin pits and flesh pots along Liberty Avenue, a place called The Store House of Love would not at first glance seem out of character.

After all, it shares the street with a dozen skin flick houses, massage parlors, sex device emporiums and bookstores that cost a quarter to enter.

But the Store House of Love isn't peddling sex.

"We're here to introduce Jesus Christ to the people of Liberty Avenue," says Jim Deglau, a born-again Christian who opened the humble mission in the garish neighborhood 10 months ago.

Since hundreds frequent the saloons and peep shows every night, Deglau figures his operation is like shooting fish in a barrel.

"The sinner going into a burlesque show isn't likely to go to a local church to find God. That's why we found ourselves right here," he says.

Deglau, a 43-year-old Catholic-turned-fundamentalist, estimates about 1,500 have accepted Christ after visiting the Store House. But he takes no credit for saving anyone's soul.

"It's nothing we do. It's what an individual does. He asks Jesus Christ into his heart. We are only vessels, being used by God to present Jesus Christ to these people," he says.

The soft-spoken Deglau, a land surveyor by profession, admits that his mission, with its ambiguous name, caused confusion at first — and not only for pleasure-bent passersby.

When Deglau first approached the city for an occupancy permit, the zoning board balked because it was suspicious the Store House of Love would be just another porno shop. "They put us through the third degree until they found out we were for real," he says.

The mission is a simple place. In the display window, a large framed portrait of Jesus is surrounded by inspirational banners. To enter, one must cross a doorstep with the words "Jesus Loves You" scrawled in the cement.

Inside, a visitor finds an array of books like "Is It Really Love?," "The Bible and the Bermuda Triangle," and "Hung By The Tongue." An inspirational record probably is playing.

The back room is a meeting hall with second-hand school auditorium seats facing a small, carpeted stage occupied by a battered piano. It's here nightly services are held. It's also a place where an occasional alcoholic from the alleys off of Liberty Avenue can kick off his shoes and warm his feet in front of a stove.

Jones follower shoots self

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Mike Prokes, the former TV reporter who spoke for Jim Jones during the halcyon days of the Peoples Temple, has followed his leader into death, shooting himself in the head moments after defending the Jonestown suicides at a news conference.

"I've got no martyr complex," he said after reading a five-page defense of the cult Tuesday night. "But I refuse to let my black brothers and sisters die in vain."

Prokes then walked out of a motel meeting room into an adjacent bathroom, witnesses said. After hearing a water faucet go on, eight reporters and photographers recoiled in horror as they heard a single shot ring out.

"His spirit seemed up before the news conference," said Rich Ibarra of KOVR-TV in

Iran - a view from afar

Stockton, Calif. "But when we walked into the room, his eyes kind of clouded over with tears and you could see the emotion welling up. Finally at the end, he took his own life."

Prokes, 31, never regained consciousness after firing one .32-caliber bullet into his head, dying about three hours later at a local hospital, doctors said.

A suicide note found in the bathroom near Prokes' body said Prokes was not despondent over the Jonestown deaths but chose to die for the same "just reasons" as those who drank the poison.

"If my death doesn't prompt another book about the end of Jonestown, it wasn't worth living," the note said.

Iran - a view from afar

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following was prepared with the help of interviews conducted by Iranian journalists Kamran Baigan and Janshah Shafiei who are in the United States on temporary assignment as trainees with The Associated Press.

NEW YORK (AP) — Tens of thousands of Iranians are in the United States today, deeply affected by a revolution they can only watch. They keep a sometimes hopeful, sometimes wary eye on their homeland.

They worry about families back home. Many have had difficulty getting cash from Iran. Some talk of returning home now. Others wait to see what the new government will be like.

They are a varied group, with a broad range of hopes and fears. That range — if not a consensus, which would be impossible to measure — can be seen in the examples of several Iranians now in New York.

A photographer, 36, sympathetic to the revolution and critical of what he called arbitrary, confusing work conditions under the shah: "I am happy with what the Imam Khomeini (the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, leader of the revolution) has done during this short time, including his declaring Iranian independence from foreigners... After 11 years of working in Tehran, I took the time for myself to come to the U.S. and to establish myself in photography. But now I am planning to send my wife back to Iran to see what the situation is; and if the work is suitable, I will decide to go back to my country... now, all people will have the right to work, and will not be forced to depend on decisions by one individual, the shah. In that case... I would like to go back and be among my nation."

A student who says he left Iran against his will last year because his college was shut down by strikes and he could not continue his studies: "I agree that we definitely needed a revolution, but not necessarily an armed one in the streets." But, he adds, "If the majority of people in Iran want the country in a certain shape, it is their absolute right and I do not want to interfere." He also says: "The main thing I worry about at the moment is my family."

Other students, members of radical groups, criticize such attitudes as selfish and petty. Some are deeply religious; others want the revolution to concentrate more on redistribution of wealth. Many are suspicious of the motives of Western news organizations and will not discuss their personal feelings with reporters.

A woman, 29, married and a beautician: "I feel freedom (coming) from Iran; would that the same freedom existed for men and women!... (Under the shah) women could dress like Western women and took part in social functions, but within various organizations, those women who were most attractive and pretty were employed first, and others later... I hope for an Islamic republic that would follow the Imam Ali's philosophy that said: 'So train your children to live and be useful for the time that they live in.'" The Imam Ali, who lived about 1,350 years ago, was the founder of the Shiite branch of Islam, formed after the death of the prophet Mohammed.

An Iranian Jew, a recent arrival, who did not believe assurances of safety extended by Iran's revolutionary government: "Our people have been mistreated in almost all religious-oriented states in the Middle East. Why should I think Iran is going to be any different?"
