THE PAMPA HIGH SCHOOL CONCERT CHOIR (above) performed Sunday at a groundbreaking ceremony at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Oklahoma City Nona Payne of Pampa (right), surrounded by Hall of Fame officials, dedicated a statue she is donating to the hall, a life - size bronze replica of Frederick Remington's "Coming Through the Rve." The 20 - foot statue will commemorate David D. Payne, late husband of Mrs. Payne. who is an honorary life member of the Hall of Fame board of directors. Construction is expected to take about 112 years at a cost of $250,000. A plaster original of the statue was first unveiled at the 1904 St. Louis World's Fair. According to Dean Krakel, executive vice president of the hall, "It was Remington's dream to see it in bronze." The choir was in Oklahoma City during the weekend to perform at the hall's annual Western Heritage Awards Banquet. A Gallery page on the trip will be published in Sunday's News

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

PITY U.S. Sen. William Proxmire.

Poor man seems sadly behind the times.

Ignorant of trend, Proxmire bestowed his infamous "Golden Fleece Award" on whomever granted the U.S. Air Force $3,000 to study the propriety of uniformed men, like their female counterparts, carrying umbrellas.

In reality, $3,000 is a mere pittance compared to the complexity of the issue, so multiply - faceted that it boggles the mind.

Countless research psychologists could be employed to analyze such crucial points as whether the rain protectors should be parasol pretty to sympolize peacetime gaiety or soldierly somber to reflect military preparedness.

For fashion industry consultants, there's the question of whether the color should match the shoes or the uniform. Military strategists should ponder whether umbrellas need stamping with the Air Force insignia for uniformity or the rank of the holder so as not to be picked off coat racks by the wrong party.

Six months have been allowed for the study, scarely time to poll air force women on whether an umbrella interferes with proper saluting. Of course, that could be a tandum study, separately funded, of course

Another crucial question, requiring control group study in simulated battle, is to what extent, if any, the umbrella might interfere with combat. We could send the entire military back to Vietnam for that one.

Anyone with a modicum of awareness already has applied to the government for a grant to experiment with umbrella weaponry. Imagine the government contracts that could be awarded for a .22-caliber parasol, to say nothing of the possibilities for espionage umbrellary. Naturally, a year and at least $1 million should be devoted to investigation of whether rain drops pattering on waterproof material distorts the sound from bugging devices..

And, don't overlook the meed to research waterproof material can it be canvas or would that suggest the U.S. Navy? Silk is fine for women, but would it reflect adversely on male carriers?

Evidently, equality plays a part in the issue. Surely no one will overlook the necessity to be fair not only to both sexes but to all nationalities served by our Air Force. Would that require different sets of requisition form's corresponding to duty stations abroad? To get an umbrella in England, would you request a "mush" or "brolly," a "sunshade or en-tout-cas in France, a "catta" in

The possibilities of new bureaucratic layers created by what we mistakenly thought was so common an item stagger the

We worry about Sen. Proxmire. Either he's becoming an anachronism or dangerously subversive. What does he want to do - eliminate the need for more taxes just when fedocracy nearly has reached its goal of taking whatever the state leaves the salary-earner to starve on? Tired of working

Back in 1936 the Texas Legislature established the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission which was renamed the Texas Employment Commission in 1947

One of the purposes for which the Commission was formed was to operate an unemployment insurance program to assist the justifiably unemployed. In spite of this noble purpose. T.E.C. has in recent years allowed people who have grown "tired of working" to draw benefits with only a three week disqualification.

A worker who went to Mexico, was involved in an accident and subsequently incarcerated. Upon his release from jail he came back to the state, applied for unemployment benefits and and was awarded benefits without disqualification.

These examples are but two of many and constitute a perversion of the original intent of the Act.

In January of 1978 all employees of government were covered by the Act. County, city, school district, and other political subdivision employees are now covered by the act.

The Dallas Independent School District alone is looking at a potential loss of $650,000.00 in 1979. Teachers that have requested and have been granted leaves of absence have been awarded benefits with a two week disqualification

The situation in Dallas is unique because of its size, but the same situation exists right here in our own area. The dollar amount will differ but the proportion will be the same.

Obviously the taxpayer is funding another "free lunch" program for people that are unemployed simply because they choose to be

Senator Roy Blake is carrying Senate Bill 22 and Representative Gib Lewis is carrying the companion bill. House Bill 970. These two bills would completely deny benefits to workers who quit their jobs without good cause or who are discharged for embezzling, misappropriation of employer's property or gross misconduct. No hardship would be imposed on those individuals that are unemployed through no fault of their own

It sounds like Senator Blake and Representive Lewis are on the right track. Both Senate Bill 22 and House Bill "970 have been approved by their respective committees and are waiting to be heard by the full Senate and the House of Representatives.

Now is the time for all of us to contact our own elected officials in the Senate and the House and request their support of Senate Bill 22 and House Bill 970.

Peace, Peace, but there is no peace

Now that the Middle East Peace Mission has run its course, I feel free to express. myself. I have not wanted to publish my view of the affair while negotiations were underway. To be utterly candid, I have been quite negative about the whole proceeding from the beginning, and certainly not because peace is undesirable.

As I watched Carter maneuvering to bring Begin and Sadat together, I saw Carter playing the role of an innocent cherub in a room full of harpies. I reasoned that he was no match for either Begin or Sadat. Those wily gentlemen were playing him like a trout on a line and it seemed to me that he was no match for them. So, it appeared he could not possibly attain any kind of success. In this respect I was wrong. And I can only say I am surprised at my own ability to foresee the consequences of Carter's procedure.

There is an old adage that an honest man cannot be conned. In what has transpired in the Middle East. Carter played the role of an honest man. I do not attest to his. honesty. I say he "played the role." I know some of my readers are going to recoil in dissent when I say this, but I believe fully that Carter's lack of knowledge and his whole stance of acting like a Baptist preacher in the affair was the one position that undermined both the Egyptian and Israeli objectives. Neither Begin nor Sadat could have believed that Carter would stand between them without guile in a simple desire to attain peace. In believing the worst about Carter, they overreached themselves. And Carter, with a kind of innocence born of ignorance, publicly proclaimed the best about both Begin and Sadat. In so doing, he created an image for each of the combattants that they were compelled to take or stand revealed as crass militarists seeking power and

Dollars And Guns

Thus, in the end, the leaders of the dispute were as joyful as any loser at Vegas. Their faces betrayed them. Peace loomed over them and they looked as glad as a person swallowing a cupful of brine.

Let me go back to the beginning. Neither the Israelis nor the Egyptians wanted peace. In my judgment, they still don't. What both wanted was an American commitment in terms of dollars and guns.

When Carter appeared on the scene and presumed they wanted peace, he placed them in a position of having to agree. Neither could stand up to a public exposure as willing aggressors. Thut would have driven America away at the outset. So each pleaded that his side was yearning for peace but that the hard-hearted. recalcitrant reactionaries on the other side prevented it. Sadat made the first move. Israel was already getting massive assistance from the U.S. and he needed it desperately. So he ran up the curtain by going to Israel. This trip was calculated to convince Americans as to his sincerity. Surely, the dollars and the aid would follow. (It did.) He didn't have to convince the Israelis of anything. Indeed, he didn't expect to. His was a show aimed at American audiences. But that put the Israelis on the spot. They immediately and skillfully maneuvered to show how willing they were for peace. The problem was that the Egyptians talked peace but were adamant in trying to destroy the Israeli defensive posture. Thut little scene in Act II was good for more American support, they reasoned. And they were Now Carter stepped into the breach. Insofar as Israel and Egypt were concerned, he was without motive. But he had other motivations not nearly so noble. His whole position with the American people was takiny repeated dunkings. Inflation was and is eating us alive. We have energy problems, real or contrived. Unemployment stalks. Carter needed a good show to swing some popular support behind his administration. And the Middle East was a good place to grandstand. Whatever happened, he could get an "A" for effort. Besides, and this is the point many dispute. I think he sincerely does want peace. From that point on, Carter simply out-kissed Kissinver. The shuttle rebuttal became less than subtle. Whether planned that way or falling into the method inadvertently I really don't knew; (I suspect the latter) Carter's intervention in each camp created the impression that any failure to attain peace would be blamed on the last person he talked to.

Grand Theft Like unwilling broncs brought to bridle and bit, the two Mid-East stallions kicked and bucked. But it came to pass that the two sides drew ever closer together, for had they not done so, alienation with America would loom.

There would be great rejoicing throughout the world. But the story has not yet ended. The PLO, predictably, will be striving to make more headlines. Both Israel and Egypt will have to act

"defensively," of course. And who do you think will lose? The American taxpaver. We, as taxpavers, and not peace, have been the target of all three participants from the beginning. Begin wants guns, money and help from America. He'll get it now. And Sadat wants guns, money and help from America. He'll get it, too. And Carter wanted, and got, a big round of applause and thus a firmer grasp of control over our lives and pocketbooks than he had before.

We are all the victims of a philsophy which is rampant throughout the globe. That philosphy has it that all problems can be resolved if only the American taxpayer will put up enough money, equipment, property or blood. We are the prize all men seek. And there will be no peace and no end to this struggle until the philosophy itself gives way to a greater truth. Thut truth is that no human being of any nationality. race or creed, has a right to the life. property, equipment or money produced by another and obtained from him against his

by martha angle and robert walters,

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Geography poses the first problem in coping with recent developments in the world's newest trouble spot - a pair of hapless nations in the parched desolate southwestern corner of the Arabian Peninsula.

Notwithstanding its name. South Yemen lies generally east of North Yemen. Most of North Yemen, of course, is situated west of South Yemen

But that's hardly the only disconcerting element in an obscure corner of the globe where these countries have emerged as reluctant surrogates in the continuing conflict between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Even without any meddling by those superpowers. North and South Yemen have a notably dismal record of governmental instability. Their recent history is replete with coups, assassinations, civil warfare and political maneuvering motivated by centuries - old but unremitting tribal

One respected Beirut-based publication, Arab Report and memo, calls North and South Yemen "the Arab would's most underdeveloped, poorest and least unknown countries.

South Yemen has been a Soviet client state for the past 10 years. North Yemen's principal patron during that decade has been Saudi Arabia, but the United States now is shipping huge quantities of arms into that nation - despite its obvious inability to assimilate the equipment.

North Yemen's teacher-to-population ratio is among the lowest in the world and its per capita income is only about $180 annually. Less than 1 percent of its women and less than 25 percent of its men are

The country's 42,000 - man army suffers from a lack of organization, leadership and basic equipment. Yet the United States has allowed the Saudis to buy for North Yemen some of the world's most sophisticated military hardware:

Twelve F-5E jet fighters worth $300 million, two C-130 transport planes, 60 M-60A1 tanks ($76 million), 32 M-60 tanks ($38 million), 100 M-113A1 armored personnel carriers ($13.1 million), 64 105mm howizers and 9,000 rounds of 105mm

Also 12 155mm howitzers. 12.4.2 - inch mortars, 12 TOW missile launchers, 264 TOW anti-tank missiles, 80 81mm mortars, 74 Vulcan anti-aircraft guns and 200 M-79 grenade launchers.

Also 1,500 Dragon anti-tank weapons, 18.000 light anti tank weapons, 127 50-caliber machine guns and 2,800 trucks, jeeps and assorted other vehicles.

What will happen to those armaments?

There's evidence that many of the includes a provision specifically enpowering Congress to veto any arms transfers in excess of $7 million proposed by the White House. But for the first time since that law was passed, president Carter invoked an exemption that bypasses congressional scrutiny in 'emergency' situations.

There is no "emergency" to justify Carter's absurd commitment. The president's only excuse is his current campaign to romance the Saudis, viewed as the key to preventing both the collapse of the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty and intensified economic warfare on the part of the Arab world's oil poducers.

The bloated arms shipments to North Yemen represent a return to precisely the sort of foolhardy military adventurism this nation supposedly disavowed after learning "the lessons of Vietnam."

Nader to probe Congress

Ralph Nader is about to launch a potentially explosive new project - a weekly publication called Congress Probe that's touted as "the only newsletter devoted to investigating Congress for the voters.

The first issue, soon to be released. includes a story alleging that three Republicans may have circumvented a House of Representatives rule prohibiting private organizations from using the legislators' congressional letterheads.

Another story names two former congressional staff members who recently passed through Washington's notorious "revolving door" by joining Washington law firms where they represent special interest groups concerned about issues similar to those the attorneys handled on Capitol Hill.

A third story charges that major corporations and industry trade associations have privately admitted to a House subcommittee that they improperly took federal tax deductions for more than $100 million worth of lobbying expenses.

Some legislators reportedly are nervous about Congress Probe's commitment to be "a hard-hitting, independent, incisive and bold publication devoted to regularly investigating members and legislative issues of Congress.

No more winner take all

The Democratic National Committee has quietly moved to close to a loophole that allowed President Carter's home state of evade the requirement of proportional representation for all candidates in the selection of delegates to presidential nominating conventions. One of the most important reforms of party rules in the late 1960s required that delegate votes from each state be divided among all presidential contenders, in proportion to the voter support they mustered in primaries or caucuses. But Georgia continued to use a unique system under which contenders for convention delegate seats declared their candidacy for a specific "post" within each congressional district.

Thut system - the last vestige of uncepresentative primaries - produced a winner-take-all situation in which the leading candidate got the delegate vote while everyone else in the race was unrepresented.

Now, however, the party's national committee has written into the rules for the 1980 convention a clause specifying that 'under no circumstances shall the use of single-member-delegate districts be permitted.

Experts say egg producers headed for big year

after murder attempt

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Department experts say poultry and egg producers are headed for another big year as shoppers look for ways to offset record high prices for red meat.

A big increase in pork supplies could dampen some poultry prices by this fall, but superheated consumer demand and the basic reduced output of beef will keep the industry on relative stable ground through this year and into 1980.

William E. Cathcart of the department's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service says nothing is on the horizon to suggest a precipitous break in the thriving poultry industry.

"We may not get quite the seasonal gain (in prices) this spring and summer ... and there will be a seasonal drop in the fall that will depend partly on the pork situation," he told a reporter.

But Cathcart said it now looks as if broiler production probably will continue to expand in early 1980 at least, although probably not at the rate is has been growing.

Broiler output in the first quarter was up around 10 percent from a year earlier. Production for all of 1979 may be up 8 percent to 10 percent from last year.

Wholesale broiler prices averaged 47.5 cents a pound in the first quarter of the year, compared with 41.8 cents in the first three months of 1978, Cathcart said.

In the second quarter of last year, broiler prices jumped to 47.6 cents a pound, were 46.6 cents in the third and declined seasonally to 42.1 cents in the fourth.

An annual review by USDA shows that the combined gross income from poultry and eggs jumped by more than 11 percent last year to $7.91 billion from $7.1 billion in 1977.

Broilers accounted for $3.69 billion, a 20 percent increase. But gross income from eggs, at $2.92 billion, was down 3 percent from

The farm price of broilers averaged 26.3 cents a pound on a liveweight basis, up from 23.6 cents in 1977. The average for eggs, however, declined to 52.2 cents a dozen from 55.6 cents in 1977.

Total broiler production in 1978 was 3.62 billion birds, a record, up 6 percent from 3.4 billion in 1977, the report said. Egg-production was about 67 billion eggs, a 4 percent increase from 64.6 billion in 1977 but still short of the record of 69.6 billion in 1971.

The department said per capita egg consumption last year was 278 eggs, up 6 eggs from 1977. It was the first increase in per capita egg use since the record production year of 1971, when consumption averaged 312 eggs a person.

Turkey output is expanding sharply, with production this year forecast to be up about 11 percent from 1978's near-record of 139.8 million birds

Gross returns to turkey growers last year were $1.16 billion, a 27 percent jump from $910 million in 1977, according to USDA. Prices averaged 43.6 cents a pound, liveweight, against 35.5 cents in 1977.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Costs of machinery continue to be one of the most important factors affecting farmers, according to recent surveys by the Agriculture Department.

As of mid-March, the price index for tractors and self-propelled machinery was 280 percent of what it averaged in 1967, the year used as a base to compare how prices have changed. Prices of other machinery averaged 284 percent on the same index.

Prices that farmers get for commodities they produce were at an all-time high last month, 246 percent of their 1967 average. But commodity prices go up and down frequently, while farmers' costs — except for occasional declines for specific items — continue

The latest price report for farm machinery, one of the items being watched by administration inflation fighters, included these national average mid-March prices, compared with a year ago: -A four-wheel-drive tractor rated in the range of 170 to 240 horsepower was $53,600 last month, up 11.7 percent from $48,000 a

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — The Rev. Lester Roloff says the five teen-age girls now are "among the sweetest girls on earth." but the girls say they tried to stab another girl to death at the

The Corpus Christi Caller-Times, in a copyright story in its Sunday editions, said the girls received "licks" and solitary confinement as

'Sometimes I can't believe we have come so far ... changed so much," said Miss Loftis. She said she stood watch while the stabbing

Angie Griffin, 17 of Virginia, said the attack happened after the five had been at the home about a month.

"We hated it here," she said. "We thought if maybe a girl would die, we'd all get to go home." Miss Griffin said she did the actual stabbing with a serrated kitchen knife while Rhonda Meyers, 15, and Kathy Ticer, 14, held the victim down. Miss Meyers is from Dayton, Ohio, and Miss Tice is from Corpus Christi.

Terrie Thomas, 17, of Cincinnati said she was the "mastermind" of the scheme. She said she was sent to the Roloff home by an Ohio court after she was arrested for armed robbery and receiving stolen

"The way I had it planned, if Misty didn't get killed, we would stab someone else until someone died and we could leave." Miss Thomas said. "We chose Misty because she was weak and wouldn't fight

The girls said they stole the weapon from the home's kitchen and hid it in a toilet tank "I was such a child of the devil," Miss Loftis said. "I was so excited about it. I couldn't wait for the stabbing to happen.

We were sitting around and we just decided this was the right time," Miss Loftis said. "I tricked her (Misty) into going into the prayer room with me.

"I stabbed her three times in the back," Miss Griffin said. "When I did it, my heart was so hard I didn't even feel guilty. When we got the whippings. I didn't even cry. The first time I cried was when Roloff said he still loved us

Miss Loftis said she heard Misty cry, "Oh God, help me. They've stabbed me." The girls said they fled to their rooms, leaving the victim lying on the floor. "After it happened, I was crying and shaking," said Miss Meyers.

"I couldn't believe I had done it. Misty was able to get up and make her way to an office. The girls said she was treated with antibiotics and bandages at the home by staff members. "We try to steer away from unnecessary publicity," Roloff said when asked why the girl was not taken to a hospital. "If it had been real serious, however, we would have taken her to the hospital. "The police would have come out and we'd have lost all our girls. Why file charges and put them in a prison? We wanted another chance to help them. We loved them." The victim's mother, Dorothy Hardman of Marysville, Kan., said the family was not notified of the stabbing until two days after it happened. "We were so frightened, we drove so hard to get down there," she said. Mrs. Hardman said Roloff aides asked her, "You aren't going to press charges, are you?

"They knew we were Christians and meek and didn't want to cause any trouble." Mrs. Hardman said.

She said they took their daughter to a Kansas doctor and were told one of the wounds "was deep enough that if it had been a little over, it would have been fatal.

The doctor, Donald Argo, said the wounds were large enough to have been "quite serious.

As the American movie industry gets ready to hand out its Academy Awards tonight, the actor who can count on taking at least one Oscar home with him is Laurence Olivier. Olivier began acting at the age of seven, presenting his own plays on a stage he made out of a wooden packing crate. He later became famous for his work in plays by Shakespeare, and other roles on stage and in films. Because he often has been seriously ill in recent years. Olivier now acts only in movies. Tonight Sir Laurence receives a special Oscar for his "lifelong contribution to the art

Nuclear opponents hold protest

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) -Hoisting hand-made signs reading "No Nukes Is Good Nukes," 1,000 people demonstrated on the steps of Pennsylvania's Capitol while engineers tried to decontaminate a simmering reactor at Three Mile Island.

Pennsylvania Gov. Dick Thornburgh was expected to announce today whether he will lift his 10-day-old advisory that pregnant women and preschool children stay at least five miles from the crippled nuclear plant.

"He's just waiting for a little bit longer period of further sustained progress," press secretary Paul Critchlow said Sunday night.

He said Joseph Hendrie, chairman of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, and NRC operations chief Harold Denton told Thornburgh Sunday night that conditions were safe enough to lift the advisory soon.

Engineers worked Sunday to plug radiation leaks at the reactor, a contaminated cauldron that won't be brought to a cold shutdown for at least five more days. Cold shutdown is the point at which temperatures in the reactor fall below the boiling point of water, and there is no more risk of the reactor going out of control.

Weather Texas weather

By The Associated Press Skies were clear over most of the state except for parts of far South Texas today, but clouds were expected later over northern and western sections.

Fog and low clouds drifted south of a stationary front stretching from Port Arthur to Laredo before dawn, and Victoria was reporting drizzle. Predawn temperatures ranged from the 40s in the Panhandle to the 70s in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Forecasters predicted increased cloudiness in northern and western sections today and continued clouds in the south, with rainshowers and thunderstorms in South and West Texas later today.

National weather

By The Associated Press Tornados struck in three southern states, causing heavy damage in one Arkansas town, while winter-like weather persisted in the North, where an ice storm left 80,000 Michigan homes without electricity today. Snow, sleet and freezing rain fell Sunday from northwestern Ohio and southwestern Pennsylvania into southern New England. A winter storm warning was in effect today for western New York, and travel advisories were posted for most of southern New England and the central portion of lower Michigan.

A tornado ripped through Camden, Ark., on Sunday night, injuring at least 27 persons, inflicting heavy damage along a five-mile-long path and leaving hundreds homeless, authorities said.

The tornado - one of nine in Arkansas and Louisiana - destroyed about 75 homes and severely damaged a shopping center, a school and another 75 homes, said Trooper Jerry Bradshaw, a state police spokesman.

Some looting occurred at the shopping center before authorities arrived, Bradshaw said. Authorities estimated that damage would amount to millions of dollars.

MILD WEATHER is expected in the forecast period through Tuesday morning for the Plains and the Southwest, but cool weather is forecast for both coasts. Rain is predicted for the Gulf Coast and from eastern Texas into the eastern Plains. Snow flurries are forecast from the central Rockies to the northern Plains and for Washington state.

Dear

by abigail van buren

DEAR ABBY - Our 16-year-old daughter recently married a boy my husband doesn't approve of, but she was pregnant at the time and it seemed the best solution. (She didn't tell us she was pregnant until it was too late to do anything

The baby was born three months after they were married. It was a little boy, so they named him after my husband, hoping it would soften him up, but it didn't work. Our son-in-law is going to college and working, too, trying to make something of himself, but my husband hates him. He's still so upset over the whole business he hasn't even gone to see the baby yet. I go often, but I have to go alone.

Abby, I think my husband is acting like a stinker, but there's nothing I can do about it. Do you have any suggestions for getting him to forgive those kids and start acting like a grandfather? (Don't tell me to lock him out of the bedroom.) He would break down the door.

DEAR GRANDMA: Quit begging your husband to forgive the kids and start acting like a grandfather. Unless he's a terminal stinker with a heart of stone, eventually he'll come around. And if he doesn't - it's his loss.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old boy who has been reading your column faithfully for years. I've seen many letters from girls asking how to say "no" to a boy without losing him permanently, but I've never seen a letter from a boy asking the same question about girls, so here goes:

I am tall and considered good-looking by most people. My problem is that, on dates, girls sometimes want me to go farther than I know I should for the good of both of us.

How can I say "no" without making a fool of myself? Abby, I have discovered that the boy is not always the aggressor, so how about lending a helping hand to us guys by printing this letter and your answer?

BUDDY IN BELOIT

DEAR BUDDY: You have answered your own question very intelligently. At the appropriate time, say, "We have gone as far as we are going-for the good of both of us.' (And if you make a "fool" of yourself with that statement, I know a lot of fine young women who are looking for the kind of "fool" you are.)

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a relative that it's time she and her husband gave a party? When this couple moved to town over two years ago, they didn't know a soul. We introduced them to all our friends, and now our friends are their friends, too.

They are an attractive couple, well-liked and popular, but if they don't start inviting some of those people back, they won't be well-liked and popular much longer.

Since we, in a sense, sponsored them, we feel somewhat responsible for their social sins of omission. What do we do? I can hardly hold my head up.

KISSING COUSIN

DEAR COUSIN: It's not necessary to stick your neck out in order to hold your head up. If you're concerned about this couple's threatened loss of popularity as well as the reflection on yourselves, tell your cousin that when she starts to reciprocate her social obligations you'll be glad to help her. If she doesn't take the hint-you've done your part.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would like to know just what is cholesterol? Is there any way you can rid your body of it once you have it? Would you list in two groups the foods that are highest in cholesterol and the foods lowest in cholesterol? DEAR READER - Cholesterol is a yellow waxy substance formed chiefly by your liver. It's emptied with the bile from your liver into your small intestine.

Cholesterol is an animal product. That means that you get cholesterol from animal foods as well as from cholesterol formed by your liver. Both sources are mixed together in your small intestine and absorbed through the intestinal wall back into your circulation.

You can help lower blood cholesterol by decreasing the cholesterol in your food and by decreasing your fat consumption. The fat in your food enhances the absorption of cholesterol into your circulation. Then if there's a way to block the absorption of the cholesterol, that will help. And finally if there's a way to encourage your liver to form less cholesterol, that helps.

There are some substances on the market that will bind the cholesterol. There is a new oil substitute that isn't absorbed that does bind with part of the cholesterol and then it's eliminated with the rest of the undigested food material. This substance has not been cleared for public use yet and is in the experimental stage. Meanwhile, a lowcholesterol diet and adequate amounts of exercise are measures that you can do which help in many instances. You must be absolutely certain to keep your body weight down to prevent obesity if at all possible. Now about your different food lists. To give you some general guidelines about low-fat, low-cholesterol diets, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 1-3, Diet Preventing Atherosclerosis. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Since cholesterol is an animal product, it follows that none of the vegetables, fruits or cereals contain any cholesterol at all. People sometimes get confused about coconut oil because it has a large amount of saturated fat in it. The coconut oil doesn't contain cholesterol but the saturated fat enhances absorption of cholesterol and stimulates the liver to produce excessive amounts of cholesterol. Otherwise, you can consume most of the fruit, vegetable, cereal group without any concern about cholesterol and very little concern about fat content. Of course, you mustn't add fatty-cholesterol substances to those foods.

Mary of Bethany: A rare gift

By Edith Deen

'Why this waste? For this ointment might have been sold for a large sum, and given to the poor!" they complained.

But Jesus said to them: 'Why do you trouble the woman? For she has done a beautiful thing to me. For you always have the poor with you, but you will not always have me ... Truly, I say to you, wherever this gospel is preached in the whole world, what she has done will be told in memory

Mary of Bethany had a close fellowship with Jesus. He had revealed himself to her in his toils, conflicts and suffering.

Who he was and where his power came from was a mystery to many, but not to Mary of Bethany. When he raised her brother Lazarus from the tomb, she had the spiritual discernment to understand his love of others in action. And she gave Jesus back the same kind of love in this last opportunity to serve Her action in annointing Christ six days before Passover went beyond that moment/of time into eternity. It exemplified the meaning of true giving and enabled others to see that unselfish love is eternal. She was willing to prove her love, no matter what the material cost of the jar of pure nard. (It cost about $60 then, far more now.)

On the other hand, Judas Iscariot, one of the 12 apostles, went before the chief priests to betray Jesus. He received from them 30 pieces of silver, about onethird the worth of Mary's

These coins became a curse to Judas, who died a self-inflicted death; the money Mary had spent on the costly ointment became a blessing to her memory.

Judas's act represented hate and a misplaced power in action. It brought good to no one — only death because he could not live with himself afterward. Mary's gift represented love at its best She knew that Christians must suffer much but that the pangs of that suffering were lessened if they remained kind and loving toward one another.

Mary was assured in her heart that Jesus would valiantly go forward to suffer because he who was born in the image of God believed all things (even that death could be overcome), hoped for all things (even eternal life) and was willing to endure all things (even death on the cross).

Love to Mary of Bethany was not just a part of her existence; it was the very breath of her life. (NEXT: Faithfulness

Teacher invents easier way to write

By Barbara McDowell

NEW YORK (NEA) - First came the new math, then the new grammar. Now there's the new penmanship.

It's called "D'Nealian Handwriting" after Donald Neal Thurber, the Michigan elementary school teacherturned-principal who developed it in the mid-1960s. Within a decade, Thurber predicts, every youngster in the nation will learn to write by his simplified method.

Thurber says the "lightening bolt" that led to his invention struck in 1960 as he was printing on the chalkboard of his first-grade classroom.

Suddenly, it did not make sense that he was teaching his students to print straight up and down when they would have to learn to write slanting cursive two years later. And why were they making discontinuous "circles and sticks" when they would later have to connect their letters with a flowing

'There was no evidence for most of the stuff we were doing," says Thurber. Teaching of printing had changed little in the halfcentury since it was brought to the United States from England. (Before that, students simply started out writing in cursive.)

So, Thurber threw out the circles and sticks. With them went the wide-lined paper and fat pencils.

He introduced streamlined characters that could be printed without lifting (regular-sized) pencil from (standard-lined) paper. (The only exceptions are f. x, the cross in the t and the dots over the i and j.) Letters are written at a "natural" slant instead of verti-

Thurber gave his students simple step-by-step instructions for forming each letter, his voice rising on the upstroke and lowering on the

A lower-case g, for example, is described as "around, down, up, down and a fishhook under water." A small b is "high start, down, around, up into a tummy. And an m is "down, up, hump, hump and a monkey

Thurber doesn't teach letters in alphabetical order. Instead, he introduces similarly written letters as one group; the first group is a, d, o, c, g and e.

He claims a major advantage of his method is that it leads naturally into cursive with little more than the addition of connecting strokes. Only five letters f, r, s, v and z — are written differently. Many students switch on their own to "grown-up writing" by the end of the first grade.

"They don't have to literally unlearn 21/2 years of circles and sticks," explains. "And it probably saves 50 percent of teaching time.

According to Thurber, students using D'Nealian average at least half a year ahead of their peers in handwriting. Even those with learning disabilities have less trouble with the new method.

He claims students prefer D'Nealian because it more closely resembles adult handwriting and because it removes the pressure of struggling to conform to a copybook model of penman-develop a personalized "Writing is tremendously individualistic, like a fingerprint," says Thurber. "We should get away from, 'Everyone must do it like it is on the board or you can't go out for recess.'

Thurber who says he would give his own penmanship only a C - even believes this attitude will help keep handwriting legible in later life. He theorizes that people resort to unreadable scrawls in frustration at not being able to match the ideal "If you have more pride in your writing, the end results should be better," he explains.

MONTIVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) - Tennis and badminton are at the head of a long line of sports wanting to be included in the Olympic Games. But they will have to wait a long time.

The International Olympic Committee did nothing to hurry ended Saturday. The International Tennis Federation hoped to get in as a demonstration sport at Los Angeles in 1984. But the IOC decided there would not be any demonstration sports.

The IOC spent most of the three-day meeting hammering out a formula to allow both the Games. Peking, which in the past had refused to compete in anything alongside Taiwan, agreed to allow a separate. Olympic committee to be recognized in the island. The IOC will spend the next few months trying to get the two

China and Taiwan to compete in names for their Olympic committees, and flags and anthems to be used. That will be difficult because the rival delegations never spoke to each other here all last week.

"But I am very hopeful that we can achieve something at last," said Lord Killanin, president of the IOC. "Both sides have made remarkable concessions already.

On the issue of new Olympic sports, the IOC is sympathetic to tennis, which had a place in the Olympic Games until 1924. The Program Commission reported the ITF has set up a separate committee for amateur players and is in line with the Olympic eligibility code. But the ITF has been asked to fill out a questionnaire and has not sent it back.

"When we get the answers we want, we will go on studying the matter," said Arpad Csanadi. chairman of the IOC's Program Commission.

Badminton has a different problem Asian and African countries split off from the International Badminton Federation a year ago and formed a federation of their own. The IOC likes dealing with one controlling body for each declined to recognize billiards and karate. It also turned down tug of war, powerlifting, boules (a form of bowling in which the balls are thrown instead of rolled), water skiing and squash.

Official recognition was given to the federation controlling nine-pin and ten-pin bowling, but that does not mean bowling will be in the Olympic Games. It may be included in regional games, like the Asian and Pan-American

The IOC is reluctant to expand the Olympics further. There are now 21 sports in the Summer Games and five in the Winter Games, and many people think that is too many

Post clips Lopez

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif (AP) - Sandra Post won a tense tournament-long duel with Nancy Lopez by shooting a 70 Sunday to capture the $305,000 Dinah Shore Winners Circle for the second consecutive year.

Post, a 30-year-old native of Canada who now lives in Florida, birdied three of the final eight holes. Lopez, who had entered the final round tied with Post for the lead, shot a closing 71 and lost her chance for a victory with a poor tee shot and and bogey on the par-3 17th hole.

Baseball on tap

Easter vacation has left just one event on the Pampa High School sports calendar this week. Coach Steve Scott and the Harvester baseball team will travel to Liberal Wednesday afternoon for a 4 o'clock contest.

The diamond squad will return to District 3-AAAA action April 17, when it hosts Palo Duro in another 4 p.m. contest.

The next spot on the PHS schedule comes April 20, when the district will hold its second round of boys golf play and Pampa qualifiers Carmela Caldwell and Cindy Whitson will compete at the Region 1-AAAA girls track meet in Lubbock

Nominees waiting

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Oscar nominees hoping to be in the floodlights at the Los Angeles Music Center tonight during the 51st Academy Awards are likely to be upstaged - not by each other but by John Wayne

The Academy Award-winner for "True Grit" 10 years ago was scheduled to appear at the end of the telecast to announce the best picture of 1978

Wayne, 71, whose history in Hollywood predates the Motion Picture Academy, will be making his first public appearance since cancer surgery three months ago.

Presenters range from Cary Grant and Lauren Bacall to Robin Williams and Brooke Shields. NBC's Johnny Carson will make an unaccustomed appearance on ABC as master of ceremonies for the show, which starts at 7 p.m. PST.

"The Deer Hunter" and "Heaven Can Wait." both with nine nominations, were generally considered favorites for best picture, with "Coming Home" — with eight nominations — also a possibility. 'An Unmarried Woman' and "Midnight Express" were also nominated for the year's best film

If "Heaven Can Wait" scores a sweep, Warren Beatty could be the first person to win Oscars in four categories. He is nominated as best actor, producer, co-writer and co-director.

For the first time in recent memory, all of the nominated songs will be delivered by those who sang them for the films. The performers: Debby Boone, Barry Manilow, Johnny Mathis and Jane Olivor, Olivia Newton-John and Donna Summer. Sammy Davis Jr. and Steve Lawrence will sing a medley of hit movie songs not nominated

No-shows among acting contenders, a blight in some recent years, should be minimal. Of the 10 nominated actresses, only Ingrid Bergman has declined to appear. The Swedish actress, who could be the first person to win four acting Oscars, was reported to be starting a new film in Europe. She was nominated for the film, "Autumn Sonata

Others vying for best actress of 1978 were Ellen Burstyn, "Same Time, Next Year;" Jill Clayburgh, "An Unmarried Woman;" Jane Fonda, "Coming Home," and Geraldine Page, "Interiors."

Of the candidates for best actor, only Robert De Niro, nominated for "The Deer Hunter," was a doubtful arrival. He told Haley he was too nervous to sit through the ceremonies, whereupon the producer offered to allow De Niro to remain backstage.

Besides Beatty, the other candidates for best actor who have agreed to appear were Gary Busey, "The Buddy Holly Story;" Laurence Olivier, "The Boys from Brazil," and Jon Voight, "Coming

Jack Warden of "Heaven Can Wait" was the only contender for supporting actor who declined an invitation. Other nominated include Bruce Dern. "Coming Home;" Richard Farnsworth, 'Comes A Horseman;" John Hurt, "Midnight Express," and Christopher Walken. "The Deer Hunter.

Nominated in the best supporting actress category were Dyan Cannon, "Heaven Can Wait;" Penelope Milford, "Coming Home;" Maggie Smith. "California Suite;" Maureen Stapleton, "Interiors," and Meryl Streep, "The Deer Hunter."

Shooting suspect taken into custody

PAXTON, Ill. (AP) — After a day-long manhunt, police said they captured a man charged with murder in a bloody shootout in which five persons, including two police officers, died.

The suspect, Monroe Lampkin, 43, was captured without resistance Sunday night on a state highway just east of Paxton, said Les Pauley, a spokesman for the Illinois Department of Law

Lampkin, who had been shot in the wrist, was captured about three miles from the site of the Saturday night gunfight, Pauley said.

The suspect fled on foot after the battle, in which a state trooper. the trooper's brother-in-law, a Paxton policeman and two of Lampkin's brothers were killed. A murder warrant was issued Sunday, and police spent the day following a two-mile trail of blood through farmlands near this east3central Illinois town.

Authorities had thought that Lampkin was armed, but he was carrying no weapon when he was arrested by two Paxton police officers acting on a tip from a citizen. Paulev said.

Siberian picnic on ice - Br-r-r

KYSYL SYR. U.S.S.R. (AP) — For Siberians, it's "in" to be out. Outdoors, that is. And nothing drives away the wintertime blues better. Siberians say, than going for a picnic out on the ice. Bundled in their warmest clothing, these hardy souls of the Far North trot to the rivers on weekends to squat in tiny tents and nibble at raw frozen fish chased down with Russian vodka.

It's a cold way to spend an afternoon, as group of American correspondents learned on a recent visit to this Siberian settlement. Yet in a land where man is forever battling an inhospitable climate, to sit through a Siberian picnic can be as satisfying as a mountain climb, a parachute jump or even a marathon run.

The cold does something to food. It makes it taste better. Even the most ordinary meal suddenly becomes extraordinary - bread is crustier, fish fishier, spirits tinglier.

A steaming hot bowl of fish soup served up in double-digit minus temperatures beats anything a cozy kitchen could produce. A Siberian picnic takes the entire day — a morning's worth of preparation and an afternoon full of eating. The evening, of course, is spent recovering from too much blood-warming vodka.

On the recent picnic, a jeep caravan brought the reporters several miles out onto the ice of the Vilyuiy River here. The picnic fixings already were underway: fishing holes were drilled, nets hung in the bluish-grey waters, and fires started to boil kettles of stew stock.

The purpose of picnicking here is to to get away from whatever little civilization Siberia has to offer, and one first-time visitor noted: "This is what I imagine the moon to be."

It's easy to see why. Miles of flat, snow-blanketed ice crunched softly under the weight of humans stepping on its surface. The "crunch. crunch" of winter boots walking on dry, packed snow echoed off the water that lay hidden underneath. One reporter recorded the sound and played it back for the group. It could easily have been Neil Armstrong taking his first step on the moon.

Suddenly, a shout broke the solitude. A catch! Six Siberian fishermen in charge of the picnic burst into activity

They rolled up the nets strung between the two ice holes, and started flipping fish left and right onto the river, where the small creatures froze the instant they hit the air. In this area where the ice is three feet thick, some two dozen fish were caught.

"Isn't this kind of cheating?" asked one American who had expected to see hooks and lines instead of businesslike nets.

'No. no," a Siberian host reassured. "This is the modern way. Modern it may be, but there are still hundreds of Siberians who sit beside their little holes the old-fashioned way. Ice fishing remains a popular winter sport.

Three types of fish were caught: perch, pike and a northern fish that belongs to the salmon family.

Siberians take their fish seriously, and often eat it at all three daily meals. Even fish eggs are whipped into a tasty paste.

The fishermen set to work cleaning the catch. One man with a gold-toothed smile used his bare hands to stroke a knife up and down the fish, trimming off the head and scales

Austin voters still want share of plant

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - For the fourth time, Austin voters have decided they want a share in building the South Texas Nuclear Project near Bay City, 135 miles southeast of the Texas capital.

In a close election that was watched nationwide Saturday, about 34 percent of the city's eligible voters decided to retain 16 percent interest in the $2.07 billion power project.

The decision means that $215.85 million in revenue bonds will be issued to take care of cost overruns above and beyond the original $161 million bond issue voted in 1973.

It was the first vote on a nuclear issue since the March 28 nuclear accident in Pennsylvania, which local officials said put heavy pressure on the local campaign.

Even after the vote counting ended near midnight Saturday, anti-nuclear supporters demonstrated, chanting "Sell the nuke. Sell

Pro-nuclear officials, who admitted they had little hope after the Three Mile Island incident, near Harrisburg, Pa., were elated.

"I think the citizens of Austin just had the good sense to make their decision despite a lot of disturbing things like the Harrisburg incident," said Herb Woodson, head of the pro-nuclear Committee on Economic Enerby. "They finally realized that nuclear power is safe. and relatively inexpensive.

The issuance of $215.85 million in bonds to retain the 16 percent interest was one of four questions put to voters in a referendum that accompanied the city's regular election of city officials. It passed by 53.15 percent or 28,430 to 25,037.

The other three propositions on the ballot failed.

failed 26.436 to 25,500. Early Saturday night it appeared confused voters might approve both retaining the 16 percent and selling it, which would have probably required another election.

-Issuance of $434 million in bonds for a new coal or lignite generator for Austin failed 40,430 to 10,247.

-Authorization of the City Council to use proceeds from sale of the 16 percent in building the coal-fired generator failed 39,420 to 11,534. In the same balloting Mayor Carole McClellan and six council members were re-elected for two-year terms.

'We took a poll that showed we were down 9 percent last Sunday, just after Harrisburg," said Bill Youngblood, a prominent pro-nuclear organizer. "You can attribute the flip-flop, and it was a major one, to the personality and extreme credibility of the mayor. She was able to overcome the emotionalism of Three Mile Island."

Arthur Duncan, chairman of the anti-nuclear Austin Citizens for Economic Energy, blamed the City Council. "There was no reason at all for them to put the coal generating plant on the ballot," he said. "Our opponents kept saying it would cost $434 million while completing the nuclear plant was only $215 million, which is an unfair comparison. But it made it easier for Proposition 1 to pass.

The election was the fifth one in Austin on the nuclear power issue. Voters turned down joining the project in 1971, then voted to buy 16 percent in 1973. In 1976 they voted against pulling out and last January voters refused to sell half their interest.

Austin's partners in the South Texas project, one of four nuclear reactors being constructed in Texas, are Houston Lighting & Power Co., which owns 30.8 percent; San Antonio with 28 percent; and Central Power and Light of Corpus Christi which holds 25.2 percent.

Congressman, aides protest cutbacks

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A Texas state representative and a handful of aides protesting planned cutbacks of Amtrak passenger routes were to leave by train for Washington today after spending the night at Union Station. 'What we're doing now is a result of what I started on earlier — introduction of a resolution memorializing Congress not to cut off the passenger services in Texas like they're planning to do." State Rep. Al Edwards of Houston said Sunday night.

Edwards said he planned to hand-deliver copies of the resolution, which was passed by the Texas Legislature, to every member of the Texas delegation and lobby on Capitol Hill and at the White House after the train arrives in Washington on Tuesday. A press conference is scheduled Wednesday in Washington, he said.

Toxic fumes drive 5,000 to shelters

CRESTIEW, Fla. (AP) -Toxic smoke from the derailment of a train laden with deadly chemicals drove up to 5.000 people to emergency shelters as officials monitored winds that could force thousands more to flee their homes. "On a scale of one to 10, this accident rates pretty high on the scale" of environmental danger. said George Moein, chief of the federal Environmental Protection Agency's hazardous spill section in Atlanta. He said the tank cars on the 118-car Louisville & Nashville Railroad train contained anhydrous ammonia, sulfur, acetone, phenol, methanol, carbolic acid and liquid chlorine About 28 cars toppled off the track Sunday morning after clearing a wood and steel trestle spanning the Yellow River in a wooded, swampy area of the Florida Panhandle accessible only from the air and river.

One car, loaded with deadly carbolic acid, was hanging off the bridge

Most of the emergency crews left the site Sunday night. "We're hoping the toxic gases will dissipate by morning," said Fire Chief Bob Barrow of nearby Eglin Air Force Base.

Okaloosa County Civil Defense Director Ted Nichols estimated that 4,500 to 5,000 people had left homes or campsites in the 80-square-mile evacuation area, which included several villages and about half of Blackwater River State Forest

Officials said late Sunday that they did not expect additional evacuations, but left 7,000 Crestview residents on alert as a precaution in case the wind shifted

No serious injuries were reported. Authorities said a fisherman who inhaled some of the fumes was hospitalized for observation

The Federal Railroad Administration in February described the L&N, a subsidiary of Seaboard Coast Line Railroad, as having "the worst record of any railroad of the country" in handling hazardous materials. Sixteen people died last year when an L&N train derailed in Waverly, Tenn.

The wreck came just two days after the FRA lifted a 30-mph speed limit on the section of track near Crestview.

We know the train was moving at 30 mph in a 35 mph speed zone," said Charles Castner, a spokesman for L&N in Louisville.

Evacuees spent the night in schools, churches and armories. One of them, Hathaway Johnson of nearby Milligan, said he was in the backyard of his house when he heard one of several explosions from tank cars carrying anhydrous ammonia, acetone and sulfur. "I saw that big ball of fire go up. It jarred the ground," he said. Johnson said he drove up to look at it and realized what it was "and I saw all the vellowish. blackish mixed colored smoke. I didn't need anybody to tell me to
