Calling all Housecarles

Haskell families to have reunion

By Richard A. Haskell
Truro, MA

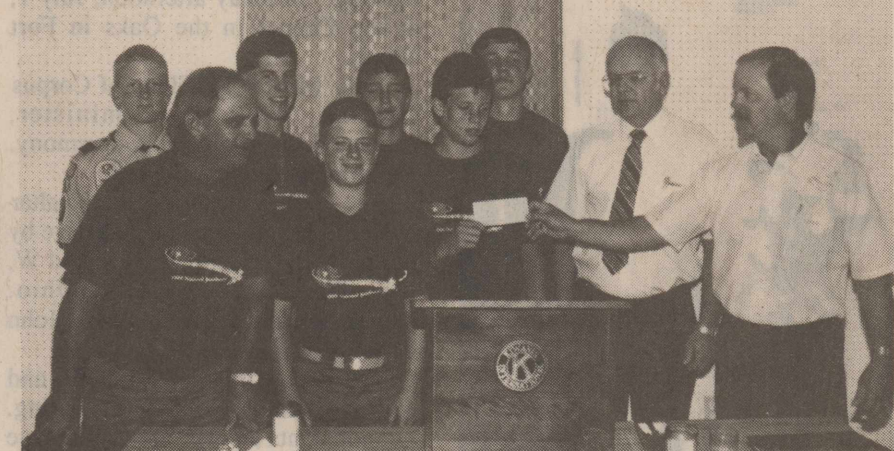

Danvers, MA--What do golf balls, witchcraft and the gallantry of knights all have in common?

Those who are named Haskell know better than most. And hundreds of them will come from around the world to Danvers next week to boast about it during a historic occasion--the first USA reunion of this unique and venerable family.

According to the International Haskell Family Association, the name derives from early knights called "Housecarles" who, wielding two-handed battle axes, were the guardians of Saxon kings. Many of the first Haskells, it is told, fought to their deaths for King Harold, who lost life and kingdom to William the Conqueror at the famous battle of Hastings in 1066 AD.

English archives and gravestone inscriptions chart the remarkable evolution of this ancient family name--from Housecarle to Huscarl to Hascoll to Haskell. It can be traced back for an astonishing thousand years. A genealogical footnote of some significance when one considers most surnames originated only 400 or 500 years ago.

The original Haskell immigrants to the United States were three brothers who came from Charlton-

To Jamboree

Bobby Hobgood and Sam Binder of the Haskell Kiwanis Club present a check to the Boy Scouts to help pay expenses for them to attend the National Boy Scout Jamboree in Fort Apache Hill, W. Va. They will leave July 26. In the front row are Scoutmaster Bill Perry and Matt Perry. In the back row are Shawn Sanford, Mark Jones, Brian Brzozowski and Cody Josselet. Blake Henshaw, not pictured, also will make the trip.

Mark Jones gets Eagle Scout rank

Mark Jones received Boy Scouting's highest rank at a court of honor during his troop meeting on July 17 at the First United Methodist Church in Haskell.

The Eagle rank was presented to Mark by Bill Perry, scoutmaster; Marvin McFaden, assistant scoutmaster; and Ed Walling.

Jones earned 21 merit badges to fulfill the qualifications for Eagle rank as required by Boy Scouts of America.

He planned, developed and carried out his Eagle service project in which he and other troop members painted the Haskell Pony League baseball fence at the Haskell City Park.

Jones began his career in Boy Scouting as a Tiger Cub and continued through the Cub Scout ranks where he earned the Arrow of Light award. He is a member of the Order of the Arrow and Kotsio Lodge 330.

As a member of Troop 136, he has served as scribe and patrol leader and has received Quality Unit badges for 1986, 1987, 1988 and 1989. He will continue his scouting activities this summer when he serves as patrol leader at the 1989 National Boy Scout Jamboree at Fort A. P. Hill, Va.

Jones, 14, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James Kemp and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jones. He will be a freshman at Royal High School this fall. He expresses thanks to all of his Scout leaders and merit badge counselors who have helped him to achieve his Eagle Scout rank.

Temperature hits 110

The temperature in Haskell Tuesday soared to the highest of the year, according to Sam Herren, official weather recorder.

Herren said the high temperature for the day was 110.3 degrees.

Monday's temperature reached 109 degrees.

Tuesday's heat wave was broken slightly with a shower late in the day which measured .14 of an inch.

'Christmas in July' promotion next week

Haskell businesses will promote "Christmas in July" during a big three-day event next week. Dates are Thursday, Friday and Saturday (July 27, 28 and 29).

Conrad Roewe, chairman of the the sponsoring Haskell Retail Merchants Association, said there will be citywide, storewide sales on gifts, Christmas items, household furnishings and appliances, ready-to-wear and specialties.

Roewe said customers are urged to shop now and put items on layaway until Christmas, and to start Christmas savings accounts if they have not already done so.

Store windows will call attention to Christmas and Santa Claus will be around town, but in shorts and somewhat thinner than the bearded old gentleman who comes around in December.

"It's a great opportunity for families to get a head start on the holidays, to take advantage of the wide selections to be placed on sale for the three-day Christmas in July activity," Roewe said.

Airport paving approved

Haskell City Council allocated funds for airport improvements and discussed the next fiscal year's budget at a regular council meeting July 13.

Two thousand dollars was allotted by the council to retain a contractor to seal coat paved areas in front of airport hangers. Money was generated for the project through the sale of fuel and rent of hangers.

No action was taken by the council on a request by J. W. Wallace of S. Ave. H. to extend sewer lines to his residence until exact costs could be determined.

A public hearing was scheduled for July 27 at 7 p.m. in the council room. Council members are considering an additional grant request from the State and want input from citizens on ideas for city improvements.

In departmental reports, city administrator Bob Baker reported the seal coating of Haskell city streets in residential areas should be completed within the next week.

He added the City of Haskell was not responsible for the construction work on US 277 and US 380 and calls should be directed to the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The new soccer field, located next to the baseball diamond, is nearing completion and should be ready for soccer action by September, Baker said.

The tournament winner will advance to Bi-District competition.

New business to build homes

Ground-breaking ceremonies for a new business located on west U. S. 380 were Friday afternoon, July 14, in Haskell.

Wood-Bilt, Inc., operating under Bob Wood Construction Co., will construct ready-built and pre-fabricated homes, said owner Bob Wood.

Located on the northeast corner of Melvin Vojkufka's farm west of Haskell on U. S. 380, Wood plans to build economically built homes for five markets, the first home buyer, handicapped, elderly, economically disadvantaged and the homeless in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Buying all materials in large quantities and utilizing scraps, Wood said he can manufacture quality houses that save home buyers money.

Presently employing 20 workers, Wood-Bilt could expand its payroll to employ 50 workers within the next three to four years as the business grows.

"I hope to produce 12 new homes this first year and increase the number to 30 to 40 homes per year within the next four years," Wood said.

Wood has been in the construction business for 24 years and is a Home Owners Warranty (HOW) approved builder. He offers a 10-year warranty on the homes he builds and is familiar with assistance programs offered by the Texas Housing Authority and HUD.

He is a member of the National Association of Home Builders, the Texas Association of Builders and the Home Builders Association of Abilene and Central West Texas.

Besides manufacturing ready-builts and prefabricated homes, Wood said he will continue to build custom-made homes within a 60-mile radius of Haskell.

"I want to build homes that average Americans can afford," Wood said.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Konicki, parents of the groom, hosted the rehearsal dinner in the beautiful gazebo of Sams Bar-B-Que of Fort Worth.

Young Swedes enjoy Haskell visit

By K. B. Lane
Ham radio operator Hans Hjelmstrom of Tibro, Sweden, probably never encountered second thoughts when he waved goodbye to his son and brother as they embarked on a 2 1/2-month tour of the United States.

He was not troubled because he knew that in each state the young men visited, a friend of his, made through Ham radio contact, would welcome the men with open arms.

He also would be able to monitor their journey state-by-state through radio contact.

Haskell was just one of the many stops for Hans' 21-year-old son, Hakan, and brother, Dan Hjelmstrom, 27, of Skovde, Sweden, as they visited local Ham operator Don Comedy and family.

Comedy and the elder Hjelmstrom have been in contact with one another by radio since August of 1988. The two operators talk at least four to six times a week, Comedy said.

"Texas-style" activities filled the travelers' three-day visit. Abilene was the scene for a "real cowboy dance" and in Sweetwater the young men witnessed a cattle auction.

Hakan said listening to the cattle auctioneer was fascinating, but confusing at times. He was prepared as he had been reading written English over the past seven months to help him in conversation with Americans.

The visitors enjoyed sightseeing as they toured Haskell County. As souvenirs, they took home rattlesnake rattlers. The Hjelmstroms were quite fascinated with the reptile as they explained there are no poisonous snakes in Sweden.

Meeting with Watt Matthews, 90, of the Matthews Land and Cattle Co. in Albany and visiting the R. A. Brown ranch in Throckmorton gave the Swedes insight on the life of a modern-day cowboy.

A trip to the Albany Fandangle parade and show was their last stop before the visitors left for San Antonio.

Bentsen wants rural areas included in study

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has urged Drug Czar William Bennett to look beyond the "big drug dealers in the big cities" when drafting his national drug control strategy, due out in September.

Bentsen said any effective federal anti-drug plan must deal with the rapid spread of crack cocaine to smaller towns and rural areas in Texas and other states.

--Rice Springs Care Home--

By Judy Wolsch

We thank the Haskell Lutheran Church for the delicious ice cream they made and shared with everyone at Rice Springs Care Home.

The fellowship was as welcome as the homemade ice cream. This group host this event each July in honor of July 4. National Ice Cream Day was also July 16.

We also appreciate the black-eyed peas Mrs. Don Perry picked and brought out to RSCH. The ladies and a man or two enjoyed shelling the peas then the kitchen cooked the peas for the residents. Cornbread, onions and tomatoes were served with the peas to make them even better.

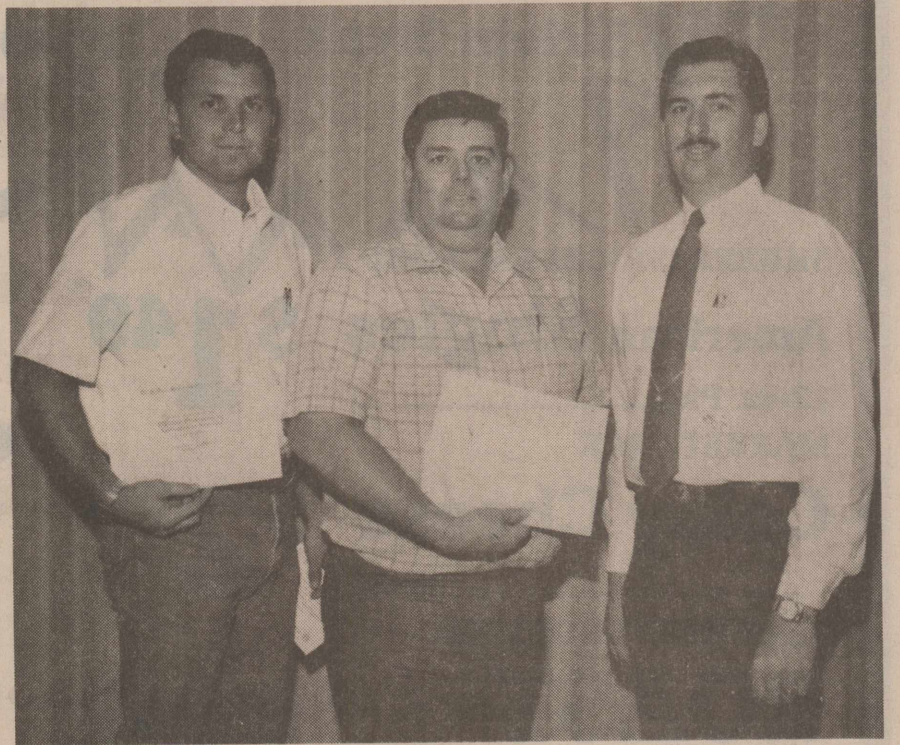

Our love and sympathy is with the Gilleland family.

Heed hazards of hot weather

Summer traditionally is a time for fun in the sun. The Texas Medical Association warns that hot, humid weather may pose severe health problems, ranging from the less serious heat fatigue or heat exhaustion to the potentially fatal heat stroke.

To avoid heat-related illness, drink plenty of water and juices, bathe or shower frequently with cool water, and use fans and air conditioners liberally. When outside, wear lightweight, light-colored, loose-fitting clothing; cotton is best. Avoid vigorous activity during the hottest part of the day, noon to 4 p.m., and wear a hat or use an umbrella when in the sun.

In hot weather or during strenuous exercise, the body cools itself through perspiration. Cooling occurs when perspiration evaporates from the skin. However, when challenged by long periods of intense heat, the body may lose its ability to cool. Hyperthermia is the result. Poor ventilation, improper clothing and the lack of fluids can contribute to this.

Heat fatigue, the least serious of heat-related illnesses, causes weakness. Symptoms include cool, moist skin and a weakened pulse. The person may feel faint or dizzy. Mild hyperthermia can cause heat cramps--muscle spasms in the abdomen, arms or legs after strenuous activity. With both heat stress and heat cramps, body temperature usually remains normal.

Heat exhaustion, caused by the body's loss of water and salt, is a more serious warning that the body is overheating. Symptoms include thirst, giddiness, weakness, profuse sweating, loss of coordination and appetite, and nausea. Body temperature often is elevated, but usually no higher than 101 degrees.

Heat fatigue, cramps and heat exhaustion may be treated in several ways. Victims should lie down in a cool place, preferably air-conditioned, and drink water or fruit and vegetable juices. Alcohol and caffeine should be avoided. Victims also should shower, bathe or sponge off with cool water. If left untreated, heat exhaustion can progress to heat stroke.

Heat stroke can be life-threatening, and immediate medical attention is required. Heat stroke usually is preceded by headache, dizziness, nausea, confusion and even convulsions. The victim may be flushed, but may not be perspiring. The pulse generally is strong and rapid, and the body temperature may reach 104 degrees and keep rising. The person may lose consciousness. In this situation, keep the victim cool, but do not attempt to render aid. Expert emergency attention is required for suspected heat stroke.

Prevent serious heat-related illnesses by making sure the proper precautions are taken. With sound judgment and an ounce of prevention, the summer can remain a time of fun and leisure for everyone.

Funds available for home buyers

If you have been planning to buy a home, now may be the time to give that purchase serious consideration.

Approximately $114 million in low-interest mortgage money has become available to first-time homebuyers in Texas, a Texas Housing Agency official has announced.

The FHA-insured loans will be offered to low- and moderate-income borrowers at a fixed interest rate of 7.69 percent or 8.69 percent, with the lower rate generally reserved for buyers of the least expensive homes.

A low- to moderate-income homebuyer needs about 24 percent less income to qualify for a below-market loan using this financing as compared to market-rate financing. The monthly principal and interest payments on a $40,000 loan financed at 7.69 percent interest would run about $300 as compared to $363 on a 10-percent market rate loan. This monthly savings adds up to $18,878 over the life of the loan.

Prospective homebuyers may call (512) 472-7500 to obtain application information, a program brochure and a list of participating lenders.

Emergency loan applications now being accepted at FmHA

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by tornadoes, flooding and severe storms are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) office in Haskell.

Larry McDaniel, supervisor of the local office, said Haskell County is one of nine counties in Texas recently named by Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng as eligible for loans to cover part of actual production losses resulting from the tornadoes, flooding and severe storms.

He explained that farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses or the operating loan needed to continue in business, or $500,000, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest rate is 4.5 percent.

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30-percent loss of production to be eligible for an FmHA emergency loan," McDaniel said. "Farmers participating in the PIK or Federal Crop Insurance programs will have to figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their loss."

Applications for loans under the emergency designation will be accepted until Feb. 15, 1990, McDaniel said. He pointed out that delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly overlap into the new farming season.

FmHA is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living.

The Haskell office is located at 1203-B South Ave. E, and is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Gannaway visits capital

Andy Gannaway of Haskell, left, member of the 1988-89 Cotton Leadership Class of the National Cotton Council talks with Rep. Charles Stenholm, member of the Agriculture Committee. Gannaway and nine other class members recently visited Washington to view the U.S. political process which included meetings with several Cotton Belt legislators. The program was sponsored by The Cotton Foundation through a grant from DuPont.

Give blood

Summer is no picnic for American Red Cross Blood Services and its community minded volunteers. But neither is it a picnic for hospital patients who need blood.

Although there is a national trend or expectation that blood donations will drop seasonally, there remains a need for 100 donors daily in the Red River region.

The reason is that hospitals and patients don't really close down or take off for holidays and vacations. Elective surgeries might be scheduled at more opportune times, but to patients suffering from emergencies such as car accidents and other traumas, bleeding ulcers, open-heart surgeries, newborn infants who need blood exchanges, hemophiliacs and those on chemotherapy, it's business as usual.

Red Cross Blood Services, through volunteer donors, is committed to meeting these needs. With your support, we won't have a summer blood drought this year.

Please give blood when the Red Cross bloodmobile comes to Haskell next Tuesday (July 25) between 1 and 5 p.m. at the First Baptist Church activity building.

Governor throws weight around

AUSTIN-In the closing days of the special legislative session, with tempers short, blank checks on the Senate floor, a landmark Texas Supreme Court case, and various announcements for political office, Gov. Bill Clements:

- Blasted Attorney General Jim Mattox for halfheartedly defending the state's school finance law now before the Texas Supreme Court;
- Called Senate conference panel members "obstinate" for

Clements also indicated he will call a special session for anti-abortion issues next spring, which happens to be in the middle of the elections.

Thus, lawmakers could be in Austin for three specials in the space of a year, which could certainly impact their pocketbooks.

Dog Racers Heard

The Texas Racing Commission heard from five groups seeking the lucrative greyhound track in Galveston County.

The sniping was the hottest so far in racetrack hearings with witnesses trying to disqualify one or more groups for alleged ties to crime and violations of state liquor rules.

Meanwhile, the senator who sponsors horse racing issues, said the start of Texas parimutuel racing could be delayed because an amended bill won't be filed this special session.

Sen. Ike Harris, R-Dallas, chose not to file the bill when Clements opposed his attempts to decrease the state's share.

Political Campaigns

As expected, state Rep. Dan Morales, D-San Antonio, entered the attorney general's race, but what few could figure out is why his brother, a long-haired rock singer with a new hit record, sat beside him at the Capitol news conference.

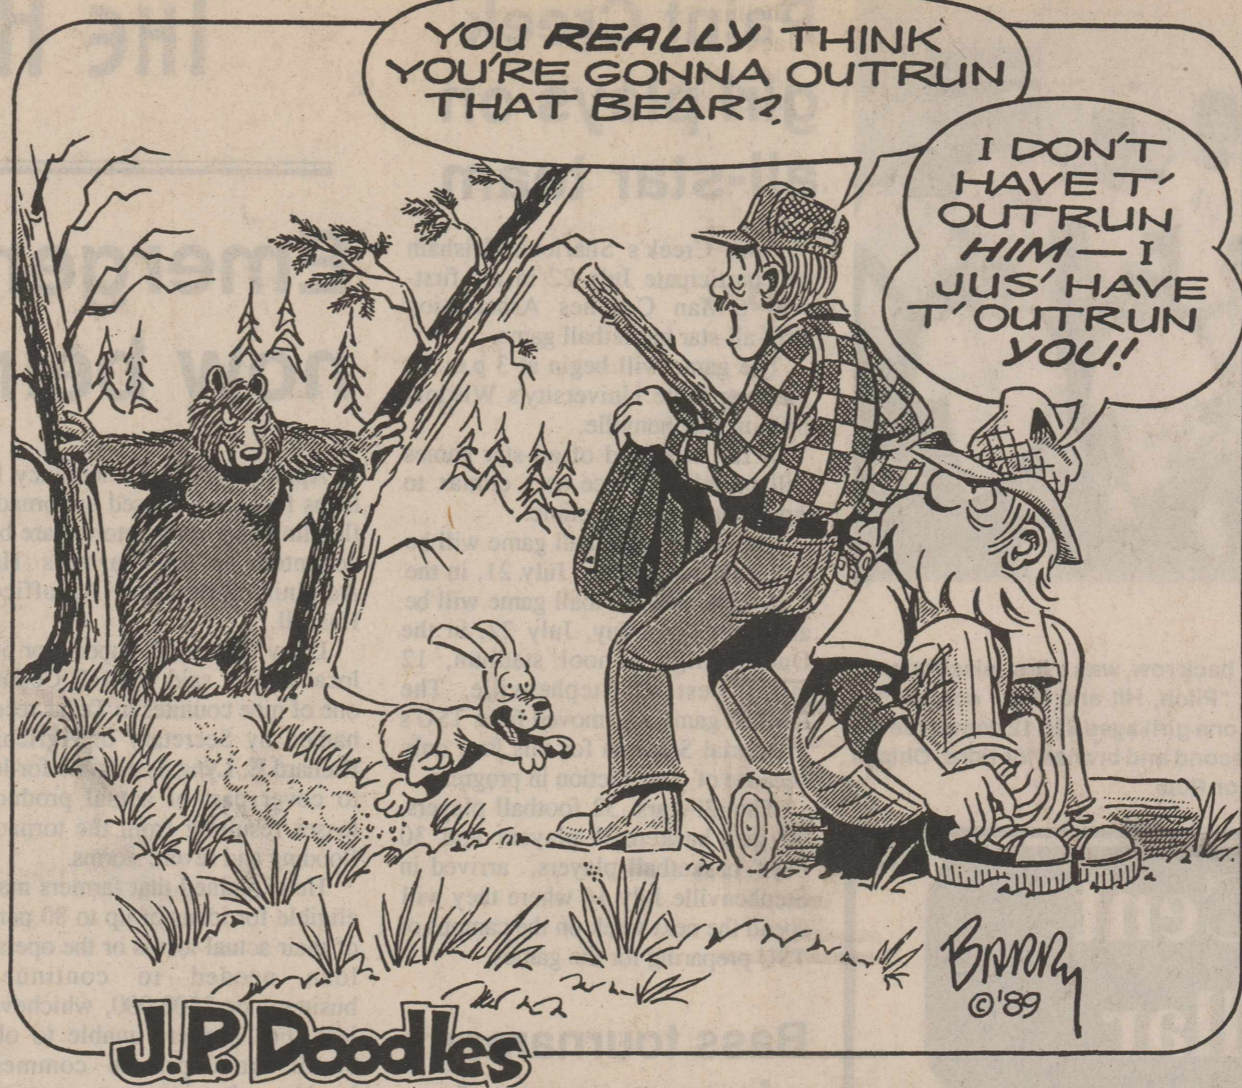

Morales, who in earlier sessions has advocated a state income tax, promised as AG to crack down on drugs. He said he is pro-choice but will uphold any new anti-abortion laws.

He also said he agrees with Mattox that poor school districts are correct in suing for a greater share of public school financing.

Railroad Commissioner Kent Hance finally revealed his cards and filed his committee for governor, naming Dallas developer Trammel Crow as his campaign treasurer.

State Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, announced for lieutenant governor as the candidate for political outsiders. He was hit with questions about a $10,000 check from chicken magnate Lonnie "Bo" Pilgrim. Edwards, 37, deposited the check in his campaign account, but returned the money the next day.

GOP gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams of Midland said he will take assets from convicted drug users, including "Daddy's Mercedes" if the son or daughter is arrested on drug charges while driving it.

Haskell is due to be removed from the Mexican labor blacklist, according to information given the Chamber of Commerce and county and city officials Tuesday by authoritative sources. Lifting of the ban against Haskell and Lubbock is due to be announced within the next day or two, local authorities were assured.

Indicating the crowded condition of the Haskell County Hospital, Administrator Hallie Chapman said that two surgery patients and a medical patient had to be turned down Wednesday morning because no rooms were available.

The Haskell County Health Office has obtained from the Texas State Department of Health a quantity of polio vaccine to be given to persons unable to pay for the shots.

In addition to his qualifications as an efficient public official, County Clerk Horace Oneal is a horticulturist of no mean ability. Indisputable evidence of that fact was given the other day when the genial county official left a generous sample of the products from one of his young peach trees at The Free Press office.

Mrs. May Larned returned last Friday from a four-week visit with her daughter, Mrs. Venita Kreger and Mr. Kreger in Black Springs, Ark.

One who did said, "I love my sins, but I hate myself. I'm destroying myself. Can anyone help me?" "The Lord," I answered.

'Where's the...?'

By K. B. Lane

Have you ever noticed parents never lose, break or misplace anything?

If anything is missing, broken or not in its proper place, guess who is responsible?

I had not realized how true this is until one day last week.

"K. B., have you seen my nail file?" Mom asked.

"No, mother," I said.

"Well, I can't find it."

"Well, I don't have it."

"Are you sure? I bought a new one because you took off with my last one," she said.

"Mother, why would I use your new one when I have my own now?"

"I don't know, but I can't find it!"

missing items.

I presumed whatever was missing was probably buried six feet under the rubble that decorated my bedroom floor.

I had no desire to try and find whatever my parents were looking for because 1) I was not sure of what else I would find (dead or alive) and 2) digging in that mess would probably only prove my parents were right in the first place.

Now that I am a part-time resident of the Lane household and possessions are labeled "yours" and "mine", I do not take the blame anymore.

I pass it to my little brother.

Funny how Mom did not believe me when I said he broke her curling iron.

He may not can take the rap for broken curling irons, but when all the cherry popsicles are gone, leaving only orange and grape ones, we know who is responsible!

But guess who was asked first, "Did you eat all the cherry popsicles?"

Will it ever end?

Unfortunately no, because just yesterday I heard a familiar question. "K. B., where's the...."

Percentage of Americans earning less than $15,000 a year who say they have achieved the American dream: 5. Percentage earning more than $50,000 who say they have achieved the American dream: 6.

One of the bad things about editing a weekly newspaper instead of a daily is that some of the stories come in too late to get in the current issue, and they'll be history before the next issue.

Like a news article last week telling of an auction in Houston by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

Among the items which went on sale Saturday were five-foot tall carved elephants, a 1957 Bentley, 19th century antiques, many original paintings, bronzes and carved ivory tusks.

Too bad we didn't get the story in time. I'm sure half of Haskell would have wanted to be there.

stalling progress on workers' compensation reform and suggested they be replaced;

- Opened the special call to protect Medigap insureds but shut out attempts to decrease the state's share of parimutuel purses; and
- Threatened another special session this fall if lawmakers stall on workers' compensation, and promised an anti-abortion special session next spring.

Special Session Threat

With the governor promising a November session if they fail to pass a workers' compensation reform bill, the governor and key lawmakers huddled with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Gib Lewis in an effort to break their weeks-long impasse.

Medigap insurance protections made it into the special called session, but an effort to revamp parimutuel racing didn't.

The governor widened the call to prevent elderly Texans from being victimized by unscrupulous Medigap insurance salesmen.

When Clements, who favors the House version, ripped senators for stalling workers' compensation progress, Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, said Clements' remarks were no help in the negotiations.

His vow of a November session did not fall on deaf ears, particularly lawmakers who need to spend some time at home making a living between regular sessions.

Stowers, Trammell marry in Abilene

Laura Anne Zuck Stowers of Arlington, Va. and Jimmy Wayne Trammell of Abilene were united in marriage July 1 at the Highland Church of Christ in Abilene with Max Tipton, pastor of the Abilene Community Church, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Retith Zuck Keahey of Rule and the late Wayne Zuck. The groom's parents are Leona Trammell of Quannah and the late Wilson Trammell.

Given in marriage by her step-father, Coy Keahey, the bride wore a tea-length gown of light blue denim featuring a fitted princess bodice with a dropped waist. Pearls accented the low neckline edged in hand-made lace yoke. Lace also decorated the sleeves and hem.

She carried a bouquet of Texas mixed wild flowers, bluebonnets and yellow tiger lillies.

Serving as matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Linda Patterson of Princeton, Ind. She wore a tea length gown of a soft floral design and carried a bouquet of pastel wild flowers.

Jim Compton of Abilene served as the groom's best man. Ushers were Mark Justice of Fort Worth and Tom Nolan of Abilene.

Following the ceremony, a reception was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Coy Keahey. The bride's cake was two tiered with light blue flowerettes decorating the top tier. The punch was light yellow with heart-shaped ice floats. The groom's table served a chocolate cake shaped as a violin, complementing the groom's talent as a musician, and was decorated in pastel colors. Coffee was served from a silver service set.

After a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple are making their home at 2441 S. 23rd Street in Abilene.

The bride is a graduate of Boswell High School and received a B. A. from Abilene Christian College and a M. A. from Virginia Polytechnic State University. She is a teacher at the Patrick Henry Grade School in Arlington, Va.

Estle Gilleland

Estle Gilleland died Friday in Haskell Memorial Hospital. He was 83.

Funeral services were Saturday afternoon at the First United Methodist Church with the Revs. Truett Kuentler and Kenny Kirk officiating. Burial was in Willow Cemetery, under direction of Holden-McCauley Funeral Home.

Accidental Discovery May End Obesity

WASHINGTON - Obesity may be controlled naturally with a new type of pill, discovered by accident, a research scientist confirmed recently.

In studies, scientists noted an unusual side effect. Patients receiving an ingredient in what is now being called FS-1 all lost weight, while body weight in control groups remained constant.

Scientists say the mechanism behind the weight reduction is not clear, but suggest it is partially due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calorie-rich dietary fats. Although scientists for some time have known of substances with the capability of producing this effect, the dramatic impact on weight reduction was not known until recently.

The director of research and development at National Dietary Research, an organization committed to the investigation and research of nutritional solutions to world-wide health problems, stated, "The mechanism by which FS-1 works to decrease body weight is actually a more complex and sophisticated process called nutri-bonding. When chewed and swallowed immediately before meals, FS-1 releases nutrients with low calorie content into the body, while high-calorie fats are eliminated, thus providing optimum nutrition and a minimum number of calories."

Studies with FS-1 indicate weight loss results clearly superior to products currently available for the treatment of obesity. In a comparative study by NDR, whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, FS-1 was found to be the most effective treatment for obesity and the most acceptable to patients.

The discovery comes as welcome news to thousands of obesity sufferers waiting years for this type of breakthrough. According to a spokesperson at NDR, "FS-1 can be made available to the public immediately, because it is not a drug and contains only natural ingredients recognized as safe. A drug with essentially the same weight loss capabilities might take as long as eight years to be available, due to lengthy delays encountered in the approval process. "FS-1 is currently available on a limited basis through physicians and pharmacies. An instruction sheet for proper use and optimum results is provided with each bottle of 100 tablets.

FS-1 is available in Haskell at:

Scouts attend camp

The Chisholm Trail Boy Scout Council had Webelo summer camps July 8-11 and July 12-16 at Camp Tonkawa.

The first camp was a four-day, three-night extended camp especially for Cub Scouts who had completed the third grade and just joined a Webelo den. This camp highlighted those badges that are earned during the first year as Webelos.

Attending from Pack 136, Den 1, were Aaron Kirk, John Adam Abila, Michael Rodriguez, Josh McWhorter, Sammy Baggot, Will Trammell, Eric Guadalucazar, Brandon Rodella, Chris McSmith and Jim Crawford. Den leader was Kenny Kirk, assisted by Raymond Rodella and Bob Cass.

The July 12-16 camp was a five-day, four-night extended camp especially for Cub Scouts who had completed the fourth grade. It highlighted those badges that are earned during the second year as Webelos and the earning of the Arrow of Light award; thus the theme was "In Search of the Arrow."

Attending from Pack 136, Den 4, were Tim Dewey, Justin Arendall, James Cowperthwait, Greg Rodriguez, Cory Wood, Harrison Druessedow, Joseph Fuentes, Joe Salinas and Ryan Nanny. Leaders were Tom Dewey and Chris Arendall.

Gin trash may have use

For years, cotton producers have sought ways to convert cotton gin trash into money. Now, two Texas Tech University professors and an Austin businessman say they have the solution to that problem.

Reed Richardson, professor of animal science, Richard Tock, professor of chemical engineering, and Charles Sweeney, owner of Biolytic Technology, have developed an economically viable procedure that transforms the trash into cattle and sheep feed.

Cotton trash is the waste that remains after the cotton plant is processed for cotton fibers and seed.

Mr. Goodwrench

Kemp, Copeland exchange vows

Kathy Elaine Kemp and Kelly Wade Copeland were united in marriage June 24 in an afternoon ceremony at the First United Methodist Church in Haskell by Rev. Kenneth Kirk officiating.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Giles M. Kemp of Haskell. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Copeland of Slaton.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a traditional gown of white slipper satin. The fitted bodice was overlaid with illusion and reembodyered venetian lace, encrusted with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. The waistline fringed a petite point, both front and back. Double satin bows adorned with satin cabbage roses and pearls accented the back waistline from which the floor length skirt swept into a chapel train. The entire skirt was edged in scalloped venetian lace graced with seed pearls and sequins.

The decollete neckline was enhanced at each shoulder by double satin bows, satin roses and pearls. Full puffed sleeves heightened the beauty of the gown. The veil, borrowed from a friend, was of French illusion, hand-made, and elaborately applied with Brussels lace motifs embroidered with crystals, seed pearls and sequins and edged with pearl encrusted alencon lace.

The bride's head piece was formed by a halo of Lily of the Valley from which flowed both the modesty veil and full chapel length veil. She carried a bouquet of white and dusty pink satin roses with seed pearls and gypsophila entwined with dusty pink ribbon. Honoring the tradition, the bride chose an antique diamond watch for something old. Something new was her wedding dress and she wore her grandmother's pearl necklace for something borrowed. A traditional blue garter represented something blue.

Maid of honor was Rinette Vincent of Wichita Falls and Jan Sorrells of Lubbock served as bridesmaid. The attendants wore tea length dresses of tropic pink slipper satin. The slightly below waist shaped bodice had a deep rounded neckline, puffed sleeves and a full skirt. Each carried a long stemmed dusty pink satin rose and gypsophila with dusty pink ribbon streamers.

Flower girl Stacie Sorrells of Lubbock wore a rose and teal print dress, styled similar to dresses of the attendants. She carried a white wicker basket with dusty pink satin roses and gypsophila accented with dusty pink ribbon.

The groom chose a grey tuxedo with grey bow tie and cummerbund.

Barry Copeland of Lubbock, brother of the groom, served as best man and groomsman was Bill Stanley of Lubbock. The groom's attendants wore grey tuxedos with rose bow ties and cummerbunds.

Joshua Giles Kemp of Snyder, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. He wore grey slacks, a white shirt with a rose bow tie and cummerbund and carried a white lace pillow with the couple's wedding rings.

The bride's mother chose a royal blue two-piece polyester dress with antique ocean pearl trim. The groom's mothers wore a street length sea-foam green one-piece dropped waist blouson textured silk dress with three quarter length sleeves.

Ushers were Giles Bryan Kemp of Snyder, brother of the bride, and Charlie Smith of Wilson, brother-in-law of the groom.

Mrs. Kenneth Lane, organist, played traditional wedding music and the "Wedding March" as the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. Vocalist Brian Burgess sang "The Wedding Song" after guests were seated and sang "Always" after the bride and groom were standing at the altar.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall. The three tier wedding cake was ivory trimmed in rose and teal blue roses. The top tier sat on Grecian columns adorned with a porcelain bride and groom.

After a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will make their home in Lubbock.

The bride is a graduate of Haskell High School and Texas Tech University.

The groom is a graduate of Texas Tech University.

TAX PLANNING

Richard E. Rodgers, CPA

IRS NOTICES (Know What You're Paying)

The Internal Revenue Service sends out numerous tax deficiency notices which are incorrect. Don't pay additional amounts on your income tax return unless you are satisfied that you owe it.

IRS offices are staffed with ordinary people that make ordinary mistakes. Add to that a computer that can make ordinary computer mistakes and you have the ingredients for improperly mailed notices. Because these notices come from a Federal agency, the average person gives them more credibility than they may deserve.

The Internal Revenue Service is attempting to match certain documents to your social security number and your tax return. If you receive interest, dividends, rents, royalties, or any number of other types of income, you will probably be issued a "1099" information slip identifying the earnings. If the IRS can't readily locate that information on your tax return, they may send you a deficiency notice even though that income may be included somewhere in your tax return.

Don't assume that you owe additional taxes to the IRS just because they send you a statement. Because of the possibilities of both mechanical and human error, it's worth checking to make sure you owe the amount requested.

If you have paid someone to prepare your tax return, give them a copy of "all" correspondence you receive from the Internal Revenue Service, even those which do not request additional taxes. Your tax return preparer needs a full track record of all aspects of your tax return if he's to do an adequate job of representing you. Most IRS notices require a response within a specified number of days; therefore, all correspondence should be given to your accountant as soon as possible.
