Melton re-elected mayor of Haskell

Greg Melton was re-elected mayor of Haskell in Saturday's city election, receiving 101 votes.

Elected to the council were Jill Druesedow with 101 votes, and Ronnie Tanner, who received 77 votes.

All were unopposed.

Outgoing council member Claude Payne, who did not file for re-election, received 12 write-in votes for the council and two writein votes for mayor.

Josselet elected to School Board

Danny Josselet was elected to the School Board and Roger Moeller was re-elected to a threeyear term in the Haskell school election held Saturday.

Moeller topped the vote-getters, receiving 218 votes. Josselet polled 191. The third candidate, incumbent Hollis Calloway, received 135 votes.

Three selected for Boys State

Three Haskell High School juniors have been chosen to represent Haskell at Boys State this summer.

Rusty Stocks, Craig Hansen and Rod Jeter will be the local delegates.

Members of the American Legion, sponsors of Boys State, expresed their appreciation to the businesses, clubs, institutions and individuals for their contributions in making it possible for the local boys to participate.

Shelter

It's rained a lot when a duck seeks shelter under an umbrella, but that appeared to be just what this duck at Rice Springs park was doing last week as the rains continued.

Graduation party plans being made

Tickets are now available for the annual all-sports banquet to be held May 19 in the Civic Center.

Priced at $6 each, the tickets are available at the Sport-About, The Drug Store, at the high school and from any Indian Booster Club member.

Bill Krisher, former all-America football player at the University of Oklahoma, will be banquet speaker.

The all-sports banquet, ponsored by the Indian Booster Club, will honor all Haskell athletes of the past year.

Plant sale set by Rule FFA

Rule FFA members will have a plant sale at their greenhouse Monday, May 14.

All bedding plants and garden plants will be offered at one-half price.

Available will be petunas, perriwinkles, tomatoes and peppers. The sale will be conducted discus at 2 p.m. and Camacho will run in the 3200 meters at 6:15.

Jonathon Dever, in the 400 meters, and the Indian 1600-meter relay team will compete Saturday afternoon. Running events for 2A and 3A schools will begin at noon on Saturday.

Roewe and Camacho warmed up for the big show by winning first places in Abilene last weekend when state qualifiers from all classes of schools met for a practice state---more than 178 feet. There were six throwers in the Abilene meet, representing schools of all classes.

Camacho's first place in the 3200 was the result of a 10:09 effort.

Dever ran a respectable 52.4 in the quarter, while the mile relay team's time of 3:33.8 was considerably above its season best. Relay team members are Dever, Adam Coleman, Jeremy Fuentes and Rodney Johnson.

In addition, there will be merchants' steer saddling, ranch bronc riding and calf scrambles for contestants 7 years and younger, and 8 to 12.

Haskell appreciates teachers

National Teacher Appreciation Neek, which began Monday and will continue through Friday, was created to recognize individuals who have dedicated their lives to the education profession.

"I sincerely believe that an eduator has as great an opportunity to make a positive conribution to society as anyone in any profession," said Greg Melton, assistant principal and history eacher at Haskell Secondary.

Teachers throughout the United States are given salaries that are consistently lower than professionals in comparable fields, yet they continue in the education business.

"I often refer to teaching as missionary work," said Jill Druesedow, English and journalism teacher at Haskell, "because I truly believe it is a call from God to give to His precious children the gift of knowledge."

At Haskell Secondary alone, teachers distribute 1,560 report cards every six weeks for 260 junior high and senior high students and teach 64 different subjects, excluding athletics and physical education.

Twenty-nine eduators teach 452 students at Haskell Elementary School.

"I teach special education because I like the children who have challenges with accomplishments . . . I like the sparkle in Cody Conner's eye," said Jody Sorenson of Haskell Secondary.

Teachers, who play a big part in the lives of America's children, make long-term commitments to their profession and contribute their knowledge to the leaders of tomorrow.

"It's fun to see the kids grow mentally. The feeling that maybe in a small way you helped someone along the way is rewarding," said Walter Hargrove, coach and English teacher.

National Teacher Appreciation Day was Wednesday and was designed to bring attention to the unsung heroes of young people.

"I am teaching because I love people, particularly teenagers. As I watch them mature through exploring their own thought, I feel I have invested in their lives," said Pat Quattlebaum, English teacher and yearbook adviser.

Secondary faculty

Note that the exclusion is on $125,000 of gain, and not $125,000 of sales price. In other words, a residence purchased for $100,000 and sold for $225,000 would go untaxed (if you qualify).

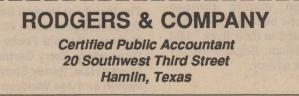

You are also entitled to use this age-55 exclusion in conjunction with the replacement-of-residence tax provision. This is very useful for older people who want to sell their larger family residence and purchase a smaller home.

The following illustrates how a residence that you purchased for $50,000 can be sold for $200,000 without creating a current tax liability. Example:

12,500
187,500
50,000
137,500
125,000
$ 12,500

The $12,500 of gain will not be taxed if your purchase a new residence for $62,500 or more ($12,500 gain plus $50,000 cost of old home) within two years.

Don't apply this tax information to your specific situation without professional assistance.

Governor playing hardball

AUSTIN - A couple of weeks ago, the east coast media sniped that Texas has a weak-governor form of government.

Not the way Gov. Bill Clements plays it.

Last week, the embattled governor stood eye-to-eye with the Texas court system, and the courts blinked first.

Rather than make good a Texas Supreme Court threat to close public schools, and face voter wrath next November, the trial court gave legislators more time to re-divide public school funds.

The extension was a minivictory for Clements, who stood like a Republican rock against protax Democrats on the Supreme Court, in the Senate and House of Representatives, as well as marching teacher groups and a bevy of pro-tax Capitol reporters.

Last Through Summer? Is iy a victory that will last through the summer? Maybe.

The trial court gave lawmakers until May 31 to make the public school finance formula more fair or a special master will do the job for them.

This schedule probably helps Clements and anti-tax lawmakers more than pro-tax members.

Know this: Clements and his allies are not against fair school funding. They oppose new taxes to expand an old system which needs overhauling.

Master Can't Tax

The special court master can draw a plan to redistribute existing dollars between rich and poor districts, but he/she can't raise

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby accused Clements of abdicating to the courts, but legislators have ample time to do the special master's work, which is their job.

Some observers feel there should be two bills: One re-dividing school funds with new taxes and one without. If Clements vetoes the bill with taxes, then he'll surely sign the one without.

The question is, can they do it? Some veteran Capitol-watchers say this Legislature can't do it. The leadership is too frail to trim the budget, too timid to risk glory without new taxes, and too partial to playing political games.

Pitfalls Outlined

Of course, nothing is ever rosy for the Legislature, and even two seemingly simple plans contain pitfalls.

Without new taxes, the inevitable solution must involve taking from the rich school districts to give to the poor ones.

Pro-tax Democrats, led by Port Arthur Sen. Carl Parker, argue that a Robin Hood plan forces school boards to raise local property taxes to make up lost dollars.

Anti-tax lawmakers say not necessarily, if the state streamlines the cost of education and gets back to basics.

The upshot is that no plan is going to be simple, and each one generates plenty of political heat come November elections.

One campaign strategist surmised maybe the best solution is to let the special master draw the plan and then everyone can blame him on the campaign trail.

Observer to Floydada

After federal officials expressed concerns, Texas Secretary of State George Bayoud last week sent an observer to Floydada, a Panhandle town where minorities complained of harassment to keep them from voting in school board and city council elections held May 5.

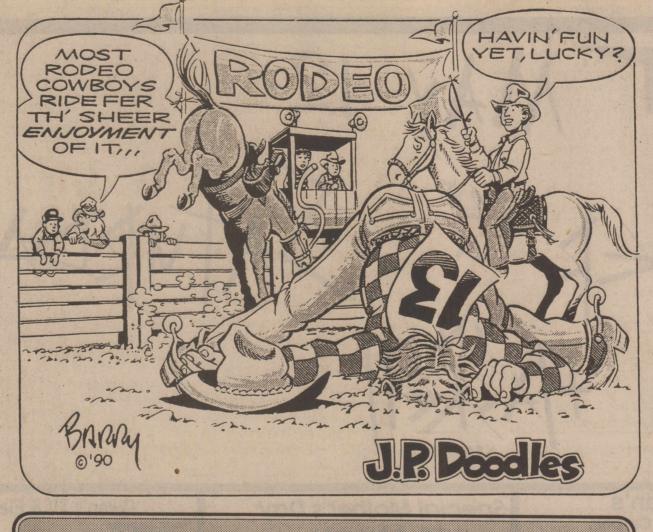

The decision came after the U.S. Justice Department inquired about allegations that some Floydada officials were pressuring Hispanic and black residents to admit they had illegally registered to vote.

Hand on Bible?

McCown, a Democrat, managed a political shot at Clements before his hearing: "I don't know if the governor had his hand on the Bible when he said he would veto the legislation."

The reference was to Clements' response to his lying about the SMU board's illegal payments to football players.

From the May 12, 1900, issue of The Free Press is this news tidbit:

-0-We've all heard of people who eat their words, but a fad in India gives new meaning to the expression. An Indian calligrapher has crammed his country's national anthem, "Jana Gana Mana," onto a single grain of rice.

And it's been authenticated by the Guinness Book of World Records. Guiness doesn't expect this record to stand for long, since more samples of miniature writing on rice are pouring into the publisher's office.

"We've got enough rice now to cook a curry," says deputy editor Nicholas Brown, who confirmed the latest record for "writing minuscule" with a magnifying glass. The composition, 515 letters in all, includes the anthem in Hindi, a saying by the poet Robert Frost and the home address of the calligrapher, Anantha Kumar.

The editor says that media reports about another Indian who set the rice-writing record last year (with a mere 241 letters) have set off a craze in India. That record didn't stand long. It was doubled just as last year's book went to press and there have been several new records since then.

Guiness requires writers to compose a meaningful passage so they don't just repeat skinny letters such as "i's" and "I's" through the text.

The champion of the moment, a 32-year-old from Bangalore in southern India, is an old hand a micro-scribbling. As a teenager, Kumar sketched flowers on a dog's whiskers and scenes form Indian mythology on mustard seeds. His epic rice work is more notable for its length than its beauty. Deft handwork seems to be the trend among the 12 new record holders announced last week by Guinness. A Frenchman achieved 801 consecutive catches with a boomerang. And a man from Missouri managed to hold nine baseballs in one hand. Nor is rice the only canvas for would-be "writing minuscule" entries. A Chinese man has submitted a proverb written on a strand of hair that probably surpasses the old record, says Brown.

laxes The Constitution says only the Legislature can do that.

So it appears that Clements needs only his veto stamp to stop new taxes in this third special session, and a solid GOP bloc in the House to kill override attempts.

McCown Defuses Bomb

State District Judge Scott Mc-Cown is the young man who defused the political bomb.

Not bad for a 35-year-old, firstterm judge presiding over bona fide landmark in Texas history.

Caught between Supreme Court Justice Oscar Mauzy's threat to close schools and Clements' veto, McCown ordered an agenda which threw cold water on hot politics and put lawmakers back on track. "This case is not about a tax increase," he said. Maybe not in his courtroom, but it was and will be eternally in the Editor: On Thursday night, May 3. I attended the Haskell Indian Band concert. I want to let the band members know how much I thoroughly enjoyed their music. It was a delightful two hours spent for anyone who enjoys music of all kinds.

Band

As Band Booster president, I would like to say a special thank you for all the help received this year. Your support has been greatly appreciated.

Backing our children in all their achievements is only one of the many things we can do for them. I am very proud of all the band members and wish them success in their future years.

Let us look forward to a booming band next year and back them all the way.

Sandy Sanford

Thanks so much.

For love of the land

By Bob Waddell District Conservationist Soil Conservation Service

It has been over a half century since the United States embarked on an effort to devise a national program for soil and water conservation. The resulting program has been copied the world over, with particular emphasis on the science and art of proper land management that has been learned in both laboratory and field experience.

The soil and water conservation program in the United States was not, however, just an exercise in science and technology. Instead, it has been an experiment in developing institutions and shaping government to be effective in dealing with the nation's private landowners and opeators.

It has been said many times, but bears repeating: Government programs and government employees do not apply soil conservation practices to private land. Farmers, ranchers, homemakers and all kinds of citizens do. The question is: How are those people going to take the extra time and effort or make the extra investment that good management requires?

The answer that emerged in the mid 1930s was a new unit of local government. It is a special purpose unit of government, with a limited charter and powers. It was (and is) called a soil conservation district. It is operated by locally elected landowners who are responsible for managing the district's program under the laws of the states. It can do many things under the state law to encourage, educate, coordinate and take action to assist the land users within its boundaries.

What actually occurs is often largely a reflection of the dedication, vision and commitment of those elected landowners, commonly known as the district directors.

For example, through their direction over 780,000 feet of terraces have been installed in the last three years in Haskell County. This, of course, is in addition to numerous other conservation practices, sponsoring educational programs, contests and supporting numerous countywide projects.

On behalf of the SCS field office staff, I would like to express our gratitude for the dedication and commitment that the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District directors have provided.

TV program features Haskell

Haskell will be featured Friday on KRBC-TV's "Big Country Spotlight.'

Several local scenes will be shown and there will be interviews with Mayor Greg Melton; Bud Lane, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Suzanne Starr, chairman of the Super 2nd Saturday program; and Joseph Thigpen, chairman of the fly-in breakfast.

The show will air at 5 p.m. on channel 9 in Haskell.

You wanted an outstanding new performer with higher fiber strength and no sacrifice in yields. Now you've got it.

BRONCO 414

The name is Bronco 414. It produces medium-height plants with few vegetative branches and large, storm-resistant bolls in a medium to close fruiting habit.

Bronco 414 is medium in maturity and has a determinate growth habit

Fiber length averages 1 1/32 inch with a premium micronaire. Fiber strength under most growing conditions average 25 grams per tex.

Bronco 414 is ideal for stripper harvest production in both Texas and Oklahoma.

After two successful seasons, Bronco 360 is rapidly gaining in popularity, especially in areas where Lankart varieties are grown. That's because Bronco 360 gives you earlier maturity and better fiber strength.

BRONCO 360

Bronco 360 is a medium-height plant with compact to semi-compact fruiting habit and large storm-proof bolls.

Fiber strength under normal growing conditions has topped 25 grams per tex.

> Fiber length ranges from 1 inch to 1 1/32 inch with a premium micronaire.

> This stripper variety is well suited for the Central and Rolling Plains of Texas, as well as Oklahoma.

Rochester band gets first division

The Rochester Steer Band received the coveted first division trophy for superior performance at the 20th annual Music Festival hosted last Thursday by the Sandy Lake Amusement Park in North Dallas.

The festival hosted more than 1,000 bands from a five-state area during the 29 days of competition.

Judges commented that Rochester "has a well-trained group and that the band has a good musical concept of how to give expression and beauty to the music." They added, "This shows the positive results of good teaching here. Nothing to really suggest today; you have already done it."

Each year, the festival draws nationally known judges from around the U.S. Judges this year were Dr. Bill Moffit, who has directed bands at the University of Houston and the University of Michigan and is now the composer laureatte of the State of Illinois, and Dr. W. Francis McBeth, chairman of the department of music at Ouachita College in Arkadelphia, Ark., who has written a number of band works for high school and college bands.

The Rochester band is directed by Cindy Friley.

Commodities given out today

Surplus food commodities will be given out today (Thursday) in Rule and Haskell. They will be given in Rochester next Tuesday.

In Rule, distribution will be from 9 to 10 a.m. at the Church of Christ. In Haskell, the distribution will be from 8 to 10 a.m. at the Experienced Citizens Center.

In Rochester Tuesday, distribution will be made between 8 and 9 a.m. at the fire department.

Commodities should include butter, peanut butter, vegeterian beans, canned pork, flour, raisins and green beans.

Officers installed by teachers' group

The Beta Chi Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International met April 29 in the fellowship hall of the United Methodist Church in Knox City.

President Jackye Leonard called the meeting to order and Ida Jo Owens, ceremonial chairman, conducted the installation of new officers of the 1990-92 biennium by reading the duties of each officer and having each one to light a small red candle from the large red candle signifying the unity of working together as "key women teachers" of the chapter and the Society.

The new officers are:

President, Phyllis Letz of Old Glory; first vice president, Maribeth Williams of Knox City; second vice president, Janice Dutton of Munday; recording secretary, Catherine Bartley of Haskell; corresponding secretary, Lillian Hicks of Rochester; treasurer, Margaret Chafin of Knox City; and parliamentarian, Jackye Leonard of Rule.

The ceremony concluded with the singing of the "Delta Kappa Gamma Song.'

After the reading of the minutes, the president recognized those who had been members for 40 years or more, Margie Lott, Marie Ward, Mable Derr, Rozelle Wilkinson, Mary Holden, Exa Faye Penman, Lillian Logan, Maurice Stone and Erma Liles, a member for 52 years.

The Red Rose Salute in the form of a framed certificate created by Janice Dutton was presented by Mrs. Dutton to outgoing president Jackye Leonard. A similar one was then presented to Mrs. Dutton by Mrs. Leonard for her creativity. Then Vida White presented the Beta Chi 1990 "Woman of the Year" achievement award, a beautiful engraved plate, to outgoing president Leonard. The Founders' Day observance

Mrs. Christian was dressed in black, with black and white hat and black gloves, as Dr. Blanton could have been dressed when she invited 11 "key women teachers" from kindergarten to college professors from various sections of the state to meet with her in Austin and founded Delta Kappa Gamma on May 11, 1929. "Dr. Blanton" was interviewed was directed by Melodee Christian, by Gerre Larned. The time was near the end of Dr. Blanton's life. She was the first woman in the South to run for and be elected to a major political office when she became Texas State Superintendent of Public Instruction. She had been advised by her brother, Congressman Thomas Blanton, not to run.

The interview revealed that Dr. Blanton was truly a pioneer for women' rights. She demanded that women receive "equal pay for equal work." She was endorsed by Texas State Teachers Association, and her influence spread to other states as she served on various boards.

She had the ability to tell a good story to get her point across. Her advice to teachers was "know what you are doing" and "plan ahead." She was a radical for her time but feminine enough never to tell her

Dorothy Myers, scholarship chairman, announced that scholarships for 1990 had been awarded to Alice Jones, Maribeth Williams and Phyllis Letz and that an Alpha State Scholarship had been awarded to Alice Jones, a first for a Beta Chi member.

Members were encouraged to attend the 61st Alpha State Convention at the Lubbock Convention Center June 14-16.

Funds available in state budget for school reforms

By Bill Clements Governor of Texas Our public education system provides the foundation of learning for millions of Texas youngsters. Our educators teach lessons that help shape our children's thinking, lessons that carry them through life. Certainly, every Texan wants our system of education to lead the nation in excellence. We all want schools, that guarantee every youngster the opportunity to succeed to the best of their ability.

Reaching that goal is truly possible. Through a combination of increased spending and comprehensive reforms, our schools can distinguish themselves among America's finest. Let no one doubt, Texas must and will spend more on public education, especially our poorer school districts.

That's why I continue to endorse a bi-partisan plan whose goal is to increase funding to these districts by more than $4 billion over the next five years. This blueprint would not tie the hands of future legislatures by requiring them to come up with added funding. Instead, it would provide a framework for them to use.

Because of legislation I signed last summer, nearly a half billion dollars in additional funds has been set aside for our property poor schools. In fact, this money is already flowing. I have called on our Legislature to increase that amount by $250 million for the upcoming school year.

To pay for this increase, I have identified surplus funds in nonessential areas of our state's current $49 billion budget. Let me emphasize that these excess funds are sitting in the state treasury and can be readily targeted at public education. In all, my proposals would involve the transfer of less than one percent of funds in the budget---a move that would not impact services in any manner whatsoever.

Still, some members of the Legislature have fought our recommendations. Instead, lawmakers have passed a bill that would increase our sales tax to an all-time high, making it the second highest in America behind Connecticut. The average Texas family already pays more than $1,200 in state sales taxes annually, either dirctly or indirectly. If the Legislature had its way--which it won't---that amount would jump to $1,300.

I cannot and will not accept that, not while other funding options exist and certainly not while the money we need is available in the state budget. When faced with a financial crisis, Texans adjust their household budgets. State government should do no less. Raising taxes is the easy way out, but it's not the only way and certainly, it's not the right way.

Furthermore, in its ruling in the education law suit known as Edgewood vs. Kirby, the Texas Supreme Court specifically noted that it was not ordering the Legislature to raise taxes. The court called for wholesale reform of our public school system, which should be at the heart of our actions.

For these reasons, I have vetoed the Legislature's tax bill and I am renewing my call for dramatic steps to improve public education in our state. Spending more on our schools is important, but every parent knows that money alone is not the answer. For years, our educators have been burdened by excessive government red tape and paperwork. It's time that was changed. I urge our Legislature to pass reforms that free our schools of the stranglehold of mandates imposed by state government in Austin. Let's return control to you---parents, teachers and taxpayers---at be allowed to pass the buck---either to the next Legislature or to local property taxpayers. Furthermore, to protect property taxpayers, I support legislation that is at the very cornerstone of local control--and that is allowing voters to approve any increase in their local tax rates. There is no time to waste on the

Moreover, the Legislature's attempt at education "reform" would saddle our state with at least a $6.1 billion deficit over the next four years. Even their proposed sales tax increase, which would raise only $600 million a year, would fall far short of paying for their "reforms." Our curent Legislature must not issue of education reform. The Legislature mut act quickly. I urge lawmakers to adopt true reforms as soon as possible so that every school in our state remains open and so the dedicated men and women who teach our students are paid on time. What's needed is a spirit of bi-partisanship and teamwork. In partnership, Texans can do what's right---for our youngsters, for you, for all of Texas.

Record keeping

A new law being implemented over the next five years is expected to transform local government record keeping from bound books of paper and ink to computer disks and microfilm.

The Texas Local Government Records Act is designed to protect permanently valuable records of all local offices and to allow disposition of records of a more temporary nature.

Cattle prices

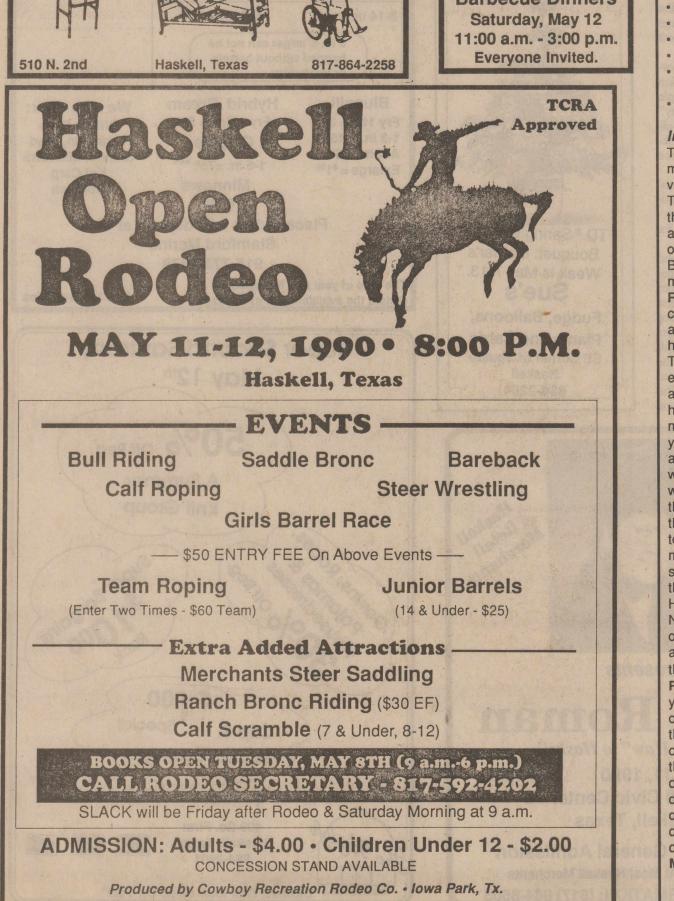

Beef cattle prices to the producer during the next two years are predicted to continue near current levels, the highest in about a decade.

Dr. Ernest E. Davis, economist in livestock marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said producer prices generally will remain at today's levels, although some seasonal fluctuations will occur.

Property Tax Protest and Appeal Procedures

The law gives property owners the right to protest actions concerning their property tax appraisals. You may follow these procedures if you have a concern about:

by contacting your appraisal district, Haskell County Appraisal District, 604 North First, Haskell, Texas 79521, (817) 864-3805. You can also get a pamphlet describing how to prepare a protest from the appraisal district or from the State Property Tax the value placed on your porperty; exemptions that may apply to you; cancellations of agricultural appraisal; whether your property is taxable; which local governments should be taxing your property; or

• you think the appraisal district has done something else that adversely affected you. Informal Process:

Taxpayers are encouraged to make an appointment with an appraiser to discuss their property value. This may be done by calling (817)864-3805. They should bring information to substantiate why they feel that their property value is incorrect. The appraiser will discuss their property and may recommend an adjustment to the Appraisal Review Board. If the taxpayer is satisfied with the adjustment, he does not have to appear before the ARB. Review by the Appraisal Review Board: If you can't resolve your problem informally with the appraisal district staff, you may have your case heard by the appraisal review board.

The appraisal review board (ARB) is an independent board of citizens that reviews problems with appraisals and other concerns listed above. They have the power to order the appraisal district to make the necessary changes to solve problems. If you file a written request for an ARB hearing (called a notice of protest) before the deadline, the ARB will set your case for a hearing. You'll receive written notification of the time, date, and place of the hearing.) The hearing will be informal. You and the appraisal district representative will be asked to present evidence about your case. The ARB will make its decision based on the evidence presented. You can get a copy of a protest form from the appraisal district office at 604 North First, Haskell, Texas.

Note: You shouldn't try to contact ARB members outside of the hearing. The law requires you to sign an affidavit saying that you haven't done so before the ARB hears your case.

Review by the District Court: After it decides your case, the ARB must send you a copy of its order by certified mail. If you're not satisfied with the decision you have the right to appeal to district court. If you choose to go to court, you must start the process by filing a petition within 45 days of the date you receive the ARB's order. If the appraisal district has appraised your property at $1,000,000 or more, you must file a notice of appeal with the chief appraiser within 15 days of the date you receive the ARB's order.

Emily Cox

Emily Cox graduates with honors

Emily Cox was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh School of Pharmacy on April 28. She will continue her education at the University of South Carolina where she has been accepted into the doctorate of pharmacy administration program.

At commencement exercises, Cox received the Student Leadership award. This award is given by the Alumni Association to two senior students in recognition of personal contributions which have enriched the academic and extracurricular life of the school and its students at the University of Pittsburgh.

The faculty of the School of Pharmacy also honored Cox with the Upjohn award, which is given to a graduating senior who has demonstrated leadership through participation in extracurricular activities while maintaining academic quality.

Cox also won a second place in the Swanson Community Pharmacy award essay contest.

While at the University of Pittsburgh, Cox served as class president her junior year and copresident her senior year.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cox Jr. of Haskell, attended the graduation ceremonies and award banquets. Also attending wer Paul Cox of Evanston, Ill., Sarah Cox Snailum of Abilene and John Cox of Houston.

One girl and two boys will represent Rule in the state track meet.

Mary Dessivia qualified in both the 100-meter dash and the long jump. She won first in both events in the regional meet.

Kyle Wilson and Keith Vanderbilt will represent the Bobcat boys' team.

Wilson came in second in the discus with a throw of 155-6, while Vanderbilt came in second in the long jump at 22-2.

Applicator training planned

Haskell County farmers who have not yet qualified for their state pesticide applicator licenses will have another chance to meet requirements for licensing during a training scheduled Thursday, May 17, in Anson.

The course will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the Extension Homemakers building, 801 23rd St.

The Texas Department of Population: 3,400 to 75,000

For a good portion of 100 years, the townspeople of Canton, Texas, tried to put a stop to it - the phenomenon called "First Monday Trades Day." On the first Monday of each month, thousands of folks from all over would arrive in this northeast Texas community to buy, sell and trade. At first the commodities were primarily horses, then pigs, then dogs, then ... accompanied by the mess left behind.

Today, First Monday is billed as "the world's largest flea market," with over 5,000 vendors stationed on 100 acres the first weekend of each month. The size of the shopping crowd varies, but averages between 50,000 and 75,000.

So, what can you find at First Monday?

Everything. The site is a veritable zoo of priceless antiques, glassware and china, farm tools, furniture, refrigerators, washing machines, ducks, pigs, geese, sun tea at 50 cents a glass, "Pappy Joe" Butts chain saw art, jewelry (antique, handmade, fake or real), paintings, mirrors, doors, handmade or woodcrafted everything, old and new everything, baskets, bicycles, perhaps even a new wife.

Legend tells a tale of two men who came to First Monday and took a liking to the other's wife, then marched into the district judge's court, obtained divorces, remarried and went home with new spouses.

There are several versions of how First Monday began. The first Monday of the month was the day the district judge arrived and convened his court. A state law required that all stray horses be brought into Canton and auctioned to the highest bidder. People came from all around to participate, eventually bringing their own horses, excess crops, and anything else to sell or trade. Hence, "First Monday Trades Day," or "Horse Monday."

Another tale claims that the custom originated in the South over 200 years ago, as there are First Monday Trades Days in Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia. There is a Canton, Georgia. The custom may have come from there.

As the years passed, the town of Canton's population increased, and the townspeople began to look upon the event with disdain, dreading the filth and confusion that descended upon their city one weekend per month. Canton townsfolk passed a city ordinance prohibiting trade in the outside city limits and held the dog trading there.

By the early 1960s, First Monday crowds ranged between 5,000 and 10,000. One homeowner tried to keep people off her property by patrolling with a broom. A dealer offered to rent space from the broomswinger, and she wound up renting her entire lot and reported making $75-$100 every First Monday."

Ahhhh. A sudden change overtook the community as the residents, who had felt such acrimony at this bothersome event, realized the monetary value of such a venture. Soon, Canton residents were renting out space on their property, even charging 25 cents per person for use of their bathrooms.

As the numbers of vendors increased, traders began arriving the Sunday before First Monday. The churches complained, but the crowds grew regardless. The event had gained such notoriety that feature stories appeared in Life, Look and the Saturday Evening Post. Despite the great press, sanitation was a appalling problem. People were sleeping in their cars and trucks, and trash and clutter were everywhere. Canton's mayor and city council decided that something must be done. In 1965, the city purchased six acres of land and designated it as a trading area. Rental fees were charged, depending upon the type of merchandise offered for sale or trade. That first six acres was just the beginning.

Today, the city-owned area covers 100 acres and includes over 5,000 vending spaces, 15 miles of paved walkways, two First Monday offices and seven restroom facilities with showers. The parking lots alone cover another 100 acres.

Dealers are allowed to set up on Thursdays prior to the sale, which now begins on Friday before the First Monday of the month. Throughout Texas, the event is now nicknamed "First Weekend."

Potential shoppers should note that there is more to do in the area than merely buy, sell and trade. If you love roses, Tyler, "The Rose Capital of Texas," is just a short drive away. Tyler's Rose Festival is in mid-October, which, weatherwise, is a great time to make the trip. The city's 22-acre rose garden is the nation's largest rose showcase, featuring 38,000 rose bushes representing nearly 500 varieties. For information, call 214/592-1661.

If you're into fishing and camping, Canton is near four large lakes, Cedar Creek Reservoir, Lake Tawakoni, Lake Fork Reservoir and Lake Palestine. Two state parks are nearby, with great fishing and wellkept campgrounds. Call Purtis Creek State Park, 214/425-2332; or Tyler State Park, 214/597-5338.

As for lodging, in Canton, there are several recreational vehicle parks, three motels and two bed and breakfasts. The nearby towns of Athens, Tyler, Terrell, Wills Point, Kaufman, Grand Saline, Van, and Mabank offer more. Commercially operated campgrounds are also in the vicinity. For information and a complete list of are lodging facilities, contact the First Monday offices, 214/567-6556 or 214/567-2426.

streets, but the crowds were too large for the small city's law enforcement capabilities.

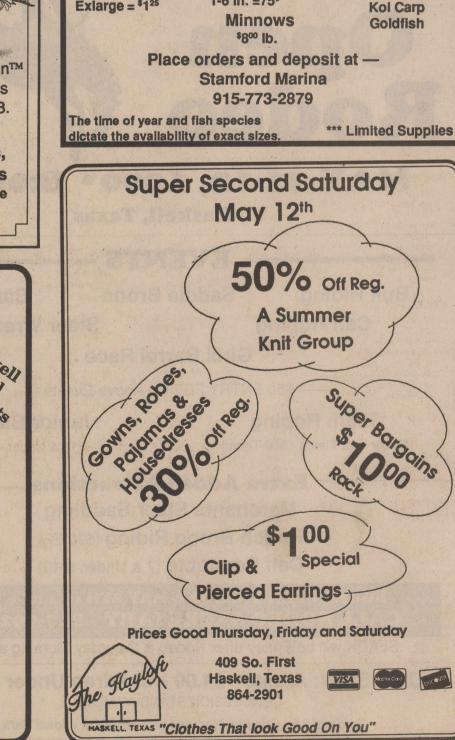

By the 1930s, when the importance of horses as transportation began to decline, the townspeople presumed that "Horse Monday" would fade like an old nag, but out-ofstate buyers continued to arrive looking for fast horses for their race tracks.

Meanwhile, Canton's local farmers were gaining a reputation for producing the cleanest and finest pigs. Buvers began coming not just for horses, but for oinkers.

And dogs. In the early '50s and '60s, the whole town seemed besieged by sellers of every breed, from hound dogs to Russian setters. First Monday become known as "Dog Monday." The horrified residents complained that after the event, unsold dogs were set free to roam the streets. A city ordinance was passed that banned dogs at trades day. But someone bought three acres of land

Perennial flowers are a mainstay of our gardens. Year after year, their colorful flowers and beautiful foliage return to adorn our yards. And, best of all, they generally require little help from us to keep them coming back.

To have a pretty garden or bed, we can first plant a dominant color in the spring, another in the summer, and another in the fall. Some of the most common perennial flowers in the spring are yellow, blue and white. Later in July, some lavendar can compliment our yellows as an artist pallette.

If we want a lot of flowers, but would prefer to spend summer Saturdays admiring them rather than weeding and watering, we need to consider planting perennials. Once established these hardy plants grow back year after year.

Before deciding what perennials we want, we should think about our yard. Where do we spend our time outdoors? What areas do we see from our windows?

Day lilies are an excellent perennial for adding a splash of color to our yards. They're easy to grow also.

If you've been browsing through nursery catalogues and still can't decide, the following plants are good for beginners because they grow without coddling and bloom well.

There are over a thousand varieties of day lilies. They bloom three or four weeks and require partial shade and sun.

Chinese Lantern is often grown as an annual but it can be grown as a perennial even in cold areas. It has a red lantern-like fruit which adds a brightness to the winter gloom. It dries nicely for arrangements.

Oriental Poppy has a special place in the perennial garden. Its season for blooming is short, but once started it requires little care.

Garden phlox blooms almost all summer. If garden red spider mites get on the phlox, spray with a forceful spray of water.

For a nice ornamental grass, plant Pampas grass. It grows easily from seeds. The fast dense of growth makes it an effective screen for unsightly areas.

Because perennials are pictured beautifully in catalogues, it's tempting to order a lot of plants. But it is wiser to start small. One approach is to find out what your neighbors are growing, because most perennials grow best if they are divided about every three years.

When planting perennials, dig holes large enough to not crowd the roots. Use a good mulch-spoiled straw, chopped leaves or compost and place it around the plant just up to the crown of the plant.

I have a hint to pass on about using a plastic soda straw for your pot plants. Make a hole in the potting soil and push the straw down to the root zone. Cut the straw just above soil level to keep dirt out. This gives the roots air as well as water.

Here is a recipe that is extremely effective in killing aphids: 1 large strong onion (not sweet), 1 whole garlic, 4 tablespoons cayenne pepper, 2 quarts of water. Cut the onion and garlic, boil all items until soft. Strain through cheesecloth and put in bottles (spray bottles).

Use on roses, oleanders, broccoli, cabbage and gourds. It is completely harmless to humans. Now to have our hands soft and

First, wash hands in cold water, Then rub thoroughly with a mixture of 1 tsp sugar, 1 tsp lemon juice, 1 tsp oil (olive or cooking). It will remove stains also.

Have fun this summer, I'll be back in September.

Publication puts focus on travel

The first issue of a new travel publication for Texas was issued this month in Mason.

Traveling Historic Texas features the Texas Hill Country towns of Fredericksburg, Mason and Burnet and their associated frontier forts in its premiere issue. "Every other month we'll visit another historic area of Texas and look at historic sites, museums and attractions located in historic structures," said publisher Larry D. Hodge.

Hodge, a frequent contributor to Texas Highways magazine, says he started the new publication to give more coverage to historic sites in Texas. "There is rising interest in Texas history and in travel," Hodge said. "By the year 2000, travel is expected to be the No. 1 industry in the United States. Texas has a great deal to offer the traveler who is interested in history, and we intend to inform people of as many historic sites as we can."

The next issue of Traveling Historic Texas is due out in June Hodge said, and will feature the Del Rio area. "Val Verde County has one of the largest concentrations of prehistoric rock art in the world," Hodge noted.

Traveling Historic Texas is available by subscription from the publisher at Box 1280, Mason, TX

4-H club gives program at Weinert

The Weinert Extension Homemakes met May 1 in the Weinert school with Cordie Cunningham as hostess.

Jimmie Weinert called the house to order, due to the absence of Betty Sanders, president.

The hostess read a poem, "The Clock of Life," and a reading, "Thank You For Today," and members repeated the TEHA prayer. Seven member answered the roll by revealing "How I am improving my health." The minutes were read and approved and Alice Yates gave the council report.

Attending the district meeting in Rotan April were Alice Yates, Faye Jetton and Jimmie Weinert. All enjoyed the day.

The program for the day was the Weinert 4-H Club boys and girls, Two boys, T. Nichols III and Heath Guess, talked and demonstrated how to make a portable picnic table. Timmy Perez and Nathan Sikes talked and showed posters on electricity.

Dusty Yates and Chariss Felty talked and showed posters on "Learn How to Burn." Jayce Yates and Andrew Sikes talked and showed posters on "smoking."

The club worked on getting its name list and everything ready for the calendars, and members voted to give $25 to the senior graduation punch were served to Alice Yates, Jimmie Weinert, Faye Jetton, Alta McGuire, Agnes Winchester, Myrtle Phemister, Mary Murphy, Cordie Cunningham and the 4-H members.

by Vicky Anderson Jeffrey Murray, son of Ed and Charlene Murray, celebrated his seventh birthday in the Rule Park with a birthday party. The Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle theme was used. Classmates of Jeffrey attended, also his parents and brother and sister, Michael and Jennifer. Those attending Jeffrey's birthday party were Justin Coker, Danny Herrera, Candace Kendall, Lorie Martinez, Abby Navarette, Tony Navarette, Eugenia Puebla, Josh Smith, Stephanie Stephens, Charlotte Coker and Ed, Charlene, Michael and Jennifer Murray.

On Sat., April 28, Ed, Charlene, Michael, Jeffrey and Jennifer Murray attended a surprise birthday party in Hamlin. The party was for Mrs. Murray's mother, Mrs. Alton Clem, and was given by her children and grandchildren.

On May 1, Vicky Anderson stopped by the Robbie Peisers in Haskell to see their new arrival, Lacey Blain, who was born April 10. She has two proud bigger sisters: Breann and Burgen. She is really a pretty baby with lots of black hair. Her mother, Charlotte, was a former co-worker of Vicky at Stamford Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dunnam attended the funeral of an uncle in Pilot Point last week.

On May 3rd, your writer, a granddaughter, Lezli Jenkins of Rule and Valeta Mullins from Hamlin visited Pat and Tommy Gray in Stamford. Visiting also was the Gray's daughter, Marka Wilcox and her husband, Mike, from Hamlin. The Grays looked at the albums of Mrs. Mullins and Mrs. Anderson's recent trip to Washington D.C.

Sympathy is extended to J. C. Lewis and family upon the death of his wife, Juana.

Joy McKeever and Julie Roewe

Haskell athletes recognized at UTA

A couple of former Haskell High School athletes received honors May 1 at the University of Texas at Arlington.

Julie Roewe and Joy McKeever were recognized for their accomplishments during the annual UTA athletic banquet.

Roewe was honored as the "Outstanding Newcomer" to the Lady Mavericks' basketball team. A junior, she was second leading scorer on the team with a 9-point average, helping the Lady Mavs qualify for the Southland Conference Tournament for the first time.

Julie tansferred to UTA last year after two outstanding seasons at Western Texas College.

Joy, a freshman and a member of the UTA track team, was recognized as a "scholar/athlete." The award is presented to athletes who maintain at least a 3.5 average.

Joy will compete March 19-21 in the 100-meter hurdles and 200meter dash at the Southland Conference Championship Meet in San Marcos.

Julie is the daughter of Conrad daughter of Eddie and Billie McKeever.

Both were valedictorians of their HHS graduating classes, Julie in 1987 and Joy in 1989.

Church youth to sell chicken here Saturday

Youth of East Side Baptist Church will have a "Super Chicken Sale" on the courthouse square Saturday.

The group will offer chicken dinners and chicken pieces, as well as whole, half and quarter chickens, along with potato salad, beans, homemade cakes and pies and lemonade.

The sale will begin at 8 a.m. and will continue as long as it is practical.

Members of the group point out that buying from them will be an excellent way for people to purchase their Mother's Day dinners and give Mom the day off on her

Agent attends training

Lou Gilly, Haskell County extension agent/home economics, was among 23 county extension agents, extension homemakers and other community leaders who attended the special Family Community Leadership (FCL) training in Anson April 25.

Participants came from 13 counties in the Rolling Plains-3 Extension District.

The FCL training process is a unique concept designed to strengthen specific leadership skills. FCL is an educational program primarily for teaching women leadership and public policy decision-making skills which they can, in turn, teach to other groups of citizens in the county.

The program is aimed at the effective participation of women and other family members in resolving important family-related public issues. These issues may include anything that affects the quality of family life, ranging from the availability of day care to educational opportunities or the adequacy of the water supply in the community.

Student selected for program

Michael Rodriguez, 1988 Haskell High School salutatorian, has been selected to attend the Minority Leaders Fellowship Program in Washington, D.C., this summer.

The selection process is highly competitive with only 50 students chosen from all across the nation.

Rodriguez was nominated for the program by the University of North Texas.

The purpose of the program is to encourage leadership among outstanding miniority students.

NOTICE OF PETITION FOR WAIVER

Notice is hereby given that Brazos Electric Power Cooperative, Inc. (Brazos Electric), a wholesale generation and transmission electric utility, and the following Brazos Electric member retail distribution electric utilities ("Members"), Bartlett Electric Cooperative, Inc., Belfalls Electric Cooperative, Inc., B-K Elec-ric Cooperative, Inc., Comanche County Electric Cooperative Assn., Denton County Electric Cooperative, Inc., Dickens Electric Cooperative, Inc., Erath County Electric Cooperative Assn., Fort Belknap Electric Cooperative, Inc., Gate City Electric Cooperative, inc., Hamilton County Electric Cooperative Assn., Mill Cooperative, Inc., Tri-County Electric Cooperative Assn., Mill Electric Cooperative, Inc., I-A-C Electric Cooperative Assn., Navarro County Electric Cooperative, Assn., McLennan County Electric Cooperative, Inc., Mid-South Electric Cooperative Assn., Navarro County Electric Cooperative, Inc., Navasola Valley Elec-ric Cooperative, Inc., Tri-County Electric Cooperative, Inc., and Wise Electric Cooperative, Inc., have filed a Petition for Waiver with the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("PUC"). In the petition, assigned Docket No. 9453, Brazos Electric requests waiver of the obligation to sell retail power to qualifying the Members seek a waiver of their obligations to purchase power directly from OFs. These obligations are contained in PUC Substantive Rule 23.66(d)(1)(A) and 23.66(d)(2), as well as 18 C.F.R. 292.303(a) and (b).

The proposed waivers will not impair the ability of QFs to sell electric capacity and energy or to purchase electric capacity and energy. In the territory served by Brazos Electric and its above-listed Members (63 counties throughout Texas), Brazos Elec-tric will assume the obligation for all purchases of QF generated electricity and the Members will assume all obligations for sales to QFs of capacity and energy. Only duplicate obligations which would otherwise be applicable to both Brazos Electric and its above-listed Members are proposed to be eliminated.

Reciprocal waivers of the type requested by Brazos Electric and its above-listed Members have recently been granted by the Feder-al Energy Regulatory Commission. The proposed waivers will not discourage cogeneration and small power production. Members' avoided cost can never be more than Brazos Electric's avoided cost pecause the Members purchase all of their wholesale power requirements from Brazos Electric.

The proposed waivers are subject to approval by the PUC. An Original Petition for Waiver specifying in detail each proposed waiver, the reasons waivers are being requested, and the effect of waiver is available at the general offices of Brazos Electric in Waco, Texas, and at an office of each of its above-listed Members in Waco, 1 Members.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the PUC as soon as possible. The deadline for intervention is June 18, 1990. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further infor-mation may also be obtained by calling the PUC Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 OR (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

by Myrtle Phemister The weather brought us an inch of rain since last reported, a cold front that dropped the temperature down to 40 degrees, and Sunday, the most beautiful day anyone could ask for. Today we are promised 85 degree weather, sunny and dry, which the farmers will appreciate.

Our belated birthday greetings to Jerry Walker, Gus Rueffer, Ed Murphy, Ricky Harlan, David Pena, Sr., and Donald Griffis who all celebrated last week.

This week Bennie Horan, Bertie Alexander, Donita Hudgens, Myrle Alexander and Dora Brueggeman will celebrate a birthday. Happy birthday, all.

Congratulations to Dianne Carroll and Cayce Reed who were married on Sat., May 5. Celebrating wedding anniversaries will be Harlan and Jimmie Weinert and Brian and Vickie Adams. Congratulations to all!

Ernest McGuire is home from the hospital following the heart attack he suffered last week, and is recovering slowly.

We have several who are sick at home with colds, flu and other problems. We continue our prayers for a quick recovery for all our sick.

The Weinert Church of Christ hosted the First Sunday singing of area churches on Sunday with a good crowd, despite the other attractions in the county. There were ten cities represented with song leaders from most of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mahan hosted the monthly church fellowship dinner at the noon hour in their home.

Out of town guests included Bob

Other guests included Carolyn of the Weinert church and who is now serving the church in LaPerr, Michigan. Mr. Andress is vocational director for Disability Resource, Inc. of Abilene.

Raymon and Janice Boykin of Vernon were also present, and spent the weekend with his mother, Helen Boykin.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerry Therwhanger of Megargel, and Mr. and Mrs. Deryl Bribs, with Nathan, Kerri, Jason and Joshua of Odessa were weekend guests of their parents, Dale and Doris Carroll, and attended the wedding of their sister, Dianne, on Sat. afternoon.

Becky Fry returned to Bowie on

Fri. after spending several days with her parents, Ernest and Louise McGuire. ***

Doris Ann Smith, of Medina Childrens Home in Medina dropped by for a visit after bringing her mother, Grace Hutchinson, to her home in Munday.

Grace is recuperating from a stroke and has been in Medina for a few weeks with Doris and Joel.

Pearlie Alexander spent last week in Slaton with her sister-inlaw, Mary Robison, and they spent a lot of time at the hospital in Lubbock with a niece, Earline Henzler who is undergoing chemotherapy.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hager met good friends Sidney and Butch Pharr of Cisco in Weatherford on Sat. and had a nice visit together.

Donnie Harbers, pastor of the Baptist Church spent the week in Slaton last week where he was

Certified Public Accountants

Darwin Slade of Eager, Arizona was inducted into the Arizona Coaches Hall of Fame last week. His wife, the former Ethelyne Sanders, and his children and grandchildren attended the ceremony and initiation dinner with him, but his Texas family was unable to be with him. We extend hearty congratulations!

Mr. and Mrs. Woody Turnbow were in Weatherford for a weekend with their daughter, Twyla Sorrells and her family.

Congratulations are in order for our 4-H club that brought home many ribbons from the Regional 4-H competition held in Wichita Falls on Sat.

There were four method demonstrations teams entered in the contest with the titles being "No Smoking", "Fire Safety", "A Portable Picnic Table".

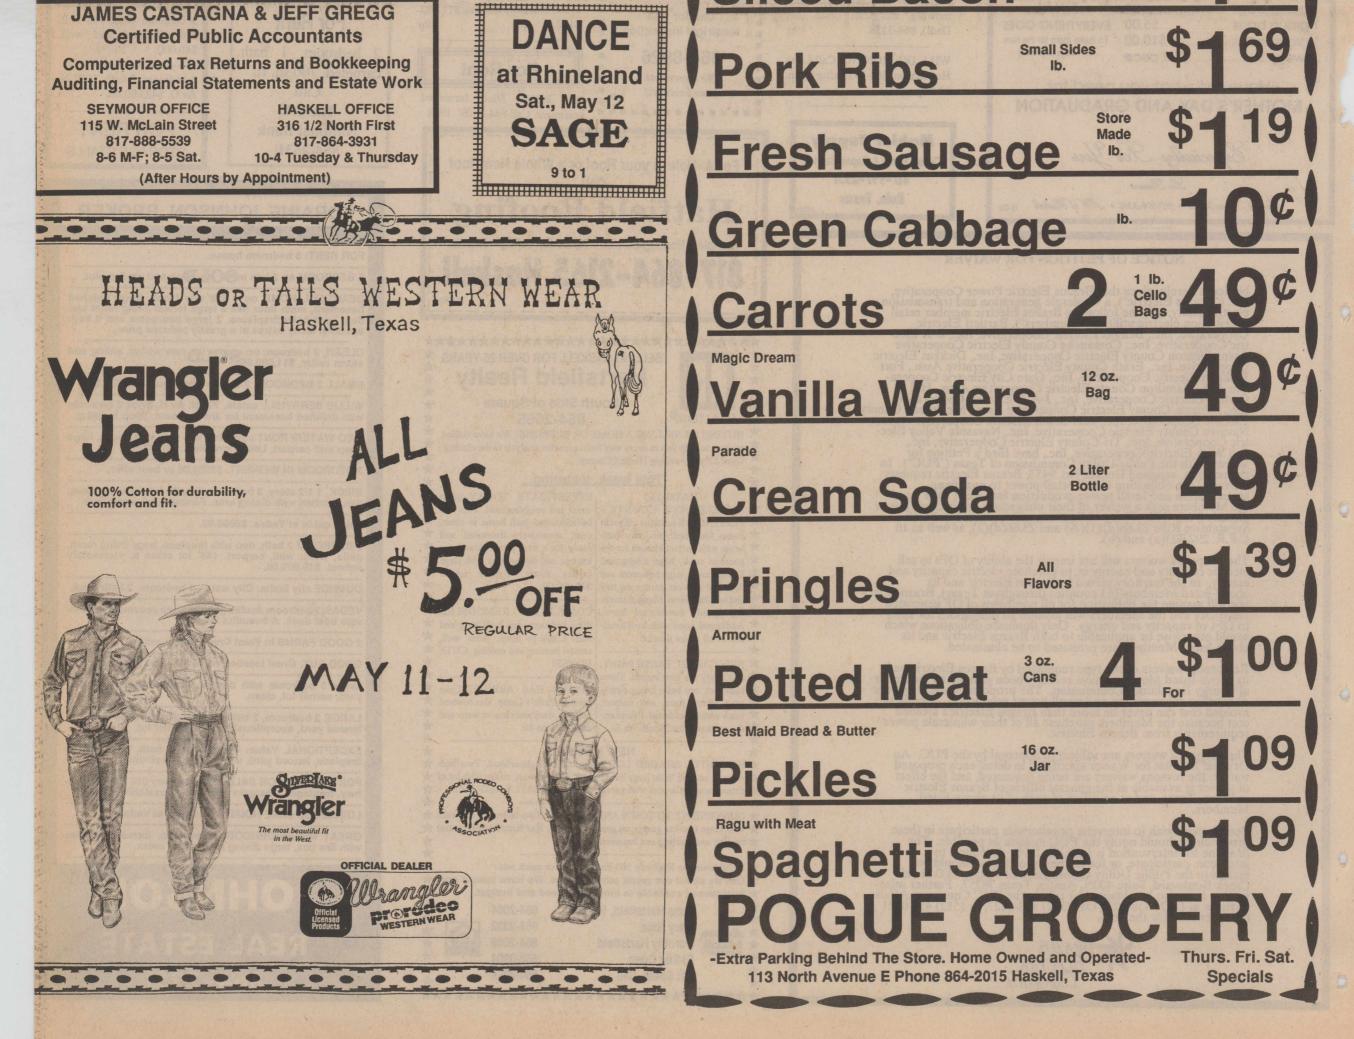

Heather Guess sang a song "Wind Beneath My Wings" and Christy Horan gave a talk on "The advantages of living in a small town".

Other young people attending included Andrew and Nathan Sikes, Heather and Heath Guess, Jace and Dusty Yates, Cherie Faulty and T. Nichols.

Mrs Alice Yates and Mrs. Ed Murphy are adult leaders, and others in the group were Sandra Nichols, Cindy Guess, David and Shirlene Sikes.

It was a great day for all to get to be on the Midwestern campus and hear all the speeches and the talent that was demonstrated.

Weinert school children were all entered in the track meet hosted on Monday by the Rochester school.

Donald Griffis was honored on his 50th birthday with a party hosted in the home of Christine and Boyd Meers of Munday on Sat. night.

Besides his own family, special guests included the members of the 1958 graduating class who chose this occasion, for a time of reunion before the regular Weinert homecoming which will be held this year on Oct. 6. Derinda and Johnny Larned of

New Braunfels and Donna Waggoner of Lubbock were here for their father's birthday.

Thought for the day: Failure is merely an opportunity to start over again, wiser than before.

Have a nice day!
