Calculator classes to teach users about finances

Have you ever wanted to compare savings or investment plans offering different rates of return?

Perhaps you have wondered what the monthly payments would be for a particular loan or mortgage.

Or, you really would like to know what is the dealer's cost of a vehicle.

Maybe you have wanted to know how long it would take to accumulate a down payment for a home or car through a particular monthly savings plan.

Or, perhaps you have wanted to estimate the future value of a particular investment or retirement plan.

If you would like to learn the answers to these questions and learn how to use a financial calculator, you are invited to participate in a Consumer Decision-Making With Financial Calculators Workshop on Tuesday, Aug. 7 and/or Thursday, Aug. 9.

The Aug. 7 workshop will focus on financial areas of greatest concern to college-age and young adults. The Aug. 9 workshop will have items of interest mainly geared to middle-age and older adults. A participant may choose either night to attend--or may attend both nights.

The workshops will begin at 7 each evening in the county extension office at 101 S. Ave. D in Haskell. Lou Gilly, county extension agent-home economics, will conduct both workshops. Financial calculators will be available for use.

Workshop topics include:
Aug. 7: Determining sales tax and price, figuring car loan payment schedules, comparing finance charges, figuring principle balances, figuring accumulation of savings and estimating future annuity values.

Aug. 9: Determining discounts and sales tax, comparing car purchasing options, figuring mortgage loans, figuring finance charges on loans, figuring payments from an accumulated sum in retirement annuities or savings and figuring retirement payment schedules.

Ag bucks don't stop at grocery

State comptroller Bob Bullock said the economic impact of Texas' multi-billion dollar agriculture industry doesn't end when the cattle go to market and the cotton arrives at the gin.

"The buck doesn't stop at the grocery store," Bullock said. "Texas farms carry an economic clout that's felt throughout our state."

The USDA reports record-high 1989 sale of Texas agricultural products at $10.9 billion, a 6.4 percent increase from 1988. The sales represent only 2 percent of Texas' total economic output, but the state's agriculture industry is far more important than that share suggests.

"In 1988, agricultural spending meant a $32.2 billion economic ripple throughout the state's economy," Bullock said.

For each dollar that farmers and ranchers spend on supplies, machinery and services, another $2.26 in sales or expenditures is generated.

The agriculture industry also supplies vital raw materials to other businesses that make their own contributions to the state economy by employing thousands of Texans.

123 attend reunion of Conner family

Descendants of Joel Thomas (1872-1919) and Laura Ann Groce (1883-1977) Conner met again June 23-24 in Haskell City Park and the American Legion Hall. There were 123 family members present.

Delia Mae Conner Tidrow, the oldest child of Joel and Laura, was born in 1906 in Byrdstown, Tenn. Her four children, J. C. Zetta (Dutton), Wayland and Gaston, and several of their children and grandchildren attended.

Martin Vergil Conner was born in 1908 in Byrdstown. Only two of his 10 children, Melba (Moeller) and Wendell, and some of their children and grandchildren could be present.

Albert Lloyd Conner was born in 1910 in Comanche, Texas, and passed away in 1985 in Abilene. His five living children (three died in infancy), H. L., Nellwyn (Graham), Gladys (Cozby), David, Janet (Stephens) and one step-son, Jack Slater, and several of their children and grandchildren came.

Edna Conner Parsons was born in 1912 in Comanche and died in 1979 in Haskell. Four of her six children, Inez (Roberts), Estelle (McMillin), Travis and David, and some of their children and grandchildren attended.

Emma Lee Conner McMillan, born in 1915 in Haskell, preceded her mother in death in 1976 in Arizona. None of her family was present.

Elmo Conner, born in 1917 in Haskell, and family could not attend.

Joel Eller Conner (1920-1921) was born in Byrdstown and laid to rest there.

Oscar L. Crouch, son of Laura Ann and Oscar Crouch, born in 1922 in Haskell, also attended the reunion. Only two of his seven children, Margie (Wright) and Sharon (Franklin), and a few of his grandchildren were present.

Six children were born to Joel Thomas and Girty Jolly (1872-1903) Conner in Byrdstown, previous to the above listed ones. They were Johnny E. (1894-1894), Ed (1895-1961), Carlos (1897-1966), Hoyse (1898-1941), an unnamed infant (1900-1900) and Luther (1903-1938). One of Ed's sons, Marshall, attended the reunion.

Before lunch on Sunday, Jack Slater, retired minister, brought an inspired devotional and offered prayer for the meal.

Food was brought by each family and placed on long tables, creating a wonderfully delicious smorgasbord.

After lunch, business was conducted and next year's reunion hosts selected.

Tributes to each of the heads of families were given by one child in each family. The oldest and youngest in attendance were recognized, and drawings for names of oldest and youngest children in two different age categories were made. Also, there was a drawing for a name of one of the host family (the Lloyd Conner children). All these received gifts.

Folks came from Fort Worth,

Granbury, Odessa, Fort Stockton, San Angelo, Amarillo, Abilene, Wall, Waco, Breckenridge, Arlington, Plainview, De Soto, Rule, Rochester, Haskell, Houston, Blair, Okla., and Coffeyville, Kan.

Gifts were given to those from Houston and Coffeyville for traveling the farthest. Three door prizes were given as well. Lots of cameras flashed throughout the day.

The meeting concluded with a sing-along, led by the Lloyd Conner children, ending with "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

There will be a Conner reunion again next year on Saturday, July 6, at the Haskell Civic Center. The children of Delia Mae Tidrow will host that reunion. All family members are urged to attend for another great time of fun and fellowship.

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - Vice President Dan Quayle toured the Texas campaign trail last week, and quarterly campaign disclosures showed most Republicans here are way ahead of Democrats in gathering political contributions.

Meanwhile, in other political action around the state:

■ Republican Clayton Williams toured the East Texas stronghold of opponent Ann Richards, picking up endorsements and painting her as too aligned with Hollywood liberals.

■ Democrat Nikki Van Hightower, a treasurer candidate, laid out endorsements from three pro-choice groups and attacked GOP opponent Kay Bailey Hutchinson for not fully supporting women's rights.

■ Republican Robert Mosbacher accused Democrat Bob Bullock of financing his lieutenant governor race with "Austin insider money," meaning lobbyists and special interest groups; Bullock retorted Mosbacher wanted to buy the office "with his Daddy's money."

Vice President Quayle campaigned with state Sen. Buster Brown, Republican nominee for attorney general, but found himself defending President Bush's son, Neil, the target of Democrats in the S&L scandal probe.

MH-MR Revisited
The court monitor in the federal court battle to regulate Texas mental health care reported to the judge that Texas has failed to provide acceptable care to many patients with dual disabilities.

The report charged that by failing, the Texas Department of Mental Health-Mental Retardation violated a key part of federal court orders.

A spokesman for the Texas Attorney General said the state agency seeks to obey the court order for dual disabled patients, who are both retarded and mentally ill, but that a lack of community homes is a roadblock to acceptable care.

In related action, the judge chastised plaintiff attorneys for overbilling and he slashed their fees by 60 percent.

Gun Control Debated
Williams and Richards debated gun control from afar last week, and Williams said Richards' out-of-state campaign donations show she is out of step with Texas values.

Richards endorsed a gun control plan which outlaws certain semi-automatic weapons and requires a week-long waiting period for gun buyers, a plan supported by many law enforcement groups.

Williams said he is against any new form of gun control, a stance dramatized by his remark that citizens at some time might want to overthrow a hostile home government seeking to disarm them.

Hollywood Dollars
Williams criticized Richards for accepting campaign donations from Hollywood stars, including $40,000 from director Steven Spielberg and $13,000 from a committee founded by Jane Fonda and other Hollywood women.

"Ann Richards is an East Hollywood Democrat, not an East Texas Democrat," he said, wooing the critical East Texas conservative vote.

During the multi-county caravan swing, he repeatedly criticized Richards for wanting to repeal the sodomy law, for opposing flag protection, and being a state government "Austin insider".

Responding, her campaign manager Glenn Smith likened Williams to Richard Nixon and controversial comedian Andrew Dice Clay.

Smith said the campaign money did not come from Fonda, who antagonized American veterans by visiting North Vietnam during the war. Smith said Richards returned a $1,000 check to Fonda last summer because "we didn't want someone, in the heat of the campaign, to exploit the pain of Vietnam veterans."

Surprise Endorsement
Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, a Democrat, received a surprise endorsement from Republican primary runner-up Grady Yarbrough, a Tyler teacher.

Yarbrough, who is black, said the GOP nominee, Wes Gilbreath, "does not deserve to hold public office in light of the racial remarks and innuendos made during our campaign."

During the primary, Gilbreath's campaign mailed a flyer with pictures of both himself and Yarbrough.

Other Highlights

■ State Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline, introduced Clayton Williams to an East Texas crowd by endorsing him over fellow Democrat Ann Richards.

■ The Texas Department of Commerce announced that Edward C. Fantasia, a Dallas attorney specializing in international law, will be director of its new trade office in Frankfurt, Germany.

The Frankfurt office is the fifth foreign office for Texas. Others are in Tokyo, Japan; Taipei, Taiwan; Monterey and Mexico City, Mexico.

■ Massachusetts Congressman Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. has an amendment to the S&L bailout plan which targets Texas taxpayers. Texas would provide extra state dollars to pay for deposit insurance for S&Ls here.

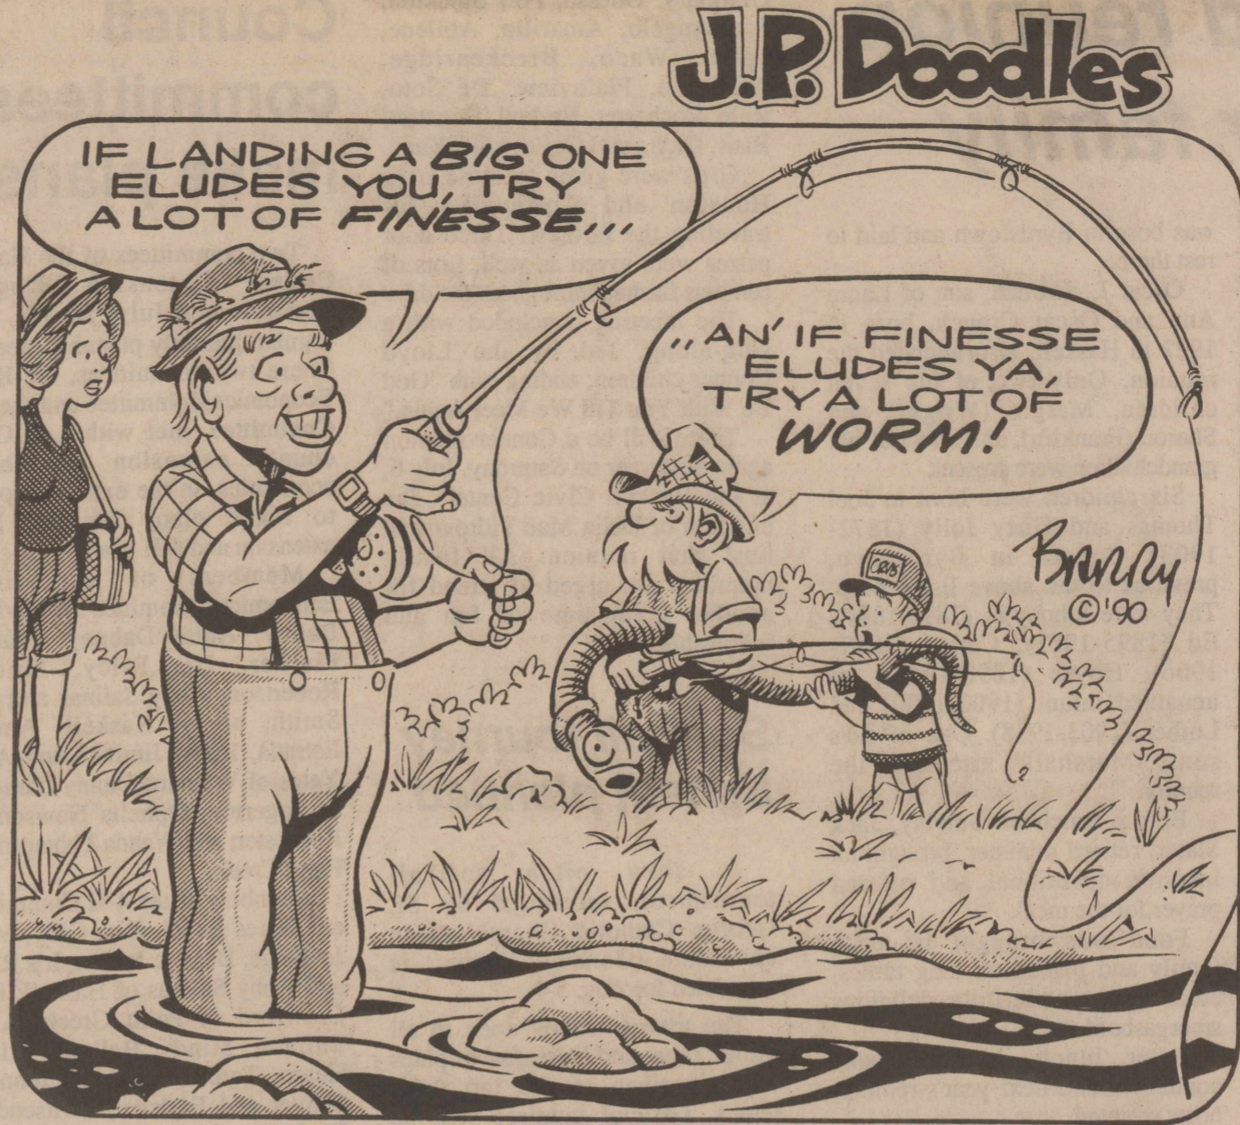

Medicare film made available

A new 10-minute video on Medicare supplement insurance is being distributed by the State Board of Insurance for use by senior citizen service organizations around the state.

The video, called "Changes in Medicare Supplement Insurance," is available on loan from the Senior Concerns and Issues section of the board. It was produced by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners to explain the changes in Medicare supplement insurance resulting from the repeal of the Medicare Catastrophic Care Act.

Organizations wishing to show the video may write to the State Board of Insurance, Senior Concerns & Issues (016-4), Box 149091, Austin 78714-9091, or call 512-463-6515.

Ask VA

Q: Can a female veteran claim her husband as a dependent?

A: Yes. When receiving compensation, pension or education benefits from VA, a female veteran may claim her husband as a dependent.

Q: I just got married. Does my husband automatically become the beneficiary of my VA insurance policy?

A: No. You must notify VA that you wish to make a change and provide complete identification of the new beneficiary.

Q: Can I use my VA-guaranteed home loan to buy land I plan to build a house on in the future?

A: A VA-guaranteed loan cannot be used to buy undeveloped land unless it is part of a package that includes the building of your home.

Q: Are Merchant Marine seamen considered veterans for the purpose of Department of Veterans Affairs benefits?

A: The Defense Department has declared that certain Merchant Marine seamen who served in active, ocean-going service from Dec. 7, 1941, to Aug. 15, 1945, are veterans for VA benefits purposes. The decision also affects Civil Service crewmembers aboard U.S. Army Transport Service and Naval Transportation Service vessels in ocean-going service during the same period.

Q: Can I get a release of liability from the VA if a non-veteran assumes my VA-guaranteed home loan?

A: If the buyer meets with the Department of Veterans Affairs approval, you may be released from liability.

The Texas Medical Association encourages all Texans to execute "living wills" so their wishes for continuing or terminating life-sustaining treatment will be known to their families and physicians in case of a serious injury or terminal illness.

A living will may be obtained free from TMA by writing Texas Medical Association, Living Will, 1801 N. Lamar Blvd. Austin, TX 78701.

A living will is a directive to physicians specifying that a patient does not want extraordinary life-sustaining procedures continued in cases where terminal or irreversible illnesses prevent him/her from being able to communicate such wishes at the time. Such documents also may include designation of another person to make such decisions on the patient's behalf.

Had Nancy Cruzan executed a living will stating that she did not want extraordinary life-sustaining measures taken on her behalf in case of terminal or irreversible injury or illness, her parents would have been allowed to discontinue life-sustaining treatment. Cruzan was in a car accident in 1983 that has left her in a type of coma called persistent vegetative state. The U.S. Supreme Court upheld a Missouri ruling barring Cruzan's parents from discontinuing life support on grounds there was no "clear and convincing evidence" that Nancy Cruzan would have wanted treatment discontinued.

In that ruling, however, the court recognized that advances in medical technology, while saving thousands of lives, can condemn some to survival in vegetative conditions. The court's decision upholds the right to decline extraordinary life-saving measures through instruments such as living wills.

Forty-three states, including Texas, have adopted living will statutes. Statistics compiled by the American Medical Association, however, show only 15 percent of Americans have executed living wills.

The Texas Natural Death Act authorizes use of written and oral directives to instruct physicians not to use artificial methods to delay death. Under the Texas law, anyone 18 or older, of sound mind, and acting on his or her own free will, may execute a directive regarding life-sustaining treatment. Directives may be executed for patients under 18 by parents, legal guardians or spouses, if the spouse is an adult.

Once a directive has been made, it should be filed as part of the patient's medical record so his or her physician is aware of the patient's wishes. A directive may be revoked by the patient at any time, even in the final stages of a terminal illness.

No one understands airline fares. A Dallas letter writer to the Dallas Morning News complains:

"My family and I will be flying to California in a few weeks. First, we have to drive to Austin to catch the American Airlines flight. Doing this will save me around $200. The flight, of course, stops in Dallas."

The telephone company must use the same logic. Why else would it cost more to call from Haskell to Odessa than it does to call from Haskell to Dayton, Ohio?

Used to think young Joe Kennedy was a pretty good politician.

But that was before I saw him the other night on "Crossfire." He was defending the proposal to require beer companies to run disclaimers on their TV advertisements. He gave the usual stuff about the ill effects of alcohol and outlined some of the miseries it has caused.

He admitted to being a beer drinker.

Correction: In offering sympathy to the L. B. Patterson family last week, it was erroneously reported that Bruce Patterson died, when it was Brent Patterson instead. My apologies.

Things are quiet in Weinert, must be prayer time for rain! Our farmers are rigging up harvest machines, and some have already gone South to work.

Congratulations to Weldon and Nova Walling who will celebrate a wedding anniversary.

Special congratulations to Mitch Mayfield who received his Lone Star Farmer degree at the State FFA convention held in Lubbock last week.

Mitch is the son of Tiffen and Erlinda Mayfield.

All roads led to Seymour on Saturday, as relatives gathered for a reunion of the descendants of George and Harriet Alexander.

Coming from Arizona were Melba Kim and nieces, Pauline Slade of Phoenix, and Ethelyne Slade of Eager.

They were all treated to a hamburger supper in the home of Kenneth and Brenda Sanders, Kent and Kole, on Wednesday night.

They enjoyed a visit with the grandchildren in DeSoto while there.

Mrs. Donnie Harbers and children spent several days in South Texas with her family and with Donnie's last week, and enjoyed seeing the rain there while we continue wishing for it.

Claude and Vera Mae Harrison of Lubbock were guests of the R. S. Sanders last week.

David and Peggy Plemister spent a few days with his parents in Weinert and left on Thursday for Dallas where he is scheduled to preach.

Marcus accompanied his family to Dallas.

"Brownie-points" for the Stewart boys who have again planted a "community garden" for friends and relatives. Thank you!

We shall remember Junior Stewart daily in prayer as he returns to Houston for more treatments this week.

Ted and Faye Jetton were in Holliday last week to weep with Jimmy and Claude Young as their daughter, Angie, moved to Minnesota with her family.

Ladies, we'll see you Tuesday, 3 p.m.

Have a nice day!

RESIDENTS TAKE YOUR

Cut your energy bills
with propane.

You can save a lot of energy and money by using propane gas. Compared to electricity, propane is a much more efficient fuel for heating your home, cooking, clothes drying, and water heating.

A recent study by the Department of Energy (DOE) reveals that a home using propane for heating, cooking, and clothes drying, costs half as much as a home with the same electric features.

Propane gas is clearly a cut above the other energy sources - for efficiency, comfort, and economy. Call your nearby propane gas dealer to find out how to cut into your energy expenses.

Rule remembers George B. Tanner

By Jack E. Westbrook

George B. Tanner was born to George W. and Martha Matilda Smith Gillion Tanner on Nov. 12, 1876, near Gatesville, Coryell County, Texas. In 1889 his family moved to Haskell County where he made his home for over 64 years. He followed his father's footsteps in being a wheat farmer and stockman. In 1909, he and Miss Winnie Greenwade of Rochester married. Their children are Dahlia Tanner Pounds, Mabel George, Douthitt Tanner and Martha Faye Tanner Pratt.

George B. Tanner

George Tanner joined the service on Nov. 12, 1898, at Dallas, being assigned to Battery "D", Third Artillery Battalion, Regular Army. He trained in San Diego, Calif., for seven months and then was assigned to tactical duty in the Sequoyah Park.

In July 1900, his unit sailed on the USS General Sheridan to China where they took part in keeping communications open between the Chinese capital and the port of Tientsien. Troops from 10 nations were in the force in the Tientsien area, guarding boats going on the river to and from the capital. There was considerable action involved during this period of time.

From this assignment, his unit went to Nagasaki, Japan, and on to the Philippines. Here his battery was outfitted as infantry and did scouting assignments. One such engagement from Tacloban lasted for some 40 days involving numerous skirmishes.

Thirty days before his enlistment was up he left the Philippines for home. Between Manila and Nagasaki there was a typhoon lasting for some 27 days, causing damage to the ship on which he was traveling. He was discharged while in Japan, an experience he relished. He came back to Haskell County only to decide to leave for the gold fields of Alaska. He got as far as Montana where he worked on a ranch for a time, and then decided to volunteer for service in the Philippines once more.

After his tour of duty, he came home where he farmed and ranched on a large scale. He helped organize the Tonk Creek School District, serving on the School Board. He was a respected member of the community of Rule where he served on the School Board of Trustees, was a leader in the Church of Christ, and was on the board of directors of the Farmers National Bank. He also served a four-year term as County Commissioner.

George B. Tanner was taken in death on April 21, 1952, after a long siege of illness, the roots of which dated back to his military service. He was 75 years of age. He had seen much of the world but was always confident that there was no place like home in Rule. He is interred in the Rule Cemetery.

George B. Tanner is one of the veterans to be honored by the memorial monument being erected by the Rule Community Memorial Foundation. His life represents the spirit of those who went from Rule in answer to their country's call to arms in times of crisis. He responded at the time of need in preserving the freedom that has been perpetuated to this day. We have been honored by George Tanner's belief that our freedom is worth fighting for and preserving. We will be called upon time and again---in many ways---to perpetuate the spirit which he showed in his service.

Visitors like Texas

The beauty of Texas, freshened by the green of springtime and splashed with the color of roadside flowers, is highly rated by visitors to the state, according to the latest edition of the Texas Auto Visitor Survey.

The spring survey was taken during March, April and May. Almost 62 percent of short-term visitors (those staying less than 30 days) gave "scenery" as one of their answers to the question: "What did you enjoy about Texas?" And nearly 47 percent of them mentioned wildflowers.

Long-term visitors liked the wildflowers, too. That was the second most popular answer, right behind the perennial No. 1 response: Texans' legendary friendliness. Scenery was cited by 70 percent of long-term visitors.

The most-visited city in this quarter's survey for all visitors was San Antonio. For short-termers, Dallas and Houston ranked second and third, as usual, while those staying more than a month reported Brownsville and Harlingen as the second and third most-visited cities.

The Texas spring also brings migrating birds--and migrating birders. More than 46 percent of long-term visitors reported bird-watching as one of the activities they engaged in, as did 18 percent of short-term visitors.

The survey report includes statistics for the previous four quarters and an annual average. The 17 survey questions include the age of the travel party, accommodations used, miles driven and attractions visited.

The survey is completed by visitors who stop at Texas Travel Information Centers. The centers serve as Texas' front doors, where travel counselors extend hospitality to tourists arriving from all directions. On the average, more than a third of survey respondents say their information center stop influenced them to see more attractions, and more than a third say they were induced to see more of the state.

A free copy of the detailed report is available by writing Texas Auto Visitor Survey, Box 5064, Austin 78763.

Children have cholesterol, too

Parents want their children to have the best and to ensure they are healthy and happy. One of the best ways parents can help their children develop good lifestyle habits is by example.

Through preventive health education messages children can better understand the long term benefits of making healthy lifestyle choices. One of these messages should be the awareness of cholesterol and its relationship to coronary heart disease.

Children from high-risk families should be placed on a low-fat diet if they have excessive cholesterol or fat in their blood.

Cub Scouts to meet at pool

Cub Scout Pack 136 will have its July meeting next Tuesday (July 31) at the Haskell swimming pool, starting at 6:30 pm.

After the swim, scouts will have their monthly awards program in the City Park.

Any and all boys who are in grades 1-5 and are interested in joining the scouts are invited to come.

A graduation ceremony for scouts who will move into Weblos this year is the highlight of the awards program.

Twila Taylor and Katrena Neagle

Mother-daughter cookbook available

Katrena Neagle and her daughter, Twila Taylor, both of Midland, are surprised at the reception of their recently published family cookbook.

What began as a family project has ended up a flourishing business. They compiled four generations of family recipes--along with some from friends--into a cookbook called "Home Cookin', Four Generations of Love."

It started out simple---compiling and typing recipes and running off photocopies. "The more we got into it, the more we knew it was going to be something special and we wanted it published," said

Katrena.

Katrena's husband, Bobby, paid to have 500 copies printed for family and friends. "Our hope was to sell enough cookbooks to recover the printing costs but to our amazement they all sold very quickly and we have received our third printing," says Katrena. The cookbook contains 550 delicious recipes and may be purchased locally at The Drug Store in Haskell.

Efore 1800, there were no separately designed shoes for right and left feet.

--Library Notes--

By Joan Strickland
Librarian

There are only three more weeks left in the reading program. If you have not reached your goal, you still have time to work on it.

This Saturday, July 28, Jill Drusedow will have the story time from 10:30 to 11 a.m. The response to our story time has been lower than anticipated. Those children who have not attended have missed some good stories. I appreciate those who have donated time out of their busy summer schedules to read to our children. Thank you, story tellers.

On Aug. 11, our reading program ends and Robbie McLellend will have the story time. Certificates will be presented to each child reaching his or her goal in the reading and the read-to-me programs. Refreshments will be served after the presentations.

The monthly book circulation from August 1989 until this past July 20, is as follows: August 238; September 606; October 632; November 483; December 394; January 632; February 683; March 722; April 616; May 751; June 1,364; July 920. This is a total circulation of 8,041 books.

We have been probational members of the Big Country Library System (BCLS) for a number of years. This coming year, beginning Sept. 1, we have been accepted as provisional members of the BCLS.

This membership provides many services, some of which we have enjoyed for many years already. Through Inter-Library Loan (ILL) we can offer our patrons the resources of major public and university libraries throughout the nation. We contact the Abilene library and through their ILL network we receive books from all over the nation on subjects our patrons request. Through the extension system we receive 50 books per month. We can keep these books up to one year for help in extending our book collection. A great many of these books are large print for our patrons who prefer this type of book.

Our patrons can order 16mm films on various subjects. We are provided book marks and library bags through the system. The new advantages we have gained as provisional members is access to $1,283 through the Abilene library for use in development of our non-fiction collection. We also have the advantage of two votes on selecting system representatives. These representatives have a direct influence on laws presented and passed on behalf of small libraries throughout the state, concerning government funding and fund appropriations for the library system.

We fell short of full membership this year by $153. We must have local expenditures of $5,000 or $1.20 per capita population, which ever is greater. With the donations collected this past year, plus the county funding, we should easily qualify for full membership next year.

Nominations for a library board have been submitted to the court and a new board should become effective very soon. One of the first undertakings of the board will be to establish and post a library policy for all patrons. Also to be discussed is the institution of fines for overdue books. This would encourage patrons to be more conscientious about returning books on time and also generate more money toward collection development.

If you have any ideas as to how to improve our library, please drop by and discuss them with me. I am open to suggestions and would appreciate your input. I do hope to someday have a card catalog completed for use by our patrons. See you at the library.
