Letter

Fourth-graders also have written letters to servicemen in Saudi Arabia. Kelli Moeller received a reply from a Desert Shield serviceman even though it was addressed: Miss Kelli Jo Moeller, Haskell, TX, (Somewhere near Abilene). (She goes to Haskell Elementary, 4th Grade, Mrs. Burson, Stone and Everett, Teachers). Please Deliver. The letter was from CW2 James Kirchner, who said he had a daughter in fourth grade and that receiving mail from the U.S. really helped the soldiers.

Molasses and feathers

Young people of the First Baptist Church applied molasses and feathers to their youth director, Randy McLelland, Saturday. McLelland had promised to let them do it if attendance at a recent weekly meeting reached 90, which it did. The photo below shows McLelland cleaning up at a car wash.

Annual Smokeout takes place today

Haskell County members of the American Cancer Society are challenging smokers to "Leave the Pack Behind" during the Society's 14th annual Great American Smokeout today (Thursday).

Sponsored by the American Cancer Society, the Great American Smokeout is a fun-filled, light-hearted celebration held each year on the third Thursday in November to encourage smokers and tobacco users to quit the habit for 24 hours. The effort is the largest health promotion event in the country.

Last year's Smokeout triggered 10.5 percent of the nation's smokers--5.2 million Americans-- to give up cigarettes for 24 hours. One to three days later, according to a Gallup poll, 3.9 million were still abstaining from tobacco. According to the poll, 17.9 million smokers participated in the Smokeout by quitting or cutting down for the day.

Local ACS members are hoping the 14th annual Great American Smokeout will help many Haskell County smokers stop the habit.

The Smokeout helps advance the ACS's ongoing battle against cancer. Smoking is responsible for 87 percent of lung cancer cases, and is responsible for many other diseases.

Desert troops respond to Haskell students' letters

Haskell Elementary School sixth-graders are doing their part to boost morale of U.S. servicemen and women stationed in the Middle East.

They began by writing three letters--one addressed to "Any Serviceman or Woman" in Operation Desert Shield, one to M/Sgt. Clarence Dukatnik (formerly of Haskell) and one to A/T Mark SoRelle, son of Frankie SoRelle, who is aboard the USS Kennedy.

So far, the class has received numerous responses from mail-hungry servicemen. Many described their living conditions as being very primitive at first, but improving now that they have air-conditioned tents.

They wrote about high temperatures (105 degrees during the day and 98 degrees at night), water consumption in the desert, protective suits in case of chemical warfare, and families back home.

Many of the men wrote students asking for continued support through letters and prayers. Several expressed the thought that they hoped war would not come, but that if it does, they are prepared.

One response came from an airman previously stationed at Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene.

The letter that teacher Debbie Earles received from S/Sgt. Steven G. Hitchcock closed with this thought: "Rest assured that those of us here, as any rational person would, pray for peace while preparing for war."

Three of the letters had Saudi Arabian money enclosed for the students to examine.

Farmers reminded of cards

Haskell County peanut farmers have been reminded that they should return their marketing cards as soon as possible after marketings are completed for the farm, and no later than Dec. 15.

All peanut-producing farmers must report all marketings from their farm, as well as the amount of peanuts retained for seed or any other use, said Glenn R. Brzozowski of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Brzozowski said the computerized marketing cards should contain all sales transactions at buying points. Any marketings not made through an established buying point should be reported when the card is returned, he said.

Peanut producers receive a print-out of all marketings on their cards. They are responsible for checking it to be sure that all marketings have been recorded properly.

"Our peanut price support program limits the number of pounds of peanuts that can be marketed by producers for domestic edible uses through poundage quotas," Brzozowski said. "Any peanuts not marketed against a poundage quota for a farm must be placed under additional loan, or marketed for export or crush in accordance with a previously approved contract entered into by the peanut producer and handler."

Price support on 1990-crop quota or additional peanuts will be available through warehouse-stored and farm-stored loans from harvest time through Jan. 31, 1991. Availability of farm-stored loans on quota peanuts will continue through March 31.

Mrs. Roberson on draft board

Billyjo Roberson has been appointed as a member of the Selective Service System's local board.

Local boards, although in an inactive status, are responsible for deciding claims for certain classifications, such as conscientious objection, hardship and religious ministry, should a draft be reinstated by Congress and the President.

Fund established for Pete Amaro

Friends of Pete Amaro have set up a fund to help pay funeral expenses for the former Haskell resident.

Amaro died Thursday in California and his funeral was held here this week.

The fund was established at Haskell National Bank and contributions may be made there.

Churches plan Thanksgiving service Sunday

The First Baptist Church will host this year's Thanksgiving service of the Haskell Ministerial Alliance.

The service will be Sunday (Nov. 18), beginning at 6 p.m.

The program will include congregational singing, a short Thanksgiving Cantata by a community choir, and a message by the Rev. Steve Kerr, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

An offering will be taken for the Ministerial Alliance Crisis Center. The center helps local people in crisis situations, as well as transients in need of assistance.

About half of the annual operating funds comes from the offering received at the Thanksgiving service.

Officers of the Haskell Ministerial Alliance include Paul Cheatham, president; Steve Kerr, vice president; Bruce Adamson, secretary; and Dickie Greenwood, treasurer.

Haskell receives $19,739 rebate

This month's sales tax rebate check from the State Comptroller to the City of Haskell was in the amount of $19,739.88.

It includes the city's portion of the sales tax collected by the state on September sales and reported in October by local businesses filing monthly returns. Also represented in this month's payments are sales taxes reported by quarterly filers who collections reflect sales made in July, August and September.

Haskell's check this month was just slightly lower than the one for $19,998.55 received last year for the same period.

For the year, Haskell has received $138,747. This compares with $148,451.01 for the same period last year, or 6.54 percent less.

All other towns in Haskell County received rebate checks this month, led by Rule which received $3,272.27.

Rochester received $1,001.00; Weinst got $544.76 and O'Brien received $373.13.

For the year, the five cities of Haskell County have received $164,332.84.

Rule plays Gordon

Unbeaten Rule will meet Gordon at 8 p.m. Friday at Hawley in the first round of the six-man football playoffs.

Rule, 10-0, is champion of district 9A while Gordon is runnerup of district 11A.

The Bobcats clinched the district title Friday night with a 49-24 victory over Jayton as Shannor Taylor ran for 247 yards and three touchdowns.

Perry's election please FB leader

"Mainstream agriculture and consumers across Texas won a major victory with the election of Rick Perry as Agriculture Commissioner," said Texas Farm Bureau President S. M. True.

True is also president of the Texas Farm Bureau Friends of Agriculture Fund (AGFUND), which endorsed Perry in May.

Farm Bureau and every other major agricultural organization in the state, with a few exceptions, threw their support behind the Haskell man in his challenge of two-time incumbent Ag Commissioner Jim Hightower.

"When Rick Perry takes over the leadership at the Texas Department of Agriculture in January he will be a commissioner for all the people of Texas," True said. "Texas agriculture will again prosper as we head toward the 21st century. We now have a commissioner who will work with farmers and ranchers for agriculture."

Perry, a fifth generation farmer and rancher and a three-term state legislator, won the race with approximately a 46,000-vote margin.

Perry has outlined a program for the agriculture department called the "Five M's":

- More research
- More value-added processing
- More jobs
- More exports
- More cooperation.

"Farmers and ranchers statewide can now rest assured that their interests will be represented to the highest degree in both Austin and Washington," said True, who produces cotton, grain sorghum soybeans, wheat and cattle at Plainview.

Letters from Saudi Arabia

These sixth-graders stand beside a bulletin board containing some of the letters they have received from servicemen in Saudi Arabia. From left, they are Greg Rodriguez, Matt Blanks and Chancey Pogue.

Mrs. Joey Kimbrough

Decker, Kimbrough exchange vows

The First Baptist Church in Munday was the setting for the candlelight wedding ceremony uniting Tammy Denise Decker to Joey Earl Kimbrough on Saturday, Oct. 20, at 7 p.m. The Rev. Troy Culpepper officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Decker of Munday. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kimbrough of Haskell and Mr. and Mrs. Don Flippin of Wichita Falls.

Missy Teague of Haskell, niece of the groom, registered guests.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a white satin wedding gown with a schiffli lace bodice and sleeves and a Queen Anne neckline. Appliqued roses, iridescent sequins and seed pearls adorned the bodice and sleeves. The chapel length train had insets of schiffli lace and was accented with a flat satin bow at the back of the waist. The hem of the full skirt was scalloped and edged with schiffli lace.

To complement her gown, the bride chose a poufed headpiece with a headband made of seed pearls. This was attached to layers of illusion, forming a three-tiered veil.

The bride's bouquet was of white lilies and English ivy, accented with seed pearls and white satin and lace ribbon streamers.

For something old, she carried a white linen handkerchief that her mother carried in her wedding, and a gold wedding band belonging to her great-grandmother. Something new was her dress, something borrowed were her sister-in-law's earrings, and she wore a blue garter. Her father placed two pennies in her shoe, one each of the bride's and groom's birthdates.

Lynette Norman of Lubbock served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lori Letterman of Haskell, Salwa Choucair of Huntsville and Juli Decker of Munday. Jayla Decker, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore identical dresses of black and white taffeta. The low-waisted, strapless bodices were black taffeta covered with black sequins. The full, floor-length skirts were of white taffeta, with an applique of silver and white sequins at the waist. Each wore long black gloves and carried a single long-stemmed white magnolia blossom tied with white ribbons with a black lace overlay.

The junior bridesmaid's dress was identical to the bridesmaids' with the exception of long sleeves and a high neckline.

Serving as best man was Billy Van Tinnin of Haskell. Groomsmen were Randy Roewe, Sam Toliver and Jimmy Burson, all of Haskell. Junior groomsman was Aaron New of Haskell, nephew of the groom.

All male members of the wedding party wore black tuxedos with white shirts, black cummerbunds and black bow ties.

Joceyln Decker, niece of the bride, was flower girl and Jason Sappenfield of Amarillo, nephew of the groom, served as ring-bearer.

The flower girl's dress was made of white cristaline with a black sash. It featured tiers of lace down the back of the skirt with black ribbon bows and black rosebuds. Her headpiece was a halo of white flowers and black rosebuds with a black bow in the back.

Ushers were Rick Decker and Stan Decker of Munday, brothers of the bride, and Mark Pearson of Spearman and Jim Davis of Lubbock.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Dolores Lambeth, pianist, and Sandy King, organist. Teresa New of Haskell, sister-in-law of the groom, and Lyndle Reeves of Munday were vocalists. Musical selections included "To Me", "The Lord's Prayer" and "Nobody Loves Me Like You Do."

The bride's mother wore a black crepe two-piece street-length dress accented with black sequins at the neckline and a matching sequin applique on the skirt.

The groom's mother wore a black two-piece street-length dress accented with white pearl buttons down the front of the bodice and a black satin bow at the back of the waist. Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a reception in the fellowship hall of the church. The tables were covered with black cloths overlaid with white lace. The bride's table featured a three-tiered white wedding cake atop a fountain. Two smaller hexagon-shaped cakes adorned the wedding cake and were decorated with fresh flowers as was the wedding cake.

The groom's table featured a chocolate cake decorated with white icing and a large "K" in black. A silver coffee service and a basket of greenery accented the serving table.

A small round table, covered with a black cloth and white lace overlay, connected the two tables and held a silver punch bowl and cups.

Serving at the reception were Cherie Hutchinson of Weirnet, Leann Oustad of Munday, Raquel Smajstrla of Seymour and Terri Tanner of Lubbock.

Amanda and Lindsey Sappenfield of Amarillo, nieces of the groom, distributed rice bags at the reception.

A rehearsal dinner, hosted by the groom's parents, was held Oct 19 at the Haskell Country Club.

The bride is a graduate of Haskell High School and VRJC School of Cosmetology. She is employed at Cherie's Classic Cuts in Munday.

The groom graduated from Haskell High School and Texas Tech University and is employed by the First National Bank in Haskell.

Following a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will live in Haskell.

PUBLIC NOTICE

On July 19, 1990, GTE Southwest Incorporated ("GTE-SW") filed revisions to the company's tariff pertaining to the features and associated equipment for providing emergency number services (9-1-1).

In this filing, GTE-SW proposes to modify its existing 9-1-1 tariff and to add more than 200 new service offerings. The new items of service and equipment in this application have been added to meet the company's increasing 9-1-1 customer demands and to allow GTE-SW to compete more effectively in the 9-1-1 equipment market.

(ANI displays a caller's telephone number on the emergency dispatcher's computer screen.) In addition, the product line will include ANI and Automatic Location Information (ALI) display units compatible with, and similar to, those offered by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and other local exchange carriers in Texas. (The ALI feature displays a caller's address on the computer screen.) The rate charged existing 9-1-1 customers may be revised at the expiration of their contracts with GTE-SW if the proposed tariff is approved.

This filing has been assigned Docket No 9667. The hearing on the merits is scheduled for February 25, 1991, at the offices of the Public Utility Commission of Texas. The deadline to intervene in this docket is December 31, 1990.

--Rule--

by Vicky Anderson
How about this rainy, colder weather? Quite a change!!

There are quite a few ill people in Rule and Haskell County right now. We wish a return to good health to Ruth Wilcox, who is at St. Mary of the Plains in Lubbock; to Pat Hale of Haskell who is hospitalized at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene; Leslie Tibbits of Rochester; and to Butch Gray of Hamlin, who is a patient at Hamlin Memorial Hospital. Warm regards are sent to all the above-named people. Also, to Eddie Leonard, who is a patient at Shannon Hospital in San Angelo. We also wish a speedy recovery to John Leonard, who had recent eye surgery in Dallas.

We were privileged to watch a practice basketball scrimmage at Abilene Christian High School this past Tuesday night against the ACHS Panthers. Our Rule girls looked quite good in this practice. Doesn't seem possible that it is already time to begin the basketball season! Barb Melin, you are doing a great job with these girls; and they, in turn, are doing a wonderful job, too. Keep it up, girls!

Recently Ethel Greeson and "yours truly" were having doughnuts and coffee at a local cafe where we enjoyed a visit with June and Leon Biffle. Also, while there I enjoyed reminiscing with Ruth Williams, her daughter and son-in-law: Cinda and Gene Flannery, all of Rule. It seems the Williams were neighbors of my late in-laws' the Fred Andersons, in Stamford. Cinda and my husband's niece, Linda McElreath Hall were best friends. As the old saying goes: "It's a small world"--right?

Looking for an unusual and unique but nice gift for a former student of Stamford High School? Quite by accident, I learned that a Stamford man bought the wood from the old gymnasium floor at SHS, and will make names for a person at quite a reasonable price. If anyone is interested in having names made for your children or grandchildren, who are Stamford exes, you may contact me for this information, that is, the name of the wood-carver. My number is in the telephone book.

Congratulations to Mindy and Joe Ray Torres upon the arrival of Jaclyn Rae, who made her entry into this world on Tuesday, November 6 at 7:41 p.m. at Stamford Memorial Hospital. She weighed 7 lbs. 1 oz and was 19 1/4 inches. Maternal grandparents are Mike Wilcox of Abilene and Sidney Pharr of Rising Star. Quite proud first time paternal grandparents are Dora and Ralph Torres of Rule, also Iva Reeder of Dublin and Mr. and Mrs. Catarino Macias of Sagerton. Jaclyn Rae has a brother, Jeremy.

When this article was started, the weather was rainy and cold; but today, Friday, Nov. 9, is really a beautiful sunny day.

Our sympathy is extended to the families of the late Sudie Mae Yaws of Stamford and the Earl Abernathy family of Hamlin.

Brittany Peel, daughter of Mike and Linda Peel of Abilene won first in her division, Nov. 2 and 3 in the Tennis tournament. She is a 7th grade student at Madison Middle School. This is her first year to play tennis. Brittany is the granddaughter of Wanda and Jerry Saffel and Robert's niece. Keep up the good work, and lots of luck in the tournament Nov. 16 & 17.

Congratulations to former Rule graduates and athletes: Art Briles and Leon Greeson of Stephenville, whose football team won their district by defeating Brownwood this past Friday night by a score of 42-24.

Get-well wishes are sent to Aurlene Baugh who has been in Lubbock having tests run. Also, a speedy recovery is wished for Audrey Westmoreland, who is hospitalized in Anson General Hospital following a recent fall.

Going to Abilene on Sunday to browse through the "Christmas in November" Arts and Craft Bazaar at the Civic Center were Cleo Gann, Nona Norwood, Alma Counts and Vicky Anderson. On their way home, the ladies stopped off at the Anson General Hospital to visit Audrey Westmoreland, whose physician has put her in traction.

Wanda and Jerry Saffel were in Abilene Sat. afternoon to see their grandson, Jared Peel play basketball. He plays on the Royal Ambassadors team from Pioneer Drive Baptist Church. Jared was able to score six of the twelve points scored for a win. Jared is a 3rd grader at Jackson Elementary and has just finished soccer where his team was in a three-way tie for first place. After breaking the tie, they took second place in City-wide play.

Think about it: Prayer is asking for rain, and faith is taking an umbrella. (Rule Reminder 10-21-90)

Reading emphasis is goal of school

By Janice Browning
Emphasis on reading is one of our district goals for the year. Observing National Children's Book Week Nov. 12-18 and selecting a favorite character are two activities Haskell Elementary School is doing to meet this objective.

On Friday, students, faculty and other school personnel are dressing up as their favorite characters. If you see Daniel Boone, a pirate, Miss Nelson, Miss Piggy Wiggly, Tom Sawyer or Curious George, we are not experiencing a time warp. We are only sharing our favorite books with others.

The school would like for parents to encourage their children to read more by reading to them or with them, having children see parents reading and providing reading material in the home.

TEACH YOUR CHILDREN ABOUT MONEY

Uncertainties in the job and financial markets make it imperative for parents to teach their children how to wisely manage money. This should begin at an early age. Three- or four-year-old children should be given small amounts and the opportunity to choose items to purchase. They will quickly learn their choice is limited to the amount they have available to spend.

A small allowance should be implemented by age six or so. This allowance should be unconditional; i. e., the responsibility to do their chores should not be tied to children's allowances. They should learn certain tasks must be done regardless. For extra work, they may be given the opportunity to earn more than their basic allowance. The weekly allowance should be increased annually. As children age, this increase can be tied into things they must assume responsibility for purchasing (e.g., their dates, entertainment, snacks, clothes, etc.)

When children become teenagers, start discussing longer-term goals such as college. As an incentive for children to save for the long-term, consider matching amounts they contribute to their savings account. Begin including them in family budget and financial discussions. Show them how your actions are based on the same principles they must use in budgeting their allowance. Encourage children to get jobs so they can appreciate the work involved in earning money. By age 18, children should be able to manage a year's expenses and be capable of saving for high-cost items.

Throughout this educational process, be supportive and try to avoid the tendency to criticize or control what your children do with their money. Teaching your children how to manage money may be one of the most important lessons you can give them.

Notes From The Rolling Plains

(Note: The following is one of a series of stories by noted wildlife photographer Wyman Meinzer offered by Haskell Save-A-$ for your enjoyment.)

Until recently I had always thought that indiscriminate hunting practices was a product of current times. At least within the past fifty or so years. I was researching some information a few days ago and found some interesting notes given by professional buffalo hunters over 115 years ago. It seems that the primary concern of the professional hide men was to kill and skin as many bison as humanly possible. Other wildlife, and there was incredible numbers of them, were left alone and even adopted as camp pets. One hunter whose camp was in the rolling plains loved to see the wild turkey as they fed into and about camp by the thousands. They were as tame as chickens and the grisly bison hunters regarded them as pets. As he put it, "a buffalo hunter would no more shoot a turkey than a quail hunter would shoot a snowbird." Then came the "Sportsmen from cities such as Ft. Worth and other settlements to the east. These city hunters chaffed the old buffalo men as the dudes rode out onto the range and shot everything that moved. Lying in wait under turkey roosts these city hunters would allow the turkeys to fly into the trees and then shoot until all the birds were either wounded or dead. In the morning they would return to the scene and boast over the dead, picking only two or three of the fattest birds to eat and leave the rest to rot. Returning to the settlements they would boast and brag of their deeds for months. Sadly enough, this has not changed much even in these modern, more enlightened times. I recently visited with a rancher who had some rather large whitetail bucks on his land. He charged a healthy fee for shooting one of the deer but getting a shot was almost as easy as getting into your vehicle and driving to the store for a loaf of bread. He said that he has men call and want to pay almost any price just to fly down in an evening and kill the deer then be back home by nightfall. The "hunter" has a big deer to brag on and Lord knows what kind of hardship hunting story to go with it. We've had these people for a long time and I suppose we'll continue to have them. It's just a sad fact that most of us will have to contend with.

Resource council schedules meeting

Haskell County was authorized as part of the Four Winds Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) program July 17. This was the result of efforts of the Haskell Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD), the City of Haskell and Haskell County.

The RC&D is a grassroots type of community or rural development program. The U.S. Department of Agriculture program was authorized in 1964. The Soil Conservation Service was authorized to administer the program in most states. The RC&D program is authorized for multi-county areas that have common resources and/or problems.

The Four Winds RC&D area was authorized in December 1973. This included the four counties of Childress, Cottle, Foard and Hardeman. In late 1989, Wilbarger County was added to the area. In July of this year, the counties of King, Knox, Baylor, Stonewall, Throckmorton and Haskell were added to the area. Motley and Dickens counties have asked to join the group.

The RC&D program is designed to assist local people in finding ways to accomplish their goals for community development. This is accomplished by identifying and putting a priority on community needs, developing a plan or strategy to solve the problem, finding a funding source, and implementing the project.

Community leaders and representatives from sponsoring organizations such as cities, counties, SWCDs or other groups from each county make up the RC&D Council. The council members work together to assist in community development. It is this cooperation among leaders throughout the area that makes things happen.

The RC&D Council has scheduled a meeting for Dec. 3 in the Haskell National Bank Community Building, beginning at 6:30 p.m., to inform citizens more about the RC&D program and to identify some of the major problems and needs.

Citizens are being urged to make plans to attend this meeting. Details will be announced later.
