Hospital patients to receive information on their rights

Effective Dec. 1, every adult admitted to Haskell Memorial Hospital, and all other U.S. hospitals, will receive information on patient treatment rights and advance directives to make their wishes known concerning the providing or withholding of medical

The increased focus on helping patients understand their rights is the result of a new federal law, the "Patient Self-Determination Act." The law is aimed at improving patient knowledge about freedom of choice and at fostering better communication among the patient, family and attending physician.

Every adult of sound mind has a right to accept or refuse medical treatment, even if refusal might prolong an illness or lead to death. This freedom is enjoyed by every adult, provided the consequences of refusal are understood and will not injure another person.

This right of self-determination allows a patient to make all medical decisions, whether they be relatively simple (an epidural during childbirth?) or extremely difficult (withholding hydration and nutrition?). But there are times when a patient may be unable to communicate treatment desires. An accident might result in a coma, or an advanced medical problem may lead to incapacitation. In times like these, an advance directive helps physicians prescribe treatment based on patient desire. By using a directive, a person can indicate what kinds of life-sustaining procedures he wants withdrawn or withheld in the event of terminal illness.

In Texas, methods for preparing advance directives are established through the Natural Death Act and the Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care Act.

Indians meet Anson in season finale

The 1991 football season comes to an end Friday night when the Haskell Indians host the Anson Tigers in a battle of district 7-2A also-rans.

For Haskell, it will be an opportunity to escape the district cellar and to end a five-game losing streak which began here Oct. 4 against Hawley. The Indians' last, and only, victory was Sept. 27 when they edged Winters, 15-14, before going into a tailspin which has seen them manage just one touchdown during the five-game

With a victory, the Indians can post their best record since 1988. A win would give them a 2-7-1 mark, slightly better than the 2-8 readings in 1989 and 1990. Their district record is 1-5.

Haskell is coming off a 40-0 loss to Stamford last week. The Tigers defeated Jim Ned, 39-6, in their last outing.

Anson stands 3-3 in district and 4-5 for the season.

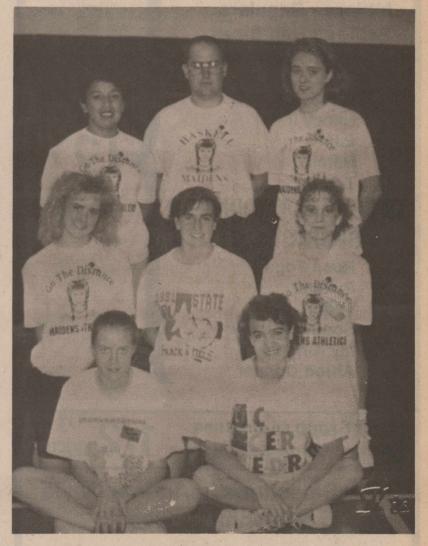

Albany clinched the 7-2A championship last week with a 40-7 win over Winters. The unbeaten Lions are 9-0 for the season (6-0 in district). Since they hold a victory over second-place Hamlin (5-1 in district) they are assured of first place. Hamlin also has gained a playoff berth. Stamford could tie the Pipers for second place in the unlikely event Hamlin loses to Jim Ned while Stamford is winning over Winters, but the Pipers would still be in the playoffs by virtue of their win over the Bulldogs.

Country Club dance Saturday

Sanders HIV joins top 10 causes of death

For the first time, infection with the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), which causes AIDS, has been listed among the leading 10 causes of death in Texas.

The Texas Department of Health's (TDH) Bureau of Vital Statistics, which records the state's death certificates, has announced that 1,836 Texas residents died as the result of HIV infection in 1990. This was an increase of 354 over the 1,482 deaths attributed to HIV infection in 1989. Of the bureau's "10 leading causes" list, HIV infection now ranks 10th, a place previously held by cirrhosis of the

Tom Pollard, director of the bureau's Statistical Services Division, said that the list of 10 causes is derived from a larger list of 72 categories, some of which are groups of diseases. HIV infection has been listed separately from a group of other infections since 1987. "The first year we listed HIV infection as a separate cause of death, it ranked 15th on our list of 72. The next year (1988), it tied at 13th place with atherosclerosis. And in 1989, it ranked 11th," Pollard said. Pollard explained that other states which have reported high incidence of HIV infection also have listed HIV among their 10 leading causes of death. "New York listed HIV at sixth place on its list from 1987 to 1989, and that state's reports are not yet complete for 1990. Similarly, New Jersey's (1988) and the District of Columbia's (1989) latest lists rank HIV infection at eighth place.

Florida ranked HIV ninth on its most recent report (1989), while California ranked the infection seventh."

On the national level, HIV infection was listed as the 11th leading cause of death in both 1989 and 1990, Pollard added.

Pollard explained that although HIV infection replaced cirrhosis of the liver as the 10th leading cause of death, there was no change in the order of the other nine causes.

Heart disease again led the list, claiming 39,443 lives, followed by cancer, causing 28,483 deaths. Cerebrovascular disease ranked third with 8,388 deaths. And accidents, resulting in 6,225 deaths, ranked fourth. Categories 5-9 completing the list of 10 were: (5) chronic obstructive pulmonary diseases and allied conditions, 4,857 deaths; (6) pneumonia and influenza, 4,267 deaths; (7) diabetes mellitus, 3,548 deaths; (8) homicide, 2,391; and (9) suicide, 2,156.

Brazell named receives district ranger

The Caribou National Forest has announced the appointment of Rick Brazell as the new district ranger for its Malad Ranger District.

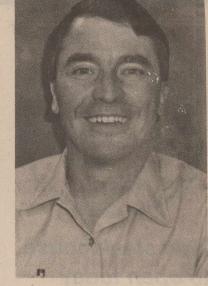

The Caribou National Forest in southeast Idaho lies in portions of six Idaho counties and parts of two others in Utah and Wyoming. With over one million acres, including the Curlew National Grassland, west of Malad, Idaho, the Caribou has significant range resources for cattle and wildlife.

As district ranger, Brazell will fill a key administrative position in the Forest Service. He will oversee management of the Curlew National Grassland, 16 miles west of Malad. The Grassland was established in 1960 to improve soil and vegetation, promote sound agriculture practices by maintaining sustained yield of forage, fish and wildlife, water and recreation

The Grassland is dotted with the remains of homesteads built by early settlers. The Great Dust Bowl of the 1930s forced people, who had been encouraged to move West by the Homestead Act, to relocate to a gentler place. The Curlew National Grassland is the only grassland in the Intermountain Region (Region 4) of the Forest Service.

Brazell will insure management of another 133,650 acres of National Forest Service system lands in addition to the 47,000 acre Curlew National Grassland. Some of his challenges will include administration of 8,332 cattle and 106 sheep which graze on the district's ranges. Recreation use on the district is high with over 40,000 recreation visitor days per year. More than 200 miles of trails are found on the Malad district which require yearly maintenance. The district also maintains six public campgrounds.

Administration of special use permits, including road use, powerlines, water systems and cabins, must also be monitored. Minerals activities such as gold mining and a large active Perlite mine will also be monitored. Fire management and law enforcement must also be accomplished on this expanse of land.

Brazell is a graduate of Paint Creek High School and attended Texas Tech University and West Texas State University. He later received his master's from Utah State University in Logan, Utah.

He is the son of the late Buddy Brazell and Jenny Collins of Haskell. Rick and his wife, Becky (formerly Gholson) and their four sons moved to Malad from Vernal, Utah, where Brazell served on the Ashley National Forest for the past seven years.

Stenholm wants to reduce resolutions

Saying it will save money, Congressman Charles Stenholm has agreed to co-sponsor HR 1882, the National Commemorative Events Advisory Act. The act would end Congressional consideration of commemorative resolutions by establishing an independent commission to advise the President on proposed commemorative time peridos.

"Congress needs to devote all its time to passing legislation that will help the American public and stop spending any time working on 'feel good' bills such as National Tap Dance Day," said Stenholm. Stenholm pointed out that there are some meritorious proposals that are brought to various members' attention. That's why he supports creating an 11-member independent commission, similar to the Stamp Advisory Board, that can consider all proposals equally and make recommendations to the President.

In reviewing past Congressional sessions, 28 percent of the laws from the 100th Congress were commemoratives. Of the 650 bills passed during the 101st Congress, 195 (or 33 percent) were commemorative in nature.

Printing costs for the 699 commemorative bills introduced in 1989 totaled more than $382,000

It was a big night in Rochester information outlines freedom of individual choice under state law, including a person's right to accept or refuse medical treatment. In Texas, hospitals will provide information on the Natural Death Act, which allows a peson to request the withdrawal or withholding of medical care in the event of a terminal illness, and the Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care Act, which allows the naming of a person to make even routine medical decisions, should the patient become incapacitate.

Hospital Policy: Written information must detail the hospital's policies with regard to implementing patient rights under state law. This policy will outline methods for providing information to patients; a method of documenting in the patient's medical record whether or not advance directives were issued; a statement assuring that execution or non-execution of an advance directive will have no affect on patient care; assurances that each of the provider's facilities are complying with state law regarding advance directives; and provisions to educate hospital staff and the community on advance directive

The Patient Self-Determination Act does not prohibit a caregiver from refusing to implement an advance directive on the basis of conscience, if this refusal is allowed under state law. In Texas, the Natural Death Act allows a physician to refuse compliance with directives, and it protects the physician from civil or criminal liability if reasonable efforts are made to transfer the patient to another physician.

According to the new federal law, all adults, whether competent or incompetent, must receive the information when admitted as in inpatient to the hospital.

The Natural Death Act allows the withdrawal or withholding of medical care to be requested by a competent adult who is suffering from a terminal illness. This directive, often referred to as a "living will", may include instructions for a physician not to use mechanical or other artificial means of support when the only purpose of those measures is to postpone the natural dying process.

A directive outlining a patient's desires may be prepared at any time, but does not become operative until the patient is terminally ill.

There are specific guidelines for drafting a directive under this state law. The directive must be signed by the patient and witnessed by two persons, with severe restrictions placed on who may serve as witnesses. The directive may be verbal or drafted via another nonwritten means of communication, but must be done in the presence of the attending physician and two eligible witnesses.

The patient issuing a directive must be a competent adult. An advance directive may be prepared on behalf of someone under age 18 by that minor person's adult spouse, parents or legal guardian.

Before a directive may be carried out, the terminal illness must be confirmed and certified by two physicians. The directive may be revoked at any time, even in the final stages of a terminal illness. The expressed desire to receive lifesustaining treatment at all times supersedes the directive.

In times where a directive has not been executed and a terminally ill patient is unable to communicate, family members or the patient's guardian and the attending physician work together to make decisions about life-sustaining treatment. The Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care Act offers more flexibility than the Natural Death Act. It allows a patient to name another person to direct medical decisions, even routine procedures, in the event of incapacitation. Unlike the Natural Death Act, use of the durable power of attorney is not restricted to life-death treatment questions involving a terminally ill

In preparing a power of attorney under the Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care Act, specific procedures must be followed. The document must be signed by the patient and two qualified witnesses, and it must be affirmed that the patient appeared to be of sound mind, was aware of the nature of the document, and signed voluntarily and while free of duress. The person given power of attorney for health care may exercise authority only if the patient's attending physician, following specific guidelines, judges that the patient lacks the capacity to make health care decisions. The transfer of power is revoked if the patient regains decision-making capabilities.

The person making medical decisions on behalf of the patient is responsible for following the patient's wishes, based on either guidelines in the power of attorney or using the best assessment of the patient's desires. There are, however, five areas where authority cannot be transferred from the patient: voluntary inpatient mental health services, convulsive treatment, psychosurgery, abortion and discontinuing care intended to provide for the patient's comfort.

(Every patient admitted to Haskell Memorial Hospital will be presented with a living will and an explanation of what it is. Also, anyone in the community wishing to obtain this packet may do so through the hospital's business office. Anyone desiring a program to be presented to a club or organization may contact Margurite Gauntt at the hospital.)

Monday's mail brought a letter from Ms. Rogers in which she criticized this editor for allowing the publication of a story which stated that Bill Nemir of Haskell attended North Texas State University.

"A recent story in your newspaper referred to the University of North Texas by its old name," she wrote. "Our name changed to University of North Texas in

She added four more paragraphs to make her point, and enclosed a clipping of the newspaper article, the one which carried the announcement of Nemir's appointment as local hospital administrator.

Now, perhaps I can look forward to a similar letter from a similar official with Angelo State University since the article also stated that he attended San Angelo College.

Hate to split hairs with Ms. Rogers, but it would seem that if Mr. Nemir was a student at the Denton school prior to 1988, he was attending North Texas State University, not the University of North Texas.

I know several people, including my wife, who attended Tarleton College back when it was a junior college. I think it would be wrong to say they attended Tarleton State University. There wasn't such a thing back then.

A lot of history books would have to be changed, by Ms. Rogers' thinking. John Adams, for instance, graduated from Harvard College. Should history books be changed to make it Harvard University?

And what about our own local graduates of Mattson High School? Should they be referred to as graduates of Haskell High School? I think not.

Doyle High, Haskell's most famous biker, has received a card from him, saying he finished sixth in a field of 14 in the 508-mile qualifying run through Death Valley. He said he would try again.

Smith had good memories of Haskell. "Really enjoyed Haskell and the wonderful and friendly people," he wrote. "Tell Mrs. Lane I picked up the station for around 75 miles and I heard the conversation of my biking on it,

What's the leading cause of injury-relarted deaths in Texas? Automobile accidents?

Wrong. It's firearms.

Firearms surpassed motor vehicle accidents as the state's leading cause of injury-related deaths in 1990, according to an article in the November issue of Texas Medicine. There were 3,443 deaths related to firearms in Texas last year, compared to 3,390 motor vehiclerelated deaths. This marked the first time in at least 27 years that motor vehicle deaths did not rank as the state's leading cause of injury deaths. Motor vehicles had been the leading injury killer in the state since vital records were computerized in 1964, the article stated. Between 1985 and 1990, 19,184

Texans died from gunshot wounds. Included were 408 children. Those between the ages of 25 and 34 had the highest death rate from firearms.

Males were five times more likely to be killed by firearms than females, and blacks were 1.9 times as likely to be killed by a firearm than whites or Hispanics. Black males had the highest firearm death

TAX PLANNING

REDUCE YOUR PROPERTY TAXES

Many homeowners who challenge their real estate tax assessments are successful in reducing their property taxes.

Basically, your property tax bill is figured by taking the assessed value of your propery and multiplying it by the tax rate in the area where you live. If you can successfully argue that the assessed value is too high, you can lower your tax bill.

Here are some suggestions to help you make a successful

- · Review your current assessment from the county assessor's office. Look for obvious errors in the size, description or condition of your property. Personal property should not be included in the assessment.
- Compare assessed values of your property with similar properties in your neighborhood. This information is available at the assessor's office.
- Check recent sales prices of homes in your neighborhood that are similar to yours. A local realtor will have this information if the assessor's office doesn't.
- Obtain a copy of the most recent appraisal on your home or have an appraisal done.
- List factors that could decrease the value of your home if you were to sell it, such as an unusual floor plan, a busy street or a recently built shopping complex nearby.
- Don't miss special exemptions. Some states allow reductions in property taxes for veterans or senior citizens, or for owners of historic buildings or buildings with energy saving systems.

Even if you fail to get your property taxes reduced this year, keep an eye on future increases.

Notes From The Rolling Plains

(Note: The following is one of a series of stories by noted wildlife photographer Wyman Meinzer offered by Haskell Save-A-$ for your enjoyment.)

As often as possible, just after the rise of the morning sun, my wife and jog or walk some five miles distance either north or south out of town. It's an invigorating time of the day as the morning winds carry a cool, clean aroma from the distant rangelands. This morning we topped the ridge north of Benjamin and faced a refreshing breeze from the south, its coolness harboring a freshness that only a rain can instill over the autumnal landscape. I remarked that this particular wind was so good today but that it's only after a autumn rain that a south wind can parallel the freshness of any wind from the north. I began to wonder at the statement that I'd made. Why is a north wind so special to me? In my childhood days we lived in a ranch house that stood atop a rolling hill amid the badlands of Knox county. South of us a mile the Brazos carved a lazy path to the east. Beyond the Brazos lay the rich farmland of Knox and Haskell counties. To the north, the badlands stretched for seemingly endless miles broken only by the narrows and Highway 82, before dipping once more into the drainage of the Wichita River and beyond. I loved the badlands and longed to spend each waking hour walking or hunting within its holds. When the northers of winter swept over the landscape, it seemed the winds brought some of the badlands with it, a piece of even more beautiful broken land to the north. It was a wild wind, unharnessed in its fury to bring change to the land and its inhabitants. Yes, the north winds brought change to life within the rolling plains. I loved that. Now over thirty years later, I sitll love the expectant anticipation of the north winds. My travels have carried me beyond the badlands that I knew as a small boy and showed me the source from which the winds of change may come. I have walked the plains of Sasketchewan and shivered uncontrollably under the weight of its bitter winds. I've watched an unbroken sunrise over the Alberta rockies and listened to the wild call of the bull elk along the Bow River. The Yukon has shown me its wildness in the forests where the moose and grizzly reign supreme. And finally in Alaska, with its stark mountains and tundra, I have stood at the source of the north wind and wondered in awe how life could be sustained in such a brutal land as this. Yes, the north wind-it whispers of a land beyond. It is little wonder that I welcome freshness and vigor it instills over the Rolling Plains of Texas.

Public Notice

On July 1, 1991, Southwestern Bell Telephone filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas that proposes to delete Paragraph 3.4(G) from Section 3 of Southwestern Bell's intrastate Access Service Tariff, which concerns credits where a customer uses Switched Access Service to furnish a service which has been defined to be an exchange service. The application was assigned Docket No. 10463.

Because Southwestern Bell is not aware of any customers who presently use switched access service to furnish an exchange service, Southwestern Bell does not believe its revenues will be affected. However, certain interexchange carrier customers of switched access service have made claims under the aforementioned tariff. Such customers, but only to the extent they provide an exchange service using switched access, would be affected by this application. Based on claims made for credits (assuming such credits were allowable), Southwestern Bell's revenues would be affected by no more than $1,168,962 annually, which is .037 percent of the Company's adjusted revenue for the 12-month period ending December 31, 1990. It is not possible to know how many interexchange carriers might believe themselves entitled to credits, but 189 carriers have registered with the Commission pursuant to PUC Substantive Rule 23.61.

The tariff, after suspension, is proposed to be effective

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible, but no later than November 15, 1991. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256. The telecommunications device for the deaf (TDD) number is (512) 458-0221.
