If your tax situation has changed since you last figured your withholding, you should consider making adjustments. First, you should estimate your tax liability for the year. Then calculate how much will be withheld from wages. If the withholding is less than 90% of this year's liability, you can still avoid a penalty if the withholding is at least equal to last year's liablilty.

If you need to increase your withholding, file a new Form W-4 with your employer. If you've had too much withheld, you can decrease your withholding by using Form W-4, or you can file your income tax return early in 1992 to claim the refund.

Notes From The Rolling Plains

(Note: The following is one of a series of stories by noted wildlife photographer Wyman Meinzer offered by Haskell Save-A-$ for your enjoyment.)

During the recent cold spell that hit the rolling plains at such an early stage of the season, my family and I were sitting in the bedroom watching the fire and listening to the freezing winds howl outside. As we sat and listened to the popping of the red hot mesquite, I asked my oldest son what a fire like this meant to him. After a moment he replied, "it's warm to me". This is true, I thought, but the warmth does not necessarily always mean heat in a literal sense. Lying there on the floor, feeling the warmth radiating from the fire, my thoughts raced back to a time some 17 years ago when I sat each night in front of a little fireplace in the half dugout line camp and listened to the moan of the winter winds outside. Alone in a small hut for days on end tends to fine tune the human mind on priorities. Some of the most important times for me during this period were those nights when the supper dishes were placed away and the water drawn for breakfast. With an armload of wood from the porch outside, I fed the little fireplace and cherished the hours spent sitting and simply watching the flames writhe and twist around the old mesquite logs within. The fire was my friend and its presence in that little cabin was as necessary as the food in the cupboards. With the swirling winds of an arctic storm racing around the windows and walls, my fire was my companion and with it I could face whatever nature chose to offer. I spoke of my fears and dreams with the fire. It always listened. It was life in a seemingly lifeless land and I cherished the moments we shared. One can only imagine the role that fire played in the lives of our native American hunters when nature unleased its wrath on the nomadic people of the bygone era. Yes, a fire yield warmth for most people of this day and the answer of my son was most correct. But to me, from a time almost two decades ago, I have a special relationship with fire and I hope I never forget our times shared together. Wyman Meinzer

This was the boys way of repaying the firemen for helping the Troop with their Firemanship Merit Badges. After the meeting, the Scouts went next door to the Dairy Queen for hot chocolate and cokes. Indians bow to Anson

Haskell closed out its 1991 football campaign here Friday night as the Indians bowed to Anson, 33-

But the Indians went down fighting. They led, 12-6, at one point in the second period and were trailing only 13-12 until the final seconds of the first half.

The Indians ended the season with a 1-8-1 record. The lone victory was a 15-14 win over Winters and the tie was a 13-13 standoff against Seymour.

Anson threatened to make a runaway of the 1991 finale. The Tigers scored on their third play from scrimmage. Cody Hestand went over from the 2, after a 25yard pass from Jimmy Garcia to Lupe Garcia and a 30-yard run by Jimmy Garcia had moved the ball from the Tiger 43 where they had taken over after Haskell failed to gain on a fourth-and-one.

Late in the first period, Jonathan Tatum intercepted a Garcia pass to give the Indians possession at their own 37. Ten plays later, a minute and a half deep into the second period, Mart Guess passed 22 yards to Johnny Rodriquez for a touchdown and the Indians had tied the game.

After Will Duniven recovered an Anson fumble on the Tiger 45 on the ensuring kickoff, the Indians drove the 45 yards in five plays to take a 12-6 lead at the 8:18 mark of the second period. Cody Josselet scored from a yard out after a 36yard pass from Guess to Chris Tanner had put the ball on the 1.

After an exchange of possessions, Anson regained the lead when Garcia passed 37 yards to Mike Ashford for a touchdown and then kicked the extra point with 1:46 remaining before halftime.

Later, an intercepted pass gave the Tigers possession at the Indian 47 and the Tigers drove in for a score with just 12 seconds remaining in the half. The payoff was a 7-yard touchdown pass from Jimmy Garcia to Lupe Garcia. The touchdown gave the Tigers a 19-12 edge at intermission.

The Tigers padded their lead to 26-12 late in the third period when Hestand scored from the 1 on the end of a drive which began with another interception and featured a 52-yard run by Jimmy Garcia. Ashford got the final touchdown early in the final period when he ran 8 yards for a score shortly after the Tigers recovered an Indian fumble at Paint Creek Boy Scout Troop 148 competed in the Double Moutain Fall Camporee on Nov. 8-10. The Camporee was held on the Ed Wolsch Ranch near Old Glory and was attended by approximately 150 Boy Scouts and Webelo Scouts and their adult leaders from the 13 units represented.

Troop 148 arrived at the campsite on Friday and after setting up their tents, left for Asperment to watch the football game between Paint Creek and Aspermont and returned later that night.

On Saturday, the troop competed in contests of skill, including flint and steel, fire building, first aid, lashings, compass work, distance estimating, Morse code, trail sign recognition, knot tying, and the "Atomic Pile" whereby the Scouts were asked to move a delicately balanced object on a board using only four 10-foot ropes attached to the corners. These events this year were designed to test both individual skills and the patrol's ability to work together to accomplish a task.

At the Saturday night campfire, the troop was presented first place ribbons in the Atomic pile, signaling and knot tying; second place in compass work, flint and steel and trail signs; and third place in compass course and width estimation. As a result of these awards, the troop was also presented the coveted Presidential Award signifying that they had accumulated more points than any other troop present.

This year's Camporee was held in beautiful weather between two northers and the Scouts were treated to two hard freezes on Friday and Saturday nights. On Sunday morning, the Scouts and Webelos attended a religious service in a church made by God and conducted by Tim Jennings of Paint Creek.

Troop 148 Scouts competing in this year's Fall Camporee were Hans Overton, Marcus Overton, Casey Thompson and Jim Crawford. Adults enjoying the Camporee with the Scouts were Wallar Overton, scoutmaster, and Kenny Thompson, assistant

-- Letters to the Editor --

Forgotten?

Editor: The Super 2nd Saturday in Haskell (Nov. 9) was to honor America's veterans of all wars. The band played, the flag was raised and there was the gun salute.

What it lacked was people. If you were there you would know there was very few who cared enough to make an appearance. It might remind us of the 10 lepers who Jesus healed and only one returned back to thank him.

Sure, the weather was a little cold, but it was also cold in Italy, France, Luxembourg, Germany and also Korea. It was steamy hot in the South Pacific and Vietnam, and on the sands of Saudi Arabia. Our fighting men couldn't choose the weather. They had to go no matter what.

Today (Nov. 11) at 11 a.m., our town was strangely quiet. No church bells rang, no whistles blew. I'm sure there are many like myself who can remember when the fire whistles blew at 11 o'clock on Armistice Day. I wonder when and why this custom was discontinued.

When I worked for the Haskell ISD, Mr. Neal, who was principal of the high school at the time, asked me if I would speak to a certain history class about some of my experiences in World War II. But I never received an invitation from the teacher.

Our young people have a rich heritage. There are things we remember because it happened to us. It is forever engraved upon our hearts. But our children and their children have to be taught. How are they going to "Remember Pearl Harbor," if we don't teach them?

We teach them by words and example. What kind of message did our townspeople send out to our young people on Super 2nd Saturday, Nov. 9? We need to think upon these things.

I am one of the lucky ones. I was able to return to my home and family. There were countless others who were not so blessed. It is for them and their loved ones that "we

Editor: I would like to recognize the following "Spooks" for making the "Spook Cave," a haunting success for the third year. Thank you for your dedication and hard work, in spite of freezing temperatures. I "Spook Salute" you!

In memory

Editor: I write this in memory of the Haskell High School graduating class of 1929 and those there about. To those who have passed on and to the precious few who are left.

There seems to be something very special about a person from West Texas. We have a common heritage that binds us together where ever we may be. We can, in memory, re-live such times as just before dawn of a spring day, out in the country where the air is cool and sweet, and we view the sunrise of a beautiful day.

The beginning of a new day in the beginning of life, your heart is light and you sing with joy; and then the end of day, the setting sun splashing all the colors of the rainbow across God's western sky.

The beauty is breathtaking, and you look in awe upon God's face. You hear the humming and singing of the telephone wires, 'tis a sad and lonely sound, as if voices form the beyond would speak to you.

Twilight comes, the stillness roars in your ears, and you hear the beginning of night sounds. The quiet broken only by the sounds of crickets, the tinkle of a cow bell, and perhaps, in the distance, the wail of a train whistle.

Often you sleep out doors and you go to your bed under a cloudless sky, and gaze into the heavens with its millions of twinkling stars, and you think of God, and as you doze into peaceful slumber, the words come to your mind, "How Great Thou Art".

-Green Thumb-

By Gladys O'Neal Haskell Garden Club When chill November's surly blast made fields and forests bare. . Robert Burns, 1786.

The work you do in your garden this month can spell success or failure next spring.

You can enjoy fall foliage indoors by bringing your favorite colored leaves inside and giving them a simple glycerine treatment.

Here is the formula: Make a solution of one part glycerine to 3 parts warm water. Mix well and place the cut end of prepared branch in the solution. Leave in the solution until you can see glycerine in the leaves. It takes 3 days to 3 weeks, depending on the foliage.

Crush the branch stems lightly with a small hammer or cut a slash along each side of the branch at least 2 inches long to allow the glycerine to penetrate faster.

Stand the branches upright in glass jars, so you can watch and keep the crushed or cut ends covered. Be sure to keep the solution at a depth to cover the cut branches. When you notice the color of the leaves changing, remove the branches and hang them upside down in a dark place until ready to use. Don't let them become oversaturated because the solution will ooze out unattractively on the undersides of the leaves.

I use photemia leaves, or any waxy looking leaf does well.

Because glycerine is quite expensive, the solution can be used again.

Now is a good time to divide cannas, irises. Plant two feet apart or in clumps of three. If you've already divided, it is fine. They just need to get well-rooted before mid-

Rake fallen debris from beneath rose bushes and fruit trees. This material will harbor diseases that can reinfect the plants next year.

To store you coladiums, before a freeze kills their foliage, lift the bulbs and let them dry in the shade for 2 days. Then remove the foliage and store in a dry, cool place.

After the chrysanthemums have finished blooming, cut them back to just a few inches above the ground.

They have the appearance of soft Sunday. brown leather. They are so pretty in

Brown cotton

This bouquet of "brown" cotton is on display in the window of The Personality Shoppe in Haskell.

Son-in-law grows 'colored' cotton

The son-in-law of a Haskell couple from Slaton is among a group of farmers in that area involved in the growing of "brown" and "green" cotton which will be used in the manufacture of clothing by Levi Strauss & Co.

Tracy Kitten and his father, Franklin Kitten, are among 40 Texas farmers who are growing 1,200 acres of the cotton. He is married to the former Lori Lane of Haskell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Lane.

Levi Strauss will introduce Levi's Naturals jeans from the naturally colored cotton in "very limited' distribution during the upcoming holiday season. Then, with more of the cotton available from this season's harvest, Levi's Naturals from the richly tanned cotton will be in large distribution Concerning the glycerine for next fall, Levi officials told the treatment, I have used magnolia Abilene Reporter-News which leaves and they respond beautifully. carried a story on the project last

An acre of colored cotton can produce enough fiber for about 400 to 500 pair of tan jeans that actually darken---instead of fading--when washed.

The brown cotton was developed by Sally Fox of Natural Cotton Colours, Inc., of California. An entomologist, Fox was at work in 1982 developing insect-resistant strains of cotton when she came upon the original seeds for colored cotton. The wild seeds were collected during the 1930s and 40s by the Department of Agriculture. Her decision to explore the crop potential of naturally colored cotton was an outgrowth of her hobbies of spinning weaving.

Levi's Naturals will be displayed at retail in both cedar boxes and metal fixtures suggesting antique windmills and cotton gin equipment. The wholesale price will be approximately $27 per pair.

Veterans

Editor: We haven't been out to Haskell County much lately, so will use this means to bring you up to date on the project of locating the resting places of Haskell County's Confederate veterans.

You can see that a few names have been added to the list since our last letter, but, not nearly all of the veterans have been located. It is hoped you will favor us by publishing the fact that this effort is being made, asking for the following information for each Confederate:

(1) Name in full, (2) place of birth, (3), date of birth, (4) place of death, (5) date of death, (6) rank while in service, (7) unit in which veteran served, (8) name of cemetery in which interred, (9) any other information, particularly on his service, which might aid in preparing a biographical sketch; a photo will be excellent with this.

Any or all of the above information will be helpful. Am sure some of it will not be available but will appreciate any part of it that we can receive.

The idea in this project is to prepare a record which can be installed in the archives and libraries to perpetuate the memory of these men. Time---along with yankee and historians---has already eradicated many of their deeds from history. Such a tragedy. It is important that they be remembered.

The biographical sketch mentioned will be placed in the U.S. Army History Institute, Carlisle Barracks, Pa., for perpetuation and recognition. Several bio-sketches of The War for Southern Independence (Un-Civil War), Spanish-American War, World War I, World War II, Korea and Vietnam have already been installed there as a result of the Rule Veterans Memorial project.

The Weinert Extension Homemakers Club met Nov. 5 in the home of Cordie Cunningham in Haskell.

The meeting was called to order by Jimmie Weinert, president. The hostess gave a reading, "My Prayer."

The pumpkin decorating contest was divided into three age groups--3 years and under won by Brady Melton, 9 and under won by Amanda Ray and 12 and under won by Angela Brown. Each received a certificate for the best pumpkin.
