Remembering Pearl Harbor

If you're in your late 50s or older, you remember Pearl Harbor.

And most Haskell people of that age remember exactly where they were and when they heard of the Japanese attack on Dec. 7, 1941, a Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Woody Frazier were in a bus station somewhere between Haskell and Brownfield. They were enroute to Brownfield to visit Mrs. Frazier's uncle. The bus made a rest stop along the way and it was there that they heard of the attack.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fouts were living in Wichita Falls where he was working for Western Electric. Tom Kaigler, a friend, also was working for Western Electric. "We weren't even up when Tom burst into our place and shouted, 'We're at war!'" Fouts recalls.

Mary Kaigler was a high school senior. There were several teenage girls at her house and they were listening to the radio when the news broke. "I remember we didn't want to go to school the next day," she said.

Elbert Johnson was a teenager in Temple. He and several other kids were playing in the yard when a boy came by hawking an "Extra" of the Temple Daily Telegram with a headline reading, "U.S. at War!" he said. His mother bought a paper and they all huddled around to read the news. "Then we went in the house and listened to the radio," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cameron were traveling to his parents' home southwest of Rochester when they heard the news on the car radio.

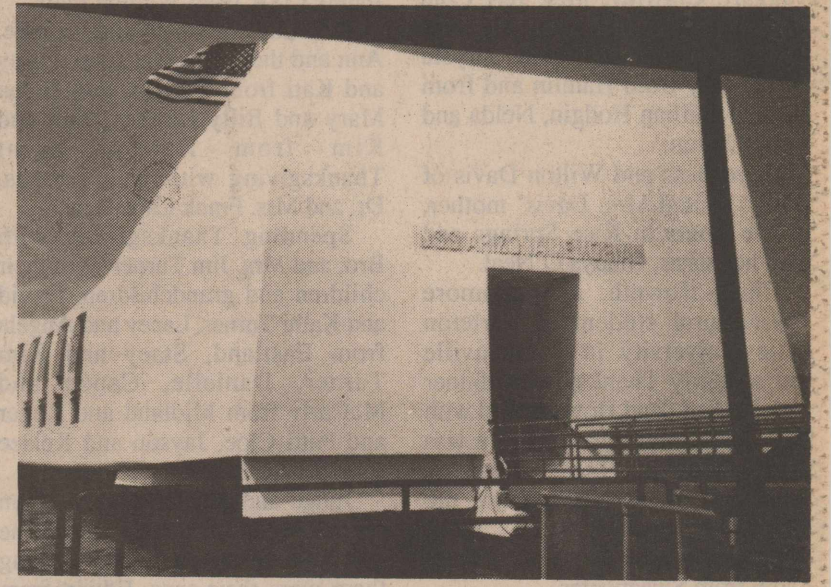

Charles McCauley also heard the news on a car radio. Along with a crowd of other teenagers, McCauley, who lived in Rice, was between Ennis and Corsicana when they heard the news. "It was just 16 so I wasn't too shaken," he recalls.

Darold Roberson, then 10, was with his family at his grandmother's home in Petersburg. "We lived in Abernathy and when we got home my dad stayed up nearly all night listening to the news," said Roberson.

Wallace Wooten, a teenager at the time, was home when his uncle, Herman Ballard, came over to give him the news. "We then turned on the radio to learn more," he said.

Bill Comedy was playing tennis with other teenagers in Coleman when his cousins came by the

Alsabrook poster is winner

Stephanie Alsabrook, sixth-grade student at Haskell Elementary School, has taken the first step to becoming an internationally recognized artist by winning a local competition sponsored by the Haskell Lions Club.

Stephanie's poster is among thousands of entries submitted worldwide in the third annual Lions Club International Peace Poster contest. Out of all the posters created by Haskell Elementary School's fifth and sixth grade students, Stephanie's entry best portrayed the contest's theme, "Peace Begins With Us."

Her poster now advances to round 2 district competition in Olney where it will compete against entries from many other schools in the area. Her poster will face stiff competition through the district round and in three more rounds of international competition if she is to be declared the international grand prize winner.

Lions International is sponsoring the contest to underscore the importance of world peace to young people everywhere.

Ultimately, one grand prize winner will be selected from 24 international finalists. The grand prize includes a cash award of $1,500, plus an all-expense-paid trip for the winner and two family members to New York City for the awards ceremony at the United Nations in March. As Merit Award winners, the remaining 23 finalists will receive certificates and cash awards of $250.

Semi-finalists in local competition were Wendy Cadenhead and Paul McGuire, sixth grade; and Amy Moeller, Freddie Williams and Mickey Guzman, fifth grade. Local Lions expressed their appreciation to all students who participated in the event. They also thanked Sherry Adams and Debbie Earles who helped coordinate the local competition.

Rule man recalls Japanese attack

By Wendell Faught

Everyone who was old enough to comprehend the magnitude of the event remembers Pearl Harbor. But no one remembers it better than Loyd Allen of Rule. He was there.

Pearl Harbor was a U.S. naval installation in Hawaii. As of 7:55 a.m. on Dec. 7, 1941, it became an event of historical proportions.

It was then and there that a two-hour surprise Japanese attack on U.S. Navy, Marine and Army forces launched America into history's greatest armed conflict and spawned a "Remember Pearl Harbor" battle cry which was to spur millions of American fighting men into battles on the four corners of the earth.

Loyd Allen was an 18-year-old Marine, who had arrived in Hawaii two months earlier. He had joined the Marines in August, took boot camp at San Diego and arrived in Pearl Harbor in October. He was serving with the 2nd Guard Company in NAD West Loch, a naval ammo depot.

"We had had liberty in Honolulu on Saturday night, and there was no indication of things to come," Allen recalls.

He said there was a general feeling that a Japanese attack on the U.S. was forthcoming, but most thought it would be in the Philippines or Wake Island or somewhere else.

"That Sunday morning, army observation point personnel had given the alarm of approaching planes, but they were thought to be

Haskell man was there, too

Arthur Henderson would like to forget about Pearl Harbor. But he can't.

The Haskell businessman was a Marine aboard the USS Pennsylvania at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attacked on Dec. 7, 1941.

Japanese planes bombed the ship, causing considerable damage and many casualties. Of 120 Marines in his detachment, seven were killed and about 25 injured. Henderson was not injured.

Henderson, who now owns Haskell Book Store and Paper Back Exchange at 906 S. Ave. E, recalls the tense conditions preceding the attack. He said everyone believed an attack was coming some where, but "we felt pretty safe in Hawaii."

He stayed in Hawaii until November 1942 when he returned to the States. After six months in San Diego, he went back to the Pacific to participate in the battles of Bougainville and Guam.

"We were sitting around the dock in Guam waiting for the invasion of Japan when the war ended," he remembers.

Henderson was discharged Nov. 10, 1945. He returned to Haskell where he worked as a carpenter until he opened the book store in 1977.

Henderson was living in Houston when he joined the Marines in February 1940. The son of George and Dolly Henderson, he had spent 10 of his growing-up years in Haskell.

Henderson and his wife, the former Evelyn Rousseau, have two daughters in Haskell, Martha Jarred and Janie Stone.

More than 50 units are in the lineup for the 10th annual night Christmas parade in Haskell Saturday. It begins at 6 p.m.

A record number of 15 floats will be included, plus new and antique cars, farm vehicles, bands, a calliope, twirlers, horses and buggies, large trucks, etc.

Celebrity judges for the parade and residential areas will be Bob Bartlett, news anchor for KTAB-TV; Larry Zelisko, regional editor of the Abilene Reporter-News; Nicki Harle, show hostess for KRBC-TV; and Jerry Ekhard, KTXS-TV weatherman.

Coordinators for the judges will be Sue McGee and Melisa Robison, Chamber of Commerce board members. West Texas Utilities employees will play host to the judges and the winners' names will be posted on the WTU window after the parade.

Conrad Roewe, Chamber president, lauded the many volunteers form the City of Haskell, Sheriff's Department, Highway Patrol and Fire Department who handle the traffic control and communications for the parade.

For the 10th consecutive year, Charles Thornhill will be the announcer for the parade from the judges' stand on the south side of the courthouse. Sam Watson is parade marshal, assisted by Bill Steele.

Mary Kaigler adjusts the decorations on the Crismon tree at the First United Methodist Church.

Crismon tree decorated

By Mary Kaigler

It's become a tradition for me during the eight Decembers I've been in Haskell, and last Saturday I got to do it again. I enjoy helping decorate the Crismon tree at the First United Methodist Church with the traditional symbols of Christianity which were studiously researched and painstakingly hand-crafted 15 years ago by a number of devoted members.

The Crismons (a word which literally means "Monogram of Christ" and is now used generally to represent any symbols for Christ) are carefully brought out and unwrapped each year by a group which includes some who helped make them and some who were little girls when they were made.

Among the ancient symbols there are the star and rose of the virgin birth, fish, dove, Latin and Jerusalem crosses, butterfly of resurrection, circle of eternity, crowns, triangle of the Triune, flame and sword, Greek and Latin first letters of the names Christ and Jesus, Greek letters Alpha and Omega and many variations of each.

All are done symbolically in the white of Christ's pure mind, the gold of his Princely royalty and the glitter and light of the glory he laid aside when he left heaven. Some of the decorations, like some of us who put them out, are beginning to show the wear of years. And yet, the ornaments are as delightful to eye and sense of tradition as ever.

As they were handed up and hung on the boughs, my mind wandered. How many times since 1910, when it was built, has this beautiful, old sanctuary held a Christmas tree? How many children have circled around it rehearsing the ageless songs and pageants, retelling the ageless Christmas story and filled with the ageless hopes and expectations of childhood? What wealth of memories do they still have of those times?

One that I know of, remembers Christmas 1922, when as a small boy of five years he sat expectantly, waiting for Santa to visit the children of the church, as they gathered around the tree. Always a rather doubting Thomas about things in general, he was anxious to verify his belief in the Jolly Fellow who was scheduled to come to the gathering that night.

Just the week before he'd had his confidence about it shaken by the Cass twins, Era and Vera, when they brazenly whispered to him that Santa Claus isn't real. Running home to Mama, who always seemed to know how to get things into perspective for him, he poured out the story and his anguish at the thought.

"Well," she said, solemnly shaking her head, "I've always thought they were such nice little girls. I'm really disappointed and surprised at them for saying such a thing. But, do you really think the pastor, Brother Culwell, would be having Santa come to the Christmas tree program if he isn't real?"

If Mama believed it, he believed it, and he was filled with renewed enthusiasm after such an affirmation.

At the program he sang all the words he could remember while Mrs. Patterson played the familiar Experience — We consider it money in the bank.

A face lined by dry, hot summer days, harsh winter, and seven-day work weeks. But there is sparkle, too, remembering warm spring sun or gentle rains and acres of cotton.

Back when he started farming, a man's labor represented the majority of his investment in the farm. Over the years, when he's had to invest in land and equipment, he's turned to his Land Bank Association for competitive, long-term financing. At the Land Bank we not only place value on a man's farm, but his experience, too.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Gerald Rodgers, CPA

WITH A DISCLAIMER, LESS IS SOMETIMES MORE
If you are about to receive an inheritance, you might consider rejecting it. This estate planning strategy -- called a "disclaimer" -- seems to defy common sense, but it can actually make good financial and tax planning sense.

Consider the example of Sam and Betty. Sam recently passed away, leaving his entire estate to Betty. Betty decided that she could live comfortably without receiving Sam's entire estate, so she disclaimed $100,000, which passed directly to their adult daughter as the "contingent beneficiary" of Sam's will. The $100,000 wasn't taxed in Sam's estate, and it is now out of Betty's estate as well. Future tax savings for Betty's estate: as much as $50,000.

In effect, disclaimers allow heirs to do tax planning after someone has died. A disclaimer can be a very useful tool, but you must follow IRS requirements exactly.

In order to be effective, a disclaimer must be written, irrevocable, and unqualified. Generally, a disclaimer must be delivered to the executor within nine months of the date of death. Prior to disclaiming property, you must not receive any benefits from it, such as interest income or dividends.

Disclaimed property will go back into the decedent's estate and pass to the contingent beneficiary as if you were no longer alive. You will have no control over where it goes. Therefore, before you disclaim, you should know whom the decedent has named as contingent beneficiary, and you should want this person to receive the property. Your heirs may wish to disclaim property that you leave them when you pass away.

Disclaimers should be done with the assistance of your attorney.

tunes. During the rush that followed Mr. F. G. Alexander's announcement that Santa had arrived in Haskell, he shyly waited to be recognized as the good little boy he'd been. With heart beating so hard he could feel it pulse in his ears, his hopes fell, as Santa brushed by him to plant a kiss on the cheeks of both Era and Vera Cass.

The boy walked home across the creek bridge with his gift of candy in his pocket and the pain of disappointment in his heart that Santa hadn't noticed him and kissed him, too. He knew that he wasn't as cute as the Cass twins were, but still, he wondered why Santa didn't know what those two had been saying about him. He wondered if maybe he, himself, hadn't been as good as he should have been, and he wondered why Santa had on the same shoes Mr. O. E. Patterson wore to church on Sunday. He decided that when he got home, to where his older sisters couldn't hear him, he'd ask Mama to explain it all.

Saturday, as I watched Paula Everett and Vickie Josselet on ladders, stringing tiny white lights on this year's new 10-foot-tall tree, I was struck with how much history has been lived out in this old building in just such small vignettes as this remembered one. How rich we are in this country in the heritage of our traditions and in their influences on who we are. Free to embrace our traditions, we are enriched and blessed by the remembering and retelling of them.

But, that's not all we have of value at Christmas. Of even greater worth and influence on who we are is the embracing, remembering and retelling of, not just the trappings of tradition of Christmas, but of the truth of Christmas. Foretold by the ancients, yet ever fresh and new in the ears of believers. Simple, yet profound. A heritage beyond measure.

"For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be on his shoulder; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor and the mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace." Isaiah 9:6.

The tradition and the truth; we have them both.
"Let heaven and nature sing."

Allen...

American aircraft," Allen said. "Some of us were standing outside the barracks when we heard the planes. At first we just thought they were our planes. Then someone identified them as Japanese by their markings."

"About that time, a formation of Japanese planes peeled off and one came in strafing our barracks. Somehow, no one was injured."

Allen said he was immediately sent back to the dock and his post where an ammo ship was tied up. "Sailors from the ship started yelling for us to run down the red flag which identified the vessel as an ammo ship, making it a prime target. As soon as the flag was lowered, we were ordered out of the area because we would have had no chance if a bomb hit."

"They did bomb the ship," Allen said. "But the bombs fell in the water before exploding. I got away from the dock."

Before the battle ended, 2,330

Americans died and 1,347 were wounded. Eight battleships were sunk or badly damaged and 10 other vessels were sunk. One hundred and eighty-eight American planes were destroyed or incapacitated. The Japanese lost 64 men, 29 planes and five midget subs.

Allen said most of the American planes had been pulled out of shelter and parked wingtip to wingtip as officers were more fearful of sabotage from Hawaii's Japanese-Americans than an air strike. This left them sitting ducks for the Japanese.

As damaging as the attack was to America's Pacific Fleet, it could have been worse had three aircraft carrier battle groups not been at sea that day.

For some time after the attack, Allen said the servicemen stayed busy digging gun emplacements, expecting an invasion by the Japanese. "The invasion didn't come, of course, but it would have except for the American victory in the Battle of Midway which turned the Japanese back."

Allen later served six months on the Midway Islands and then returned to the states for 10 months before going back overseas. He was stationed on several islands before participating in the Battle of Okinawa, the last major battle of the war. Five divisions participated in the Okinawa battle, three Army and two Marine. Army Gen. Buckner was the commander. He, as well as a Col. Roberts from Allen's 6th Marine Division, were killed by Japanese artillery at a forward observation point.

From Okinawa, his unit went to Guam where it was training for an invasion of Japan when "the bomb" was dropped, bringing the Japanese to the peace table. Most of his unit then went to China and Japan to help disarm the Japanese. But Allen got to come home. He was discharged in October 1945.

During the Korean War, Allen was called back into service. But this time he didn't go overseas.

Allen was born in Haskell County and grew up here. He was living in Stonewall County in 1941 when he enlisted in the Marine Corps as a 17-year-old. After his release from service, he returned to Rule, worked a couple of years for the State Highway Department, worked for a contractor for a couple of years and farmed two or three years. He then went to Houston where he became a machinist for Petro Tex Chemical Co.

He retired from the Houston firm in 1978 and returned to Rule. He farmed a few years in the Rochester area. He and his wife, Leah, continue to live in Rule. They have two daughters in San Marcos and a son in Houston.

On Saturday, the 50th anniversary of the Pearl Harbor attack, Allen will be a special guest at a reception for Pearl Harbor veterans at Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene. Congressman Charles Stenholm will present medals to those veterans attending.

Allen is looking forward to the reception and meeting others who were at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

tennis courts and told them of the attack.

Dorothy Brown doesn't specifically recall Dec. 7, but she remembers Dec. 9 which she says is when she heard of the Japanese attack. She was in the hospital giving birth to a son, and her husband, Fred, brought her a radio so she could keep up on the war news.

Sonny Reynolds was a sophomore in Haskell High School. He can't remember exactly how he first heard the news. He remembers the next day when the students listened to the radio and heard President Roosevelt's address calling for a declaration of war.

Green Thumb

By Gladys O'Neal
Haskell Garden Club

Another year is coming to a close. It is time to think about how we may improve our health during the cold winter months. At best, we control some 50 percent of our health destiny.

I hope we have all done well with our gardening which has given us some help. I have been helped with the exercise my yard work has given me. I hope that good nutrition, moderate daily exercise and a constructive outlet for stress has been a good anti-aging formula for all of us gardeners. We don't like the word aging, so let's say "maturing."

It's gift-giving time. From the most practical to the most extravagant, gifts for the gardener are plentiful.

Freestanding ornaments, such as an urn, a statue, or even a sundial, are all nice.

Because this is a good time to set out trees and shrubs, a plant is an excellent choice. If the plant is leafless, just tie a pretty red ribbon around the trunk to give it appeal.

Many gardeners enjoy having birds in the garden. So a birdhouse or a feeder would be nice. For a bird weather, binoculars would be a thoughtful gift.

Wind chimes have no direct bearing on our gardens, but they make the outdoor activities more pleasant.

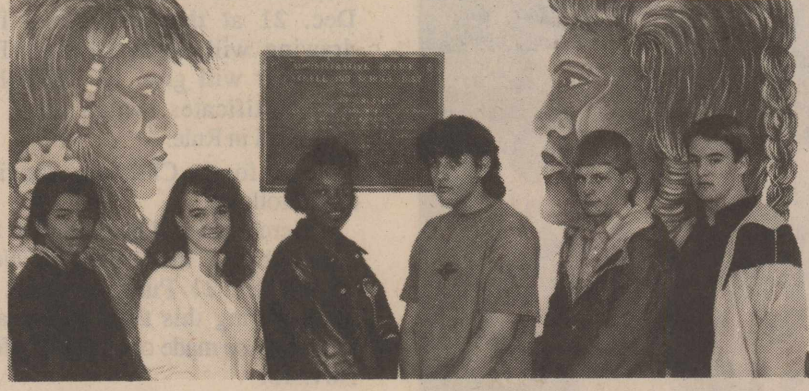

If we want to be practical, we could give iron plant hangers, or a fine pair of gloves or clippers.

At this time of the year when yard chores are fewer, the greatest gift of all might be a book to inspire visions of the spring season.

If you have tulip bulbs that have been chilled at least 60 days, plant them now in well-drained soil. Place the top of each bulb 3 to 4 inches below the ground. Don't let them dry out during the winter as that will reduce the showing of color when they bloom in the spring.

Keep your houseplants clean to reduce the chance of insects and disease. Spraying with insecticidal soap then wiping the foliage will clean the plants and help control aphids, mealybugs and scale as well. You can buy pre-mixed soaps or you can make your own by adding 2 teaspoons liquid soap to 1 gallon of water. Keeping our plants clean helps them to absorb more light which is especially important during the shorter days of winter.

Happy holidays to all, and enjoy your families!

Who's the boss?
Edna Andress didn't wait long to let everyone who's the boss after she took over Monday as owner of Kountry Kookin'.

Betty Lacey answered the phone when I called Tuesday morning.

"May I speak to Edna?" I asked. Replied Betty: "She's off today."

Well, at least the business is in good hands. Betty ran the place nine years with Edna as her No. 1 assistant. Now, their roles are reversed.

Welcome back, Edna and Betty. We missed you. And so did a bunch of other people.

And the award for the "ultimate Monopoly game" goes to... well, it depends on how you define it.

The popular real estate board game introduced in 1935 has been played in some unusual places. The most out-of-this-world games had to be those played by astronauts, who used Monopoly sets specially designed for manned space flights at the request of NASA.

The peak game on earth, though, was a German Monopoly championship held on Zugspitze, the highest mountain in the German Alps.

The longest recorded game was a 59-day affair played by students at the McCluer North Games Club in Florissant, Mo.

Perhaps the most "in depth" game was the Buffalo Dive Club's 45-day underwater game in 1983.

Monopoly is played today by 250 million people in more than 30 countries. The best players in each of those nations are now shooting for their own ultimate experiences in the world Monopoly championships.

Regional and national matches began this fall in the United States, with regional winners receiving trips to the national finals in New York.

The ultimate U.S. winner will get a chance at the world title in Berlin next October. He or she also will receive $15,140.

Why $15,140?
That's the amount of money in a Monopoly game bank.

"Drinking alcohol can lead to impulse shopping," warns Dr. Stuart C. Yudofsky, professor and chairman of the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

He issued that statement in a press release as a reminder to drinkers who will be Christmas shopping in coming weeks.

Which reminds me of this guy I knew in New Mexico. He bought him a new suit when he was "celebrating" in Albuquerque. Trying it on the next day, he said it was about two sizes too large.

"Didn't you try it on before you bought it?" asked his wife.

"Yes, but I guess I'm a lot bigger when I'm drunk," he reasoned.

Indians, Maidens defeat Munday

The Haskell Indians won their first game of the season and the Maidens evened their record with wins over Munday here Tuesday night.

The Indians won, 47-40, while the Maidens triumphed, 50-36.

The boys' game was extremely close until the fourth period. In fact, only two points separated the two teams at the end of each of the first three quarters. But after trailing, 32-30, at the three-quarter mark, the Indians exploded for 17 points in the fourth period while holding the Moguls to 8 points.

Tommy Isbell paced the scoring with 25 points. Jonathan Tatum had 13.

The Maidens broke a 12-12 first-period tie with a 14-point outburst in the second period while Munday was getting only 2 points, building up a lead they maintained throughout the second half.

Three Maidens scored in double figures with 10 points each, Teresa Diaz, Misty Bartley and Shana McKenzie.

The Indians are now 1-4 for the season, while the Maidens are 2-2.

On Friday, the Maidens will play Vernon in Vernon while the Indians will play Vernon here. Next Tuesday, both teams will play at Munday.

Avoiding Stings: To avoid bee and wasp stings, don't wear brightly colored clothing or perfume or walk barefoot; watch the ground where nests can be hidden; and put out picnic food only when you're ready to eat. The stingers from honeybees remain in the skin and should be flicked out with the finger or scraped out with a knife blade; pinching it with fingers or a tweezer may inject more venom. Ice will slow venom absorption and reduce itching and swelling. Any reaction more than a small itchy red lump requires medical attention.

Open house marks home care week

Home Health Care agencies nationwide are celebrating National Home Care Week Dec. 1-7.

National Home Care Week is celebrated during the holiday season when families are especially aware of the comfort, security and happiness at home. Outreach Health Services personnel want families to know that when a family member is ill and wants to stay at home to receive quality care, they are here for them.

Outreach has planned an open house for Friday, from 2 to 5 p.m., at 4 Ave. D on the square in Haskell to offer the public information regarding Home Health Care and extend Outreach's "Vial of Life" program.

During open house activities, Outreach staff members will provide free blood pressure screening and will answer questions about the many services they offer. Refreshments and the "Vial of Life Medical History Kits" will be provided for those attending.

The "Vial of Life" program is a simple system used to record a person's medical history and to have that information readily accessible in a time of crisis. A special color coded "vial" is provided which contains the medical history questionnaire that is filled out and inserted into the vial. The vial is then placed inside the refrigerator or on the front of the refrigerator door. Self adhesive stickers are provided and put on the front door of one's home in order to alert Emergency Medical personnel that a "Vial of Life" containing vital information is in the home.

Outreach Health Services has been providing high-quality professional health services to Haskell and the surrounding area for many years. Registered nurses, LVNs, therapists, home health aids and social workers are provided to offer comprehensive home care following an individual's private physician's orders.

The meeting begins at 6:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria and parents and community citizens are invited to attend.

THE TELCOT ADVANTAGE
To Cotton Marketing in 1991-92

Recently, the Adjusted World Price (AWP) for cotton fell below the base loan rate, throwing a new twist in cotton marketing. As provided in the 1990 Farm Bill, this development gives cotton growers two options in marketing their loan-eligible bales.

These are:

1. Placing the cotton into the government loan and marketing the equities. Cotton can be redeemed at the lower AWP, and all storage charges are waived.

OR

2. Electing to forego the loan in exchange for a Producer Option Payment (POP), which is the difference between the base loan and the AWP.

TELCOT is the BEST WAY for growers to market their cotton this season, offering these advantages:

SECURITY

Growers who sell equities on TELCOT know that they will not be responsible to CCC for storage and forfeiture charges if the cotton eventually forfeits to CCC.

SPEED AND CONVENIENCE

When growers forego the loan, TELCOT can apply for the POP on their behalf such that when they sell their cotton on TELCOT they receive their lint proceeds "PLUS" the POP, normally within 24 hours.

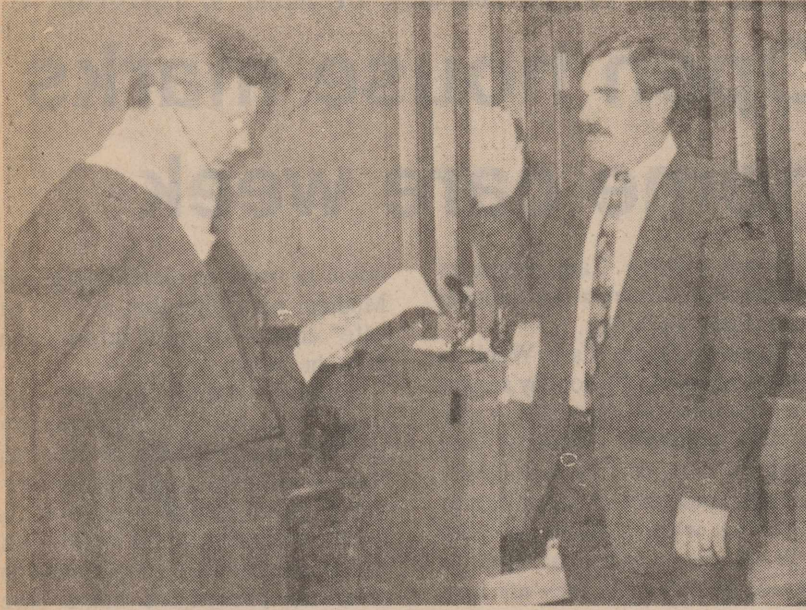

ACCESS

TELCOT gives growers access to more than 50 cotton buyers every day.

Joe B. and Ima Lee Smith

'Mom and Pop'

Sixty-five years ago today, Dec. 4, 1926, to be exact, Joe and Ima Lee Smith made a lifetime pact.

They promised to cherish, honor and obey.

This they have done day after day.

How they met was kind of funny, they say.

Both were stood up by other dates that day.

It was a picnic on July four That started their "courting" forever more.

Five months later, they became united as one.

Two years later they were blessed

With their one and only son.

Joe's work as a brick mason by trade

Won him many an accolade.

Ima Lee worked, no matter the job,

To make a home for Joe and Bob.

If it had not been for their love sincere,

None of us grandchildren would even be here.

So many memories in our hearts we hold dear,

We thank God for letting us have them year after year.

So "Thank You Our Special Mom and Pop"

Outstanding 4-H'ers honored in Vernon

Twenty-five outstanding members of 4-H clubs across the Rolling Plains were honored Nov. 18 in Vernon.

In addition to receiving the Gold Star award, highest honor presented at the county level by the youth organization, the recipients were challenged by Karen Murphy of Texas A&M University to continue to be positive leaders and make this honor a stepping stone in their journey toward success.

Honored from Haskell County was Mindy Ballard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Ballard of Rochester.

Joining the youths at the awards banquet at the Wilbarger Auditorium were parents, government officials, leaders of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, fellow 4-H'ers, educators and other community leaders. They were welcomed by Kit Horne, farm and ranch supervisor for West Texas Utilities, banquet sponsor.

The response to the welcome was by Kerri Bates, public relations chairman of the District 4-H Council. Jim Gardner of Stonewall County, council president, was master of ceremonies.

Baptist choose underwriter

Preferred Risk Mutual Insurance Company has announced it has been chosen as the endorsed property-casualty underwriter for the Southern Baptist Convention's 40,000 churches and administrative offices.

Preferred Risk Mutual is a part of Preferred Risk Group, American's non-drinkers insurance company. The group offers auto, home, and life insurance and annuities--as well as church insurance. It is comprised of four companies: Preferred Risk Mutual, Preferred Risk Life, Preferred Abstainers and Midwest Mutual, and operates nationally.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for us," said local PR agent Hess Hartsfield. "We're delighted to be working with the Southern Baptists because their beliefs so closely match our company philosophy."

The similarity in philosophy was a main reason PR was chosen, said Southern Baptist Annuity Board official Doug Day. Other reasons cited were the company's quality, financial stability, expertise of the claims staff and the large number of local agents with close ties to their communities.

Although individual churches are free to choose their own insurance company, Baptist officials will actively promote Preferred Risk's policies to the churches. While churches will be the initial focus of the program, it will extend to all SBC related entities such as state and associational offices, colleges, retirement facilities and other church related ministries.

In addition, Preferred Risk will be able to offer auto and homeowner coverage for individual church members.

The local Preferred Risk office at 417 S. 1st St., in Haskell has served the community for 100 years. It offers various pamphlets and films on the alcohol-free life style at no charge. Speakers also are available to address the drinking and driving issue. Interested persons are asked to call 864-2665 in Haskell.

by Mabel Overton

The "Grandmother's Lap" readers were entertained and honored with a Thanksgiving dinner after they read last week. The dining tables were decorated with crepe paper streamers down the center, and little turkeys made of a potato with a construction paper head and tail. To add to the festivity, the meal was served by candlelight. Each reader sat with the group she had read to that morning.

We all enjoyed it so much, and appreciate Mrs. Hobgood inviting us. Readers were Mrs. Violet Earles, Mrs. Jenny Collins, Mrs. Peggy Burnett, Mrs. Faye Walton and Mrs. Mabel Overton.

They will not read next week.

The Scouts required a safety project for the Safety Merit Badge, so Wednesday night after Scout meeting they vacuumed and swatted wasps in the Methodist Church sanctuary. We Methodists surely do thank you. They had a new Scout visiting the troop. His name is Josh. There are several boys who will be Scout age soon, so maybe the troop will enlarge.

Brother Sinclair, Mrs. Sinclair, Peggy Burnett and Mabel Overton attended the Retired Teacher's Association at the Drug Store Cafe in Rule Wednesday for the regular meeting, and lunch. Bro. Sinclair is the president of the Association. There were over 30 retired Haskell County former teachers.

I was given a cute grandmother article. I think you will enjoy it.

"A grandmother is a lady who has no children of her own. She likes other people's little girls. A grandfather is a man grandmother. He goes walking with the boys, and they talk about fishing and tractors, and things like that.

Grandmothers don't have to do anything but be there. They're old, so they shouldn't play hard or run. It is enough if they drive us to the store where the pretend horse is, and have lots of dimes ready, or if they take us for walks, they should slow down passing things like pretty leaves and caterpillars. They should never say, "Hurry up!"

Usually they are fat, but not too fat to tie your shoes. They wear glasses and funny underwear. They can take their teeth and gums off. It is better if they don't typewrite or play cards except with us. They don't have to be smart, only answer questions like why dogs hate cats, and how come God isn't married. They don't talk baby talk like visitors do, because it is hard to understand. When they read to us, they don't skip words or mind if it is the same story again and again.

Everybody should try to have one, especially if you don't have a television, because Grandmothers are the only grownups who have got the time."

James and Ann Sinclair went to Lubbock for Thanksgiving to the home of their daughter Lynn Childress. Their other children Kelly Sinclair of Brownfield, Joel Sinclair and family of Muleshoe, Todd Bartlett and family of Wolfforth were there too.

Emilee Griffith Goff spoke Sunday night Nov. 24 at the First Baptist Church in Rule. Her talk was about the mission work in Venezuela. Emilee and her husband Bill were missionaries in Venezuela for several years. They now are living in Abilene where Bill is interim pastor at Beltway Baptist Church.

Jerry and Monique Morgan and sons Dane and Roman spent Thanksgiving in Brad with his 90 year old grandmother. Their daughter, Paige and husband Gaylon Richter drove in from Tampa, Florida. Their daughter Rochelle spent the week in Palm Springs with the Chris Christian family.

The Gifted and Talented students of Paint Creek visited Dyess Air Base last week. They toured the B 1 Bomber, and the KC 137 which is a refueling plane. The pilot can refuel in flight. Staff Sgt. Dave Crozier gave them the tour. They are planning to go back to Dyess in the spring.

Bill and Bertha Griffith had their Thanksgiving dinner on Saturday. They are expecting the Jimmy Griffith family, Myna Hefler and her family and daughter Brenda Reel and family.

Paint Creek Grade School teams won both the boys and the girls games at the Paint Creek gym Monday night before the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Perry spent Thanksgiving in Austin with their son Rick's family. Ray's sister, Frances Blackstock, her husband and family were there too. Anita (Mrs. Rick) and children came back to Haskell to visit while Rick went hunting.

Gene and Mabel Overton had their son, Mike, his wife, Linda, and daughters, Paige and Brooke, from Allen; son Bill from Abilene, son Wallar, wife Steffi and sons Hans, and Marcus, and Linda's mother, Juanita McGaw from McKinney for the Thanksgiving holidays.

The youth of Paint Creek Baptist Church struck once again. They put on a puppet show "Papa Johns Garden" Sunday night, Nov. 24. It was a big success. Around 50 people attended. Stanley and Patty Morton want to thank our youth for being dedicated to the cause. All the parents for caring about our youth helping with refreshments and Jo Fischer, Darlene Walton, and Ann Sinclair for helping with costumes, decorations and rehearsals.

"DECISIONS MADE EARLY"

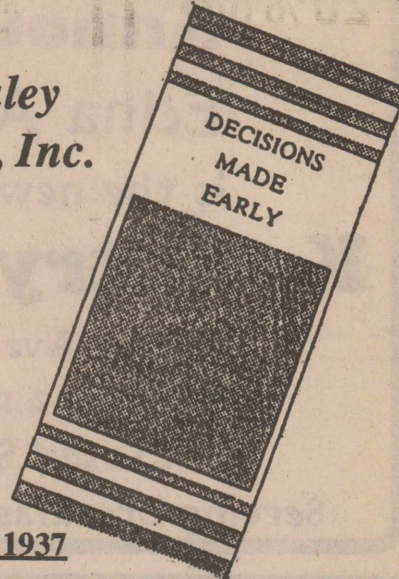

Many people plan for what might happen—fire, burglary, injury, and accidents. Now more and more people are planning for what will inevitably happen. It simply makes good sense to prepare for that which we can not avoid.

Pre-need funeral arranging allows one to control the type of service they would prefer, select a means of financing it, freeze the prices at today's price, and save loved ones the anguish of deciding these matters at a later date. Really it is the loving thing to do for your family.

Simply come by or call and we will come by to see you.
