Isbell chosen to all-area team

It's been more than two months since he's played a football game, but Haskell's Tommie Isbell is still getting recognition for his outstanding 1992 season.

The 6'-4" Isbell was named last week as a defensive lineman on the Abilene Reporter-News' 2A all-area team. He was a defensive and offensive end for the Indians last season.

Earlier, Isbell had been elected by coaches to both the offensive and defensive all-district teams and received honorable mention in all-state balloting.

Nearly 30 inches of rain in 1992

Haskell's 1992 rainfall total was 29.47 inches, more than 4 inches above the normal of 24.13, weather recorder Sam Herren reports.

Included in the total was 1.27 inches received in the month of December. The December norm is .89.

Temperatures during December ranged from a high of 66 degrees on Dec. 22 to a low of 24 on Dec. 17.

Youth basketball to be organized

An organizational meeting of the Haskell Youth Basketball Association will be held next Wednesday evening (Jan. 27).

All interested parents and coaches are asked to attend the meeting, which begins at 8 p.m. at the First National Bank community room.

Pancake supper at Paint Creek

The fifth annual pancake supper by the Paint Creek Volunteer Fire Department will be today (Thursday) from 6 to 9 p.m. in the Paint Creek school cafeteria.

Admission is $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for children.

Remember when?

If you can remember when Haskell looked like this, you can remember Lindberg's flight, you survived the Great Depression and have been eligible for Social Security for years. This picture, looking into the courthouse from the southeast was probably taken in the late 1920s.

Maidens post 2 big wins

No question about it. The Maidens got two big wins under their belts last week and put themselves back in the position to control their own destiny in district play.

As the week started, the Maidens were in a two-way tie for second place with possibly the three toughest teams left on their schedule in the first half. The three teams included Jim Ned, the district leader with a 4-0 record; Stamford with a 3-1 records, and a very talented Hamlin squad with a 2-2 record.

The Maidens hosted a very hot and high scoring Jim Ned team fast Tuesday. The Lady Indians had averaged about 70 points per game in their last three district outings, but found the going a little tougher when they stepped into the Haskell gym.

The Maidens' tough zone defense frustrated the Lady Indians as it allowed them only 10 first-half points which gave the Maidens a 19-10 first-half lead.

The second half was a different story. "We knew they could put the points on the board so we tried to slow the ball down to get them out of their game," said Coach Kerry Gartman. "We did a good job in the first half but in the second half we lost some of our intensity and then in the fourth quarter when they went to a man-to-man defense, we failed to execute our offense and let them back in the game."

The Maidens not only let them back in the game, the Lady Indians took the lead with 58 seconds left to play. The Maidens regained the lead when Teresa Diaz sank a pair of free throws with 57 seconds left in the game. After a big steal by Cynthia Rodriguez and another free

Frigid Indians lose to Hamlin

By Lee Decker

There are many words to describe the upset that the Hamlin Pied Pipers dealt to the Indians last Friday night.

"Incredible," "unthinkable," "stunning," and "a fluke" would definitely work, but "Ice Cold" sums it up short and sweet.

The Tribe looked as if they were playing in the Arctic Circle as the Indians could convert only 18 percent of their shots, as the Pipers stunned the 15th ranked team in Class 2A, 41-35.

Good shooting is like milk and eggs, it's the main ingredient in any victory as the Tribe hit only one shot in the second and third quarters combined.

The Tribe took a 14-10 lead into the locker room, but the Pipers opened the second half with a 13-0 run and were able to slice through the Indians' jugular vein by connecting on 10 of 12 fourth-quarter free throws to seal the victory.

Mart Guess led all Indian scorers with 11 points, while Brian Brzozowski and Tommie Isbell threw in 9 points each. Brzozowski was able to snatch 15 rebounds as well in the losing effort.

The Tribe also hosted the Jini Ned Indians the last week of district play. In the first half again, the Indians were victims of cold shooting as they found themselves on the trailing end of a 29-22 halftime score.

Brzozowski however took the game on his shoulders in the second half as he scored 20 of his game high 23 points in the final 16 minutes as the Tribe prevailed over the other Indians in district 7-2A, 54-44.

Tommie Isbell and Jonathan Tatum each contributed 13 points. Isbell and Brzozowski were forces on the boards as each big man grabbed 13 points.

The Tribe's record now stands at 16-5. The district mark is 4-1.

Council to consider ban on smoking

The Haskell City Council will consider an ordinance banning smoking in city buildings at its regular meeting next Tuesday.

At last week's council meeting, Mayor Pat Henry instructed city administrator Scott Wall to prepare a "no smoking" ordinance for council action. If approved, the proposed ordinance will prohibit smoking in all city buildings, including the new and old city halls.

In other action at last week's meeting:

Members of the fire department updated the council on their need for new emergency radio equipment and told how this type of radio would benefit the city. The council tentatively agreed to pay one-half of the $26,216.90 cost. Final vote on the request will take place at the Jan. 26 meeting.

Wall reported on airport fuel charges. He said the city pays $1.16 per gallon for fuel and sells it for $2.02. The council asked him to compare fuel and hangar costs with those at other city airports and to recommend a fair price.

In his departmental reports, Wall reported:

¶The fourth and final weir will be built at North 1st Street near the recycling center. The cost will be $4,500 and construction will begin this month.

¶Malcomb Laing of the Texas Water Commission will inspect the old landfill to approve the final closing. The city should designate the old landfill as a park and grants could be applied for.

Wall, Tony Burson and Kenny Watson walked through the new city hall with the architect, Ron Marabito, listing things that need to be done. Final payment will not be made until these items are approved. With 26 days past completion date, the late penalty is $8,000.

¶The Texas Water Commission required the city to submit a report for the discharge at the sewer plant. Jacob and Martin did this report at a cost of $2,000. The city is required to submit a request to keep its discharge permit at the sewer plant, which will be submitted by Jacob and Martin. Permit fees were a line item in the 1992-93 budget.

¶West Texas Utilities inspected the new city hall. A rebate of $1,400 will be given for installing an electric heat pump.

Citizens attending the meeting included Christene Greene, Dwanna Klose, Gladys O'Neal, David Middleton, Jill Druessedow, and firemen, Bill Steele, Keith Hannsz, Tony Haynes, Randy Shaw, Joe Cortez, Coy Scoggins and Bill Lane.

James E. (Pete) Laney

Laney elected speaker

State Rep. James E. "Pete" Laney, D-Hale Center, was elected unanimously last Tuesday as the 68th Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives.

Laney, 49, pledged to pass a school finance plan in the House within the next 30 days--"a plan with bipartisan support that will meet the requirements of the courts

Legislature to have $1.8 billion more

State Comptroller John Sharp says the Texas Legislature will have $36.4 billion in major fund revenues available for the coming two-year budget period, representing an increase of $1.8 billion, or 5.2 percent, over 1992-93.

Sharp estimated the state will begin the next biennium in September with a cash balance of more than $600 million. He said sales taxes, the major revenue source for Texas, will generate $18.9 billion; other taxes like motor vehicle sales and corporate franchise taxes will raise $12.4 billion, and the remaining revenues, derived from interest earnings, the Texas Lottery and fees, will contribute another $4.5 billion.

In addition, Sharp predicted there will be $29.5 billion collected from sources such as federal funds, fees and other dedicated revenues, bringing the overall available non-dedicated and dedicated revenues to $65.3 billion, a 3 percent increase over the current level.

The release of Sharp's 1994-95 biennial revenue estimate, as required by the Texas Constitution, came on the eve of the convening of the 73rd regular session of the State Legislature.

Although there is mounting pressures for state spending to exceed anticipated revenue, there is no support among the legislative leadership for raising taxes.

"It's going to be a hard legislative session, but the public is just not in the mood to go beyond available revenues until they become convinced we're getting everything we can from the dollars they're putting in," Sharp said. "We're going to have to live within our means."

The Comptroller pointed out that his forecast of a 5 percent increase in available revenue for the state is more than many households or businesses have seen in recent years.

Sharp said the revenue estimate reflects his prediction that the economic outlook for the state is improving. For example, the Gross State Product, adjusted for inflation, is expected to grow by about 3 percent in each of the next two years. Employment will be up 2 percent each year, and personal income should grow at an annual rate of 7 percent.

However, Sharp cautioned that much of the outlook for Texas is based on an assumption that the U.S. economy will start to shake itself out of the doldrums.

"If U.S. economic growth does not pick up as expected, the outlook for the Texas economy and state revenues could deteriorate," said Sharp.

In other predictions for the next biennium:

¶The state's population is expected to grow by almost 500,000, reaching 18.4 million in 1995. Births outnumbering deaths will account for three-quarters of that increase, with the remainder coming from net in-migration from other states and countries.

¶Taxable oil prices likely will remain stable, averaging about $20 per barrel, and natural gas prices will settle in the range of $1.66 per million cubic feet. Oil and gas volumes will continue to drop. During 1994-95, that sector probably will account for 11 percent of the state economy, as opposed to 28 percent in 1981.

¶A continued decline in federal defense spending will be felt in Texas employment. Over 1994-95, about 13,000 aerospace and military base jobs are expected to be lost.

 throw by Diaz, the Lady Indians got the ball in the hands of their best shooter but failed to convert a last-second shot as the Maidens won, 41-39.
 Georgie Root paced three Maiden players in double figures with 12 points and 4 rebounds. Diaz had 11 points, 9 assists, 2 steals and 9 rebounds, while Holly Hobgood had 10 points and 3 rebounds.
 Others contributing in the Maiden victory were Shana McKenzie with 4 points and 2 rebounds, and Sarah Mullen with 2 points, 2 steals and 4 rebounds. Jill Mullen had 2 points and 4 rebounds. Rodriguez also had 5 rebounds while Heather Hobgood had 2 assists, 3 steals and 4 rebounds.
 The Maidens could not celebrate the Jim Ned victory for long as they had to begin preparing for Friday night's game against Hamlin. The Maidens' preparation paid off as they defeated Hamlin, 49-39.

"This was a very big win for us," Gartman said. "We knew that Hamlin had a very talented team and could match up with us better than anyone else in the district because of their size. Hamlin is always a hostile gym to play in because of the noise, but I think it says a lot about our players because they didn't get rattled and did what they had to do."

It was a battle the whole way as the Maidens were never able to gain control until about 3 minutes to go in the game. The Maidens were fortunate to find themselves down by only a point at the end of the first half after committing 18 turnovers.

"The 18 turnovers did not please me, but the lack of rebounding and their shooting 15 foul shots to our 2 foul shots was what we discussed at halftime," Gartman said. "We just weren't moving our feet."

The Maidens took a 2-point lead into the fourth quarter. Diaz had 5 assists in the fourth quarter, dishing off to McKenzie and Sarah Mullen who had a combined 19 points to break open a close game.

McKenzie scored a season high 26 points to lead all scorers in the game. She also pulled down 7 rebounds. Mullen had 11 points, 6 steals and 8 rebounds. Diaz had a big 12 assists to go along with 5 points, 5 steals and 5 rebounds. Jill Mullen, Holly Hobgood and Root each had 2 points. Mullen also had 5 rebounds and Hoggood had 4 assists, 2 steals and 4 rebounds, while Root had 2 rebounds. Heather Hobgood had 1 point and 2 rebounds and Rodriguez had 3 rebounds.

The victory improved the Maidens' record to 17-4 overall and 5-1 in district play.

and the needs of our educational system."

He said taxes should not be raised and lawmakers must agree on a budget that stays within current revenues.

The new speaker pledged to earn the trust, respect and support of Texans for the work done by the Texas House of Representatives.

"It is a sad fact that many people have lost faith in government at all levels and for many reasons," Laney said. "We ourselves are the only ones who can change that--by the way we conduct ourselves and by the quality of legislation we pass."

Laney said he will set standards for himself and for the speaker's office that go beyond what is required by law.

"I am requiring my top staff members to pledge not to represent anyone before the legislature for a period of time after their employment ends. And I make that same pledge for myself," Laney said.

He endorsed numerous changes in House rules recommended by the House Select Committee on Rules to increase efficiency and accountability in the legislative process.

Laney also recommended additional reforms: requiring the Calendars Committee to conduct its business publicly; requiring every bill referred to Calendars to be acted upon within a certain time period; and establishing a 12-hour layout requirement for bill substitutes to give members time to read major revisions to bills before voting on them.

Laney said he will give House members several days to study the changes before he schedules a debate and vote on them.

Laney also will appoint an ethics advisor to help him and the House understand and follow state ethics law and produce an ethics manual as a reference for legislators and their staff members.

Carriker appointed

State Sen. Steve Carriker, right, has been appointed by Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock to chair the Texas Senate Committee of the Whole on Redistricting, Ethics and Elections during the Legislature's 1993-94 session. Bullock also appointed Carriker as vice chairman of the Natural Resources Subcommittee on Agriculture and as a member of the committees on Intergovernmental Relations, State Affairs and the new Committee on International Relations, Trade and Technology.

CAPITOL JOURNAL

STEVEN A. CARRIKER
State Senate

This new session of the Texas Legislature is already living up to expectations that things will be different this time around.

I've been appointed chairman of a committee to be comprised of the entire Senate that will consider issues relating to redistricting, ethics and elections. This is the first time the Committee of the Whole has been constituted as a standing committee. The Committee of the Whole includes all 31 senators and the lieutenant governor.

Among the highest profile issues to be handled by this committee are Judicial Redistricting and Ethics Reform. The law requires reapportionment of the state's district courts during this session of the Legislature. Also, it may be necessary to divide some metropolitan counties into single member districts to comply with federal court decisions. Ethics reforms passed last session need to be refined and clarified.

In other committee assignments, I will continue to serve on State Affairs, one of the Senate's most powerful committees, as well as the committee on Natural Resources. The Natural Resources committee oversees water, agriculture and other environmental issues. I'll join the Senate's newest committee, International Relations, Trade and Technology, which has been created in response to Texas' expanded role under the Free Trade Agreement and the impact on the state's economy by the rapidly changing world of technology. Intergovernmental Relations, which works with counties, municipalities and special districts rounds out my committee appointments.

As for the House of Representatives, the lower chamber has decided to delay committee appointments until overcoming last fall's roadblock on Public School Finance.

--Letters to the Editor--

Loved ones

Editor: I begin this letter by stressing the importance of a family to make sure to deed your cemetery deeds on anyone you may bury in a cemetery so your grandchildren may know where their loved ones are buried.

I set out from Troy, Mich., to find the grave of my mother, Ester Palacios, who died Aug. 19, 1960, and was buried here in Haskell.

But I found only records and not an actual lot where I could put a stone. People here were very caring and their hearts went out to me.

I was only a baby when she died and it's been my life long dream to buy her a stone. She left behind a daughter, Maria Garcia, and me. With all my love I wanted just to express again the importance of taking care of your loved ones for time goes by so quickly. Our love for them will never be forgotten.

I leave behind only the words, "Blessed are the loved ones in our lives." Thank you all for caring and remembering that only that love can never be forgotten.

Bake sale

Editor: The Haskell Elementary sixth graders asked me to express our thanks for publicizing our bake sale in last week's edition of The Free Press.

We would also like to thank Opal Letterman for allowing us to have the sale outside her shop. Thanks to all the parents who baked and/or bought food from us.

Students had been studying Somalia in Mrs. Newton's social studies classes and in my health classes, and decided they wanted to help the Somalians. Over $370 was raised to send to the American Red Cross.

This graduating class of 1999 is one you will continue to hear of in a positive way. They are great kids who are very concerned about their world and are willing to do things that make a difference.

In one of the biggest real estate deals closed in the new year J. F. Kennedy this week purchased the brick building on the east side of the square which he had occupied for the past several years. The building belonged to Sheriff W. C. Allen and W. B. Lee. Consideration involved in the deal was reported at $10,000.

Organization of the Haskell Laundry Company was completed this week. It is planned to start work immediately on a building and order machinery and equipment for a modern laundry.

Horace Pinkerton, who has been holding down a claim in New Mexico for the past year, arrived with his family Saturday night to again make his home in Haskell County. He rented a farm near Rochester where he will farm this year.

Rev. and Mrs. C. Jones returned Saturday evening from Dallas where he received medical treatment by a specialist.

Wal-Mart announces scholarship

The manager of the Stamford Wal-Mart store has announced a $1,000 Wal-Mart Foundation community scholarship will be presented this spring to an area high school student.

The scholarship, payable over a one-year period and awarded to a college- or university-bound student, will be based on the student's scholastic and academic achievements, extra-curricular and work activities, as well as financial need.

Jim Strauss, manager of the Stamford store, said, "We are very proud to offer this annual scholarship to a deserving area student on behalf of our store and the company. This is one of many efforts by Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., to support education and enhance the opportunities of our area youth as well as contribute to the quality of life in the communities we serve."

Strauss said a team of judges, consisting of area business and community leaders, will be formed to evaluate the applications and conduct student interviews before making final selection.

Interested students may obtain applications from the school counselor or administrative office. Applications must be returned to the school by the third week in February.

The Stamford Wal-Mart scholarship is one of more than 1,800 scholarships totaling more than $1.8 million being given by the Bentonville, Ark., based retail chain throughout its 46-state trade territory.

BY WENDELL FAUGHT

The most common cause of death on the job for Texas workers in 1991 was homicide.

Of 530 Texans who died in the workplace, 117 were victims of homicide.

Remember the old song, "Twenty-one Dollars a Day, Once a Month"?

It referred to the pay of an Army recruit in the early days of World War II.

The song came to mind this week when I received a news release from the U.S. Army Recruiting Battalion in Albuquerque which announced that a new soldier entering the Army today will get a monthly paycheck of $753.

That's in addition to room, board, medical and dental care and inexpensive life insurance.

And unlike the old days, an inductee meeting certain educational qualifications can enter the Army at the rank of specialist and make $1,007 a month. He can also get $353 for housing, if married, and $225 for food and subsistence items after completing initial training.

There are other benefits, such as college benefits and college loan repayments.

Drinking, cheating, trains, guns and beer.

That's the stuff country songs are made of, right?

Well, maybe not.

To get a crack on what country music singers are singing about these days, Country America magazine studied the words of the top 20 country songs during Country Music Association awards week.

The results, some of them surprising, are featured in the February issue of the magazine.

Excluding all the relatively meaningless words--prepositions, conjunctions and the like--the most mentioned topic in the songs was love, naturally. Some form of the word was mentioned 46 times. Other oft-sung words included free (26, thanks to Garth Brooks' song "We Shall Be Free"), no (25), out (25) and gone (23). Standing, saying and holding were all popular activities--in that order.

Surprisingly, among the 20 songs there was only one railroad, one bar and one guitar. There were no trains, no guns, no trucks, no prisons and no cheating.

Drinking was mentioned only four times, and it was as likely to be associated with coffee as with beer. Country singers still sang about their mamas more than any other person, and they preferred nowhere (5) to Nashville (3). They were more likely to sleep (4) than eat (3), more likely to dance (4) than they were to sing (1).

Chances are, though, they would just leave (17, if those who are leaving and have already left are included), but they might not tell (18) anyone about it.

A national lifestyle and entertainment magazine for those who enjoy the country way of life and country music, Country America is a joint venture of Meredith Corporation, TNN: The Nashville Network and Group W Satellite Communications.

Steers place two on all-area team

Two members of last fall's Rochester football team have been named to the Abilene Reporter News' All-Area six-man team.

Representing the Steers on the all-star team are running back Mark Brown and center-linebacker Kurt Sloan.

Brown, a 5-10, 170-pound junior, rushed for more than 1,400 yards and scored 27 touchdowns as the Steers posted an unbeaten record in the regular season.

Sloan, a 5-10, 170-pound senior, was in on 165 tackles. He also intercepted five passes and returned two of them for touchdowns.

Another Rochester player, Chris Carver, received honorable mention as a safety.

Criminal justice system in crisis

"From the largest Texas cities to the smallest rural communities, the number of crime victims is growing, and people who haven't yet been affected by crime know it's only a matter of time," State Comptroller John Sharp reports.

"More Texans died from gunshot wounds than from traffic accidents in 1990. Texas had the 11th highest rate of violent crime in the nation. In property crime, our state ranks fourth.

"We have one of the world's highest rates of criminal violence, one of the world's most bewildering criminal justice systems and one of the world's highest rates of incarceration. We have a massive bureaucracy that regularly disappoints the taxpayers who must pay the bills.

"Although the state keeps spending more and more on prisons and criminal justice programs, crime continues to grow, seemingly unchecked. That's why we decided to see whether our criminal justice dollars are being spent effectively and try to get at the root of the problem," Sharp said.

The study concludes that the crisis within the Texas Criminal Justice System is due to six key factors:

- The criminal justice system is fragmented and lacks any system-wide agreement on missions, goals and strategic planning. Significant amounts of state and federal funding support duplicated programs and efforts.

- Any change in one part of the criminal justice system causes more problems for the other parts of the system.

- The Ruiz prison reform lawsuit dictates how prisons are run in Texas.

- The war on drugs is increasing the burden on our courts and prisons.

- A so-called get-tough on crime posture is very costly and not very effective.

- The criminal justice system can't solve the root causes of crime--things like poverty, drug addiction, poor education and the decline of the family.

"This report analyzes just what's going on in our state's criminal justice system. Clearly the system is not working. In fact, it's on the verge of breaking down. Should we continue to do certain things because that is the way we've always done them, or can we find innovative new ways to get better results for the same amount of money--or even less?" Sharp said.

"Even those who work within the system are increasingly frustrated. We're spending billions of dollars on a system that just isn't working. It is time the people of Texas started to know where their criminal justice tax dollars are being spent, and it's time they started getting more bang for their buck."

"Since 1981 the national level of crime has declined all over, but Texas's overall crime rate has increased 29 percent between 1981 and 1990. The most disturbing aspect of the situation is the increase in juvenile crime. All the studies we've read show a very clear link between juvenile delinquent behavior and future habitual criminal behavior," Sharp said.

"While it is true that crime is much worse in major metropolitan areas, crime is by no means just a big city problem. No area is immune. The small town of Killen learned that it was not immune when a gunman opened fire on a noon-time crowd at a restaurant. It was the worst such massacre every to occur in the United States."

"Over the past few months, Texans have been alarmed by news accounts about Kenneth Allen McDuff, a convictee killer who spent time on death row in the 1960s for the murder of three teenagers, as later paroled--and now stands accused of a string of similar crimes throughout Texas," Sharp said.

The Fiscal Notes article notes that the Texas prison population has risen about 44 percent in the years from 1982 to 1991, and that increase would have much higher if more prison space had been available.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Gerald Rodgers, CPA

SHOULD YOUR CHILD HAVE AN IRA?

The last thing on the minds of young people is retirement. Yet, saving for retirement should always start as early as possible in order to reap the benefits of compounding interest.

If your child has earned income, he or she is eligible to contribute up to $2,000 each year to an individual retirement account (IRA). Earned income is wages or self-employment earnings (e.g., paper route, modeling, babysitting, etc.)

If an 18-year-old invests $2,000 annually in an IRA through age 25, with an annual return averaging 10%, by age 65 his or her IRA will exceed $1 million. Not a bad return for a $16,000 investment! If your child waited until age 25 to start contributing to an IRA, he or she would need to invest $2,000 a year until retirement to have $1 million.

An IRA may be appropriate for a child who has no need of the invested funds in the short term. For example, the child may be able to get a college scholarship or to fund college costs from other sources. On the other hand, if the child will require those funds, an IRA may prove more costly than alternative investments.

While the main benefit of starting an IRA early life is the value of compounding, other benefits include establishing a savings habit, planning for long-term goals, and getting a tax deduction for the contribution. The drawbacks of a IRA must also be considered. Under current tax law, any withdrawals prior to age 59 1/2 are generally subject to a 10% penalty in addition to the income tax due. Consequently, such funds would not be available for college education or a home down payment without incurring a substantial tax cost.

However, tax law changes constantly. Proposals in recent years have included making IRA funds available for college and the purchase of a first home. So, if your children establish IRAs, periodically check to see if the tax law has changed.

Angioplasty May Not Be For Everybody: Some cardiologists question the almost automatic use of percutaneous transluminal coronary angioplasty (PCTA) to open clogged blood vessels because of the approximately 45% restenosis rate (artery closing again). Some believe the restenosis rate is due to poor patient selection for the procedure and recommend dietary changes, quitting smoking, and aspirin and possibly cholesterol-lowering drugs in patients who have disease in only one vessel. Others note that active patients have a better quality of life after angioplasty that cannot be achieved with only medical therapy.

Everyone needs much more time

(First in a Series)

By Lou Gilly
County Extension Agent
Home Economics

As the new year begins, our thoughts often turn to finding successful ways to help make our lives run more smoothly. One of the main things most people are seeking is "time"--especially more time to get everything done.

This article will help you to start thinking about your standards of living and how that standard affects the amount of spare time you have.

The three articles which will follow this one in the series will help you better understand why you may not have enough time to get things done and also offer your some suggestions to help you become a better time manager.

For most busy people today time is scarce and getting scarcer. Where does all our time go? It's hard to understand that in the 1990s with our higher standard of living along with our access to many time-saving conveniences that our lives seem a lot more hectic rather than a lot less hectic. Why is this the normal feeling in many of today's homes? How do you answer the following questions?

¶What income level do you feel you need to achieve the standard of living you desire for your family?

¶How many square feet are in your home? Are you satisfied with the size of your home?

¶How many of the following time-saving appliances do you own? Microwave oven, dishwasher, clothes washer, clothes dryer, food processor, vacuum cleaner, hand-held vacuum cleaner, computer?

¶Which of these luxuries do you have? More than one bathroom, vehicle, TV, telephone, radio, stereo, VCR, garage door opener, answering machine, power tools, small kitchen appliances (coffee maker, toaster, blender, popcorn popper, sandwich maker, crock pot, deep fat fryer, ice tea maker, juicer, electric can opener), substantial wardrobe?

Look for next week's article that will explain "How Life Got So Hectic" even with our higher standard of living and our access to many so-called time-saving devices.

SCOTT & WHITE
OPTIONS FOR HEALTH

Preparing for the Big Chill

Katherine M. Jew, M.D.

Department of Internal Medicine at Scott & White Santa Fe Center and Assistant Professor of Medicine, Texas A&M University Health Science Center

Q: Can hypothermia pose a problem for individuals in the south? What can you do to prevent this condition?

A: Cold weather can be a threat to our health, even in Texas. If the body's central or core temperature dips to, or below 95° F, a person's health may be affected. This condition is referred to medically as hypothermia.

The normal body temperature for most people is 98.6° F. When the body temperature drops to 90-95° F, a person is considered to be experiencing mild hypothermia. If a person's body temperature dips to 86-89° F, moderate hypothermia is the term for the condition, and if the temperature falls to less than 86° F, the person is in a severe hypothermic state.

In addition to a low body temperature, symptoms of hypothermia may include any combination of the following:

- Pale, puffy skin
- Low blood pressure (medically referred to as hypotension)
- Slowed heart rate

- Heart rhythm problems (or arrhythmias)
- Aspiration (inhaling stomach contents into the lungs)
- Shortness of breath
- Decreased alertness and/or mental confusion
- Decreased reflexes and/or slowed speech
- Decreased pupil reactions (pupils in eyes not dilating appropriately)
- Decreased or increased urination
- Low blood counts (decreased platelets and white blood counts)
- Acidosis or reduced alkalinity of the blood and body tissue
- Cessation or stopping of breathing (medically referred to as apnea)

There are simple precautions that can be taken to avoid hypothermia. Follow an adequate diet that includes enough calories to produce the necessary body heat. In addition, it is important to avoid alcohol and other drugs which predispose people to hypothermia, unless prescribed by and discussed with a physician. Wear sufficiently warm clothes to prevent heat loss (layered clothing helps to prevent heat loss). Check to make sure that living quarters are well insulated and heated. It is a good idea to obtain qualified medical care for other illnesses or conditions that lead to increased risk of hypothermia. Finally, it is important to exercise consistently to improve body temperature regulation.

If you think someone is experiencing hypothermia, take the following steps:

- Remove any wet clothing
- Wrap the person in warm blankets and give him something warm to drink (liquids should only be given if the individual is totally alert).
- Get the person to an emergency room. Hypothermia is a medical emergency and should be treated as such.

Medical treatment for hypothermia depends on the complications and the severity of the patient's condition.

If you have a question please write to "Scott & White Options For Health" in care of your local newspaper.

Teens should learn more than just how to drive

Although high school driver education is a good way to teach young people to drive, the risk of crashes is the same for all teens despite the method of learning.

Research indicates that teenagers who take driver education have about the same crash experiences as those who learn from parents or private driving schools.

"Learning to avoid unnecessary risks is just as important as driving techniques. Teens should not drink and drive, or ride with anyone who has been drinking," said Janie Harris, coordinator for Occupant Protection-Passenger Education, Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "They should drive within the posted speed limit or what's safe for the road, and always buckle up."

Last year, 362 teenagers--15 to 19 years old--died in motor vehicle crashes, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety. Of those killed, 61 percent--220--were not wearing seat belts. More than 36,990 were reported injured.

"It's alarming to note how the number of fatalities jumped at the age of 16--the age when teens in Texas can obtain their license," Harris said. "Fatalities rose from a total of 10 at age 15, to 35 deaths at age 16, and continued to increase."

In Texas, teen drivers account for 10 percent of licensed drivers, but are responsible for 25 percent of the state's accidents, she said.

Studies conducted by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety (IIHS) indicate that inexperience and alcohol are two major contributing factors to teen motor to teen motor vehicle crashes. Other facts reveal that nationally:

¶ More than 40 percent of the deaths of teens ages 16 to 19 occur from motor vehicle crash injuries.

¶ Every year, more than 5,000 teens of driving age die in vehicle crashes--slightly more than half as drivers, the rest as passengers. Two-thirds of these passenger deaths occur in vehicles driven by other teens. Hundreds more die as motorcyclists.

¶ Teenage drivers are responsible for a higher share of crash deaths per license holder than any other age group.

¶ The per-mile death rate is much higher for teenage drivers than for other drivers.

¶ Teenagers' motor vehicle crashes and traffic violations are more likely to involve speeding than are other drivers.

¶ The frequency of automobile insurance claims for occupant injuries in cars insured for teenagers to drive is more than twice as high as the injury claim frequency in cars insured only for adult drivers. Overall vehicle damage losses are also more than twice as high in cars insured for teenagers to drive.

"People are lax in buckling up when riding in back seats," Harris said. "Back-seat passengers should buckle up to save their own lives and the lives of those riding up front."

Back-seat passengers in a 30 mph crash can be propelled with a force rate equal to 40 times their own body weight, not only injuring themselves but other passengers.

"Even though the law does not require back-seat passengers to wear seatbelts," Harris said, "buckled is the safer way to travel."

Volvo Cars of North America, which has launched a campaign for rear seat belt usage, predicts that the use of rear seat belts could save 1,000 lives a year. Volvo found that less than 5 percent of passengers use rear seat belts, even though installation in cars is mandatory.

What can parents do to help prevent their children from being injured in crashes? The IIHS lists these important tips:

¶ Choose safe cars for teenagers to drive, keeping in mind that larger cars are safer than smaller ones. Also, air bags and antilock brakes make cars safer.

¶ Give teens plenty of supervised driving practice before and after they get their licenses.

¶ Require buckled up seat belts on every trip. Set an example by buckling your own.

¶ Enforce no-drinking-and-driving--rules. Make sure teens have a safe way to get home.

¶ Be aware of high risks involved when teen drivers and passengers travel together without adults.

¶ Place restrictions on night driving. About half of all fatal motor vehicle crashes involving teens occur at night, especially on weekends.

¶ Discourage teens from riding motorcycles. The death rate on motorcycles is much higher than in cars. All motorcyclists should wear helmets and protective clothing.

The Tiger Cubs group of pack 136 met Jan. 12 at the First National Bank with Scott and Debbie Kennedy as hosts. The Big Idea for the month of January is #8 Go See It.

Debbie and Scott had worksheets with pages to color and mazes to work, all based on a banking theme. They led the boys on a tour of the bank. The boys explored the different areas of the bank, including the accounting department, drive-through window area and various record rooms. Each boy got to make a copy on the copy machine.

The area of most interest was the drive-through window. The boys had fun putting the tube into the outside drive lane station.

Members practiced on the opening skit that they will present at the January pack meeting.

After refreshments were served, the group gathered for the closing, led by Scott and Debbie.

Attending were Ross and Peggy Hairgrove, C. J. Villegas and Mickey Holloway, Ryan and Tammy Flanary, Scott and Debbie Kennedy, A. J. and Randy Shaw and Lisa Shaw, Tiger Cub coordinator.
