Speaker

Property damaged in Monday storm

A severe wind storm struck Haskell about 9:30 p.m. Monday, causing considerable property damage in several parts of town.

Glass windows were blown out at Modern Way and Winn's and several buildings suffered roof damage. The wind also blew down fences and damaged trees.

West Texas Utilities lost five transmission poles north of town, resulting in a power outage for about 25 minutes.

KVRP reported .92 of an inch of rain during the storm.

Housing project set for Haskell

Ground will be broken this fall on a 24-unit housing project at the western edge of Haskell.

A&W Group, Inc., of Bryan has sent plans for the project to the City of Haskell, saying construction should get underway in October or November.

The 24 one-bedroom units will be in the form of six four-plexes and will be rented to senior citizens.

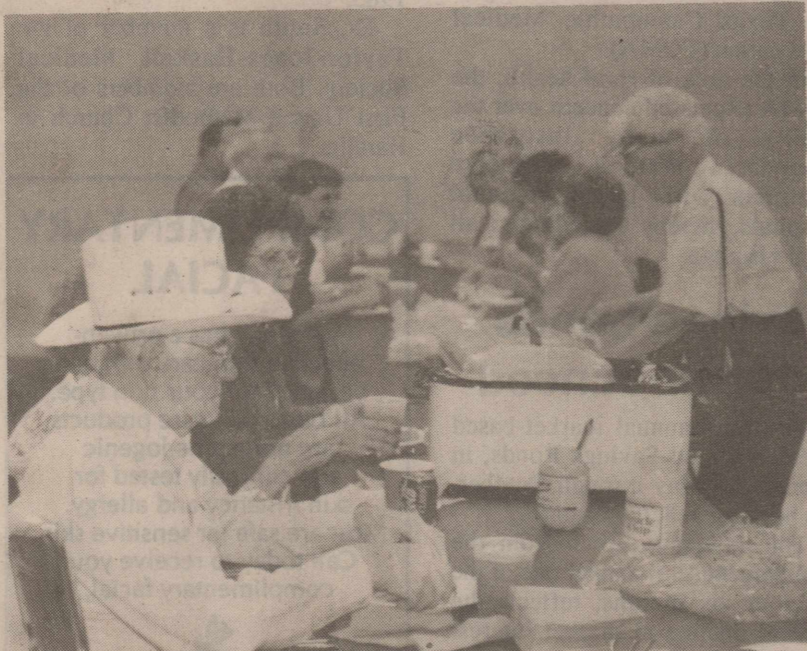

The building site is on US 380, just west of Haskell Nursing Center.

Luncheon Sunday at Country Club

The May luncheon at Haskell Country Club will be this Sunday.

All members are encouraged to attend and to bring a covered dish.

Elbert and Franciene Johnson will be hosts.

Eat hamburgers

Approximately 180 people enjoyed hamburgers during Friday's open house at City Hall. The hamburgers were cooked outside by members of the Haskell Fire Department and were eaten in the new building's meeting room.

Hundreds visit new City Hall

Approximately 400 persons attended open house Friday at the new City Hall.

Gary McCaleb, mayor of Abilene and president of the Texas Municipal League, was guest speaker at the 2 p.m. dedication ceremony attended by approximately 175.

The Abilene mayor commended the community on the new structure, saying it stands as an example of "your vision for the future."

City administrator Scott Wall welcomed the guests and Randy McLelland gave the invocation. The speaker was introduced by alderman Ruby Turner, who also gave closing remarks after the dedication.

The Haskell Fire Department served hamburgers to approximately 180 persons between 4 and 6 p.m.

The new, 5,000-square-foot City

Hall was completed early this year at a cost of $394,000. It features a drive-through window, executive council meeting room, a walk-in vault, a night deposit box and a public meeting room. It was built of concrete tilt-up walls with a tile roof and has vinyl-covered walls.

Home destroyed

A Monday morning fire destroyed the rural home of Wallar and Steffi Overton, about eight miles southeast of Haskell.

The family lost all of their furnishings and personal belongings, as well as a dog and two cats.

The Haskell Fire Department responded to a call about 9:30, but

Paint Creek School gets $90,000 grant

A group of teachers and administrators from Paint Creek School met May 10 in Austin with the Texas Water Commission.

The Paint Creek delegation had met earlier at Paint Creek with Peggy Garner, commissioner of the Texas Water Commission, who suggested that the school send a delegation to Austin and hear from the various departments in the TWC. This state agency has agreed to serve as a partner in the development and implementation of an environmental curriculum for grades K-12.

The water commission has pledged full support toward the plan and called it "the most innovative plan in education we've had the opportunity to help develop."

The support of the Texas Education Agency was also endorsed by the presence of Julian Shaddix, assistant commissioner of education, who commented about the unique opportunity for two state departments to work together on a project.

It was also announced by Laura Price, senior director of the Partnership School Initiative, that Paint Creek was recipient of a TEA Innovative Grant in the sum of $90,000 to assist in the development of this plan.

The project will focus on developing a hands-on curriculum in math, science and technology with specific curriculum being integrated in all subject areas K-12. The grant will assist in establishing a math lab, testing lab and additional technological equipment. Consultants, research assistants and an administrative aide also will be included.

The issue of water and its role in and around the Paint Creek area will be a primary focus of the study. Other environmental areas, such as composting, solid waste recycling, market assistance for recycling, oil collection and pesticide and hazardous waste disposal, also will be addressed.

Grant writing will be studied by students as they attempt to solve one of the needs of Paint Creek--to develop a more efficient way to deal with the wastewater of the school.

Students will be involved in collecting data, testing runoff water, topographic map skills, runoff rates and percolation of the water as they study the ways they can manage and solve this challenge.

Paint Creek's selection into the Partnership School Initiative has prompted the school to develop innovative instructional methods to improve student performance among all its students. This is the first full year Paint Creek has been in the program.

Bonehead relatives attend dedication

More than 80 friends and relatives attended the dedication ceremony Friday of the Bonehead Fountain on the northwest bank of the City Park.

Special guests included relatives of the Boneheads. They were Patsy (Pate) Cobb, Millie (Holden) Ehsani and Evan and Nathan of Bryan, Mary Holden, Becky Malaise and Spencer of Midland, Betty (Oates) Oman of Wichita Falls, Nancy (Ratliff) Plunkett, Allie Belle Smith, Nancy (Burton) Toliver and Mayre (Tubbs) Wiseman of Wichita Falls.

Alvin and Frances (School) Weidner of Gordon, friends of Bonehead relatives, also attended.

In a brief ceremony, Lisa Shaw, Park Board member, welcomed guests. The Rev. C. T. Jackson gave the invocation before Jill Druessedow formally dedicated the fountain.

Mrs. Smith, wife of the late Clay Smith, expressed appreciation on behalf of the Bonehead relatives for the generosity of the citizens of Haskell in building the fountain.

Mrs. Druessedow recognized individuals for their special help given to build the memorial.

"Scott Wall worked with the contractor on compliance with municipal regulations," Mrs. Druessedow said. "Dave Miller, public works director, and Thomas Rodriguez, water superintendent, checked on the compliance."

She also recognized Ann Young and Loretta Gray for their help in accounting principles.

Dave Diason, owner of Rawlins Monuments, donated the majority of the cost of the monument. David and Louetta Davis are local representatives.

"Without Haskell National Bank's centennial ad which featured a picture of most of the Boneheads and their names, we wouldn't have been able to have names on the dedication marker," Druessedow explained.

"We also appreciated the efficiency of Ronnie Carlson, the Abilene contractor who designed and built the fountain. When our local contractor became ill, Carlson stepped in and did the job for the Friends of the Park," Druessedow said.

Rozelle Wilkinson was recognized for being the first donor to the fountain project.

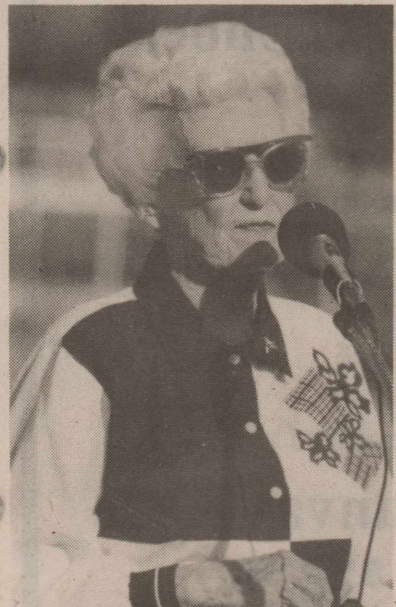

The fountain was then given to the City of Haskell. On behalf of the City, Wall and Ruby Turner, Park Board chairman, accepted the fountain from the Friends of the Park.

Golf Scramble

The Haskell Country Club Scramble will begin today (Thursday).

All golfers are invited to play in a scramble at the club each Thursday afternoon throughout the summer months.

Signup time starts at 5:30 and tee off at 6:30.

Responds

Allie Belle Smith, widow of Clay Smith, a member of the Bonehead Club, delivered the response at the fountain dedication program Friday at City Park.

Mental Health Month

Nearly one of every six Texans suffers from some form of mental illness.

It may be depression, schizophrenia, manic-depressive disorder, or another condition.

These individuals share the same goals we all do. They want independence and self-esteem. They want the chance to reach their potential. But they need help in getting there.

May is Mental Health Month. It's a perfect time to remember that people with mental illness deserve a chance.

For more information about Mental Health Month, contact the Headstream Mental Health Center, 1301 N. 1st in Haskell, phone 864-3472.

Medical group backs Medicaid

A resolution urging all Texas osteopathic physicians to enroll in the Texas Medicaid program in order to help provide health care to more needy children and families was among the major actions taken during the recent annual meeting of the Texas Osteopathic Medical Association (TOMA).

In the area of rural health, the TOMA expressed concern over the policy of many insurance companies making exclusive contracts with larger regional hospitals, thereby excluding small rural hospitals.

Savings bonds rate announced

The semi-annual market-based rate for United Savings Bonds, in effect from May through October, has been set at 4.78 percent.

The new rate, down from the 5.04 percent semi-annual rate of the previous six months, reflects the general decline in market interest rates over the past year.

Hamlin couple to celebrate 50th

Dr. Smith, son of the late Anderson and Faye Smith, was born Sept. 28, 1920, in Vernon. The couple met in Dallas and were married June 6, 1943, in Trinity Presbyterian Church in McKinney.

They lived in Houston while Dr. Smith attended medical school, moving to Springfield, Ohio, during his internship. Following their return to Texas, Dr. Smith practiced in Dimmit before moving to Hamlin where he practiced medicine for 36 years, retiring in 1985.

Dr. Smith is a member of the Taylor-Jones-Haskell Medical Society. Both are members of the First United Methodist Church in Hamlin.

PHARMACY NEWS

By Elbert Johnson, Registered Pharmacist

Alzheimer's Drug Put on Hold: Despite a public outcry, an FDA Advisory Committee upheld its earlier recommendation against approval of tacrine, a drug to treat Alzheimer's disease. The recommendation was based on the fact that researchers have been unable to duplicate original study results of dramatic improvements in 12 of 17 patients. Three studies of 200, 65, and 52 patients, respectively, found improvements in about 40% of patients on mental scoring tests that were equivalent to a 6-to-12-month delay in disease progression. However, there also were signs of potential liver damage that were reversed if the drug was discontinued early enough.

Casebearer spraying dates near

Surveys for pecan nut casebearer eggs conducted in the Haskell County area indicate that the time to treat for this pest is rapidly approaching.

County Agent Max Stapleton and Entomologist Louis D. Chedester predict that the spray dates in the Haskell County area should be from June 1-5.

In areas surrounding Haskell County, spray dates will probably vary slightly.

Commercial producers should be conducting surveys for casebearer eggs. At least 200 nut clusters should be inspected for eggs in an orchard. The economic threshold for casebearers based on eggs is 1-2 percent of the clusters infested with eggs.

Eggs hatch in 4-5 days. When eggs are found, they should be tagged and inspected daily until they hatch. When 1-2 percent of the nut clusters are entered by casebearer larvae, it is time to spray on that day. For predictive purposes, spray dates should be set 5 to 8 days after eggs are found.

The pecan nut casebearer larvae should be killed before they enter the nutlets. Once inside, the larvae are protected until they emerge from the nutlet. If a substantial rain occurs before the larvae emerge from the nutlet they will probably survive. It takes about a half inch of hard rain to reduce residues by 40-60 percent. After destroying the nutlet, the larvae progressively destroy most of the remaining nutlets in the cluster.

A second insecticide application may be required where eggs are found and nutlet damage continues 7 to 10 days after the first application.

Casebearer eggs are just visible to the naked eye and are greenish white when first deposited. They then become reddish before hatching. The eggs hatch in about 4 to 5 days and larvae migrate to buds below the nutlets where they feed for 1 to 2 days before entering the nutlets.

Thank you for reading The Haskell Free Press.

Public Notice

On April 16, 1993, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (SWBT) filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) for approval of a new optional service, Network Subscriber Information Interface (NSII). NSII is a new service feature developed primarily for the provision of Voice Messaging Service (VMS). It will give a VMS provider (as SWBT's customer) the ability to receive originating call information from SWBT's central office and to activate and deactivate a Message Waiting Indicator (MWI) on the line of the VMS provider's patron. NSII also gives the VMS provider the ability to activate and deactivate an intermittent dial tone on a patron's line in multiple offices. The VMS provider will be able to perform these functions in multiple offices through a connection to a single Message Node office. The Message Node will be a pre-designated central office and will interconnect with all central offices within the Message Node Service Area. Upon approval of this application, NSII will be available to customers where facilities are available. Available facilities are not currently deployed statewide. The proposed effective date of this service is June 20, 1993.

SWBT estimates these new services will increase its annual revenues during the first year by approximately $2.4 million. VMS providers and Telephone Answering Services and their subscribers are the types of customers likely to be affected by approval of these services.

The proposed recurring monthly rate and nonrecurring installation charge is as follows:

Rate Element	Recurring	Nonrecurring
NSII	$6,000.00	$2,000.00

Persons who wish to comment on this application should notify the Commission by June 10, 1993. Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or you may call the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at 512-458-0256, or 512-458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Mary Kaigler:

From the Inside Out

"Full many a flower is born to blush unseen, and waste its sweetness on the desert air."

Thomas Gray

Even though we know better, sometimes our regard for status symbols can get to all of us. If we didn't so highly esteem and value the outwardly perceived accoutrements of rank and standing in all areas of our life they wouldn't be so easily identified and honored as symbols. They are what we have let them become.

This is true even in relationships with children, sometimes causing an excessive, over-demanding pressure to achieve, and to satisfy their proud parents' obsessive need. But, as every parent understands, a little "show and tell" about our children's regard for us is just plain good for the soul as well as the ego.

When Connors delivered the drop-dead beautiful orchid sent by our daughter in California, I was wallowing deep in the bed of affliction with a sinus something-or-other. Although I'd already decided to "phone in puny" on Sunday morning, (if not to the Lord, at least to the Sunday school class), I no sooner saw the big, white, yellow-throated flower than I began to plan which dress I would wear it with to the services. The navy blue, the green silk, or if it's cool enough maybe the black wool-crepe jacket?

During my feverish fit of indecision Tom questioned my sanity at even considering it. I countered with the sound reasoning that it would be a waste not to wear it and that somehow I just had to be there with this gorgeous symbol of daughterly affection.

On Sunday morning, remembering Thomas Gray's words, often quoted by my mama, I reluctantly put the flower back into the refrigerator to "blush unseen", realizing I had not chosen, I couldn't and shouldn't get out of the house, even if I did have such a magnificent blossom to grace my motherly bosom.

Trying to help my feelings, Tom generously offered to wear it himself, if I thought if just had to be there. I had to decline.

Deciding that if I didn't touch it or even breath on it I could save it for the next Sunday, I managed to leave it alone to "waste its sweetness on the desert air" of low-fat milk and de-caf cola in the fridge.

Unable to resist looking on Monday, I felt a little twinge of pain to see its youthful radiance marked by tiny signs of change along the delicate, fluted, porcelain-like outer petals. In its normal cycle it wouldn't stay at its prime for another week; it couldn't be expected to do the impossible.

I realized that as much as it may grieve us, the fleeting beauty of life cannot be put away and saved until a time we might choose. It is given to be enjoyed and experienced right now, today, while it is still with us.

Now, still beautiful and exquisite in a low crystal bowl on the breakfast-room table my orchid is a spirit-lifting joy to me all day. As the shutter-filtered sunlight heightens the translucent, frosty whiteness I became philosophical.

Its fragility and limited time span are not unlike our own, I think. We all have just so much allotted time and vitality to do what life has purposed for us to do. Within this given framework both we and orchids have to become who we are.

Despite my first knee-jerk reaction to the situation--even if it didn't get to go out to church and dinner with all the other Mother's Day flowers, and even if it had bloomed with no there to see, applaud or acknowledge it--I realize that my corsage was not wasted.

It has beautifully developed and fulfilled its God-given purpose for its life, using all the potential and aptitude nature gave it. Anything or anyone who does that is a real success regardless of how many status symbols they may be called upon to represent for others.

Blooming in my breakfast-room, if only for me, its purpose hasn't been diminished. Every day the entire essence of it speaks to me of love and remembrance, the greatest status symbols of which any mother can rightly boast.

Weinert club has meeting

The Weinert Extension Homemakers Club met May 4 in the county agent's office with Estalynn Liles, Henrietta Rueffer and Kathryn Schonherstedt as hostesses. Decorations featured Mother's Day.

Myrtle Phemister, president, called the meeting to order. Estalynn Liles read a poem about "Mother-in-laws."

Roll call was answered by 11 members and two guests, Lou Gilly and Kayla Harbers, with "My favorite method of preserving food."

Minutes were read by Faye Jetton, vice president, in the absence of Betty Sanders, secretary-treasurer. The treasurer's report was given.

The quilt committee reported it had decided on The Log Cabin pattern for the quilt for the Rehab center. Colors will be blue and rose. Alice Yates reported on the calendar and a list of names was handed out to members to call. She also reported about the 4-H Fashion Show and reported there will be a contest for the 4-H boys and girls on pictures they have made.

A report was given about the ladies who go to the nursing center once a month to demonstrate and help with some sort of craft.

Club members who attended the TEHA District 3 meeting April 14 at Archer City were Jimmie Weinert, Alice Yates, Erma Liles, Lavita Burgess and Estalynn Liles.

Traci Fry chosen favorite teacher

Traci Fry, in her first year as Permian High School journalism teacher, was one of 25 teachers in the Ector County ISD named as favorite teacher.

From the more than 1,000 seniors in Permian and Odessa high schools, 25 seniors were chosen for the Academic Excellence award. Each student then chose one favorite teacher from his/her high school years.

A banquet was held May 4 at the Holiday Inn for the 25 students, their parents and the award-winning teachers. Traci was presented a plaque at the ceremony.

On May 7, Traci and her state-qualifying student in headline writing flew to Austin, along with the five other Permian academic qualifiers and their teachers, to compete in the state 5A UIL competition.

Traci's student, Tonya Bullard, won a nationwide Quill & Scroll scholarship for one of her stories in the Permian Press. She was one of 31 winners from 590 entries encompassing 5,000 community newspapers in the U.S.

Rates reduced for rural loans

26-year-olds not eligible for draft call

Young men who will turn 26 in 1993 will be reaching an important milestone, according to the Selective Service System (SSS).

Beginning on Jan. 1, 1993, men who were born in 1967 and were required to register with SSS in 1985, will be turning 26 and will no longer be eligible for induction should a draft be reinstated. SSS does not have the authority to accept late registrations after a man reaches his 26th birthday.

With few exceptions, a man who fails to register before turning 26 will be permanently forfeit his eligibility for certain programs such as federal student aid, job training and most federal jobs, in addition to facing possible prosecution as a felon. Some states also require registration for state student aid, entrance to state-support colleges and universities, state employment and permission to practice law.

Men ages 18 through 25 who have not yet registered can avoid the risk of prosecution and loss of eligibility by registering promptly at any local post office. Failure to register is a felony punishable by a fine of up to $250,000 and up to five years in prison.

A man is exempt from registering while he is on full-time active duty with the U.S. Armed Forces. Cadets and midshipmen at the service academies are included in the exemption. Members of the National Guard and Reserve Forces not on full-time active duty must register unless they have reached age 26 or are already registered.

Those who are unable to register due to circumstances beyond their control may be eligible for extension of the deadline.

If the shoe fits...

Prince Charming searched far and wide for the person who fit into Cinderella's lost glass slipper, but it shouldn't be that difficult for you to find a proper fitting shoe.

Shoes that don't fit are painful and may lead to serious foot problems such as bunions, corns, calluses and hammertoes.

"Getting the proper fit is easy if you pay attention to the shape of your foot, measure it each time you select a new pair of shoes and don't count on a shoe stretching to fit your foot," says orthopedist Dr. Donald Baxter of The Methodist Hospital in Houston. "I've had people come in who need foot surgery now but could have avoided it altogether if they had shoes that fit."

"If you stay in the right shoe too long, it may end up being the wrong shoe," says Dr. Saul Trevino, also of The Methodist Hospital. He suggests changing shoes as often as possible so pressure placed on your foot is shifted and every one of its 26 bones get a workout.

"Women really shouldn't wear high heels all the time," advises Trevino. "Roomier low-heeled pumps and flats with proper arch support are the best everyday shoes. Save your high heels for special occasions."

There are 10 steps you can take to ensure all the steps you take won't be hard on your feet:

1. Pay attention to the fit of the shoe, not the size.
2. Match the shoe to the shape of your foot.
3. Measure your feet every time you buy shoes.
4. Buy shoes to match the larger of your two feet.
5. Go shoe shopping late in the day when your feet are larger.
6. Stand up in the shoes and be sure there is a space of 1/8 inch to 1/2 inch between your longest toe and the front of the shoe.

7. Make sure the ball of your foot fits securely into the widest part of the shoe.

8. Don't buy tight shoes.

9. Walk in the shoes and be sure your heel doesn't slip.

10. Don't buy shoes that aren't comfortable when you try them on at the store.

"This is the age of specialization," says Baxter. "You should wear shoes designed specifically for certain activities."

Baxter says there really is a difference between running shoes, tennis shoes, walking shoes and shoes designed to be worn on a basketball court. "Cross-trainers are great shoes for a weekend athlete, but if you're serious about the sport you should be as serious about your shoes," he adds.

Traffic deaths decline in 1992

Traffic accidents killed fewer people in Texas in 1992 than in any year since 1974. Traffic deaths have now declined during each of the past four years.

Last year, 2,690 fatal traffic accidents claimed 3,057 lives, a 0.7 percent reduction from the 3,079 in 1991.

Rice students revive custom of carrying canes

At Rice University in Houston, seniors are carrying canes again for the first time in 70 years.

Each Monday, students who paid $59 each for the handcrafted black walking sticks will strut across the campus as their predecessors did in the 1920s.

How the tradition started---and then was discarded---is not clear. But on a campus where individualism always has reigned, almost anything can, and does happen.

The Rice Band is famous for its quirky antics at football games. And it may be the only school in the nation that has elected a refrigerator as its homecoming queen. Another year, the honor went to an automobile.

For 80 years, students have observed an honor code by which they sign a pledge before each exam or important assignment promising they won't cheat.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Gerald Rodgers, CPA

CONSIDER HIRING YOUR CHILDREN THIS SUMMER

Do you own a business? Do you want to help both your business and your children this summer? If so, hire your children. When you employ certain members of your family, you can legally lower your taxes. Here's how:

Hire your children in your family-owned business. Pay them the going rate for their work, usually at least minimum wage. Your business can deduct those wages, as you would for any other employee.

Your children now have taxable "earned income." Yet, often the children pay no taxes on their earnings, thanks to the standard deduction. Since you still provide their support, you keep them as exemptions on your personal return.

Income tax isn't the only savings. You can avoid social security taxes, too. When a child under 18 works in a family business, neither employer nor employee pays social security tax, saving 15.3% of the earnings.

Assume you hire your minor child to work for the summer, and you pay the child $3,700. You deduct that amount, saving $1,036 of taxes in the 28% bracket. Your child pays no tax since the standard deduction offsets the income. Further, neither of you pays social security tax, saving $566 more between the two of you. Total savings for your family: $1,602! (It can amount to more if the child earns more than $3,700 and contributes the excess to an IRA.)

Before hiring your children, consider these cautions:

- Obey your state's child labor laws.
- Assign necessary work, at reasonable pay.
- Use caution so the child's presence doesn't harm your relationship with regular employees.

Employing your children can save your family money. Check with us if you have questions.

"In spite of everything,^{*}
I still believe that people are really good at heart."

—Anne Frank—

As a young girl, Anne Frank lived and died in the shadows of the Nazi holocaust. The journal she kept while in hiding with her family has been a source of hope and inspiration to countless millions.

Surrounded as they were by the bitterest of human circumstances, young Anne and her family kept their faith in God, in one another, and in all of God's creation. She speaks to us today to remind us that life does, indeed, get hard, but God is with us, even in the darkest of shadows.

She reminds us that it is our faith which gets us through the hard times. That our faith is best nurtured and sustained in a community of caring people.

Whatever your struggle may be, we'll help you find hope for tomorrow. Come on home to the United Methodist Church. A place for those who believe that the shadows will never overcome the light of God's love.

State 4-H Roundup next for 4-H'ers

Almost 200 boys and girls from the 21 counties of the Rolling Plains District competed in Wichita Falls May 1 for the right to represent the district in the State 4-H Roundup June 7-10 in College Station.

Winners in more than 40 events in the senior division, ages 14-19, will advance to the state competition. Only first- and second-place teams or individuals qualify for the state event. Juniors, under the age of 14, do not compete beyond district level.

Winners were honored at an awards assembly at Midwestern State University which concluded a morning of competition. Awards were sponsored by West Texas Utilities Company and were presented by Todd Henry of Archer County and Audra Roberson of Wilbarger County, assisted by Wichita County Judge Nick Gibson.

Haskell County 4-H participants and their awards included:

First place in food and nutrition education: Vanessa Miller and Kaki Stapleton.

Second place in clothing education activity: Jennifer Josselet and Jennifer Smith.

Second place in family life education: Amy Barbour, Amanda Crawford, Crystal Hill, Jodi Reel and Halee Walton.

Second place in "Share the Fun": Megan Bird, Paige Jeffrey, Katy McDaniel, Jessica Miller, Krishna Patel, Bergen Peiser, Jessica Rieger and Heather Steele.

Third place in horses: Brittany Bartley.

Third place in sheep and/or goats: Derrick Hughes and Heather Shortes.

Fifth place in "Focus on Health": John Adamson and Justin Bruggeman.

Prior to Saturday, three other rounds of district competition had been held. The 4-H Food Show and Livestock, Horse, Soils and Consumer Decision Making team judging events were held last winter.

Fourteen extension districts will send their winners to State 4-H Roundup for the purpose of determining state champions. Approximately 2,300 4-H members, adult leaders and county extension agents will invade Texas A&M for the different contests.

Tax rebate increases

The City of Haskell this week received $28,890.17 from the state comptroller as its share of sales taxes collected on March sales.

The payment also reflects taxes reported by businesses filing quarterly returns for January, February and March.

This represented a 13.97-percent increase over the $25,349.86 received last year for the same period.

It brought the total sales tax rebate for Haskell to $102,791.64 for the first five months of 1993. This compares to $96,096.40 received in the first five months of last year.

The City of Rule received $3,322.74 as its rebate this month, compared to $2,527.63 last year. Rochester got $986.44, Weinert received $900.77 and O'Brien's rebate was $492.43.

Together, the five towns of Haskell County have received $119,188.30 in 1993 rebates, compared to $112,355.83 during the first five months of 1992.

Haskell's rebate was generated from the city's 1.5-percent sales tax. All other county cities impose a 1-percent city sales tax.
