City advertises for administrator

The City of Haskell began advertising last week for a city administrator.

An ad running in The Abilene Reporter-News lists the qualifications for the position as "experience in city government as manager or assistant." It further states that applicants should have a bachelor's degree in public administration, political science or related field.

The administrator's position has been vacant since the resignation of Scott Wall, who is now city manager at Hondo.

McElroy will speak on being a Christian in a non-Christian environment at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, July 13. Area teens are

On pot holes and pot shots

By Mary Kaigler

"It became necessary to destroy the town in order to save it," was the reason reportedly given when firing on Ben Tre, Vietnam, Feb. 8, 1968.

Illogical reasoning then. Illogical reasoning now. However, there are more, and just as deadly, ways to destroy a town in the name of saving it than with artillery firepower.

The spirit of civic pride, the feeling of community togetherness through mutual respect for individual diversity, makes any town a pleasant, healthy atmosphere for raising children or being retired in. But, when citizens of any town stay dogmatically divided over issues, even those having valid points on both sides, they often begin seeking retaliation by unreasonably shooting down everything the "opposition" proposes, regardless of whether it is logically sound or in the best interest of all.

"Us or them" can become the only criteria for judging the merit of every project, both city funded and privately (volunteer) funded. Sometimes this can be indulged to the extent of becoming an insidious way of thinking and interacting with others--a destructive deterrent to quality growth in both individuals and towns.

One small case in point: Through ludicrous, unsigned letters, with thinly-veiled harassment and sarcasm, pot-shots are being fired at members of the City Parks Board, by presenting the idea that money could best be spent repairing the many pot-holes that are to be found in our streets over town.

Pot-holes are a legitimate complaint, to be sure, grossly needing attention. But, to be sure, this complaint is also grossly misdirected to the Parks Board. A level-headed reality check into the situation would have saved the secretive, closet kibitzer time and postage. However, it probably would have spoiled the questionable glee of making copies and thinking up fictitious return addresses.

Members of the City Parks Board are there only because they believe in the value of the quality of life and aesthetic ambience that the park adds to Haskell.

Through diligent efforts of some on the board--researching sources and securing grant money (which by no stretch of imagination or fiscal maneuvering could be used for street paving)--there is now proper playground equipment for children. Through legitimate, budgeted funding the creek's flow has been made more constant by a series of weirs. Along with other improvements a gazebo, pavilion, walking path, RV accommodations and playing fields are available for the use of many different people. Private donors and funding are enablers making possible some of the beauty spots without which any environment is plain vanilla.

Always believing that man shall

Immunization clinic set July 15 at American Legion

The Texas Department of Health will conduct an immunization clinic in Haskell on July 15.

Shots will be given from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m. at the American Legion Hall. Parents or guardians must accompany their children. Adult tetanus shots also will be given.

During July and August all immunizations will be free of charge. The service is offered to everyone. Children between the ages of 4-12 are eligible to receive a second MMR3 (measles) vaccine.

For more information, call 864-2609.

***
The day when all Texas children are immunized is growing closer. A measure passed recently by the Texas Legislature and supported by Texas Medical Association (TMA) provides that every child in the state be immunized against vaccine-preventable diseases, regardless of ability to pay.

As plans to immunize Texas children are set in motion by the Texas Department of Health, the physicians of TMA will play an active role. TMA is part of a coalition coordinating and implementing plans to increase immunizations in Texas.

Immunizations are an important part of preventive health because a number of infectious diseases are almost completely preventable through routine immunizations. The incidence of measles, one such preventable disease, increased 12-fold in Texas from 1988 to 1991. In fact, as late as 1990, Texas was home to about 18 percent of the nation's measles cases.

To help prevent this and other dangerous and potentially life-threatening diseases, TMA urges you to make sure you and your children have current immunizations. Because these immunizations need to be received by age 2, waiting until your child is ready to start school needlessly puts them at risk of exposure to disease.

Routine childhood immunizations protect against eight diseases. The following immunization schedule is recommended by the American

Flea market highlight of 2nd Saturday

Individuals and organizations are encouraged to participate in a giant flea market on Haskell's downtown square during this month's Super 2nd Saturday.

Although those wishing to conduct sales are not required to register beforehand, it will be helpful if they will call Randy McLelland and let their intentions be known.

The giant flea market is just one of many activities which will be going on in Haskell Saturday.

There also will be a farmers' market, food booths, a dunking booth and drawings.

Girl Scouts will operate a dunking booth and the Assembly of God will sell hamburgers from its chuck wagon. TCBY frozen yogurt also will be available on the square.

The drawings will begin at 3 p.m. and $500 in gift certificate packets will be given away. There will be five drawings for $100 each. If the person whose name is called is not present, only $50 will be awarded, with the additional $50 going into another drawing.

McLelland is chairman of this month's Super 2nd Saturday. For booth space, call him at 864-3500 or 864-2950.

Super 2nd Saturday is sponsored by the Haskell Business Association of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce.

--Green Thumb--

By Gladys O'Neal
Haskell Garden Club

Midsummer is a great time in southern gardens. A lot of the summer flowers should be at their peak. We have frustrations with ripening fruits and maturing vegetables come the problems and diseases of a lot of our plants.

Our aim now is to keep things growing well.

Blackspot and mildew will show on roses almost continuously. There are several things on the market to use: Benlate (benomyl) or phaltan are good controls.

Most plants need fertilizer about every six weeks when they are growing rapidly.

It's not too late to plant another planting of zinnias, cosmos or sunflowers directly in your garden. They should start blooming in a few weeks.

If you want to grow your own pumpkins for Halloween, now's the time to get started. Plant four or five seeds about one and a half inches deep in a hill of well-prepared soil. Allow at least six feet between hills. For this area in Texas, Big Max, Spirit and Connecticut Field are recommended varieties.

Now is the time to notice if your daylilies haven't bloomed well. It's probably due to overcrowding. Dig up entire clumps, then remove soil from the roots to expose the crown. Pull the plants apart by hand, or split with a sharp knife. Then replant them about 12 or 18 inches apart.

Bulbs such as spider lilies and fall crocus need to be planted now for fall bloom. Set in a well-drained soil at a depth twice their width; a two-inch-wide bulb needs to be four inches deep.

Fertilize chrysanthemums, dahlias and asters now. Apply approximately one cup of liquid fertilizer or one tablespoon of granular 10-10-10 around each chrysanthemum or dahlia plant.

Cut hollyhocks off at ground level, fertilize and water. Keep verbenas clipped.

Many annuals have finished blooming. Clear the beds, fertilize and spade and let soil mellow for fall planting. Cut the perennials back, some will bloom again.

If any plants show signs of red spider, dust them thoroughly with sulphur or malathion.

I am most happy in a greenhouse or in a garden. I love flowers and have been growing them for many years. I've often thought: "What fun is it if you can't share it?" Enjoy and share your plants!

I do what I love and what people will enjoy. The way our world is today, nobody knows quite how it is going to shape itself, but as long as people care about art and books and flowers, the world will be a good place to live. I believe that things of beauty and joy endure.

Cliff and Annie Bess Cobb

Cobb couple to mark 50th

On July 11, R. C. (Cliff) Cobb and Annie Bess Gilliam will complete 50 years of marriage, having married July 11, 1943, in Dothan, Ala., during World War II.

A reception was held during the Cobb family reunion at the Krooked River Ranch east of Stamford on Saturday afternoon, July 3. It was hosted by their daughter, Cecile Blair, and husband, Carson, of Arlington; their son, Don Cobb, and wife, Kara, of Stamford; and his sisters, Jean Aday of Waxahachie and Mary Latimer of Tulsa, Okla.

Also, in celebration of the event, their children with their spouses, and their five grandchildren accompanied them on a trip to Carlsbad Caverns, N.M., July 5-7.

He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Von Cobb, was born in southeast Haskell County, graduated from Lueders High School and attended Abilene Christian University. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leon Gilliam, was born in Haskell and graduated from Haskell High School.

Cliff was employed 47 years by Rolling Plains PCA in Haskell and Stamford, with the last 11 years of his employment as its president. He retired in 1986. During this time he served three and half years in World War II (two and a half years in Europe) and a year and a half in the Korean War (one year in Korea). He received a battlefield commission during the Battle of the Bulge in Europe. He retired from the Army Reserve with the rank of major. In addition, he has been engaged in ranching most of his adult life.

While Cliff was overseas in World War II, Annie Bess worked at Fort Crockett in Galveston. Since then she has been a homemaker and very active in church and civic work. He is past president of the Stamford Chamber of Commerce and Stamford Rotary Club. They have been privileged to make several trips on church missions and to retrace World War II steps in Europe, the Far East and South Pacific. Other trips have been made to Mexico, Canada and Alaska. The most recent mission trip was to Czechoslovakia for two and a half months in 1992.

They are members of the Orient Street Church of Christ where both have taught Bible classes for many years, and he serves as an elder. With the exception of absences during World War II and the Korean War, they have lived in Haskell and Stamford all their married life.

Pot shots...

not live by either plain vanilla or paved streets alone, I cannot begrudge one penny spent for the city park. Regardless of personal 'druthers' at the time of voting on the new City Hall, I view participation on the City Parks Board as a responsibility, and with a certain pride in being associated with something that is an asset to my community.

When I see a bus-load of mentally-disadvantaged persons from Stamford laughing delightedly at the ducks from atop the bridge over the water, or family reunions under the pavilion, or the shimmering beauty of lights reflected on the water at night, it makes me happy to know that the town making this possible is where I chose to make my home.

Shutting off maintenance and developmental care on our little city park because of lack of proper street maintenance is comparable to cutting off a pretty little nose because the rest of the face has unsightly pimples. Neither of these solutions will cure the problems of the paving or the pimples.

Neither pot-shots nor pot-holes enhance a town's image, and neither does continued vindictiveness after a political shoot-out. Reasonably, unselfishly and courageously pooled and channeled toward solving problems held in common, the time, energy and creativity spent in skirmishing with one another over control, could be a formidable source of commendable progress for any town.

A wise old African proverb says that, "When elephants fight, it is the grass that suffers." I hope it never has to be the grass of the children's playing fields, or the green-grass spirit of a caring community that I enjoy here in Haskell.

There is nothing harder than the softness of indifference.

Shot clinic...

Academy of Pediatrics and Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention:

--DPT: A series of five shots at 2 months, 4 months, 6 months, between 15 and 18 months, and a booster shot between ages 4 and 6.

--Polio: A series of four oral doses at 2 months, 4 months, 15 to 18 months, and 4 to 6 years.

--MMR: Two shots, one at 15 months and a booster at 11 to 12 years of age.

--Haemophilus influenzae type B: Two different vaccines available, both given at 2 months, 4 months, and 12 to 15 months; one also requires a dose at 6 months.

--Tetanus-diphtheria: Between ages 14 and 16.

An additional recommendation was issued by the CDCV in November 1991 about Hepatitis B. Although it is an adult disease, Hepatitis B has not been controlled by adult immunizations because of difficulty in reaching much of the population at risk. To help eliminate Hepatitis B, the CDC now recommends immunizing for the disease at birth, at 1 to 2 months, and at 6 to 18 months.

Although some risks are associated with immunizations, they are outweighed dramatically by the benefits of disease prevention. If you are concerned, speak with your physician about vaccine risks and benefits.

The recent increase in outbreaks of infectious diseases, combined with renewed emphasis on preventive health, makes immunizations more important than ever. Check with your physician about immunizations you and your family need.

Health and intellect are the two blessings of life.

PHARMACY NEWS

By Elbert Johnson,
Registered Pharmacist

Preventing Cataracts: Cataracts are a common occurrence as people age, but they are not an inevitability. Scientists are finding that carotene, vitamins A,C, and E, and riboflavin may help to reduce the incidence of cataracts. Wearing UV-absorbent sunglasses and a hat on sunny days definitely can reduce the chances of developing these eye problems. Finally, smoking is an established risk factor, and while quitting will not repair damage, it limits the future risk of cataracts.

--Letters to the Editor--

City Council

Editor: Last week after I read the account of the City Council meeting in The Haskell Free Press, I was appalled. I was also dismayed, shocked and disgusted. These are the people we have elected and hired to govern our town? What ever happened to old fashioned good manners?

Now that the fun things have been taken care of---new City Hall, new fountain, City Park in A-one condition---it is hoped that the powers that be can turn to some necessary business. Our streets are a disgrace, so is the sewer system. What about the landfill?

I understand that our City Council meetings are laughingly referred to as Tuesday night fights. If mature men and women cannot discuss all items on the agenda without trading insults, they need to step back and take a long look at themselves.

I do not think that the citizens of Haskell will continue to tolerate this kind of behavior from these people. They should have our best interests at heart instead of being intent on carrying out a personal vendetta. Enough already.

Lois Redwine

Fire Department

Editor: The Haskell Fire Department is always looking for better ways to serve you. During the last few days, a letter was received from a Haskell citizen that made us realize we should seek your help in furthering our ability to protect and serve our community.

We were contacted and made aware of a family member that was bedridden. The family wanted to make the fire department aware of this in case of a fire. They were helpful and considerate enough not only make us aware of this situation but included a simple, hand drawn floor plan of the quickest route to rescue this person.

It was felt that possibly there were other citizens that were in this situation of being bedridden. If this is the case and you wish to notify the fire department, please write to the Haskell Fire Department, 301 N. 1st, Haskell, or contact any fireman. We will need the name, address, and a brief description of the layout of your home or a simple hand-drawn floor plan sketch of your home. All replies and floor plans will be kept in the strictness of confidences and only be available to firemen should that specific address come in as a fire call.

We of the Haskell Fire Department would like to take this opportunity to thank Haskell citizens for allowing us to serve you.

Independence

Editor: It was July 4, 1776, when America's Founding Fathers gathered in Philadelphia to pledge "their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor" in order to secure liberty for themselves and posterity. The signing of the American

Declaration of Independence was a pivotal moment in history for anyone who has ever yearned to live free from tyranny, oppression and the rule of dictators.

On Sunday, Americans celebrated, with significant fanfare, the 217th anniversary of this bold and courageous action made by these patriots who initiated the American experiment. It was an effort which not only gave birth to what has become the most powerful, prosperous, and benevolent nation the world has ever known, but also re-defined the very concept of freedom.

American is not an empire of conquest and possession, it is, has been, and will always be a nation of vision and ideas. The ideas of economic and political freedom, born in ancient Greece and Rome, refined and perfected in England, took a deeper root in American than anywhere else on earth and thus the American free enterprise system was born. This concept has proven beyond doubt that in a free society people are better able to utilize their God-given talents to advance themselves, their family and the community.

America is not a great and powerful country because the most brilliant and talented people in the world came to lie here. America is a great and powerful country because it is here that ordinary people like you and me have had more opportunity and more freedom than any other people who have ever lived on the face of the earth. It is with this opportunity and with this freedom, that ordinary people like us have been able to accomplish extraordinary things.

We need not be historians to understand that Americans owe a huge debt to the courage of past generations for freedom and was purchased and has been preserved at an enormous cost. One cannot celebrate the joys of liberty without pausing to commemorate the gallantry of those who laid upon the altar of sacrifice their life on behalf of liberty's cause. I humbly join you in thanking God for the special blessing of liberty. May we be exceptionally good stewards of this privilege.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Richard E. Rodgers, CPA

DO SOME MIDYEAR TAX PLANNING

New tax legislation is expected sometime this year, and many of the initial proposals call for higher taxes to be imposed retroactively to the beginning of 1993. For example, the current rule which limits itemized deductions and personal exemptions for "high income" taxpayers is expected to be made permanent. You needn't wait for Congress to hammer out its tax plan, though. You can take advantage of the tax breaks that will probably be available even after Congress acts.

Here are some examples:

1. Contribute the maximum amount to tax-deductible retirement plans (IRAs, SEPs, 401 (k) plans, Keoghs, 403 (b) plans).
2. Once you've maximized the tax-deductible plans, consider contributing to a nondeductible retirement plan or an annuity. You won't get a tax deduction for your contribution, but the earnings on the investment aren't taxable until withdrawn.
3. Perhaps tax-free investments are appropriate for your portfolio. Also, find out how to invest for capital gains rather than ordinary income. The maximum capital gains rate is expected to stay at 28% while ordinary income tax rates rise.
4. As part of your overall estate plan, consider giving income-producing assets to family members whose tax rates are lower than yours.
5. Plan the sale of stocks, bonds, and real estate to minimize the capital gains tax. Consider a tax-deferred exchange of real estate or business property. An installment sale of real estate may keep you in a lower tax bracket by spreading your gain over many years.
6. If your employer sponsors a flexible benefits plan or cafeteria plan, sign up for all of the pre-tax benefits you can use.

The Wall Street Journal reports that English is as tortured abroad as it is in America, especially on commercial signs.

Examples:

•At a cocktail lounge in Norway, "Ladies are requested not to have children at the bar."

•At a politically incorrect Japanese hotel, "You are invited to take advantage of the chambermaid."

•A fun-loving Bangkok dry cleaner suggests, "Drop your trousers here for best results."

•At an Acapulco hotel: "The manager has personally passed all the water served here."

There may be more murders and other major crimes than there used to be, but in a lot of ways Americans are kinder than they were a generation or two ago.

We had a kid in school who was hard of hearing and everyone called him "Deafy."

Another was disfigured in an automobile wreck and he was referred to as "Scarface."

An elderly man in town was known as "One Eye"---for a reason which requires no explanation.

Another man could not hear or talk. We called that affliction "deaf and dumb" and called the man "Dummy."

When someone was committed to a state mental institution, we said he had "lost his mind" and he was put away in an insane asylum.

Many things have changed for the better.

--Haskell Nursing Center--

Raggedy Ann? Absolutely! Haskell Nursing Center has been chosen as the facility to receive visits from the one and only Raggedy Ann.

The storybook character appears periodically in our facility to visit both residents and workers. When she arrives, she is met by smiles, waves and exclamations of, "There she is!"

Few people know exactly who she is. No one knows what she talks to the residents about. She is careful to keep everything very hush hush and confidential. The residents and even the workers tell her things that have been bothering them or ask her questions and advice.

Raggedy Ann takes time from her busy schedule to come to Haskell Nursing Center and visit with people who are lonely, sick, and who sometimes need nothing more than an interested listener.

Haskell Nursing Center salutes our Raggedy Ann. We are proud to have her anytime she finds time to come into our facility and create her own special kind of "Magical Moments."

--Library Notes--

By Joan Strickland

The summer reading program got underway with a bang last week when Sara Dulaney read several Sesame Street books to more than a dozen children. Next week, Kerri Ferrell from Rule will read.

We invite the younger children to participate in the story time and both the younger and older children can still sign up for the summer reading program.

We have 47 children signed up to date. Each child can check out five books and write them down on their reading log. They must return the reading log in order to get their reading certificate on Aug. 4 when we have the final story and party. Story time begins each Wednesday morning at 10:30 and ends at 11.

Regular library hours are 1 to 5 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday. Phone 864-2747.

We are still working on donations for a copy machine. We have around $650 and need about $450 more. The money donated to the memorial fund can be earmarked for copy machine if you request it; or it can be used to purchase a book in someone's memory or in honor of a birthday, etc.

In addition the the books Wanda Dulaney left to the library, we have also received books belonging to Hill Oates. Bethany Elmore donated several Gerbert videos for the 3-6 years olds. Jessica Thompson, Kelly Moeller and Tex Little also donated several books in the last week.
