WTPA scholarship awarded to Jennifer Comedy

The West Texas Press Association Bob Craig Memorial Scholarship for graduating high school seniors was awarded to Jennifer Comedy of Haskell, at the annual WTPA convention held in San Angelo, July 20-22.

The scholarship awarded is $500, payable at the rate of $250 per semester for two semesters during which journalism courses are taken at the college of the recipient's choice. Jennifer plans to major in agriculture journalism at Texas A&M University.

Applicants for the scholarship had to submit a 250-500 word essay on the subject, "My Future and Career Plans in Community Journalism."

Jennifer submitted the following winning essay.

"A scholarship from the West Texas Press Association will help me to pursue a career in journalism in college and then become one of the special breed of people known as community journalists.

"Because I grew up in a newspaper family (both my father and grandfather were publishers of a community newspaper), my future in community journalism has already begun. I know the power and the responsibility that is entrusted to one who protects the First Amendment. Nowhere in America is the need for its protection greater than in small-town America whose grass roots existence can be threatened when local control is lost. A small town must have a voice, and a newspaper is its most powerful voice. Without that voice, especially a responsible one, a small town can't progress and often doesn't survive.

"Armed with words, enthusiasm and a love of people and events, I intend to be a community journalist. I plan to major in ag journalism and live in an area that has at least some part of its economy tied to agriculture. Nowhere is there more need for better communication than in agriculture - both within the system and with the people it serves.

"Although I am hopeful for my future, I am not naive to the grueling tasks of publication work, and I am willing to work hard to be a presence in the industry and my community. One advantage I have is that I grew up in a small town. My family encouraged me to participate in sports and extra-curricular activities yet I also had to maintain high grades. I learned to budget my time and balance work with pleasure. This work ethic I believe will help me be successful in my chosen profession."

Jennifer is the daughter of Bill and Nene Comedy, former publishers of The Haskell Free Press. She is the granddaughter of Lyla Mary (TaTa) Isbell of Haskell and Bill Comedy, also former publisher and owner of The Haskell Free Press.

Rent situation discussed at Commissioner's Court

Representatives from the Texas Dept. of Health and the Texas Dept. of Public Safety met with the Commissioner's Court at their regular Tuesday morning meeting to discuss tentative plans of the Court to start charging rent to the state offices located in the courthouse.

Amy McKnight from the Texas Dept. of Health told the Court that there is a possibility that their offices would be closed if the county started charging them rent. "This region has always used Haskell County as an example for the support that the county gives to the Dept. of Health." She told the Court that there are a lot of people in the county who cannot afford to go to private doctors and therefore utilize the immunization and family planning clinics.

Dr. Frank Cadenhead, representing the three doctors in Haskell, spoke to the Court on behalf of the Health Dept. and the services provided. "This service is essential to the county, the immunization clinic alone is well worth it. There is no way the kiddos in this county could be immunized by going to clinics and having to pay for the shots. If it is true that the state would close services if they had to pay rent, then it is something that needs to be considered. I want to emphasize how much value their service is with the doctors here."

Judge Roberson commented, "This (the rent) is just being considered in writing the new budget for the coming year."

Commissioner Ray Perry said, "I feel the state should assist counties by paying rent on state offices located in the county courthouses. I'm not questioning the value of your office at all. It just gets down to economics. I do not think it is fair for the state to pay rent in larger counties and not pay it in smaller, poorer counties. We are struggling to meet ends meet here in the county."

Keith Gross, a sergeant with the Drivers License Division of the Texas Dept. of Public Safety told the Court, "The Dept. of Public Safety provides a service that is necessary to the community. We have to go to the Legislature to get money that we ask for in our budget and we do not have rent budgeted. It would have to be approved by the Legislature. We provide a service to this county for the public that you can't get anywhere else. When making your decision on charging rent to these state offices, set back and look at the free services that the state is providing for the citizens."

DPS Trooper James Davis told the Court that this was the Sergeant headquarters for Haskell, Young, Knox, Throckmorton and Baylor Counties. "All sergeants in this troop area come to Haskell every Monday morning to file reports. It's a good source of revenue to have the sergeants here."

Judge Roberson said, "We will consider this matter and consider it thoroughly before a decision is made."

In other business, the Court approved the purchase of a new radar machine for Davis' patrol car.

They also approved a motion for Haskell County to participate in the formation of the West Texas Central Council of Governments Housing Finance Corporation. The corporation is a low-income housing mortgage company to assist citizens in acquiring low-interest mortgage loans to buy or build a home.

A motion was approved to not accept the resolution of the Appraisal District Board to appoint County Judge Roberson as a representative on the Tax Appraisal Board representing Haskell County. All of the commissioners were opposed to the resolution.

The 1995-96 proposed budget for the ECC was approved by the Court and the hiring of Melissa Hernandez as part-time janitor at the center was also approved.

City Council accepts Zoning Board change

In a brief meeting, the City Commissioners accepted the Zoning Board's recommendation for a zoning change for Bobby Hanson at his business located at 207 S. 1st Street. A motion was also approved to send someone to Austin to check on purchasing a used vehicle for the police department.

The Commissioners rejected all bids on the used loader to be purchased by the city, as only one loader met specifications and the Council felt that the price was too high. The matter was tabled until further investigation of buying a used loader could be implemented.

The Council appointed Johnny Wheatley to the EDC Board and renewed Greg Melton's seat on the board.

Dept. of Public Safety urges safety around children

We've all heard the saying, "Kids say the darndest things!" Well kids do the darndest things, especially around school zones. With school starting up again, there's sure to be trouble afoot. Now is the time for drivers to start thinking about the dangers this presents.

Whether you drive in school zones once a year or work there every day, you can never forget certain lessons. One is that you have to use better judgement that the 7-year-olds who surround you, according to Trooper Bobby Hart, Public Information Officer for the Texas Dept. of Public Safety.

"It's important to remember that kids aren't small adults, and they don't think like adults. They lack experience with traffic, and they don't always act logically. When you sound your horn, for instance, a child may think it's okay to cross the street in front of your vehicle," Hart added.

Children also have limited perceptual skills. Sometimes they it's hard to predict kids actions near schools, try to avoid these areas. can't even tell if your vehicle is in motion or stopped. They can't accurately judge the speed and distance of vehicles or detect safe gaps in traffic.

"Elementary school aged children often aren't tall enough to be seen on the other side of a parked car, or as they move between vehicles to cross the street when they're being picked up. School zones are not the time to light a cigarette or call the office on your car phone," Hart says.

The key is to see children in time to avoid a collision. Search from curb to curb for kids who could enter your path. Everyone who enters the roadway is vulnerable to injury, but children on foot are even more at risk.

Many times the kids probably have their minds on school or friends, not on the vehicles moving around them. That means it's your job to be even more aware of what's going on around you. Since Reroute your trip, if possible, to avoid peak drop-off and pick-up times and getting stuck behind a school bus.

However, if you can't avoid a drive through a school zone, the best strategy is to just slow down and stay alert. It's up to us to take precautionary steps to keep kids alive and safe.

Applications being accepted now for DPS recruit training school to begin in October

The Texas Department of Public Safety is accepting applications for recruit training schools that will begin in October of this year and February 1996.

"I encourage any person who meets our initial screening criteria and who is interested in a career in law enforcement to consider joining what many say is one of the premier law enforcement agencies in the country," DPS Director Col. James R. Wilson said.

In order to apply, applicants must be at least 20 years of age (there is not a maximum age), have a minimum of 60 semester hours of college (for some educational requirements, prior law enforcement or military service can be substituted), be a U.S. citizen, pass a written examination, meet certain physical fitness standards and be willing to accept assignment anywhere in Texas.

Formally known as an All Field Service Recruit Training School, graduates of the 26-week-old course will fill existing and anticipated vacancies in the DPS's Traffic Law Enforcement Division — Highway Patrol, Driver License, License and Weight, Safety Education and Vehicle Inspection Services. After gaining experience in entry-level law enforcement positions in TLE, troopers can promote within TKE or to various positions in the Criminal Law Enforcement or Texas Ranger Divisions.

"Our training school is nearly twice as long as the minimum required by the state," said Lt. Curley Colquitt, who heads up the DPS's recruiting effort. "Our classes are more in-depth and we also teach more self-improvement, management and skills classes," he said.

During the 26 weeks of training, the trainees learn arrest, search and seizure policies, physical education, strategies of self defense, patrol procedures, crowd management, accident investigation techniques, problem solving and critical thinking, interpersonal communications and a number of other state- and DPS-required subjects.

Trainees stay in the DPS Training Academy dormitory in Austin during the school. Salary during the training session is $1,721 per month. Following graduation, probationary troopers are paid $1,983 per month.

The deadline for out-of-state applications is July 26; in-state applications will be accepted until

Aug. 25.

For full information about application requirements, interested persons can call regional recruiters at DPS offices in Garland, 214-226-7611; Houston, 713-957-6183; Corpus Christi, 512-854-2681; Midland, 915-697-2211; Lubbock, 806-747-4991; Waco, 817-867-4655; or Lt. Many attend Harrell reunion

The descendants of Ike, Nathan, Will and Charlie Harrell turned out in record attendance for the 1995 Harrell family reunion. The group came 61 strong to Rice Springs Park to visit and enjoy hamburgers and hot dogs prepared by Mike Harrell.

On Saturday, 94 attended the noon meal at the Haskell Co. Country Club. Gene Harrell prepared the brisket for the meal and the trimmings were furnished by those in attendance.

Officers serving are N.J. (Junior) and Marjorie Harrell, President and Vice-President; Frances Harrell Bowen, Secretary-Treasurer. It was agreed to keep these officers for 1996 and they were commended for their good job.

The entire family of Joe "Mutt" Harrell, Nathan Harrell's son, traveled from Monterey, Calif. They received recognition for having traveled the farthest. Others in attendance were from Arkansas, Arizona, Dallas, Houston, Abilene, Plano, Brownfield, Garland, Richardson and Burkburnet.

Daisy Harrell Smith held the winning ticket to keep the Harrell family hand print quilt, made by Marjorie Harrell, until reunion time next year. Viola Harrell Tidwell was the oldest in attendance.

Baby-safe bears made by Marjorie Harrell were presented to two new babies born since the last reunion. This tradition was started in 1992.

Pat and Roy Glover conducted a fun auction of hand-crafted items brought in by those in attendance. It was voted to donate $300 to the Haskell Cemetery Association.

A good time was had by all and everyone is looking forward to the 1996 Harrell family reunion.

Seventeen people left for Wolf Point, Mont. in two vans on July 21, where they will conduct a Vacation Bible School. The group has been having fund raising activities since spring to help pay for expenses on the trip. Wolf Point is not a Baptist area and this will be their first Vacation Bible School. The church is small and is without a pastor at this time. The interim pastor will work with the group from Rule and will stay in the parsonage with them.

The group will spend one night, on their way to Montana, in a Baptist encampment. They plan to arrive in Wolf Point in time for Sunday night services.

Those making the trip are: Rev. Stewart Farrell; Bobby Don, Norva, Josh, Kelli and Holli Smith; Curt and Jennifer Allison; Rod, Julie, Allison and Zeb Petty; Magan Jones; Stephanie Stegemoeller; Isabell Baez; Sarah Kitley; and Debra Wilson.

Lanelle Trussell, Kaleth and Latisha will leave the church builders group and join the Montana group for the Vacation Bible School.

The group will return to Rule on July 29.

Members present were: Helen Cox, Jo Veta Ellison, Stella Carver, Ida Pack, Eda Faye Pounds, Emily Wilson, Johnnie King, Annie Marshall, Myrtle Townsend, Lavern and Truett Kuenstler. The two guests were Audie Johnson and Vecta Reid.

Students in the News

About 333 children and youth took part in Hardin-Simmons University's 15th annual "Threshold" program for gifted and talented children and youth over two weeks in July.

Students in grades 4-5 and 6-10 attended classes all day, while students in kindergarten-grade 3 attended half-day classes.

Participants from Haskell included: Primary (grades 2-3), Monica Buerger; Regular (grades 6-11), Melissa Buerger and Paige Hagadone.

Lauren Lee Moore of Haskell was among students named to the Dean's Honor List at Texas Christian University for the 1995 spring semester. This recognition cites undergraduate students for academic achievement. In order to be eligible, a student must have been enrolled for 12 or more semester hours of study and have earned an exceptional grade-point average.

Moore is a sophomore advertising and public relations major. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore and a graduate of Hamlin High School.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — New rules allowing Texans to make more informed decisions about their health-care options were proposed last week by Gov. George W. Bush and Insurance Commissioner Elton Bomer.

"These are fair rules which will ensure quality health care at reasonable costs for Texans," Bomer said.

Under the rules, health maintenance organizations and other managed-care programs would have to disclose to consumers information comparing costs and services offered in their plans.

The rules also would:

- Allow patients to continue seeing the same doctor during the final months of pregnancy or other ongoing medical conditions, even if that doctor is terminated from the insurance plan.

- Guarantee patients in a health-care plan the right to choose their own primary care provider from the list of doctors who participate in the plan.

- Require insurance companies to pay for emergency medical services at least until a patient's condition is stabilized.

Doctors and dentists would be protected from unfair dismissal from a health care group, under the rules. "(The rules) say insurance companies or plans which terminate doctors, dentists or other providers must give written reasons for doing so. They require each HMO to have an advisory review panel to scrutinize appeals of termination decisions," Bomer said.

"We are going through a time of tremendous change in the way health care is paid for and the way it is delivered," Bush said. "The role of government is to ensure that patients and health care professionals are treated fairly and consistently to ensure free and fair competition for health care services and prices."

Disabled Care Threatened

Meanwhile, the Texas Department of Human Services is hunting for ways to compensate for the expected loss of $148 million from the federal government which funds programs for elderly and disabled Texans.

In addition to the loss of federal funding, the state Legislature secured an additional $55 million for the DHS budget to cover fiscal 1995-96, but even with the extra money, the agency is still facing a $63 million shortfall.

The board of the DHS is to consider proposals to:

- Freeze enrollment in affected programs for 18 months;

- Freeze enrollment in programs that help clients in their homes with bathing, cooking, dressing and reduce by 10 percent the hours aides are available for such duties; and

- Reduce by 12 percent all non-family community service programs.

The danger of losing such home-care programs is that it will force many clients into nursing homes where care is even more expensive.

Firearm Classes Begin

After checking their guns at the door, 160 persons gathered at the Department of Public Safety Training Academy last week to learn how to teach Texans how to properly carry concealed handguns.

The would-be firearms instructors under the new concealed-gun law, represent every region of the state.

All are hoping to qualify as an instructor when Texans begin applying for concealed-handgun permits on Sept. 1. Anyone teaching the state's concealed-gun course must be certified by the DPS.

According to a report in the Houston Chronicle, the DPS estimates about 180,000 Texas residents (1 percent of the state's population) will seek permits.

Applicants pay a $100 non-refundable course fee and travel to Austin to attend the course, which varies in length depending on experience.

Democrats Now On-line

The Texas Democratic Party has gone on-line with its own computer network, party officials announced last week.

Party chairman Bob Slagle said "Frontrunner: Texas Democrats Online," will offer such services as e-mail, access to the Democratic Party's master voter file, party news and election data archives. Democratic candidates will be able to set up their own areas within the network.

"Contrary to the myth that Democrats in Texas are an endangered species and out of step with the times," the state Democratic organization is the only party offering on-line access to grassroots organizers and officeholders, Slagle said.

Lottery Pulls Profit

Texas Lottery profits have topped $2.5 billion in its 37-month history, state lottery director Nora Linares reports.

"Based on 10 months of sales this fiscal year," she said, "we've already sent more than $734 million to the Treasury."

As of July 1, the lottery sold more than $7 billion worth of chances on its various games, and of that total, $4.1 billion was returned to players in prizes and $397 million in commissions and bonuses to retailers, said lottery spokesman Steve Levine.

Other Highlights

- Gov. Bush has named San Antonio businesswoman Judy Walsh to the three-member Public Utility Commission. Walsh, who owns a finance and tax consulting business, succeeds Sarah Goodfriend, a holdover appointment of former Gov. Ann Richards. The Senate failed to confirm Goodfriend's appointment before the 1995 legislative session ended.

Emily Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cox Jr. of Haskell was named "Outstanding Camper" at the Friday night campfire, second session of Camp Boothe Oaks, Sweetwater Girl Scout Camp. Emily was elected by campers in the Sherwood Unit to this honor. Every year girls choose the one camper that they feel has best lived up to the Girl Scout ideals as a fellow camper.

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated three accidents on rural highways in Haskell County during the month of June, 1975, according to Sergeant Frank Jircik, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area. These crashes resulted in no persons killed and two persons injured.

Members of the Haskell City Council rejected a proposed rate increase Tuesday night during their regular meeting. The increase was requested last fall and members of the council employed Bryan Sloan, Austin CPA, to do a study and make recommendations concerning the request. Sloan reported that he didn't feel a rate increase was in order at this time.

Under the leadership of president, O.L. Crouch, the Haskell County Sheriff's Posse is "racking-up" another enviable record this year. The local riding club won another first place Wednesday of last week at the opening day parade of the Scurry County Rodeo in Snyder. The two-mile long parade through downtown Snyder featured 15 riding clubs, as the Haskell Co. Sheriff's Posse took first place in the senior riding club competition.

George Ballard of Rochester, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Ballard, was awarded the Lone Star Farmers

The Pete Tanner Grocery, of Rochester, suffered heavy damage in an early morning fire Sunday. Owner Pete Tanner estimated damages at between $45,000 and $50,000. The 4:30 a.m. blaze was believed to have started near a hot water heater at the rear of the building.

Quite a company of prospectors from Bell County have been here looking over the country for the past several days. They are intelligent, substantial looking men. We hope they will find the country to their liking and cast their lot amongst us.

Mr. Robert Hollis is the first man to demonstrate that onions of fine size can be grown successfully here from the seed. He has growing on his place a mile north of town, two or three acres of seedling onions and in order to convince the doubting Thomases, brought in about a peck of the onions the other day. They were convincers, and ranged in size from 2-1/2 to 3-3/4 inches in diameter. There were two kinds, white and red, both equally fine.

The 3.06 inches of rain here since the 21st of July means a fine crop of summer grass, plenty of stock water on all the ranges and fat stock. It also means the filling out in the best possible condition, the thousands of acres of corn, milo maize and kaffir corn now in the process of maturing.

License suspension: what you can expect

By Att. Gen. Dan Morales
During the past legislative session, the Texas Legislature approved a measure that gave my office the authority to suspend the professional, driver's and recreational licenses of parents who are delinquent in their child support payments. On Sept. 1, 1995, the new law, one of the most comprehensive in the nation, goes into effect.

What it means
Non-custodial parents who hold state-regulated licenses, owe more than 90 days of past-due child support, and are not in compliance with an existing re-payment plan, will face suspension of those licenses.

The license suspension bill was designed as an enforcement tool that would reach the most troublesome cases involving delinquent parents. Many of those parents have attempted to avoid automatic wage withholding for child support by various means, including skipping from job to job, working for cash, or taking on self-employment. We aim to stop non-compliance.

It would be wonderful if we lived in a society that did not require the government to become involved in people's personal lives and force them to live up to their parental responsibilities. Unfortunately, the grim reality is that government is — and must be — involved in the process. In Texas, hundreds of thousands of children's lives are affected by the payment or non-payment of child support.

Voluntary compliance process

This September, we will begin a statewide campaign to inform non-custodial parents who are delinquent on child support that their license privileges are in jeopardy. We hope that this information will encourage voluntary compliance to pay up. If you are a non-custodial parent in this situation, you can set up a re-payment plan to avoid the possibility of having your licenses suspended. A repayment plan can be worked out at any time.

There will be penalties, however, for those who do not obey the law. Delinquent non-custodial parents will be put on notice. While we really do not want to suspend anyone's license, we will not hesitate to do so if necessary.

The suspension process
Those who fail to meet their lawful obligations will be faced with a number of administrative sanctions.

If we cannot get voluntary compliance from a non-custodial parent, we here at the Office of the Attorney General will petition the administrative hearing officer of license suspension. Due process requirements will be met by proper service and hearings.

Non-custodial parents who enter into repayment agreements will be allowed to keep their licenses, so long as they comply with those repayment plans.

On the other hand, if a non-custodial parent does not enter into a repayment agreement and keep up with the payments, the final order to suspend his or her license is sent to the appropriate licensing agency and the license will be suspended. A non-custodial parent can appeal the suspension to a state district court.

The Legislature and the Governor have acted. Now it is our turn. If you are a non-custodial parent and you plan to meet your obligations, we applaud you. But if you fail to meet your obligations, we will seek you on behalf of your children and take away your state-regulated license.

For information about license revocation or other child support issues, please call our child support division at 800-252-8014.

Human felicity is produced not so much by great pieces of fortune that seldom happen, as by little advantages that occur every day.

Protect your child with immunizations

Now's the time to have your child immunized. Immunizations are an important part of preventive health because a number of infectious diseases are almost completely preventable through routine vaccinations. Texas leads the nation in the number of reported cases of vaccine-preventable diseases.

Estimates show that while 95 percent of Texas school-age children are properly immunized, only 30 to 40 percent of the state's preschool-age children have received recommended vaccines. As late as 1990, Texas was home to about 18 percent of the nation's cases of measles, one such preventable disease.

Routine childhood immunizations protect against many childhood diseases. The following immunization schedule, updated earlier this year, has been approved by the American Academy of Pediatrics, the American Academy of Family Physicians, and the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices.

- DPT (diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis) — a series of DTP shots at two months, four months, six months, between 12 months and 18 months (or DtaP — diphtheria, tetanus and acellular pertussis — between 15 months and 18 months), and between ages four and six. A Td, tetanus and diphtheria, shot should be given at age 11 and every 10 years thereafter.

- Hepatitis B — a series of three shots between birth and two months, between two months and four months, and between six months and 18 months.

- Haemophilus influenza type B — a vaccine at two months, four months, six months and between 12 and 15 months.

- Polio — a dose at two months, four months, between six months and 18 months, and between the ages of four and six.

- MMR (measles, mumps and rubella) — two shots, one between 12 months and 15 months and one between the ages of four and six or between the ages of 11 and 12.

Also, the American Academy of Pediatrics recently recommended the routine use of chickenpox vaccine in childhood. The AAP recommends the chickenpox, or varicella, vaccine for all children, adolescents and young adults who have not already been infected with chickenpox. A single dose can be given between 12 and 18 months of age, at the same time as the child's first MMR. Consult your physician if you have questions about this new vaccine.

Although some risks are associated with immunizations, they are outweighed dramatically by the benefits of disease prevention. If you are concerned, speak with your physician about vaccine risks and benefits.

Envy is a pain of mind that successful men cause their neighbors.

FAITH BIDS US MAKE THAT CHANGE IF IT'S FOR THE BETTER

At some time in our lives, we all feel that a change is in order, for a variety of reasons. Perhaps we have taken on too many things at once, whether they be jobs or volunteer activities. We find that we cannot do any of them well, and we may also be jeopardizing our home life in the process. Or we may find ourselves locked into a job that is boring and without a future, and which does not make use of our real talents. If any of these situations sound familiar, start looking around for something better, or quit one of the jobs that you have no time for. However, before you take any drastic steps, pray for guidance at your House of Worship, and talk to your clergyman. This will prevent any rash or impulsive moves, and remind you that God will place you where you really belong, if you will just give Him a chance to do it.

Make family traditions more healthful

Summer, with its picnics and family reunions, is a good time to examine family traditions and see if they fit into today's healthy lifestyles.

Update your summer traditions if you want your family to meet American Heart Association recommendations for a more healthful, low-fat diet and a physically active lifestyle.

Family picnics are a time for being together, playing with children, staging softball games and even eating ice cream — as long as it is a lower-fat version. The key is to not think of these events as a license to eat everything in sight.

To help everyone have a great time, plan a variety of dishes including traditional versions with a low-fat twist. Use low-fat mayonnaise and salad dressings, fresh fruits and vegetables and grilled or barbecued chicken instead of fried.

Support family and friends who are watching their weight by avoiding suggestions such as "You can get off your diet just for one day," or "It won't hurt if you have one more..." When possible, help everyone by serving smaller portions and remind them to save room for that all-American favorite, ice-cold watermelon.

Here are some other suggestions.

•Offer a nutritionally balanced and attractive array of foods.

•Include fresh fruits and raw vegetable trays.

•Make sure that folks watching their weight have low-fat choices

•Allow guests to serve themselves with as much or as little as they wish (Don't push people to stuff themselves).

•Serve low-fat margarine and salad dressings.

•Use low-fat cookies and cakes. Another possibility is a no-fat angel food cake topped with fresh fruit.

Here are some other suggestions: Replace regular hot dogs with the lower-fat versions. Go for lean ground beef by itself or add ground turkey. Mix the meat patties with chopped onions and grated carrots before grilling. Plan time for physical activity before and after your picnic. Encourage guests to hike before eating. Try two-stepping or square dancing afterwards.

Take advantage of parks, playgrounds and other recreational facilities. Make sure guests know what equipment or clothing they may need if softball diamonds or swimming areas are available.

Summer may be the time when the living is easy. But it can also be a time when you continue to live healthier. For more information, contact the American Heart Association at 1-800-242-8721.

Help Your Heart Recipe
This recipe is intended to be part of an overall healthful eating plan. Total fat intake should be less than 30 percent of your total calories for a day — not for each food or recipe.

Braised Sirloin Tips

1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

1/2 teaspoon unseasoned meat tenderizer

2 pounds beef sirloin tips, all visible fat removed, cut into cubes and drained on paper towel

2 cloves garlic, finely minced

1/2 cup finely chopped onion

1-1/4 cup low-sodium beef broth

1/3 cup dry red wine

1 tablespoon light soy sauce

2 tablespoons cornstarch

1/4 cup cold water

1/4 cup minced fresh parsley

Place large, nonstick skillet over medium-high heat. Sprinkle pepper and meat tenderizer on meat. Brown meat on all sides, turning often, until well browned. Add garlic and onions and cook until onions are translucent.

Add broth, wine and soy sauce. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 1-1/2 hours, or until meat is tender.

In a small bowl, blend cornstarch and water until smooth; slowly pour mixture into skillet, stirring constantly. Continue to cook and stir until gravy thickens. Sprinkle parsley on top. Serve with rice if desired. Serves 8.

Take precautions against Hantavirus

When American Indians were dying from flu-like symptoms in 1992 in the Southwest, medical personnel from all over the nation struggled to find an answer. After weeks of testing and analysis, scientists discovered HPS, Hantavirus (han-ta-virus) Pulmonary Syndrome. Extension veterinarian Bruce Lawhorn says the virus is transferred to humans through fecal materials, urine or saliva from infected rodents. HPS has a 52 percent mortality sudden death rate. The common deer mouse and the western harvest mouse are known carriers. The illness strikes within 45 days of exposure. Pains will occur for one to four days, and a cough with fever and chills will follow. Finally it turns into sudden respiratory distress where the lungs start filling up with water. Since a large number of rodents live on trails and camp sites, hunters and campers should take precautions. Also farm workers are at risk because barns and storage sheds are ideal habitats for rodents. Lawhorn recommends that if you find rodent fecal matter, use a solution of one-half cup of bleach to five cups of water and pour the mixture on the contaminated areas. Never sweep or vacuum up fecal matter because this will simply make the virus airborne, possibly contaminating you and others.

Loans available for farm & ranch land

The Texas Agricultural Finance Authority, administered through the Texas Department of Agriculture, is accepting applications for a new loan program that helps individuals purchase up to $150,000 worth of farm or ranch land, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said.

"Our Farm and Ranch Finance Program is for producers who want to buy their first place or for those who want to expand their operations," Perry said. "Applicants must have at least three years of farming or ranching experience."

Applicants must be Texas residents and show that they have earned at least 25 percent of their gross income from farming and ranching over the last three years. Applicants will be required to complete a business plan demonstrating that they intend to be full-time agricultural producers and they must provide evidence that their net worth is less than $250,000. Applicants also must prove that they have finances available for necessary farming and ranching equipment and operating costs.

Applications must be completed in cooperation with a local lending institution. The maximum loan of $150,000 may not exceed 95 percent of the land's appraised value or 95 percent of the purchase price. Interest rates are based on market conditions and will be adjusted over the life of the loan. The rates must be approved by the lender and the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority. As of June 5, the interest rate was 9.75 percent.

In addition to the Farm and Ranch Finance Program, changes have been made in TAFE's Young Farmer Guarantee Program to encourage more applicants. The program was established to help those between 18 and 40 years old start their first agricultural operation. Loans guarantees may be used for purchases of feed, seed, fertilizer, livestock, poultry, farm or ranch equipment, farm or ranch buildings or to lease farm or ranch land.

To receive an application for any loan program administered by TAFE, or for more information about these loan programs and others, call TDA in Austin at 512-475-1619; fax 512-475-1762 or write: the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority, P.O. Box 12847, Austin TX 78711-2847.

Pre-season checkup needed by high school athletes

High school athletes may be only "second string" without a pre-season checkup, says a sports medicine expert.

Now's the time to prepare for the upcoming athletic season and for the demands of physical education classes.

"Anyone involved in school athletics should have an annual history and exam as a necessary step for performing optimally," said Dr. Albert C. Hergenroeder, head of Adolescent Medicine and Sports Medicine, in the department of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine, and Texas Children's Hospital in Houston.

Hergenroeder says young athletes often will not admit to having problems related to exercise and sports. These include old and current injuries that may not have been diagnosed and fully rehabilitated.

"The nature of athletes is to deny problems, even if they are exercising with pain," he said. "I always tell the students to have an annual evaluation prior to the school sports season startup, to make sure they don't wind up performing poorly simply because of an injury or training problem that may be easy to fix. I ask them if they want to operate at only 80 percent of their athletic ability. The answer is always no."

Hergenroeder says not rehabilitating an old injury may make the difference between making team, being just second string, or performing poorly. He advises having the annual evaluation three to four weeks prior to the beginning of school athletics.

"If there is a problem, they need time to rehabilitate the injury," Hergenroeder said. "For example, waiting until the day before practice starts knowing there is a shoulder problem does not make good sense. Rehabilitation of that injury could keep them off the team or at least hinder their progress with the team."

Hergenroeder says that one study showed that one of the leading reasons for not participating in school sports was old, unrehabilitated injuries.

Students not participating in high school sports could benefit from a pre-school evaluation, as well, particularly if they have old injuries, or medical problems such as obesity, asthma or chest pains.

Hergenroeder says for the majority of healthy high school students, returning to school athletics or physical education courses is no problem.

Taking steps before a health problem becomes worse is the key for students involved in high school sports or physical education.

Scholarships and grants available

With confusion over federal student grant approvals, direct government student loans and changes in college financial aid guidelines, many students are finding it difficult to identify and understand their financial aid options and are missing out on receiving assistance that could be available to them.

Students taking the traditional path of relying on federal, state and college financial aid and loans are becoming frustrated as they discover they can't afford to pay the increasing dollars they are asked to contribute each year. These extra payments are straining family budgets and assets as many families try to fund schooling through burdensome debt.

Yet unknown to most people, there are over 375,000 scholarship and grant sources available which do not have to be paid back. Eighty percent of these scholarships do not depend on family need or exceptional grades but are awarded based on factors such as the student's interests, hobbies, academic focus, age, heritage or parent's work or military service.

Remarkably, according to the National Commission on Student Financial Aid, over $6 billion of funding goes uncollected each year for information on how to receive academic funding and scholarships send a No. 10 self addressed, double stamped business envelope plus $2.00 to cover handling to NAFA, 815 Middle Street, Suite 1400, Portsmouth, NH 03801.
