Green Thumb

By Gladys O'Neal

Distinctive sounds and aromas, as well as lengthening days, announce the arrival of Spring, which comes in the scent of flowers and the buzz of insects and some animal calls.

It seems that gardeners in America are getting more conscious of how the growing of beautiful flowers enriches their lives. They are becoming more sophisticated and are diving into topics that show they are no longer beginners.

There is an interest in herbal books causing a lot of people to grow their own herbs for health reasons, as well as for beauty. Some people see gardening as a way to get away from the trials and tribulations of our modern life styles.

April is vine month; plant vines. Plant caladiums and elephant ears where they will not be exposed to hot afternoon sun. Remember they need watering almost every day during the summer.

Plant castor beans for a screen. Plant a small herb plat. If you have lilacs, they need a feeding of super-phosphate with a little lime.

I have become interested in container gardening. I want to tell you about it and maybe you will find it interesting and an asset to your yard, especially porches and dark corners, decks and other places that you will want to use for growing plants. Some are vintage soup bowls, campfire coffee pots, buckets, even some metal suitcases. An enamel washbasin is ideal for a fern.

Herbs grow well in containers. Make sure the container has drainage holes. They insist on well-drained soil.

Container gardening is new and especially nice if you entertain very much. Fill pots with daffodils, hyacinths and tulips for a porch display. Tulips do fine in containers and planted out afterwards in your vegetable garden. They will produce one more crop of blossoms the following year.

Cyclamen is a major winter bloomer. Terra-cotta and stone pots are certainly attractive, but they do tend to require more frequent watering than plastic and fiberglass containers.

Use a mixture of sand, peat moss, and compost. To ensure adequate drainage, provide a bottom layer of gravel in the ratio of two inches to every two feet of pot.

Shasta Daisies are easy and cheerful. They are especially nice worked in with other perennials like iris and day lilies. They bloom when most other perennials are already shutting up for the summer.

Add color outdoors in both pots and hanging baskets.

Copper plants stand full sun and heat and are so pretty in containers. Joseph's Coat will also be bronzed all summer.

Container gardening is the wave of the 90's. Your house will look stark and bare if you don't add some pots to your plantings.

Thanks...

to all the voters in the Primary and Run-off Elections. I am excited to be the Democratic nominee for Haskell County Commissioner Precinct 3. Your continued support and influence will be needed and greatly appreciated in the November General Election.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was draped with a white satin cloth, accented by burgundy bows with white roses and silver bells.

The three-tiered wedding cake was heart shaped, accented with burgundy roses and topped with a Precious Moments bride and groom. A Cape Cod cake server, belonging to her grandmother, Opal Tidrow, was decorated with a single white rose and pearls. Champagne glasses, with white roses and pearls, a crystal punch bowl and silver completed the appointments.

The groom's table was covered with a white satin cloth, and held a chocolate cake topped with fresh strawberries. A silver coffee server, crystal coffee cups and a silver tray with mixed nuts adorned the table.

OPINION

State Capital

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — High school teacher, city councilman and "everyman" Victor Morales will stand against Republican U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm in the November general election.

Political analysts said Morales' runoff victory on a shoestring budget (less than $15,000) over U.S. Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, was nothing more than anti-incumbent sentiment; others said it was widespread desire for new leadership; still others — who didn't mind insulting voters' intelligence — said it was the similarity between Morales' name and that of Attorney General Dan Morales that pulled votes like magic.

But the nominee's popularity among Hispanic voters is indisputable.

"There's no question that Victor Morales is going to have a lot of appeal to Hispanics in the general election," Tom Pauken, chairman of the state Republican Party, told the Houston Chronicle.

All eyes are on the Democratic Party to see if it will work as hard to support Morales as it would have Bryant to unseat two-term Gramm, who has $3 million to start his campaign.

The Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, led by Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Neb., met with Morales last week in Houston to discuss plans to spend up to $1.6 million on his campaign.

Morales told the Chronicle he would contrast his military service with Gramm's draft deferments and show the discrepancy between Gramm's attacks on government and the fact that the senator has enjoyed government benefits from high school and college education to government payroll checks as a university professor and lawmaker.

But Morales said he would not criticize Gramm for missing votes in the Senate during his failed presidential candidacy, because he missed many Crandall City Council meetings while on the campaign trail himself.

Perot Calls for Political Reform

Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot, the leader of the Reform Party, came to Austin last week and called for an end to the Electoral College, limiting the cost and length of campaigns and mandating weekend voting.

Speaking to a standing room only crowd at the University of Texas, Perot went through a laundry list of changes he believes would improve America's political system and get the Reform Party on the Texas ballot in November.

Perot also called for banning congressional candidates from receiving campaign contributions from sources outside their district.

Judge to Hear Insurance Suit
State District Judge Amado

Abascal of Zavala County will hear class action lawsuits against Allstate Insurance Co. and Farmers Insurance Co., alleging the companies overbilled Texans for auto insurance coverage.

As many as 4 million current and former policyholders could be affected in the lawsuits, which seek more than $100 million. Farmers insures about 1.2 million drivers in Texas; Allstate insures about 560,000.

Plaintiffs' attorneys estimated the overcharges of $57 million over the last 10 years for Farmers customers and $52 million for Allstate customers.

The Dallas Morning News reported the key issue in the case is the practice of "rounding" bills, under which insurers round their premium bills up or down to the nearest dollar so they do not include any cents in the total.

Meanwhile, Texas Insurance Commissioner Elton Bomer has planned a hearing on recommendations by two administrative law judges who are proposing a new benchmark auto premium.

The commissioner should make a decision on the recommendations by midsummer, his spokesman Lee Jones said.

Though no proposed benchmark amount was publicized, insurance companies can adjust the amount they charge by 30 percent higher or lower than the amount approved by the Department of Insurance.

A heavy rain, hail and windstorm hit Haskell around 2:30 p.m. Sunday and dumped a total of 3.4 inches of rain, according to Sam Herren, U.S. government observer's gauge. Hailstones the size of marbles and larger, fell during the storm with the north section of town hardest hit by hail. Highways on the outskirts of town and a number of streets in the residential section were inundated with water, hailstones and leaves. More than 200 plate glasses were knocked out at the greenhouse at Bailey Toliver Chevrolet Company at 517 North First, received between $600 and $700 damage at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, when a two-horse tandem trailer plunged into the west side of the building, knocking out a large 8x12 ft. plate glass and shattering plaster and glass in the display room. John W. Nichols of Rochester was driving his Ford pickup north, when the trailer, in which he was hauling two horses, came loose from the pickup, left the street and rammed into the building.

This rainy spell is alright, but the mud and slush is just a little disagreeable when one tries to get about town. That could be largely remedied, however, by a little work on the streets and sidewalks.

We learn that work on the Wichita Valley bridge, across the Brazos is nearing completion and that a crew of men will soon be at work on this side laying steel.

Mr. W.F. Draper was in town Thursday and said that most of the wheat is knee high and is looking very fine. He says that in some fields he noticed signs of heading and that such wheat will make, with the soaking it had this week, although a rain later on would cause it to fill out more and mature heavier grain. He says the oats prospect is equally flattering as that of the wheat.

New farm bill benefits

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said recently that several provisions in the new Farm Bill, the Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform Act of 1996 or FAIR, will benefit Texas farmers and ranchers, but one measure was not included that could have helped a small business sector in Texas.

"I'm glad Congress has reached an agreement on our nation's farm policy for the next seven years," Perry said. "I'm still gathering information on the bill's details, but from what I know, some provisions in this act should prove to be extremely positive for our state's farmers and ranchers."

"Overall, the act will transfer crop production decisions from the government to farmers," Perry said.

"This legislation is a historic shift," the commissioner said. "Instead of the government deciding what is planted, who plants it and what price is paid for it, our farmers will now make their own decisions. It gives our producers the control and flexibility they need to respond to changing market and consumer demands."

However, Perry expressed disappointment because one provision was not authorized by Congress due to strong opposition from the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture. The provision would have allowed meat processed at state-inspected facilities to be shipped and sold interstate. Meat processed at state-inspected businesses can only be sold in state even though the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture inspects these facilities annually and certifies the slaughtering and processing as equal to that done at federally inspected plants.

"A recent survey of state-inspected plants indicates that their sales would increase as much as 60 to 90 percent if they could ship their products interstate," Perry said. "With beef prices low, and feed and hay prices high, our ranchers must have new and expanded markets such as those that would be opened up by the approval of interstate meat inspection."

USDA will study over the next 90 days how to implement the interstate provision, and then Congress may consider authorizing interstate meat inspection.

"This new program offers our farmers and ranchers a carrot instead of a stick to help them implement stewardship practices that, in some instances, can be too costly to undertake on their own," Perry said. "Continued funding of CRP also will help our producers remain the original environmentalists while compensating them for income lost from not producing crops on these lands."

Overall, the act should help strengthen the nation's agriculture industry, the commissioner said.

"Our farmers are facing an intensive globally competitive market," Perry said.

Put yourself in your child's shoes

April 21-27 is celebrated nationally as the Week of the Young Child. "Put Yourself in Your Child's Shoes" is the theme of the public awareness and parent education campaign sponsored by the Abilene/Brownwood Area Child Care Advisory Council, a group made of child care professionals. The campaign is designed to inform parents and the public on the importance of choosing healthy, safe child care that meets the needs of each child.

Put Yourself in Your Kids' Shoes: Choosing Child Care

You are considering putting your child in a registered family home or licensed child-care facility and want to make the best decision possible for your child. Visiting the facility is an important part of that decision-making process. The problem is, you are not sure what you should look for once you get there.

You need to use knowledge of your own children and what you want for them to judge the suitability of a program. What's most important to you and your child? If you and your child will feel more comfortable in a somewhat more relaxed, family-style environment, family child care may be your best choice. If you want a more formal program and your child is comfortable in larger groups, a day care center may be what you need. You can go a long way toward making a good choice if you will follow this slogan: "Put yourself in your kids' shoes." How would YOU like to spend 8-10 hours a day, five days in this environment? With this in mind, take another look at the "people, places and things" in a child care environment.

People

Watch the staff with the children. Listen to their voices and the way they interact with the children. Are they patient? Do they seem to enjoy the children or just to tolerate them? Do they sound enthusiastic about the activities they are offering or are they bored? Do they give the children choices or just tell them what to do? Do they threaten and say "No" often? How would you like to spend your days interacting with this person?

Places

Look at the room and playground. Do they look like fun places? Are there places to build, places to read, places to do art, places to move, places to climb, places to sit all cozy and read in or just be alone? Is there room to move without running into other children, room to build things without others stepping on them and room to run without crashing into things? Are these places light, clean, fresh-smelling, not too noisy (but not too quiet!) and not too wild? Does the outside place seem fun, with good play areas and interesting, safe equipment? Is there grass, shade, sand, and does it have a place to ride on riding toys? Is this the kind of place YOU would like to spend your days?

Things

Look at the things that are there for your child to use. Do they look safe and in good repair? Are there a variety of things that your child would find interesting, a little challenging, but not frustrating? Are there art things, building things, things that would be fun to feel, see, hear and smell? Are there enough things to choose from that your child will not always be waiting or having to fight for the interesting ones? Does the outdoor area have things to ride on, things to climb on, and things to dig with? Are there enough things to keep your child interested, learning and having fun?

By asking these questions and seeing things through a child's eyes, you can get a "feel" for a program. If you feel good about your child being there, you will worry less about your choice. Follow-up visits after your child is enrolled will give you more information, as well as keep you up-to-date on changes in staff or environment. Just as you would never consider buying a car without test-driving it, you shouldn't consider choosing a child-care program without spending some time in it. You are certain to be more pleased with your "purchase" if you do!

Questions—Choosing Child Care

- May I visit your facility at any time?
- Is this facility licensed or registered by the state?
- Does anyone present smoke during hours of operation?
- How many children will be in my child's group?
- What are your discipline policies?
- What are your policies regarding sick children?
- What do you serve for meals and snacks and when?
- How do you transport children and does each child have his/her own seat belt?
- What planned daily activities are provided?
- Are there animals on the premises? If so, are they vaccinated and appropriate for day care settings?
- What are the staff qualifications and training requirements, including CPR and First Aid?
- In a family home care setting, do you have a substitute provider who has CPR training?
- Are you or your staff members of any professional organizations?

Anderson at Assembly of God

Rev. Jim Anderson, active retired Assemblies of God missionary to Asia, will be speaking at First Assembly of God in Haskell, Sunday through Wednesday, April 21-24, at 7 p.m. nightly, according to Rev. J.C. Amburn, pastor.

Jim and Mardria Anderson have spent more than three decades sharing the gospel in Asia. They raised their four children on the mission field, and are continuing to accept special assignments to the region now that their children are grown. "We have been privileged to see many, many souls saved," Rev. Anderson said. With God continuing to bless their ministry, genuine retirement is currently out of the question.

The public is invited to attend the Andersons' special missions presentation on April 21-24. Jim and Mardria's many years of outreach throughout Asia have given them a testimony sure to touch hearts with the spiritual need in that continent.

Food for thought

Ye shall be scattered, every man to his own and shall leave me alone."—John 16:32.

Few had fellowship with the sorrows of Gethsemane. The majority of the disciples were not sufficiently advanced in grace to be admitted to behold the mysteries of "the agony." Occupied with the passover feast at their own houses, they represent the many who live upon the letter, but are mere babes as to the spirit of the gospel.

To twelve, nay, to eleven only was the privilege given to enter Gethsemane and see "this great sight." Out of the eleven, eight were left at a distance; they had fellowship, but not of that intimate sort to which men greatly beloved are admitted. Only three highly favoured ones could approach the veil of our Lord's mysterious sorrow: within that veil even these must not intrude; a stone's-cast distance must be left between.

He must read the wine-press alone and of the people there must be none with him. Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, represent the few eminent, experienced saints, who may be written down as "Fathers;" these having done business on great waters, can in some degree measure the huge Atlantic waves of their Redeemer's passion.

To some selected spirits it is given, for the good of others, and to strengthen them for future, special, and tremendous conflict, to enter the inner circle and hear the pleadings of the suffering High Priest; they have fellowship with Him in his sufferings and are made conformable unto his death. Yet even these cannot penetrate the secret places of the Saviour's woe.

"Thine unknown sufferings" is the remarkable expression of the Greek liturgy: there was an inner chamber in our Master's grief, shut out from human knowledge and fellowship. There Jesus is "left alone." Here Jesus was more than ever an "Unspeaking gift!" Is not Watts right when he sings—"And all the unknown joys he gives, were bought with agonies unknown."

This Week's Devotional Message:

HELPFUL ADVICE COMES FROM FAITH AND A POPULAR SONG

As you probably remember, there was a song last fall which became an instant success, and not entirely because it was catchy and cleverly written. What really made it such a tremendous hit was the good advice it contained, simply stated in four words and repeated throughout. It told us not to worry about our problems, giving examples of some of them, but instead to "be happy." Of course, many of our woes require some action on our part to solve them, but just showing our anxiety will only upset those around us. Perhaps the best way to follow the song's advice is to attend our House of Worship and trust the Lord to provide the answers. Worry will not solve any problem, and we should be grateful to that song writer for reminding us of this fact.

AGRICULTURE

One time signup for enrollment in production flexibility contracts

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman recently announced a one-time signup period of May 20 through July 12 for producers wishing to enroll their farms in a Production Flexibility Contract. The contracts authorized by the 1996 Farm Bill, are for seven years, beginning in 1996 and ending in 2002.

“Despite the time constraints we face due to Congress’ late passage of the Farm Bill, USDA is working hard to get accurate information to producers and the public as quickly as possible,” Glickman said. “I wish to stress that this is the only opportunity producers will have to enroll and those who fail to do so now will not be eligible at a later date. There will be no further additional signups except for land coming out of the Conservation Reserve Program. This is required by the 1996 Act and I have no discretion to extend this date.”

“Farms with a planting history in one of the past five years of wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley, oats, upland cotton or rice are eligible to be enrolled in this program,” Glickman said. “Production flexibility contracts are not available for ELS cotton and oilseeds but marketing assistance loans will be available to producers of these commodities.”

Glickman reminded producers that compliance with conservation and wetlands provisions continues to be a condition of participation. Payment limitation rules that were application in 1995 will also be applicable to these payments. The total amount of payment a person may receive in any fiscal year may not exceed $40,000.

Farmers may plant as they wish under the program, but fruits or vegetables may not be planted on contract acres, except under certain circumstances. A producer may enroll all or part of the farm’s contract base acreage in the program and, after signup, may request a permanent reduction in the acreage without penalty.

Submitted by Haskell Co. FSA.

Glickman announces immediate CRP early out

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman announced implementation of a 1996 Farm Bill provision that allows producers to end their CRP contracts on less environmentally sensitive lands.

Glickman said that CRP contracts entered into before January 1, 1995, that have been in effect for at least five years will be eligible for early termination except those contracts applying to certain environmentally-sensitive lands.

Contracts with the following types of land will not be eligible for early termination: land with an erodibility index greater than 15; land devoted to useful life easements; field windbreaks; grass waterways; shallow water areas; filter strips; bottom land timber on wetlands; acreage enrolled under the wetland eligibility criteria during sign up periods eight and nine; shelter belts; and land within an average of 100 feet of a stream or other permanent water body.

Approved contract terminations on eligible land will become effective 60 days after the producer’s request is received by the local Farm Service Agency (FSA) office. Prorated CRP annual rental payments will be paid through the effective termination date. However, for 1996 spring planted crops, producers will be allowed to plant as soon as the acreage is approved for early termination.

Producers seeking to make their CRP acreage eligible for 1996 Market Transition Payments, created by the 1996 Farm Bill, must file the request to terminate the CRP contract by May 31, in order for the contract to terminate before the Aug. 1, 1996 statutory deadline for entering into Production Flexibility Contracts. All participants with CRP acreage that has crop acreage base history will be eligible to enter into Production Flexibility Contracts at any time over the next seven years when CRP contracts expire or are terminated.

Uniform Cotton planting date meeting, April 22

Each year the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Knox County Boll Weevil Association sponsors a Uniform Cotton Planting Date meeting for area farmers. This year’s meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the KC Hall in Rhineland on Monday, April 22.

With the boll weevil eradication beginning this fall, cotton farmers should be quite interested in what will be happening and how the eradication works. Because of this interest, representatives from the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation will be present to discuss the current situation, how the program is run and also answer any questions that producers may have.

One important step in the success of an eradication such as this is cooperation from the farmers. There are several things a cotton producer can do to help lower the cost of the eradication, including controlling the weevils this season—one of the easiest and cheapest methods is to wait until middle to late May before planting. A second management practice is to use short season varieties; this allows for an early harvest and stalk destruction. The fewer number of acres in cotton this fall, the fewer dollars spent on the fall diapause spraying. This savings will be passed on to farmers.

A meal will be provided at this meeting. Please contact the Knox Co. Ext. office by Friday, April 19, if you plan to attend. For more or to RSVP, please call Paul Weiser in the Knox Co. Ext. office in Benjamin at 817-454-2651.

Individuals with disabilities who require an auxiliary aid, service or accommodation in order to participate in this program are encouraged to contact the Knox Co. Ext. office at 817-454-2651 to determine how reasonable accommodations can be made.

Haywood seeks financial relief for Ag Ext. offices

Senator Tom Haywood, R-District 30, announced Friday his intention to look for ways to bring much needed financial relief to struggling rural counties of Texas.

It was recently announced by the Texas A&M Extension Service that in Fiscal Year 1997, county counties across the state, who are already struggling financially.”

governments will have to pay $8,000 per year per county extension agent, to supplement their agents’ salaries. Haywood said, “This will be a major financial blow to many of the small rural Haywood continued, “Too many folks in Austin don’t realize the importance of these agents in the rural areas of our state. They serve a vital role, one we cannot afford to do without. For many counties, with a shrinking tax base on top of so many other state mandates, funding an additional $8,000 (or $16,000 for two agents) is close to, if not completely impossible.”

The dilemma some counties are facing, “Do they cut county funding to other services such as indigent health care and road construction, or do they suffer the loss of one or both of their agents?” Haywood questioned.

Haywood believes neither option is necessary. “I am certain there is some other alternative that would better meet the needs and abilities of our rural taxpayers. Perhaps a rider to the appropriations bill, which would fund extension agents in the smallest counties in our state, would be a viable solution, but we need to investigate all possibilities.”

“I am already working with Texas A&M and local county government officials to investigate the alternatives available to address this difficult problem. These counties need a little help. I do not want to stand by and watch these folks lose their extension agents,” Haywood concluded.

Put sweet onions on grocery list

The so-called “sweet onion” will be at the top of many shoppers grocery list in April.

“We are going to be seeing a lot of the 1015 onions this month,” said Dr. Charles Hall, horticulture marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. “This is the prime season for this sweet onion that consumers enjoy so much.” The 1015 super sweet onion was developed years ago by Dr. Leonard Pike, director of the Vegetable Improvement Center at Texas A&M University. The variety also is grown in New Zealand, Chile, Australia and Mexico.

As the onions first come to market, prices should be around 69 to 79 cents a pound, according to Hall. Mid-April and the first of May is the peak time for this particular onion and prices will likely drop to about 49 cents a pound when on sale.

Although weather conditions have not caused any major effects on any fresh produce,” consumers will still have a tough time getting lettuce,” Hall said. “California growers are having problems with quality, so prices will probably be a little higher than in previous months.” Lettuce will not be one of the items featured during the month, he said. Prices may run anywhere from 79 cents to a little over a $1 per head.

Supplies of other fresh produce, especially those coming in from the Rio Grande Valley, look pretty good, according to Hall. Consumers will see more cantaloupes and honey dew melons coming in from the Valley, he said. Also, there will be more carrots and bell peppers. However, supplies of broccoli and cauliflower will taper off.

Fresh fruit available will include seedless grapes for around 89 to 99 cents a pound and strawberries at 69 to 79 cents per pint, according to Dr. Richard Edwards, Extension food marketing specialist.

Unseasonal fruit such as apples and oranges will still be available until early April, he said. Good bargains will be on small apples at five for $1. “Also, look for specials on small navel oranges at 10 for $1,” he said. Look for fresh sweet potatoes at about 39 to 49 cents per pound.

Consumers can expect to see some lower beef prices late in April as temperatures warm up and grilling season officially begins, according to Edwards. In the meantime, prices on red meat should remain about the same as those in March.

Ground beef will run about 99 cents per pound and beef spareribs will be on sale for a limited time for 69 to 79 cents per pound. consumers also should look for specials on pork chops at $1.49 a pound, he said. Seafood will be featured as more fresh products become available after Easter.

Public Notice
 The Weinert exchange has petitioned the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) to expand its local calling area to the Munday-Goree and Knox City exchanges. To learn more about this petition, you may contact the petition coordinator, Jerry Walker at 817-673-8280. Expanded Toll-Free Local Calling (ELC) Service will allow you to call and be called by the requested exchange(s) on a local call basis (no toll charges). All exchanges that pass the ballot will be added to your local calling area for a maximum monthly per line charge of no more than $3.50 for residence, $7.00 for business.
 The fees associated with ELC are mandatory. If any exchanges pass the ballot, the fees will be paid by all subscribers in the petitioning exchange. The fees will be in addition to your local monthly telephone service charges.
 Within the next 15 days GTE will mail ballots to all customers in the Weinert exchange to determine whether support exists for expansion of the local calling area. After marking the ballot, customers should sign their name and return the ballot to the PUC. A stamped self-addressed envelope will be provided with the ballot. At least 70% of the subscribers who return their ballots must vote in favor of expanded local calling on a per exchange basis for it to be provided. If the ballot fails to all exchanges, your service will not change, and no fees will apply. Only exchanges that pass the ballot will be added to your local calling area. No fees will be charged until they are approved and service is provided according to the PUC Rules.
 The PUC has assigned this matter Project No. 15399. Interested persons should direct any comments that they may have about the petition to the PUC, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or they may call the PUC Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

Aviso Publico
 El intercambio de Weinert ha solicitado a la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas ("Public Utility Commission of Texas-PUC") la expansión de la área de sus llamadas locales, a los intercambios de Munday-Goree y Knox City. Para aprender más respecto a esta solicitud, sírvase contactar con el/la coordinador/a de la solicitud, Jerry Walker al 817-673-8280. Este servicio conocido como llamadas expandidas localmente (Expanded Local Calling-ELC), le permitirá llamar a estos intercambios y ser llamado/a como una llamada local (sin cargos adicionales). Todos los intercambios que reciban suficientes votos favorables serán añadidos a su área de llamadas locales por una tarifa mensual máxima de no mayor de $3.50 por cada línea para servicio residencial, $7.00 para comercial.
 Las tarifas asociadas con ELC son mandatorias. En caso de que cualquiera de los intercambios reciban suficientes votos a favor, a través de dicha boleta, las tarifas serán pagadas por todos los suscriptores en el intercambio solicitado. Las tarifas serán añadidas a los cargos de su servicio telefónico mensual local.
 Dentro de los próximos quince (15) días GTE despachará por correo boletas a todos los clientes en el intercambio de Weinert con el fin de determinar si existe justificación y respaldo para la expansión de la área de llamadas locales. Luego de marcar la boleta, los clientes deberán firmar su nombre y remitir la boleta a la PUC. Un sobre con estampilla y dirección de retorno será incluido con la misma boleta. Por lo menos 70% de los suscriptores que retornen esta boleta deben dar su voto a favor del Servicio Expandido de Llamadas en base a cada intercambio para que este servicio sea provisto. En caso de que la boleta no satisfaga a todos los intercambios, su servicio no cambiará y no se aplicará ninguna tarifa adicional. Sólomente los intercambios que reciban suficientes votos a favor serán añadidos a su área de llamadas locales. Ninguna tarifa será cobrada hasta que sean aprobadas y el servicio sea provisto de acuerdo con las regulaciones de la PUC.
 La PUC ha asignado a este Proyecto el Número 15399. Aquellas personas interesadas deberán dirigir cualquier comentario al respecto a la PUC, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, o llamar a la PUC-Oficina de Información al (512) 458-0256 o (512) 458-0221, teletipo de escribir para las personas que están privadas del sentido del oído.

Mitchell recognized the Haskell Prog. Study Club and thanked them for hosting the convention. State and Dist. Life Members and Dist. Past Presidents were recognized.

Beta Chi

The Beta Chi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International met Monday, April 1, at First Baptist Church in Haskell. President Vida White called the meeting to order and turned the meeting over to Judith Burnett. She introduced the guest speaker, Linda Haynes, who is the Child Protective Services supervisor for 11 area counties. She has held this position for 17-1/2 years.

Haynes told the group that child abuse includes physical and sexual abuse, neglect, abandonment and lack of supervision; and what educators need to look for in dealing with possible child abuse and the steps that will be taken by Child Protective Services after a case has been reported.

The initiation ceremony for new members was conducted by Kathy Bowen. Inducted into Beta Chi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma were Tondi Ree Jeter, secondary computer science teacher from Jayton and Greta Waldrip, physical education and gifted and talented program teacher from Knox City. President White presented the chairperson of each chapter committee with a gift in appreciation of their work during her biennial.

Mary Martin presented the Woman of the Year award to Margaret Chafin who has served this biennial as treasurer. Chafin has been an active member of Beta Chi for 23 years and has served as treasurer for 17 of those years. She received a special presentation from the group.

The group adjourned after singing the Delta Kappa Gamma Song. Delicious pastries and beverages were served by members from Haskell.
