Fund for Hilee nears halfway mark

A fund to help Hilee Mulligan participate in the America's Youth on Parade national baton twirling competition is growing.

The talented Haskell teenager has an opportunity to compete at the national level at the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Indiana July 22-26.

Fund raising efforts spearheaded by the Haskell Free Press mark needed funds at the halfway point.

Reservations and entry fees need to be made as soon as possible.

Publisher John McDougal hopes to reach the goal of $870 by July 15th so that the necessary arrangements may be made.

Hilee will attend the competition with her mother, Lynn Dodson, and her coach, Roz Love. College scholarships are among the prizes awarded during the week long competition.

If you would like to help Hilee reach her goal, you may drop your contributions by the Free Press office.

Page 2-Thursday, July 10, 1997-The HASKELL FREE PRESS Ranch estate planning seminar set

"A properly drawn estate plan may save many ranch families over $200,000 in estate taxes." This statement, made by Wayne A. Hayenga, Texas Extension Economist and Attorney, assumes a lot of information: a married couple who "like each other" and want to care for each other, who have a ranch worth $1 million or more, and want to pass it on to their children.

This is an eye opening fact for many ranchers. In fact, many people only worry about estate planning if they hear of a friend's "problem" in selling a ranch to pay estate taxes. "But," Hayenga continued, "for many families the estate tax savings are not as large as income tax savings if they have a properly prepared estate plan."

A two-day seminar talking about these complicated tax topics will be held at College Station on August 10 and 11 at Texas A&M University in conjunction with the Annual Beef Cattle Shortcourse.

The seminar is structured to help ranchers learn how to lower their tax burden and ease administrative burdens that affect passing their estates to their loved ones. In addition to discussing estate planning systems, tax savings possibilities will be discussed using corporations, partnerships and trusts when family members are involved in the business.

Making gifts to avoid estate taxes will be discussed also. "There are three problems with making gifts-the first is dying poor; the second is the adverse income tax consequences the gift can cause the recipient; the third is when somebody other than your intended beneficiary ultimately gets the gifted property.

Two problems that affect family operations-planning for inflation and growth needs of the business will be discussed. Another topic, how to be fair among all children when one child is interested in the ranch and others are not, will be addressed.

The registration fee is $60.00 and registration information is available from Wayne A Hayenga or Christine Eubank, Agricultural Economics Department, Texas A&M University, College Station, TX 77843. Phone (409) 845-2226.

Brass candelabras entwined with silk English ivy were featured at the altar and were lit by sisters of the groom, Holly Olson of Stamford and Jaclyn Drinnon of Haskell. Marking the pews were ivory bows, decorated with bouquets of English ivy, baby's breath, nubrum lilies and accented with a touch of burgundy.

Soloists were Katy Martin of Wichita Falls, accompanied at the piano by Teresa New, of Haskell and Nick Jimenez, Jr., accompanied Ly Philip Huff, of Haskell.

Tiffany Thomas served her sister as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Jill Cannon of North Port, Florida, Nacole Lefevre of Lubbock and Sharon Jiminez of Abilene. Flower girl was Mackenzie Thomas, niece of the bride of Haskell.

Brandon McFadden of Lubbock was best man. Groomsmen were Monty Moeller, brother of the bride of Bowie, Cody Cypert of Lubbock and Cory Green of Haskell. Ringbearer was Hayden Moeller, nephew of the bride of Bowie. Ushers were Mik Everett, cousin of the bride of Haskell, Eric Medford, cousin of the groom of Iowa Park and Cole Larned of Lubbock.

Mother of the bride wore a tealength hunter green crepe dress with accented bodice of hunter green lace, bateau neckline and slightly Josselet; something new was her dress. Something borrowed was a gold band worn on her right index finger belonging to Grandmother Terrell; something blue was her garter and a penny was placed in her shoe for good luck.

The bride's attendants were attired in floor-length hunter green taffeta dresses with chiffon overlays. The princess cut dresses with sweetheart neckline had wide sheered chiffon straps accenting the shoulders. The deep V-back was accented by a chiffon bow. They carried bouquets of ivory roses, silk English ivy and baby's breath accented with ivory ribbon.

The flower girl's dress featured a hunter green bodice accented with ivory minute roses at the waist and sleeves and ivory silk skirt with lace overlay. She carried an ivory laced basket filled with fresh rose petals.

The groom was attired in a black formal tuxedo with matching vest and satin tie. Groomsmen, ushers, ring bearer and the father of the bride and groom wore full dress tuxedos accented with hunter green cummerbund and bow tie. The groom and his party wore boutonnieres of ivory roses and point of the bride's table. Table appointments were of silver. The Italian cream cake was a waterfall of three free standing layers with a cascade of starburst lilies, carnations, roses and daisies. Serving at the bride's table was Ember Josselet, cousin of the bride of Haskell and Melissa Tatum of Haskell.

The groom's table was covered with a hunter green cloth and appointed with brass serving pieces. The chocolate cake was adorned with fresh strawberries. Also provided at each table was an assortment of nuts and mints. Serving at the groom's table was Shayla Jeter of College Station and Lisa Rodriquez of Denton.

The bride and groom threw the bouquet and garter to the single guests at the reception. Wedding bubbles were passed out by the groom's sister and as the couple left the church in a chauffeured 1948 pink Ford, bubbles filled the air.

The bride and groom are graduates of Haskell High School and attend Texas Tech University. she is employed by Martin Green, P.C. and he is employed by the Texas A&M Experiment Station in Lubbock.

The mothers of the bride and g yom wore corsages of ivory roses with baby's breath. The grandmothers wore corsages of burgundy roses and baby's breath.

Entering with her father, the bride was given in marriage by her parents. She chose a Diamond Couture by Moonlight, a gown of ivory satin. The Sabrina neckline plunged to a deep V in the back, finished with scalloped Venise lace. The long sleeves were covered with Venise lace medallions. Reembroidered Alencon lace covered the front bodice to the waist line and extended on to the skirt sprinkled with seed pearls and sequins. The full skirt flowed to a cathedral train. Her Venise forehead band, sprinkled with seed pearls and sequins, held the pouf of silk illusion, which flowed to finger tip.

The bride's bouquet was a cascading bouquet of nubrum lilies, minute ivory roses, baby's breath and English ivy accented with seed peuris.

For something old, the bride carried a lace handkerchief belonging to her great-grandmother

English ivy.

As the wedding party was taking pictures following the ceremony, guests were served a refreshing glass of lemonade, by Brandi Briles and Amy Cunningham of Haskell.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church's following hall. Latice panels, adorned with English ivy, roses and tulle as well as lighted pole lamps and ficus trees were featured behind the bride and groom's tables.

The bride's table was covered with an ivory cloth with an ivory lace overlay. A centerpiece of fresh flowers which held the glasses for the traditional toast was the focal

New state and federal laws making health insurance more accessible to Texans took effect July 1. Additional measures, including a Health Insurance Risk Pool for "uninsurable" people and their families, should be in place by the end of 1997.

The catalyst fo the changes was the federal Health Portability and Accountability Act of 1996commonly known as the Kassebaum-Kennedy Act, which also became effective April 1.

The 75th Legislature passed two bills, both by Rep. Kip Averitt, R-McGregor, and Sen. David Sibley, R-Waco, to bring Texas into compliance with the Kassebaum-Kennedy legislation.

The federal and state bills apply immediately to new health plans started on or after July 1. For existing health plans they take effect on a plan's first renewal date on or after July 1.

The new health insurance measures do the following:

•Give workers with pre-existing medical conditions credit for their time in a previous health plan. A provision known as health insurance "portability."

•Make virtually all individual hospital, medical and surgical policies-including major medical plans-guaranteed renewable.

•Enable businesses with as few as two employees, including the owner or owners, to obtain coverage from participating insurance companies and HMOs under Texas' Small Employer Health Insurance Availability Act.

•Treat school districts of any size as small employers-at the Bush, who criticized the curriculum proposal last fall by describing it as "mushy," said it has been reworked and is now satisfactory.

HIGHLIGHTS By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

"I appreciate very much the voices of concern, but I believe this document puts Texas on the leading edge of educational change," Bush said. "After a lot of hard work by Essential Knowledge and Skills curriculum plan has been improved a lot."

Six Republican board members aligned with conservative religious groups have opposed much of the plan and have called for wholesale changes that they contend will make it more rigorous.

Lottery Panel Delays Bids The Texas Lottery Commission voted to delay seeking new bids on the $100 million a year lottery operator contract. The commissioners had planned to get the bid advertisements out by June 30 but decided to give the agency's new executive director, Lawrence Littwin, another month to prepare the bid specifications.

Littwin previously worked for a competitor of GTECH Holding Corp., the state's current lottery operator. GTECH officials, who have opposed rebidding the contract, had no comment on the delay.

The commissioners also agree to pay Frank Stern, a New Jersey technical consultant, $187.50 an hour, not to exceed $30,000, to help draft the bid proposals.

Other Capital Highlights •If former pitching star Nolan Ryan runs for agriculture commissioner while his television commercials for Dairy Queen and Advil continue to air, Texas television stations would have to have his opponents equal air time, a federal official told the Associated Press. Ryan has told Texas Farm Bureau officials he will seriously consider running for agriculture commissioner if his lucrative television commercials can continue.

Legal Matters by Dan Morales, Attorney General

The North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) created a wealth of new economic opportunity for both the United States and Mexico, and for Texas in particular. Total US-Mexico trade is up from $27 billion in 1989 to $130 billion in 1996. Eighty percent of all overland U.S-Mexican trade moves through Texas, and most of it is transported by trucks.

Along with this opportunity comes a responsibility for Texas government to ensure that our state's laws, as well as its health, safety, and environmental standards are upheld. As Attorney General for the State of Texas, I am determined to see that the promises of NAFTA do not become a burden on Texas taxpayers or a strain on our roads, our environment, or our quality of life.

Concerns about increased truck traffic

There are a number of reasons to be concerned about increased Mexican truck traffic on Texas highways. For one thing, the Texas-Mexico border has become a high intensity drug trafficking area. Mexico is a major transit route for cocaine, heroin, methamphetamines and marijuana entering the United States. It has also become one of the most significant money laundering centers in the hemisphere.

In addition, many Mexican trucks operate under safety standards that are considerably less stringent than our own standards for vehicle maintenance, insurance and driver training. It is estimated theat fewer than 5 percent of the approximately 6,000-8,000 Mexican trucks that cross into Texas each day meet U.S. standards-and more than onefourth of these trucks carry corrosives, chemicals, explosives, jet fuel, poisons, toxic waste and pesticides.

Other concerns involve the •Prohibit employer group health plans from treating pregnancy or genetic information as pre-existing conditions.

•Require insurers writing health plans for employers of 50 or more workers to cover all or none of the eligible workers and their dependents.

The Risk Pool will provide individual major medical coverage for people deemed "uninsurable" because of their medical condition.

Coverage in the pool will not be inexpensive. Premiums for the first year must be between 125 percent and 150 percent of a standard risk rate will be calculated by the pool, which will be governed by a ninemember board of directors appointed by Insurance Commissioner Elton Bomer.

Bush Back Curriculum Plan

Gov. George W. Bush called an impromptu news conference last week to endorse a new blueprint for the basic subjects taught in Texas schools, rejecting opposition from religious conservatives.

•Insurance Commissioner Elton Bomer has fined Professional Liability Insurance Co. Ltd., a Bermuda-based medical malpractice insurance operation, $235,000 for violating a previous order to stop doing business in Texas without a license. The fine is the largest ever levied by a Texas Insurance Commissioner for unauthorized insurance.

•Larry Don McQuay of San Antonio, a child molester who sought surgical castration to stop abusing children, was sentenced to 20 years in prison last week for a second conviction on molestation charges. In a one-day trial, McQuay was convicted and given the maximum sentence by state District Judge Terry McDonald.

Bills attempt to close public access

submitted by Dolph Tillotson, Editor and Publisher, The Galveston County Daily News and Roy McQueen, Publisher, Snyder Daily New Co-Chairs Legislative Advisory Committee

Among more than 5,000 bills filed during the 75th session of the Texas Legislature, about 200 attempted to close some aspect of government to public access.

Sadly, this effort is not unusual. Virtually every session of the Legislature produces scores of bills that would close various records and meetings.

Just as sadly, the perennial enemies of open government are tax-supported groups set up to serve the public. Most notable among them in 1997 were the Texas Municipal League, the University of Texas Board of Regents, the Texas Association of School Boards and the Texas District and County Attorneys Association.

Obviously, both the public and press have an interlocking and compelling interest in keeping government open.

That is why last November, the Texas Daily Newspaper Association and the Texas Press Association formed a joint Legislative Advisory Committee.

The committee's purpose was to identify and fight any bill that keeps Texans out of state and local government meetings or restricts access to public records.

Over the past several legislative sessions, the Texas Municipal League has established itself as the most active opponent of open government in Texas.

In the 1995 session, TML opposed the Public Information Act (HB1718) by Sylvester Turner, D-Houston. This session, it opposed the "staff briefings" bill (SB308) by Jeff Wentworth, R-San Antonio. On March 10, TML sent out a memo to members urging opposition to SB 308.

TML also fought for one of the worst open records bills of the session-HB 960 by Will Hartnett. R-Irving. It would have removed some of the computer-generated information and records from the state's cost-copy guidelines. The bill failed.

In addition, TML supported what was perhaps the worst threat to open government-HB 399 by Toby Goodman, R-Arlington, a bill which removes accident reports from police logs.

Gov. George W. Bush vetoed one version of the bill in standalone form, but it was attached as an amendment to another bill and of attempting to track the opengovernment impact of some 5,000 bills as they are debated, amended and re-amended in a short timeframe. Almost every session, some damaging legislation slips through. Here is a summary of the fate of a few key open government bills:

accelerated deterioration of Texas highways. Domestic trucks are required to weigh no more then 80,000 pounds whereas many Mexican trucks top the scales at more than twice the limit.

Enforcement efforts at this time are nowhere near being adequate. The reality is that there are simply too many trucks crossing the border and too few inspectors.

Texas gets a reprieve

The trade agreement provided for expanded commercial truck traffic between Mexico and the United States. In the past, trucks from across the border have been confined to commercial zones (designated areas several miles deep) along the border. Under NAFTA, starting in December, 1995, Mexican trucks were slated to begin traveling freely throughout Texas and the other border states.

In the fall of 1995, we at the Office of the Attorney General prepared a report on the potential impact of expanded truck traffic in Texas and presented the report to President Clinton. The report stressed the need for more state inspectors and inspection stations as well as improved controls against drug smuggling the the transportation of hazardous materials.

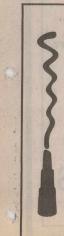

On December 18, 1995, the U.S. Secretary of Transportation announced that Mexican trucks would continue to have access only to commercial zones. This delay of access, which is still in effect, bought time for Texas and U.S. authorities to develop strategies to ensure the safety and protection of our citizens.

What must be done At present, we are working closely with the federal government to establish adequate inspection for trucks entering the U.S. from Mexico. We are fighting for vigorous and effective safeguards to enhance the economic promise of the trade agreement.

Texas stands to benefit greatly from expanded trade with Mexico and we are committed to developing effective policies to allow the full realization of these benefits. But we must control our border and keep our roads safe to ensure the safety of our citizens. Americans demand. it and expect it, and we can do it.

This Week's Devotional Message: Faith Is The Best Guide On Your Travels

hatever the nature of your vacation trip, be it highly civilized or primitive, its purpose remains essentially the same. It is supposed to provide a delightful escape from all the cares, chores and responsibilities that comprise your life throughout the rest of the year; and to offer opportunities for new adventures and sources of knowledge about the world you live in. However, there is one part of your life that should always accompany you wherever you go, and that is your faith in God, which is there to sustain you throughout each day's experiences, at home or away. In any town or city you will find a branch of your chosen Church to attend on the Sabbath; in the wilderness you will see and enjoy the works of God firsthand, as visible proof of His love for you.

Karen Kaigler-Walker to hold book signing at Lane-Felker

Author Karen Kaigler-Walker, Ph.D., who recently completed an extensive book-signing/speaking tour of West Coast cities and Dallas, is currently doing a West Texas signing-tour of bookstores in Midland, Lubbock, Amarillo, Abilene and Haskell.

Sponsored locally by Lane-Felker, she will be at the store Saturday, July 19, from 9:00 to 11:00 a.m. signing copies of her book, POSITIVE AGING: Every Woman's Quest for Wisdom and Beauty, with all proceeds going to benefit the ongoing projects of the Haskell CISD Educational Foundation.

Dr. Karen Kaigler-Walker, daughter of Tom and Mary Kaigler of Haskell, is a professor of marketing and psychology at Woodbury University in Burbank, California, who specializes in the relationship between women's inner and outer selves. Formerly a consultant to the Texas Governor's Commission on Aging, she has also served as a delegate to a White House conference on older women. She lives in Altadena, California with her husband, M.E. (Bud) Walker.

Recognizing that all too often, women in Western society view mid-life as the beginning of the end, even though the second half of life is potentially the time of greatest growth and individuation in a person's life, Dr. Kaigler-Walker maintains that it is tragic, for when women equate self-worth with socially dictated standards of youthful attractiveness, they can run the risk of failing to fully develop their true selves.

"In today's youth worshipping society" she says, "women in midlife are conditioned to think 'old' at the first sign of wrinkles or gray hair. To many it says they've lost not only their youth, but their juice-their power, sexuality, and worth-just when they are reaching their peak in earning capacity, mothering, and intellectual pursuits.

In POSITIVE AGING she explores and illuminates the quest women must take to free themselves from this cultural trap. Using myths, fairy tales, and modern-day examples to address the historical, societal and cultural quest for beauty and the role physical beauty holds in women's lives as they reach mid-life and beyond, she peels back the layers of misunderstanding that distort the true nature of female beauty. Identifying the problem as essentially one of the spirit, she guides women through erroneous assumptions and preconceptions about the primal role of female beauty and aging-aiding them in making the journey to reconnect body and soul, find self-acceptance, nurture a positive self-image, and take on the positive role of mentor, examples, and elders in society as they mature.

Karen will be visiting her parents in Haskell until July 22, when she returns to Los Angeles for further television and radio interviews. Her book was published in June by Conari Press of Berkeley, California.

Lane-Felker owner, Joyce Howard hopes everyone in the area will take the opportunity to meet and visit with the author, and support the Haskell Education Foundation in its goals for Haskell schools.

Sagerton News By Dorothy M. Clark

After skipping the news last week, we're back again reporting the happenings of our citizens. The cool weather was a welcome sight after the scorching temperatures last week. More showers were received, welcomed by some and dreaded by those who have been unable to get the wheat combined. As for your corespondent, the rains have been welcomed to keep the garden producing. I'm beginning to feel like Dill Pickle Dorothy after all the canning that has been going on.

Meta Kupatt, along with her sisters, Pauline Barnett, Bert Bounds and Lucille Bradshaw have returned from a Kainer family reunion at Port Alto, Texas and visits with other relatives at Lake Jackson, Magnolia and Houston. They visited with another sister, Mrs. Roland Rinn at Houston. The monthly social of the Methodist Church was held the last Wednesday night in June and featured a Mexican supper. Those in attendance were Alvin and Ev Ulmer, Frances Clark, Charles and Dorothy Clark, Hazel Letz, John and Sue Guinn, G.W. and Ophelia LeFevre, Wilma Teichelman, Pastor Daniel Ramey and Brian and Chelsea Tonnan, great grandchildren visiting with Frances Clark from Springdale, Arkansas. Jill and Ken Brown hosted a swimming party at the home of Larry and Susan LeFevre for their four year old son, Cade. Cake and cokes were served to the following guests: Delbert LeFevre, Chelsea and Brian Tonnan, Jack and Charlotte Coker, their son, Justin and their grandson, Zack, Christi and Aaron Long, Joyce Beard and her granddaughter, Heide, and her daughter, Holly Little, Christi and Allie Wilkins of Abilene, Amy and Blain Cassberry of Abilene and Tullie and Kinsey Brown. Meta Kupatt accompanied Jo Ann Carrol of Rule to Lubbock, where they attended the wedding of Lucy Denson and Max Williams. Mr. Williams is a buyer for Food Emporium.

Joe and Dorothy Clark were in Houston the weekend of June 28 for the wedding of their granddaughter, Anna Marie Adler. She is the daughter of Peggy and David Adler. Anna was married to Jeremy Willis Sat., June 28 at St. Matthew Lutheran Church of Westfield. Officiating at the ceremony was her father, Rev. David Adler, Pastor of St. Matthew. He was assisted by Rev. Thomas Bode, Jr. of Resurrection Lutheran Church of Ft. Worth. Emmalee Bivins, cousin of the bride, was a bridesmaid and instrumentalists for the service were Christopher Adler, brother of the bride, her aunts, Lois Bryce and Debbie Adler, from Florida, and her cousins, David and Lisa Koester, from Indiana. The catered supper with 10 men present. Chefs for the day were Lewis Corzine, Marvin Stegemoeller and Marchel Nauert. Pastor Stan Leaf brought the devotion.

Vacation Bible School is being held at Faith Lutheran Church this week and will end Friday with a swim party. Other scheduled events at the church include home communion on Friday at 11:00 a.m. and Family Night and congregational meeting Sunday at 6:00 p.m. the Friendship Club meets at noon at the church on Thursday, July 17.

Joe and Dorothy Clark were in San Antonio last Monday and Tuesday visiting with A.L. and Virginia Gibson. A.L. is a patient at Audie Murphy Veteran's Hospital. He has been there for 2 months recovering from lung surgery and cancer treatments. He was granted a weekend pass and was able to go to his home in Toyah for the July 4 weekend. Visitors in the home of Gene and Adela Teichelman for the July 4 weekend included Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Cook of Kingsport, Tennessee, Tommy and Sheilah Nierdeick of Bryan and Dickie, Melissa, Adam and Shannon Greenwood of Haskell. Mrs. Emma Raphelt of Stamford spent Sunday night with her daughter, Dorothy and Joe Clark.

and reception was held at Sh Oaks reception hall with over 250 relatives and friends in attendance. The Clarks and Emmalee Bivins were at the rehearsal dinner on Friday night. Other family members going for the wedding were Ray and Nancy Clark of Stamford and Don and Patsy Bivins of Valley View. They were guests of Fred and Ann Siede of Spring during the weekend. Jeremy and Anna will be living in Wharton where they will be students at Wharton Jr. College.

Aaron Hess, Crystal Hess and Carrie White, all of San Angelo, were recent visitors in the home of Charles and Dorothy Clark and Mrs. M.Y. Benton. The Hess' are grandchildren of Eldon Cook and the late Armittie Benton Cook.

Joe and Dorothy Clark attended the Cowboy Poetry Gathering at the Pavilion of the Texas Cowboy Reunion grounds Saturday afternoon. Their son, Ray, was among the performers who recited poems that they had composed. He sang a couple of songs after his poem and accompanied Jody Nix while he sang and played several cowboy songs.

The Men's Breakfast was held at Faith Lutheran Church last Friday
