Sales tax receipts show little change

John Sharp, State Comptroller of Public Accounts, recently delivered a total of $162 million in monthly sales tax payments to 1,084 Texas cities and 117 counties.

"The creation of new Texas businesses and subsequent new jobs are combining to help stimulate the confidence of Texas consumers," Sharp said. "As a result, sales tax rebates are up 6.5 percent over those for the first 10 months of last year." This month's payments include local sales taxes collected on August sales and reported to the Comptroller in October by businesses filing monthly tax returns.

Haskell County had a 1.10 percent decrease for October, 1997 of $21,274.95 in comparison to $21,512.15. 1997 payments to date of $274,349.04 reflect a 0.97 percent decrease from 1996 payments to date of $277,051.28.

The city of Haskell had a 0.81 percent increase for October, 1997 of $20,113.50 in comparison to $19,951.47 for October, 1996. 1997 payments to date of $248,946.94 reflect a 1.93 percent decrease from 1996 payments to date of $253,858.38.

158.53 percent increase over 1996 payments to date of $1,078.17. Rochester had a 13.91 percent decrease for October, 1997 of $296.88 in comparison to $344.86 for October, 1996. 1997 payments to date of $6,107.22 reflect a 8.85 percent increase over 1996 payments to date of $5,610.48.

Rule had a 23.97 percent

October, 1996. 1997 payments to date of $1,762.63 reflect a 117.84 percent increase over 1996 payments to date of $809.13.

Indians drop game to Holliday

Leaving Haskell in a 'Holliday' frame of mind last Fri., the Haskell Indians encountered a game there that made the trip no 'holiday' for them.

Experiencing their first District 9-2A game loss of the year to Holliday, 42-14, the Indians dropped to 3-1 in District and 6-3 overall.

Haskell scores came on a five yard run by Turner Frierson, with the point-after kick by Chris McSmith, and by Jason Briles on a 55 yard pass from John Abila, with the kick after by McSmith.

Not up to their previous games, Indian stats for the night were:

11 first downs, 37 rushes for 116 yards, 98 passing yards, 8 completions, 18 attempts, 0 interceptions, 3 punts for 31 yards, 2 fumbles and 3 penalties for 32 yards.

Haskell Coach Dwayne Gray said the team had a tough loss Fri., but they are ready to finish up the regular season on a positive note in the game with Archer City.

"We are #2 in District, and this will be a tune-up game for us, getting ready for the playoffs," he said. "We still have more play ahead, and a chance down the road."

The last District play game will be here at 7:30 Fri, against Archer

Social Security

A representative from the Social Security Administration will be in Haskell at the City Hall annex today, Thurs., Nov. 6 at 9:30 a.m.

Basketball clinic

The Hardin-Simmons Cowgirls will hold their 4th annual Cowgirl basketball clinic for first through sixth grade girls Sat., Nov. 4 from 9 a.m. to noon. The clinic will be held on the HSU campus in the Mabee Complex. Brochures for pre-registration are available by calling the HSU basketball office at 915-670-1468. Late registration begins Nov. 4. at 8 a.m.

Child Welfare Board

The Haskell County Child Welfare Board is once again making plans for its annual "Christmas for Children" project. Donations of new toys or new childrens clothing are welcome. Cash donations are also accepted. If you would like to help, contact Linda at 864-2682 or John at 864-6132 or 864-8011. Help make Christmas special for the children of Haskell County.

One week remains for sign-up

At the end of the third week of the five-week Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) 16th Sign-up Period. Glenn R. Brzozowski, CED at the Haskell County FSA Office, says he wants to remind local producers that they have only a week left to enroll their land into the program.

"The CRP sign-up is going very well," said Brzozowski. "I am delighted at the response we've been getting. I'd hate to find out that people missed out just because they weren't aware that time had run out. So, before something comes up, come on in and sign up for the new CRP."

Brzozowski pointed out that, unlike under previous CRPs, current expiring contracts cannot be extended. "That means, " he said, "that the only way to stay in the program is to make a bid in a signup like this one."

The new Conservation Reserve Program is the single largest government environmental improvement effort. It offers incentives to farmers and ranchers to plant various kinds of protective cover on suitable farm property to protect and improve air, water, soil quality, and habitat for wildlife.

"The response we've received shows that Haskell County farmers want to be active participants in the fight to clean up our environment." Brzozowski said. "So I want to urge all those farmers and ranchers still thinking about participating to remember that you've only got until the end of this next week.'

> All land that is enrolled in the program must compete for Interested producers and landowners should contact the Haskell County Farm Service Agency at 506 S. Second or call 940-864-2617 for additional information.

Recent renovations made to the County Library were reported to the County Commissioners Court during the Oct. 28 meeting. Pcts. 1 and 3 have resurfaced the parking area, grubbed out stumps, and installed pipes and electricity for the newly dug well. Inside the library the ceiling is being leveled and braced.

A new guideline of Workers Compensation for emergency workers (EMS ambulance, law officers, firefighters, etc) who contract a sickness or disease while on the job, (for example HIV) states that they will be paid workers compensation.

Pct. 3 Commissioner Kenny Thompson reported that he is updating the lighting at the Anchor, and wants to upgrade the water lines at a later date.

Reporting for Sheriff Johnny Mills, who is recovering from surgery, Deputy David Halliburton requested the Court purchase a set of night vision binoculars, at the cost of $800.00 or more. The Sheriff's office now has a night vision telescope which is too heavy to use while driving. The request was tabled for next meeting agenda.

Halliburton also asked the Court to consider allowing overtime to be paid to dispatchers in emergency situations. Running shorthanded is making it hard for the department to schedule workers.

In other business it was announced that:

A Pecan Show will be held on Dec. 9, in the Courthouse.

Aspermont Small Business Center is searching for a board member.

Flora Pace is the new Pct. 1 election judge.

The County is taking bids for four new motorgraders. Pcts. 2 and 4 each need one and Pct. 3 needs two. The County is going to sell four used graders and is now taking bids, to be opened Nov. 25.

Pct. 3 Commissioner Kenny Thompson has purchased a 1981 Mack truck for $13,500.00.

Paint Creek hands loss to Lueders-Avoca

Coming out strong, the Paint Creek Pirates quickly took a 20-0 lead, going on to win over Lueders-Avoca, 38-32. The Pirates are now 3-6 for the season and 1-2 in District 9 Six-Man football.

The Pirates had a total of 350 yards on offense for the night. Jodie Reel led the team in touchdowns, scoring on a 55 yard in the first quarter and on a six yard run in the third quarter. Eric Hearn caught one 35 yard touchdown pass from Hegan Lamb. Johnny Martinez also scored in the first quarter on a one yard run. Jason Shackelford scored in the third quarter on a hitch and pitch pass from Jodie Reel. With 23 seconds left in the fourth quarter, Trey Dancer scored the winning touchdown.

On defense, Hearn led the team in tackles with eight. Blayne Davis, Martinez and Shackelford each had six tackles. Casper Phillips and Wes Harrison each added four. Davis recovered an onside kick and made an interception in the fourth quarter to end the game.

Fri., the Pirates travel to Newcastle for their final district game of the year.

Chronic violence impacts children by Mary Kaigler Violence and physical abuse. Can it or does it happen in Haskell? What does exposure to violence in the community or home do to a child's ability to learn?

Dr. Bruce D. Perry, director of the ChildTrauma Programs at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, says that children living with some chronic threat, either denestic or community violence or physical abuse, continue to act fearful even when they are in school. Constant exposure in the home or community to unpredictable, threatening environment causes the brain to repeatedly activate the brain systems that respond to threat or stress. Over time, fear becomes so ingrained that it becomes the child's normal state. The result is disastrous for children trying to lean.

Any time is book time is the Children's Book Council's theme for its 78th annual observance of National Children's Book Week, Nov. 17-23. Each November, during the week before Thanksgiving, Book Week is enthusiastically celebrated nationally in schools, libraries, bookstores, and homes around the country. Since 1919 National Children's Book Week has been celebrated to help spread the word about children's literature and to encourage reading. Since 1945 the Children's Book Council has been the official sponsor of National Children's Book Week.

The help celebrate Book Week, readers are invited into the schools to share a good book, and a love for reading with students. If you would like to volunteer, call the Haskell Elementary School at 864-2654 and leave your name and phone number. It will be passed on to a cooperating teacher who would welcome you into their classroom.

"No matter how hard they try to pay attention and do their work, this constant fear state impairs their ability to function and learn well. You can't learn if you are constantly expecting a threat," said Perry, who is chief of child psychiatry at Texas Children's

Schools can help by providing an environment that is predictable, consistent, safe and nourishing. For helping students who have been exposed to chronic threat, Dr. Perry recommends:

*Limiting unexpected changes, letting children anticipate impending changes by saying "in five minutes we will be ...

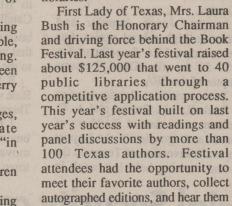

*Giving choices so that children feel a sense of control.

*Increasing a sense of belonging by encouraging membership in school or community groups or sports teams.

"Do things that give these kids some control over even the tiniest part of their lives," he said. "Being part of a school or community group helps define their identity. These children feel safer when they 'belong' to a group."

State (Capital HIGHLIGHTS By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

With ticket sales down $1 billion over the past year, the Texas Lottery Commission fired its executive director Lawrence Littwin last week.

The slump comes after five years of record-breaking sales.

In the past year, however, the agency has been troubled by negative publicity over its contract with lottery operator GTECH and a new mandate by the Legislature that places a higher percentage of lottery proceeds into the state budget.

Littwin, who had been lottery chief since last June, blamed the Legislature for the agency's troubles.

"When the public catches on to the fact that they are basically being ripped off by the lottery, they are going to stop buying tickets altogether," Littwin said. "This is a serious, serious problem for this lottery, and one that the Lottery Commission is unwilling to address."

To build more funds into the 1998-99 state budget, the Legislature lowered the payouts for instant games (scratch-offs).

Sales will only get worse, Littwin said, because later this year the lottery will pay out less than 50 percent of money taken to balance games now being sold at higher payouts, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

Littwin said his investigation of whether GTECH made campaign contributions to state lawmakers may have had something to do with his firing, but GTECH spokesman Marc Palazzo said the company had no role in the commission's decision to fire Littwin.

Deputy executive director Linda

Gov. George W. Bush still supports implementation of the fraud-detection program statewide, his spokesman Ray Sullivan said. Expansion of the program, which is projected to cost $13 million over the next three years, is expected to foil cheaters who reapply for benefits in counties other than where they reside.

Prisoners and Personal Data

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock asked the Senate Joint Committee on Criminal Justice to determine what type personal information about Texans that inmates have access to while working in prison.

Bullock, who presides over the Senate, said he wants lawmakers to make sure prison inmates are not able to misuse information they get while working in prison industries.

"Strong policies must be in place to ensure prisoners don't have the chance to violate the privacy of anyone. While it is important for inmates to work to help to repay their debt to society, safety must always come first," Bullock said.

Other Capital Highlights •State agencies are cutting payrolls and laying off workers to comply with a Sept. 1 cap on the number of state employees. The Texas Department of Health plans to lay off 165 workers and The Texas Department of Human Services, 266.

•Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, who still hasn't formally declared his intention to seek the Democratic nomination for governor, told supports he is in statistical "dead heat" with Republican Gov. Bush. "Polling, focus groups and mall testing ... have convinced me that I can win

"Know thyself," the ancient sage, Plutarch said. It's an idea still around today.

The need for identifying one's real 'self' is a popular subject for writing and research into all aspects of human behavior. Depending on the special interest of the one" giving the advice, (and the spin they put on it), we are told, "You are what you eat", or what you wear, or the more ambiguous, "You are what you think you are."

Although they make a certain point, a lot of these phrases are the product of advertising hype, which we tend to take with a grain of salt, as being too ridiculous to accept as realistic appraisals of ourselves. But, are they? Is it possible that we can become so personally associated with 'things' that we only feel validated and valuable as a person if we are having, doing or achieving certain things? Do 'things' become our identity?

The story is told of the flamboyant, old West Texan whose flashy, bright red, chrome-laden, leather-lined convertible (complete with a set of steer horns mounted on the radiator), was such a part of his identity, and the focus of his high-rolling life style, that he didn't want to leave it behind when he died.

Complying with his last will and testament, when the man passed away, the local undertaker duly sat him up at the steering wheel, complete with Stetson and Italian leather boots, and lowered him in, car and all.

When the two down-on-theirluck fellows who were hired to fill the grave were covering the whole thing up, one took off his hat, held it over his heart and said, admiringly, "Man, that's living, ain't it?"

While on a trip back to Lubbock, a few years ago, I visited a friend from our old neighborhood who drove me around to see the beautiful, new "dream house" she

Results of a yearlong study suggest that the Lone Star Imaging System does not work.

The system-part of a $1.7 million welfare reform programuses fingerprint images to detect when recipients are doubling up on applications for cash or food stamp benefits.

The study was conducted at 10 Department of Human Services offices serving Bexar and Guadalupe counties.

"We don't have any evidence to suggest that this would be an effective tool to detect or deter the receipt of duplicate benefits," said Deanna Schexnayder of the University of Texas at Austin's Center for the Study of Human Resources.

Schexnayder said only one person was caught applying for duplicate benefits.

Despite the study's conclusions, and her husband had bought and sold a few months after moving in. After she described the lay-out of the large rooms and decor, I felt compelled to ask why they had sold it. "Oh," she said, "I never did feel good there, because I wasn't driving a car I liked at the time." Her husband was an automobile salesman, and her perception of her whole identity was bound up, and at the mercy of, whatever vehicle he furnished her to drive. Living only through the image of her emotional concept of what she drove, she was, indeed, what she drove.

Extreme, hilarious examples for sure. But perhaps in a less obvious : way, we humans are all prone to personally confirm our identity, our 'self', only through some' external such as success at our job, awards we receive, achievements of our children, or more especially, the 'things' we accumulate Honestly looking at it, most of us might find that we are too closely tied to and dependent on the strokes of validation these things bring to our egos.

When these things don't stack' up for us like we want them to, we may feel an empty sense of no value as a person. Finding no fulfillment or happiness through any other source, we're bound to be miserable. We might even sell the house rather than face the real problem.

Student in the News

Three students from Haskell are among the approximately 115,000 students included in the 20th Annual Edition of The National Dean's List, 1996-97, just published by Educational Communications, Inc., Lake Forest, Illinois.

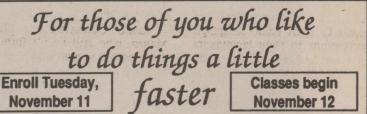

Students are selected for this honor by their college deans, registrars or honor society advisors and must be in the upper 10% of their class, on their school's "Dean's List" or have earned a comparable honor. Listed students are eligible to compete for $50,000 in scholarship awards funded by the publisher and may also use a referral service for future employment opportunities.

Local students selected include: Stacey A. Bruns, a Texas Lutheran University student; Tomi E. Pheil, a Howard Payne University student, and Rebecca K. Unger, a student at Howard Payne University.

Chamber plans 'Christmas in Haskell'

Haskell stores will soon be filled with a variety of Christmas merchandise for gifts and decorations. In anticipation of the holiday season, the Haskell Chamber of Commerce is again making preparations for "Christmas in Haskell".

At 3:00 p.m. on the first three Saturdays in Dec. (6th, 13th, 20th), and Monday Dec. 22, the Chamber of Commerce will hold a drawing for Haskell Bucks that can be used in any participating business. Gift certificates from individual businesses will also be drawn.

Participating merchants will give each customer a single drawing ticket for each $5.00 of merchandise purchased in their business. The business name must be stamped on the back of the ticket to be valid for drawings.

The amount of the drawings will be announced at a later date. Last year, the drawings totaled $5,000.00. The Chamber of Commerce goal for this year is a total of $6,000.00.

Gypsum blocks aid soil moisture management

To get the most from your irrigated wheat consider scheduling your irrigations this year using gypsum blocks.

Gypsum blocks are cast gypsum around a pair of stainless steel electrodes. Six foot wire leads are attached to the electrodes. The blocks are buried in the soil at 6. 12, 24, and 36 inch depths.

Soil moisture is measured by small electrical current is sent from this meter to the block.

The electrical resistance measured by the meter varies with the amount of moisture in the soil and the gypsum block. A gypsum block reading of 95 to 100 indicates th soil is wet while a meter reading of 70 shows about fifty percent available moisture. Irrigations should be conducted

By knowing the amount of moisture in the soil profile, excessive irrigations can be avoided saving time, money and reducing the potential of leaching nutrients out of the root zone of the plant.

For more information on using gypsum blocks for irrigation scheduling or to have a set of blocks installed and demonstrated on your farm call the Seymour Aquifer Project office at 940-864-3334.

NSTAVI SAFE AND SOUND WITH NATURAL GAS.

or more than 80 years, Lone Star Gas has been providing safe, dependable energy to its customers. By following a few simple rules, you can help make sure you and your family stay safe and sound with natural gas:

• Always have qualified service people install, regularly check and maintain all gas heaters and appliances, following the manufacturer's instructions for installation, ventilation, and operation.

• Always use a gas appliance only for its intended purpose. An oven, for example, should not be used to heat a room.

 Always keep flammable materials and substances away from gas heaters and appliances. Remember, a pilot light is constantly burning.

• If your gas appliance is more than 20 years old, have it checked by a qualified professional. Certain older, uncoated brass connectors have flaws that may be dangerous and should be changed. Do not move your appliance and check the connector yourself. Call a qualified professional to inspect and replace your connector if necessary.

IF YOU SMELL GAS

in your home, or know you have a gas leak, follow these rules:

1 Everyone should leave the house immediately, leaving the doors open for ventilation.

2 Do not switch anything electrical on or off. 3 Do not use your telephone (telephones use small amounts of electricity).

4 Do not strike a match or do anything else that might cause a spark.

5 Go to the nearest telephone and call Lone Star Gas Company. Wait until we have found the cause of the gas leak before returning to your home.

If you smell gas while you're outside, contact Lone Star Gas immediately.

Paymaster Gin 1422 1113 Weinert Gin Total Bales 11,592 ARE YOUR BUSINESS COMPUTERS READY FOR THE YEAR 2000? By now you've probably heard that many big companies and the federal government are trying to get their computer systems to accommodate the year 2000. Is there anything you need to do to prepare your Mostly a mainframe problem The problem is huge for institutions with mainframe systems that use software dating to the 1960s and 1970s. Programmers of that era generally used only a two-digit code to identify a year. Such software will read the "00" in 2000 as a reference to the year 1900-a serious error if the computer is keeping track of payment due dates, making interest calculations, or performing other tasks involving dates. The older software is written in computer languages little known to the programmers of today, prompting companies with older systems to spend millions of dollars to pull retired programmers back into the work force. The problem is serious enough that some attorneys are gearing up to represent clients who may be harmed by businesses that didn't fix the "2000" problem in their computers. Insurance companies are writing policies to cover potential negligence.

What about your personal computer?

The major vendors of personal computer products are also dealing with the problem. For example, Microsoft Windows 95 and Windows NT already recognize the year 2000 automatically, and Microsoft is working on fixer programs for Windows 3.1 and DOS.

Do you have the problem with your personal computer? To find out, try this simple test. Reset the time and date on your computer to two minutes before midnight, December 31, 1999. Turn off the machine for five minutes and then turn it back on. If it doesn't show early AM on January 1, 2000, you may have a problem, and all of your software that relies on dates will be affected. You might want to start looking for a solution now.

This Week's Devotional Message: REMEMBER THOSE TO WHOM WE OWE OUR FREEDOM

he very nature of freedom is such that it can induce in us an apathy and a pleasure-oriented lifestyle that could cause us to lose that freedom by default, whenever it is threatened. This is one reason why we must feel and express an unlimited gratitude toward those who throughout our history have risked their lives on many battlefields in the defense of our freedom. An excellent way to do this is to attend the Church of our choice, one of the many freedoms they fought to preserve, and to honor those brave heroes; not merely on some special occasion, but all the year 'round. We can never repay what we owe them, but that is the very least we can do to show our appreciation for what they have done for us.

Vanessa Miller, daughter of Debbie Miller, is a varsity twirler, class officer, a member of the National Honor Society and the band. She has been a part of the State FFA Radio Team, the All Region Band and State Solo and Ensemble Qualifier in twirling.

Vanessa is a member of the First Baptist Church of Haskell, and likes to cook for a hobby.

After high school, she plans to attend Texas Tech University, majoring in communication disorders.

Wendy Gray is a cheerleader, and is active in the National Honor Society, basketball and golf. The daughter of Dwayne and Frances Gray likes to cook, in addition to all sports. She is a member of the First Baptist Church of Haskell.

Wendy's special awards include Golf Award for 1995, 96, 97, All Around Athlete for 1996, 97, Basketball Award 1997, All Big Country, 1996, 97, and All American Cheerleader, 1997.

Her future plans include attending college, hopefully to play golf, and majoring in early childhood education.

Food for thought by Charles H. Spurgeon "Jesus said unto him, If thou canst believe."

-Mark 9:23

A certain man had a demoniac son, who was afflicted with a dumb spirit. The father, having seen the futility of the endeavors of the disciples to heal his child, had little or no faith in Christ, and therefore, when he was bidden to bring his son to him, he said to Jesus, "If thou canst do anything, have compassion on us, and help us."

Now there was an "if" in the question, but the poor trembling father had put the "if" in the wrong place: Jesus Christ, therefore, without commanding him to retract the "if," kindly puts it in its legitimate position. "Nay verily," he seemed to say, "there should be no 'if' about my power, nor concerning my willingness, the 'if' lies somewhere else." "If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth."

The man's trust was strengthened, he offered a humble prayer for an increase of faith, and instantly Jesus spoke the word, and the devil was cast out, with an injunction never to return. There is a lesson here which we need to learn. We, like this man, often see that there is an "if" somewhere, but we are perpetually blundering by putting it in the wrong place. "If" Jesus can help me-"if" he can give me grace to overcome temptation-"if" he can give me pardon-"if" he can make me successful? Nay, "if" you can believe, he both can and will. you have misplaced your "if". If you can confidently trust, even as all things are possible to Christ, so shall all things be possible to you.

Faith standeth in God's power, and is robed in God's majesty; it weareth the royal apparel, and rideth on the King's horse, for it is the grace which the King delighteth to honor. Girding itself with the glorious might of the all-working Spirit, it becomes, in the omnipotence of God, mighty to do, to dare, and to suffer.

All things, without limit, are possible to him that believeth. My soul, canst thou believe thy Lord tonight?

Sagerton News

By Dorothy M. Clark

With the dry, sunny weather prevailing, local farmers are real busy gathering the bumper cotton crop. 900 bales have been ginned as of Sunday afternoon and the yard at the local gin is filled with trailers waiting to be ginned. With continued fair weather, operations should progress nicely. Farmers are busy, but they are experiencing a good feeling this year after previous near disasters. The Alvin Ulmers are glad to be back home after experiencing severe weather while attending the wedding of the grandson, Kyle Whitaker in Denver. Kyle was married to Sherry Lynn Raith at the Community Church in Golden, Colorado. Family members moved from one hotel to another because of a power outage and then had to be transported in 4-wheel drive vehicles to the rehearsal dinner and wedding ceremony. They reported being in two feet of snow and are sure that this will be one wedding that they will never forget. Kyle is the son of Jana and Keith Whitaker, and is employed as a mechanical engineer for a firm in Denver. Little Clay Toney of Fort Worth has been visiting his grandparents, J.B. and Dorothy Toney. His parents, Bruce and Michelle and little sister, Megan came for him this past weekend. The Toney home in Sagerton will be a little quieter now for a while as "Grandpa and Grandma" go back to their normal routine. Alvin and Ev Ulmer were in Chillicothe last Monday for the funeral service for Wanda Cobb Whitaker. Mrs. Whitaker was the stepmother of their son-in-law, Keith Whitaker.

Social Security periodically reviews disability benefits

Do you receive Social Security or Supplemental Security Income disability benefits? If so, sooner or later Social Security will send you a letter informing you that your case will be reviewed to make sure that your disability continues. A continuing disability review seeks information about your current health problems and treatment you have received since you started receiving benefits, or since the last time we looked at your case.

Your first review could take place anywhere from six months to seven years after you start receiving benefits, depending on you disabling impairment and whether it is likely to improve. For example, if medical improvement can be predicted when your benefits start, your first review could take place within six months. If medical improvement is possible, but can't be predicted, we'll look at your case every three years. But it your condition is not expected to improve, we will look at your case only once every five to seven years.

You can prepare for the review by keeping detailed records about any medical treatment you have had in the past 12 months or so. You should have the names and addresses of any doctors, hospitals or clinics that have treated you, the reason for the visits, and the specific dates. We may also ask you about any work you have done since you became disabled, so you should keep information about the type of work you did, your employer's name and address, and the dates of your employment. By keeping notes about ongoing medical treatment and any work activity you can help us complete our review in a timely manner. After the review, we will send you a letter explaining our decision and the information we considered.

where they visited with relatives across Texas and Arkansas. In Waco, they visited with cousins of Opehlia's, C.W. and Marie Scott. In Springtown they attended a grade school football game to watch little Brittany Allen perform in the pep squad. Her little brother, Taylor urged his MeMaw to be ready to come back next year to watch him play in the game. Brittany is 11. At Center, they visited with G. W.'s brother, Tince and Arlene and their children. While there, they experienced a downpour of seven inches of rain in four hours! Their next stop was at Sheridan, Arkansas, where they visited with grandchildren, Daryl Apple and family.

On Sunday, G.W.'s daughter, Elizabell and Boyd Young of
