Food for thought

"Be strong and courageous! Do not tremble or be dismayed, for the Lord your God is with you wherever you go."

Joshua 1:9

The third qualification for demonstrating authority over rulers and authorities in the spiritual realm is boldness. A Spirit-filled Christian is characterized by a true, godly sense of courage and boldness in spiritual warfare. On the eve of taking authority over the Promised Land, Joshua was challenged four times to be strong and courageous (Joshua 1:6, 7, 9, 18). When the early church prayed about their mission of sharing the gospel in Jerusalem, "the place where they had gathered together was shaken and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak the word of God with boldness" (Acts 4:31). Spirit-inspired boldness is behind every successful advance in the church today.

The opposite of boldness is cowardice, fear and unbelief. Notice what God thinks about these characteristics.

I am the Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. I will give to the one who thirsts from the spring of the water of life without cost. He who overcomes shall inherit these things and I will be his God and he will be My son. But for the cowardly and unbelieving and abominable and murders and immoral persons and sorcerers and idolaters and all liars, their part will be in the lake that burns with fire and brimstone, which is the second death (Revelation 21:6-8).

That's pretty serious—cowards lined up at the lake of fire alongside murderers, sorcerers and idolaters! It should serve to motivate us to exercise authority with boldness (2 Timothy 1:7).

A lot of Christians fear the dark side of the spiritual world. It's true that a little knowledge can be a dangerous and frightful thing, but a growing knowledge of the truth is liberating. Seminary students have said, "I used to be afraid of that stuff, but now I know who I am in Christ and I'm not afraid anymore." That's exactly the perception we should have.

Lord, increase my courage to light candles of truth and dispel the darkness in Your name. I will fear only You today, not the enemy.

Kids need lots of H₂O

Kids on the go need H₂O. Parents need to make sure children have plenty of water when they venture outside in the sweltering heat this summer.

"Kids can become dehydrated very quickly," said Dr. Robert Shulman, professor of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine and director of the nutritional support team at Texas Children's Hospital in Houston.

In addition to water, sports drinks and fruit juices are good to give children. It is best to stay away from drinks that contain high levels of caffeine. Caffeine is known to increase the flow of urine, so instead of replenishing the body, it can contribute to dehydration. Dehydration can cause a child to become dizzy or drowsy, develop headaches and a dry mouth, and in severe cases become unconscious.

The Children's Nutrition Research Center cautions parents to keep in mind that infants should never be exposed to the sun for long periods of time, and never placed in direct sunlight. Always dress them in light-covered clothing and put a hat on their head. A light blanket can also protect their arms and legs.

Visiting with parents Jack and Alta Faye Harvey and Neat Bevel over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Jacky Harvey of Odessa. Darlene Cummings of Santo came for mother Neat Bevel to go home with her for the week. The Greater Independent Baptist Church was at the installation of Rev. Clovis Dever on Sun., June 14 at the West Bethel Baptist Church, Rule. Other guest churches there were West Bethel, Munday; Hopewell, Haskell; Mt. Zion, Seymour; Mt. Olive, Snyder, Texas Street, Vernon; Weeping Mary, Anson; Macedonia, Aspermont; Union Chapel, Rochester; COGIC, Hamlin; Mission Revival, Haskell. Rev. D.L. Cooper, Vernon, gave the charge to Pastor Dever. Rev. Robert Sweet, Snyder, gave the charge to the church.

The nineteenth of June celebration was at the Greater Independent Baptist Church. Guest churches there were Hopewell, Haskell; Weeping Mary, Anson; Macedonia, Aspermont; Whirlwind COGIC, Aspermont; Revival Center, Haskell; West Bethel, Rule and West Buelah, Munday. Rev. W. M. Hodge brought the morning message. The text was Year of Jubilee, Lev. 25:10. The afternoon message was brought by Rev. Sam Blackwell, Anson.

The program was closed with a big "I love you" to all fathers.

Coming event this weekend will be their Annual Women's Day, Sun., June 28, at 3:00 p.m. The theme will be "Not One Step Without God."

Summer snacks can be healthy for kids

By Lou Gilly
Haskell Co. Extension Agent
Mommy, I'm hungry! How often do parents hear that during the summer break? Because children have smaller stomachs, they need to eat more often. Extension nutritionist Dr. Dymple Cooksey recommends snacks low in sugar, fat and salt. And they don't have to be fancy foods. Setting out fruits and vegetables is just as easy as giving them a bag of chips.

Take the child's age into consideration. Some are too young for raw vegetables such as carrots because they can't chew them well. On the other hand, chewing slower can play to an older child's advantage because they'll be less likely to overeat. She suggests getting the children involved in planning their snacks. And she says snacks should complement meals.

If a meal is short of vegetables, offer raw vegetables as a snack. The same goes for fruits, fiber and dairy products. Cooksey says whole grain crackers, cheese, pudding, even ice cream make good snacks.

Keeping track of medications

Keeping track of medications can be a pill. It's difficult to remember which medicine to take and when, especially for people who take several medications a day. Pill boxes with compartments for every day are helpful and can be bought at the pharmacy.

Dr. Eugene Frenkel, professor of internal medicine at UT Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas said, "It is very important that patients take their medication at the indicated time. Otherwise the drug may not work as effectively as it should. In addition the patient may risk an adverse reaction, especially when several daily medications are involved."

Liquid medicines and inhalers cannot be divided into a pill box, but they can be color-coded. For example, bottles tagged with yellow dots could contain medicine to take in the morning, and those with green dots could be for bedtime.

Dr. Frenkel cautions patients to pay special attention to whether medications should be taken with meals or on an empty stomach.

OPINION

State Capital

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

A renegotiated tobacco settlement resolving a conflict over lawyer fees was imminent last week, Texas Attorney General Dan Morales said, but he gave no clue as to when a new $17 billion agreement with the industry might be announced.

No wonder. Lawyers for five counties and hospital districts have sued to be included in the original $15.3 billion settlement and their lawsuit may affect the success of the new one.

The lawyers contend their clients have a right to a piece of the settlement because costs of treating poor people for smoking illnesses are largely not reimbursed by the state and federal Medicaid program.

Their lawsuit could affect the success of a new $17 billion settlement Morales was free to renegotiate after the state of Minnesota settled with cigarette makers.

Last week, however, Morales' spokesman Ron Dusek said, "We're finalizing a deal with the governor and finalizing a deal with the tobacco companies. Both of these are really, really close."

But, regarding the hospital districts and counties, Dusek said Morales is inclined to cut them out of the latest settlement. If that comes to pass, the counties and hospital districts will have to ask the Legislature for funds to pay for the treating of tobacco-related illnesses.

The original January tobacco settlement met an early obstacle in Gov. George W. Bush and seven state legislators. They protested the amount of attorneys' fees—15 percent of the $15.3 billion—to be awarded to private lawyers hired by Morales to represent the state. Bush and the legislators argued that the state would be liable for part of the amount.

Poll Shows Bush Has Big Lead

Republican Gov. Bush leads his Democratic gubernatorial opponent, Garry Mauro, by 53 percent, the latest Texas Poll revealed last week. Seventy percent of the 691 likely voters who answered the poll picked Bush.

One year ago, the margin in a similar poll was identical, though neither man had formally announced his candidacy at the time the poll was taken.

Mauro, Texas' land commissioner, said the poll was off base. "By the time Texans take part in the only poll that matters—the one on election day—they'll know they are voting with us for the right to choose their own doctor."

In his reaction to the poll, Bush said the election-day vote will narrow. "I've got to send a signal to my supporters that we've got to take this race seriously. We've got to make sure we turn out the vote and I will do so. I will campaign hard."

Texas Poll director Ty Meighan told The Dallas Morning News, "Bush is so strong, it's going to take an awful lot of Mauro to close that gap and I don't know how he's going to do it."

Taken by telephone June 1-12 by Scripps Howard and the Office of Survey Research of the University of Texas, the poll also showed:

•Bush leads by big margins in every region of the state and among every demographic group except blacks and Democrats.

•Sixty-five percent of those surveyed said they still would vote for Bush even if they knew he was going to run for president in 2000.

Officials Oppose Nuclear Dump

A dozen Mexican lawmakers last week spoke out against the proposed construction of a nuclear waste repository near the West Texas town of Sierra Blanca.

The officials met in Austin and tried unsuccessfully to get a meeting with Gov. Bush.

They charged that the proposed site—18 miles from the Rio Grande—would violate a 1983 pact between Mexico and the United States to curb pollution along the border.

Norberto Corella, a federal senator from the Mexican state of Sonora, said, "We cannot permit the U.S. to build (nuclear) garbage dumps on our border...."

The site would store low-level nuclear waste from Texas, Maine and Vermont. Federal legislation approving the three-state agreement to store the waste at the Sierra Blanca site has been passed by the House and Senate and has been forwarded to a conference committee.

Karen Hughes, a spokeswoman for Bush, said the governor won't allow construction to proceed until there are scientific guarantees that the site won't pollute.

The proposed dump also has drawn heavy opposition from the Texas side of the border.

Veterans' Homes to Be Built

Groundbreaking for four long-term care homes for Texas veterans is expected on July 1 in Big Spring, Bonham, Temple and Floresville.

The homes will be the first built in Texas since one was built for Civil War veterans in Austin. It closed in the 1970s.

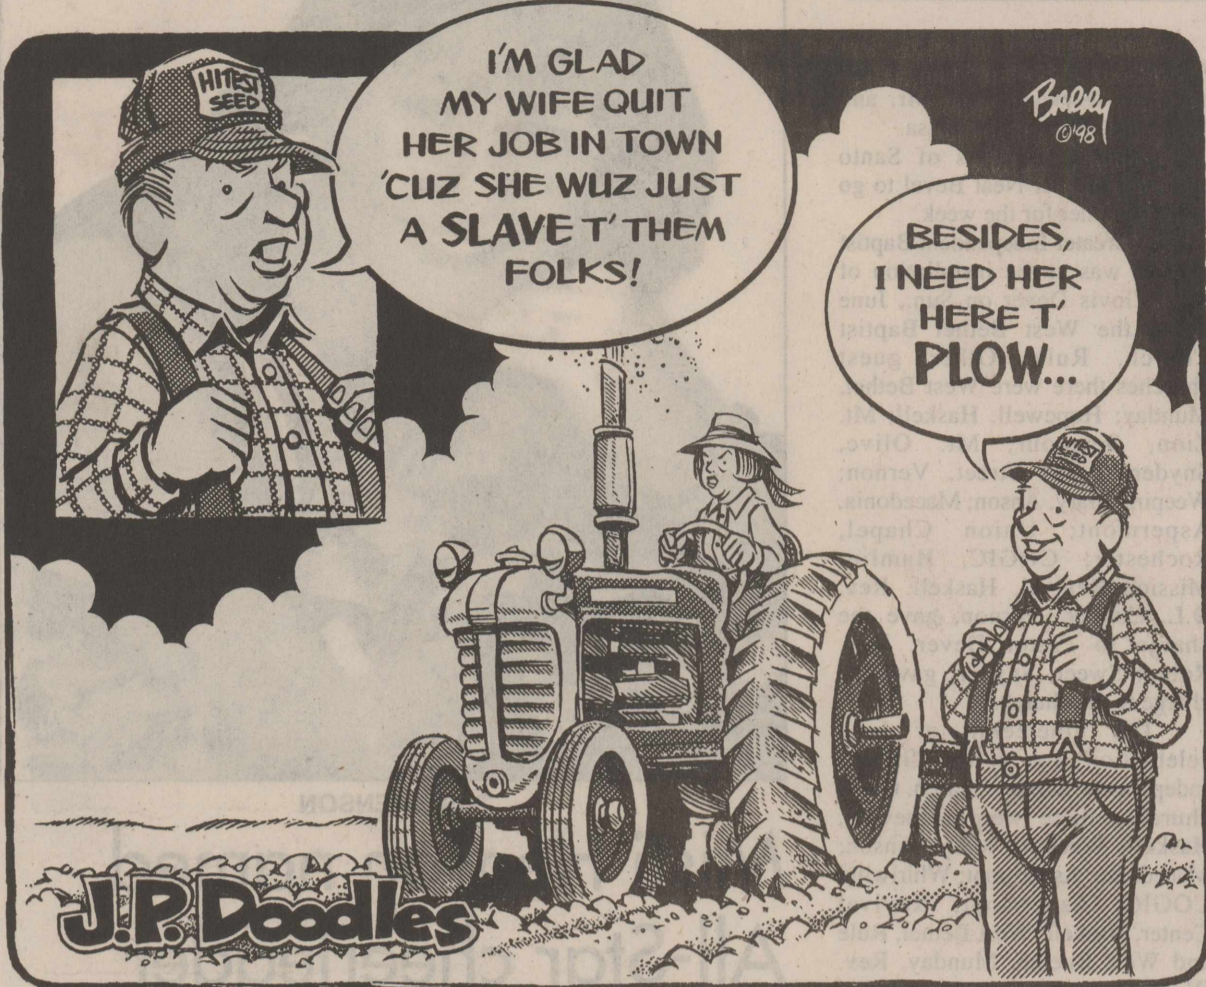

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, head of the Veterans Land Board, said, "It was a long, hard fight to make people aware of Texas' aging veteran population."

The Austin architectural firm of Graeber, Simmons and Cowan will oversee the construction.

Other Capital Highlights

•The National Trust for Historic Preservation last week listed Texas' 225 historic courthouses among the nation's most endangered structures, increasing chances that many of the courthouses will be repaired and preserved.

•Gov. Bush made about $15 million in the $250 million sale of the Texas Rangers major league baseball team. Five years before he was elected governor, Bush was part of a group of investors that purchased 84 percent of the team. His investment was $606,000.

From The Inside Out

By Mary Kaigler

I may indeed, be "dragging the bottom of the well" for this one, but last week's encounter with the source of our yard water ended up with our doing just that. Before it was resolved, it became quite an episode.

For one who tends to see, as Shakespeare wrote in As You Like It, "a sermon in stones and trees and good in everything," this incident of the well brought up buckets full of parables.

On Monday evening, during a day of watering, the 1/2 horse pump in our dug well stopped suddenly with no warning. Tuesday morning Tom drove to Knox City, bought a new one-horse pump and everything needed to install it. Bobby Medford built a new platform for it and a cover for the well, and when the old pump was pulled, there was no water at the bottom.

In an age when wells are drilled, not dug, we had no idea where to find someone to remove what we supposed was a cave-in below the brick-lined sides of the well.

In a big case of "you never miss the water 'til the well runs dry," we visualized this thirsty 1/2 block of Bermuda grass gulping down city water during these dog days of summer which have set in so soon.

Lowering a light down into the well, George Fouts and Tom saw a dried thatch of roots 14 feet down at what should have been the water line. On George's suggestion to use a heavy grappling hook and rope, a small hole was finally broken through to reveal a shining spot of water beneath.

That's when the 'fun' set in. After repeated tries, Tom and I finally got a good, solid locked-in hook on the mass, and laboriously pulled up a heavy, black, tangled glob of roots resembling a "creature from the black lagoon." Hanging about eight feet long below a many-branched, errant hackberry root that had grown into the well at the water line, an almost solid interwoven 'capsule' of tiny black, hair-like roots was filled out with water like a giant balloon, just the size of the circumference of the well. Filling the well like a giant stopper, it had stopped the flow of water to the pump. Together we were able to pull it up and over the side of the well, into the wheel barrow, where it lay like a beached whale, almost pulsating as it gushed out water.

Immediately, on getting rid of the roots that had been growing and insidiously clogging the good flow of water, the water level rose to its natural potential. So elated was Tom at this turn of events, he pushed his wheel barrow down the street to show George the gosh-awful specimen. Estimating that it probably weighed nearly a hundred pounds while full of water, George urged Tom not to throw it away. The next few days he brought several people over to see the 'thing', which when dried, looked like a big, hairy buffalo carcass.

Needless to say, after the 'extraction', the new pump was duly installed and a cheer went up at our house when water began to turn sprinklers again.

Which brings me back to the parable of the well. It makes me think that in each of us, as in the well, without our being aware of it, unchecked errant roots of untruths, misunderstandings and bitterness can grow and multiply and feed on itself, finally choking out, stopping up, strangling off and shutting down our better impulses and our potential for being productive. Recognizing and removing them all like a black, ugly glob from deep within ourselves takes shining some light on the subject, and may even require a grappling hook of iron determination and a strong rope of will power. But when everything good that was sealed off by it flows back in abundance, how rewarding the effort will become. End of sermon.

Meanwhile, the grass is getting greener every day, and (with yet another pun about our well experience), as Shakespeare also wrote, All's Well That Ends Well. And that is as I like it.

Legal Matters

By Attorney General Dan Morales

Summer is a great time for vacations. Unfortunately, burglars do not take breaks. We at the Office of the Attorney General want your home to be safe while you are gone. That is why we have prepared a list of simple precautions.

Take a few minutes to safeguard your property. You will enjoy your trip more knowing that you took care of things at home and you will minimize your chance of being robbed while you are gone.

A vacation to-do list

Few thieves like to break into an occupied home. Your best defense against robbers is a house that looks lived-in. Do not leave your house looking abandoned while you are away. At a minimum, be sure to do the following:

- Stop mail and newspaper deliveries.
- Double-check all your locks and windows.
- Turn down the ringer on your phone. If you have an answering machine, turn down the speaker, and do not change your message to say you are on vacation.

•Mow your lawn before you leave. If you are going to be gone for a long time, have someone you trust maintain your yard.

•Leave blinds, shutters or curtains open or partially open. Windows that are tightly covered all day, every day, are a signal to potential thieves.

•Have a friend come by periodically to pick up any circulars or other evidence that you are away. Also, leave your itinerary with a friend and a list of phone numbers where you can be reached in case of emergency.

Many e-mail programs allow you to send an automated response to incoming mail. While this is a useful feature, avoid using it to announce that you will be away from home during vacation. You never know to whom the message might be sent.

More safety tips Some robbers cruise neighborhoods, looking for houses that are dark or quiet night after night. Consider getting a number of timers and hooking them up to lamps or your TV. Place the timers in different rooms and set them to work at different times. Another good idea is to leave your air conditioning on a higher temperature, rather than turning it off completely. It is a sure sign that you are out of town if the A/C is off when the weather is hot.

Before leaving, use an engraver to mark all your valuables with your social security number or driver's license number. Some police forces will lend you an engraver and provide you with a window sticker that tells all potential thieves that your house is no easy mark. Many burglars will move on to an easier target once they see this.

Above all, have a trustworthy neighbor, friend or relative check your house occasionally. He or she can take care of things while you are away, like removing advertising flyers from your front door or seeing that everything looks normal. It might even be a good idea to arrange for a house sitter—that way, the house will look lived-in because it is. Avoid mentioning to anyone outside your confidence that you will be away.

When all else fails

In spite of your best efforts, someone could rob you while you are away. To help settle insurance claims if you are burglarized, have a list of your valuable items with an estimate of their cost. There are now computer software programs that can help you automate this task. Many insurance companies suggest that you also take photographs of the valuables. Check with your agent for more ideas.

We hope these tips will help you enjoy your vacation with a calmer mind. Be safe, be smart and have a great vacation.

Keeping an eye on Texas

Roads and highways a Texas investment

A 77,000 mile network of roads and freeways crisscross Texas to connect rural farms, hideaway towns, and metropolitan areas. As the Texas highway system continues to expand due to a growing population and economic development, it costs more than $2 billion a year in roadbuilding and construction and another $700 million for maintenance. In addition, 4,300 bridges in the state are structurally deficient and need repair.

Data does not include the cost to build and maintain county roads or city streets.

Young athletes should learn proper nutrition

Teaching young athletes about good nutrition should be as important as teaching them the skills of the game.

"Sometimes coaches and parents overlook this important part of the training process," said Beck

Gorham, a registered dietitian and research nutritionist at the USDA/ARS Children's Nutrition Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "It's up to parents and coaches to learn and teach kids what is good for the body."

Knowing how much to feed young athletes, what to feed them and when to feed them is important.

"Foods high in carbohydrates like fruits, breads, rice and starchy vegetables like corn will provide athletes with the energy their muscles need," said Gorham. "Young athletes should also be encouraged to eat at least four servings a day of calcium-rich foods like milk, cheese and yogurts. These foods will help them build strong bones."

One of the most essential of all nutrients for athletes is water.

"Children should drink three to six ounces of water every 15 minutes of practice to avoid dehydration," said Gorham. "Children need to be taught and reminded during workouts to drink water even when they are not thirsty because thirst is not an accurate measure of hydration."

Contrary to popular belief, vitamin supplements will not provide a direct source of energy for young athletes. If the child is following the guidelines from the USDA Food Guide Pyramid, vitamins are not necessary.

"Providing young athletes with healthy food choices is one of the keys to helping them reach their full athletic potential," said Gorham. "And in most cases, these healthy food choices will stay with them for the rest of their lives."

Shaking pecan trees helps crop

by Lou Gilly
Haskell Co. Extension Agent
The drought is actually helping pecan growers. Water is not a big concern for many because they irrigate their orchards. Extension horticulturist Dr. Larry Stein says the drought may improve the quality of pecans this year because it is reducing the risk of disease.

Growers are also encouraged to shake their trees during July to thin out the crop and improve quality. Stein says the earlier you shake them, the better. He tells growers that if every terminal has a cluster of nuts, the tree needs to be shaken. Stein says ordinarily you'd take off 20 to 40 pounds of nuts. He explains that native Texas pecan trees follow a good production year with a poor production year. Shaking some of those nuts off the tree can offset that alternate cycle. If you shake off nuts in big production years, the tree won't be as stressed and will produce better the next year when it would typically grow a smaller crop.

Stein says the practice will also alleviate the problem of up and down prices for consumers. Prices will not fluctuate as much if the cropload is more consistent from year to year.

Flint-knapping demonstration set Saturday

Flint-knapping, the art of making stone arrowheads, spear points and knives and other tools like those used long ago by Native Americans, will be demonstrated during a special family-oriented program set for Sat., June 27 at Copper Breaks State Park near Quanah. The Campsite Program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the park amphitheater, located near Comanche Campground. Presenter Bob Hopkins, Copper Breaks interpretive ranger and longtime avocational archaeologist, will explore the ancient art of projectile point manufacture developed by various Native American groups. Using traditional, natural materials such as deer and elk antlers, flint and sandstones, Hopkins will shape a variety of common tools once vital to the survival of native peoples. Hopkins' presentation is free with regular park admission. The flint-knapping program is another in a continuing series of campsite programs designed to enhance visitors' Copper Breaks experience.

All campsite program activities are free with regular park admission of $2 for adults and $1 for senior citizens. Children 12 and under are admitted free. Special rates are available for groups. For more information about flint-knapping or other scheduled campsite programs, contact Copper Breaks State Park between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. at 940-839-4331. Copper Breaks is located 13 miles south of Quanah and 8 miles north of Crowell on State Highway 6.

This Week's Devotional Message: GOD GAVE US OUR LEADERS THROUGH THE ART OF SPEAKING

Since the earliest tribal chieftains shouted orders to their followers around the campfire, every unit of society has selected its leaders largely by their ability to address an audience. Throughout history kings, dictators and presidents have demonstrated their oratorical skill; and as a by-product of this talent the art of acting was born and progressed from stage to screen to electronic media, where we may also tune in for an oral summary of the day's happenings. Our elected officials win votes in proportion to their persuasive ability. Finally, our faith delivers its message through the sermons of the clergy, who must instruct us in the ancient tenets by the use of modern examples. The art of speaking has indeed taught us about our world, increased our enjoyment of it, and through faith, showed us how we can best live our lives in it.

Sagerton News

By Dorothy M. Clark

Farmers are working long hours getting the cotton planted and everyone is sweltering as temperatures rise. At the writing today on Friday afternoon our thermometer reads 110 degrees! That's pretty hot. Needless to say, we work outside very early in the morning and late in the afternoon and stay close to the air conditioner the rest of the day. Everyone is urged to use caution in getting overheated to avoid heat strokes.

The community is happy to welcome the Bruce Toney family back to Sagerton. It's rare when we have someone move into our town and it's a welcome sight to see Clay and Megan playing around the house. Grandparents, J.B. and Dorothy will enjoy having the little ones around again, too.

The Friendship Club met at Faith Lutheran Church for dinner on Thursday. The birthday song was sung for Isabell Mrazek and the anniversary son was for Joe and Dorothy Clark. Joe thought that they had been married for 60 or 65 years, but Dorothy said it was really 52! Present for the meal were Leona Schonertedt, Minnie Monse, Isabell Mrazek, Doris Lehmann, Delbert and Joyce LeFevre, J. B. and Dorothy Toney, Frances Clark, Michelle, Clay and Megan Toney, Pastor Jeff Zell, Joe and Dorothy Clark, Ed Fouts, Alvin and Ev Ulmer, Mary Neinst, Jill, Kinsey, Cade and Tully Brown, Larry LeFevre, Bubba Mrazek and Jon Jackson of Hamlin.

The men's monthly breakfast was held at Faith Lutheran Church Friday morning with Pastor Zell bringing the devotion based on Job 42:10 and on prayer. Those in attendance included Marchel Nauert, David Letz, Alvin Bredthauer and Fred Teichelman.

Kyle Clark, grandson of Charles and Dorothy Clark was one of 12 Americans winning Student Academy Awards last week. The awards were presented through the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences to notable film students at the university level. Kyle received his award for a 3.5 minute stop-action animated short feature. He received his masters degree in film, video and animation from the University of Southern California in May 1997. His feature was a degree project and qualified for the 1998 student academy awards by beating the one-year deadline. Since gaining his degree, Kyle has been employed by noted producer George Lucas'

International Light and Magic Studios in San Francisco. He is working on Lucas' next "Star Wars" film expected to be released in the summer of 1999. Kyle is the son of Bob and Tommie Jo Clark, formerly of Abilene and now living in McAllen and his grandmother is Mrs. M. Y. Benton. Congratulations to the entire family.

Children of Delbert and Joyce LeFevre were guests in their home for a Father's Day dinner Sunday. Enjoying the reunion and fun were Larry LeFevre, Jill, Ken, Kinsey, Tully and Cade Brown, Frances Clark, Kent, Kathy and Kit LeFevre of Tuscola and Linda LeFevre of Wylie.

Boyd and Elizabeth Young of Abilene visited with her father, G.W. and Ophelia LeFevre on Sunday. Boyd led the singing at the Methodist Church for the morning worship service.

Joe and Dorothy Clark and Mae Stegemoeller attended the wedding ceremony of Stacy Bruns and Carl Miller at Trinity Lutheran Church in Haskell Saturday afternoon.

Vacation Bible School begins at Faith Lutheran on June 29, meeting at 6:30 each night.

Dyess sets Big Country day Aug. 22

Dyess' Big Country Appreciation Day is Aug. 22. Gates open at 9 a.m. More than 100 air and ground demonstrations and displays are planned and organizers say people of all ages should find something of interest.

Admission and parking are free, food and beverages will be on sale. Featured aerial demonstrations this year include Dyess' B-1 Lancer bomber and C-130 Hercules airlifter. The B-1 has thrilled crowds at the annual air show since 1985 when the first B-1 was delivered to Dyess. A low altitude, high speed pass will give spectators a close, although brief, look at the sleek, stealthy aircraft, whose silhouette is a familiar one around Abilene.

An F-117, the world's first operational aircraft designed to exploit low-observable stealth technology, will be on display. There will be an aerobatics demonstration by FINA and a wing walking demonstration. Numerous vintage aircraft will also be on display. Visitors are encouraged to talk with crew members at static display aircraft to get firsthand information about U. S. airpower. To learn more, call the 7th Bomb Wing public affairs office at 915-696-2863.
