

Notice of Public Hearing

A public hearing will be held to receive public input concerning Haskell County, The City of Haskell and the Development Corporation of Haskell submitting an application for a Texas Department of Criminal Justice Intermediate Sanction facility to be located on 121.5 acres of land, one and one half miles northeast of Haskell, Haskell County, Texas, described as: 121.5 acres, being all of tract 100, I. Ramos Survey, Abstract 351, Haskell County.

This intermediate sanctioning facility will house Texas Department of Criminal Justice inmates which have been released from prison on parole or mandatory supervision.

This public hearing will be held at 6:00 P.M. on Tuesday, October 6, 1998 at the Haskell High School Auditorium, 605 North Ave. E, in Haskell.

Dention facility

Justice, Oct. 15. Even though it and the Regional County Jail are parts of the same project, they are separate also. Monty Montgomery, Executive Director of the Economic Development Corporation of Haskell, said that plans for the Regional County Jail are proceeding, regardless of what happens with the other facility. All of the paper work connected with it, financially, etc., should be finished in November. Once that is completed, Montgomery said the EDC is hoping that construction on the Regional County Jail will start before the end of the year. It will take ten to twelve months to complete.

"If, in the meantime, this intermediate sanction facility comes on line for us, with all the architects and builders here, they can implement whatever modifications that are necessary for housing however many beds will be needed," he said.

The Third Phase of the whole proposed Detention Center project is planned to be the addition of a Juvenile Detention facility. On July 1, at a meeting of the Haskell Juvenile probation supervision board consisting of District Judge Charles Chapman, Don Kretschmer, County Judge David Davis and County Judges from Throckmorton, Stonewall and Kent, they gave approval for the EDC to pursue the juvenile facility. On July 31, another extension was given by them for approval to look at obtaining a twenty-four bed juvenile facility.

"If all of these projects come on line, approximately 80 to 150 jobs will be created," Montgomery said. Pointing out that one of the advantages Haskell has to offer is its being tied in with the Miller Creek water system. He added, "We have the best water system between here and Wichita Falls and that's the first thing all developers ask when we approach them about coming to Haskell."

Saying that Haskell's city infrastructure is in excellent shape, he added that the project could not have had the success it's had up to now if it were not for the cooperation of the board of directors of the EDC, the City Council, County Commissioners and County Judge David Davis. "They didn't just jump into this.

After months of extensive research they have chosen the top notch companies to deal with in the way of developers."

The Public Hearing on Oct. 6 will be a formal meeting, with all proceedings taped to be sent to the TDCJ. The City and County of Haskell and EDC want to hear from everyone, both pro and con, Montgomery said. "There may be some concerns that we haven't thought of yet. We want everyone to know about it so that there will be a comfort level about it in the community. It is crucial that Haskell show an overwhelming support for this project to the TDCJ. There are too many other towns who really want this."

The open hearing on this diversified economic opportunity for Haskell will begin at 6:00 p.m.

For something old, the bride wore pearls which belonged to her great-aunt, Mary Wainscott. For something new, she wore a garter handmade by her grandmother and decorated with blue and maroon ribbon. For good luck, she wore in her shoe a $5 gold piece which she borrowed from her grandfather.

OPINION

State Capital

HIGHLIGHTS

By Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The class of 1998 set a new state record when 100,417 Texas students in public and private schools took the Scholastic Achievement Test.

That is an increase of 6,383 from 1997 and the largest increase in 10 years. A record number of Texans also took Advanced Placement Exams, the College Board reported last week.

Reflecting national trends, Texas scores on the SAT remained stable with students earning 494 on the verbal section of the exam and 501 on the mathematics portion of the college entrance exam.

Nationally, the 1,172,779 students who took the SAT earned an average score of 505 on the verbal section of the exam and 512 on math.

"It is encouraging that our scores remained stable despite the record increase in the number of students taking the exam," Texas Education Commissioner Mike Moses said.

"Testing experts, including those at the College Board, tell us that test scores typically go down when the number of students taking the test goes up."

AG Alerts Flood Victims
Texas Attorney General Dan Morales last week said he will vigorously prosecute price-gougers, dishonest remodelers and others who attempt to take advantage of flood victims along the Rio Grande in South Texas.

"Wherever there is a natural disaster, we usually find a few unscrupulous opportunists who view disaster victims as easy targets. This is a warning to the crooks: The bull's-eye is on you," Morales said.

Prosecution would come under the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act.

During a disaster, it is a violation of the law to unconscionably raise prices of basic goods such as food, water, batteries, tools and building supplies.

Texans who want to report disaster price-gouging or other suspected violations may call the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Hotline at 800-337-3928. Consumers also may call the Federal Emergency Management Agency Fraud Line at 800-323-8603.

Morales recommends that consumers obtain references from remodelers and clean-up crews, hire only those who have roots in the community, check for complaints with the Better Business Bureau and the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Office and pay for work only as it progresses.

Health Clinics Won't Be Cut
Texas Health Commissioner Reyn Archer last week retracted an earlier decision to cut funding for school-based health clinics, amid protests from lawmakers and health-care advocates.

Archer said he only intended to postpone making a decision "to thoroughly assess our efforts to improve the health of Texas children and our commitment to addressing the need for comprehensive health for our kids."

The health department will examine the clinic program to see if it duplicates services of other state or federal programs.

This year, at a cost of $1.4 million, the state is paying for 12 school-based health clinics. Next year, the state will finance 10 clinics at a cost of $1 million.

"I want to assure the people of Texas I have no intention at this time of eliminating Texas Department of Health funding for school-based health clinics," Archer wrote.

Other Capital Highlights
■ Results of a recent Texas Department of Transportation poll show that only 10 percent of Texas drivers believe they are speeding when they drive 10 miles an hour or more above the speed limit. Fifty-five percent of the 500 licensed drivers polled admitted speeding most or all of the time.

■ Ima Smith, wife of former Gov. Preston Smith, who was governor from 1969 to 1973, died Aug. 29 at age 86, after a long battle with Alzheimer's disease. She was buried in the Texas State Cemetery on Sept. 1.

■ Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, died Aug. 30 at his Rockdale home. An 11-year lawmaker, Kubiak was head of a House Appropriations Subcommittee monitoring state agencies' efforts to avoid computer problems associated with the "year 2000 glitch."

■ Gov. George W. Bush leads Democratic challenger Garry Mauro, 67 percent to 20 percent, the latest Texas Poll reveals. The telephone poll of 1,004 adults was conducted Aug. 12-27 by the University of Texas Office of Survey Research for Scripps Howard media company.

■ Texas handgun permits are now valid in Louisiana, Col. Dudley Thomas, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety said last week. Texas has similar "reciprocity agreements" with Oklahoma and Arkansas and is working to establish more.

Food for thought

Gird your minds for action, keep sober in spirit, fix your hope completely on the grace to be brought to you at the revelation of Jesus Christ (1 Peter 1:13).

Since we came into this world physically alive but spiritually dead, we had neither the presence of God in our lives nor the knowledge of His will. Our minds were programmed to live independently of Him. We were mentally conformed to this world.

When we became Christians, nobody pushed the clear button in our preprogrammed minds. Even as Christians we can still allow our minds to be programmed by the world. So what must we do?

First, "Do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind" (Romans 12:1). How do you renew your mind? By filling it with God's Word.

Second, Peter directs us to prepare our minds for action (1 Peter 1:13). Do away with fruitless fantasy. To imagine yourself doing things without ever doing anything is dangerous. But if you can mentally prepare yourself in advance to obey the truth, you can motivate yourself toward productive living—as long as you follow through by doing what you imagine.

Third, take every thought captive in obedience to Christ (2 Corinthians 10:5). Practice threshold thinking. Evaluate every thought by the truth, and don't let your mind entertain thoughts contrary to the will of God.

Fourth, turn to God. When your commitment to do the will of God is being challenged by thoughts from the world, the flesh, or the devil, bring it to God in prayer (Philippians 4:6). By doing so you are acknowledging God and exposing your thoughts to His truth. Your double-mindedness will dissolve "and the peace of God...shall guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 4:7).

Fifth, assume your responsibility to think. "Finally, brethren, whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is of good repute, if there is any excellence and if anything worthy of praise, let your mind dwell on these things" (Philippians 4:8).

Lord, I commit myself to practice these steps daily in order to bring my mind under Your control.

From The Inside Out

By Mary Kaigler

I'm sure that Minnie Hearn of Rochester had a good day Sunday when her Dallas Cowboys soundly won their season opener game with Arizona. No one comes away from visiting with her without knowing that she loves to watch the game, especially when the Cowboys are playing.

Her interest and knowledge about them is not what we ordinarily expect of someone who is over hundred years old. But, I've learned that such stereotyped thinking as that does a disservice to the ability and potential of a lot of young-in-heart yet not-so-young-in-years loyal fans who now have the time to enjoy the game. I saw this in my own Dad when he was pushing the century mark.

As a young man, working and raising a family, trying to make all the ends meet for all of us, he didn't take the luxury of time off to follow sports and he never developed an interest in them. The whole time we were going through school in Panhandle he and Mama never attended a single one of my basketball games or my brother Jack's football games.

In later years after moving his business to Brownwood, he became an avid fan of the Brownwood Lions. Of course, given Coach Gordon Woods continued record for developing winning football teams for Brownwood, it was easy to get caught up in the local games. I was absolutely amazed when he and Mama began to go to all the home games, carrying their little old Indian blanket and new stadium pillows. Although I had to "work" on myself a little about it, (even if I was in my late thirties by that time), I was glad for them in their later years to at last find something beyond work and church to really enjoy just for the fun.

For the out of town games, Dad devised a unique way to follow the game via the radio. Typically methodical and analytical, he worked up a lap sized wooden board playing field, complete with yard lines and side lines and goal posts marked off to scale. Using pennies for the teams, he lined them up and moved them, keeping up with the team's locations, yards gained, yard needed, out of bounds, etc., according to the radio announcer's reports.

Moving the penny "teams" around like a chess or checkers game, he lived the game, play by play, becoming as excited as if he were there.

All of the grandkids and local in-laws knew about his penny board and liked to come over to "see" the games with him. When he closed his household at age 91 to come here to be with us, one of the questions was "who is going to get Herbie's football board?"

Although he had to give up following the Brownwood Lions, Sunday afternoon and Monday nights were still set aside for watching pro football. The Cowboys were his unquestioned favorites, he cheered for them, coached them and critiqued the umpire's decisions even though he couldn't hear most of the announcer's comments. It was a game just to see him so lost in the joy that only a true football fan can experience.

Thinking of Dad's late life interest and love of the sport and Minnie Hearn's continued love of the Cowboys, makes me think we'd all be lucky to find something so absorbing and stimulating to us when we get their age. I'm working on it. However, as Minnie said last week, "If the Cowboys don't improve I just may have to quit watching them." It seems that even the most loyal of fans still want to be associated with a winner. I think it's the American way, no matter how old you are.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX INCREASE

The City of Haskell will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll by 13 percent. Your individual taxes may increase or decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to change in taxable value of all other property and the tax rate that is adopted.

The public hearing will be held on September 17, 1998 at 5:30 p.m. at Haskell City Hall.

FOR the proposal: Ruby Turner, Don Kretchmer, Fred Hernandez, Sue Medford, Doris Jean McMeans

AGAINST the proposal:
PRESENT and not voting: Ken Lane, Mayor
ABSENT:

The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year	This Year
Average residence homestead value	$28,585	$28,905
General exemptions available (amount available on the average homestead, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	$ 0	$ 0
Average taxable value	$28,585	$28,905
Tax rate	.3140	.3483
Tax	$89.76	$100.68

Under this proposal, taxes on the average homestead would increase by $10.92 or 12 percent compared with last year's taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would increase by $.0343 per $100 of taxable value or 11 percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

Academic standards in Texas make the grade

In a recent report from the Texas Association of School Boards (TASB) in Austin, academic standards in Texas make the grade. According to a Fordham Foundation report titled "The State of State Standards", Texas ranked first in the nation among states that have written academic standards in five major subject areas; geography, history, English, mathematics, and science.

When states with partially completed standards are considered, only Arizona outranked Texas. Arizona has completed standards in only three of the five subject areas. California, which has completed four, tied with Texas for second.

Of the 50 states and the District of Columbia, only Texas, Arizona and California scored a B overall.

No state received an A. Fifteen were graded C, twenty-one ranked D, nine ranked F, and three have not developed standards in any of the five areas.

"Texas is ahead of other states in the area of accountability," said David Sublasky, TASB president from Fabens ISD. "and the Fordham Foundation's report underlines the fact that the Texas public education system has become a role model for the nation."

Among other Fordham findings: *Texas scored an A on its geography standards. Only Colorado and Indiana scored as high.

*Texas scored a B on its history standards. Only Virginia scored higher with an A, and only California and Massachusetts scored B's.

*Texas scored a B on its English standards. Only Massachusetts scored higher with an A, and only Arizona, Virginia, Georgia and Illinois scored B's.

*Texas scored a B on its math standards. Only California, North Carolina and Ohio scored an A.

*Texas' lowest ranking came on its science standards, scoring a C. Six states scored A's, and seven scored B's.

Based in Washington D. C., the Fordham Foundation sponsors research, publication, and action projects in education reform at the national level, with its major focus being on the renewal of elementary and secondary education.

Texas developed the draft of its academic standards, Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS), over the course of 1995 and 1996.

The review processes included distribution to all campuses and school districts, publication on the world web, and public outreach by regional education service centers through town meetings and public hearings. The State Board of Education (SBOE) adopted the TEKS in July 1997. Full implementation in the classroom begins with the 1998-99 school year.

Mule Creek Angus bull listed in report

Mule Creek Angus, Haskell, owns one bull listed in the 1998 Fall Sire Evaluation Report published by the American Angus Association headquartered in St. Joseph, Missouri. Issued in both the spring and fall, the new report features the latest performance information available on more than 5,527 sires.

"The American Angus Association has the most complete and comprehensive beef cattle database in the world," says John Crouch, American Angus Association director of performance programs. "Of the sires listed in the main report, 51 percent have expected progeny differences (EPDs) for carcass traits, which should assist cattlemen in choosing genetics that will produce a more consistent, higher quality beef product." ## Linda Shepard receives award

At the National Campus Ministries Seminar, Linda Speer Shepard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Speer of Haskell, was named recipient of the E. F. "Bessie" Woodward Memorial Award, given each year to a woman who has made outstanding contributions to campus ministry.

A 1961 graduate of Haskell High School, Linda Shepard and husband, Bob Shepard, live in Canyon.

In summing up Linda's lifelong ministry, David Lough, minister of the University Church of Christ, said, "Today many women are required to fill two jobs. Linda Shepard has done three: full-time wife and mother, full-time school teacher, and full-time campus minister." She works all day at school, attends devotionals at night, and through the years has entertained hundreds of students in her house. She has been available to many students.

This Week's Devotional Message: FAITH TEACHES RESPECT FOR A GRANDFATHER'S WISDOM

In this age of the ever-widening generation gap, in which youth is thoroughly convinced that it alone has all the answers to the world's ills and even a father often has trouble gaining the attention and respect of his children, a grandfather is that much farther removed from what they consider reality. However, we must realize that our grandparents could not possibly have lived long enough to be succeeded by two generations without accumulating a vast store of knowledge and gaining an enviable perspective on the mysteries of life itself. The faith you acquire at the Church of your choice will teach you to honor and respect your grandparents, because there is much of value that you can learn from them.

Emergency haying on CRP continues

Emergency haying on Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acreage will be continued through Sept. 15 in all Texas counties approved for emergency haying, according to Congressman Charlie Stenholm.

"Because soil moisture continues to be in short supply in many parts of Texas, I urged Secretary Glickman to extend the period for haying on CRP acres," said Stenholm. "With cattle herds continuing to be culled in record numbers, even limited relief such as this is helpful until Congress takes further action."

Producers within approved counties must request approval to hay eligible acreage and must obtain a modified conservation plan to include haying requirements. Participants must leave at least 50% of each field unhayed.

tender as any hog you could want to eat and I guess it was; they ate it all up."

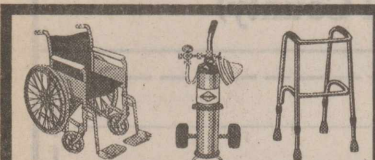

A long time member of the First Baptist Church of Rochester, Minnie says she contents herself in watching church on TV since falling on the steps some time back. "Most of my friends in my Sunday School class have already gone on and now I'm the oldest person living in Rochester."

Taking no medication except that needed for her blood pressure and not being presently under the care of a physician, she is remarkably alert to the world around her. Still aware of such things as how she looks, Minnie said of the picture made when she got her new lower plates, "I know I must have looked like a "booger" there in the dentist chair, but at this age I don't guess we're supposed to look pretty."

I assured this hardy-minded, positive-voiced lady, who has seen, experienced, coped and enjoyed a whole century of life, that she is pretty to me.

In her own little home and with her new lower plates, independent 100-year-old Minnie Hearn is looking forward to "biting right in" to the next century.

Cost of the ear tags is $3.00 and payment should be enclosed with the form.

All swine, barrows and gilts, will be validated. If the animals will be shown at the Haskell County Junior Livestock Show, or
