TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

HIGHLIGHTS

By Mike Cox

Whooping cranes numbers increase in Texas

AUSTIN—Turkeys (the edible variety, no political joke intended) are the bird on most folks' mind these days, but one other member of the avian species has been getting some attention.

The endangered whooping crane has begun showing up at its winter home on the coast and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is urging waterfowl hunters to be careful not to get that bird confused with its legal-to-hunt cousin, the sandhill crane.

Whooping cranes are protected and can't be shot. They are white with black wingtips. The smaller sandhill cranes are gray. (If you're a hunter, make sure you get this right: A mistake is illegal and expensive.)

Biologists in Canada have reported that somewhere between 180 and 190 of the big birds—they stand more than 4 feet tall and are the tallest in North America—left their breeding grounds for their annual migration to the Lone Star State in late September and early October. That's an increase from the 176 whooping cranes that wintered in Texas last year.

If you spot a whooping crane, call the Parks and Wildlife Department at 1-800-792-1112 or e-mail a report to lalinam@wimberley-tx.com.

One thing to be thankful for...

A lot of Texans don't seem to have much trouble coming up with a reason not to get a flu shot: "don't have the time," "it'll give you the flu," "I never get sick" and on and on.

Here's a new idea: Remember the last time you had the flu and how badly you felt. As Texas Health Commissioner Eduardo Sanchez put it recently, "Millions of people get a flu shot ever year. Millions more need

The vaccination is particularly recommended for persons over 50 (an increasingly large percentage of the population), nursing home residents, people with diabetes, people with asthma or other chronic respiratory conditions and those with heart or kidney troubles. And for the first time this year, public health officials also recommend the shot for infants 6 months to 23 months.

To put the importance of the shots into perspective, every year about 8,000 Texans end up in the hospital with a bad case of the flu. In addition, flu or its complications kills 1,500 in Texas annually.

Finally, something to look forward to if you have not had your shot yet: The peak season for flu is during January and February.

West Nile update...

Unfortunately, there's no shot to prevent West Nile virus. The virus has now been identified in 195 of Texas' 254 counties, up from 176 in the previous survey.

Of the cases reported in Texas, 165 have been in humans, the Department of Health reports. Of the 165 human cases 23 became ill in July, 76 in August, 50 in September and 16 in October.

There have been eight deaths four from Harris County and one each from Tarrant, Randall, Hood and Dallas counties.

Looking ahead to college...

The Comptroller's office has opened a new enrollment period for the Texas Guaranteed Tuition Plan.

Under the plan, parents can fix their children's future college tuition costs and other required fees at current prices, and pay the amount in monthly installments to lessen the shock many parents experience when their kids graduate from high school and head to the proverbial ivy-cov-

From The Inside Out

By Mary Kaigler

Who is this Mystery Reader? I was born in the Midway Community, between Rule and I have been married for 44 years and have 3 children. I attended school at Rochester and Rule.

No one knows that I once worked for Wooten Grocery Company in Stamford.

My favorite TV show is Match Game.

My favorite song is "The Old Rugged Cross Makes the Difference."

I like to read, crochet, shop, watch the Game Show Network, sing in the choir, cook, E-mail, square dance and travel to various places.

The last book I read was The Brethren, by John Grisham. I am now reading Their Mysterious Ways, compiled by Phyllis Hobe.

Update

Last week's Mystery Free Press Reader was Arch Mayfield, PhD, of Plainview, who graduated from Weinert High School in 1966.

The son of Lavern and the late John Mayfield, he left Haskell County to attend college, and has been in Plainview since 1973. He is now in his 31st year of teaching English at Wayland Baptist College, where he also serves as Chair of the Division of Language and Literature.

His wife, Eddy Lou, is from the Panhandle and Perryton area, where her parents still reside.

During his years at Wayland, Dr. Mayfield has had the opportunity to do several travel studies for the college, including two to Great Britain, Scotland and Wales, and one to New England. He is looking forward to others in future years.

He and his wife attend Second Baptist Church in Lubbock, where he is a deacon. He also is director of the Panhandle Writers' Workshop in Plainview.

One of the things he enjoys when coming back to visit his mother in Weinert is shopping in the local Haskell stores.

A Thought For the Week

as we begin to look back at a year now almost spent and ahead to what we will do and be in the new year that is just around the corner, we might consider the following thoughts written by Dwight H. Judy.

you have been given? We must ask that question afresh each day, each year. Where will you focus the potential for creative action that is yours? Those are the questions before the man and woman of our time. I think we do not improve on the answer given by Isaiah twentyfour hundred years ago, 'Here am I, Lord, send me.

"Send me into the village square, send me into the schools, send me into the day camps for children, send me into the task of creating beauty, send me into the business world to struggle for the values I hold dear, send me into the earth as her son, to love her and to cherish her. Send me to help create the 'thousand healths and hidden isles' not even yet imagined. Then I will know that I have lived and loved well with this precious gift of life that has been given to me.'

Perhaps at this time of the year,

by Cindy McCulloch Haskell Elem. Counselor

You are your children's guiding star. Everyone knows the importance of helping your child succeed. Haskell Elementary would like for you to encourage your children at a very early age. Guide your children to college. College is possible and affordable. Financial aid is available for everyone. Success in college means a world of opportunities. It's never too early to start planning! Here are some tips to start or continue a college legacy in your family:

SBA workshop set

An "SBA Financing and Informational Workshop," will be held Wed., Dec. 11, at the Abilene Small Business Development Center, 500 Chestnut, Suite 601, Abilene, from 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. The workshop is sponsored by the Texas Tech University Small Business Development Center at Abilene and the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA).

Subjects for the evening workshop include: "Financing Options: All You Should Know." Advance registration is encouraged due to limited seating, however there is no charge for the workshop.

Information will be available on what a business owner should have before applying for a loan, what the banker is looking for, information needed in a business plan, and the programs and services available from the Small Business Administration. This is an opportunity for small business owners and prospective business owners to learn about financing options and the SBA Guaranty Loan Program.

Reasonable arrangements for persons with disabilities will be made, if requested in advance.

For more information or registration call the TTU SBDC, at 915-670-0300 or SBA at 806-472-7462, extension 236 or 1-800-676-

PARENTS VISIT SCHOOL-Parents of Haskell Elementary and Secondary students enjoy pie and cobbler served to them after a visit with their child's teacher and picking up report cards during Parents in Education (P.I.E.) Night at the schools.

Parents of Haskell Elementary and Secondary students recently attended Parents in Education (P.I.E.) Nights at the schools.

On Nov. 13, elementary parents were invited to come to the school to pick up their student's report card and visit with the child's teachers. The parents were invited to the cafeteria to enjoy some delicious pie and cobbler, where a parent information meeting followed.

Parents of secondary students were invited to come the school on Mon., Nov. 18, to get their child's report card and meet with their teachers. Pic and cobbler were served in the foyer of the auditorium, with a parent information meeting following in the auditorium.

At both meetings, the principals welcomed all parents to the school and thanked them for taking time from their busy schedules to be a part of their child's education. A presentation was made about the EXCEL program, which is being implemented this year. This exciting program provides children with leadership skills and teaches children to be self-governing and responsible for their own actions. As a part of this program, teachers personally greet each student daily with a handshake. Each class writes their own social contract, which is used to avoid and settle conflicts that might come up in the classroom. Parents were encouraged to ask their child about the

The school counselors spoke about the differences between the TAAS test and the new state TAKS test. Parents were given examples of test questions from previous years to demonstrate how the level of difficulty has increased over the years. Copies of released TAAS tests were made available for parents to take home and study so they might be more aware of the types of things their children are being taught. Counselors also discussed: the Migrant program and the benefits available to those students; the Reading Proficiency Test in English and services provided to ESL students; the Gifted & Talented Program and that anyone could make nominations to this program at any time.

An explanation was given at both campuses about School-wide Title I Programs. The elementary school is already a school-wide Title I campus. This means that the federal funds received by the school can be used to benefit every student in the school, not just a select few. The secondary campus is currently in the process of becoming a school-wide Title I campus. It was explained that this would not bring any more funds into the school district, but would affect how those funds could be used. Each campus is beginning a new parent volunteer program. Volunteer survey forms were distributed and completed by interested parents. Skills of those who volunteered would be matched to the needs expressed by the teachers throughout the year. It was noted that volunteer programs benefited everyone involved. The schools receive free labor and a greater confidence level from parents who volunteer. The parents find that they are more informed about their child's activities at schools. And, volunteering on campus communicates to a child that the parent cares about what goes on at the school.

Use care with natural gas

Natural gas is safe and dependable. But, like with anything else, precautions should be taken to avoid unsafe situations with heating and other household equipment that uses natural gas.

The following gas safety tips may help you stay warm and safe at home during the cold months ahead:

Have a certified heating and air conditioning contractor check heating equipment before each heating season. Only qualified service people should install and maintain all gas appliances.

All gas appliances should produce a blue flame when lit. Call a certified heating and air conditioning contractor if the flame is red or yellow. A color other than blue is a sign of improper burning, which could produce excessive carbon

If an appliance pilot light should go out, turn off the gas. Allow several minutes for gas to dissipate before attempting to re-light it.

When re-lighting, hold the lit match close to the opening. Then slowly turn on the gas.

Never use an oven or range burner to heat a room. Make sure the vent is operating properly on a space heater. For space heaters not equipped with a vent or oxygen cut-off switch, slightly open a window to provide ventilation. Be sure to turn it off before going to bed.

Keep space heater away from furniture, draperies and other combustible materials.

If you have a gas water heater in the garage, be sure it is installed 18 inches above the floor.

Never store or use, paint, gasoline, near a gas appliance with a pilot light or open flame.

If you smell gas in your house, leave immediately. do not touch any electrical switch, don't strike a match rags or other combustible materials or do anything that might cause a spark. Go to a neighbor's home, and call the gas company. Don't call from your home because some telephones use a small amount of electricity that may produce a spark.

TAX PLANNING

Written By Gerald Rodgers, CPA

DO TAX PLANNING BEFORE YOU BUY A VEHICLE

You've seen the ads. Dealer incentives, no-interest loans, and rebates are aimed at creating new car demand. Before you jump on the buying bandwagon, it may be worthwhile to do some tax planning. Recent tax law changes may impact your buying decisions.

Depreciation. Two tax law changes make it possible to write off the cost of a new business car more quickly. One change lets you claim an extra 30% bonus depreciation for new cars. Also, the first-year depreciation limit for most business cars increased from $3,060 to $7,660. Both changes apply to cars bought after September 10, 2001. Still available is the so-called Section 179 deduction under which you may be able to immediately deduct a limited amount of the car's cost.

Weight limits. Business vehicles weighing over 6,000 pounds are not subject to the first-year depreciation limit. Many full-size SUVs meet this qualification. Without the depreciation limitations, you may be able to deduct up to $24,000 of the vehicle's cost for a 2002 purchase. The limit increases to $25,000 for 2003. That's in addition to the regular depreciation deduction and the new 30% bonus depreciation deduc-

Luxury tax. High-end vehicles are assessed a luxury tax at the time of purchase. For 2002, the luxury tax decreased from 4% of the purchase price in excess of $38,000 to 3% of the amount over $40,000. The deal gets even better in 2003, when the tax is scheduled to expire

Hybrid cars. Looking to make an environment-friendly car purchase? Consider a hybrid gas/electric vehicle. Buyers of certified hybrid cars can deduct up to $2,000 as an above-the-line deduction. That means you don't have to itemize deductions to get this tax break. Before you buy, get the details about this deduction.

At today's prices, buying a new car is a major financial decision for most people. Call us if you'd like to discuss the tax and financial aspects before you sign on the bottom line.
