HASKELL SINGING SCHOOL—Posing together for a school picture are one hundred sixty-three students from nine states who attended the 39th annual Haskell Singing School conducted by the Haskell Church of Christ, July 11-16. The group performed a closing program Friday evening to showcase the skills they learned during the week of intense training classes focusing on music, singing, song writing and song leading, all taught and performed a capella.

Local singing school draws 163 students

The 39th annual Haskell Singing School conducted by the Haskell Church of Christ the week of July 11-16 drew 163 students from Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Alabama, Wyoming, Georgia, Colorado and Tennessee.

Directing the school again this year was Tom Chapin. Instructors were Eugene Chapin, Thomas Chapin, Bob Connel, John Connel, Bill Lyon and Joe Chase.

Based on the New Testament admonition to "sing and make melody in your hearts," the school is built on the hope and expectation of offering training that will help students of all ages to worship God better, improve their individual skills and be able to go back home to help their congregation with their singing.

The school is for anyone over the age of ten who wants to sing, learn song leading or more about a cappella singing.

Students began arriving on Sunday evening and each was met by their host family who provided lodging, breakfast and supper during the week. Some visiting families who wished to stay together made reservations in the local RV park and camping area.

The morning schedule began at 8:45 with students assembling for a devotional. After this, warm-up exercises for the voice were conducted. Students then broke up into various groups, based on their musical background. These groups then moved into various classrooms for their classes. Class subjects included rudiments of music, song leading, sight reading, song writing, hymn appreciation, music theory, voice and harmony.

After a lunch served in the church gym, classes resumed and continued until 4:00 p.m., when students were dismissed to their host families for supper and afternoon recreation.

Evening activities beginning at 7:30 included worship, rehearsals, devotionals, Bible classes and preparations for the closing program.

During the week, several breaks were planned for fun activities and to encourage fellowship.

A special program featuring the students was presented Friday evening for visitors and families.

Sponsored by the local Church of Christ since 1965, the school is under the oversight of the church elders.

The school has successfully continued to focus on preparing students to enrich themselves and make their worship more meaningful through singing, all taught and performed a cappella.

Brett Anderson is the evangelist at the local church. Church secretary, Charlotte Peiser, is the school's registrar.

Alexander descendents hold reunion

The annual reunion of the George and Harriet Alexander family, longtime residents of Weinert, was held July 16-18 at the Circle S Ranch, hosted by a grandson, Jacky and Sandra Sanders.

Over one hundred descendents attended the reunion, which began years ago as a gathering to celebrate the birthday of the father and grandfather of the Alexander siblings, to build stronger family ties and provide a time to visit those members not seen throughout the year.

Organizers helping with the work of planning the reunion were Troy and Jo Blakely of Micanopy, Florida, who print and send out the invitations each year.

The three day event was filled with a variety of activities, including washer pitching, watermelon eating, singing, stick horse riding, auction and visiting.

George and Harriet (Lovell) Alexander had ten children, nine of whom lived to have families of their own. They were: Minerva Touchstone, Richard Alexander, Nellie Rinehart, Washington Alexander, Sallie Sanders, Lola Cowley, J. T. Alexander, Albert Alexander and Melba Kim, who was the only living child unable to attend.

Special visitors attending included the oldest family member, Eddie Sanders of Weinert, his son and family, Kenneth and Brenda Sanders of Weinert and Kreig Sanders of Munday.

Andy Sanders of Cross Plains and Jeannie Whittier of Gorman were auctioneers for the sale of handmade and antique gifts held each year to defray the costs of the reunion.

The trophy for washer pitching was won by Travis Sanders of Coleman and J. C. Alexander of Vanita, Oregon. The junior team trophy was won by Tyler Sanders of Abilene, grandson of Rocky Sanders.

Descendents of the oldest child, Minerva Touchstone, attending were Troy Wayne and Jo Blakely.

Descendents of Richard Alexander attending were two daughters, Frances Babbitt and husband, Bill of Gorman; Edith Ross of Midland; grandchildren Jeannie Whittier of Gorman, Chan and Gloria Alexander of Texarkana, son of Junior Alexander; Mr. and Mrs. Jeremy Sanders and daughter Corley of Stephenville; Zach Sanders and Wendy Smith of Gorman; Jason Turner of Aledo; Jennifer Manley of Weatherford.

Washington Alexander descendents attending were: children

Thomas and Sue Alexander of San Antonio; Evelyn Ellington of Muleshoe; J. C. Alexander of Venita, Oregon; grandchildren Lisa Beck of Decula, Georgia; Roger and Brianna Broadbeck, Angel and Johnny of San Antonio; Carol Alexander, Elizabeth, Lacy and Katie Alexander of San Antonio; Johnny and Julie Alexander of Van Orney; Terry and Dianne Alexander of Baird; George Alexander's children Jamie, Genee and Jessica Alexander of Saginaw; Georgia Alexander, Allen DeFelice and Jeremiah DeFelice of Granite Shoals; and Kim Pevey of San Antonio.

Nellie (Alexander) Rinehart descendant attending was a daughter, June Parr of Phoenix, Arizona.

Sallie (Alexander) Sanders descendents attending were Lona Mae Phelps, Kenneth and Elaine Campbell, all of Haskell; Travis and Wilma Sanders of Coleman; Andrew Sanders and children Rickey and Netha Carrouth, Renetha and A. J., Andra Jackson, Ricky, Tina, Megan and Austin Thomas, all of Cross Plains; Martha, Bill and Loretta Maupin, Susan, Hank and Shawn Ray of Odessa; B. D. and Marie Kirkland of Fort Worth; Walter and Sue Cox of Omaha; Jacky, Sandra and Jaclyn, Ricky, Shana and Shambry of Weatherford; Rex, Mandy, Abigail and Robert Sanders of Aledo; Scarlet Cole and children, Teresa, Johnny, Scarlet Dianne, Shawna and David of Seguin; Rocky Sanders and son Shawn, Kathy, Alexis and Tyler of Abilene.

Lola (Alexander) Cowley descendents attending were Rocky and Lynn Cowley of Lueders; Charles and Julie Pittman of Scotland; David, Marlene, Matthew and Kathryn of Scotland.

J. T. Alexander descendents attending were J. W. Alexander of Anna; his son, Terry Alexander of McKinney; and daughter Charlene and Bill Harmon of Eagle Lake.

None of the descendents of Albert Alexander or Melba Kim were present this year.

Music and singing was presented by Lisa Beck, Carol, Elizabeth, Lacy and Katie Alexander. Also, both of the Terry Alexanders performed on guitar and piano.

The next reunion of the family will be held the third weekend of July, 2005, at the Circle S Ranch.

Six arrests made for thefts of anhydrous ammonia

Haskell County Sheriff David Halliburton has reported that a total of six arrests were made in June for thefts of anhydrous ammonia.

Chief Deputy Winston Stephens caught two subjects in the area of the Baker farms and charged them with possession of criminal instruments. A male and a female were taken into custody.

A few days later, Chief Deputy Stephens watched a vehicle go to the Baker farms and leave. After a short chase, and with backup from Knox County, Knox City Police Dept., Munday Police Dept., Officer Mathew Cunningham and Sheriff Halliburton, one male and one female were taken into custody for possession of a certain chemical with intent to manufacture.

A few nights later, Sheriff Halliburton and Chief Deputy Stephens observed a vehicle in the area of the McGuire farms. As the vehicle left, Deputy Stephens attempted to stop it, and after a short chase, two male subjects were taken into custody for possession of a certain chemical to manufacture. All of these defendants were from out of the county; four from Taylor County and two from Clay County.

On the night of July 13, Officers Bill Glass, and Cunningham, Deputy Joe Aleman and Sheriff Halliburton ran a search warrant on a residence in Haskell. This resulted in taking two females into custody for possession of drug paraphernalia, possession of methamphetamine and marijuana. These two subjects were transported to Haskell County Jail.

In the early morning hours of July 14, another search warrant was run on another residence in Haskell by Officers Glass and Cunningham, Deputies Stephens and Aleman, Sheriff Halliburton and Constable Kim Bassett. Two defendants were taken into custody, one male, one female. They were charged with possession of crack cocaine in a drug free zone.

Sheriff Halliburton again thanked the concerned citizens of Haskell County for their help. In the last two months, several defendants have pled guilty and been sentenced to jail time. Some have been put on probation. Those who got jail time have been sent to the Texas Department of Corrections to serve their time.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

State Capital

HIGHLIGHTS

By Mike Cox

New road pitch targets Fort Hood

AUSTIN—Texas has made a pitch to the Defense Department offering to come up with $20 million for highway improvements on roadways connecting with Fort Hood if the military houses more troops at the Central Texas Army post.

The thinking is that Fort Hood easily could absorb any troops withdrawn from overseas posts. The same theory holds for Fort Bliss at El Paso, which has plenty of space for additional troops.

A San Antonio task force has made a pitch in Washington for Congress to delay a planned round of military base closures until 2007.

The two-year postponement effort will be hashed out in a joint conference committee.

While a delay still seems iffy, both Texas senators have called for the Defense Department to consider U.S. facilities in foreign countries before looking at domestic installations.

Since 1988, the military has shut down 97 bases in the U.S. The current planned 2005 round of cuts could exceed that number.

In fact, Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld has said he wants a 24 percent reduction in U.S. military infrastructure. If that happens, he has said, by 2011, when all the closures would be complete, the nation would realize $8 billion a year in savings.

Wherefore wi-fi...

Texans have a growing number of places across the state where they can take advantage of free wireless Internet access and view e-mail, check the weather, hear downtown music or just surf the Net.

In Austin, the Capitol is a wi-fi area. In Northwest Texas, two safety rest areas operated by the Texas Department of Transportation have free wireless Internet service.

And TxDOT is currently reviewing proposals from several companies who have submitted plans to provide free wireless Internet access at all of the department's 84 safety rest areas across the state. In addition, the service will be available at the state's 12 travel information centers.

Summer TAKS grades improve

Passing rates on the third-grade state reading test continued to climb with about 97 percent of students mastering the English version of the test by their third attempt.

About 94 percent of the students who took the Texas Assessment of Knowledge and Skills (TAKS) reading test in Spanish also passed.

The most recent test was given on June 29.

Beginning with the 2004-05 school year, fifth-grade students must pass both the reading and math TAKS test in order to be promoted to sixth grade.

Poll gives Gov. 40% approval

If Gov. Rick Perry and Comptroller Carole Keeton Strayhorn were running for governor this week, Strayhorn could make an interesting claim: She is less disliked by voters than he is.

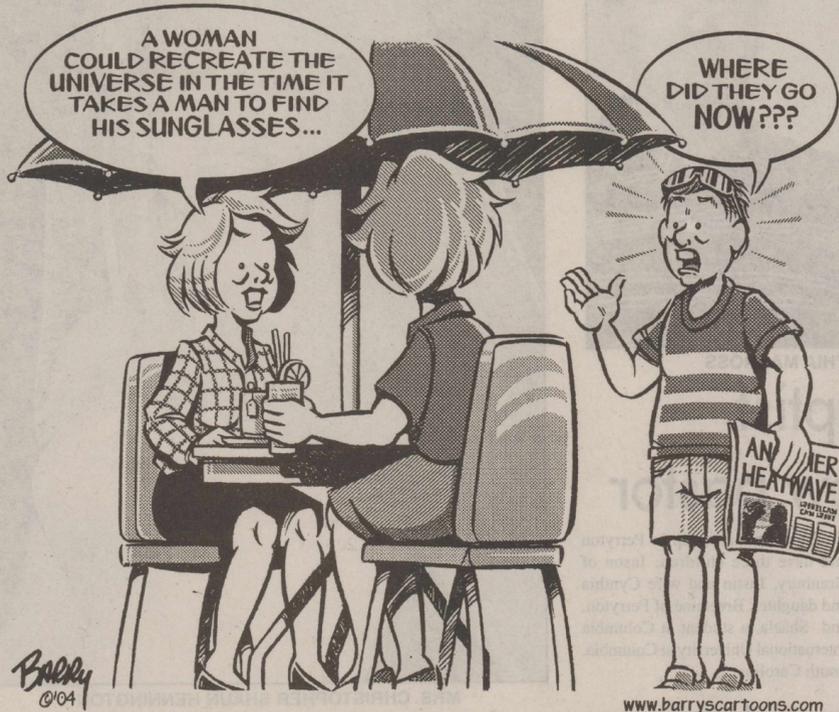

Poll numbers in Austin show 40 percent of Texans think the incumbent governor is doing a good job while 35.1 percent think just the opposite.

For Strayhorn, Perry's unannounced but likely opponent, the numbers were 40.6 percent positive and 11.9 percent negative.

The gubernatorial election, of course, is not until spring 2006.

Some other numbers released last week are arguably much more important: The governor's campaign, Texans for Rick Perry, reported $3.2 million in campaign contributions for the first half of the year. That raised the size of his campaign war chest to $5.1 million.

Strayhorn reported $1.17 million in campaign donations during the first six months of the year for a total $3.6 million available for whatever her future political intentions are.

From The Inside Out

By Mary Kaigler

Who is this Mystery Reader?

I was born in Abilene. I have been married 42 years and have two children.

I attended Paint Creek High School and Hardin-Simmons University.

No one knows that I once sat on the curb and pretended to be a blind beggar at the Texas State Fair.

My favorite TV shows are sports events, especially baseball and football.

My favorite type of music is Christian classical.

My favorite song is "Great is Thy Faithfulness."

For pastimes I like to try new recipes, read, scrapbook and play with grandchildren.

My favorite reading material is historical novels.

My favorite meal is Mexican food. My favorite place in Texas is the Hill Country, taking pictures of bluebonnets.

My favorite vacation spot in the world is Denali National Park in Alaska.

My best quality is hospitality. I'm a 'people' person. I always enjoy company. My worst quality is procrastination.

I hate it when people are pretentious. Just be who you really are, don't try to put on 'airs.'

The person from history I'd most like to talk with is Robert E. Lee.

For me, the best thing about Haskell is the small town, friendly folks who are ready to help and encourage one another.

Who am I? Watch next week for the answer.

Update

Last week's Mystery Reader was Virginia Palmer of Plainview, who was born in Sulphur, Oklahoma when her father and mother, A. H. and Bessie Hutchens of Rule went there so that Bessie could be with her mother for the birth of their child. Young Virginia and her mother returned to Haskell when the new baby was a month old.

After her schooling at Jud and Rule, Virginia attended Tarleton State and the University of Houston.

Living in Houston with her husband to whom she was married 32 years, she became interested in flying and got her pilot's license in 1965. The couple both flew their plane and she served as the first woman president of the Texas Flying Farmers. As members of the International Flying Farmers, they attended the yearly meeting in Canada. In 1968, Virginia was the reigning 'Texas Flying Farmers Queen' at the meeting in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, which was covered by a young newspaper reporter sent out to get the story. Virginia took the young woman reporter up for her first private plane ride, and it turned out to be quite a story.

After 29 years in Houston, Virginia took early retirement from Atlantic Richfield, and single by then, in 1980 moved back to Haskell, where within one day of her retirement in Houston, she went to work at the Haskell National Bank, staying for the next four years.

"I was so thrilled to move back to Haskell from Houston, with its climate, crime rate and traffic," she said.

She met Plainview farmer, Emmet Palmer, after flying to a convention in Dayton, Ohio, and deciding to stop back by Plainview to visit a former friend who introduced them. They married in 1984, she quit flying and moved to Plainview. Until 1995 when Emmet passed away, the two enjoyed traveling by car to Oregon, Colorado, Arizona and California.

In 1997, Virginia married Lawrence Simpson of San Angelo, whom she re-met at a Jud and Rule high school reunion. They live in Plainview and stay busy seeing after their land. Virginia's family includes six stepchildren, Lawrence's two children and Emmet's four children.

In Plainview, she works as a volunteer at the hospital and the Auxiliary Shop, and is active in the First Baptist Church. She belongs to the women's division of the Chamber of Commerce, and has served as its secretary.

Virginia says the person from history she would most like to talk with is the American aviatrix, Amelia Earhart, the first woman to fly the Atlantic, and who was mysteriously lost on a flight from New Guinea to Howland Island in the Pacific Ocean, in July, 1937.

"I'd like to find out what really happened on that last trip Earhart made," Virginia said. "I'd like to know if some equipment was left behind."

Not getting back to Haskell as often as she'd like, Virginia said she has found that retiring to become a farmer is an expensive 'hobby' in resources and in time.

"I still miss the pleasure it was to shop for clothes in Haskell, and to be treated so wonderfully by the friendly store owners and sales people there. You don't find that in every situation," she said.

Garden checklist for July and August

by Brandon Anderson

Haskell Co. Extension Agent

•Caladiums require plenty of water at this time of year if they are to remain lush and active until fall. Fertilize with 21-0-0 at the rate of one-third to one-half pound per 100 square feet of bed area, and water thoroughly.

•Prune out dead or diseased wood from trees and shrubs. Hold off on major pruning from now until midwinter. Severe pruning at this time will only stimulate tender new growth prior to frost.

•Sow seeds of snapdragons, dianthus, pansies, calendulas and other cool-season flowers in flats, or in well-prepared areas of the garden, for planting outside during mid-to-late fall.

•Plant bluebonnet and other spring wildflowers. They must germinate in late summer or early fall, develop good root systems, and be ready to grow in spring when the weather warms. Plant seed in well-prepared soil, one-half inch deep, and water thoroughly. Picking flowers frequently encourages most annuals and perennials to flower even more abundantly.

•It is time to divide spring-flowering perennials, such as iris, Shasta daisy, oxeye, gaillardia, cannas, day lilies, violets, liriopse, and ajuga.

•Make your selections and place orders for spring-flowering bulbs now so that they will arrive in time for planting in October and November.

•Don't allow plants with green fruit or berries to suffer from lack of moisture.

•A late-summer pruning of rosebushes can be beneficial. Prune out dead canes and any weak, brushy growth. Cut back tall, vigorous bushes to about 30 inches. After pruning, apply fertilizer, and water thoroughly. If a preventive disease-control program has been maintained, your rose bushes should be ready to provide an excellent crop of flowers this fall.

•It is not too late to set out another planting of many warm-season annuals, such as marigolds, zinnias, and periwinkles.

They will require extra attention for the first few weeks, but should provide you with color during late September, October and November.

•Establish a new compost pile to accommodate the fall leaf accumulation.

TEAM LEADERS—Area 4-H'ers attending the Teen Leadership Lab held June 23-25 at the Texas 4-H Center on Lake Brownwood, were: l-r, Kiel Rowan, Emery Dudensing, Robbyn Tribbey, Kellye Tidrow and Chambray Bartley. Dudensing was elected vice-president of the Rolling Plains District, 2004-5.

Dudensing elected VP of 4-H Rolling Plains District

by Jane Rowan

Haskell Co. Extension Agent
Emery Dudensing, son of Lynn Dale and Renee Dudensing of Sagerton, was recently elected to serve as vice president of the Rolling Plains District for the 2004-05 year.

The election took place during the annual 4-H Leadership Lab held June 23-25 at the Texas 4-H Center located on Lake Brownwood.

The election process involved submission of an application that dealt with 4-H activities and involvement, an interview and a speech before the voting delegates from the district.

Dudensing's duties will include planning and conducting district 4-H activities, speaking at various county and district 4-H events in the twenty-four county district and filling the role of president if the president is unable to do so. As district vice-president, he will also serve on the Texas State 4-H Council. He will receive intense leadership training to better prepare him for his newly elected duties.

Also attending the District 4-H Leadership Lab were: Chambray Bartley, Kellye Tidrow and Robbyn Tribbey, all of Haskell; and Kiel Rowan of O'Brien. These youth attended various leadership workshops and participated in team building activities.

Bartley and Rowan served as voting delegates to represent Haskell County during the leadership lab.

Need young-looking skin? Use sunblock

All sorts of creams and potions are available to make your skin look younger, but there's one nearly surefire trick for keeping your skin young-looking.

When you're shopping for skincare products, be sure to stop by the sunblock aisle. That's where dermatologists at UT Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas say you'll find one of the most effective anti-wrinkle treatments. Much of the skin's aging is caused by sun damage, when the sun's ultraviolet radiation damages the collagen that supports the skin. Wrinkles are the result.

If you start protecting your skin from the sun when you're young, you're likely to stay younger-looking for a longer time. If your skin is already sun-damaged, you can prevent further damage with sunblock.

Your skin is damaged by the sun whenever you're exposed to it, not just when you're at the beach or pool. It's best to make a habit out of putting on sunblock whenever you go outdoors. All the bits of sun you get when walking to your car, when sun comes through your car window or when you walk in and out of stores really do add up. Of course, when you'll be exposed to the sun for a long stretch of time, like at the beach, you need to take extra precautions, such as wearing a hat and reapplying sunblock frequently.

But doesn't a tan make you look young and healthy? It might, for a while, but you'll pay for that down the line when you don't look so young. Tanning beds aren't really a safe alternative. If you feel you must be tan to look good, use a self-tanner—and then put on sunblock.

TAX PLANNING

Written By
Gerald Rodgers, CPA

SHOULD YOUR BUSINESS OPERATE AS AN LLC?

You've beaten the odds. Your business has succeeded and your profits are growing. But you struggle with the uncertainty of whether you are operating under the right legal form. Should you incorporate? Form a partnership? Perhaps you should consider a form of business that has become very popular: the LLC.

Limited liability companies (LLCs) offer a flexible alternative to partnership and corporate legal forms. While partnerships provide a seamless pass-through of income and losses to partners, they offer little protection of personal assets from creditors. Corporations, on the other hand, provide asset protections, but income can be taxed at both the corporate and individual levels. LLCs make available the best of both worlds: asset protection with pass-through of income and losses direct to the owners.

LLCs are not the first form of business to allow this. S corporations are used by small, closely held entities to achieve the same goals. But LLCs are preferred under certain conditions. For example, income and losses in a LLC can be allocated to members disproportionately, thereby allowing for different ownership classes. S corporation income must be allocated to members based on ownership percentage. Also, unlike S corporations, LLC members can be individuals, trust, or any other type of entity. This may provide more options in estate planning.

In the real estate industry, LLCs often get the nod over S corporations because it may be easier to increase basis and allow for the deduction of losses.

Deciding on a legal form for your business is not easy. Each form has its advantages and disadvantages. The best first step is to sit down with your financial advisor and share your goals. The proper form of business can be the launching pad you need to reach the next level of success. For details or assistance, give us a call.

Words cannot express our true appreciation for all the love we have felt during Alice's stay in the hospital in Lubbock, Hendrick Rehab Hospital and back at home. The visits, flowers, cards and food have been wonderful! Thank you most, though, for your prayers for us. God is giving a good recovery and we are so grateful to Him and you.

Alice and Toby Yates and family

The family of Clariss Jones would like to express our sincere gratitude for the cards, flowers, prayers, visits, phone calls and love expressed for our beloved Mother. She is now perfect in mind, body and spirit. God truly blessed us by making her our mother and grandmother. We loved her and will miss her gentle spirit and wonderful smile. Her grandchildren loved their "Grannie" and she so loved them. Haskell will always be "home" in our hearts.

Two local business burglaries cleared with arrests

The Haskell Police Department has recently cleared some local burglaries made at Cecil's Meat Market and Johnnie's Game Room. Two juveniles and one adult male have been arrested in the case. Also cleared have been some forgeries and cases of credit card abuse.

Haskell Police Chief Tom Bassett helped in making a drug case in Stamford, when a search warrant was run and arrests were made for possession of cocaine.

The Haskell Police Dept. has made three felony assault arrests, one for stabbing and two for family violence.

State Trooper Johnny Josselet, Chief Bassett and Sheriff Halliburton assisted the Throckmorton County Sheriff and other agencies in a vehicle pursuit that started in Throckmorton County and went to Baylor County, Knox County, Haskell County and finally was stopped in southern Throckmorton County when the vehicle ran over spikes that deflated the tires. After abandoning the vehicle, the subject was caught when the tracking dogs from French Robinson Prison were brought in. One male was taken into custody and was charged with fleeing to evade with a motor vehicle. The subject was from Abilene.

A special thanks was expressed from the Sheriff's Office to the Haskell Volunteer Fire Department, Jeff Caparoon, Donald Cunningham and Chester Lamb for their assistance on July 3.

TASTY GIANTS—Genelle Weeks shows off two tomatoes grown in the garden she and her husband, Raymond, keep in Haskell. One tomato weighs 1 lb. 8 oz., the other 1 lb., 4 oz. She attributes the size to the bountiful rains received during the growing season.

Weathers Whys

Long Range Forecasting

Q: How accurate is long-range weather forecasting?

A: Weather forecasting has been around longer than you might imagine, says Kelsey Curtiss of Texas A&M University. "The U.S. government started weather forecasting in the 1870s when Congress established a National Weather Service," says Curtiss. "It was aimed primarily for military uses. The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) was established in 1970 and had under it a number of agencies, among them the National Weather Service. But the goal was still the same—trying to give an accurate prediction of weather forecasting. Weather forecasting is done to cover long ranges, such as a year or more, or sometimes a season, such as summer, or the kind we are most familiar with, the 4- or 5-day forecast. Meteorologists use various charts based on air currents, fronts, satellite images and other data to make their forecasts."

Q: So are these forecasts on target?

A: The answer is usually yes, says Curtiss. "On forecasts of within the next 24 hours, forecasts are usually very accurate. Forecasts made between 1-3 days are usually fairly good. But beyond 7 days or so, the accuracy rate tends to slip because factors that make up a forecast tend to change. So the shorter the time period, the more accurate the forecast. It's interesting to note that The Old Farmer's Almanac, one of the oldest publications in the country, makes up its weather forecasts about a year in advance and it claims to have an 80 percent accuracy rate. They use a 'secret' method of weather forecasting they say they've used for over 200 years."
