HOUSE PLAN No. 48

Planned To A Fine Point

We offer a lot in Farm and Ranch House Plan No. 5248, three comfortable size bedrooms with plenty of closet space, a large living room, a separate dining room, a nice kitchen with space for serving the family meals, a separate workroom, and good looks.

All of these things can be arranged in 1,600 square feet of heated floor area. There is no wasted space, no unnecessary turns or corners in the foundation or roof. By observing such simple economies as arranging all of the plumbing for the kitchen, bath, and workroom in one centralized area, providing a bearing partition down the center of the house to help support the roof, and reducing exterior features you can have a brick veneer home for the price of the ordinary siding. We suggest that you build the garage and workroom with wood siding for added economy, and very attractive contrast.

The casement windows, long overhanging eaves, brick veneer, and concrete slab foundation will be of great value in keeping upkeep costs at a minimum. Both the garage and workroom could be left off for those of you who do not have large quantities of milk, eggs, and other products that you handle through the kitchen area and who have a garage already built.

You will like the kitchen. It has 20 1/2 feet of counter space if you use a tabletop water heater; otherwise, it will have 18 1/2 feet. The small entranceway between the garage and workroom makes it convenient to get in from either side of the house or garage. This area could serve as a trap to keep flies out of the house. Simply close it in with a screen door on each side and use a third screen as you come into the workroom.

You can obtain blueprints for this The Muleshoe Journal Farm and Ranch House Plan No. 5248 and a handy list of materials by which you can figure your construction cost accurately. Send $1 to Building Editor, Farm and Ranch, Southern Agriculturist, Dept. L-36, Nashville, Tenn. Order by number, plan No. 5248.

Lubbock Fair On Television

LUBBOCK, Sept. 8 — On-the-spot television shows will be given three times daily at this year's Panhandle South Plains Fair, officials have announced. For the first time thousands of South Plains residents will have a week-long opportunity to see "live" television shows originating at the Fair grounds and also watch many of the top entertainers from Hollywood, New York and Chicago.

The TV cameras will be set up in the Merchants Building at the Fair and this will be the only place you can see the shows. The programs cannot be received over television sets in any homes in the area.

Fair officials said tentative plans have been made for the shows to be put on three times daily, in order that everyone attending the Fair can be on hand for this educational feature. According to this schedule the shows will be telecast from 11 a. m. until 1 p. m., 3 until 5:30 p. m. and 7 until 10:30 p. m. from September 29 through October 4.

Twelve of the 27 exhibitors in the Merchants Building will have television sets in operation during Fair week. All of these sets will carry the programs as they originate right there. With this many screens in use, Fair officials said, everyone coming in the building will be able to watch the programs.

RCA of Camden, N. J., will send five cameramen and engineers to Lubbock for the week to assure the crowds of top-notch pictures. Two "live" cameras for use in the Merchants Building and several other pieces of equipment will be on view.

The "live" cameras will be turned on the crowds at various times during the programs, so that the audience can "see themselves on television". Interviews with various people from the audience will also be taken.

Blueprints are adequate for any farm carpenter or for any farmer handy with tools.

Miss Nancy Everett, Mr. David Stovall Are Wed In Ceremony At Monument Lake

In a candlelight ceremony solemnized Sunday evening, Aug. 31, in the Monument Lake Methodist Church, Nancy Louise Everett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Everett, Goodland, and David Stovall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Stovall, Muleshoe, exchanged single-ring nuptials.

Rev. A. O. Grayson, pastor, read the service before a background formed by an array of ferns and palms and floor candles,abra holding white cathedral tapers. Family pews were marked with white satin bows and pink gladioli.

A piano prelude was played by Mrs. R. E. Everett, aunt of the bride, while the candles were lighted by Phil Davis and Kenneth Everett, cousin and brother of the bride. Mrs. Everett also accompanied Miss Margie Homsley, former classmate of the bride, as she sang, "Because" and "Always". The traditional wedding march was played as the processional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of chantilly lace over a gown designed with scalloped tulle yoke and a fitted bodice complimented by a gathered skirt of tulle over taffeta. She wore lace mitts and her chapel length veil was caught with seed pearls to a Juliet crown. Her bouquet was of white carnations on a white Bible with white satin streamers. For something old, she wore a strand of pearls, a gift from the groom, that belonged to his mother. Something new was a white linen handkerchief, a gift from Mrs. Stovall, something borrowed was earrings from her aunt, Mrs. Nolan Boyd of Abilene and something blue was blue garters, a gift of the matron of honor and maid of honor.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Archie Sowder, Goodland, matron of honor and Jeanette Kirk of Muleshoe, maid of honor. They were attired in blue net ballerina length gowns over taffeta, centered at the neck with white flowers and sweetheart hats.

They carried rhinestone studded hankies, gifts from the bride. Best man was Clifford Mardis and usher was Billy Joe Garner of Lubbock.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Everett was attired in a navy faille suit with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. Stovall, chose a gunmetal gabardine dress with navy accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was given in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's table was laid with a white linen cloth and centered with a traditional wedding cake. Miss Wanda Brown, cousin of the bride, presided at the cake service and Ann Cole and Gail Arnn alternated at the punch bowl. 200 guests were registered by Carolyn Kirk of Muleshoe.

For traveling, Mrs. Stovall chose a beige faille suit with brown and green accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Stovall graduated with honors from Three Way High School and has attended McMurry College, Abilene. Mr. Stovall is a graduate of Muleshoe High School and attended Texas Tech, Lubbock.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Brown, Wanda Maxine and Delores of Ropesville, Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Hart and family of Rogers, N. M., Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Everett and family of Bovina, Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Boyd and Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Davis, and Phil of Abilene, Mrs. Troy Skinner and Sammy of Clovis, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Starnes of Portales, Misses Margie, Barbara and Quennie Homsley of Lorraine, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Sherbert, Brownfield.

COLOR BY TECHNICOLOR

VALLEY THEATRE
SEPT. 23, 24, 25 & 26

QUO VADIS, THE STORY OF NERO'S RULING, Coming To Valley Theatre Four Days

Never in the history of motion pictures has a picture been brought to the screen with the breathtaking spectacle, scope, gigantic cast, color and pageantry as that presented in M.G.M.'s much-heralded Technicolor production of "Quo Vadis", with Robert Taylor, Deborah Kerr, Leo Genn and Peter Ustinov heading a cast of thousands.

The picture will show at the Valley Theatre here Sept. 23 thru the 26th.

Here we have the corrupt and extravagant imperial court of the Emperor Nero brought to life in scenes of staggering immensity, with its spectacles of thousands of triumphant warriors, led by Marcus Vinicius, making a triumphant entry into Rome along the garlanded Appian Way; the scenes of the populace saluting the vestal virgins as they pay homage to the 40 feet high statues of the pagan gods; the bacchanal in Nero's ornate palace as the Emperor holds a banquet in honor of the victorious Vinicius; the burning of Rome in spectacle scene never before equalled on the screen as they depict the terrified populace other in their frenzied attempt to flee the city; the racing chariots; the martyrdom of the Christians as they are torn apart by lions and burned on crosses; and the final gripping climax in which the Christian hostage, Lygia, is saved from being killed by a ferocious bull when her giant bodyguard, Ursus, kills the beast in a blood curdling show given by Nero in the huge Circus Maximus.

"Winning Team" Depicts Career Of Grover Alexander

At the time Grover Cleveland Alexander, the young Nebraska farm boy with an early penchant for hurling rocks at tin can targets, reported to his first major league training camp with the Phillies of 1910, little did the sports world realize then that this was to be the beginning of a new era in baseball; the breaking of old records, the setting of new. For here was the debut of a man soon to be hailed as Alex the Great, one of the most sensational pitching might in the history of Baseball.

Because a new generation of enthusiasts has sprung up since the days of the amazing Alex, his fame has taken on the form of a legend passed down through the years. Now for the first time, baseball and movie fans alike will have a chance to see the drama and background surrounding his fabulous career in "The Winning Team", Warner Bros. film which opens Sept. 14 at the Valley Theatre.

Alexander pitched more National League games than any other pitcher, 373. From 1911 to 1927, he had nine years in which he won 20 or more. Alex never had a no-hitter, but he pitched four one hitters in 1915 for another modern record. That same year he turned in 241 strikeouts. His earned run average of 1.22 was the National League record for pitchers working in 250 innings or more and that figure includes 90 shutouts, a lifetime record, and 16 in one season, an all-time major league mark.

IMPORTANCE OF LEGUMES

Now is the time to make plans for these legume plantings. It doesn't take a student of the soil to know that legumes properly fertilized and inoculated have excellent effects on the soil. Every farmer knows legumes are important in improving soil structure and condition.

Texas A & M agronomists depict the best soil structure as being crumbly or granular to allow for deep penetration by roots and water. Proper air circulation between the small particles of soil is also necessary.

and tight that very little water or air can penetrate it. Deep rooted legumes such as sweet clover and alfalfa on these "tight" soils can help to improve this fault. Legumes which add good organic matter and nitrogen to the soil content, but which do not necessarily open subsoils are vetch, winter peas, annual yellow sweet clover and crimson clover.

Another farming "bug-a-boo" is the type of land which has a heavy dense sub-soil at a comparatively shallow depth. These sub soils restrict the movement of plant roots and hinder circulation of water and air. Good remedies for this condition are deep rooted legumes, grasses which will penetrate in the sub-soil and aid the water-air-root condition.

When plowed under the soil as a green manure crop, legumes increase the organic matter of the land. This matter helps hold the small soil particles together and improves the gradular quality of the oil structure. High organic matter in the soil most assures the best type of air circulation and absorption of water which is so essential to plant life.

The farmer who is unsure of the qualities of his soil can get professional help and advice. Soil samples taken from fields where legumes are to be grown should be sent to the Soils Laboratory, College Station, Texas, for analysis. This analysis will determine what kind and the amount of fertilizers needed to make legumes growing more successful in the various soil-type areas of Texas.

Cotton Trailers Must Have Proper Light Devices

As the time for cotton picking approaches and the highways will soon be crowded again with trucks pulling big cotton trailers to gins in this area, the Texas Highway Department wishes to issue a word of warning to all farmers and drivers of cotton trailers this fall.

Texas State Law has always required two red reflectors and a red burning tail light on the back of vehicles. This is not a new law. It has been on the books for several years.

The attitude of some owners and drivers of cotton trailers has been that the law was made for the "other fellow".

The Highway department points out that a cotton trailer is no less a hazard without the proper tail lights than any other large vehicle improperly lighted.

The department reports that in the past there has been too little cooperation in affixing state-required tail lighting to cotton trailers.

This year the Highway department, having issued warning through the press and the local radio stations, will not be lenient with offenders. With these warnings and explanations of the state's requirements for lighting cotton trailers, owners of trailers can expect nothing less than a ticket and a case filed against them if they violate the law.

What's the MOST SURPRISING THING about this BUICK?

2-door, 6-passenger Special Sedan

WE'LL tell you the answer to that one — it's the figures on the price tag.

For some reason, lots of people just can't believe they can buy a Buick at a price so close to "the low-priced three."

Maybe it's because a Buick seems so much better and bigger.

Maybe it's because they think Buick has so much more power and room — which is true.

Maybe it is because so many distinguished people own Buicks — which is also a fact.

But the fact remains — if you can afford a new car, you can own a Buick — so let's see what you get.

You get the thrilling power of a Fireball 8 Engine, that's a gas-saving high-compression valve-in-head — as much power as you can get in cars costing $300 to $400 more.

You get as much room as you'll get in cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

You get a ride that cost an honest-to-goodness million dollars to develop.

You get the silken smoothness of Dynaflo Drive.*

You get big-car comfort, styling, durability.

Don't take our word for it. Come in and see for yourself why so many folks are stepping up to this great car this year.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Noted Cotton Man Thinks Further Irrigation Now May Be Dangerous

(From Lubbock Avalanche) here. South Plains farmers, those with irrigated cotton, continued to "pour the water" to their cotton the past week and as a result are inviting insects and angular leaf spot, with the probability of an early freeze catching the plants in an immature condition, K. N. Clapp, veteran Lubbock cotton man, said Saturday.

Reporting on the progress of the cotton crop to his company, Anderson, Clayton & Co., Houston, Clapp said "irrigated lacking sufficient moisture is shedding excessively and farmers are in a dilemma whether or not to stop watering."

Poisoning for insects has slowed in the south, increasing in the central area, and is spotted in the northern sector. Leaf and bollworms continue the main targets, with red spider receiving attention around Littlefield and Levelland.

Clapp added in his report that the old Indian legend gives the date of the first freeze as two moons after the first northern. This would figure Oct. 26 this year. Average killing frost here is Nov. 4.

.18 Inch Rain Fell Wednesday

Income To Be Less
"Authorities recommend ceasing irrigation last week in August," Clapp said "let excess fruit shed, and mature the balance. This method has been effective, nine years in ten."
"But some farmers can not bear to see even normal shedding and are continuing watering," Clapp wrote. "They may get more bales but less total income due to lower grades."
Condition of the irrigated crop continues "very good" with dryland "poor," Clapp said in his report. "Irrigation is down slightly, due to inability of some to complete watering during the heat, and others who watered too little or too late."
"On the better dryland, deterioration has been slowed by the cooler weather," he added. "The situation has been aptly expressed by a statement 'Dryland has not suffered much the past week—after cotton becomes dead—not much suffering takes place.' Movement of the crop has begun to trickle into gins with samples from a total of 200 bales, the majority from Lamesa and Tahoka areas, being received at the government classing office

Muleshoe got .18 of an inch of rain Wednesday afternoon and hope was expressed that sufficient rain fell on the farms of the countryside to help sorghum grain crops and young wheat. It was too late to benefit cotton to any appreciable extent.

Where young sorghum grain is in the boot or about to bloom in the shower and cooler atmosphere, it was felt, would help considerably.

The rain fell slowly and all of it soaked into the ground. The overcast skies gave promise of further rainfall.

Plains Water Experiment Is Watched

Plagued with a 147 acre wet weather lake on his Floyd County farm, Leo Cooper this year launched an irrigation project with four purposes: to reclaim the land, re-use waste water and rainfall which collects in the lake, quickly drain harmful fall rains off the crops, and to experiment with recharging the water sands.

Cooper, who lives four miles north of Lockney on Farm Highway 598, has about 200 acres of irrigated cotton and feed crops surrounding the lake. On trial since April, the project has already saved 60 acres of cotton that were lost in previous years. The experiment centers around a 12 inch, one column, one stage well which pumps a whopping 2,000 gallons per minute. Powered by an electric motor pulling about a 32 horse load, the well pumps into 3700 feet of 15 inch concrete pipe. A large vent on top provides enough atmospheric pressure to push the water over the hill to nearby crops.

This well sets about 100 yards from the bottom of the lake, low enough to keep all but an acre or two well drained. The lake now holds waste water from four directions—the overflow from irrigating cotton above it on all sides. Thus any waste water which gets away in the process of irrigation is caught up by the lake pump for re-use.

In periods of heavy rainfall, when the lake is full and water is not needed for crops, Cooper uses it also for a recharge well, pumping water through the same 15 inch line, and sink it into an old well a quarter of a mile up the hill.

Another recharge well is located about 15 feet from the lake pump. As yet untried, this consists of a "crooked hole" drilled in April of 1952. It was cased to 40 feet and has about 100 feet of perforated pipe in the top, surrounded by a bed of rocks and gravel. Cooper plans to completely cover the protruding 30 inches of perforated casing with fine gravel to serve as a filter for silt and trash.

Completing a triangle with the lake pump and recharge hole is another irrigation well, drilled in place of the crooked hole. This well is 150 feet deep, has an eight inch pipe and four stages, and pumps 1200 gallons per minute into the same 3700 foot line.

There is no evidence of draw-down yet from the regular eight inch well. One can look down the recharge well and see water at a depth of about 30 feet. A third well, a three year old six inch well located about a quarter of a mile north, shows evidence of draw-down after about two months of pumping.

Glenn Cooper, no relation to the owner, has operated the farm for the past five years. "We'd have been several thousand dollars losers this year, without the lake pump," he said. "Last year we lost 30 acres of cotton north, 10 east and 20 south; and besides that, half a mile of highway was under water."

"We are expecting some pretty heavy rains in September, and we hope to get that water off our crops before they're hurt," Cooper added.

"After we reclaim as much of the lake as possible for crops, we plan eventually to put the lake bottom in permanent pasture," the manager said. The Coopers have a small herd of Aberdeen-Angus cattle.

Co. ACP Committeemen Will See Every Bailey Farmer On 1953 Plans

The County PMA has issued the following notice to all Bailey County farmers:

Every farmer in Bailey County will have an opportunity to cooperate in the 1953 Agricultural Conservation Program extended to him through a personal contact by PMA community committeemen.

Farm operators should get in touch with their landlords and others interested in the farm and decide on the conservation practices most needed on the farm which they plan to carry out during 1953, and be ready to furnish community committeemen this information when he contacts you in the near future.

Although practices to be used in 1953 have not as yet been approved for Bailey County it is expected that they will be about the same as those for 1952. Written plan sheets must be filed by every person who intends to ask for assistance on a practice to be carried out in 1953.

When all written plans have been obtained the funds available for assistance in the county under the 1953 ACP will then be directed to meeting the most urgently needed practices.

This is a major change in the procedure for qualifying for assistance under the program as used in previous years and will require considerable thought on the part of the farm operator and the community committeemen, since every producer will be asked to designate the practice he intends to carry out in 1953 between now and December 1, 1952.

Farm plan sheets under the 1953 program can only be prepared by your community committeemen, they cannot be accepted at the county office unless the procedure is changed.

If you fail to designate the practices you intend to carry out within the specified time to your community committeemen in writing on the prescribed form, you will not be able to qualify for assistance under the 1953 program. Therefore if your committeemen fails to contact you you should determine the reason you have not been contacted before the final date. Farmers will receive further notices in regard to the committeemen who will be supposed to contact you.
