We feel fortunate to have Jan Naron back with us for the summer. Jan is a talented sophomore journalism student at Angelo State University and will be doing quite a lot of writing for us while she is here. Since this is our graduation edition, we feel this year's seniors will enjoy and benefit from this guest editorial Jan dashed off Monday:

Things start happening to your mind after one year of college. For one thing, your sense of direction in life gets shot to pieces. You go to college certain beyond a doubt that you're going to study your heart out and take every class you can enroll in, especially the ones that are guaranteed to turn you into a solid citizen and the best at what you do. It doesn't work that way.

After two short semesters in college, you've forgotten what it was you were going to do. Somehow it just slips your mind. Or maybe it's just that you hear so much garbage from so many people that it boggles your mind.

Another thing that happens is you find out study isn't study as you had defined it. Study isn't reading a chapter or scanning one or two pages of notes the night before a test. You find out that study is every day after class and more like six chapters and 50 pages of notes.

And then there's another thing that really messes you up. All those people who are experienced college students (sophomores, those creatures whose minds are sharp, trained and completely adult) tell high school seniors headed for college to sit on the front row so that the teacher notices them. True, they notice you. And true, it sometimes helps when your grade is a borderline and there's one more essay due in class. Sometimes the instructor remembers your face when you go into his office to plead for pity. However, I've noticed something else about sitting on the front row. It has its drawbacks.

For instance, take the teacher who makes jokes by first telling the punch line, and then going into elaborate and boring detail in the body of the joke. Then, he

JAWS OF LIFE-Steve Kenley demonstrates the Hurst Tool, which was donated to the Fire Department by Mayfield Construction this week. The tool, which costs just under $6,000, is a valuable aid in extricating victims trapped in wrecked automobiles or burning building. It will cut through almost any material. Watching the demonstration are Bruce Mayfield, donor, and Fire Chief Dorris Haire.

Small Turnout In Saturday Election

Crockett County voters turned out in small numbers Saturday for the Democratic Primary and cast a total of 779 votes. The only local race was in Precinct 2 for Crockett County Commissioner where incumbent Bill Black will face challenger Byron Stuart in the run-off election June 3.

Stuart led in the voting Saturday, but when the absentee votes were tallied, Black came out ahead by 17 votes. Black polled 92 votes; Stuart, 75, and Bill T. Williams, 38.

Ballots for the June 3, second election will have only one other race on the ticket here, a run-off for Railroad Commissioner, unexpired term, between Jerry Sadler and John H. Poerner. Oldtime politician Sadler led the ticket in the state, but Crockett County voters gave the majority to John H. Poerner. The vote here went 326 for Poerner, 227 for Sadler, 65 for Jake Johnson and 24 for Ray Lemmon. Poerner visited the district several times when he was running for O.C. Fisher's vacated seat in Congress which Krueger won. However, apparently he made a good impression in West Texas, as the vote showed.

Absentee voting for the run-off begins May 24, and ends at 5 p.m. May 30, in the county clerk's office.

CORRECTION: Due to misinformation announced at the election school held here recently, the Stockman reported the wrong election judges in Precincts 4 and 1. Instead of Al Ramirez in Prec. 4, the election judge was Thomas DeHoyos; and instead of Kaleta Shepperson in Prec. 1, the election judge was Evert White. We regret any confusion this error may have caused.

Judge George Thurmond ordered another election for commissioner in Precinct 1, on June 3, after throwing the last election results out in district court here last month. However, the order has not been received and courthouse sources do not think that election will take place, at least not on June 3.

In district and state races, Crockett County went along with the rest of the state and area voters with the exception of the race for Governor, where they gave Dolph Briscoe a two to one majority over John Hill, who won elsewhere in the state without a run-off.

In the race for United States Senator, local voters gave their former congressman Bob Krueger a resounding victory over Joe Christie. The vote was 588 for Krueger and 148 for Christie. It will be interesting to see how local voters cast ballots in November in the race between Krueger and Senator John Tower. Tower has carried Crockett County by large majorities since his first election.

In the race for U.S. Representative, 21st District, the seat being vacated by Krueger, local voters gave Nelson Wolff a two to one majority over his nearest opponent Woodrow Glasscock. Both men campaigned in Ozona extensively before the election, as did Joe Sullivan and Paul Dahlgren. Local totals had Wolff with 389 votes; Glasscock, 197; Sullivan, 76; Dahlgren, 42, and Steve Clark, 19.

Voters here gave Dolph Briscoe 495 votes to lead the ticket; Hill, 233; Preston Smith 20; Beagle, 5, and Mayo, 4. Hill was named the winner without a run off late Monday after the total count was in. He will face Republican Bill Clements in the November election.

Susan Gurley McBee, State Representative, 70th District, polled 633 votes here to 99 for her opponent

K. Peters Resigns At Hospital

Keith Peters resigned as Crockett County Hospital Administrator at the May 4, Hospital Board Meeting. His resignation will be effective June 9. Chairman Steve Sessom appointed Sue Arledge and Gary Vannoy as a screening committee for new applicants.

The board met in the Care Center dining room with Sessom, Mrs. Arledge, Donnie Laughlin and Peters being present.

It was decided to turn the project of converting hospital rooms to care center rooms over to an architect, in an effort to satisfy Health Department regulations.

Peters announced that Mary Barrow of Sonora has accepted the position of Director of Nurses, after the resignation of Mrs. Charles Williams last month. She will begin right away.

In other business, it was reported that Dr. Louis Cole, former Ozona physician, had expressed an interest in returning to Ozona. No action was taken, since Dr. Cole has not actually contacted anyone connected with the hospital.

The board voted to purchase a new EKG machine at a price of $1,200, and keep the old machine as a back-up.

Cheerleaders & Twirlers Chosen Here

Cheerleaders and twirlers, along with drum majors were chosen last week at Ozona High School for next fall. Cheerleaders, chosen by vote of the students, will be Delia DeHoyos, head; Michelle Galvan, Rea Lynn Dews, Kim Sinclair, Melinda Stevens, Tammy Adams and alternate, Lori Clayton.

Twirlers and drum majors, chosen at tryouts by out of town judges, are Sherry Moody, drum major, and Carla Koerth, assistant. Twirlers are Debbie Wallace, head, Molly Womack, Jennifer Marley and Lisa Mitchell.

Court Has Lively Meeting Monday

The Crockett County Commissioners Court met Monday in regular session with a controversy between one of the commissioners and the head of the road department highlighting the morning's activities.

When Von Parker appeared to give the county road department report, Commissioner, Precinct 4, Jesus Castro took the floor and asked the court for help in getting the sewer plant moved, due to the odor, and in getting some paving done which he claimed he had been trying to get done since he took office.

Judge Johnny Jones asked Castro to hold up until Parker could give his report. Parker told the court that paving materials had gone up considerably and asked them to assist him in having utilities, contractors, etc. notify him when they were going to cut through a paved street. He said streets should be cut and not dug up with a backhoe to avoid costly repairs. Motion was made and passed that in the future those needing to cut into a street must get permission from Parker beforehand, also that there would be charges for repairing the pavement.

Parker then brought up complaints he was getting about road work in Precinct 4. He said the complaints were constant and unfair and that he and his crew spent a fair share of their time in each of the four precincts. He also said that actually they had spent more money and time in Precinct 4 than in any other precinct, and passed out copies reporting monies spent in each precinct for 1977. The report stated that in 1977 each precinct was allotted a total of $17,000 for paving streets and roads. According to the report $18,512.79 was spent in Precinct 4, an overrun of $1,512.79. Precinct 1 spent a total of $18,069.20, Precinct 2, a total of $16,164.04 and left with a balance of $835.96; and Precinct 3 spent $18,342.90.

Parker stressed the report did not include men, equipment, labor and miscellaneous paving materials, only asphalt and rock. And he claimed he had spent more time in Precinct 4 than in other precincts.

Castro took exception, and words began to fly. Castro said he had been trying to get Walnut Street fixed since he took office and couldn't get anything done about it. He said he was driving in Precinct 3 and found the road department crew fixing a curb with pre-mix.

Parker said he knew of the incident and that Castro had stayed and kept his men off the job for a considerable time, holding up the work.

This prompted action from Precinct 3 Commissioner Jack Williams. Williams said Castro spent more time in his precinct (Precinct 3) than he did in his own and informed him in no uncertain terms that he did not want to see him in his laundry truck delaying road work in Precinct 3 in the future.

Castro said he was complaining about where the road work was done in his precinct, not the amount of work done. He said he felt his work should be done where he ordered it done in his precinct and that after all he was the authority in Precinct 4. He said he wanted city streets worked on and not county roads.

This brought an outburst from Precinct 1 Commissioner Jess Marley. He accused Castro of wanting to cut out work entirely on county roads where the most tax money comes from. Castro then said he saw nothing wrong with getting work done for voters, who had water run into their homes everytime it rains.

Then every commissioner claimed water ran higher in his own precinct than in the others, with the exception of Bill Black, Precinct 2 Commissioner. Although Castro said he was not there for the sake of argument, the argument mounted, and he accused the other three commissioners of refusing to work together and with him for the county.

Meanwhile, Parker came to his feet in anger and said if he had a crew of 300 men, he could work around the clock on county roads and streets and never catch up.

He reminded everybody that paving had just started for this season and that he would get around to all four precincts for their allotted projects. Shaking a finger at Castro he told him that if he wanted to share and share alike, he would see to it and that in the future Precinct 4 would get only its share and not more as had been the case in the past.

Castro reminded Parker that he was his boss just as much as the other three commissioners, and Parker said he had to leave the meeting before he got mad, and he left. This ended the controversy.

In other business, County Agent Billy Reagor appeared before the court and asked for improvements in the 4-H program. He said the program had grown so in the past years, the present facilities were no longer adequate. He submitted a draft asking for building onto the present barn, additional pens, rest room facilities, insulation for proper heating, and a concession stand.

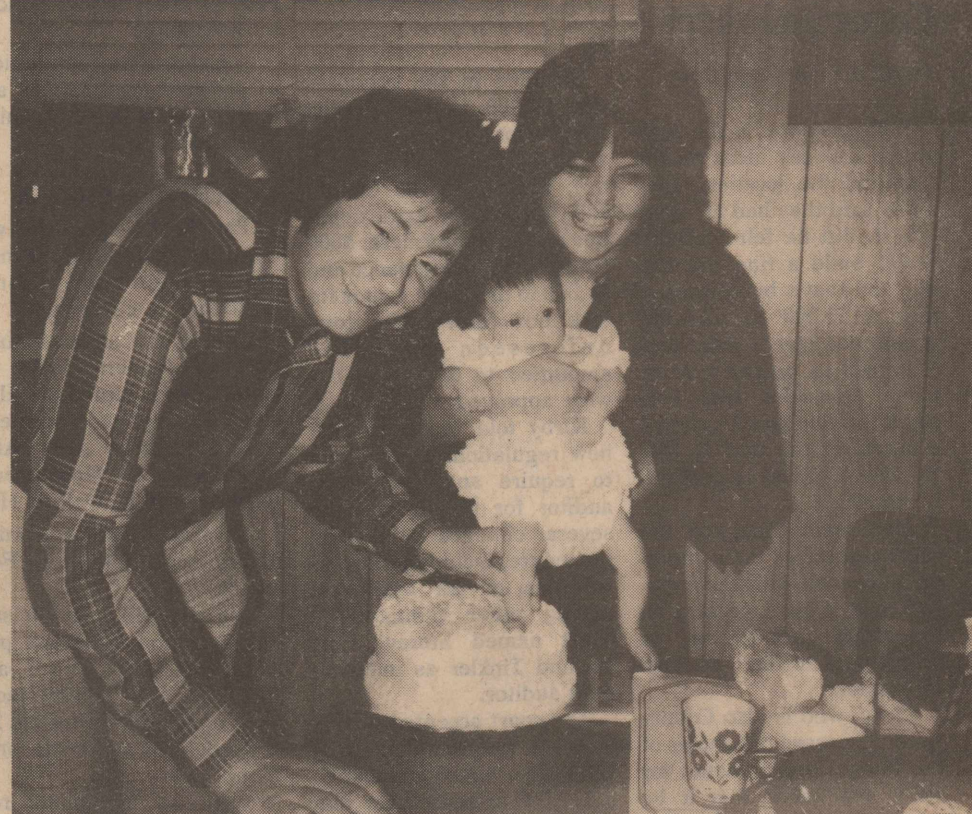

After some discussion, it was decided the improvements would cost from $30,000 to $40,000. The court told Reagor to get estimates on the proposed improvements and check with the school board to see if they would share the cost, as the property is owned jointly by the county and the school.

A building committee from the Fire Department came before the court. The committee consisted of Dorris Haire, Dick Kirby, Bruce Mayfield and Steve Kenley. Haire, Fire Chief, spoke for the committee and told the court the department felt the proposed building on to the old fire station was just not satisfactory. He said the station was probably adequate when it was built in the 50's but the town and the personnel had outgrown it and the department wanted a new fire station. He also reminded the court that the department would probably be forced to take on the ambulance service in the future and that with the continued growth of the town a new station was called for.

His Secret Is Out

The Panama Canal is now saved, by a Senate vote of 68-32, from the terrible swift sword of the Panamanian national guard. But our new partner in progress, Gen. Omar Torrijos, assures us that it was a near thing.

Now it can be told, he tells: The guard's officers 10 years ago swore a secret oath, "with all the directive patterns of the Panamanian youth, that this situation of colonization of the Republic of Panama would be eliminated either via negotiation or via liberation."

In short, the Panamanian warriors pledged to slap us around severely if we didn't hand over the canal peacefully. Only the 68 votes in the Senate, apparently, kept us from that fate.

All Washington must be awed by the discretion of the Panamanian el supremo in keeping this menace a secret for so long. However, we suspect that all of the 68 senators who face the voters this year are wishing that the general had been able to keep it secret at least one year longer.

Dole Says Republicans Will Pick UP 20-25 Seats In House This Fall

By Edward H. Sims
[second of a series]

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- Kansas Senator Robert Dole, who carried every state west of the Mississippi (his assignment) in the 1976 Ford-Dole versus Carter-Mondale election, says his party will gain twenty to twenty-five seats in November's congressional elections.

"In the Senate it's going to be tough," Dole said. That's because more Republican terms (17) expire this year than Democrat (16), even though Democrats enjoy a comfortable 61-38 majority in the upper legislative body.

Republicans' terms expiring this session are held by Senators Baker, Bartlett, Brooke, Case, Curtis, Domenici, Griffin, Hansen, Hatfield, Helms, McClure, Pearson, Percy, Scott, Stevens, Thurmond and Tower. Most of them are running this fall but several seats are in jeopardy, which is about the situation with the sixteen Democrat terms expiring.

"The next Senate election, in 1980, when 24 Democrat terms expire and only ten Republican, offers us better prospects in the Senate," Dole pointed out.

"This year the gubernatorial races are our real opportunity. We're concerned with state legislators and state houses this fall," he added.

"On the national and congressional scene, Bill Brock (party chairman) is doing a good job and he's trying to reach all voters, including blacks. But we're not going to outpromise the Democrats. We're going to appeal to them as intelligent Americans to help stop this big spending and constant deficits, and get our economic house in order.

"More and more people are realizing we can not spend our way with peoples' taxes to prosperity—it's got to come from an expanded free enterprise economy, which offers permanent jobs and security.

"And we're making progress. There was a good meeting recently in Atlanta I attended . . . many blacks were represented. During the 1976 campaign I wanted to tour the South with prominent black speakers but didn't get the chance. There was opposition. I think we made a mistake. With a few southern states we would have won the election. We ran very close in many of them."

Commissioners-

Williams asked if the committee had any ideas on the cost and the location. Dick Kirby said they had not gone into it, but he felt $200,000 would build a fine fire station and that a bond issue of from $150,000 to $200,000 should not have a great deal of impact on property taxes. Some discussion was held about location and the county property at the end of 14th St. where gravel is presently stored.

After some discussion, the court authorized the committee to consult with the architect, who is here working on the school project, and to report back to them as soon as possible.

Kirby, who is also County Auditor, passed out copies of the budget amendments for 1978, and asked that it be approved and put in the minutes. The amendments were for unexpected expenses which were not foreseen when the budget was approved.

Included in the expenses was $4,700 to the District Judge for office expense; $2,544 to the Probation Office; $18,500 to the County Jail; $14,300 for extra deputies for the county clerk; $600 for building maintenance and $1,500 to the youth center for juke box rental. The total unforeseen expenses amounted to $42,144. They were approved.

Kirby told the court that new regulations were going to require an independent auditor for the county and several changes in present procedure, including the certification of tax assessors, among other things. The court named Storey, Eckert and Tinkler as independent auditor.

The court accepted a 20% increase in premiums from Blue Cross which amounts to a $12,000 increase over that of last year and which will go into effect in June. They also increased hospital room rent to $70 per day for all county employees' policies.

'But we CAN'T phase him out. He's the only one who can spell.'

begins laughing hysterically, slapping himself on the knee, losing his chalk, (which begins to roll unnoticed, to the back row under a sleeping football player's desk), and finally, and worse, losing his train of thought in the lecture and causing you to re-write six paragraphs because you don't understand enough of the lecture to realize he's repeating himself.

The real problem comes when you don't laugh at his joke. After about three times of stony silence after one of an instructor's jokes, you are branded. You are the student who is not interested in his class... the student whose borderline grade he would not boost for the world.

Of course, the image you have of dorm life is realistic enough to include neighbors with very loud stereos and strange habits of beating walls with hammers or whatever that racket at 4 a.m. However, you might not think of what happens to the upper floors during strong wind storms. Crazy things. Like water in toilet bowls slosh out onto the floor. Walls move ever-so-slowly back and forth. Tenants huddle in corners and promise each other they'll never live higher than second floor again.

But they do. They go back and live on tenth floor again because all their friends are there; because it turned out the noise next door is not your next door neighbor's but the people above jumping rope (which has since been put to a sudden stop), and all this time your neighbor's thought you were the one with strange night habits.

They go back because, after one and a half semesters, they finally found someone who also likes to go get frozen yogurt at indecent hours. And they go back for reasons that aren't quite that reasonable. They go back because they want to. They don't know WHY they want to. They just want to.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Everybody loves roses, and this past week it has been proven. Most every home in our city has had some kind of rose growing in its garden. Though the hail damaged them some, from a distance it isn't noticeable, they have provided many colors and varieties to be enjoyed.

If the April hail storm damaged your trees, remove damaged branches immediately. Make the cut flush with the tree trunk or limb from which the damaged branch was growing.

Pinch back leggy annuals to encourage branching. Remove old flowers often to keep plants from using up their reserve food by setting seeds.

Phlorosis causes yellowing of young leaves of ornamentals and in St. Augustine or Bermuda grass. This is an iron deficiency, and occurs mainly in alkaline soil. To spray with iron chelate or iron sulfate is the most rapid and effective way to correct iron deficiencies. Soil applications may also be made, but the results are much slower. Apply as recommended on the label.

Check for Bagworms on Evergreens. They thrive in the hot, dry Texas summer. If not controlled, these destructive creatures can ravage many of your favorite landscape plants. Watch for them on your junipers, arborvitaes and other narrow-leaved evergreens. Bagworms are easily controlled while they are small by spraying with Malathion or Sevin.

Warmer soil and air and longer days in May seem to make plants burst forth with strong new growth, and they need help. Almost everything responds rapidly to fertilizer now. Vegetables, flowers and shrubs need additional nutrients to support this growing effort. Most respond to a 5-10-10 fertilizer. If you grow azaleas, camellias or gardenias, they should be given another light application of a fertilizer used for them. This will force new growth on which next year's flower buds will be formed. Apply the correct amount for the plants size. Be sure to keep well-watered for a constant moist soil. Mulch will help.

In charge of arrangements were Mrs. Henry Mills, Jr. and Mrs. Carl Malone, Sr., with other club members assisting.

The bread pudding was the creation of a guest, Mrs. Newman Billings. Tea, sodapop and a pot of boiled camp coffee rounded off the meal.

Bunger, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. John Rowland, Jr. parliamentary; and Mrs. Tom Everett, Sr. photographer, historian and reporter.

Gifts of pocket knives were presented by the club to each of the honored cowboys. Entertainment consisted of guitar picking and singing of old time cowboy songs by Carl Malone, Jr., and son, Jess.

Debra Says

by Debra Price

Labels showing cholesterol content can help consumers on low-cholesterol diets make intelligent choices. Cholesterol has many important functions in the body, but because it is linked to heart disease, doctors have advised many people to limit the amount of cholesterol consumed.

Since it is a medical decision, the labeling law requires that when cholesterol content of food is shown a statement must be added: "Information on the cholesterol content is provided for individuals who, on the advice of a physician, are modifying their total dietary intake of cholesterol." However, this is an optional decision of the food manufacturer or processor.

If cholesterol content is listed, it must be shown in two ways: as "milligrams of cholesterol per serving" and as "milligrams of cholesterol per 100 grams of the food." Content must be shown to the nearest five milligrams. Both of these listings show the amount of cholesterol in food. The latter form is for the use of scientist and the former is in household terms for the consumer.

Labels with cholesterol content can help those who need to make dietary changes. For example, a label on ice cream might show about 45 milligrams of cholesterol per scoop, but ice milk would show only four milligrams.

When a doctor tries to lower a patient's serum cholesterol level, he generally aims at about 300 milligrams daily. The average American probably consumes 600 to 800 milligrams of cholesterol per day. Certain foods can use up these allowance quickly. For example, a medium-sized egg has about 235 milligrams and three ounces of kidney about 300 milligrams. One-fourth pound of beef, pork or lamb has about 100 milligrams. A three-ounce serving of brains has more than 2,500 milligrams.

Cholesterol occurs only in foods of animal origin. Foods from vegetable sources such as vegetable oil margarine have no cholesterol. Cereals, fruits or vegetables contain no cholesterol.

Looking To The Future

The future belongs to those who are prepared. More and more, ours is becoming a competitive society. Our young people realize that they must be well equipped to meet tomorrow's social and economic demands.

Education is vastly important, yet it will not meet every need. Many of the social and economic pressures can be met adequately only if one is equipped with spiritual stamina and stability. Something more is required than a diploma signifying academic learning.

The Church is dedicated to the task of strengthening us spiritually. Through the opportunities of worship and study in your local church you can be better prepared to meet the future. Why not attend this Sunday?

Shrimp Adds Distinction To Most Exotic Menus

Shrimp, served in dozens of appetite-tempting ways, add distinction to any menu, suggests one seafood consumer education specialist.

They also provide excellent high-quality protein and other nutrients, Annette Reddell says.

Shrimp are usually sold according to size and are referred to as jumbo, large, medium and small. They are available in either cooked or raw, peeled or unpeeled and fresh or frozen.

Shrimp are ideal for appetizers, entrees or salads. Try Creole Shrimp Salad topped with Remoulade Sauce, Ms. Reddell suggests. It's shrimp combined with the heartiness of a Creole rice ring and a sweet-sour sauce.

Prepare this recipe in advance, leaving free time for other last minute preparations.

Make the Creole rice ring the day before, pack it into a mold and chill.

The sauce is a make-ahead and chill item, too.

Just before serving time, unmold the ring and heap with shrimp. Serve the sauce with the ring or let guests help themselves.

Heated rolls, served with butter and honey, relishes and a choice of beverages complete the menu.

Creole Shrimp Salad

- ¾ pound fresh, cooked, peeled and cleaned shrimp
- 4 cups cold, cooked rice
- ½ cup chopped celery
- ½ cup peeled, seeded, chopped tomato
- 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- 3 tablespoons salad oil
- 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
- 1¼ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard
- ¼ teaspoon sugar
- Remoulade Sauce
- Salad Greens
- Combine rice, celery, tomato, green pepper and pimiento. Combine oil, vinegar and seasonings. Add oil mixture to rice and mix well.

Pack rice into a five-cup ring mold. Chill. Unmold on salad greens.

Fill ring with shrimp. Serve with Remoulade Sauce. Makes six servings.

Remoulade Sauce

- 1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- ¼ cup chopped sweet pickles
- 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1 tablespoon chopped capers
- 1 tablespoon chopped green onion
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- Combine all ingredients. Chill. Makes about one and one-half cups sauce.

Conflict In Marriages

One key to keeping the "newlywed feeling" is the ability to recognize and handle conflict, bad feelings, or guilt, says Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist.

"Even when there are differences, open conflict does not have to result, if couples try to really listen, try to reason and then give each other the benefit of a doubt when decoding messages they think they heard," she says.

"Couples must realize that each partner brings to the marriage a different set of complicated communication codes, hopes and two individual personalities," she explains.

Exchanges between new couples carry both information and feelings, she continues. "Newlyweds may feel guilty when they experience feelings of both love and hate so early in a marriage and fail to recognize these as normal feelings for all human beings."

"Newlyweds need not lose feelings of deep love even if hate is present at times. No one loves totally, and couples naturally will feel good and bad about each other at different times," Miss Taylor says.

Even in the best marriages there will be conflict. "No matter how hard couples try, communication sometimes fails."

Major causes of conflict are money, household management, personality differences, personal goals and sexual adjustments."

There is merit in the sayings, "Kiss and make up," "Never go to sleep on a fight," and "Don't let the sun set on your anger," the specialist says.

It was a successful banquet. The Huffman's generously hosted a hamburger supper, and local FFA advisor Mark Tillman and high school principal, Jim Payne, found with a little help from the chapter, that it was perfect swimming weather in the Huffman's pool.

Thompson will make a personal appearance at 3 p.m. May 18 and will furnish the music for the street dance the following night. The public is invited to share in the festivities which will get under way May 18, with a program at 10:30 a.m.

Cinco De Mayo Fiesta Draws Large Crowds

Last Sunday's Cinco De Mayo Fiesta at the Catholic Church attracted large crowds who came together to have a good time visiting with each other and watching the parade and races. The Fiesta celebrates the liberation of Mexico from the domination of the French. The Grand Raffle prize, a trip for two to Mexico City, was won by Tanya Amaya on a ticket purchased for her by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jose M. Sanchez of Ozona.

The parade, led by Sheriff Billy Mills, formed in front of the Church. Included among the many entries in the parade were floats on which rode the Queen of this year's celebration, Miss Daisy Hernandez, and the Princess, Miss Corina Leal. The prize-winning float was entered by Raul Arredondo. Two young ladies from Sonora rode the "best-decorated" car. George Guerra of Ozona took first place for his well-groomed horse. Nino Tambunga had the blue-ribbon bicycle.

Gino Tambunga emerged as the big winner of the racing, taking first place in both ten-speed bicycle and sack-racing competition. Lonnie Galindo placed first in Boys Standard Bicycles and Becky Ybarra in Girls Bicycles. Ricky Swearingin won the skateboard competition.

Following the races, "Boy y Los Musicos" provided the music for an evening of dancing and relaxation beneath the trees.

Window Treatments Exciting

Turn a dull room into an interesting, exciting one with window treatments, suggests Sue Young, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Treating one entire wall as a window is a space stretcher--for example, treat a picture window reaching from wall to wall, or a pane of windows, or a group of two or three unmatched windows as one wall, she continues.

Use draperies in a neutral color as an effective background.

Regardless of whether the window treatments will accent or camouflage the windows, keep a few guidelines in mind.

There are only three lengths that look right--to the sill, even with the bottom of the window apron--which is the entire window frame--or just barely clearing the floor.

Also, draperies should always clear the entire window glass when being opened, even if it means mounting the rod out on the wall to make room for the stack back.

Drapery heading should overlap and swag gracefully from the center point and the rod should not show in the center. If the rod is in sight, add a narrow matching panel to the outside.

GOOD LUCK TO THE Graduates.

We congratulate each and every 1978 Senior.

Woman's Forum Installs Officers At Luncheon

New officers were installed at the Ozona Woman's Forum Saturday, May 6 at a salad luncheon in the home of Mrs. Kirby Moore. Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Ele Hagelstein and Mrs. Bonnie Warth.

Mrs. Moore presided over the business meeting, calling roll, which was answered by each member according to whether she planned to vote in the Democratic Primary which was held that day. Mrs. Moore reported that more than 100 adults exhibited their work at the Arts and Crafts Show last month. Also discussed in the meeting were plans for the coming year.

Mrs. T.J. Bailey, recently installed as President of the Heart of Texas District at the state convention in Austin, told the group her report on club activities won a first in state. Also, she reported that Mrs. Gene Perry's report on the Forum's visit to Camp Hudson won a first in state, in the "See Texas First" category.

Mrs. Bailey installed new Forum officers for the coming year. She used an interesting collection of bells belonging to her brother, El-dred Roach, in an impressive installation. Each bell signified an important quality each officer should be guided by.

The Bell of Leadership went to the new President, Mrs. J.D. Brown, while Mrs. C.O. Walker, new First Vice President, received the Bell of Efficiency. Second Vice President Mrs. Huey Ingram was given the Bell of Vision, Recording Secretary Mrs. W.H. Whitaker received the Bell of Responsibility and the Bell of Communication went to new Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Ralph Jones.

Other new officers installed were Mrs. Ralph Jones, treasurer, who received the Bell of Fidelity; Mrs. Kirby Moore, Federation Counselor, who was given the Bell of Guidance; and Mrs. Bonnie Warth, Reporter, with the Bell of Service.

Following the installation ceremony, Mrs. J.D. Brown spoke to the group, accepting her new office as president, and presenting the outgoing president, Mrs. Kirby Moore, with a silver bowl from the Forum members.

Those present at the meeting included Mrs. T.J. Bailey, Mrs. J.D. Brown, Mrs. George Bunger, Mrs. Madye Jo Humphreys, Mrs. Huey Ingram, Mrs. Brock Jones, Mrs. Dempster Jones, Mrs. Ralph Jones, Mrs. Jess Marley, Mrs. J.B. Miller, Mrs. Kirby Moore, Mrs. Gene Perry, Mrs. Arthur Phillips, Mrs. C.O. Spencer, Mrs. W.T. Stokes, Mrs. C.O. Walker, Mrs. Bonnie Warth, Mrs. W.H. Whitaker, Mrs. Hugh Childress, Mrs. Ele Hagelstein, Mrs. Marshall Montgomery, Mrs. Charlie Black, Mrs. L.B. Cox III, Mrs. Fred Hagelstein, Mrs. Vernon Jones and Mrs. Beecher Montgomery.

Auction Participants Thanked

On behalf of lung-damaged children throughout the United States, Mrs. Jim Bob Bailey, chairman of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation extends her sincere thanks to the many members of this community who participated in the Cystic Fibrosis Cake Auction, Saturday.

To the contributors in this community, we send heartfelt thanks. Their hard earned dollars will provide much needed funds for research to find a control or cure for Cystic Fibrosis, a leading genetic killer of children.

Graduation Next Week For 49 Seniors

Baccalaureate services in the High School auditorium Sunday evening, May 14, will mark the beginning of the final week of graduation activities for forty-nine Ozona High School seniors of the class of 1978.

Commencement exercises will be held at the high school auditorium Tuesday evening, May 16, when the class of '78 will reach the goal of graduation they set four years ago when they became lowly high school freshmen. The end of nine months of riding the pinnacle as the lordly rulers of the underclassmen will be both a sad and a happy ending for the graduating seniors. For some it will mark the launching of a new higher education endeavor while for others it may mean marriage and a career or for others just going to work to earn a living as an adult. Baccalaureate services will begin at 8 p.m. Sunday evening in the auditorium. The class of '78 will march to the traditional processional, "Pomp and Circumstance" played by Mabel Delgado. The invocation will be by

Larry Droll. The hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy" will be followed by special music presented by a trio composed of Tara Brubaker, Vicki Odum and Pam Riley. Nelson Lanham, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will deliver the sermon to the graduates. The song, "O Worship the King" will be followed by the benediction by Bill Morrison, minister of the Ozona Church of Christ. An impressive program has been arranged for the graduates on "their day" Tuesday, May 16, at 8 p.m. The processional will be played by Mabel Delgado and the invocation will be by Jeannine Perry. The welcome address will be by the Salutatorium, Regina Everett. "Opportunities Knocking" is the hopeful title of a talk by Teresa Brown, third ranking student in the class. The Senior Chorus, directed by Lane Scott, will sing "Dusty in the Wind" and "The Way We Were." "The Path To-Days" is the intriguing title of a speech by fourth ranking student, Rhonda Yeager. The "Valedictory" will be by Randy Allen, the class valedictorian. Scholarship awards will be presented by High School Principal, James I. Payne. Superintendent Foy A. Moody will present the class for graduation and diplomas will be presented by School Board President Joe Bean. The benediction will be by Bill Dudley and the class will march to their new world to the recessional "Pomp and Circumstance" by Mabel Delgado.

A recent special screening of an anti-2,4,5-T television documentary gave users of the herbicide a lucid example of the type of opposition they face.

Titled "Agent Orange-Vietnam's Deadly Fog", the documentary was produced by a Chicago CBS affiliate and sought to "prove" that U.S. defoliation operations in the Vietnam War led to severe disabilities for G.I.'s involved in the conflict.

Agent Orange was the military's herbicide mixture of 2,4,5-T and 2,4-D. Domestic uses of these chemicals also came under attack in the 60-minute presentation, though the narration included admissions that such uses have little in common with the military application in terms of quantity, concentration or frequency.

In its attempt to link Agent Orange (and by pointed inference, 2,4,5-T) to health problems encountered by Vietnam-era G.I.'s, the documentary presented one former serviceman with cancer, one who later fathered a child with misformed fingers and one who complained of numbness in the extremities, anxiety and listlessness. All claimed a general feeling of ill health, as did one female servicewoman who blamed her exposure to spraying for a series of miscarriages.

Part of the documentary dealt with state-side accidental exposure to TCDD, a toxic dioxin contaminant often encountered in 2,4,5-T manufacture, and blamed for many hazards associated with the herbicide. The ill effects of the accidents outlined were very real, but just as real, though not emphasized, was the fact that the cases involved massive doses of TCDD; followup tests on affected humans and animals also indicated the presence of numerous other powerful chemicals including DDT.

One of the more tragic accidents described in the report was an explosion in Seveso, Italy that released several pounds of TCDD into the surrounding town. The effects of the accident were amply presented in both narration and visuals; not mentioned was the fact that the TCDD released totaled as much as 20 times the quantity encountered in the U.S. in an entire year, or the fact that the majority was concentrated on less than 300 acres compared to the roughly five million acres sprayed annually here.

After summarizing its "evidence", the documentary called upon the Pentagon to undertake a project to find, contact and study all G.I.s and other personnel exposed to Agent Orange. It might be noted that as many as two million troops may have encountered the defoliant; the documentary admitted that such a project might be "expensive", but dismissed the problem of how to pay for the fishing expedition.

Truly, 2,4,5-T and its brother herbicides face an uphill battle against well-organized forces still determined to crucify any and all things associated with the ill-founded and unpopular southeast Asian War. Particularly vulnerable are those things that the protestors neither understand nor feel they have any use for themselves.

Ozona Wool Sells At Steady Prices

A total of 210,000 pounds of both eight and 12 months wool clip sold in a seal bid sale at Ozona Wool & Mohair Co. Thursday at steady prices compared to other West Texas wool sales this season.

Bulk of eight month wools sold in the low 90-cent levels with the paint-free eight month clip bringing from 86 cents to 94 cents per pound. Eight month paint wools ranged from 85 cents to 88 cents per pound. A total of 110,000 pounds of eight month wools sold.

The 100,000 pounds of 12-month clip sold mainly in the 90 cent range. Lamb wool was quoted from 88 cents to 95 1/8 cents per pound with the bulk bringing from 93 to 95 cents per pound. Ewe wool, 12-month clip, sold from 81 cent a high of 94 3/4 cents per pound.

Buyers included: J.P. Stevens & Co. Inc. represented by Wylie Hearn of Balingier; Clyde Young of Lampasas; Forte, Dupee, Sawyer Co. represented by Leroy Keese of Brady; Wm. F. Drake of San Angelo; and Don McDonald of San Angelo for Helmig & Co.

"The wool is shorter and much lighter than normal this year," commented Vernon Jones, manager of the Ozona Wool & Mohair Co. "However, the total clip is nice and much cleaner than I expected following all the dry weather."

Jones said the Crockett County sheep generally sheared from one to two pounds lighter this season because of the drought conditions. One ranchman said the wools appeared like four month clip rather than eight month clip.

"Just the same, we are satisfied with the sale and term it a successful one," added Jones.

Crockett County Care Center News

by Joan Nicholas

Activities Program Director

We only have one birthday during the month of May, namely, Opal Eversole who celebrates her seventy-fifth on Saturday the 13th. The birthday party given by the Auxiliary was Monday. Liz Mary Pipes and Doris Karr were hostesses assisted by Doris Kilgore.

Opal blew out the candles on a lovely cake which was served with punch. She received a beautiful corsage from Patti Jones and had her picture made for our album.

Tuesday's forty-two game was won by Nita DePreist and Paul Cavin and dominoes winners were Verna Talley, and Mike Pena and Mary Lou Simpson tied. The weekly gift certificate for Bingo was won by Paul Cavin after a play-off with Mike Pena who received a prize, and as always, winners' names were posted on our bulletin board in the dining room.

The Crockett County Care Center Rhythm Rascals were in fine fettle on Wednesday morning accompanying me on the piano to some good old waltz tunes; triangle players added a good sound and in perfect time. Prior to music we had an exercise session to get toned up and fully awake. This included deep breathing and giving arms and legs a good workout. Following this activity we moved to the day room for Bible study and Lee Dudley and Jessie Deaton came for the first time.

On Thursday afternoon we started out our Reading and Discussion group with some jokes, and then got down to serious business with the help of the Reader's Digest, with fourteen residents participating. We read about the great flood of Noah's time. It seems that until recent years there was always a question in scientists' minds that the flood may have been only a local one of the Euphrates and Tigris rivers that had been exaggerated with the passage of time as the story was passed down from generation to generation. Now there is conclusive proof found by archeologists and geologists in several forms, which support the information given in the Bible.

Writings on clay tablets from an early civilization have been found recording the story as it is written in the Bible; along with many geological finds which point to the fact that there was indeed a great deluge some 11,600 years ago.

Evelyn Bryant contributed the reading of a favorite poem, and we all chatted about various topics. Dollye Coates has joined us for two sessions now.

I understand that when Rev. Ben Scott of Calvary Baptist Church came on Sunday afternoon for the service, he was accompanied by many adults and young people who lead the hymn singing. I also heard that Eleanor Yeager had some unexpected company over the weekend which made her very happy.

In ceramics on Monday twelve residents were involved along with six volunteers and myself. Everyone applied color glaze to the plates that we splattered last week, and then commenced other pieces. I worked with Dill Eversole. He commenced painting a flower pot which has been ordered for purchase. It was certainly rewarding to see his happy smile when I told him it was an ordered piece which would have his name on the bottom, just like any famous artist!

Later Opal Eversole and Jessie Deaton enjoyed sitting on the front patio together in the morning sun. We looked across into the pasture where the mesquites are adorned with their fresh spring foliage, and where two mares wandered around under the spindly branches showing their two foals where the best eating can be found. We decided that spring does, indeed, give one a lift; and, once again I was reminded to linger awhile and savor the simple things that most of us go rushing blindly by in our daily quest for the material things of life.

Choose Trousseau To Serve Future Needs

Wedding wardrobes add a special touch when they fit the occasion and the future, says one clothing specialist.

A wedding wardrobe and honeymoon attire, except for the bridal gown, can enhance the overall wardrobe when it is planned with a careful eye toward career, storage and upkeep, advises Beverly Rhoades.

Her guidelines for the wedding itself start with considering the financial resources of both the bride and groom and their families, the type of wedding they want, community customs and social status of the families.

All of these must balance with future needs, she cautions.

Sentimentality, momentary whims and childhood dreams should not overpower

Control Blood Pressure

Controlling high blood pressure often requires daily medication, advises a health education specialist.

High blood pressure, a serious, chronic disease, has no symptoms to warn of its presence. The only way to know if blood pressure is high is to have it checked, Carla Shearer warns.

High blood pressure is one factor associated with cardiovascular problems that's often overlooked. The disease can be controlled in a simple manner, but people must first, recognize its existence, and, second, treat it properly.

With proper treatment, a person can bring his or her blood pressure down and can look forward to living a full, normal life.

Unfortunately, some people with high blood pressure think that headaches, dizziness or feeling tense means that their blood pressure is "high." They associate "hypertension" with being tense or upset.

Actually, hypertension means high blood pressure, not tension or upset, the specialist explains.

Some people mistakenly take their antihypertension medication—which is intended for daily use—only when such "symptoms" appear.

Once a doctor prescribes medication for high blood pressure, it needs to be taken daily.

er practical considerations if it will mean regrets later when money is needed for other purchases, she says.

While clothing accounts for only about 17-25 percent of wedding costs, careful planning can cut the total cost, even though the wedding gown is still a major expense, averaging about $200, Miss Rhoades adds.

Honeymoon attire depends partly on the place, season, travel and honeymoon duration, but also consider the current wardrobe and newly married lifestyle, the specialist suggests. Her guidelines include:

Plan attire to coordinate with the current wardrobe and to serve as part of the basic wardrobe during the first years of marriage.

Avoid items that can be worn only once due to such factors as the honeymoon location.

Avoid buying so much lingerie or other items that they cannot be worn before they are out of fashion.

Consider career plans of both partners and clothing needs related to these to avoid extra budget strain later.

Consider storage space available, since large wardrobes might be impractical in small apartments or houses.

Consider clothing upkeep, laundry facilities and dry-cleaning funds.

Consumer Homework Pays Off

Best values this week at Texas grocery markets include cabbage and carrots, eggs and canned vegetables, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt reports.

Current grocery price-and-quality trends are as follows: Cabbage and carrots have low price tags, but head lettuce prices have soared.

Other items at economical price levels are mustard greens, yellow onions, turnips and greens, yellow squash and potatoes.

Asparagus has moderate prices.

Pineapple has attractive prices and quality, and grapefruit supplies are large.

Raisin and strawberry supplies are larger. Pear supplies are larger, and prices are moderate.

Features include sour cream, yogurt and several cheeses.

Special prices on canned and frozen vegetables are giving fresh produce stiff competition.

Other specials include tuna fish, rice, pasta products and peanut butter.

Supplies are only moderate with prices steady to slightly higher.

Real "specials" are few and far between, but careful "armchair" shopping by studying the market advertisements should help consumers save money.

Consider chuck cuts, sirloin cuts, beef liver and ground beef with soy protein. Prices remain at higher levels.

Best values include Boston butts, end chops, loin-end roasts, some brands of bacon, frankfurters, liver and smoked picnics.

Young job-seekers trying to get a handle on employment will want to consult the first edition of "Occupations in Demand at Job Service Offices" published by the U.S. Department of Labor. The edition lists 87 occupations frequently in demand by employers that require some college or high school preparation. It was designed by the U.S. Employment Service to help students and recent graduates make better informed job search decisions, says Dr. Richard Floyd with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The edition lists 13 occupations with greater than average gains in the number of openings registered by employers with the National Job Bank System during 1977, points out Floyd, an economist in business development. These include clerk-typist (15,700 average monthly openings), carpenters (10,000 openings), electrical engineers (4,400 openings), and computer-programmers (3,200 openings).

Other occupational groups with gains in Job Bank openings well above the national average were civil engineering, counseling, mechanical engineering, personnel and training, social and welfare work, asbestos and insulation work, cement and concrete finishing, plumbing, and refuse and sewage disposal.

According to Floyd, the occupational guide also gives geographical areas that had gains in Job Bank openings well above the national average during 1977. These include Houston, with 14,200 average monthly openings, and Dallas, with 13,500 average monthly openings.

The edition also indicates job training requirements. Examples of jobs that require high school training but in many cases, little or no experience, are manager-trainee, general office clerk and typist. Those requiring only high school preparation but some experience are exemplified by administrative secretary, mechanical drafter, service establishment manager, and tool and die maker.

Examples of jobs requiring college, but in many cases, little or no experience, include nurse (R.N.), practical nurse (L.P.N.), and recreation leader.

Persons wishing to obtain single copies should contact their local Texas Employment Commission office or write the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Bakeware Is Essential Part Of Home Baking

In too small a pan, batter or dough will overflow. If the pan is too large, contents will bake too hard and fast. Shiny metal pans reflect heat and produce cakes, cookies and biscuits with a light crust.

Dull or darkened bakeware, glass utensils and those with a colored exterior finish absorb heat and generally produce baked goods with a darker crust.

Bakeware is made of aluminum, heat-resistant glass and ceramics, enameled metals, tin, stainless steel, cast iron or earthenware.

These different utensils require special care.

Wash new pans in hot suds and rinse before use.

Then, for easy removal of food particles, wash thoroughly soon after baking and when the pan has cooled.

presoaking in hot suds will help loosen baked-on crust.

Stains and discoloration may develop on aluminum utensils with age.

Remove them by boiling a solution of two to three tablespoons lemon juice, vinegar or cream of tartar to a quart of water in the utensils for five to 10 minutes.

Then, scour, rinse and dry the utensils.

A commercial stainless steel cleaner will help remove stubborn burn marks on the interior of stainless steel bakeware.

It will also help rid the utensil of "heat tint," the rainbow-like discoloration caused by high heat.

Pre-season cast iron before use.

"To do this, wash, rinse and dry the utensil, coat the inside surface with cooking oil or shortening and then heat in a moderate oven for about two hours.

"After removing the bakeware, wipe away excess grease. Hot, sudsy water is all that is needed for subsequent care.

"Dry thoroughly to prevent rusting.

"To reseason cast iron, scour the utensil and repeat the seasoning process."

Cast iron utensils with porcelain enamel interiors do not need seasoning.

Tin darkens with use and age, and the process is irreversible.

Therefore, the baking qualities of tin will change.

A dark pan will yield a much browner product than a shiny tinned pan.

Tin has a tendency to warp if subjected to sudden temperature changes, and a warped pan will not bake evenly.

Many bakeware interiors are coated with a non-stick finish.

Besides washing, condition these utensils before initial use by rubbing with cooking oil—follow manufacturer's instructions.

Do not oil a tubed angle food cake pan—angle food batter must cling to the sides of the pan during baking.

Most manufacturers recommend using nylon, hard rubber, plastic or wooden kitchen tools on non-stick finishes, glass and aluminum to prevent scratching the surfaces.

Use a nylon or plastic scrubber and suds to help remove burned-on foods.

Scratching of bakeware finishes can also be minimized by storing pans singly in vertical slots or by placing paper towels between them.

Also, look for easy-to-wash features: such as, seamless, smooth construction, rounded corners and non-stick finishes.

Explosions Can Be Detected And Stopped Before Damage

A dust or gas explosion can be detected and actually extinguished—before damage is done—all in less time than one can blink an eye.

"An explosion can be suppressed if one has knowledge of how explosions occur," explains Dr. Gary S. Nelson, a safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Explosions do not occur instantaneously, but take a few thousandths of a second to develop explosive force. The suppression or 'extinguishment' of explosions is possible under certain conditions due to this short but significant time lapse between ignition and the development of destructive pressures.

"When an explosive gas or dust is ignited, a relatively weak but high-speed shock wave travels outward from the point of ignition, much like water ripples from a stone thrown in a pond. Behind the shock wave comes the relatively slower flame front, boiling out from the point of ignition while burning the combustible gas or dust in an ever enlarging sphere.

"It is the flame front that has mass and acts like a moving piston to build up explosive pressure," explains Nelson.

In a typical explosion, the initial fast-moving shock wave, traveling at about 200 feet per second, can be detected by pressure-sensitive equipment in about 35-thousandths of a second from the time of ignition. The flame front, traveling at about 10 feet per second, would then be the size of a baseball.

"At this point, the detector electrically activates an extinguisher or suppression device in another 5-thousandths of a second. The flame front would then be the size of a soft ball," notes the engineer.

The suppression device, activated by the detector, then releases an extinguishing agent under high pressure (to produce high speed) which collides with the advancing flame front in another 20-thousandths of a second, extinguishing it. The flame front or "explosion" when extinguished would be smaller than a basketball.

So, in a lapse time of 60 thousandths of a second, the "explosion" is "out," without a noise being heard other than the discharge of an extinguisher.

Nelson notes that since one can blink an eye in 100-thousandths of a second, an explosion can be extinguished in 60 percent of this time.

Explosion suppression devices are available commercially and should be of particular interest to industries exposed to explosive dusts and gases, such as chemical or agricultural grain handling installations. The cost for installing them at the recommended 5-foot intervals on a 200-foot grain elevator leg might reach $30,000. "However, this cost is like insurance and should be measured against the potential loss of life, property and production which can easily reach $50 million in an average explosion," points out Nelson.

SUCCESS TO YOU class

Today's Make-Up Techniques

Don't let yesterday's make-up techniques spoil the spring and summer fashionable look, says Beverly Rhoades, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Lighthearted and natural is the theme of today's look in cosmetics, she continues. Colors are sheer—but a bit stronger.

And the entire face is a balance of color—no one feature should strongly dominate, the specialist advises.

Choose foundation colors to blend into the complexion over a light base of moisturizer to keep skin fresh looking all day. Liquid foundation gives the sheerest look, but cream or cake foundation gives greater coverage.

Use foundation colors to "contour" the face into the desired effect.

Darker or deeper colors create a receding effect while light colors tend to advance and emphasize features.

Remember, however, the overall effect is natural and blended into the complexion.

A muted wash of color on the cheek is attractive. Place color just below the cheek bone for a fashionable hollow-cheek look or on the cheek bone for a healthy glow.

Choose the effect which best suits the individual.

To accent the eyes, cover the entire eye area with one or more muted colors and blend into the face. Use a deeper shade or shades on the lid area blending outward to the brow. This gives a slight broadening effect to the eye for a subtle, flattering emphasis.

To lift and warm the brow area, use soft, shimmering pinks or champagnes.

Brows are a bit wider, but natural, blended into the face and brushed up slightly.

Lips are sheer, clear and moist. Luscious, garden-fresh colors range from soft pastels to clear brights and coordinated with fashion's array of color.

Create a soft feminine mood or a bold, bright effect with color choices.

Also, coordinate nail color with garment selection.

Soft, muted colors are perfect for neutral or pastel fashions, while deeper or brighter colors complete the message for the season's bright fashion story.

Families Should Relate

Capable, healthy families welcome the opportunity to relate face-to-face with others, says a family life education specialist.

In these families, the atmosphere is one of numerous options, openness, acceptance, hopefulness and rational thinking, Jenny Reinhardt with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Attitudes which support the development of an enthusiasm for human encounters include:

People are mistake-makers.

An individual can fail without a negative self-image. It is okay to be candid, open and vulnerable.

Ideas of others are to be respected.

Generally, ideas that are different are accepted as important.

Individuals are entitled to their opinions.

It is not one individual's responsibility to cause others to change their opinions.

Mutual respect allows openness and increases the possibility of new and useful input.

Expression of true feelings is important.

It is okay to interrupt a speaker and for that speaker to override the interruption and finish.

Total agreement is not expected.

People are responsible for taking care of themselves.

To help prevent air infiltration at floor level in new-home building, place a full bed of caulk or insulation beneath the sill plate around the entire perimeter of the house. The sole or sill plate is the board which is attached to the foundation on which the walls are built.

Only 10 percent of the married persons surveyed by the National Opinion Research Center in Chicago have or expect to have one child.

Efficient Home Lighting

Efficient home lighting depends on a plan and the type of lighting used, says a housing and home furnishings specialist.

In addition to better seeing, good lighting can also enhance the appearance of a home and its furnishings, Sue Young points out.

A lighting recipe to follow for most homes provides two kinds of lighting: general lighting and task lighting.

General lighting creates a feeling of spaciousness and enhances room appearance. It provides easier seeing and greater eye comfort.

Task lighting is needed where any visual task—reading, sewing, studying, serving or food preparation—takes place.

However, avoid lighting a room with only task lighting, because that will create undesirable pools of light and shadows. This means eye muscles must constantly adjust to the differences in brightness.

To obtain the maximum amount of light regardless of source, keep fixtures, bulbs and tubes clean, the specialist recommends.

Home light sources are incandescent and fluorescent.

Incandescents, with watts from 40 to 300, are used in fixtures and portable lamps for task and general lighting.

Standard light bulbs give more light than long-life bulbs of the same wattage.

High wattage bulbs are more efficient than low wattage bulbs—a 100-watt incandescent bulb produces more light than two 50-watt bulbs.

Avoid using a higher wattage bulb than recommended. For maximum efficiency, read manufacturer's recommendations, she advises.

Three-way bulbs provide a choice of lighting levels—high for seeing task, medium for less demanding activities, low for safety.

Fluorescent fixtures cost more initially than incandescent but are much more efficient. They provide more light for an equal amount of energy than incandescent lights, the specialist adds.

For even greater efficiency, remember that high-wattage tubes are more efficient than low-wattage tubes.

For example, a 40-watt fluorescent tube produces more light than two 20-watt tubes.

The best selection of fluorescent lights for the home are deluxe warm white and deluxe cool white. Unlighted, they look alike but they can be identified by the end of the lamp.

Deluxe warm white furnishes a slightly pink cast that is complimentary to complexions, foods and home furnishings.

This shade or tint brings out or accents such warm colors as pink, tan, ivory and rose.

On the other hand, deluxe cool white lighting will bring out cool crisp tones in a room.

These tones include blue and green.

Deluxe cool white is not used as often as the deluxe warm white, Mrs. Young says.

Dahlias--Perfect Garden Flowers

If you're looking for the ideal flower for your home landscape or garden, try the dahlia.

"Here's a vigorously growing plant that produces an abundance of beautiful flowers. Best of all, dahlias are relatively free of disease and insect pests," points out Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist.

Dahlias come in many sizes and in a wide range of colors.

Single dahlias look like large daisies with eight white or colored petals. Collarett varieties are similar to singles but have an extra row of short petals around the center disc of the flower. Orchid-flowered dahlias have graceful forms with eight petals curled into attractive pointed tubes.

New colors and forms are also available in the double varieties, notes Janne. The large decorative types have flowers which are 8 to 12 inches across. Ball dahlias have compact round flowers from 4 to 6 inches in diameter. Pompom types are like small balls of 2 inches or less in diameter.

New cactus varieties are attractive and are particularly useful in flower arrangements.

"Dahlias grow best in a deep, fertile, well-drained soil in a sunny location. The plants are easily damaged by cold. The cluster of roots may be separated and planted at about the time of the last killing frost," says the horticulturist.

Plant dahlias 3 or 4 feet apart if large exhibition flowers are desired. For small flowers in beds or for cutting, space plants about 2 feet apart. Plant root divisions on the side about 5 inches deep. Cover with about 2 inches of soil and fill the remainder of the hole as the shoots develop.

Dahlias need adequate moisture for vigorous growth and flower production. Use of an organic mulch such as pine bark will help conserve soil moisture during dry periods. Get rid of weeds which would compete with the plants.

Fertilize at planting time with one-half cup of 5-10-5 fertilizer per plant. Work the fertilizer into the soil around the dahlia but do not put it in the hole. Repeat the application every 4 to 6 weeks.

Remove faded flowers to encourage continuous blooming.

"For large blooms allow only one stalk per root to develop," suggests Janne. "Remove all small weak sprouts. When the shoot is about 6 inches tall, pinch it back to about the third set of leaves to promote branching. Allow only four main branches to develop on large flowering varieties. Stake the plant to prevent breakage. Disbudding will promote large blooms for exhibition purposes."

Consumer Homework Pays Off

Consumer "homework" before buying a major appliance can pay off—money-wise and time-wise.

The wise consumer will want to invest sound pre-purchase study to maximize purchase satisfaction and avoid the pitfalls experienced by consumers who buy appliances in a hasty and uninformed manner, says Dr. Carolyn McKinney, family resource management specialist.

Unfortunately, in all too many situations, major appliances are hastily purchased and the consumer becomes a victim of his or her own lack of pre-purchase thought and investigation.

Pre-purchase homework should include a review of information about the appliance being considered. Magazine and newspaper articles, state Extension bulletins, manufacturers' brochures and specification sheets, and federal government bulletins are valuable information sources.

Consider appliance styling and features, fuel requirements and energy efficiency, family size and lifestyle, and available space.

Also, the wise consumer will think in advance about what questions to ask and discuss with the appliance dealers and salespeople.

Dr. McKinney recommends asking about items such as the following:

Is the delivery and installation cost included in the sales price or are these charges extra? If the charges are extra, what will the estimated cost be?

What is the estimated operating (fuel) cost of the appliance on an annual basis and over its' lifetime?

Does the dealer service the appliance? If not, where can authorized service be obtained?

Will the dealer arrange for a demonstration of the appliance—especially the special or unique features?

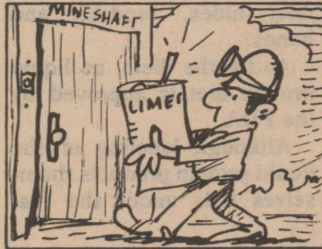

What information is available in the use and care manual? The dealer should have one available from the floor models on display. Ask to see it—it will suggest additional pertinent questions about the specific appliance.

What safety or certification seals are applied to the appliance to indicate safety, performance and durability standards? American Gas Association, Underwriter's Laboratories and the AHAM certification seals are those commonly used.

In addition, the consumer will need to consider the appliance cost in relation to the family budget.

Color and style factors, size or capacity requirements, and construction features that will contribute to long-term durability, ease of cleaning and convenience are also important, the specialist adds.

Liquid Protein Diet Is Dangerous To Health

Liquid protein diets have resulted in 40 deaths in the United States, according to the Food and Drug Administration.

These diets are dangerous to the millions of weight-conscious people who have gone on them, especially those without adequate medical supervision, warns Mrs. Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Liquid protein diets are even more dangerous for infants, children, pregnant or nursing women, people taking medications and people with kidney, liver or heart disease, she adds.

These people especially should not take liquid protein products, she advises.

"Labels on liquid protein products themselves show that these are really intended to be used as protein supplements--not as diet food."

"None of the liquid protein products contain all of the nutrients necessary for good health."

"Therefore, it is not recommended that people take them alone--even though some people claim these products supply enough nutrients to maintain the lean body mass," Mrs. Sweeten explains.

Most of the liquid proteins sold under a variety of trade names are made from predigested protein (collagen or gelatin) obtained from animal hides, tendons and bones.

As for the diets, no liquid protein diet is approved by the FDA.

Although labeling of the liquid protein products themselves falls under the responsibility of FDA, the label directions do not mention using them for weight loss.

People have heard about the weight-loss claims from books, word of mouth or the media, Mrs. Sweeten says. These claims cannot be controlled by the FDA.

In addition, the FDA cannot seize or recall the product unless it has been adulterated.

Currently, FDA is involved in research about the liquid protein.

It has proposed that manufacturers voluntarily put a warning on labels, saying the product may cause serious illness or death--and that it is not intended for weight reduction or maintenance.

"Any quick weight-loss plan and chemical dieting aids are just as hazardous to a person's health as being overweight," Mrs. Sweeten says.

There is really no safe and effective way to lose weight other than by a well-balanced diet of lower caloric foods.

Losing weight--and keeping it off--requires self-discipline, persistence and patience, she adds.

Also it takes a permanent change in eating habits.

"To put one's body through the extraordinary stress of the liquid protein diet is indeed the ultimate absurdity," she concludes.
