Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Now that June is here we usually expect more color in our gardens. Although June is not the hottest month in Texas, it can be very hot and dry, so this month may be the first test of the endurance of newly planted shrubs and trees. Success of your gardening efforts this season may depend on how faithfully you supply needed water.

Pest control is another priority. During dry seasons, spider mites and other destructive insects may be found. If too wet a season, powdery mildew will take a heavy toll on plants. Insecticides and fungicides are available at retail garden supply stores. Ask for advice to select the correct pesticide.

If the cold weather left your palm trees with browned frond, June is a good month to prune off the damaged parts. Now that new growth has begun, you can distinguish between healthy and damaged parts of the plant.

In most of Texas, early June signals the daily season. These long-time favorite perennials are not only the glory of the early summer garden, they are also among the easiest plants in the garden to grow. Tolerant of nearly any soil, daylilies perform best in full sun or light shade. The individual blooms last only one day, but well-maintained plants produce a succession of blooms over a 4 to 6 week period. For the most striking display, mass plants in groups of single colors, spacing them about 12 inches apart in all directions. They are also colorful along fences, walls, walkways and foundations. They may need to be divided every 3 or 4 years and June is a good month to do this after they bloom.

Now that the spring bulbs foliage has started to die back, fertilize the beds with 5-10-10 at the rate of one-half cup per square yard of planted area. Now is a good time to move bulbs if necessary.

Do not fail to notice the unusual beauty of the several blue vitex trees in bloom now. One is in the Village Live Oak Park and another at the home of Hilery Phillips.

Airman Perry Selected For A.F. Training

Airman Ricky D. Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry D. Perry of Ozona has been selected for technical training at Sheppard AFB, Texas, in the Air Force medical service field.

AIRMAN RICKY D. PERRY

The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas, and studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. Plan and shop carefully for used appliances—they range anywhere from "nearly new" to "nearly junk," says the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

First, spend some time getting acquainted with features and costs of new models. This will indicate whether the used appliance price is reasonable.

When considering a colored appliance, remember that color tones change periodically. This could create a color-match problem.

Also, be informed about advertising terminology. A "rebuilt appliance" usually has been checked, repaired and is in working condition.

It may even carry a store guarantee for a limited period of time—usually not more than 90 days.

The term "reconditioned appliance" indicates that the appliance has been cleaned and/or painted and put in working order.

Keep Picnic Food Safe

Keep spring picnics a happy occasion by preventing unwanted guests—Sal, Staph and C.P.—from going along.

These nicknamed guests—salmonella, staphylococcus and Clostridium perfringens bacteria—have the ability to wreck a good picnic with food-borne illness, explains Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Follow these guidelines to keep these harmful bacteria under control:

When carrying foods on a picnic, use supplemental cold such as ice or reusable cold packs to keep cold food below 40 degrees F. Do not place food in ice unless the ice is clean or the food is in a plastic bag or other protective container.

Keep hot food hot in a closed insulated container such as an extra ice chest.

The bacteria grow best at temperatures between 40 and 140 degrees F., so don't keep foods at these temperatures for more than one to two hours. As soon as the picnic meal is eaten, return leftovers to the container at 40 degrees F.

Use frozen slices of bread and fillings chilled to 40 degrees F. or below. Wrap sandwiches tightly in a plastic film wrapper and place in a picnic cooler where they will stay cold.

Do not prepare or purchase freshly prepared picnic foods more than 24 hours in advance.

Functional, stackable furniture makes maximum use of existing room space.

Fresh As A Daisy...

... the words instantly evoke a picture of crisp whiteness, of sunny yellow—a kind of jaunty joy. There's nothing depressing about daisies—pick a bunch and you automatically get a lift.

You start remembering old sayings like "Daisies don't tell." I wonder who invented that one. And that old game, "She loves me, she loves me not." Daisies have been flower fortune-tellers for longer than any of us can remember.

Yet daisies, too, have their season. Like everything else in nature, including man, they have a life span. And in their crisp, lilying way they make the most of it.

Do we? Someone once suggested that we should live each day as if it were our last. It seems a sobering thought at first. Yet, what a world it would be if we followed this advice!

Somewhere in the course of that tremendously important day, our steps would surely lead us to church.

Why wait?

Credit Act Has First Birthday

One year ago on June 1, married women were granted the opportunity to develop credit histories in their own names.

This right was granted by a 1976 amendment to the federal Equal Credit Opportunity Act, says Dr. Carolyn McKinney, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Under this amendment, on joint accounts opened after June 1, 1977, creditors that furnish credit information about married couples to consumer reporting agencies or other creditors are required to report the information in both spouses' names.

For joint accounts established prior to June 1, 1977, creditors were required to notify account holders of their right to have credit information reported in both names.

Frequently, these notices and approval forms were included with the monthly account statement, the specialist points out.

If the couple chose to have the credit information reported in both names, they had to complete and return the approval form to the creditor.

If both husband and wife use and are legally responsible for a credit account, the new regulations provide the right to have credit information reported in the name of both the wife and the husband.

Thus, credit histories are available to women who become divorced or widowed, and husband and wife can get equal acknowledgment for the credit history of the account.

For accounts established prior to June 1, 1977, some people may have overlooked the creditors' notices and thus the credit history continues to be reported only in the husband's name.

These wives may want to celebrate the "credit history anniversary" by requesting and completing the appropriate approval forms.

These, together with instructions for completion, should be available from the creditor's credit department.

SCENE OF VANDALISM-This scene of wanton destruction greeted Mrs. Glenn Sutton when she entered her rent house Monday morning after being out of town for a few days. The entire interior of the house at 1404 Ave. F had received attention from the vandals, even the bathroom where wall heaters were broken.

Vandals Wreck Rent House Here

Vandals ransacked the vacant rent house at 1304 Avenue F sometime this month, when owners Glen and Aileen Sutton were visiting relatives in Brownwood. Entry was possibly attained by the vandals through a front window, as the screen was found unattached and the glass window raised about three inches when Mrs. Sutton went to the house Sunday night to inspect new plumbing.

The living room of the home was littered with strewn paper towels, glass, rocks, two phones raggedly torn from their sockets, a thermostat yanked from a wall, curtains and a rod taken from above a window, and a bed slat apparently used to break light fixtures and possibly windows.

The heavy plate glass window in the living room was bashed, leaving an opening of about three feet in width, and several holes, apparently made by small rocks found in the floor, splattered above the larger one.

Two bedrooms of the three bedroom home were disturbed, one of which housed the open window and small, dirty foot or hand prints in a closet, neatly running up a white wall. The adjoining bedroom, whose light fixture was found broken into small pieces in the bathtub, was the messier of the two, with small bits of glass, burned matches and a mass of twisted wire scattered across the floor. The light fixture had apparently been unscrewed from its socket and then broken, as the screw attaching it to the ceiling fixture was found on the floor.

In the bathroom of the house, heater grates had been smashed and thrown onto the closet floor. The toilet was littered and unflushed, and on a shelf in the closet was found a pink and black purse half filled with small rocks, which Mrs. Sutton had never seen before.

The kitchen was also scattered with paper towels, and the back door was opened with the top hinges loosened and dangling.

Of seven rent houses, Mrs. Sutton cites this as her first experience with vandalism. The house had been vacated in April, and was cleaned on Mother's Day and ready to move. Mrs. Sutton said the doors were locked, though each was found open Sunday night. She added that local law enforcement officials had been asked to watch the house in her absence, but that the vandalism had occurred inside the home, and was not apparent from the outside except for the broken plate glass window in the front of the house.

History Places 2nd In State

"A History of Crockett County," compiled by the Crockett County Historical Society, was recently selected by the Texas Historical Commission to a second place in state for Best Historical Publications on local or regional history for the year.

The awards were made at the recent annual meeting of the commission and was one of the highlights at the awards luncheon where the state recognizes historical groups for outstanding accomplishments. This event marked the first time publications were recognized.

First place went to "Huntsville and Walker County," compiled and edited by D'Anne McAdams. Third place went to "San Antonio in the Eighteenth Century," compiled by the San Antonio Bicentennial Heritage Committee.

The Crockett County book has already sold over two-thirds of the volumes printed and profits will be used for the Crockett County Museum project. It was published under the leadership of Mrs. P.L. Childress and a committee and has had wide acceptance, orders having been received from many states and Canada.

Attending the Historical Commission in San Antonio were Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Harrell of the Crockett County Historical Commission.

We all know we'll be old one day, but I think we secretly believe we'll be different than we are now. We all think we'll be sharp as a tack when we're old, even if we never pick up a book today.

From somewhere, we seem to have adopted the idea that we will breeze through old age with even more self composure than we possess at our present age. After some thought, I have come to doubt that supposition very much.

I know old people who are charming, very aware and quite dedicated to their endeavors. Those are some of the greatest people I know, and I'm sure that with the new concentration on age discrimination, the breed will abound. That's terrific.

But, thinking back to the youth of these oldsters, I find they are the ones who were equally as charming in younger years. They were the active, aware middle-agers I hope to follow.

It has occurred to me that one cannot suddenly become a nice, pleasant, very informed elderly person when age sets in. It is certain that one must prepare for those days before they breeze in, as I hear they do indeed breeze in almost unnoticed.

I think, beginning at about age zero, it is time to begin preparing for life as it will follow. I know kids don't think about age or even about learning as much as they can, but parents can play a big part in training attitudes and awareness. Then, when the child wants to learn, he will, and he will probably continue throughout his life pursuing education, whether it be through books or "the college of hard knocks".

As an elderly person, he should surely still be striving to know more. I have wondered sometimes what makes the difference in the attitudes of the elderly, and I think I've stumbled across part of the answer.

It's preparation. It seems obvious.

Grant For Aging Goes To COG

The grant is awarded for the fiscal year beginning July

Tick Population Increases This Spring

Tick populations have increased dramatically this spring and are causing considerable problems for homeowners and their pets.

"The pests have been especially troublesome during recent weeks," notes Dr. Cliff Hoelscher of Stephenville, area entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Abundant numbers of ticks continuously reinfest landscape areas, thus making control difficult."

Ticks many times cause inconvenience and health hazards to both people and pets, points out the entomologist. The bites of these blood sucking parasites may become inflamed and infected due to the toxic secretion during tick feeding. Several diseases such as tick paralysis, tularemia and Rocky Mountain spotted fever may be transmitted through tick bites.

"Two of the most common ticks found in home landscapes in Texas are the brown dog tick and the American dog tick," says Hoelscher. "Both have four stages in their development—egg, six-legged larva, eight-legged nymph and eight-legged adult. Each stage develops on a separate host animal or bird. The life cycle varies from two to four months. After each feeding, the tick drops off the host and hides temporarily until the next development stage in its life cycle."

The brown dog tick is reddish-brown in color while the American dog tick is yellowish-brown when unfed and a slate gray when engorged. The brown dog tick is most common in inhabited areas and rarely occurs in rural areas. The American dog tick is most often found by sportsmen and people who work outside and is rarely found in the home or other buildings.

"American dog ticks are attracted by the scent of animals and are most numerous along roads, paths and trails. The brown dog tick hides in debris, cracks and crevices around buildings and is most often found on the ears, neck and between the toes of animals. Dogs are the preferred host of the American dog tick although both types frequently attack man and other animals," notes the entomologist.

The female tick may lay several thousand eggs. "Seed ticks", probably the most dreaded by humans, are the larval stages in the development of ticks. Animals may pick up hundreds in a single day; therefore frequent examination of domestic pets and prompt treatment of infestations is essential. When infestations occur, treat pets, home and premises at the same time.

"Heavy infestations in the home may require treatment by professionals," points out Hoelscher. "Light infestations can usually be controlled with light spot treatments with household sprays containing .5 percent diazinon or ronnel. Treatment of the dog's sleeping quarters, chairs, baseboards and around doors and windows is usually necessary. Removing the dog from the house plus treating the infested area may be the only means to control severe infestations."

Outside the home, ticks may be controlled with diazinon or carbaryl (Sevin) sprays or dusts. Carbaryl offers the best residual control. Use 5 percent carbaryl dust at the rate of 20 to 25 pounds per acre where vegetation is thin. Increase the dosage in heavy vegetation. If spray is used, mix 2 quarts of 25 percent diazinon emulsifiable concentrate in 25 gallons of water (5 tablespoons per gallon). Apply at the rate of one gallon of spray per 1,000 square feet of infested area.

Give particular attention to spraying along roadsides, animal trails and paths used by people since these are the areas where ticks congregate. Handle all insecticides properly and follow all directions on the label before applying control treatments, cautions the entomologist.

Examine dogs frequently for ticks. Light infestations can be controlled by dusts containing 5 percent carbaryl. Rub the dust onto the skin and apply to the animal's sleeping quarters weekly. Heavy infestations on pets may be handled best by dip treatments purchased from a veterinarian.

S.S. June Visit Is Scheduled

Garland Gregg, representative for the San Angelo Social Security Office, has scheduled his June visit to Ozona. He will be at the County Courthouse on Wednesday, June 21, between 2:00 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Anyone who wants to file a claim for benefits, get information, or transact other business with the Social Security Administration may contact him at this time. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo. Residents of Ozona may call toll free by dialing "Operator" and asking for "Enterprise 2058".

Social security number application requirements have changed. Contact the social security office for details.

One of the great troubles with modern civilization is the men and women who think they know it all.

The reason truth makes such slow progress in the world is that it's in competition with pretense.

Most Children Resist Parental Control

Most children express their individuality by resisting parental control or guidance to some degree.

At these groping stages, children have an exaggerated awareness of "self." They may feel limits or directions imposed on them by parents are threats to their developing independence. "Just a minute..." is a favorite expression of children who dawdle, daydream, poke around or are angry. Often parents interpret these actions as "pure contrariness"—and they may be right.

A contrary or uncooperative child is usually behaving in this manner to show parents his resistance to demands.

However, sometimes the age and stage of development of the child causes him to resist, Dorothy Taylor with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service explains.

He may be developing toward maturity and needs to try his own ideas, or he may be searching for independence he sees in others in his own peer group.

It is perfectly normal for parents to meet such resistance with increased insistence on compliance, which only increases the child's determination to protect himself by not complying.

If the test continues, a pushing-resisting cycle may become a pattern for this parent-child relationship.

Stubbornness, negativity, willfulness or overt rebellion are indicators of extreme resistance to parental directives, the specialist reports.

Some children will withdraw and appear quiet and mild-mannered, especially when they fear loss of parental approval or love. Other children will use excuses, exaggeration or deception to resist too much parental control.

Habits of walking, talking, sitting and standing, poor table manners, grooming habits and forgotten social nicety can become subjects of how WE kept our head above water IN 1812.

Freedom of the seas. That's what the War of 1812 was all about. But it would have been sink or swim for our Navy had Americans not bought $11,000,000 worth of government securities to keep our flag upon the waves. Back then, folks took stock in America by putting their money where their country was. To save the good old Navy.

Today, over 9½ million modern Americans still take stock in America by buying U.S. Savings Bonds. When you join the Payroll Savings Plan, you help yourself to safe, automatic savings. And you help your country, too. So buy U.S. Savings Bonds. They'll keep your savings on an even keel.

New E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

confrontation between parents and their growing children.

When lectures, scolding or put-downs become part of the parents' disciplinary actions every time they meet the child, children will become overburdened and resist, Miss Taylor warns.

Parental domination that "breaks a child's will" is not healthy for either the parent or the child.

But, parental support of the child and understanding the message their child is sending is the first step in answering a child's needs--or helping him find answers for himself, she adds.
