Mrs. Cade Services here Sun.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ed (Lorene) Cade, 72, were held Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. in the First Baptist Church with burial in Cedar Hill Cemetery under the direction of Sheppard Funeral Home.

Mrs. Cade died Friday morning at 2:30 in Crockett County Hospital.

She was born Nov. 7, 1906 in Williamson County, and had been a resident of Ozona for 42 years. She was married to Ed Cade April 126, 1947, in San Angelo. She was a member of the Baptist Church and Order of the Eastern Star.

Survivors include her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Jones of Houston; one stepson, Ed Cade Jr.; four sisters, Mrs. Thelma Matheson and Mrs. Chrystal Joyce, both of San Angelo, Mrs. Lola Mae Weatherford of Miles and Mrs. Agnes Wilkerson of Pennsylvania; and two grandchildren.

WESTERN DAY AT OZONA INTERMEDIATE- Students and faculty joined in the fun Friday as Western Day was proclaimed at the elementary school. There were cowboys, Indians and little old women in pioneer dress. Here teachers and class sit around the campfire in the music room.

Board makes coaching change

All teachers were rehired last week at the Crockett County School Board's monthly meeting. Coach Rip Sewell was rehired as driver's education instructor and track coach, but relieved of his duties as head football coach. The board accepted the resignation from the faculty of Margaret Tabb.

Coach Sewell, interviewed Monday night, said he had made no decision about future plans. He said the board's action was a complete surprise to him and had he known they were not satisfied, he would have resigned.

Sewell also said he had received several offers since the board took the action last week, but had been so busy with the Ozona Relays, held last week, and the upcoming District meet, to be held here April 7, he had not really had time to consider his future.

Sewell also denied the rumor, floating around Ozona Friday, that he cleaned out his desk and quit after he was told of the board's action.

Sewell has been Lion football coach for 11 years and had two district championships. However, his young, inexperienced ball club failed to win a game last season, and that was possibly the deciding factor in the board's action.

Superintendent Foy Moody said the board felt it was in the best interest of the school district in relieving Sewell of his football coaching duties and he felt sure it was a final decision on the part of the school board.

Mrs. Tabb retired after 36 years teaching in the Ozona School System. She will have finished her tenure at the end of this term. Presently teaching fourth grade at Ozona Intermediate, some of her students are the grandchildren of her earlier students.

In other action at the meeting last week, the board approved the school calendar for the 1979-80 term and approved the textbook committee report. The committee is made up of fifteen local teachers and principals and they select textbooks for the Ozona schools from the four or five selected in a subject by the state committee.

The board also held further discussion on the school building program which is still in progress after almost eighteen months. They are still hoping to move into the new buildings before the present school term ends. The architect is drawing up specifications for a new school building to replace the main primary building which burned last year. The board hopes to put out the bids sometime in April.

Sherrill appointed in Sutton

Charles Sherrill has been appointed Sutton County Judge to succeed J. W. (Web) Elliott, who announced his intention to resign in December. Judge Sherrill was sworn in Thursday at 9 a.m. in the Sutton County Courthouse in Sonora.

Judge Sherrill served for 14 years as 112th District Judge, which takes in Ozona and Crockett County. He resigned that position in August, 1977, and moved to Sonora where he is currently a partner in the law firm of Morriss, Sherrill and Ervine.

Emergency alert in operation

An emergency alert system has been installed at the fire station by Southwest Microwave. The early warnings system will be operated by Ozona Volunteer Firemen and will be operated only in case of emergency.

When the system is in use, it will cut out several television channels. It will be tested on the first day of each month for a count of five.

Lions place 3rd in relays

Sonora won the championship trophy in both boys and girls divisions in the 28th Annual Ozona Relays held here Saturday in a drizzle of rain. Coahoma was in second place and Ozona took the third place trophy in the boys division.

The Sonora boys scored 158 points for the win while Coahoma had 111 points and Ozona 80 points. Alpine scored 73 points, Junction, 59, Bracketville, 13, and Menard, 2.

In beating Alpine for the third place finish, the Lions had three first place finishers. Dan Sewell won the pole vault with a leap of 13', Johnny Rodriguez won the 800 meter dash with a time of 2:05.4, and Randy Ramos won the 400 meter dash with a time of 53.5.

Other Ozona results were as follows:

Shane Fenton, sixth in pole vault, 11'

Fred Garza, fifth in long jump, 20'2"; fourth in high hurdles; third in intermediate hurdles.

Joe Rebelez, third in shot put, 44'4"; fourth in discus, 114'4".

Ozona's 400 meter relay team of Hector Leal, Felix Flores, Dan Sewell and Ernie Borrego, placed fifth with 47.1.

Dan Sewell, fifth in 100 yd dash, 10.8

Randy Ramos, fourth in 200 meter dash with 24.2

Richard Garza, sixth in mile run with 5:12.3

1600 meter relay team, Ramos, Dan Martinez, Rodriguez and Garza, second with 3:41.6

The Lions will be in Sonora to participate in that city's 23rd annual meet, along with the girls varsity and the boys JV. The meet begins at 2 p.m. and the finals are set for 7 p.m.

Students launch balloons

Countdown to the "Big Launch" at Ozona Primary School second grade began at 1:00 p.m. Monday, March 19. That's when students sent 100 helium-filled balloons soaring into the sky as part of the new nationwide Writing Pals contest sponsored by Weekly Reader, the classroom newspaper.

Jack Probst, Principal, said an estimated quarter of a million schoolchildren throughout the United States are filling the skies with the Writing Pals balloons throughout this week.

Goal of the Weekly Reader's Balloon Contest, said Probst, is to generate interest in Weekly Reader's Writing Pals, a program aimed at building writing skills in youngsters.

Each bright yellow balloon contains a card. Finders are asked to fill in their names and addresses and mail the cards back to the school that launched the balloon. Then the children will write personal letters to the balloon finders.

Children are encouraged to learn about the geography, economy, and history of the areas to which their balloons travel.

Letters to explain new tax exemption

Letters will be mailed from the Crockett County Tax Assessor-Collector's office early next week relaying information on filing for an extra $5,000 residential homestead tax exemption, according to Tommy Stokes, deputy tax assessor-collector.

Texas voters approved what is now known as the "Tax Relief Amendment," Nov. 7, 1978, which grants each owner of a residential homestead a $5,000 exemption from the market value of the residence, effective Jan. 1, 1979. The added homestead exemption applies to school taxes only, but in Crockett County, the county tax office handles the school tax as well as the county and state property tax. To receive the exemption, the property owner must file with the tax office each year, between Jan. 1 and April 30.

Stokes said the exemption would not amount to much for Crockett County homeowners, as homes are already on the roles for much less than market value. He estimates loss of school taxes due to the new law at around $13,000 annually.

Letters to property owners, which are being prepared this week, will outline in detail what the property owner must do to receive the extra exemption. Upon verification, the proper exemptions will be reflected on a 1979 tax statement. This exemption is separate and in addition to the "over 65" exemption.

Clinic processes over 300

The Diabetic and Blood Pressure Clinic, sponsored by the Family Living Committee was a definite success. A total of 304 persons were checked for blood pressure, 46 for anemia, and 82 for diabetes. Of this number 35 will need to be rechecked for high blood pressure and 3 for anemia. The results of the diabetes tests are not available at this time.

A special thank you to the Family Living Committee and volunteers who helped complete the clinic.

Thunderstorm brings rain and some hail

A slow-moving front was responsible for a hail and thunderstorm that dumped 1.02 inches of rain on Ozona around 4 a.m. Monday. The hail fell briefly at the height of the storm. Although some large hailstones were noticed, no damage was reported.

By daybreak the storm had passed, but light drizzle fell all day Monday and a humid 75 degrees under fast moving clouds boded more to come. Although thunderstorms were in the forecast for Monday and Tuesday, only light drizzle fell on occasion and skies were overcast at mid-afternoon with a slight south wind.

Crockett County missed the deluge which dumped up to five inches of rain on Barnhart Monday morning and washed out parts of Hwy. 163, closing the road to traffic for a brief period of time, and sending flash flood warnings to residents along Spring Creek.

The Monday morning storm traveled from east to west with the heaviest part of the storm passing over Ozona. Up to 3 inches were reported in rain gauges in parts of Ozona, but the official gauge at the Water District office measured 1.02 as did several other gauges in town. Heavier rain was reported on the west hill.

The Childress ranch located a few miles north of Ozona reported only .50 of an inch and the Baggett ranch south of Ozona reported no more than .75 of an inch, so the heavy story was isolated. However, heavy rains and isolated thunderstorms were reported throughout West Texas to the north of Crockett County.

Heavy thunderstorms and tornado alert was issued for Crockett County at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Turkey Roost listed in historical register

Turkey Roost, a significant Crockett County historical site, was officially listed in the National Register of Historic Places on October 19, 1978. Nominated for inclusion in the Register by the Texas Historical Commission, the site is now formally recognized for its contribution to the history of the American people.

The Turkey Roost petroglyphs (prehistoric rock carvings) are located 13 miles northeast of Ozona. The elaborate carvings can be seen on two exposures of limestone bedrock. Turkey Roost is the only known rock art site in eastern Crockett County, and the designs here are distinct from carvings in neighboring areas. The petroglyphs and remains of nearby refuse heaps suggest the area was occupied by early man during a relatively long span of years.

The National Register is a nationwide inventory of historic values. Turkey Roost is one of approximately 575 Texas sites or archeological, historical, or architectural significance which have been included in the National Register, under the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966.

This designation does not infringe upon the private property rights of site owners. It does offer a measure of protection from disturbance in any federally-funded or licensed project such as highway or reservoir construction. National Register properties are also eligible for financial assistance through the grant-in-aid program. Such funds can be used for acquisition, preservation, or restoration of the sites. The federal funds distributed to the states as grants-in-aid are not tax monies; they are part of lease payments to the Department of Interior for resource exploration on public lands.

Funds are allocated to the states each year through the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service of the Interior Department. The money is administered in Texas by the National Register office of the Texas Historical Commission, under the direction of Truett Latimer, State Historic Preservation Officer and Executive Director of the agency.

The amount each state receives varies from year to year. Texas' 1979 allocation of $1,494,000 is the fifth largest state grant in the nation, reflecting Texas' active preservation efforts. Although the annual grants have increased in recent years, there are only sufficient funds for a limited number of National Register projects. The 1979 money has been designated for preservation work, studies, and surveys involving 52 Texas National Register sites.

The Texas Historical Commission is the Official State Agency for Historic Preservation. It acts as a clearinghouse for preservation information, sponsors educational and consultation programs, and publishes preservation-related materials. The agency is responsible for the state historical marker program and for an extensive program of workshops, publications, and services in the fields of preservation, archeology, and museology. The Commission works closely with a network of 250 county historical commissions as well as 237 nonprofit heritage organizations in the state.

NEEDED—A QUICK FIX

By Edwin Feulner

Do we really want 1984 to come?

We might not be ready. By an unfortunate coincidence, Orwell's notorious war crops up just when the Soviet Union could catch us short-handed. The early eighties—the time frame covered by SALT II—may see the Soviets achieving an edge over the United States in strategic capabilities. Coming too soon for long-range development programs already on the boards, and new remedies requiring long lead times, the next thousand days could find the West unexpectedly vulnerable.

What are the alternatives? If SALT II is rejected by the U.S. Senate we hardly want a panicky, scrambling arms race in which we'd be at a disadvantage. Obviously, we would need to operate from a position of strength. But that's just what the next few years are programmed to deny us.

According to a book just released by the National Strategy Information Center, there are feasible short term options available to the U.S. Strategic Options For The Early Eighties, What Can Be Done?, by William R. Van Cleave of the University of Southern California and W. Scott Thompson of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts, presents the research of the Strategic Alternatives Team, an independent group of leading scientists and strategists.

The Team's work is based on two premises: the probable Soviet edge over the United States in the next half decade; and the certainty that there must be something we can do. They reject the view of most administration officials, who believe that a Soviet advantage during the early eighties is inevitable regardless of what the U.S. does.

Doing something is the whole idea. Stressing urgency, the quick-fix study suggests a range of short term options for meeting immediate, or almost immediate dangers. According to Van Cleave and Thompson, "the immediate problem is that, even if the U.S. government should now decide to embark upon major programs to redress the deteriorating balance, there could still be a threatening peak of relative Soviet strategic power during the first half of the eighties. . . . We must be able to avert the danger during this interim period."

Some quick-fix suggestions: speed up programs already underway (as we did twenty years ago with Minuteman and Polaris); bring cancelled programs back to life (the B-1 for example); adapt new uses for present weapons (for instance, moving strategic bombers to bases further inland, or adding parallel runways to existing air fields); and working better with our allies.

The quick-fix idea is characterized by "the ability to achieve something worth doing in a short time, whether it be temporary or long term, a major program or a variety of small innovations," write Van Cleave and Thompson. While not necessarily favoring one option over another, the Team agrees on two points: there are short term remedies available; their number and utility are reduced as time passes.

Proponents of SALT II seem to view the world a little less than realistically. To them, political compromise and uneasy reassurances provide the safest baggage on the rocky road just ahead. Since we're all traveling together, I'd like to think we were a little better prepared.

The quick-fix suggestions are timely and sensible and deserve serious consideration.

Loeffler calls Taiwan bill "slap in the face"

Congressman Tom Loeffler called last night's passage of the U. S. -Taiwan Relations Bill a "slap in the face to our former trusted friend and ally."

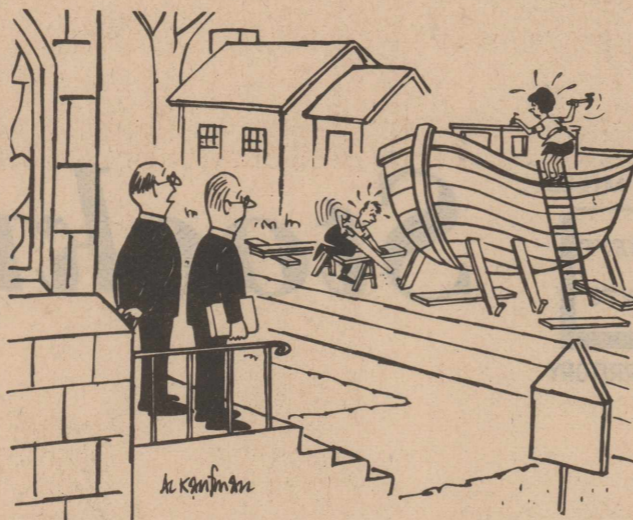

"Fifty-four other courageous Members joined me in standing our ground and telling the Carter Administration we resent his unilateral action in turning his back on Taiwan," Loeffler said.

"The original Administration bill concerning Taiwan relations was terrible. The House improved the bill somewhat, but amendment after amendment which would have done what should have been done were defeated last Thursday, leaving a choice last night of voting on a bill that in essence told the Administration we approved of the President's actions.

"The bill passed last night still does not provide adequate economic or military security for Taiwan; it virtually invites the People's Republic of China to take over the islands of Quemoy and Matsu anytime they feel so inclined; it firmly established a One-China policy; it cast Taiwan politically adrift with serious implications to the security of the area in coming years; and it announced to the world that this Congress would stand by for this President to cancel any mutual defense treaty at any time he might chose.

"I feel it sets a dangerous precedent," Loeffler concluded.

"The silliest of all people are those who do foolish things to show off." Vauvenargues

"I think the Willoughbys know something we don't."

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—If you aren't convinced that teachers are dipping hot over what they are paid in Texas to perform the delicate and crucial task of training young minds, then you should have been in the Senate chamber at mid-week.

Unfortunately, you might not have been able to find a seat as more than 3,000 teachers stuffed themselves into the Senate gallery for the beginning of school finance hearings.

Teachers came from every nook and cranny of the state. Some sat several hours in the cramped gallery and then drove most of the night to make it back to their classrooms by the next morning.

If nothing else, the teachers proved they are angry, determined and "tired of begging for better wages," said one teacher from West Texas.

"We're furious," declared another teacher from Dallas. "Even Republicans are upset."

Gov. Bill Clements, the first Republican governor in more than a 100 years, proposed no new raises for public school teachers. Most teachers described the Legislative Budget Board's 5.1 percent hike in salaries as "minimal."

"I think Clements is just getting even," a teacher from South Texas said. "This is what we get for working hard for John Hill." For those who missed the last elections, former Texas Attorney General John Hill was Clements' opponent in his bid for the governor's office.

Teachers, smarting from Hill's loss, hope to have better luck backing Sen. Pete Snelson's school finance bill that would raise their salaries 15 percent over the next two years. Two other school finance bills before the Senate are not as generous to the teachers. "There are some of us though," said one teacher, "who cannot go on in this profession because year after year we are falling farther and farther behind because of inflation."

But teachers realize that voters have been racked by the same debilitating effects of inflation and are in no mood to increase the salaries of state employees.

Few teachers who crammed into the Senate chamber this week came with any childish notions that their struggle for fair and decent wages would be an easy one.

And it will probably be a long wait before the teachers know what good or bad awaits them because only this week did deliberations on the voter-mandated tax relief amendment begin on the House floor.

Until that issue can be resolved, a school finance bill waits in the wings.

Tax Relief Amendment

Not surprisingly, debate over an omnibus tax measure was slow, tedious and sometimes boring as Rep. Bob Davis of Irving, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, tried to explain the committee's bill that would reimburse local school districts $421.7 million over the next two years to replace revenues lost because of new property tax exemptions.

Estimates vary, but a realistic amount of how much your school taxes might go down is just over $40 a year. Maybe. First, a school district must decide to slash taxes by the same amount of state money being reimbursed.

More debate is undoubtedly ahead on the tax relief amendment bill. And then more arguments in the Senate. House members have introduced 100 amendments to the Ways and Means' bill. No telling what changes will be proposed in the Senate.

And if it dawns on you that the 66th session is headed for a special session (or sessions), don't feel alone. Rumors to that effect are already circulating through the Capitol and for good reasons.

More than sixty days of the 140-day session have passed. And even though a constitutional provision spells out that the first 60 days of a regular session should be spent introducing bills and hearing testimony before committees, Capitol observers say legislators are waiting anxiously for the first confrontation between Clements and the predominantly Democratic Legislature. After the first real donnybrook, Capitol experts say things will get back to normal. But it may be too late in the game which means you can bet on a special session (or sessions).

Presidential Primary

Some legislators are saying that Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby made a tactical error by pumping lobbyists this week to support a bill that would separate a proposed presidential primary from regular state primary elections.

Hobby gathered 100 lobbyists in the plush surroundings of an Austin drinking establishment and tried to persuade them to think like he was thinking when it comes to a presidential primary bill.

Some legislators felt Hobby should have been more "discreet" about such a meeting. Speaker of the House Billy Clayton disagreed. "I always figure," said Clayton, "that if you want a job done, you solicit troops from anywhere you can get them."

Hobby said he was only using "every device I know of in the Legislature to accomplish this goal."

So far, Clements has remained uncommitted concerning the question of a presidential primary bill. But the governor has stood firm in his belief that Texas voters should be given the right of initiative and referendum—the right to initiate law or strike down those already passed by the Legislature.

Hobby also tried his best to convince lobbyists they should labor night and day against any such laws that give voters initiative and referendum powers. Hobby feels initiative and referendum powers might open up the lawmaking process to crackpots and special interest groups.

"Do I ask what you're going to do with the money when I make a deposit?"

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: Can a doctor refuse to release the patient's personal medical file and all x-rays and test results to a patient or his agent when his services are terminated?

A: In the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, the patient's medical file and x-rays are the property of the physician rather than the patient, even though the cost of the x-rays is paid by the patient. Therefore, the patient would have no absolute right outside of the judicial process to the release of his records; a physician, however, has an ethical duty to make a patient's records available on request to another physician presently treating the patient.

Q: My husband has credit life insurance on himself, covering our home mortgages, car loans, and other personal loans. This insurance would pay off any existing balance on these items in the event of his death. If he died, would the amount paid by the insurance companies be counted as income paid to me and therefore subject to taxes?

A: Pursuant to Section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended, the amount paid by the insurance companies would not be income subject to federal income taxes to you, whether received by you and then paid to the creditors or received directly by the creditors.

Q: I have, besides a life insurance policy, vested monies in a profit sharing plan where I work. My wife is named as beneficiary on both. In the event of my death would she have to pay taxes on the money she received?

A: With respect to the life insurance, generally the money received by your wife would not be subject to federal income taxation pursuant to Section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended. Assuming that the profit sharing plan is a "qualified" plan under the Internal Revenue Code, and that you have not been taxed on any amounts contributed to the plan by your employer, the amounts received from the plan would be subject to federal income tax, with the amount of tax depending on specific facts associated with your income, the plan, and the manner of payments from the plan to you.

Q: I am a widow with small children and I'm in the process of writing my will. Can I name a person from another state as guardian for my minor children?

A: Yes. Texas law permits the surviving parent of a minor to appoint either a resident of Texas or a nonresident of Texas as guardian. You may make the appointment of a guardian for your minor children either by will or by written declaration.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

March is the first month of the spring vegetable-gardening season in much of Texas. In all but the coolest regions, now is the time to sow seeds and set out plants of some vegetables outdoors. Some of you may have planted seeds in flats indoors or in a cold frame to have plants ready after danger of frost is over. Be prepared to cover any that frost would kill. Actually, until good Friday there could be killing frost, so keep up with the weather forecast.

You know that spring is on the way in when the border forsythia (intermedia) explodes into bloom. This plant is extremely desirable for our area for several reasons. It will grow in almost any type of soil, it is highly resistant to insect pests and diseases, and it will tolerate an amazing amount of neglect and abuse. A gently arching form and spreading habit of growth make the forsythia an excellent choice for the naturalistic garden.

Even though forsythia is valued primarily for its sunny, yellow flowers its usefulness in the landscape doesn't end when the flowers are gone. The summertime effect of rich-green foliage and its handsome, twiggy character during the winter make forsythia an extremely useful plant for its year-round seasonal effects. Try one in your landscape this year.

Forsythia is a relatively fast-growing plant, reaching a height and width of 6 to 12 feet, but it takes a number of years to develop its characteristic morended habit of growth. The immature plant will tend to grow straight up, but as it matures, the branches will begin to arch up and over, creating a softer, more horizontal appearance. It should be spaced 3 to 4 feet apart if in groups or hedge. Against a background of larger evergreen plants, the brilliance of the flowers and the character of the form become more pronounced. Every 3 or 4 years, the older branches may need to be removed to permit the younger more vigorous shoots to develop, but this should be done only in the early spring after the flowers have faded. If later than May, chances are the plant will not flower the following March. There are several varieties of this beautiful plant.

A popular foliage plant for use in flowerbeds is the copper leaf. It is a useful background for low-growing annuals. The orange-bronze color of the leaves is especially pleasing in the fall when this plant is used as a companion for mums. Set out plants after danger of frost is past. Chrysanthemums can be planted at the same time. For the best effect, mass plants together by color. After plants have been in the ground about a month, begin pinching out the tips of the stems to encourage branching. Compact, bushy plants produce more flowers.

Prevent poisoning accidents--practice safety rules at home.

Start NOW, and remember "Children Act Fast--So Do Poisons," the theme of this year's National Poison Prevention Week (March 18-24)

Keep all household products and medicines out of children's reach.

Keep them always in sight when using them--even take them along to answer the telephone or doorbell.

Lock them up when not in use, if possible.

Store internal medicines separately from other household products.

Keep items in their original containers--never in cups or soft-drink bottles.

Properly label all products, and read the label before using.

Always use a light when giving or taking medicines.

Avoid taking medicines in front of children--children tend to imitate adults.

Refer to medicines as "medicines"--not "candy."

Clean the medicine cabinet periodically. Throw away unneeded medicines when the illness for which they were prescribed is over.

A tree silhouetted against the sky . . . clouds drifting through the air -- common sights. But this tree highlighted by these clouds is dramatic.

Often it's the combination, the merging of people or things that attracts our attention and excites our imagination.

In our community there are places of worship -- churches. Viewed simply as empty buildings, they can seem ordinary. And people in a crowd can often lose their individuality.

But bring together scores of people, united in a common faith, to worship God, and suddenly there's a merging of the human and the Divine that rises above the commonplace.

God and man united in purpose -- this is the world's best hope!

History of American quilting

[Editors note: The following is an article prepared especially for the quilt and coverlet exhibit now open at the Crockett County Museum. The research and article was done by Evert White at the request of museum officials.]

by Evert White

"To the gentle women throughout time who have made this life just a little bit warmer and a lot more beautiful, through the untiring industry of their hands and the abiding love in their hearts."

This seems an appropriate dedication for any study or show of quilts or coverlets that are the heritage of America from the creative abilities of past generations of American women. As a nation, we have been slow to recognize and appreciate our ancestors' great accomplishments in the decorative arts. It's an extraordinary fact that not until 1924 with the opening of the American wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Arts in New York, were the American decorative arts given major display space in a museum.

The source material available for the study of textiles and their uses is small. Inventories and diaries mention various types of cloth by name, but include few descriptions and since textiles quickly become worn, they were usually destroyed rather than being stored in an attic. Most that has been written on the subject has been repetitive and based on supposition or unrelated facts.

With English examples as a guide, it is possible to reconstruct the history of American bedcoverings because of the similarities in style. Styles in America lagged several decades behind those of England and Europe were too busy gaining a foothold in their new surroundings to worry about the latest fashions. Strength and warmth were of chief importance. But when the time finally arrived for a "dressing up" the housewife remembered what she had seen at home and recreated it in America.

By definition a quilt is a padded needlework cover, usually for a bed. It is made of several thicknesses of material, the top part, the interlining of filling, and the bottom. These are stretched tight over a quilting frame. A design is marked in soft pencil lines or chalk on the plain side of the quilt. The various thicknesses of the quilt are sewed together along the lines of the quilting design. The interlining of the quilt may be of cotton, wool, kapok or some other material. The top may be a piece-quilt design, or it may use patchwork or embroidery. In a piece quilt, small pieces of different colors and designs are pieced together for the quilt top. A wild hodgepodge of colors is used in a "crazy quilt."

Patchwork quilts were cut-out cloth designs which are applied or sewed on top of a large piece of cotton material. Embroidered quilts are made of one or more pieces of embroidery. Quilting was one of the favorite home arts in early America. Colorful scraps of material and favorite quilting designs were combined to provide beauty and warmth in the bedrooms. Since the sewing process adds much strength to the fabrics, such quilts have often been handed down as heirlooms.

When the quilt had been pieced, the neighbor women were usually invited in to help do the final stitching and enjoy refreshments and maybe a bit of gossiping. Such "quilting bees" or parties were popular among both farm and city women. There has been a modern revival of interest in quilting.

As the artistic abilities of the creators were varied, so were the designs and artistic excellence of the quilts that resulted from their efforts. Perhaps the most popular type of quilts that resulted from their efforts. Perhaps the most popular type of quilt was the applique design followed by the piece quilt and the patchwork quilt. Fascinating accounts of the many designs and colors, along with the story of their development and creation in early America, may be found in volumes on the subject now available in our own Crockett county library - "America's Quilts and Coverlets" by Safford and Bishop and "Award Winning Quilts" by Effie Chalmers Pfort.

Of the many types of bedcoverings discussed, the "bed rug" or "rugge" is a course coverlet of Finnish and Norwegian origin, most worked on a course wollen homespun, often called "say" in the eighteenth century. This background is usually a butternut-dyed, heavy plain woolen. Our American bedding are usually initialed and dated by their makers. One of the earliest known examples is owned by the Essex Institute in Salem, Mass. and is inscribed "M 1722 A". It was made by Mary Avery of North Andover, Mass. It is worked in wool on a homespun linen in a bold, unschooled, original design.

Forty years of public interest in restoration and decoration of eighteenth-century American homes has made the term "linsey-woolsey" quite well known, according to the experts. Linsey-woolsey has two important characteristics in a study of bed coverings. First, it is a quilted spread, perhaps the earliest type of quilting in the Colonies; and second, it is made of wool and is nearly always found in the country, especially in the cold regions. It is defined as being a course fabric of cotton or linen woven with wool. It is not necessarily, therefore, always a combination of linen and wool, as the name would imply. The linsey comes from Lindsay, a village in Suffolk, England, where the fabric originated. The term usually connotes a heavy quilted material particularly useful in the cold climates.

The whole-cloth spread was the result of growing affluence in America. With the growth of both population and wealth in the New World, ships arriving in Boston and New York brought silk and damask from France and Italy, brocades and velvets from Spain and printed chintzes from England. The desire to have the printed fabrics that were fashionable in London became so great that the demand could not be satisfied. In Boston it became very fashionable to decorate one's town house with many bolts of the same fabric, which should be ordered from Europe. A famous Bostonian ordered from London in 1720 "Curtains and Valens for a Bed with Counterpane, Head-cloth and Tester of good yellow watered camlet with trimmings well made..." The words 'counterpane' and 'coverlid' (coverlet) appear to have been used synonymously. The word 'counterpane' is believed to be derived from 'counterpoint' which was in common use in Mary Stuart's time. She became a very skillful needleworker while a prisoner of the English. When she made an article of clothing for warmth, she put two pieces of fabric together, inserted a filling, and stitched them together at important points called "quilt points" or "counterpoints." Thus "quilting" became a common word in the history of bedcover.

Another very popular type of eighteenth-century needlework is "White Work", also a form of quilting. Commonly called "trapunto" it is thought to have come from Italy to England about the time of Queen Anne. From England it spread to the Colonies. Trapunto comprises two fabrics quilted together with no stuffing between. The top fabric was always a fine white cotton; bottom a linen or cotton homespun. After these two fabrics were sewn together in an intricate design of extremely fine stitches, the individual parts of the design were stuffed with soft cotton from the back through the loosely woven homespun. Every part of the design was filled in this way, producing a sculptured effect with highlights and shadows. The scarcity of cotton suitable for this delicate work made trapunto rather rare, but, being made of cotton, examples of this work have usually survived in better condition than spreads of wool or silk.

We are all familiar with patchwork quilts, for many of us have inherited them or seen them in museums or antique shops. These quilts are fascinating not only for their marvelous variety of color and design, but also for their astonishing craftsmanship. We can only wonder at We are all familiar with patchwork quilts, for many of us have inherited them or seen them in museums or antique shops. These quilts are fascinating not only for their marvelous variety of color and design, but also for their astonishing craftsmanship. We can only wonder at the sheer doggedness of the women who found joy in creating a work of art by cutting leftover pieces of fabric into one-inch squares, diamonds, or hexagons and then sewing them together again into a large, overall design.

In these geometrical creations every seam was a straight line. Any person who could thread a needle and sew could learn to make an even stitch in a straight line. In this way she assembled her countless dozens of pre-cut pieces; indeed, some pieced quilts have been counted, and contain over 4,000 patches.

The four main types of American coverlets are Over-shot, Double Weave, Summer and Winter and Jacquard. The earliest coverlets were probably brought from Europe as household goods, and these eventually had to be replaced. Almost every family possessed a small four-harness loom (as well as coverlet patterns or drafts) either brought from Europe or fashioned in America of hand-hewn logs; and the girls in the family had been taught to spin the linen and wool that made the warp and weft of the coverlets. Thus coverlets were one of the early forms of home weaving. However, we do not have examples of seventeenth and early eighteenth century coverlets that we can date to those periods with certainty, for names and dates were not used in these early coverlets.

One of the few remaining books of coverlet patterns is in the collection of the Philadelphia Museum of Arts. It belonged to John Landes, one of a family of Mennonite weavers who traveled by horse and cart from farm to farm, setting up shop and weaving whatever the household needed at the time. There are seventy-seven patterns in the book.

Some of the more popular patterns were: The Double Wedding Ring, Dresden Plate, Sun Flower, Tulip, Rosebud and The Flower Garden. Others were the Cathedral Window, Drunkard's Path or The Road to California, Martha Washington's Log Cabin (usually called Log Cabin), Grandmother's Pierced Tulip. The star and its variation were probably the most numerous. Some of the Star patterns were: The Star of Bethlehem, Pierced Star, Stars and Stripes, The Lone Star (a favorite in Texas), The Eight Point Star, The Blazing Star and The National Star.

Variation of Texas Star quilt in exhibit

Interest runs high in antique exhibit

by Evert White

A great deal of interest is being shown in the Crockett County Museum's display of antique quilts and coverlets which was opened last week. An almost steady stream of visitors toured the tastefully displayed quilt exhibit in the museum. Older people who had witnessed the making of the intricately designed quilts of pioneer days were delighted at the memories the old quilts brought back and the younger visitors are at once infatuated with the beauty of some of the designs and with the patience of the pioneer women in creating these artistic household necessities.

Of absorbing interest were two crocheted bedspreads, one made in Austria and brought to this country by the Von Schauer family, early day residents of Ozona, and the other made by nurses in St. John's Hospital in San Angelo for the late Dr. A.W. Clayton, father of Joe Clayton and the late Warren and Boyd Clayton, an early day physician of Ozona, and later of San Angelo. The Schauer spread was made of Austrian linen thread. It is not known whether the spread made by the St. John nurses was of cotton or linen. Both are beautiful examples of gifted handwork.

An elaborately pieced quilt which won first place in the Missouri State Fair in 1900 is another interesting display. The quilt was made by the great-great aunt of Mother Flowers (Mrs. B.C.) mother of Mrs. Walter Augustine and grandmother of Mrs. Jack Brewer of Ozona.

Another particularly interesting quilt was one made by Mrs. W. H. Montgomery, matriarch of the Montgomery family of Ozona. It pictured an American flag sporting only fourteen stars, believed the whimsical recording of the fact that she was the mother of fourteen children.

These are but the highlights of the elaborate display of some 54 quilts and coverlets brought in by Ozonans and former Ozonans. The quilt display may be viewed Monday through Friday afternoons between the hours of 2:00 to 5:00.

OZONA METHODIST WOMEN enjoy soup and sandwiches Thursday in the fellowship hall. The event was part of the week-long fellowship with visiting preachers which ended with services Sunday evening.

Bean cake tops soup 'n sandwiches

Everybody took turn with meals last week at the Methodist Church during a week-long fellowship. On two occasions the ladies of the church served soup and sandwich lunches.

The various soups and sandwiches were elegant, but the most unusual delicacy happened to be a cake. Not just any cake, a pinto bean cake, made by Mary Lea Jones. Mrs. Jones graciously agreed to share her recipe and here it is:

- PINTO BEAN CAKE
 1 cup sugar
 1/4 cup butter
 1 egg beaten
 2 cups cooked pinto beans, mashed
 1 cup flour
 1 teas. soda
 1/2 teas. salt
 1 teas. cinnamon
 1/4 teas. cloves
 1/2 teas. allspice
 1/2 cup chopped pecans
 2 cups diced, raw apples
 1 cup white raisins
 1 teas. vanilla
 Cream sugar and butter, add beaten egg and beans. Sift all dry ingredients together and add to sugar mixture. Add apples, raisins, nuts and vanilla. Mix well and pour into well-greased tube pan, bake at 375 for 45 minutes.

MISS NICHOLAS ON BAND TOUR

Jennifer Nicholas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M.E. Nicholas, and a Temple Junior College student, spent the week of spring break in Mexico City, Mexico.

The 18-piece TJC Jazz Ensemble, in which Jennifer plays the trumpet, first performed in Laredo before boarding the train. The 50-member college choir also made the trip which included performing and sight seeing.

The Jazz Ensemble, all male except for Jennifer and the keyboard player, is following the present day trend to bring back the big band sound and melodic music, and plays a number of arrangements by Mike Barone, music writer for the "Tonight Show".

The earthquake experienced in Mexico City early last Wednesday morning added some unexpected excitement to their stay. The Nicholases were happy to receive a phone call at 2 a.m. Thursday morning from Jennifer, stating that all was well with the group.

Activities Program Director

Handicrafts have never been my strong point, and I nearly have the...what is it they used to call them?...Oh, yes, the vapors, whenever Carol Carlisle, our wonderful ceramics instructor volunteer, calls to say that she cannot come, through illness or family involvement.

Well, I was all prepared last week for such an emergency with a kit ordered from a crafts firm that supplies nursing homes. Whenever I tangle with one of these kits, disaster always seems to follow. This time I had a shell jewelry outfit. A bag of shells (some so teeny that they stuck all over our fingers and not to the exquisite piece of jewelry we were supposed to be fashioning), and some plastic forms in various shapes, such as butterflies, and several tubes of cement.

We started out with great gusto...merely press the parts together for twenty seconds... read the instructions. Well, I do believe if one held them together for twenty days, they still would not have adhered! The cement refused to cement, if you know what I mean. So out came good old "Glue-All" which actually worked like a charm. The shells looked a bit dead, so a rushed trip to the variety store ensued and we were in business with some brightly colored beads to mingle with the shells, and finally, we had some pretty cute looking jewelry. Next time we will put the pin backs on--that is next time there is an emergency!

The next thing on the agenda for the day was in the afternoon, (Tues.) when we started to work on our hats for the Easter contest. Ann and I placed tables together in the dining room and had a long work area on which we placed our selection of hats and trims. Have you ever been to a bargain basement sale on dollar day? Such an event is nothing in comparison to what we had going. I have never heard so much laughter, and Verna Talley literally laughed until she cried. Volunteer Alice Ross came to help. Mary Seelye was the first to finish. Ola Mills fixed three hats and will be at a loss to know which to enter in the contest as they were all great. Swede Lundgren and Paul Cavin looked too cute for words sitting with their hats on their heads, complete with flowers and veiling. Ruby Cooksey is already planning quite a modelling act. Juanita Harris, daughter of Eunice Graham assisted her with a very unusual creation, and Dorothy Montgomery assisted her mother, Evelyn Bryant, with a fetching headpiece. We thank everyone who donated the hats. We will have another group making them this coming Tuesday afternoon. Pictures are in the album.

Wednesday was another busy day with Bible class, exercises and music in the morning and a film in the afternoon. After supper the Ybarra family--Santiago Sr. and Jr. and Joe; also Danny Sanchez, came and played to a record crowd of about thirty residents, plus many friends and relatives. We cannot express enough appreciation for the joy that our visiting musicians afford residents of the Center. Thank you for giving your time.

On Thursday afternoon, Jan and Jean Solomon of the Big Lake Baptist Church W.M.U. entertained us with a St. Patrick's Day Party. They had handmade shamrocks for everyone and delicious cookies to eat with the afternoon juice. We had a singsong with some old Irish tunes as well as favorite hymns, and we do thank these ladies for making the trip over here and being so thoughtful.

On Monday afternoon, after the usual morning activities, three of our residents were taken to the Museum to see the quilt display. Verna Talley, accompanied by her daughter Alma Wilson, Frances Borrego and Ola Mills accompanied by myself and Ann Mayo, were enthralled by the intricate work we saw there. When I reflected on the days of yore when large families, washboards, milking, canning, sewing for the family, stoking wood stoves, were the order of the day, I wondered how anyone had time left to do this fantastic work. Or residents really enjoyed viewing these works of art and we hope to take another group later. Madeline Stokes was an outstanding guide at the museum.

We have a new resident, Enemencia Diaz. She came to us as a transfer from the hospital and is the mother of Bekie at the Stockman. I also learn that she raised three great-grandchildren in addition to her own family. She must be quite a lady.

For our Spanish speaking residents who cannot understand my English reading session, I have arranged with the State to receive fiction on cassette tapes and records in Spanish. We should have this group started by the end of the week.

The loss of Lorene Cade came to us as an unexpected shock. She had been in such good spirits on Thursday. We all knew her to be a very kind and considerate person with a sunny smile for everyone in spite of her health, and the trouble she has had to bear in recent weeks.

There will be no column next week as I am taking a week's vacation and will be out of town; so, I hope this will excuse the length of this week's effort, but so much has been happening!

Cut tax bill with job tax credits

Many agribusiness firms may be able to cut their total tax bill for 1978 due to job tax credits provided by the Tax Reduction and Simplification Act of 1977.

The new job tax credits are available to any employer whose federal unemployment insurance wages (FUTA) for the current year exceeded those of the preceding year. These wages are the first $4,200 of an employee's wages, explains Dr. Richard Edwards, agribusiness economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Farmers not subject to FUTA wages are still eligible for this credit, the economist adds. Services performed by an employee for a farmer-employer during more than one-half of any pay period (with respect to a calendar year) qualify as agricultural labor for FUTA purposes.

The credit allowable is half the difference between the aggregate FUTA wages paid during the current year and 102 percent of the aggregate FUTA wages paid during the previous year, says Edwards.

For example, if 1978 FUTA wages were $80,000 and in 1977 they were $50,000, the credit would be $14,500. This is half the difference between $80,000 and $51,000 (102 percent of $50,000).

The economist says that FUTA returns are recorded and filed, but there is no record of employee hours, no distinction between part-time and full-time employees, and no calculations concerning new employees are necessary.

An immediate limitation to this credit is that it only affects the 1977 and '78 fiscal years, Edwards points out.

Also, the amount of credit is limited, he adds. Total credit cannot exceed $100,000 in any one year. Edwards says credit cannot exceed 25 percent of FUTA wages paid in the calendar year. This limits the credit available to a new or rapidly expanding business.

Also, Edwards points out that in relation to total (not FUTA) wages, credit cannot exceed half the difference between total wages paid during the current year and 105 percent of total wages paid during the previous year. He gives this example: Total wages in 1978 were $210,000 versus $120,000 in 1977. The 1977 base becomes $126,000 (105 percent x $120,000). The difference between $210,000 and $126,000 is $84,000. Fifty percent of this excess is $42,000.

A final point is that the credit may not exceed the taxpayer's liability for the taxable year, notes the economist. The tax liability for the business would have to be greater than $14,500 to avoid a carry-forward situation.

New businesses started during 1977 or 1978 may receive this credit during their first year's operation even though they have no financial history from the preceding year, says Edwards. To be eligible, however, they must have paid FUTA wages during their first year in business.

There are many special rules pertaining to job tax credits relating to cooperatives, estates, tax option corporations and other unusual business organizations, Edwards points out.

If you feel you are entitled to file for this credit, discuss your case with you CPA, attorney or tax preparation expert, he advises.

Tennis team at Lake View

Ozona High School's senior tennis team got some good experience at the Lake View tournament last weekend, placing several players and teams. The next action for the senior team will be the Eldorado tournament Friday.

In the Lake View tournament Gary Smith and Lupe Gonzales won third place in boys doubles with wins over Sonora, and Lake View #1 and #2 teams.

Lain Huffman and Clair McDaniel finished in fifth place with wins over Sonora and Eldorado.

D'Anna Koerth and Chris Carlisle finished seventh in girls doubles, posting wins over Eldorado and Brady before losing in the consolation finals.

Lana Cole and Kristi Kirby finished twelfth in girls doubles. Lori Clayton had wins over Eldorado and Big Lake in girls singles to finish thirteenth.

Jeff Moreland and Darren Warren finished thirteenth and fourteenth in boys singles.

Golfers participate at McCamey

Ozona High School Golfers participated in the McCamey tournament Saturday. The girls team came in third while the boys finished in the bottom spot.

The Lionettes had a combined score of 425 and finished third behind McCamey with 396 and Rankin who won with a 390. Individual scores included Karla Koerth with 93, Sheri Webster, 100; Jennifer Naron, 111; Debbie Wallace, 121, and Wendy Hood, 130. The four low scores are counted for the team score.

The boys struggled with a 368 score. Individual scores were Gary Yeager, 86; Jeff Young, 86; Richard Wallace, 91, and Gary Adcock, 105. Wade Beasley lost his score card and had no score reported.

Taliaferro scores ace

Warren Taliaferro scored a hole-in-one at the Country Club Golf Course Sunday on hole number three. He was playing in a foursome with Rick Webster, Pete Jacoby and Red Greer.

Taliaferro said it was his second "once in a lifetime, hole-in-one." He made it on number nine on the same course ten or fifteen years ago.

Jack Bailey

The oil, gas and minerals related industries pays 91% of the school taxes in Crockett County. Your support and vote is needed on April 7, 1979 in order to elect Jack Bailey an oil and gas representative to the Crockett County Consolidated School Board.

I think and feel that the oil and gas industry should have a voice in the planning and decisions that are relative to our schools in Crockett County. Charleen and I have lived in Ozona for four years and have a daughter in high school, and a son in junior high. I have been associated with the Little League and Senior League Baseball Programs for the past three years, assisted with various school functions and supported the 4-H and FFA Programs.

Crockett County is a good place to live and it should be the desire and purpose of each citizen to help maintain high standards by serving as qualified and devoting time and effort to area and community activities.

Thank you for your support,

Jack Bailey

Public Notices

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO ISSUE CERTIFICATES OF OBLIGATION

TAKE NOTICE that the Commissioners' Court of Crockett County, Texas, shall convene at 11:00 A.M. on the ninth day of April, 1979, at its regular meeting place in the County Courthouse, Ozona, Texas, to consider the passage of an order authorizing the issuance of certificates of obligation of said County in an amount not to exceed $100,000.00 for the purpose of paying all or a portion of a contractual obligation to be incurred for the construction of public works, to wit: a fire station. The certificates proposed to be issued are to be payable from ad valorem taxes.

John R. Jones
County Judge
Crockett County, Texas

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals addressed to the Honorable John R. Jones, County Judge, Crockett County, Texas, will be received until 2:00 p.m. on the twenty ninth day of March, 1979, at the County Commissioners' Court Room, Crockett County Courthouse, Ozona, Texas, for a contractual obligation to be incurred for the construction of a fire station. All bids received will be publicly opened and read aloud at such time and place and, thereafter, referred to the County's architects for tabulation and checking. Should an acceptable bid be submitted, the Commissioners' Court proposes to award the contract for which bids are being taken during a regular meeting of the Court to be held at 11:00 a.m. on April 9, 1979, at its regular meeting place in the County Courthouse.

Drawings, plans, specifications, bidding and contract documents (including a schedule of the general prevailing rates of per diem wages in the locality for each craft or type of workmanship needed to execute the contract and the prevailing rate for legal holidays and overtime work) may be obtained from the office of the County's Architect, Atkinson, Atkinson & Associates, Architects and Planners, 1214 14th Street, Suite 106, Lubbock, Texas 79401 (806/762-0174), upon a proper deposit being made therefore, and examined without charge in the office of the County Clerk, County Courthouse, Ozona, Texas.

A cashier's check, certified check, or acceptable bidder's bond made payable without recourse to Crockett County, Texas, in the amount of five percent of the largest possible total for the bid submitted, must accompany each bid as a guarantee that if awarded the contract the bidder will promptly enter into a contract and execute such bonds as are required.

No bid may be withdrawn for any reason for at least thirty (30) days after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of bids. The County proposes to pay all or a portion of the contractual obligation to be incurred with certificates of obligation, which certificates are to be authorized, issued and delivered in accordance with the provisions of Article 2368a.1, V.A.T.C.S. The certificates will be delivered to the contractor as work is performed and the County has made arrangements for such certificates to be sold and assigned to another at their face value (no accrued interest). Each bidder is required (at the time of the receipt of bids by the County) to elect whether he will accept such certificates in payment of all or a part of the contract price or assign the same in accordance with arrangements made by the County.

Crockett County, Texas, reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any formality or irregularity in any bid received.

Vannoy named boss for Boys Ranch

Stanley Frank, Chariman for the 1979 West Texas Boys Ranch Roundup, has announced the appointment of Gary Vannoy as Wagon Boss for Crockett County. Frank said that Gary's Roundup responsibilities will include letting the folks in Crockett County know of the needs and program of West Texas Boys Ranch and coordinate the donation of livestock and cash for the Ranch's operating fund.

Frank said, "We are very pleased to have Gary working with us again this year in this very important project for West Texas Boys Ranch. All gifts to the Ranch, livestock or cash, are tax deductible, and those of you who are interested in supporting the 72 boys there can contact Gary about how to make your donation."

West Texas Boys Ranch is located 17 miles west of San Angelo and has cared for over 800 boys since it was organized in 1947. The Ranch operates entirely on the free-will donations and contributions of the public. Frank added, "We do have a good agricultural program at the Ranch and raise all our own beef and pork, we do not accept any federal aid," Frank emphasized.

Spuds, high nutrition with few calories

"Spuds"—or potatoes, offer high nutrition and few calories.

In England, once considered poisonous by some, potatoes were the focus of an attempted "ban" by the Society for the Prevention of Unwholesome Diet (SPUD). Today, those initials live on—and so does the potato, a highly nutritious and economical food, says Marilyn Haggard.

Potatoes are loaded with Vitamin C—each one contains one-fourth of the recommended daily allowance. Also, they provide B-vitamins thiamine and niacin—along with iron, potassium and phosphorus.

Potatoes only have about 100 calories each, so they are not fattening.

In fact, put them back in those low-calorie menus—just watch what you pile on them, Miss Haggard assures dieters.

Also, use them in highly restricted low-sodium diets. Potatoes have the approval of the American Heart Association for use in diets.

Fat-free and easy-to-digest, they fit any diet.

Potatoes offer economy—especially when shoppers choose quality "spuds."

Here's how:

* Look for firm, well-shaped, smooth potatoes—with very few eyes.

* Choose those in bags labeled U.S. #1.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Do you know when the first NCAA championship basketball tournament was held, and who won it?...First one was staged 40 years ago, in 1939, and the first school to win it was the University of Oregon.

Oddly enough, a "substitute" team once won the NCAA championship basketball tournament...In 1944, just before the tourney was to start, Arkansas withdrew because two of its stars were in an accident...NCAA officials frantically looked for a team to replace Arkansas...Finally Utah consented to substitute even though Utah had finished only third in their conference and had already lost in the National Invitation Tournament and were eliminated there...But Utah surprised everybody by then winning the NCAA tournament!

Here's one of the most amazing basketball records of all-time. Wilt Chamberlain, who played in over 1,000 pro basketball games in his career, NEVER fouled out of a game...That seems hard to believe—but it's a fact that Wilt never fouled out in any game in any of his 14 seasons in pro basketball!
