It has come to my attention that government forms are invariably changed about the time I get proficient in filling one out. I can't understand this, and really feel this is done to keep the bureaucrats busy. They always say it is done to help the taxpayer reduce paperwork, or to reduce errors and improve efficiency.

It's been years since I've been able to fill out my income tax return. Just to read the instructions boggles my mind. Of course, these forms are changed every year. When they give a new tax credit or increase exemptions, you can just bet they make it up in the tax tables. The past few years, I've noticed that everytime they give a much publicized tax cut, my tax goes up. Not necessarily my income, just my tax.

It's not that I mind paying the tax so much, it's what they do with it that makes my blood boil and hair stand on end. And there is really no relief in sight under our system.

It's sort of like the undertaker who advertised funerals for $50. Everyone wondered how he did it, until it was discovered he simply cut off the head of the newly arrived corpse and used the same old coffin and trappings. So it really doesn't matter who we elect President or who we elect to represent us in Washington, the bureaucracy remains the same. New head, but same old body. Good grief!

One-half million $ for sheep growers

Crockett County sheep growers will receive over half a million dollars in federal incentive payments of their 1978 marketings of shorn wool. Nationwide the figure was $36 million, according to Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). Payments will be made through ASCS county offices.

Payments for 1978 marketings will be higher than for 1977 because the support price for shorn wool was increased from 99 to 108 cents per pound by the food and agriculture act of 1977. The 1978 national average market price for shorn wool was 74.5 cents a pound, 33.5 cents under the support price. Therefore, the payment rate for 1978 marketings of shorn wool--the amount required to bring the average price up to the incentive price--will be 45.0 percent, compared to 37.5 percent in 1977.

The wool program is intended to encourage a grower to improve the quality of wool with a growers incentive payment determined by multiplying the payment rate times the net dollar return received from the sale of wool.

Fitzgerald also announced the payment rate will be $1.34 per hundredweight on unshorn lambs sold or slaughtered in 1978. This payment is to compensate growers for wool on live lambs they market. The payment is based on the shorn wool payment rate, the average weight of wool per hundredweight of lambs, and the price of lambs wool relative to the national average price for shorn wool.

Deductions of 2-1/2 cents a pound from 1978 shorn wool payments and 12-1/2 cents per hundred pounds of live-weight from 1978 lamb payments will be made to finance advertising, sales promotion and related market development activities. These deductions, provided for in the national wool act of 1954, were approved by a 75.3 percent favorable vote by sheep producers voting in an August 1978 referendum. No payments will be required on 1978 marketings of mohair as the average of $4.59 a pound received by growers was above the announced support level of $1.65 a pound.

ASC program deadline coming up

Cancer came before man

Cancer brought misery to humans long before man began the systematic fouling of his environment. Even the dinosaurs had it.

Now we're confronted with an interesting and encouraging paradox. Although cancer death rates are continuing to rise, more patients than ever are being cured of the disease. Well over a third of those who get cancer are able to conquer it, and many of them can resume healthy, normal lives.

This positive change hasn't come about by accident. Our nation and generation are beneficiaries of the biggest attack ever mounted against a single disease. The American Cancer Society began the program decades ago, and is a leader in the cancer fight today.

True, most of us have had at least one relative, friend or acquaintance who was a victim of cancer. But now most of us can also point to persons we know who have overcome it. This wasn't always the case. Think about this living evidence of progress against cancer when the American Cancer Society asks you to support its 1979 Cancer Crusade! Although the fight against cancer has been partly won, it's far from finished. Help is still needed from you.

Carter's mistaken plan

By Anthony Harrigan

President Carter's plan to lift price controls on domestic crude oil is seriously flawed.

While price decontrol is long overdue, Mr. Carter cancels the benefits of decontrol by proposing a "windfall profits" tax that would in effect deny oil producers the revenues they need to expand production. The tax scheme envisions an expansion of the welfare system with "aid" proposed for low income families. This proposed cushioning of one segment of the population means that a heavier blow will fall on the productive, taxpaying middle class.

The Carter plan also calls for development of new energy sources, with the federal government using the new tax revenues for that purpose. Again, the administration scheme is counter-productive. New energy sources could be developed by the energy companies, using the higher profits. This is the American way, but Mr. Carter prefers the bureaucratic approach.

To date, the government energy "drive" has simply produced an unnecessary Dept. of Energy with an army of bureaucrats that get in the way of the real energy developers in private industry.

Mr. Carter hasn't learned anything since he submitted his energy plan two years ago and termed it "the moral equivalent of war."

At that time, the centerpiece of the President's plan was a whopping tax on petroleum. Again, he proposes to solve the nation's energy problems by more taxation of business. He simply doesn't understand the constructive role of profits in achieving modernization and expansion of industry. Congress shouldn't buy the Carter oil scheme. It's as mistaken as the one he tried to sell in 1977.

In his televised speech, Mr. Carter came across as a crusader against the oil companies. He may conclude that that is a shrewd political posture. Repeatedly, he referred to "unearned" profits of oil companies. The companies that get oil out of the ground own that oil and have a right to the profits from the sale thereof. They earn their profits as legitimately as the farmer who harvests his crops. The oil in the ground doesn't belong to the government or the "people." It belongs to whoever holds the oil lease or a particular tract.

It's imperative that domestic oil production be increased and that research be stepped up to boost coal production and natural gas development. The way to do it, however, is by allowing the free enterprise system to function, not with more government direction, and certainly, not with use of an oil plan as a welfare system.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The Texas Senate passed legislation this week by Sen. Bill Meier of Eules that will alter the Consumer Protection Act. Some say "alter" is not a strong enough word for what the proposed changes will do to the six-year-old consumer law.

Backers of the consumer act had predicted such a seige would happen this session, and when the attack came, proponents of the law, led by Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Austin and Sen. Babe Schwartz of Galveston, vowed to grind the Senate to a halt with filibusters and talkathons.

Doggett claimed Meier's bill would "gut" the consumer law. Schwartz said the proposed changes would tip the scale in favor of the seller and leave the buyer out in the cold.

Despite such charges, Meier easily garnered enough votes to bring up his bill on the Senate floor and when he did, the fight was all but over to save the consumer protection act from becoming what some observers said would be only a ghost of its former self. Lacking enough votes to kill Meier's legislation, opposing senators could only hope to put off the inevitable and maybe squeeze a compromise or two out of Meier and his forces.

Doggett, in his now famous filibuster tennis shoes ("Not sneakers," he said. "It's the sneakers we're after here.") and Schwartz, running on what appeared to be an endless supply of energy, engineered two separate filibusters lasting a total of almost 25 hours.

One talkathon by Doggett was against a measure by Sen. Tom Creighton, not Meier. But Creighton's bill, which eventually passed the Senate, which lets auto dealers add on a $35 charge for getting cars licensed and registered, drew fire from Doggett, Schwartz and others because it, too, they felt, like Meier's bill, was spawned by the business lobby and left consumers to fend for themselves.

While each side traded flak over Creighton's bill, senators tried to reach some compromise on the real target of the Doggett-Schwartz filibusters—the consumer protection law.

Some compromises were worked out, but those were called "cosmetic" by Doggett, who helped write the consumer protection act before ever coming to the Senate, and there were few who disagreed with his appraisal of the compromises reached.

If Meier's bill gets through the House and past the governor's desk, consumers can expect these changes in the law that for the past six years has guaranteed them a redress of their grievances with the business world: 1) consumers would not have the right to bring class action suits, but the attorney general will still have that power, 2) triple damages will no longer be mandatory but up to the judge or a jury. 3) consumers will now have to prove that a businessman knowingly sold them a deceptive product or committed a fraudulent act, and other "alterations."

Meier said his bill "strikes a balance" between consumer and businessman. But Sen. Ron Clower summed up the opposition's feelings when he said: "We don't have a consumer protection act. We have a consumer-fraud act."

In The House

Legislation regulating strip mining of coal, lignite and uranium has glided through the House with so few objections that you would think legislators didn't know Texas was sitting on substantial deposits of those resources.

In fact, by 1985, Texas, already third in uranium reserves, will probably become one of the country's biggest producers of coal and lignite. Deposits stretch from Texarkana to Laredo.

Legislators are aware of such facts, and some lawmakers even pointed out that not long ago you couldn't have passed a strip mining bill without lengthy and sometimes heated discussions.

"I may have been born under a tub, but I wasn't born yesterday," said one lawmaker. "Ten or 25 people can't stop 'em," that same legislator added, speaking specifically about the strip mining legislation muscled through the House by the Clayton forces.

The strip mining bill passed by the House was 80 pages long and some members complained about not having time to thoroughly understand the document. Other lawmakers said it wasn't worth their time or effort to fully understand the piece of legislation and then maybe mount some opposition against it since it was almost a foregone conclusion that Clayton and his supporters would pass the bill and pass it easily.

Short Shorts

Saudi Arabia—one of the world's largest producers of oil—announced this week that it would be cutting back its contribution to the world's oil supply by one million barrels a day. Since demand for oil already almost outstrips supply, Saudi Arabia's decision to reduce production will certainly mean yet another jump in the price of gasoline.

Sometime this week, the House will probably start debate on a general appropriations bill for the state that is already out of committee. The bill carries a $20 million-plus price tag. The legislation, passed by the House Appropriations Committee, trims $70 million from the Legislative Budget Board's spending proposals, and a rider on the bill, initiated by Speaker Clayton, could whack off another 2 percent across-the-board, reducing spending by an additional $400 million.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

As daytime temperatures continue to climb and the danger of frost passes, begin important tasks for the month that includes late-spring pruning, lawn construction and repair, fertilization of trees, shrubs, and perennial beds as new growth begins to appear. Also, finish planting warm-season vegetables.

April is the month to plant beds of summer annuals. Locate these flowerbeds near patios, walkways, and other prominent places where they can be seen and enjoyed. Plant for a maximum show of color. You can sow seeds of most annuals directly in the ground; among these are marigolds, periwinkle, zinnias, impatiens, celosia, gloriosa daisies, portulaca, nasturtiums, four-o'clock, alyssum, ageratum, pinks and coleus. A faster way of growing flowers is to buy flats of small plants from the nursery. Some that are easier to grow from plants are geraniums, wax begonias, chrysanthemums, and petunias.

Other interesting annual plants to grow from either seeds or nursery plants include verbena, annual phlox, asters, larkspur, snapdragons, balsam, flowering tobacco, clarkia, poppy, stock, candytuft, rudbeckia, coreopsis, and lobelia.

Begin to move houseplants outdoors for indoor conditions are too warm, dry, and dark for most plants, and fresh air they will receive outdoors can soon revive winter weary plants. To avoid defoliation, leave plants out only a few hours at a time for the first 4 or 5 days. They should be placed where they won't be exposed to the direct rays of the sun between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. You will need to water plants more frequently outdoors due to the increased rate of evaporation. Hanging baskets should be watered daily. Hose leaves down weekly with a strong, fine mist from the garden hose to knock off insects and humidify the plants. If you have insect damage, use an insecticide and follow recommendations for application. Fertilize plants monthly during the summer with one of the commonly available houseplant fertilizers using recommended dosage. Prune azaleas, camellias, forsythia, flowering quince and other early-blooming shrubs as flowers fade. Prune only to remove dead, diseased or broken wood. Do not cut to alter the size or natural form of the plant unless it has outgrown its bounds. Remove wayward shoots back to their point of origin.

The public is invited to view the Ozona Garden Club Flower Show at the Civic Center, Tuesday April 24, from 4 to 6. Even though our recent weather hasn't been too favorable, ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED-Mr. and Mrs. Leandro Flores, Jr., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Silvia, to Mr. Lorenzo Garcia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Garcia of Ralls. A June 30 wedding is planned at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church. Miss Flores is a senior at Angelo State University and plans to enter the University of Texas medical school in the fall. Her fiance is a graduate of Crosbyton High School and a 1977 graduate of Angelo State. He is currently employed by the San Angelo Independent School District.

Forum Arts & Crafts Show is big success

The Ozona Woman's Forum recently held their thirteenth annual Arts and Crafts Exhibition at the Civic Center. More than 250 men, women and children viewed the handiwork of some 92 adult exhibitors in addition to student exhibits from the Junior High, Intermediate, Elementary schools and preschool Kindergarten, Kiddie Club and Tinyville classes.

Adult displays covered some 25 categories and student displays, some 14 categories. There were paintings in oil, pen and ink, water color and acrylics on canvas, wood and glass. Many types of needlecraft were shown, such as knitting, crochet, needlepoint, crewel, tatting, latch hook and quilting. There was an outstanding display of beautifully colorful afaghans of intricate patterns and stitches.

There were exhibits of wood, metal, macrame, rock art and ceramics. Thirty six residents of the Crockett County Care Center displayed a variety of ceramic art, some of which showed fine talents. Other ceramic displays were extensive, with many colorful and creative pieces.

The photographic exhibit was small in number, but dynamic in quality and composition.

A most interesting exhibit of West Texas mesquite wood craft was shown by Joe and Billie Duseek of Eola, Texas. There were dominoes, clocks, velvet lined jewelry boxes, checker sets, hand bags, picture plaques etc., all made from polished and waxed mesquite wood. It certainly stimulated a deeper appreciation for the beauty and utility of our native mesquite.

There was an historical display of Madye's scuffs and slippers showing designed created by Madye Bailey and her daughter, Madye Jo Humphreys. Many items were from their design room workshop and had never been seen by the public. The Forum is considering continuing a limited historical display each year of handi-crafts of the part.

The student are exhibits are always an outstanding feature of the show and this year was no exception. It was most rewarding and stimulating to view the budding talents of our young people. The Ozona Woman's Forum would like to thank everyone who participated in making this Arts & Crafts Exhibition an exceptional event for 1979.

Debra Says

By Debra Price

Help children play safely and happily by providing them with safe playground equipment.

Playground equipment related injuries send about 118,000 children to hospital emergency rooms each year, according to U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates.

Most injuries occur to children under 10 years old with falls from slides and climbing equipment the most frequent hazards.

Parents can use the following suggestions to help safeguard their children from playground injury:

Select equipment wisely and take care with placement.

To help reduce the severity of injuries from falls, place equipment on a grassy or soft ground surface—never on hard surfaces such as concrete, blacktop brick or cinder.

Locate equipment at least six feet from fences, walkways, walls or other play areas.

Set equipment legs in concrete below ground level to prevent a tripping hazard. Place metal sliding boards to prevent burns from sun-heated sliding surfaces.

Construct a landing pit in front of slides from sand or similar materials.

Place a block under each end of the seesaw so that children will not catch their feet if the board descends too rapidly.

Make maintenance checks at the beginning of the play season and at least every two weeks during the season.

Tighten any loose nuts, bolts or hooks.

Apply tape over protruding screws or bolts and over sharp or rough edges, especially on swing seats and slide edges.

Replace rusted parts, including swing chains.

Replace worn ropes on climbing nets and tire swings or standing swings attached to a tree. Nylon or synthetic rope is usually more durable than rope made of natural fibers.

Oil any moving parts, sand and repaint any rusted metal tubing with unleaded paint, sand any wooden equipment, refill landing pits and cover foundations with several inches of soil.

Bake at 350 degrees about 8 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool. Beat cream cheese in large bowl until smooth. Gradually add 1 cup of the milk, blending until mixture is very smooth. Add remaining milk and pudding mix. Beat with rotary beater just until well blended, about 1 minute. Pour carefully into crumbled pan. Chill until firm, about 3 hours. Garnish with whipped topping and quartered lemon slices, if desired.

"Surroundings count — but not much. And where there is love, surroundings do not count at all."

My grandmother told me this. But for the longest time I did not understand what she meant. I thought people were a product of their environment. I thought people grew according to their circumstances: business people became merchants; religious people became clergymen; concerned people became firemen and nurses.

Now and again, I still pass slums; children playing in filthy alleys and on broken sidewalks. And I remember my questions. Where do the children of alleys sleep? How are they warmed? And how do they grow in surroundings that strangle clean air, comfort and beauty?

Grandmother could never answer all my questions. She would just smile and tell me, "Jesus Christ was born in a stable and He was the Savior of all mankind."

I understand now. Surroundings do not count at all — not where there is love. And love is found in church.

Where there is love

Goat News

The March issue of a Michigan hunting newspaper featured some items of interest to sportsmen and livestock producers alike, not to mention everyone else whose daily life is plagued by often senseless government regulations.

It might be best to start out with the zaniest story first. Anyone with the notion that the federal Environmental Protection Agency has a copyright on harebrained notions should make a point of keeping up with the antics of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, it appears.

The Michigan DNR has apparently proposed a set of regulations intended to limit dust pollution. If a Texas agency tried that, it would have to prohibit wind crossing the state line from New Mexico, an idea that, judging from the Michigan proposal, might appear perfectly sane to the northlanders. Michigan's DNR plans to regulate the use and storage of such dust-contributing materials as paving aggregate for starters. That's only the start, however. They would also place controls on the use and maintenance of all roadways and parking lots in certain areas.

For instance, the proposal would prohibit the use of any roadway or parking lot "unless it is cleaned at least once a week or as directed" to prevent the accumulation of dust exceeding eight-tenths of an ounce per square foot. Careless emptying of a vacuum cleaner bag could strand every motorist in the Southern half of the state. Speaking of vacuum cleaners, that's how road dust would have to be controlled: with vacuum cleaners! The rules lean toward a ban on road sweeping, believe it or not.

Then, to add contradiction to consternation, the rules would call for oiling roads to further reduce the dust. Presumably, that requirement would justify a few more employees for the DNR, to dream up more regulations to counter damage caused when rain washes the oil off the roads and into the rest of the environment.

So much for that bit of levity. Another article in the same issue includes part of an apparent address by Dr. Will Sandstrom, Orr, Minnesota, calling for removal of the gray wolf from the list of threatened or endangered species.

Sandstrom pointed out that where predators are protected, other wildlife numbers invariably dwindle. "There is only one thing that predator and raptor preservationists can produce," said

Sandstrom, "A nearly wildlifeless world."

He recounted finding hundreds of Minnesota deer killed by wolves in the late 1960's, "Back in those years when we still had many deer." By his estimation, wolves killed and only partially ate as many as 800,000 deer in one winter, out of a total of only about one and one-half million deer in the state.

Sandstrom said vast fortunes could be spent on deer habitat without measurable benefit, "but a few dollars spent on effective wolf control will again produce million of deer."

Miss Williams County draws wildcats gets BS degree in nursing

Karen Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williams, recently passed her state board exams to become a Registered Nurse. She graduated from the University of Texas School of Nursing in December with a BS degree in nursing.

She is presently employed in the Intensive Care Unit at St. Lukes Episcopal Hospital in Houston.

An 8,500-foot wildcat in Crockett County, 7/8-mile west of the opener and lone producer of the Wamoco, South (Canyon oil) field, three miles west and slightly north of the two-well Tom T (Ellenburger oil) field, 3 1/2 miles northwest of the Ozona, North (Canyon and Clearfork oil) field, two miles northeast of its No. 1 West Estate, scheduled wildcat, 11.7 miles north of Ozona.

Location is 2,700 feet from the north and 2,400 feet from the east lines of Rannels County School Land No. 2, Abst. 2831. Ground elevation is 2,580 feet.

The No. 1 West Estate, same survey, also scheduled as an 8,500-foot wildcat, apparently is still a location.

The Wamoco South field produces from 7,674 feet. The Ozona, North field produces from the Canyon at 7,857 feet and the Clearfork, at 2,860 feet and formerly produced from the upper Pennsylvanian at 5,931; Ellenburger, 8,005 feet; and lower Ellenburger 8,066 feet.

Chinese anti-cancer compound studied

Scientists at North Texas State University will take a second look at a rejected Chinese anti-cancer compound in their search for chemicals with greater cancer-killing potency and less harmful side effects.

Dr. Robert E. Lyle, Professor and Chairman of the Chemistry Department at NTSU, said today new studies will be made to produce a compound similar to Camptothecin, a chemical agent made from the bark of trees grown in mainland China and used there, experimentally, to treat cancer.

Dr. Lyle and his colleagues are seeking ways to overcome the poisonous side effects of powerful chemicals such as the antibiotic, adriamycin, commonly used to treat cancer in this country. His research is supported by an American Cancer Society grant.

Dr. Lyle's research team is now remodeling adriamycin, substituting a chemical bond of nitrogen rather than oxygen to hold the molecule together. It is thought that the bad side effects of adriamycin are due to "fragments" of the substance which break off during the antibiotic's passage into the cancer cell.

A less toxic analog of the Chinese compound, Camptothecin, will also be sought, using experiments made four years ago by Dr. Lyle and other scientists at the University of New Hampshire and Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York. These tests were suspended in the United States after it appeared that the compound, although extremely active against the cancer cell, was too toxic for human consumption. However, reports indicate that tests in China continued.

Chemists at North Texas State, also exploring chemicals that cause cancer have found clues to why some known carcinogens found in food, do not always cause cancer. Their studies have shown that nitrosamines can be so chemically bonded in the digestive tract that their cancer-causing ability is "shackled." Ordinarily nitrosamines, which can be formed from nitrites used to preserve food and amides produced by the digestive tract, are among the most potent carcinogens. Now it appears the body may disarm them.

Helmet law repeal increases deaths

The repeal of laws requiring mandatory use of helmets by motorcyclists is showing some shocking effects, according to a safety engineer.

For years experts have been saying that head injuries are the most frequent cause of death in motorcycle accidents and that helmets reduce the risk of fatal head injury by 30 percent. Now that many states, including Texas, have repealed helmet laws, experts' claims have been shown to be more than accurate, says Dr. Gary S. Nelson with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Deaths and injuries occurring to Texas motorcycle operators and passengers who were not wearing helmets increased dramatically after passage of the "no helmet" law for persons 18 years of age or older, points out Nelson. During the 12-month period following the repeal of the Texas helmet law, deaths involving head injury increased 120 percent and total deaths increased 55 percent.

The Texas experience is not unlike that found in other states that have repealed helmet laws, notes the safety engineer.

About two years ago Colorado repealed its helmet law. During the following year, helmet usage dropped from almost 100 percent to 60 percent. Head injuries jumped 260 percent while fatal injuries rose 57 percent.

In April of 1977, Minnesota repealed its helmet law. That year it reported a 67 percent increase in motorcycle accident fatalities over the previous year.

In the two months following the repeal in Kansas, fatalities were three times the number reported for the same two months in the previous year.

In September of 1977, Indiana repealed its helmet law. The following year helmet use dropped from 75 percent to 37 percent while motorcycle accident deaths increased 32 percent.

Most of the repeals were prompted by protests from cyclists who felt that mandatory use of helmets violated their personal freedom and restricted their hearing and vision, notes Nelson.

The engineer points out that the vision issue may be more psychological than real. Also, recent studies have shown that because a helmet reduces wind noise, a cyclist can detect warning signals like sirens more easily with a helmet on.

Nelson contends that this information warrants a new look at current helmet laws.

Use show and tell with kids

Tell or show children what they can do rather than continually saying "don't."

If parents don't want children to do something, they can react with "positive" instructions, points out Jenny Reinhardt, a family life education specialist.

Frustration, resentment, stifled creativity and discipline problems can result if children are continually told "don't," she continues.

Prevention in the "positive" form of planning with the child what he/she can do is a key to successful parenting.

For example, parents often tell children "don't jump on the bed," "don't run the cars on the furniture," and "don't write on the walls," the specialist says.

Children who have learned to jump, push cars and write enjoy these activities.

However, parents can choose the positive approach and provide "planned" opportunities for children to use these experiences, such as:

Provide a jumping and bouncing surface for children by obtaining a used about-to-be-discarded spring and mattress for this purpose. Locate it on the floor in a roomy area.

A different and exciting way to play with cars is to run them on a smooth, wide board.

Lean the board on a box or other solid surface so it forms an incline. Have the child place two small cars on the highest part of the board and release them at the same time, then watch the race to the bottom and onto the floor.

As children learn to write and draw, provide an opportunity to paint pictures.

Tape newspaper on the wall at child level for drawing and writing--and leave on display.

After a few days, place a new "canvas" up for a new picture.

Rural Heroism Award goes to 9-year-old

A nine-year old central Texas girl, whose resourcefulness and courage under pressure made the difference between life and death for her grandfather, has received the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council's "Rural Heroism Award."

Wendy Harmon was a third-grade student last March when her grandfather, 68-year-old rancher Archie Wright, was gored by a cow. The Gatesville youngster made a nine-mile drive in a pickup to town, an action credited with saving his life.

Presentation of the plaque was made Monday at the Texas Safety Association's

Avoid Kitchen fires

Kitchen range or oven fires both damage and frighten, warns Claudia Kerbel, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

To prevent them, keep the area around the kitchen range clean and free of grease, she recommends.

Most importantly, don't heat grease until it smokes--that increases the chances of it splattering and catching fire, the specialist cautions.

However, if a fire should occur, remember these instructions:

* First, turn off the burner or oven.

* Cover the pan with a lid carefully. Slide it on from the front, deflecting the flames away from you.

* Don't carry the pan to the sink. Leave it on the range or in the oven until it cools.

* Don't ever use water on a grease fire.

* Baking soda can be effective in extinguishing a grease fire. This works, but keep the baking soda readily available and use enough to cover the fire entirely.

Use the container as a shaker, starting at the front and working back as it covers the flames.

* If you can't cover the pan or if you don't have baking soda, a dry chemical or carbon dioxide fire extinguisher will work.

40th annual meeting by Millard Shivers, Council awards chairman and director of rural development for Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Texas. Ben Bullard, associate safety director for the Texas Farm Bureau and Council president, was in charge of the statewide search for a rural hero.

Wendy's previous driving experience in helping feed the cows in her grandfather's pastures paid off when Archie Wright was gored by a cow on his ranch 12 miles southwest of Gatesville March 18, 1978. Seriously injured, he managed to get 100 yards toward his house and yell to Wendy and a classmate, Amy Edwards, who were playing in the backyard.

Scared and barely able to see over the steering wheel, Wendy backed the pickup out of the vehicle shed, and she and Amy managed to get Wright into the cab. While Amy telephoned Wendy's mother, Mrs. Lynda Lynch who works in Gatesville, Wendy drove nine miles to the outskirts of Gatesville, where her mother met them and completed the drive to the Coryell Memorial Hospital.

The doctor said that Wright would not have lived another ten minutes, and Wendy Harmon is credited with making the difference.

"I told myself I could do it," she said. "I knew I had to."

Crockett County Care Center News

By Joan Nicholas
Activities Program Director

The highlight of the week, so far as our activities were concerned, was the Easter Parade and Easter Bonnet Contest on Wednesday evening.

Excitement started to mount by afternoon that day, when a few last minute hats had to be decorated for the one or two that decided at the last minute that it might just be fun to participate. The ladies and gentlemen donned their glad rags and by 6:45 p.m. we were all set.

The three judges were Jonesy Williams, Veva Vargas, and Beth Boyd, and I know they had a difficult task in choosing from so many unusual and delightful creations. Some hats had Easter bunnies, chicks, a peacock, fruit, feathers, flowers of all descriptions, even colored pipe cleaners and empty thread spools. Lots of netting and ribbons and bows were also used. Each contestant had a number pinned on and toward the end as I paraded contestants around the center of the room, I was running out of ideas for ad lib commentary, but somehow, and from somewhere, it kept flowing.

Leona Harris played the piano accompaniment after she modeled her hat, and very well, too. The models whether riding or walking, rose to the occasion magnificently. The model who stole the show was probably Ruby Cooksey who surprised everyone with quite an act. She had her hat bedecked with flora and a price tag dangling at the side. Yes, you guessed it, she was Minnie Pearl. She went out and introduced herself by saying "Howdy!" and told a story about her boyfriend, and I guarantee, she sounded just like the original.

Before the show started, Ola Mills received special recognition for her helpfulness as she had made five or six hats for those who could not do them for themselves. She has a natural talent for millinery and unusual ideas.

Winning the trophy for the prettiest hat was Carlota Villareal. She had done a lovely job on a black straw and looked charming in her long dress. For the craziest hat, Hank Poeller won the trophy. His hat was styled by Ola and looked something from outer space! For the most original, Jacinto (Shorty) Flores won the trophy, wearing a black shallow straw with blue lace strips and odd pieces of jewelry hanging from the brim. In the center of the crown stood a proud Easter bunny, in blue. Ola also designed his hat. The trophy for the best model went, as all expected, to Ruby Cooksey (alias Minnie Pearl). There were so many spectacular hats, no one went away empty handed, as each contestant was presented with a small bag of fruit donated by Bill Thornton of Thornton's Supermarket. The trophies were donated by M.E. Nicholas of Baker Jewelers. We thank everyone who helped make this a success. Our residents say they want to do this again next year.

The audience was great and we thank you for showing up and giving your support. I hope it was fun for everyone, and we do invite you to see the many pictures in the album in the lobby.

Everyone was saddened last week concerning the passing of our dear friend, Nita DePriest. She was a courageous lady and was always so kind to others at the Center. Our sympathy is extended to her family.

Mike Pena's wife, Elvira, a regular visitor at the Center, underwent surgery in San Angelo last week, and we all hope she will make a speedy recovery and bring back Mike's happy smile.

Bingo winners for the week were Eleanor Yeager winning the gift certificate and Juana Hernandez and Verna Talley were second and third after a play-off.

We thank Jackie Ginsberg (Ola Mills' daughter from Dallas) for bringing us some film and flashbulbs for the camera, and a jigsaw puzzle. She and her husband visited in Ozona over Easter and, as a special treat, Mr. Ginsberg entertained our residents with piano music on Sunday. Everyone enjoyed this so much.

Our thanks also go to Madye Jo Humphreys who made a nice cash donation for tools and materials for the ceramics class.

Houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Brown during the Easter holidays were her mother, Mrs. Iva B. O'Neill of Sweetwater, a daughter Mrs. Tom Hambleton and children, Regina and Timothy of Houston, their son, Larry Brown of Kermit. Also visiting from Kermit was Anita Taylor.

Miss Peltó is shower honoree

Miss Jan Peltó of Richardson, and formerly of Ozona was honored Tuesday, April 10 with a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Tom Powers.

Mixed spring arrangements were used throughout the house. Members of the house-party were Mrs. Jack Jeanes of Richardson, mother of the bride, Mrs. Marge de Montel of Tyler, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. George Grant of Fort Worth, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Jerry Jendel of Euless, cousin of the bride, Miss Molly Womack, Miss Melinda Hokit and Mrs. Modena Smallwood.

Other out-of-town guests included Mrs. Bill Lewis of San Angelo, Mrs. M.C. Palmer of Fort Worth and Mrs. Billy Tom Turland of San Angelo.

Other hostesses were Mrs. Charles Womack, Mrs. Ernie Boyd of Big Spring, Mrs. Floyd Hokit, Mrs. Mike Fairchild and Mrs. L.D. Kirby.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Bryan of Houston are here this week visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Post.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Here's an amazing fact...Did you ever realize that big league baseball and football teams can play 50 years and not draw as many people at the gate as can see them in JUST ONE DAY on television!... Let's say a team's home attendance averages 1-million people a year.. Thus, they could play 50 years a draw a total of 50-million fans. But ONE game on TV can draw more than 50-million viewers in one afternoon, so a team can play to more people on TV in one game than they can draw in their own stadiums for over 50 years!

Do you know who was the youngest man ever to manage a big league baseball team?...The answer is Roger Peckinpaugh, who was only 23 when he was picked as manager of the Yankees in 1914..Lou Boudreau is the second-youngest manager in major league history...Lou was only 24 when he was named manager of the Indians in 1942.

What are the most runs ever scored by one team in one big league baseball game?...The record is 36, by the Cubs in a game in 1897.

I bet you didn't know that L-B Motors has a wide variety of Cadillac, Oldsmobiles, Chevrolets and Buicks to fit your fancy.

Exhibits and demonstrations also will feature such topics as drying pork, cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), home insulation, electrical repairs and home food preservation.

Making cosmetics, making shoulder pads for today's "Retro"-look fashions and quilting will be other demonstration subjects.

How to lose weight—and keep it off—will be another teaching topic.

A Homemakers Style Show will be held at 2 p.m. Extension Homemakers

Clubs are formed by groups of about 8-15 homemakers who want to learn together in their homes, Mrs. Price says. They can choose from all subjects dealing with family living.
