Americans don't know what to believe about the nuclear power plant malfunction in Pennsylvania. Even after all this time, we still don't know the truth. The anti-nukes are crying doom, along with most liberal newscasters. Eminent scientists have stated flatly there was not enough radiation leak to amount to three medical X-rays. A visiting professor at ASU recently said there was no more danger than from the radiation in a brick house, adding that neither was sufficient for alarm. Yet Congress is investigating, the networks have had special programs, the crazies have called for the closure of all nuclear power plants.

Not being very scientific, nor knowing an atom about the atom, I've come to the conclusion it's much ado about nothing. There was more loss of life at Chappaquiddick than at Three Mile Island, and I don't recall a congressional investigation.

Bill Thornton came by with the clipping about the diesel powered engine that gets 84 miles per gallon when fitted in a Mercury Capri. You might have seen it on the front page of the San Angelo Standard some days ago. According to the story two Florida men invented the turbo-diesel and had planned to build 6,000 of them for Ford, but have lately been getting the "cold shoulder." Their theory is that since the engine can go 100,000 miles without much more than an oil change dealer operated service centers would have to shut down and the automakers are reluctant to starve their dealer car repair business. Bill had written his senator and sent a clipping of the story.

Nobody believes the government should get into the car-making business, nor are we suggesting more regulation for automakers, but if they can give incentive and parity to agriculture, subsidize railroads and cities, why not make incentive payments to dealer repair centers for business lost and give America an opportunity to free itself from OPEC. They could use the windfall profits tax they pain to impose on the oil companies.

OZONA FIREMEN USE JAWS OF LIFE to extricate wreck victim from this demolished car last week on Hwy 290 west of Ozona. The car hit a truck headon at a high rate of speed and just disintegrated. The driver of the vehicle was killed Instantly. The tool being used was donated to the Ozona Fire Department by Mayfield Construction. It will cut through any kind of metal in record time.

Historical Marker to be dedicated

An Official Texas Historical Marker for Ozona's Water System will be dedicated on Thursday evening, April 26, at 6:00 p.m. at the site of 208 Water Works Drive in a ceremony sponsored by the Crockett County Historical Commission.

Layman services in DeLeon

Funeral services for Larry Layman, 32, were held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in DeLeon.

Layman was killed Thursday evening at 8:30 when he hit a bull at the edge of a bridge 26 miles north of Snyder on Hwy 208. Layman was driving a tractor-tank rig loaded with crude oil. After impact with the animal the truck sheared off several feet of bridge railing and crashed. It was the following morning before rescue workers could remove his body from the wreckage.

The Laymans lived here several years before moving to DeLeon last week. They lost their son, Shane, shortly over a year ago in a motorcycle accident in the draw. They purchased a home in DeLeon and Mrs. Layman and their daughter, Janice, moved last week. Layman was scheduled to transfer there the first of May.

Survivors include his wife, Wanda, his daughter; two brothers, Lloyd and Jerry Layman, both of Ozona; his parents and several other brothers and sisters.

BOY TO COULTHURSTS

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Coulthurst of Houston are the parents of a son, born April 19, in a Houston hospital. Mrs. Coulthurst is the former Patty Walker of Ozona.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L.B. Taylor of Ozona.

The marking of such sites and landmarks is part of the Texas Historical Commission's program of preservation activities. Included are archaeological investigations, historical museums consultations, and administering the National Historic Preservation Act in Texas. More than 7,200 markers have already been erected in the state. These help to stimulate interest in the unique heritage of each locality. Certainly the development of Crockett County's fine water system has been an essential part of area growth and activity.

The marker will be dedicated by Crockett County Judge John R. Jones. W.D. Cooper, to whom much of the system's development may be credited, will respond on behalf of the Water Board members.

The public is cordially invited and urged to attend.

Members of the Crockett County Historical Commission are:

Mrs. Ira Carson, Mrs. L.B. Cox, Mrs. Joe Clayton, Mrs. Fred Hagelstein, Miss Leta Powell, Mrs. P.L. Childress, Evert White, Mrs. Leonard Boyd, Joe Couch, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Graves, W.R. Baggett, Jr., president C.C. Historical Society; Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Harrell.

Ex Officio members are County Commissioners Jack Williams, Jesus Castro, Byron Stuart and Sostenes DeHoyos.

Truck-auto crash kills Austin man

An Austin man was fatally injured Wednesday morning, April 18, in a three vehicle accident 25.6 miles west of Ozona on Hwy. 290.

Robert Allen Hornbrook, about 21, was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace A.O. Fields, after a late model sports car he was driving collided with a truck-tractor rig driven by James E. Willis of Florida. B.B. Ingram was an eye witness to the wreck. He said he saw the collision in the rear view mirror as he was driving west in his pickup. It looked like an explosion, Ingram said. He notified the Department of Public Safety and turned around to go back to the wreck.

Hornbrook, traveling at a high rate of speed, passed a vehicle driven by Louis A. Manstrom of Round Rock, and collided with the truck-tractor rig almost headon. The impact sent his vehicle several yards on down the road, scattering wheels, parts and almost disintegrating before coming to a stop. The Manstrom vehicle, hitting the debris from the wreck, blew out a tire and went off the road. There were no other injuries.

Hornbrook, a service station attendant, had been reported missing along with the car which was reported stolen in Austin the previous day. He had stopped in Sheffield to fill up with gas and left without paying. The station attendant gave chase and caught him at the top of Lancaster Hill. Armed with a rifle, he took money and a pistol from Hornbrook shortly before the fatal accident.

Ozona Volunteer Firemen had to use the Hurst Tool (Jaws of Life) to remove Hornbrook's body from the wreckage. The speedometer on the car had stuck at 110 miles an hour, according to reports from those at the scene.

JUST FOR YOU was the title of a special class in the design division at the Annual Garden Club Flower Show Tuesday, honoring Mrs. Baile Post. Mrs. Post poses by one of the entries, an arrangement of purple iris. A longtime member of the Ozona Garden Club, Mrs. Post has worked tirelessly on the many beautification projects of the club. She has written a weekly column for the club for the past ten years. She is also a National Flower Show Judge.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

April 18, 1979

Dear Sirs:

Upon assessing our public information sources, I could not help but reflect upon the great deal of cooperation that you have given the Crockett County ASCS Office in the past. Not only does The Ozona Stockman allow ASCS newspaper articles through the use of press releases, but also uses the monthly newsletter regarding ASCS Programs in Crockett County. This kind of cooperation is greatly appreciated.

I'm sure this high level of cooperation will continue.

Sincerely,

Dear Kitty,

Hope you don't mind my calling you by your first name. I've met you a number of times. Grew up with Tom and his brothers. I am Joe Couch's sister Mickey Couch James.

I am writing and enclosing a self-addressed envelope to ask you the price of the renewal of The Stockman. I haven't received it for three weeks. At the nursing home where I work are Ola Brown, whose husband used to work for my father, Burt Couch. I read the paper, take it to the hospital, let Ola read it, then give it to Eva Pettit who is Mildred Field's sister, then to Lois Riddle, who used to be a close friend of my oldest sister, Mahlon C. Robertson. So you see you have quite a fan club up here.

Please send me the price of the paper for this year. I think you will have a lot more "out of town" subscribers, if you can handle them. Let me know for everyone keeps asking me.

I'm enclosing a self-addressed envelope so you can tell me the price of the paper for this year, also send me the price of the last 3 issues which I have not received (have to keep up with brother Joe and Alice and all their activities). Best regards and "Hello to Tom-Hope to see you again, one of these days."

Sincerely,
Mickey James

SIKORSKY DELIVERS FIRST SPIRIT™ HELICOPTERS

The Sikorsky SPIRIT, a 12-passenger transport-category helicopter, is specifically designed for commercial operators.

The first three of 14 SPIRIT™ commercial helicopters ordered from Sikorsky Aircraft by the Air Logistics Division of Offshore Logistics, Inc., are now playing an important role in offshore oil production in the Gulf of Mexico.

When he presented the three 12-passenger, blue and white aircraft to Offshore Logistics, Sikorsky President Gerald J. Tobias said the delivery "represents the climax of a mammoth effort on the part of both Sikorsky and its industry associates to produce the first transport category helicopter specifically designed for commercial operators."

Offshore President Kenneth M. Jones expects the SPIRIT "to expand the market potential for our division due to its increased range, speed and productivity."

Eleven more of the revolutionary new helicopters have been ordered by Offshore.

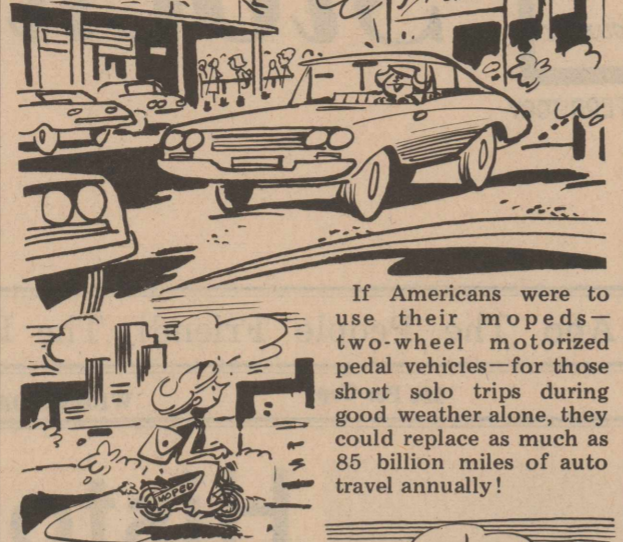

Sikorsky has received orders for 210 SPIRITs from 55 operators in 19 countries. With a gross weight of 10,000 pounds, the SPIRIT can travel at speeds up to 178 mph for distances of 460 miles. It is powered by two Detroit Diesel Allison 250-C30 turbine engines, each providing 650 shaft hp. This allows a climb rate of 1,350 feet per minute and a service ceiling of 15,000 feet. Its base price is $1,125,000.

Sikorsky is a division of United Technologies Corporation.

FANCY THAT!

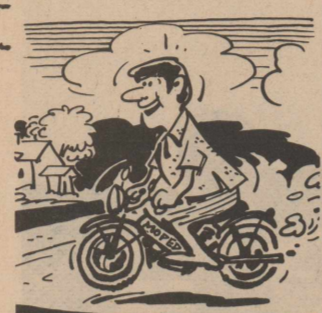

Moped Could Save U.S. 5 Billion Gallons of Gas

US government studies have shown that more than half of all auto trips are made by a single occupant, and four out of five auto trips are less than 10 miles.

Considering that a moped averages 135 miles-per-gallon, Americans could save up to five billion gallons of gasoline each year by choosing the "moped alternative." That's part of the reason why the moped population has increased tenfold in the US since 1975.

If Americans were to use their mopeds—two-wheel motorized pedal vehicles—for those short solo trips during good weather alone, they could replace as much as 85 billion miles of auto travel annually!

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Gov. Bill Clements, sticking to his unpredictable ways, said this week he will veto any measures passed by the Legislature designed to raise interest rates on home mortgages.

Piling one surprise on top of another, Clements didn't just say he would but actually did veto a bill that would have let truckers set their own rates before bringing them to the Railroad Commission for approval.

Clements described the trucking legislation as "bad public policy," and said the bill could have exempted the trucking industry from state antitrust laws.

The governor saved his heaviest criticism for legislation that would have raised the home loan interest rate allowed by law from 10 to 12 percent. Clements said it took a certain amount of "audacity" on the part of the savings and loan industry "to come to the Legislature asking for more money" when S&L institutions are already reporting record-high profits.

Sen. Bill Meier, the sponsor of legislation to raise the home loan interest ceiling, predicted a recession because of Clements' move "and more probably a depression in the Texas housing industry."

But Clements said he had heard no convincing arguments to raise interest rates "when the average Texan is fighting just to keep his head above water financially."

Spokesmen for the savings and loan industry said first-time home buyers and sellers of used homes would find fewer mortgages on the market and higher down payments on those mortgages that were available.

Clements said he would consider calling a special session if there is a serious housing slump.

Consumer groups warned to beware of a "backdoor" strategy that might be used to, in effect, get the interest rates increased by reducing the penalties for charging more than the 10 percent now allowed by the law. A bill reducing penalties for savings and loan institutions that charge more than the legal limit has already passed the House.

Meier, who last week managed to pass legislation that will weaken the Consumer Protection Act, said Clements' announcement of a veto means his legislation is "dead."

A veto can be overridden by a two-thirds vote but it hasn't been done since 1941 and up until that time, the Legislature has seen fit to overturn only 25 gubernatorial vetoes.

Teacher Pay Raises
Now that legislators know how Clements feels about interest rates, they can get on to other more pressing matters such as teacher pay raises. The governor has kept no one in the dark about how he feels on this subject.

From the outset, Clements made clear that he favored only a 5.1 percent pay boost for all state employees, including teachers.

This week, seven of the state's largest school districts sent representatives to an half-hour meeting with the governor, and Linus Wright, Dallas school superintendent, said Clements made clear "he was not going to change his position" on teacher pay raises.

All of the superintendents said the governor's proposal of a 5.1 percent increase was unacceptable. "That is not going to be sufficient to meet the needs of our teachers," Austin superintendent Jack Davidson told reporters after meeting with the governor.

The superintendents said local school districts will have to come up with the money for bigger teacher pay raises if the Legislature goes ahead with Clements' plan to boost salaries by only 5.1 percent. Wright, Davidson and other superintendents felt a 7 percent pay hike was justified.

School officials said Clements wasn't all that receptive to their pleas for teachers to be treated differently than other state employees. But the superintendents found the governor "very receptive" to the suggestion that large metropolitan districts like Dallas and Houston be treated differently.

Most of the larger school districts have already put into effect some of the changes Clements called for during his gubernatorial campaign last year, such as competency testing for students.

The governor also assured the superintendents that they will have a voice in school matters through Clements' education task force.

Short Snorts

The government has hoisted the warning flags again, telling American motorists there may not be enough gas to run their cars on by the time summer rolls around. Despite the warnings, consumption is up by four percent over this time last year.

One demand that Gov. Clements has been making this session is that legislators vote into law some kind of proposal that would give the voters initiative and referendum rights. Such legislation, for all practical purposes, has been beached in both houses, but Clements has threatened a special session if no such bills reach his desk.

While the federal government was telling us to drive less and save gasoline, legislators were getting their tanks filled up with "gasohol," a fuel made by mixing gasoline and alcohol made from farm products.

Truth is often found between two extremes.

Actions speak louder than words-and are just as likely to be misquoted or misinterpreted.

There is a difference between having an aim in life and just shooting at random.

We might be more eager to accept good advice if it did not continually interfere with our plans.

The emptier the pot the quicker it boils-watch your temper!

The man who cannot be angry at evil usually lacks enthusiasm for good.

The ambition of most girls is to make some man a good husband.

Every time you give someone a piece of your mind you make your head a little emptier.

Had you ever noticed that a fire department never fights fire with fire?

The best way to get rid of a hot-head is to give him the cold shoulder.

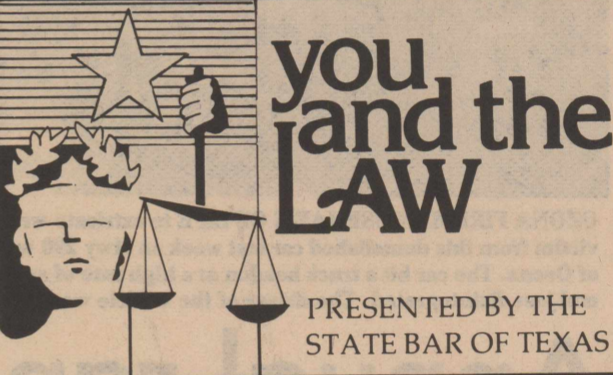

The atheist cannot find God for the same reason a thief cannot find a policeman.

Discussion is an exchange of knowledge; argument is only an exchange of ignorance.

Actually there's only a slight difference between keeping your chin up and sticking your neck out, but it's worth knowing.

A LIFT FOR THE WEEK
Think right, act right; it is what you think and do that makes you what you are.

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: My elderly father resides in a nursing home. He claims that he is being mistreated, that he is being kept heavily sedated so he won't complain. He also says the food is terrible and that he is treated like a caged animal. Are there any laws to prevent abuse by nursing homes? What can I do about this situation to keep other people from being mistreated?

A: Nursing homes are licensed and regulated by the Department of Health of the State of Texas. The Department is required by law to hold at least one open hearing per year in each licensed institution to hear complaints. Reports of neglect or abuse should be directed to the Department for prompt investigation. It is a misdemeanor to fail to report abuse or neglect. The Department of Health has broad powers to enjoin abuse or neglect or even to close nursing homes guilty of violation.

Q: When I was shopping in a grocery store, I picked up a jar of mustard from the top row on the shelf. Several jars beneath the jar I selected fell to the floor and shattered. A piece of glass cut a long gash in my leg, requiring several stitches at the hospital. There was no divider between the jars. They were stacked on top of each other. Can I sue the store for damages?

A: Grocery stores are not automatically liable for injuries which occur on the premises. In order to win a suit for damages, you will need to prove either that some employee of the store was responsible for the presence of a dangerous condition, or that some employee knew, or should have known, that the dangerous condition existed. If you can prove that the jars were dangerously stacked and that an employee of the store stacked them, you should be able to prevail.

Q: I was recently released from the hospital. I have taken a new job and in order to obtain health insurance, offered by my employer, I need insurance forms filled out by my doctor. The doctor refuses to fill out the forms until I pay him the $95 I still owe him on my hospital bill, plus $25 he wants to fill out the forms. Can he legally do this?

A: Generally a person is not required to perform additional services for you unless you pay for services previously rendered. Your doctor is no different in this regard than anyone else engaged in a business for profit.

Q: I took my car to an auto mechanic for repairs after a minor collision. He has kept the car for over seven months because, according to him, he can't get one part. The part is purely ornamental. I've tried constant phoning but to no avail. The car has an out of state license and is not registered in Texas. I'm afraid he is, or has, black-marketed our car. Can he get a new title for it?

A: There is a chance that the mechanic could get a certified copy of the certificate of title and forge your name to it and transfer it to himself or someone else. There is also a possibility that he could attempt to have the car declared "abandoned" and have title transferred to himself to satisfy the lien he has on the car because of the work he has done on it. Both of these methods of getting title would be criminal offenses.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Here in Ozona, it seems that most every blooming plant has burst forth all at the same time to give our city a real flower show display.

If you wish to undertake a garden border of your own, and that is the way to really enjoy one. Here are a few guides to use.

The beauty of a properly planned garden border is that some plant or several are in bloom throughout the growing season.

This creates a floral edge in the landscape, so choose plants that bloom at different times. Your foliage plants, walls, or fences in the back ground provides form, texture and pattern after the flowers fade and create your own personal design.

Frame a small or narrow lawn with a colorful garden border, or use a border as the edging for one side of a wide expanse of lawn. The most tradition at use of a garden border is along the edge of a week, but patios, seating areas or terraces make this type of garden practical.

The side yard, one of the most neglected portions of the garden in terms of location and size, is almost perfect for a border. Regardless of the location, it is an ambitious undertaking, so it is better to attempt a small border and thoroughly utilize and enjoy the planting.

From a distance, a garden border will appear as a sweep of color; up close, it is a study in texture, color, form, size, and pattern. It is the manipulation of these qualities that reflect the gardener's personality, giving the garden border a personal touch and making it fun to design.

Plants in a garden border are usually larger according to heights, but lower growing plants can be used in the center to give depth and definition to the pattern. If you prefer something less than a riot of color, you may want to try the combination of gray and green with another color for accent. Color repetition is a good way to achieve unity in a border.

Prolong the bloom period of flowering annuals by cutting the flowers frequently. Some of these are stock, coreopsis, snapdragon, pansies and periwinkle.

Duplicate Bridge winners

Winners in Duplicate Bridge Club play Saturday at the Country Club were Mrs. Robert Cox and Mrs. Bob Bailey, first, and Mrs. Brock Jones and Mrs. Hillery Phillips, second.

In Sunday play, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Evert White were first and Mrs. Cox and Evert White, second.

Miss Naron plans May wedding

JAN NARON

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Naron announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Janera Lee, to Forest Ray Henderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Henderson.

Graduates of Ozona High School, Miss Naron is a second year journalism student at Angelo State University and Mr. Henderson is a graduate of ASU. Miss Naron is presently employed at the San Angelo Standard Times. Her fiancée is in business with his father at White's Auto Store here. The wedding will take place May 20 in First Baptist Church of Ozona.

Gift tea honors Miss Krzywicki

Miss Linda Krzywicki of Houston, bride-elect of Dean Shaw, was honored with a gift tea on Saturday, April 21, in the home of Mrs. Huey Ingram.

Receiving guests were Mrs. Ingram, Miss Krzywicki, Mrs. Alfred Krzywicki, mother of the bride-to-be; Mrs. Harold Shaw, mother of the groom, and Mrs. Joe Shaw of Mertzon, great-aunt of the groom.

Miss Rhonda Yeager attended at the bride's book. The bride's sisters, Eileen and Karen Krzywicki, and Mrs. Gene Hood presided at the serving table. The bride's chosen colors of blue and yellow were used in the centerpiece and throughout the house.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Leamon Walters, Mrs. L.E. Kennedy, and Mrs. J.D. Burk, all of San Angelo, and Mrs. Paul Gordon of Miles. About 50 guests attended.

Other hostesses included Mrs. Jeff Owens, Mrs. W.L. Harrison, Mrs. Nikki Sewell, Mrs. Troy Williams, Mrs. Bud Coates, Mrs. Bob Bell, Mrs. George Hester, Mrs. James Weant, Mrs. J.W. Johnigan, Mrs. Sam Perner, Mrs. Ray Henderson, Mrs. W.H. Whitaker, Mrs. Richard Mayfield, Mrs. S.E. Carnes, and Mrs. Gene Hood.

Woman's Forum meets at Civic Center

The Ozona Woman's Forum met Tuesday, April 17, in the Civic Center with Mrs. Brock Jones and Mrs. Lowell Littleton as hostesses.

The president, Mrs. J.D. Brown, presided at the business meeting. Roll call was answered and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Mrs. W.T. Stokes gave a report on the Heart of Texas Convention held in Brownwood, March 23 and 24.

The program, "Traveling in Britain" was given by Mrs. Bill Clegg and Mrs. James Childress. These members showed slides and gave a commentary of their travels last fall through England, Ireland, and Scotland. Members were treated to an exhibit of things from the British Isles, including mohair clothing, Waterford Crystal, Irish lace, Wedgewood in a new Egyptian pattern and Chess Sets.

Guests and other members present were Mrs. George Bunker, Mrs. L.B. Cox, III, Mrs. Mayde Jo Humphreys, Mrs. Dempster Jones, Mrs. Ralph Jones, Mrs. Vernon Jones, Mrs. L.D. Kirby, Mrs. Jess Marley, Mrs. R.M. Owensby, Mrs. Gene Perry, Mrs. Arthur Phillips, Mrs. C.O. Spencer, Ms. Bonnie Warth, Mrs. W.H. Whitaker, Mrs. Allie Lock, Mrs. Marshall Montgomery, Mrs. Fred Hagelstein, Mrs. J. McCartney, Mrs. Earle Courtney, Mrs. Bascomb Cox, Mrs. Ira Carson, Mrs. Bill Carson, and Miss Martha Mann.

Mrs. Parker is bridge club hostess

Mrs. J.B. Parker was hostess for bridge at the Country Club Thursday.

Winning high was Mrs. Bob Bailey and second high went to Mrs. John R. Hunicutt. Mrs. Buster Deaton was low and Mrs. Ann Mayfield won the bingo.

Others playing were Mrs. Clay Adams, Mrs. Joe Bean, Mrs. Billy Carson, Mrs. John Childress, Mrs. James Dockery, Mrs. Joe Friend, Mrs. Brock Jones, Mrs. J.J. Marley, Mrs. Dave Matney, Mrs. Kirby Moore, Mrs. Evert White, Mrs. Byron Williams, Mrs. Charles Williams, Mrs. Gene Williams, and Mrs. Jack Williams.

Avoid problems in trading plants

Trading is a pleasant and inexpensive way of acquiring new plants. Unfortunately, often these plants carry an organism that may affect other plants already in the collection, says Billy Reagor county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The most commonly transmitted problem is the root knot nematode.

This microscopic roundworm can be carried within roots of infected plants or in contaminated soil. It affects a wide variety of ornamental and garden plants by causing roots to swell and become deformed. Infected plants are unthrifty and fail to produce flowers or fruit, says the agent.

To avoid this problem, carefully inspect roots of transplants before setting them out. If any evidence of swelling is noted, discard the plants. It is virtually impossible to eliminate root knot nematodes from soil once they are introduced.

Fungal organisms can also be transported on plants, says Reagor. They cause root and crown rots along with leaf spots. To avoid introduction of these organisms, examine plant parts to make sure they are free of discolored areas that might indicate infection sites.

The agent says virus infections are more difficult to detect. Infected plants usually have leaves that are mottled or light in color. These symptoms are more apparent in the newest leaves. Once a plant is infected, it will carry the virus for life, and chemical treatment will not be satisfactory.

Knowledge of plant diseases is the best defense against letting a disease problem get out of hand. Many sources of information are available to instruct you on disease problems that may occur on a given plant species. If you become familiar with these, you can spot disease problems and avoid them.

Determine "normal" weight, then eat a balanced diet of low-caloried foods, exercise daily and change eating habits to reach that weight.

One to two pounds of weight lost per week is the recommended safe amount to lose.

Men and women can use this simple chart for determining what their approximate normal weight should be based on their height and build:

A medium built woman should allow 100 lb. for first 5 ft. of height, plus 5 lb. for each additional inch. Add 10% if you are small built and subtract 10% if large built.

A medium built man can allow 106 lb. for first 5 ft. of height, plus 6 lb. for each additional inch. A small built man should subtract 10% from the above weight and add 10% if large built.

Overweight or obesity is one of the most pressing health problems today. Approximately 40 percent of the people in the United States above 40 years of age are believed to be overweight.

Overweight refers to weighing less than 20 percent above your normal weight.

Monumentally obese refers to being from 100 to 300 percent above your normal weight.

You may be wondering how to tell if your body build is small, medium, or large. There is a way. Take your forefinger and thumb of your right hand and place around the wrist of your left hand. If your finger overlaps, you have a small frame. If they just touch, your frame is medium. If they do not touch, you have a large

- frame.
- ORANGE SALAD
- 1 package orange gelatin
- 1 small carton small curd cottage cheese
- 1 can mandarin oranges, drained
- 1 No. 2 can pineapple tidbits canned in own juice, drained
- 1 cup whipped topping
- Sprinkle gelatin over cottage cheese. Stir; let set for 20 minutes. Add oranges and pineapple to cheese mixture. Fold in whipped topping. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

SHOWER THE BRIDE WITH GOOD WISHES

The bridal shower—an old-fashioned tradition that's still popular with the modern bride. It's a time when friends and family can "shower" the bride with gifts for her new home and good wishes for the future. An at-home shower is fun for all, including the hostess when she serves dishes that are made ahead with no last minute fussing. "Golden Ring" Salad is perfect for a bridal shower—easy to make and serve, and pretty enough to be the centerpiece.

"GOLDEN RING" SALAD

- 1 can (16 oz.) pineapple chunks, drained (reserve syrup)
- 1 can (11 oz.) mandarin oranges, drained (reserve syrup)
- 2 envelopes Knox® Unflavored Gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1/4 cup lime juice

In 5-cup blender, sprinkle unflavored gelatin over reserved syrups; let stand 3 to 4 minutes. Add boiling water and process at low speed until gelatin is completely dissolved, about 2 minutes. Add pineapple, oranges, and lime juice; process at high speed until fruit is pureed, about 2 minutes. Pour into 4-cup ring mold and chill until firm. To serve, unmold onto serving platter; mound your favorite chicken or seafood salad in center. Makes about 8 servings.

Spring is a season of warm sunshine, fields of flowers, lingering twilight and gentle breezes. Spring is tender and romantic. It is a wonderful time to be alive.

This delightful season draws us like a magnet to the magic world of the great outdoors. Flowers begin to bloom in all their radiance, and birds sing once more. There's an assurance in the air itself of fresh, new hope.

Spring is also a time when we're more receptive to thoughts of the eternal mystery of life. It's a special time to marvel at God's supreme plan for each of us and for all of His creation.

This week discover a new sense of wonder of the divine power that sends us a bright, new spring year after year . . . in church.

Goat News

Users of 2,4,5-T have lost another round to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, but there's no sign of anyone throwing in the towel. An old saw has it that it's not the size of the dog in the fight but the size of the fight in the dog.

A late February announcement by EPA suspended T usage on forests, rights-of-way and improved pasture. Native range and rice crop usage is still allowed.

The most recent EPA victory came April 12 in federal court at Flint, Mich., U.S. District Judge James Harvey ruled against Dow Chemical Co. and 20 other plaintiffs who sought an injunction against the EPA suspension.

Judge Harvey, in his 20 page opinion, concluded that EPA had congressional authority to issue such a suspension and that his court lacked the clout to overrule the agency. He added, however, that he himself would not have ordered the suspension had he been in EPA's shoes.

Harvey apparently found the "evidence" EPA used to support its suspension questionable. Most scientists outside the agency seem to agree.

That "evidence" was based primarily on a study of hospital records covering miscarriages in a limited region of Western Oregon. In one press statement alone announcing the suspension, EPA used the terms "remarkably high", "dramatic peak" and "alarming correlation" to describe an apparent summertime increase in miscarriages there. The agency blamed that increase on forest spraying with 2,4,5-T during the preceding spring months. Growing numbers of scientists have pointed out that, first, the increase is much smaller than EPA has indicated to the public and, second, there is no evidence that 2,4,5-T is any more responsible than hundreds of other environmental or behavioral factors.

EPA expressed the increase in terms of an "index" based on miscarriages per 1000 live births, a trick that's easily defended but which has the effect of blowing everything out of proportion. It's like translating "one-half" into "500 one-thousandths". The "index" showed an average level of 130 miscarriages per 1000 live births, but the actual month in question averaged only four miscarriages! It all boils down to the fact that EPA's "dramatic peak" reflects an increase of 1.4 miscarriages over the year-round monthly average!

Critics of the study add that even this tiny increase can be blamed as easily on the area's summer vacation trade as on 2,4,5-T spraying. They claim EPA has manufactured a "trumped up" charge against 2,4,5-T to appease increasingly vocal and abusive environmental extremists and fear-mongers.

Again, brush spraying on rangeland is so far exempt from the suspension order, and the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association remains hopeful that it will remain exempt at least through this year's brush spraying season. TS&GRA is also confident that, if common sense and justice are still a part of the American system, scientific fact and rational thinking will triumph over the political machinations of EPA before that agency does irreparable damage to the vital industries to which 2,4,5-T has become so important.

Treat now for powdery mildew

Now is the time to treat your ornamentals for powdery mildew, says Billy Reager, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Powdery mildew, the most destructive disease of roses, crape myrtles, Photinia and zinnias, is unlike other fungal diseases. It occurs under conditions of low moisture on the plant surface and relatively low humidity.

The disease attacks growing portions of the plant, thus weakening it and reducing yield. Young leaves develop slightly raised blister-like areas that soon become covered with a grayish-white powdery growth. As young leaves grow, they become curled and distorted.

Older leaves, however, develop large, white patches of the fungus with no leaf distortion. Tiny, black, fruiting fungal bodies are embedded in the mildew patches, especially late in the season.

Sometimes buds are attacked. They either fail to open or open improperly.

A flower blight is caused when the infection spreads to mature flower parts.

Powdery mildew fungus is most common when warm days follow cool nights. It occurs where air circulation is poor, such as in crowded, low areas. The fungus overwinters in diseased plant material on the ground and on young, growing points of plants.

Several steps can be taken to control powdery mildew. In the fall, remove and destroy all diseased annuals. Also, prune diseased parts of perennials to reduce the source of infection in the spring. Avoid crowding plants and planting ornamentals in damp, low areas.

In the spring, begin fungicidal applications when new growth develops or at the first sign of powdery mildew. Applications can also be made during the flowering period to avoid blossom blight.

Apply one of the following fungicides at 7-10-day intervals or as needed: Acti-dione PM (cycloheximide), Benlate (benomyl), Karathane (dinocap) or sulfur (dust or wettable powder). Use sulfur at temperatures below 85 degrees F. or it will burn the plant. Be sure to follow the instructions on the products label, reminds the agent.

Alice Poage returned Tuesday afternoon from Dallas where she represented Ozona Television System at an HBO convention.

Good pecan crops begin with frequent spraying

Beautiful pecan trees and regular harvests of high quality pecans begins each spring with frequent zinc sprays. Good foliage is the secret to optimum growth, healthy trees and regular production. Mature pecan trees can have double the amount of foliage with three or four zinc sprays in April and May. Leaves on mature trees are full grown by June, so spray early and frequently. Young pecan trees can grow six feet instead of six inches in one year if zinc is sprayed onto the foliage every two to three weeks from April until August. This is of course in combination with a good management program.

There are two types of zinc which can be used in Texas, zinc sulfate or NZN. Each is effective. Commercial pecan producers have used zinc sulfate with good results for over 40 years. Caution will need to be used however because zinc sulfate can kill many types of plants, so spray it only onto pecan foliage. NZN is a new type of zinc which is a liquid. It was developed by Dr. J. Benton Storey of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. NZN is highly soluble, less toxic to other vegetation and readily available at many garden centers.

The commercial rates of zinc for spraying pecan foliage in Texas are 2 pounds of zinc sulfate or 1/4 quarts of NZN per 100 gallons water.

The homeowner should use 2 teaspoons of zinc sulfate or NZN in one gallon of water.

Other forms of zinc, such as zinc chelates or tree injectors, have been tested but have not been found to be an effective source of zinc for pecans in Texas.

Zinc is utilized by pecan foliage for the manufacture of a growth hormone called indole-acetic-acid. Without zinc and indole-acetic-acid pecan growth is greatly reduced. The leaves will be small and the shoots will be short and in clusters forming what is commonly called "zinc rosette". Zinc is not readily translocated from shoot to shoot; consequently, frequent zinc sprays are needed if new growth is to receive zinc. This is also why good coverage is important. Since aerial application does not give complete tree coverage, commercial growers have to depend on ground sprayers for zinc applications.

There are over 600,000 acres of native pecan trees in Texas. Yet strange as it may seem pecans are one of the few plants that cannot absorb zinc from the soil. Texas soils frequently contain very high levels of zinc but because of the high pH nature of alkaline soils a high percentage of the soil zinc is not soluble in the soil water and is thus unavailable to the pecan. Applications of zinc to the soil are of no significant value to pecan trees in Texas.

Relative humidity has a great effect on foliar absorption of zinc. In far west Texas extreme difficulty can be encountered in getting the zinc into the leaf. Along the Gulf Coast, absorption can be extremely easy. Zinc should not be concentrated to 2X or 4X rates because foliage burn can result during periods of high humidity. The use of sprayers are not recommended because they can result in accelerated drying and reduced zinc absorption.

A pecan grower can determine if his zinc sprays are effective by observing the amount of terminal growth the trees make during the year. Mature trees should make 5 to 10 inches of shoot growth annually. Nonbearing trees should make 24 inches of shoot growth each year. In addition, leaves collected August or early September can be analyzed in a chemical laboratory to determine the concentration of zinc in the leaves. A level of 75 ppm is considered a minimum and 125 ppm is optimum. It is very important to have the leaves washed before analysis to prevent measuring the zinc that may remain on the surface of the leaf.

Zinc alone is not the answer to perfect pecans. It is however a very important cultural requirement. With good zinc management other cultural practices such as fertilization and irrigation will be more effective. However, fertilization or irrigation without zinc sprays is of little value. So, zinc sprays are one of the pecan growers most important first steps to success each year.

Report card important

Report cards are important—but put them in perspective, says Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A report card is a hint, a taste, a sample and an invitation to parents, she explains.

Report cards are not a declaration of war between parents, children and teachers.

They should say to parents, "Come for a conference and let's discuss the progress your child is making."

A report card can help parents discuss with the teacher how they can better support their child's learning at home.

Daily encouragement—not a threat every six or nine weeks—motivates a child to learn, the specialist points out.

Tiny boxes on a report card cannot adequately express six or nine weeks of learning experiences, hundreds of activities and exercises, thousands of ideas and thought exchanges.

Instead of heaping dismay upon a child for bad report card grades, assist him in learning the things he has evidently missed out on, Miss Taylor recommends.

School should provide an environment and a place for young children to learn skills that will help them on their way toward maturity.

Report cards are indicators of progress, not a concrete report of how smart or dumb a child is, she adds.

Prevent food poisoning on fun excursions

Getting food poisoning is a sure way of turning a fun excursion into a sudden nightmare. When planning spring outings, the Texas Medical Association urges you to observe adequate caution in preparing and handling food.

Bacteria are the prime culprits in food poisoning. Present throughout nature, bacteria are usually harmless. For growth and reproduction, they require a food source, moisture, and temperatures between 45 and 115 degrees F.

Salmonella is one bacterial organism which can produce illness. Most frequently found on raw animal products such as meat, poultry and eggs, this bacteria can be transmitted from one food to another. For example, if the knife used to cut contaminated raw meat or poultry is not washed before being used to peel potatoes or dice onions, all of the food items can be contaminated. The bacterial growth is accelerated if food is then left at room temperature or cooled very slowly. The results can be diarrhea, abdominal cramps, vomiting and fever.

These pointers will reduce the chances of salmonella poisoning:

1. Before preparing other foods, use hot, soapy water to wash hands and utensils which have been in contact with raw meats, poultry and eggs; 2. Thaw meats and poultry in the refrigerator rather than at room temperature. If pressed for time, use cool running water; 3. Wait to stuff poultry until immediately prior to cooking. Use a meat thermometer to avoid undercooking; 4. Immediately refrigerate leftovers and heat them thoroughly before eating.

Another common bacterial menace is Staphylococcus, often called "staph." Staph organisms are commonly found on the hair and skin, in the nose and throat, and in skin infections. Staph bacteria produce a toxin which cannot be destroyed by cooking. Certain foods such as gravies, dressings, meat, eggs and poultry are most prone to contamination.

There are ways to prevent staph contamination. Avoid keeping susceptible foods at room temperatures or at warm holding temperatures. Never use the hands to mix foods. Be cautious to keep the hands away from the mouth, nose and hair, and cover all coughs and sneezes. Don't prepare food if suffering from a skin infection or infectious disease. Botulism, the most serious form of food poisoning, is often fatal. The majority of cases occur from improperly processed, home-canned vegetables. In the absence of oxygen and acid, botulism spores form a deadly toxin. Symptoms of poisoning include double vision, inability to swallow, and speech and breathing difficulties.

The likelihood of botulism poisoning can be greatly reduced by following these rules: 1. Only use the pressure-canner method of canning vegetables, meats and poultry. The high temperature required to kill botulism spores is not possible by other home-canning methods. Pickled vegetables and fruits are often sufficiently acidic to prevent bacterial growth and may be canned with boiling water. To be certain, obtain canning instructions for all foods from the United States Department of Agriculture and make sure your equipment is working properly; 2. Throw away any foods which have an "off" odor. But sometimes poisoned foods do not smell bad; 3. Never taste food that is suspect. When in doubt, throw it away; 4. Throw away food from cans that leak or bulge. Be sure to dispose of such food in a way which will protect other people and pets from its accidental use.

Guide to hearing aid selection

Deafness can be a great loss. But consumers can lose their money as well as their hearing if they are not careful because every year thousands of people buy unnecessary hearing aids costing several hundred dollars a piece.

The Texas Medical Association (TMA) says the easiest way to avoid such an unnecessary purchase is to consult a physician. The doctor can run tests to see if a hearing problem can be better corrected by using medicine or surgery.

Federal law says a physician has to give a patient a certificate saying the patient needs a hearing aid. Or the person can sign a statement saying he or she does not want to see a doctor about the hearing problem. Not seeing a doctor before getting a hearing aid could mean that serious ear disease could go untreated or the person might make an expensive, unnecessary purchase, TMA says.

These unnecessary purchases happen a lot. The American Speech and Hearing Association estimates about 40 percent of hearing aids sold are unnecessary or inappropriate.

The National Hearing Aid Society (NHAS) has developed several guidelines its members use to help customers avoid buying unnecessary hearing aids. Society members will not sell a hearing aid if a person has one of these conditions:

- Visible ear deformity;
- Ear drainage within the last 90 days;
- Sudden or rapidly increasing hearing loss;
- Severe or constant dizziness or ringing in the ears;
- Sudden or recent hearing loss in one ear;
- Excessive ear wax or an object in the ear canal;
- Significant air-bone gap (a problem recognized only by hearing tests).

It is a good idea to see a doctor anytime you have a hearing problem, but especially if any of the previously mentioned symptoms are present, TMA says.

Once the actual need for a hearing aid is determined, purchasing the device can be a problem all its own. For pointers on selecting the right one out of about 1,200 types, consult a physician or other qualified professional such as an NHAS member. Another source is the June 1976 issue of Consumer Reports magazine which carried an extensive article on hearing aids.

Tax deadline looms

April 30 is the date by which employers must report on Form 941 Social Security and withheld Federal income taxes for the first quarter of 1979, and pay any taxes due, the Internal Revenue Service said. If the quarterly liability (reduced by any deposit during the quarter) is $200 or more, the unpaid balance must be deposited.

This deadline does not apply to those employers who make timely deposits of the full amount of tax due in Federal Reserve or approved commercial banks. They are allowed until May 10 to file Form 941, "Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return."

Lions to convention

Representatives of The Ozona Lions Clubs are expected to attend the annual convention of District 2-A1, Lions Clubs International, scheduled May 4, 5, 6 at Midland.

A golf tournament will open the convention on Friday with the first business session to begin the next morning. Rounding out the convention schedule are the annual queens contest and festivities honoring Lions International Director Ray Marley of Alaska and District Governor and Mrs. H. G. Brancel of San Angelo.

Mac McKinney visits Ozona

We saw Mac McKinney in Ozona a few weeks ago. Mac is the owner and operator of Service Master Carpet and Furniture Cleaning Service in San Angelo.

Mac has been cleaning carpets, rugs and furniture in the West Texas area since 1954. That's 25 years of real experience and "Know How." So if you weren't one of those lucky people who were having Mac clean their carpets a few weeks back, give him a ring and he will be glad to set you up an appointment. Phone San Angelo 653-3800. You'll be glad you had the best cleaner in the business clean your carpets.

Social Security visit set

Garland Gregg, representative of the San Angelo Social Security Office, has scheduled his May visit to Ozona. He will be at the County Courthouse on Wednesday, May 16 between 2:00 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Anyone who wants to file a claim for benefits, get information, or transact other business with the Social Security Administration may contact him at this time. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo. Residents of Ozona may call toll free by dialing "Operator" and asking for "Enterprise 2058".

If you need to file a claim for social security benefits, call first.

Citation goes a long way on a tank of gas. But that's just the start. Citation has the traction of front wheel drive, rack-and-pinion steering, front disc brakes, and a transverse-mounted engine that's cradled in rubber-cushioned mountings to reduce engine vibration. Sleek Citation is easy to park, yet big enough for five adults and lots of cargo. See Chevy Citation for yourself. And to really appreciate it, get behind the wheel.

Spouse abuse goes unreported in Texas

An estimated 80% of the spouse abuse cases in Texas go unreported—primarily due to fear of reprisal.

This was one of the findings of a study conducted by the Criminal Justice Center at Sam Houston State University.

Dr. Raymond H.C. Teske Jr., Director of the Survey Research Program, said his conservative estimate is that 483,000 women and 88,000 men in Texas have been abused at some time by a spouse.

His figures indicate that 208,000 women may have experienced abuse within the past 18 months, with 97,500 of that number being subjected to "serious" physical abuse.

Teske's estimates are derived from a random survey of 1,500 Texans conducted by research assistant James S. Stachura, under Teske's direction. A total of 682 persons from 138 counties returned completed questionnaires.

The study was unusual in that prior studies involved only those who reported the abuse to some social service agency. Prior studies were also limited in their concentration on abuse directed against women.

The most prevalent type of abuse acknowledged by persons who said they had been victims of spouse abuse was pushing or shoving, followed by slapping, striking with fist, assault while pregnant, and striking with object.

Some 26.9% of the victims also checked "other," listing abuses such as verbal or mental harassment, choking, threats with knife or acid, scratching or pulling hair, biting, kept from sleeping, and extramarital affairs.

Teske said that a significant indication of the problems of identifying and combating spouse abuse was that only 20% of the victims indicated that they had called the police for help.

"Many of those who did not call the police made it clear through their written comments that they thought that reporting the abuse would only have caused more violence by upsetting the spouse," said Teske.

While not wanting to involve police in most cases, over two-thirds of the victims did try to fight back or defend themselves. Many of those who did not also said they thought it would have only made matters worse.

Another significant area of questioning concerned cause of abuse with victims allowed to list any cause which came to mind. Drinking or alcoholism was listed by 30.1% of the victims. Others included depression, lack of self esteem, instability, emotional problems (10.8%); temper (10.8%); jealousy (9.7%); and financial problems, stress, and work problems (each 6.5%).

Another question asked more directly about alcohol, and 61.3% of the victims said that attacks took place either occasionally, usually, or all the time when a spouse was drinking. One of every four victims said "all the time."

"It is clear that victims perceive alcohol as a major factor in their situations along with other variables," said Teske. "Alcohol may then be a spark which sets off the abuse."

Another section of the questionnaire attempted to determine the validity of the "cycle of violence" theory, in which it is believed that abusive behavior is modeled or imitated and passed through successive generations.

Almost half (48.5%) of the victims reported that they had heard or their mother or father being abused. A number of the victims did not know whether there had been physical abuse between their spouse's parents, but 31.3% said they knew of such abuse taking place.

Almost three of every five victims (59.1%) said they had been physically disciplined by parents, and over two of every five (41.9%) said their abusing spouse had been so disciplined.

Several of the victims wrote that their being physically disciplined should not be construed as abuse, and that the question of parental discipline was not applicable to their present situation as victims of spouse abuse.

Teske concluded, however, that "the evidence lends support to the idea of a 'cycle of violence' where spouse abuse is concerned."

Credit for young adults

Young adults may face credit seeking for the first time this spring when they graduate from high school or college.

However, many young people may experience problems with obtaining credit, Claude Kerbel, a consumer information specialist, points out.

They can't establish a credit record because no one will grant them credit—no one will grant them credit because they have no credit record, the specialist explains.

Ms. Kerbel is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The Equal Credit Opportunity Act, a federal regulation, prohibits discrimination in granting credit.

However, no law requires that stores and lenders give charge accounts, credit cards or loans to anyone who fills out an application.

The regulations do require that young adults applying for credit must be judged by the same standards used for other people.

Credit lenders say the most important factors for judging someone's credit worthiness are:

- record of financial responsibility including checking and savings account practices,

- financial resources including equity in a home, household goods, automobile and life insurance,

- present and future earning power, and
- current financial commitments.

A young person's first loan may need a cosigner, usually a parent or other responsible adult with a proven credit record, Ms. Kerbel says.

After paying off one co-signed note that demonstrates ability and willingness to pay, future loans may be made on the young person's signature alone.

To start a credit record, open a checking and savings account. Regular deposits in the savings account will demonstrate ability to plan and manage money.

However, take care not to overdraw the checking account, she advises.

After the savings account is built up, it can be used as loan collateral. Often loans are available at lower interest rates if borrowed against a savings account.

Another way to establish a credit record is to apply for a charge account at a local department store.

Use your account regularly—but be thrifty and pay promptly.

Luncheon judges honors

A noon luncheon at the Civic Center was given Tuesday by the Ozona Garden Club for the out-of-town judges at the annual Garden Club Flower Show, also held Tuesday.

Judges included Mrs. H.B. Horn and Mrs. Douglas Newton, both of Del Rio, Mrs. Thomas Ridgeway and Mrs. John Willingham, both of San Angelo, Mrs. Larue Schneemann of Big Lake and Mrs. Charles Speck of McCamey.

CPR class scheduled

A CPR class will be held May 4, at 6:30 p.m. in the Granny Miller Hall. It will be sponsored by the American Heart Association and the Crockett County Emergency Medical Service.

There will be a film, "The New Pulse of Life," and a lecture on CPR, plus a practical application practice on the dummy figure, "Annie."

Those completing the class and demonstration a proficiency in actual CPR will be issued a Basic Live Support Card from the American Heart Association. The class is free to the public and everyone is urged to attend.

Thompson third at regional

Kaye Thompson was awarded the third place medal in the mile run at the regional track meet in Lubbock last weekend. She ran a 5:32 for the third place. She ran second throughout the race, but got outkicked the last 110 yards, according to Coach Robbie Biggerstaff. However, the Ozona High School sophomore was awarded the medal and a certificate for her effort.

The only other qualifier from Ozona High School, Wilda Martinez, ran her best time of the year, 27.3 just one-tenth of a second off the district record.

Crockett County Care Center News

By Joan Nicholas
Activities Program Director

We appreciate the following volunteers who have served recently: Carol Carlisle, Grace Dorsey, Liz Mary Pipes, Alice Ross, Georgia Kirby, Veva Vargas, Sylvia Rodriguez, Thelma Janes, Jonesy Williams, Beth Boyd, Mickey Arredondo, Alda De-Hoyos, Blanche Walker, Bobbie Light, Doris Karr, Casiana Fierro, Rosa Fierro, Glenda Winkley, Mattie Cooper, Bill Morrison and group from the Church of Christ, Rev. Nelson Lanham, Rev. Larry Bailey, Rev. Larry Droll, and Rev. Charlie Fuantoz. Juniors: Patty Lanier, Phillis and Tasha Light.

We also would like to thank everyone who has brought in flowers, including Mrs. Leon Dowdy, Dorothy Montgomery, Alma Wilson, and the children who brought decorated Easter eggs on Easter Sunday whose names I do not have.

On Tuesday morning the "Rhythm Rascals" got together and played their instruments to my piano music and in the afternoon we had a group of fourteen sitting out on the back patio soaking up some sunshine and chatting about this and that. I took Paul Cavin for his daily exercise to the rodeo park area, and he enjoyed the change of scene. He did very well walking about a quarter of a mile. As a matter of fact he asked me if he was going too fast for me to keep up! Also, on Tuesday afternoon we had a group listening to talking books in Spanish, namely Carlota Villareal, Frances Borrego, Mike Pena, Ramona Lugo, Enemencia Diaz, and Juana Hernandez. This is the Spanish fiction I receive from Austin on either cassette tapes or records. And, of course, to top off the day there was Tuesday night Bingo.

On Wednesday we had Bible Class and exercises and in the afternoon Glenda Winkley showed a film on Norman Rockwell and his work. Edd Cade received music therapy in his room. He told me he enjoyed the taped music playing quietly at his bedside.

Thursday afternoon, Georgia Kirby kindly came and played the organ for the group sitting in the lobby area.

Pop Bonnell was thrilled to win his first gift certificate in Bingo and Ramona Lugo won the second prize after a three-way play off.

Things really got warmed up in our reading and discussion group Friday afternoon when we checked into the merits of the dreaded "black draught", "balmonia" and "senna tea" (all strangers to me since my mother believed that syrup of figs did the trick). Then there was goose grease and flannel--Paul said the flannel had to be red for it to do any good (chest colds) and turpentine and lard.

We read about the old time treatment for snake bite which was to kill and open up a chicken and slap it on the wound. The chicken would draw off the poisonous venom and immediately turn green. I think anyone resorting to this remedy might turn pretty green, along with the chicken. Everyone decided that I had better not leave for the Pecos River this past weekend, without taking a chicken along--just in case!

Also, Friday, a small group of residents accompanied by Ann Mayo and myself, went to Mrs. Stanton's front yard where we were invited to cut a huge box of roses. Ola Mills and Frances Borrego arranged them upon our return.

We wish for Enemencia Diaz a speedy recovery from surgery. She was taken to San Angelo on Friday. August Prugel is still in our hospital, but improving. Paul Cavin, an old friend, dropped by to visit him Monday morning.

Monday dominoes was won by Eleanor Bradford with Ola Mills and Ruby Cooksey tying for second place. Paul Cavin won at table No. 2.

I am still making my twice weekly trek to San Angelo and now have twenty-eight of the eighty hour course behind me. We are now well into the psycho-social aspects of aging. I must admit that while feeling somewhat negatively about this compulsory course before it commenced, we are gaining a lot of knowledge that should be most helpful to us in meeting our day to day challenges on the job. Our instructors are making it most enjoyable. Since we start at 5 p.m. we take a picnic supper each time to eat on our coffee break, and some pretty lively discussions and comparing of experiences usually accompany our munchings. We also have visiting speakers; Dr. H.M. Anderson was with us for one of last week's classes.

Ozonan's daughter AF training

Airman Paula R. Meek, daughter of Mrs. Elsie M. Huffman of Ozona, has been selected for technical training at Lackland AFB, Tex., in the Air Force avionics systems field.

The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., and studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. Completion of this training earned the individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Airman Meek attended Cleburne (Tex.) High School. Her brother, Charles E. Huffman, also lives in Ozona.

Crockett wildcat scheduled

Southland Royalty Co., Midland, will drill the No. 1 Newmont Friend "74" 15 feet north of and a replacement for its No. 1 Friend "74" 15 feet north of and a replacement for its No. 1 Friend "74".

Crockett County 8,500-foot wildcat, 3 1/8 miles south and slightly west of the opener and lone producer in the Parker-Harrell (Ellenburger gas) field, 1 5/8 miles east-northeast of Canyon gas production in the Ozona multipay field, 4 1/2 miles west of Strawn and 7520 Canyon gas production in the Ozona, Northeast multipay field, four miles north-west of 7890 Pennsylvanian gas production in the Davidson Ranch multipay field and five miles northeast of Ozona.

Location is 1,915 feet from the north and 1,320 feet from the west lines of 74-GH-GC&SF. Ground elevation is 2,467 feet.

The No. 1 Friend "74", 1,930 feet from the north and 1,320 feet from the west lines, was junked at 1,620 feet with 870 feet of drill-pipe and drillcollars left in the hole.

The Parker-Harrell field produces at 8,757 feet. Anderson Petroleum Inc., Ozona, will drill three outposts to Canyon gas production in the Ozona multipay field, 30 miles southwest of Ozona.

All the projects are contracted to 7,500 feet.

Regional qualifiers compete

Regional qualifiers for the Ozona Lions were in Mason Saturday to compete in a meet of regional qualifiers from around the area.

Fred Garza came in second in the high hurdles with a time of 15.3. Randy Ramos placed fourth in the 400-meter dash with 52.7 and John Rodriguez came in second in the mile. The mile relay team failed to place, but all the boys will be in Lubbock for the Regional Meet Friday and Saturday.

The girls regional meet was last weekend in Lubbock. Kaye Thompson came in third in the mile run. Wilda Martinez participated in the 220 yard dash. Neither girl qualified for the state meet.

The Ozona girls golf team placed fifth out of a field of fifteen in the regional golf meet in Lubbock. Individual scores were Sheri Webster, 209; Carla Koerth, 226; Aileen Lopez, 241; Jennifer Naron, 245, and Debbie Wallace, 266.

Ranch fuel assistance available

Crockett County ranchers who have exhausted all means of obtaining needed fuel may obtain assistance and fuel allocation forms from the Crockett County ASCS office, in Ozona.

Under Department of Energy (DOE) regulations, agriculture producers (ranchers and farmers) are entitled to 100% of their farm or ranch needs of propane, butane, and gasoline for the production of food and fiber.

One of the main purposes of ASCS gearing into the program is to solve agriculture related fuel problems locally. The County ASCS office will help agriculture producers resolve fuel problems and distribute copies of Federal and State instructions and regulations.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Jerry Lay

The U.S. Golf Association has sent out some tips on what to do if it begins lightning while you're on a golf course, and we're happy to pass these tips along to you...The USGA says (1) Avoid high ground; (2) Stay away from metal fences and lakes; (3) Don't get under a long tree; (4) If you can't reach the clubhouse before a storm strikes, choose a depression or valley in the ground, or better yet, a nearby automobile (which is one of the safest places of all to be during lightning.)

Here's a quote we saw recently that shows a reason sports are so great...Coach Homer Smith once said, "The poorest boy can earn stardom--but the richest boy can't buy it."

Did you know that a big league baseball player once struck out while sitting on the bench?...It happened in 1952 to Sammy White. He had 2 strikes on him and was replaced by a pinch-hitter...The pinch-hitter took a third strike, but under baseball scoring rules, the strikeout was charged to White since he had 2 of the 3 strikes--so, White struck out while sitting in the dugout!

I bet you didn't know that L-B MOTORS has a car just waiting to be picked up by you.
