Parking in Ozona is somewhat like the gas shortage in California. If people would park correctly in one space, there would be room for all, and there would be no shortage of parking space. If Californians would only buy the gas they need, there would be no long lines at the gas stations. Of course, that situation has afforded the networks a lot of footage and they have gotten the most out of it, I don't think they created the nationwide panic they apparently were aiming for, but they gave it all they had.

Another story that finally made the networks is that of the so-called "Killer Bees," the handful of liberal legislators who have combined to make Texas politics live up to the name. They have been successful in making Texas government look like a farce with a cast of silly school boys. Let us hope the voters in their districts remember their publicized absence when voting time comes around again.

Locally, it has been a busy and tragic week. We feel the grief and shock of the Elliott and Sanchez families who lost loved ones in a freak storm Sunday night. The scanner was busy all day Monday with the news of the search. Also noted were several thefts of gas from local and Sonora outlets, along with a robbery in Sonora. All of which local Sheriff department personnel took part in bringing to a conclusion. This is graduation week at Ozona High School, another always busy time. Usually a happy and sad time, the Sunday night tragedy makes it a bit sadder than usual this year.

We had an emergency here at the paper last week. Our addressing machine broke Wednesday morning and we were forced to hand address about 1,100 newspapers. Some local papers went undelivered, due to incorrect box numbers. Our local subscribers stencils are filed in sections and the box numbers were a little hard to read from the inky stencil. So being only human, we got a lot of them wrong.

SEARCHERS PAUSE FOR LUNCH in the draw where four were drowned late Sunday night when flash flood waters rushed over the usually bone-dry draw bed, tumbling vehicles and victims into the roaring stream. Three bodies were recovered Monday morning. These men resumed the search at daylight Tuesday, but as they gathered for the noon meal there was still no sign of Larry Elliott, object of the search.

3 bodies recovered, one missing-

Flood claims four lives Sun. night

The search continued Tuesday afternoon for the body of Larry Elliott, Ozona man believed drowned during a flash flood Sunday night in a draw fourteen miles north of Comstock. The bodies of three others, Elliott's two sons and David Sanchez were recovered Monday morning.

The tragedy occurred around 10 o'clock Sunday night as the Elliott family and Sanchez were traveling toward Ozona in different vehicles. Sanchez in a pickup truck made it across high water in the draw, but the late model Blazer Elliott was driving stalled in mid-stream. Sanchez came back to assist. The Elliott boys, Brad, 14, and Byron, 12, Elliott and Sanchez were out of the vehicles and had attached a rope to the stalled vehicle when a cloudburst with heavy hail hit the area. All four jumped into the Sanchez pickup and as they attempted to pull the Blazer out, the rope broke. The Blazer with its occupants, Mrs. Elliott, her 3-year-old daughter and an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sparing of Tulsa, Okla., was carried by swirling waters downstream about a quarter of a mile from the highway.

Miraculously, the vehicle stayed afloat and after the passengers survived the harrowing ride they found themselves lodged against debris with water neck high.

Nobody actually knows what happened to the drowned men. Officials theorize they left the pickup in an effort to assist the survivors. The bodies of the two boys were found lashed by rope to a tree, along with that of Sanchez. Nobody knows if Sanchez attempted the life-saving act and Elliott was swept away immediately, or if Elliott, after lashing the other three, was swept away. At any rate, the force of the water bent the flimsy tree and the three were drowned.

The survivors in the Blazer were fortunate that an air bubble formed in the vehicle enabling them to keep afloat and affording breathing space. They stayed in the water-filled vehicle until dawn and the waters had run down. Mrs. Elliott then made her way to the highway where she sought assistance from a passing motorist. DPS and the Sheriff's office were notified in Del Rio and were on the scene before local officers arrived. By the time local officials arrived at the scene the bodies of the two boys and Sanchez had been found and removed from the tree. Also, they found the Sanchez pickup about 15 yards from the road.

An all day search failed to turn up any clue as to the whereabouts of Elliott. His hat was found during the search, but no sign of his body. Searchers walked over the brush on the sides of the draw all the way to Devils River. The search was called off at dusk and resumed Tuesday morning with men on horseback assisting. There was still no word at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

At least one Ozona DPS official said there was no doubt in his mind that Elliott was drowned. He said there were mounds of debris in the draw bed as big as a car and water holes over a man's head.

Services for Brad and Jason Elliott were pending at Larry Sheppard Funeral Home in Ozona. Services for Sanchez, who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Sanchez, were held today in Del Rio.

Elliott was a plant manager for Indian Wells. Brad was a freshman student at Ozona High School and Jason was a sixth grader.

Ozona to observe holiday

Ozona businesses will be closed for Memorial Day, May 29, with the exception of the food stores, some convenience stores and some service stations. A survey last week by Chamber of Commerce Manager Beth Boyd revealed all retail stores, business and professional offices will observe the day.

A random poll Monday indicated most Ozonans would not be taking the holiday far from home for fear of gasoline shortages. Although most local stations were closed Sunday to conserve gasoline for the remainder of this month, self service stations remained open and Sunday travelers found stations open along the interstate.

AN ALMOST PERFECT RECORD OF FAILURE

By Robert L. Schuettinger

Advocates of mandatory wage and price controls are a dauntless lot. Even forty or fifty centuries of almost consistent failure haven't dampened their enthusiasm.

While there have been some cases throughout recorded history in which controls have at least temporarily curtailed the effects of inflation, they have always failed in the long run. The fundamental reason for this is that controls have not addressed the real cause of inflation—which is an increase in the money supply over and above the increase in productivity. Just as a wet street does not cause rain, neither do businesses and trade unions cause inflation—though they are frequently blamed for it. Rising prices (and wages) are the result of inflation, not the cause; the root cause is a decline in the value of the currency.

And who controls the currency? Governments, of course, are in charge of the money supply and are the basic cause of inflation.

Rulers from the earliest times sought to solve their financial woes by debasing the coinage or issuing almost worthless coins at high face value; through modern technology, the governments of recent centuries have had printing presses at their disposal. When these measures resulted in inflation, the same rulers then turned to wage and price controls.

Unfortunately, the urge to pass the buck seems at least as strong as the urge to control it. When the controls failed, governments put the blame on the wickedness and greed of their subjects rather than upon the ineffectiveness of the official policy.

As understandable as that may be, it's never really worked. The ancient Egyptians (and their present-day descendants) tried controls, as did Babylon's Hammurabi and the Greeks and Romans. Down through the ages mandatory controls have made strange bedfellows—the rulers of ancient China, the Emperor Diocletian, the 1977 Pennsylvania Legislature, Hermann Goering and Richard Nixon, to name a few. The alleged beneficiaries of all this government intervention—the general public—usually either rebelled, starved, ran away, played the black market, or completely disregarded the laws.

Centralized planning regularly appears in every generation and is just as readily discarded after several years of fruitless experimentation, only to rise again on a subsequent occasion. Grandiose plans for regulating investments, wages and prices, and production are usually unveiled with great fanfare and high hopes. As reality takes command, the plans are modified a little more, then drastically altered, then finally allowed to vanish quietly and unremembered. Human nature being what it is, however, the same old plans are dusted off every decade or so, perhaps given a new name, and the process is begun anew.

The same tendencies remain today. Polls reveal the overwhelming majority of the American people regard inflation as the most important problem facing the country today. And a recent poll indicated 67 percent now favor mandatory wage and price controls.

The Carter Administration, faced with a bogged-down anti-inflation program, is being urged by advisors in and out of government to try this "innovative" idea. For some reason, they seem to believe that this time it may work.

If an historian were to sum up what we have learned from the long history of wage and price controls in this country and around the world, he would have to conclude that we just do not learn from history.

(Vermont native Robert L. Schuettinger is editor of Policy Review quarterly, an Associate Fellow of Yale University's Davenport College, and co-author, along with Eamonn F. Butler, of the just-released book, Forty Centuries of Wage and Price Controls: How Not To Fight Inflation, published by the Heritage Foundation/Caroline House, Washington, D.C. This article is based on that book.)

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — While one conference committee was in the process of working out a state budget, another was trying to decide who will get what as far as tax relief goes, and yet another conference committee was about to begin negotiations over school finance.

Ironically, hardly anyone noticed.

Not even the first House override of a gubernatorial veto since 1951, or tentative approval of initiative and referendum legislation, or passage by House members of changes to the consumer protection act, could hold the spotlight for long after the first of what would be two filibusters began in the Senate.

While conference committee members were quietly drawing up a compromise to pay state employees (except teachers) 5.1 percent more in 1980-81 and poor children an extra $100 a year, one-third of the senate was at odds with the other two-thirds over consumer issues and one purely political matter—a presidential primary.

Months ago, the whole question of a presidential primary appeared to be dead thanks to Sen. Ron Clower of Garland who rounded up the signatures of 13 of his colleagues who said they were against Sen. Jack Ogg's bill that would separate a presidential primary from state primaries. Thirteen senators is enough to block consideration of a bill in the senate.

But then Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby rolled out SB 1149, a bill Sen. Lloyd Doggett quickly tagged as a "Trojan Horse." Later though, Doggett, Sens. Babe Schwartz, Carl Parker, Clower and others, who combined in the first filibuster of the week against SB 1149, came to think of the bill more as a smokescreen.

What looked like a shrewd parliamentary maneuver by Hobby turned out to be even more. Simply stated, SB 1149 would have put the secretary of state (at the moment, a Republican, George Strake) in charge of funds for running primaries instead of the county party chairmen. The Democrats were a little nervous about that happening. But even more irritating for some Senators was the fact there was no guarantee SB 1149 would come back from the House unamended.

If the House sent back a substitute, it would take only a majority vote for the Senate to concur and that meant Clower's 13 votes wouldn't be enough to stop passage of a bill with some provision tacked on setting up a separate presidential primary.

That was the "Trojan Horse" Doggett described. But Hobby had more on his mind. A usury bill already passed by the House pegging interest rates to treasury bonds and proposed changes in the consumer protection law were coming up on the Senate calendar. Doggett and Sen. Bill Patman had already threatened to filibuster the measures.

Doggett, Patman, Schwartz and others had joined forces earlier in the session to filibuster a bill on the State Bar and proposed changes in the consumer protection law. Three filibusters had been mounted in the Legislature thus far until this week and all had little success. But with the final days of the session facing the legislature and major legislation still waiting to be finalized, a filibuster appeared to be a more effective tool than it had been earlier.

Any hope of that being true faded quickly as it became clear that Hobby had put SB 1149 on the line merely to tire and wear down the opposition. At first glance it would appear that Hobby's tactic failed because a group effort filibuster against SB 1149 did manage to all but kill the bill. But Hobby rolled out HB 409—interest rate legislation. Patman had vowed all along to fight such a bill and a fight meant a filibuster—the second of the week.

Earlier, in the first filibuster of the next to last week of the session, a team of senators had filibustered SB 1149 and won themselves the nickname "The Killer Bees" from Hobby, but Patman carried the load alone against HB 409 talking for 17 hours and 21 minutes—the longest filibuster this session.

When Patman could go no longer, the Senate quickly passed HB 409 raising the maximum interest rates that can be charged on home mortgages and senators also approved legislation (SB 357) weakening the consumer protection act. The usury bill headed back to the House for concurrence in Senate amendments and SB 357 was sent to the governor.

A second filibuster by Doggett against changes in the consumer law was avoided after certain amendments the Austin senator had called for were added in the House.

The House reattached to the bill class action suits that had been removed in the Senate. And the House also eliminated the definition of "actual damages"—a clause in the senate version that would have prevented consumers from collecting for mental anguish. Both the House and Senate did away with triple damages in consumer suits but the House did provide for treble damages in some cases and left that decision to juries hearing consumer cases.

The Governor

Gov. Bill Clements scolded the House this week for overriding his veto of a minor bill that would have exempted a single county from state game laws. Clements told the House it should "stop playing games. It's a sad waste of time to spend more than an hour wrangling over a matter of this magnitude during the final crucial weeks of the legislative session."

you and the LAW

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: Last week I filed for divorce. Can I require my husband to move out of our house until our divorce case is completed?

A: Yes. The judge who will consider your divorce decree can issue an order requiring your husband to leave until the case is tried in court. If your husband does not comply with the court order, you may ask the judge to direct the sheriff to enforce the order.

Q: How can I copyright watercolors I have painted?

A: Artists cannot always prevent unauthorized reproduction and distribution of their work. Their rights are controlled by common law copyright and Federal copyright laws. Before art works are publicly displayed, the artist has absolute control. Once art works are publicly displayed, the artist must comply with Federal copyright laws which require that a statutory copyright notice be affixed to the art work, and a copyright form be filed with the United States Copyright Office. The result of failure to comply is that the artist loses all control over reproduction and sale of his or her work.

Q: When I opened my new business, I was required to post a surety bond of what I considered to be a large amount before I could be issued a sales tax permit. A friend of mine in a similar business was required to post a much smaller bond. Why are bonding requirements different?

A: The bond is required under the Texas Sales Tax law for all new retail businesses. Normally, the bond amount is equal to three times the level of sales tax that the merchant estimates he will collect during three months. If that estimate proves too high or too low, his bond will be adjusted up or down to reflect his actual tax collections level. This adjustment will be made by the State Comptroller of Public Accounts through the Comptroller's field offices around the state. If the new retail merchant remits his sales tax collections properly during a two-year period, the bond requirement can be removed.

Q: I inherited several hundred shares of stock from my father. Is my husband's permission required for selling this stock?

A: No. There is no law requiring the merchant to refund your payments on layaway purchases. You should ask the merchant whether he will make such a refund before you begin making payments. If the merchant agrees and makes refunds, this agreement should be in writing. You should keep a copy of this agreement until you have made full payment.

Q: Is there a law requiring a person to have a license to peddle goods or services from door to door in Texas?

A: There is no state law in Texas requiring such a license. However, any retailer should make provisions to collect and pay state sales tax if he is required to do so.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

The light refreshing shower of the past month gave everyone a lift and hope for more rain to green up our area. Though rain has been mostly on the minus side, the prolonged dry weather in many parts of the country has made gardeners more conscious of water needs than ever before. Especially keep evergreens watered for we have had no deep moisture for some time.

Our night temperatures have been so low it has been a little more difficult to get some seeds to germinate. Due to this, you may have to replant now. Too, your caladium bulbs may be slow coming up after so many cool nights. Those planted in pots may show growth sooner than the ones planted in the ground.

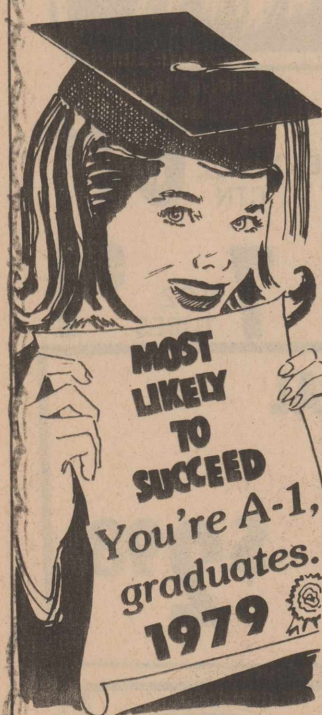

Keep daylilies well watered now that they are coming into bloom. Though the flowers stay open only one day, they are one of my favorites. It seems less care is required, and no insects or diseases have bothered. If you select varieties of early, mid-season, and late blooming, they will be flowering for months. They are available in many lovely colors now, so visit your neighbor or nursery and select by name, the one's you want in your garden. For arrangements, you can remove the closed bud and new buds will open. With green foliage, the cluster will last for several days.

One of my favorite evergreens that can be used the year around for arrangements is the tree ivy (Fatsia elaeagnifolia). You can get them at nurseries or ask for a start from a friend. Although not particularly useful as a shrub or ground cover, it is a fine addition to the overall garden if it used in the proper location. It needs to grow up or down, makes an excellent evergreen espalier or used as a cascading vine. The dark-green glossy leaves resemble English ivy, to which it is related, but they are larger and have a coarser, more leathery texture. It will not attach itself to onasonry walls or woodwork, but can be secured with espalier nails or twist-tie plant supports. Tree ivy prefers a moist, shady location. It performs quite satisfactorily in areas with poor drainage, it is intolerant of direct sun exposure.

Debra Says

Remove all signs of mildew from a home before painting--or expect the mildew to "come through" the new paint in a few days or weeks.

To remove mildew, use a water-based solution of trisodium phosphate, chlorine bleach and detergent--readily available from paint stores, lumber yards, hardware stores and grocery stores.

Chlorine bleach kills mildew spores and lifts out stubborn stains, while trisodium phosphate cleans and "roughs up" the original paint surface so new paint will adhere.

Detergent helps clean, too, and it keeps the other two ingredients in contact with the old-paint surface for even more effective cleaning action.

Here's the formula for Mildew-Removal: one gallon water, one cup tri-sodium phosphate, one cup chlorine bleach and one-fourth cup detergent.

Apply this solution to the old-paint surface with a long-handled brush that has stiff fiber or plastic bristles. Use a vigorous rubbing action.

Wear rubber gloves and other protective gear to avoid contact with the skin, since the solution can cause severe skin irritation.

Start at the top of an exterior wall and work down. Scrub a five- or six-foot area at a time, then rinse well with a high-pressure nozzle attached to a garden hose.

Let the cleaned surface dry completely before applying new paint. Then paint immediately to prevent new-mildew growth.

If mildew removal alone is the plan, with no new painting job set for the near future, use the same solution--but omit the tri-sodium phosphate.

Follow the same steps and take the same precautions, since many persons are sensitive to chlorine bleach.

Before applying a new coat of paint, consider buying mildew-resistant paints for the home. These are available in all colors for outdoor wood surfaces.

To help combat mildew attack, consider paints formulated with fungicides--such as chlorinated phenols, phenyl mercurials, zinc compounds or copper compounds.

If you choose one of these, carefully observe all precautions on the label, since many of the chemicals in mildew-resistant paints are poisonous.

THINK ABOUT MY COMMENCEMENT

Sure, one of these days I'll be marching out in cap and gown with a diploma in my hand to take my place in that world of ours. Lots of things I'll be needing then besides a degree . . .

I'll need what they call character! And a sense of values! I'll need ethical principles, moral standards. A deep awareness of the meaning of duty, of honesty, of integrity. And on the way to all of these I'll need to discover a Faith by which to live.

There are strong churches in our community, with fine programs of religious education. I think my parents expect to start me in Sunday School.

But I have't yet commenced. My most important beginning hasn't begun.

Please Dad! Please Mom! Think about my commencement.

Care necessary in storing gasoline

Storing extra gasoling around the home or carrying an emergency supply in the car as a hedge against run-outs can be hazardous and illegal, an Amoco Production Company safety expert said today.

Mitchell J. Jones, Amoco's safety director, pointed out that the National Safety Council recommends "as little gasoline as possible" be stored--only a gallon or so for the power mower, for example. Although some insurance companies may overlook a small supply, a larger quantity could imperil insurance coverage, he said.

If gasoline must be stored, Jones urged the use of only thick-walled metal "safety" cans designed for the purpose, and which carry the Underwriters Laboratory approval. Types generally acceptable are the metal screw and pour-cap design, or the metal spring-loaded, pressure venting type. The cans also should have flash arresting screens in the outlet and fill connections, he said.

"Under no circumstances should gasoline be stored in glass containers of any type," Jones said, "or in plastic bleach bottles which have thin walls and are easily ruptured."

Always check state and federal fire codes before attempting to store any type of fuel, he emphasized.

While federal and state laws permit a motorist to carry limited amounts of gasoline in an automobile--for the power mower at home or an outboard motor at the lake, for example--Jones warned that it is hazardous to regularly carry a spare can of gasoline in the car. A rear-end collision could cause the container of gasoline in the trunk or passenger compartment to explode even if the car's tank is not ruptured.

Jones said the vapors from just a few ounces of gasoline spilled in a car's trunk can be ignited by a faulty electrical connection. Citizens band and other radio transmitters located in the trunk compartment also pose a hazard when fuel vapors are present, he said. "It's important to remember that even an empty gasoline can is potentially dangerous," Jones said, "because vapors still can be present in a very explosive mixture with air."

Gasoline vapors are heavy and tend to collect in low places, Jones explained. A closed utility room or shed could become a "bomb" if vapors are ignited by a spark or pilot light. Jones said vapors from a spilled container can seep down ditches and drains and become a fuse leading flames back to a home or storage area.

Jones also made these recommendations for storing gasoline:

- In the car--
- Secure the container. The inexpensive, thin-walled can available in some discount stores is vulnerable to puncture if it tips.
- Spring-loaded, pressure-venting cans should not be used in cars because they are designed to release vapors.
- Do not regularly carry spare gasoline in the car. The safest precaution against running out of gasoline is to keep the car's fuel tank at least half full.
- At home--
- Never use gasoline as a cleaner for such things as paint brushes or tools.
- Never fill a hot lawnmower. Engine heat could ignite vapors.
- Never store gasoline in glass containers. Especially avoid soft drink bottles.
- Always keep gasoline out of the reach of children.

--Wipe up spilled gasoline immediately.

--Store gasoline for the mower in the shade in an open area.

"Keeping a car in top mechanical condition and practicing driving habits that conserve gasoline," Jones said, "are the safest means of assuring an adequate gasoline supply."

Let it happen, guys and gals!
We're proud of all of you.

Mesquite spraying sees price jump

by James Crumley, SCS

Spraying mesquite...like everything else from chewing gum to gasoline, has really jumped in price. We ought to count our blessings because 2,4,5-T (one of the main chemical components for fighting mesquite) came very close to being banned for rangeland use. The chances for keeping 2,4,5-T as a tool to control mesquite doesn't look promising. Even if we are able to keep on using the chemical, what will it cost next year? Obviously what happens to 2,4,5-T next year could affect a rancher's decision to spray mesquite this year. Two questions come to mind. Should I spray all the mesquite I can this year because of the possible ban of the chemical? Should I spray at all? If the chemical is banned, I may not be able to give the treated area a follow up treatment in subsequent years.

Whatever the decision is remember that timing is very critical in obtaining decent mesquite kill. The general rule of thumb is to spray from 40-90 days after the leaves first appear. Earlier or later than this could mean a poor percent kill of mesquite.

It appears that much of the mesquite in Crockett County put out leaves around April 1st. Parts of the county put out leaves earlier. The "Divide" country did not leaf out until somewhat later. Using the 40-90 day rule, the end of this month and the beginning of June will be the time to give mesquite a good dose of medicine over most of Crockett County. Spraying later than the last week in June will be taking a chance on a reduced mesquite kill.

The most important thing to remember is the purpose of controlling mesquite in the first place. Mesquite, with the exception of an erratic bean crop doesn't provide much grazing. It robs valuable moisture from other forage plants. It takes approximately 300 lbs. of water to produce a pound of buffalo grass, however it takes 1900 lbs. of water to make a pound of mesquite. Mesquite is simply inefficient.

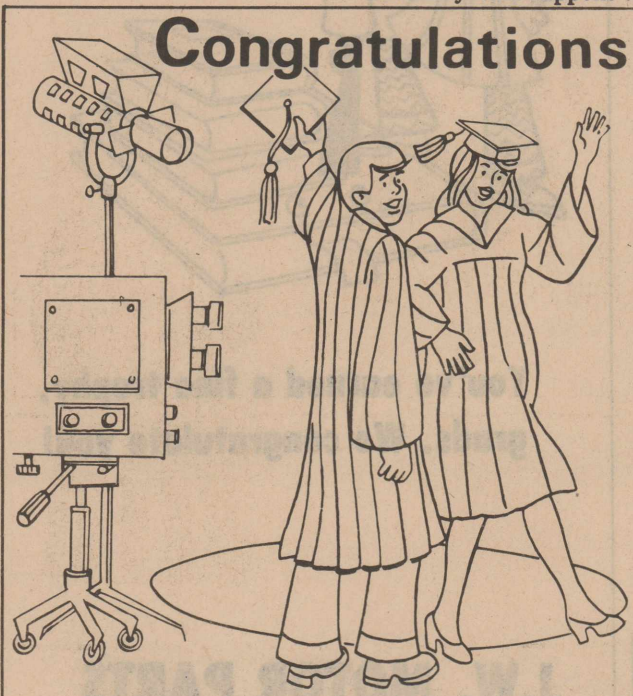

If man expects to receive full benefit from his mesquite control he should seriously consider resting the sprayed pasture at least 90 days. Why?...because additional moisture will be made available to the forage plants. A timely rest following mesquite control will allow an increase of desirable forage.

The outside walls of the ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME are insulated to an R-factor of 18; the ceiling to R-30. Both also have a separate positive vapor and/or infiltration barrier.

... THE DOORS AND WINDOWS.
Outside doors on the ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME are metal insulating or wood with separate storm doors. Windows are double-paned or single-paned with storm windows. The very foundation of the ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME — the floor — is also an important factor in saving energy and money. Slab floors should have either rigid urethane or styrofoam (min. 3/4" thickness) from top of the floor along the outside edge of the slab down to the brick ledge, or poured vermiculite in the cavity. Pier and beam flooring should have R-19 insulation between the floor and crawl space.

Also, make a spending plan—to learn how both partners feel about money and to avoid arguments about money problems later, she adds.

Mrs. Piernot is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

A spending plan can help couples determine the most effective way to spend their income—in a systematic way.

"Although it's not a plan to actually increase income and it does not have to be a rigid budget, it will help a couple relieve pressures and build a sense of sharing and togetherness.

"In addition, it will help keep fairness and equality in their relationship," Mrs. Piernot says.

Below is her suggested checklist of items to include in basic planning.

Notify the credit union, bank or savings-and-loan association of any name and address changes.

Consider both joint and separate share-draft or checking accounts. A separate account is helpful in case of death, since it will allow the survivor to continue writing checks.

Joint accounts are often "frozen" immediately following a spouse's death.

In any case, think of the money as "ours"—rather than "mine" or "yours."

In addition, notify all charge-card companies of address and name changes.

A husband and wife may have separate credit card accounts, in their own

S.S. rep. sets June visit

Garland Gregg, representative of San Angelo Social Security Office, has scheduled his June visit to Ozona. He will be at the County Courthouse on Wednesday, June 20th between 2:00 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Anyone who wants to file a claim for benefits, get information, or transact other business with the Social Security Administration may contact him at this time. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo. Residents of Ozona may call toll free by dialing "Operator" and asking for "Enterprise 2058".

Remember, virtually all business pertaining to social security can be handled by telephone, including filing applications for social security benefits. San Angelo has courteous representatives waiting to assist you.

Foot care tips

Practice foot care "know-how" and wear even high-heeled "disco" sandals with comfort, says Nancy Brown, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Although "discoing" in the highest of high-heeled sandals isn't the best thing in the world for feet, it's not necessary to eliminate them from your wardrobe.

Just avoid wearing the same heel height all day, every day, she recommends.

When wearing high-heeled sandals, try putting your full weight firmly in the center of the heel. If this is not done, the narrow heels will bend in toward the arch and ruin the shoes balance and appearance.

The ideal shoe has a heel that is no more than two inches high with plenty of space for toe movement. Try wearing a comfortable shoe similar to this at least 80 percent of the day, the specialist advises.

To help when walking on hard surfaces, apply rubber lifts to shoes.

Feet also need exercise. Stretch the arches by walking barefoot on tiptoe.

To help keep feet soft, use a foot buffer to smooth away rough, call used spots. Follow this with an emollient lotion to replace oils removed by scrubbing.

Try not to irritate the skin because irritation increases blood flow to this area and creates calluses, Miss Brown adds.

OZONA CARPET & ELECTRIC

Crockett County Care Center News

By Joan Nicholas Activities Program Director

I would like, first, to thank those responding to my plea for entertainment. Last week we had two excellent programs which were thoroughly enjoyed by all our residents.

On Thursday evening a choir group came to the Center from the Temple Jerusalem Bautista, including the following: Rachel Ortiz, Matilda Castillanos, Ruth Longoria, Cat Cedello, Vicky Gonzales, Naomi Gonzales, Elizabeth Martinez, Ninfa Cervantez, and pianist Chris Longoria. Rev. Pedro and Mrs. Pedro Estrada came along with the girls. Ann Mayo was on hand to welcome them and they had prepared inspirational cards for each of our residents with words in English and Spanish. Ann tells me it was a very well planned and executed program and I was so sorry I had to be in class that night, but they will return, they assure us. Several visitors came to the program.

On Saturday evening a gentleman by the name of Eddie Luck entertained on both the organ and piano simultaneously. We had rearranged the instruments so that he could play the organ with his left hand and the piano with his right, and the music rang forth bringing us such old favorites as St. Louis Blues and other tunes of that era. Feet were tapping and hands clapping to many of the numbers. Eddie played practically non-stop for an hour and a half, and only once did I persuade him to break for a sip of coke! He finished up with some religious music and I noticed Leona Harris and Paul Cavin were memorizing the words. Hank Poeller had joined in some of the other tunes, and I am sure it brought back memories to him of his trumpeting and drummer days with a band in Buffalo, New York.

Eddie Luck has just moved to Ozona from Tucson, Arizona, and is presently awaiting the arrival of his wife, and is staying with his brother-in-law, Frank Jefferson. He has been an entertainer all of his life, he says, and has also been engaged in the dry cleaning business. He hopes to find employment in Ozona, but it is easy to see that music making is his first love. He, too, says he can come back to play for us any time!

And, that isn't all--tonight, Wednesday, Jamie Knox is bringing his newly formed group of musicians to the Center at 6:30 p.m. and we are looking forward to hearing them. Also, had a phone call from Charlie Beaird's wife, Monday, and they plan on coming next week, but will know more about that date later.

Visitors enjoying the Saturday program were Mr. and Mrs. L.D. Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. K.W. Karr, Ms. Poeller, Mrs. Bertha Miller (who is having a short stay in our hospital) accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Fourhand.

We have pictures in the album, and will get the choir on their return visit. Bingo winner of the gift certificate for last week was Mary Seelye, and Ruby Cooksey won second prize. In dominoes Ola Mills won with Paul Cavin coming in second. Didn't have too many players as the bingo over the radio is keeping quite a group occupied!

I would also like to thank Mr. Sam Emanuel for bringing the several boxes of cookies to us that were left over from the Community Center's Kiddie Club graduation.

Daniel Webster (1782-1852), the great orator, was so shy available, and who will use as a child he could not stand up in school to recite.

Time to consider hunting lease

While that 10-point buck you killed last hunting is still fresh on your mind, it's time to begin thinking about this fall's deer lease.

Charles W. Ramsey, wildlife specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, suggests an evaluation of last season's lease situation. "Now is the time to begin looking for a new lease if you were dissatisfied with the old one."

Land with a history of good hunting will be leased early, says Ramsey. However, there are still some "sleepers" with trophy records for the hunter who is willing to search them out. Many counties outside the well-known "hot spots" offer excellent hunting opportunities.

When you begin negotiating for a lease, ask some of the following questions to establish an understanding with the land owner:

- What other species of game are included and how many?
 - Is varmint hunting or other shooting use of the land included?
 - Are blinds to be used, and who will furnish them?
 - Are food plots or bait stations to be used, and who will supply these?
 - Is a cabin or other shelter available, and who will provide utilities?
 - Is fishing permitted? When and by whom?
 - Is camping permitted? When and by whom?
 - Are doe-killing permits available, and who will use them?
- There are different types of lease agreements. If you were not satisfied with the type you had last season, maybe another would suit you better.

According to Ramsey, there are four general groups of leases: a year-round lease, a lease of limited duration, day hunting, and a guided hunt or one of a few days.

He suggests that a check with the chamber of commerce in the county seat would be a good starting point and might give you the necessary information about where to find the type of hunting you are looking for. However, many potential leases will not be listed so don't give up too quickly.

"A written agreement is the best insurance against misunderstanding between hunter and landholder," says Ramsey. "It should clearly spell out conditions of the agreement and provide an outline for discussion on mutual points of interest before a lease is made."

A Super Job!

Environmentalists charges could lose oil & gas reserves

Irresponsible accusations by environmentalists could result in the loss of critical reserves of oil and gas, according to a Midland-based petroleum writer.

Jack Brewster, associate editor of Drill Bit, the oil and gas magazine of the Permian Basin, said the petroleum industry had been shown to be highly vulnerable to misguided attacks and unsubstantiated charges made before the Texas Railroad Commission.

In an article to be published in the coming issue of Drill Bit, Brewster sets forth a number of environmentalist charges made at Railroad Commission hearings concerning disposal of oilfield brines into a small number of West Texas playa lakes.

One such hearing, in October 1978, resulted in a ban of all disposal operations at Whalen Lake, a 330-acre playa in Andrews County where large bird kills were reported to have taken place because of oil and salt contamination of the lake and its shores.

Whalen Corp., operator of the disposal facility at the lake, found it hard to defend against these charges, since no verifiable evidence was presented to the Commission on number of birds killed, dates of bird deaths, or causes of death. Instead, Whalen had to contend against sweeping generalizations that involved birds found at several locations that had died from a variety of causes.

Continued shut-down of Whalen Lake, Brewster said, could result in permanent loss of thousands of barrels of oil that will not be recovered because marginal wells have been shut-in for lack of a place to dispose of the brine produced with the oil.

"When a single accuser can halt oil company operations by charging that birds have died without showing one bird for evidence, those companies are in one bad fix," said Brewster.

In his article, he presents evidence that lays bare numerous fallacies in the charges and evidence presented by environmentalists against oil company disposal operations at Whalen Lake and two other playas—Mound Lake in Terry County and Cedar Lake in Gaines County.

One of the more preposterous charges is that brine disposal by oil companies created highly concentrated salt water in the playas that is dangerous for birds because it dissolves natural oils in their feathers. Brewster points up two glaring fallacies in this charge:

1. These natural playas have contained concentrated salt water since the time of their creation. Since they have no outlet, these little lakes are like tiny Dead Seas in which water gets steadily saltier as years of evaporation takes place.

2. The migratory water fowl that use these playas as night time roosting spots in the winter are mostly Sandhill Cranes, tall birds whose two-foot-long legs keep their feathers high above the shallow water (usually 2-3 inches deep) of a playa.

Even more absurd is the environmentalist charge that playa lakes used for disposal are contaminating ground water in the vicinity. Brewster cites expert testimony that ground water contamination is impossible because the playa lakes are actually below the water table, which feed water into the playas but gets none back out of them.

A noted hydrologist from Midland, Ed Reed, urged the use of playas for brine disposal back in the 1950's before the Railroad Commission had ever approved such operations. Reed showed that playas were considerably safer for brine disposal than traditional pits because of their geological position below the water table.

At the close of his article, Brewster says, "The citizenry had to wait 25 years to be saved from the dangers of playa lakes by environmentalists who reversed Ed Reed's logic just as they reversed the geological strata surrounding a playa lake."

Pattern to fit sway back

Pattern alterations for sway back are simple and quick, says Beverly Rhoades, a clothing specialist.

They simply shorten garments in back below the waistline, she says. Sway back's more-than-normal curve in the spine at the waistline and lower back shortens the body back length, the specialist explains.

That causes garments to wrinkle across the back just below the waistline, or it causes one-piece garments or long blouses and jackets to stand away from the back near the waist, she adds. To prevent these fitting problems, homesevers can alter patterns easily for perfect fit before cutting out garments.

Find out how much the pattern will need shortening below the waistline by pinning horizontal tucks on an existing garment until wrinkles disappear.

Measure the tuck at the center back.

Remember a tuck has two "sides," so figure twice the width when you measure one side of a pinned tuck.

This is the amount to shorten the pattern.

To alter the pattern, draw a horizontal line across the pattern back about three inches below the waistline. Draw the line all the way across the pattern to the side seam line.

Next, starting at the center back, cut along the horizontal line all the way to the side seam line—but not through it.

Then clip the side seam allowance just opposite the newly cut line—leaving a small pivot point.

Lap the pattern the amount needed at the center back.

Since the pivot point is still intact, the lapped area will taper automatically all the way across to the side seam line. Also, the clipped seam allowance will spread slightly.

Last, tape the pattern in place. If it has darts, redraw them by connecting the dart point with the dart base stitching lines. Darts will be slightly shorter.

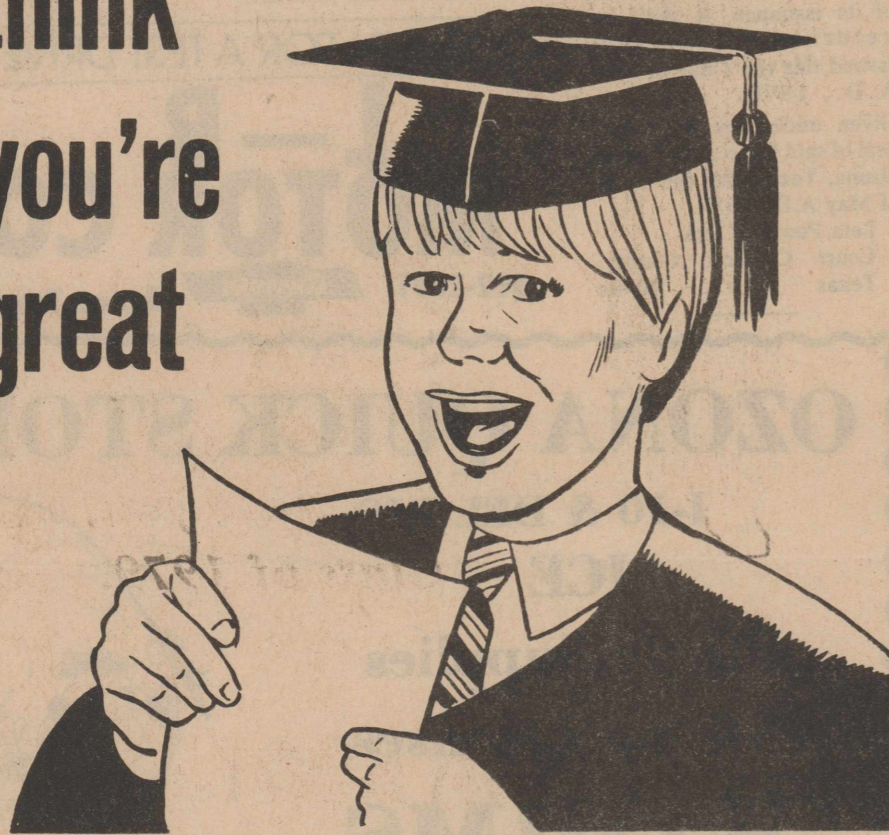

Redraw any seam, cutting or fold lines at the center back to straighten, adding tissue paper as needed.

Do you know when the first Indianapolis 500-mile auto race was run?...It all started in 1911...It's been run every year since then except for the war years of 1917-18 and 1942-45.

Did you know that nobody has ever been able to win the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race three years in a row?...Several men in history have won it twice in a row, but nobody has ever won three straight.

Did you know that the idea for using rear-view mirrors on cars came about because of automobile racing?...In the early days of auto racing, there were two people in each car—the driver and a mechanic. The mechanic served as a sort of "co-pilot," telling the driver if anything was coming up behind him...But in the 1911 Indianapolis 500-mile race, Ray Harroun wanted to lighten his racer and drive alone. How would he know what was behind him? He conceived the idea of the rear-view mirror, and is generally credited with being the first to use one...And over the years, many of our other auto improvements have come from auto racing.

Cancer more than medical "Cancer is more than a medical problem," says Mrs. Charles Williams, Service Chairman of the American Cancer Society. "It's something that affects some 2 million Americans right now in all phases of their lives."

She says that the Society, while working to prevent and treat cancer, does not forget these individuals who already have the disease.

"The Society provides services ranging from equipment loans and transportation to social work assistance and home nursing care. Everything is carefully coordinated with other community services.

"Our rehabilitation programs use cured cancer patients to guide others over the rough spots they negotiated successfully. The Reach To Recovery Program for women recovering from breast surgery, the International Association of Laryngectomies for patients learning to speak again, and the Ostomy Program, helping those who have had to restructure body habits are examples. More than 300,000 cancer patients were helped through ACS service and rehabilitation programs."

Mrs. Williams says the Society is working to open lines of communication between patient, physician and family. "People with cancer need to be listened to with all the senses. They must neither be denied hope, nor discouraged from discussing symptoms, anxieties, fears or death."

Prospector set in co. oil field

Dan J. Harrison Jr., Houston, will drill the No. 8 University 2-32 as a 9,500-foot wildcat and to test at 8,000 feet as a 1 1/4-mile east-southeast outpost to the nine-well Howards Creek (Canyon) gas field, 5/8-mile southwest of a 9,800-foot failure, 1 1/4 miles northeast of a 10,235-foot failure, 1 1/4 miles west-southwest of the depleted one-well Howards Creek, East (Pennsylvanian gas) field and 16 miles west-southwest of Ozona.

Location is 660 feet from the south and west lines of 2-32-University.

The 9,800-foot failure, Hunt Oil Co. No. 1 University, was abandoned Jan. 21, 1975; the 10,235-foot failure, Humble Oil & Refining Co. (now Exxon Corp.) No. 1-CV University, was abandoned Jan. 31, 1960. It topped the Strawn at 8,418 feet and the Ellenburger at 9,290 feet on elevation of 2,367 feet.

H&W Enterprises, Midland, will re-enter and deepen to 1,750 feet to attempt re-open the Block 46, East (Grayburg oil) field of Crockett County at the former opener, Water Dog Oil Co. No. 1 University Block 46, 16 miles southeast of Big Lake. It is the No. 1 Water Dog. Originally drilled by Eason & Hancock to 1,748 feet, it was plugged back to 1,705 feet and finaled Jan. 17, 1961, to pump 26 barrels of 34 gravity oil through perforations at 1,646-688 feet. Ground elevation is 2,548.45 feet.

Location is 467 feet from the north and 2,310 feet from the west lines of 12-46 University (original permit was filed 330 feet from the north and 2,423.2 feet from the east lines.)

Rhonda Operating Co., Midland, will drill two step-outs to the current seven-well Block 47 (Shallow) field of Crockett County, 12 miles southeast of Big Lake.

Both projects, in 8-47-University, are contracted to 2,400 feet.

The No. 1 University Z-"A", one location north and

Co. prospector finaled

D.B. Baxter, Midland, set 4 1/2-inch casing at 7,159 feet and plugged back to 7,110 feet, at his No. 1 Gulf-Corbett, in 15-B2-GC&SF, Crockett County wildcat, 2 1/2 miles east-southeast of the opener and long producer in the Crockett, East (Devonian) field, 1 1/2 miles south of the depleted Corbett, South (Wolfcamp) field of Upton County and 11 miles south of Rankin.

Drilled to 9,142 feet, it recovered 30 feet of oil, 420 feet of oil-and gas-cut drilling fluid, 3,090 feet of gas and 3,036 feet of sulfur water on a drillstem test at 6,693-789 feet.

west, is 330 feet from the south and 1,274 feet from the east lines of the northwest quarter.

The No. 2 University Z-"A", one location west, is 1,272 feet from the south and 330 feet from the east lines of the northwest quarter.

S&R Petroleum Corp., Odessa, has rescheduled to 1,200 feet its No. 1-B Helen Carpenter, et al, Crockett County 460-foot oil wildcat, one location east and slightly south of an 8,010-foot failure, 2 1/4 miles northeast of the north portion of the shallow Yates field and the same distance east-northeast or the Hanson (Grayburg) field and nine miles northwest of Iraan.

Location is 667 feet from the north and 950 feet from the east lines of the south portion of 85-1-I&GN.

The Hanson field produces at an average depth of 1,169 feet.

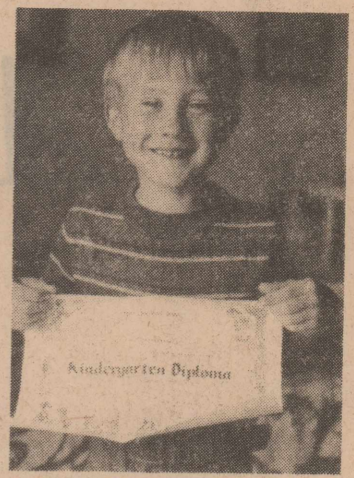

Crockett confirmer scheduled

The Weger, Southwest (Grayburg-San Andres oil) field of Crockett County gained its fourth producer and a 1/2-mile northwest extension with completion of H.D. Oden, Inc., Midland, No. 1 Strauss-Pfluger, et al, nine miles south of Big Lake, to pump 54 barrels of oil, gravity unreported, plus 36 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 1,000-1.

Production was through perforations at 2,410-453 feet, which had been acidized with 1,500 gallons and 50,000 pounds of sand.

Drilled to 2,600 feet, where 4 1/2-inch casing was set, it is plugged back to 2,569 feet.

Location is 3,187 feet from the north and 2,183 feet from the west lines of 1-EL&RRR.

Ozona DHT employees receive safety awards

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation (DHT) honored 10 employees recently at a safety meeting held at the Ozona Maintenance Office. Safe driving and no-injury awards were given in recognition of those employees with a careful driving record and also those who have completed a year with no injuries which required a trip to the doctor.

Assistant District Engineer W.P. Harrington of San Angelo presented the awards ranging from 4 to 14 years of safe driving and from 3 to 26 years of no-injury.

Safe driving saves time and money. The (DHT) knows that these savings are of the tax dollars of the citizens of Texas. Through safety meetings and training, safe driving of state equipment is encouraged.

Recipients of the Safe Driving awards are:

Cecil F. Hedrick, 14 years.

Francisco E. Garza, 7 years.

Ricardo M. Dominguez and Francisco M. Galvan, 4 years each.

Individual No-Injury awards are given to those non-office employees who are directly associated with maintenance and construction work, and those who regularly drive state equipment as their duty. The award is meant to provide recognition to those field employees who avoid personal injury in spite of occupations which expose them to greater hazards than most persons otherwise employed.

Recipients of this award are:

Antonio Y. Fierro, 26 years.

Leandro R. Flores, Jr., 20 years.

Rosalto D. Longoria, 17 years.

Cecil F. Hedrick, 9 years.

Richardo M. Dominguez and Francisco M. Galvan, 6 years each.

Otilio V. Duran, 5 years.

George C. Ybarra, 4 years.

Ross W. Smith, 3 years.

First Aid, State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, Safe Driving and Individual No-Injury Awards.

The Safe Driving awards have a total of 29 years, the No-Injury presentations a total of 96 years for a combined total of 125 years for the above mentioned persons.

The DHT and Maintenance Construction Supervisor Cecil F. Hedrick for whom these men work are proud of the safety record of these employees.

The first clock was built about 1360 and was off by about two hours each day.

BigThicket Walkfest set

The First Big Thicket Walkfest will be held Saturday, June 2, and Sunday, June 3, 1979 at the Saratoga, Texas headquarters of the Big Thicket Association. Saturday, June 2, is the annual Big Thicket Get-Together held jointly with the Walkfest. Co-sponsoring the event with the Big Thicket Association are the Golden Triangle People's Sports Assn., and the Golden Triangle Group of the Sierra Club.

Participation is simple: Walk (or run) at your own pace down either the 6-mile or 12-mile courses laid out near Saratoga. The 12-mile course will cover a portion of the famous Ghost Road of Hardin County. The 6-mile course will lead you near luxurious fern bogs and through the pine and hardwood areas near Saratoga, giving everyone a share in the nature and life of the Big Thicket. Each entrant completing either course will receive an attractive silver (6-mile) or gold (12-mile) die-cast medal, and IVV credit, good for additional awards as participation in other IVV events mounts.

The two-day event is sanctioned by the International Federation of Popular Sports, and its American affiliate, International Peoples' Sports-USA. Founded in 1968, the International Peoples' Sports organization (IVV) is composed of more than 3000 member units in 14 nations with more than 8 million annual participants. Numerous IVV-sanctioned events are scheduled across Texas and the United States during 1979 to promote the healthy, family sports of hiking, jogging and backpacking.

Registration fees post-marked before May 2 are $3.50 (for medal) or $1.50 (no medal). Registrations post-marked after May 2 will be accepted through the days of the Walkfest and fees are $4.50 (with medal); $2.50 (without medal). Camping is available on the museum grounds; hook-ups are unfortunately unavailable. Registration for the Noon Barbecue Saturday at the Big Thicket Get-Together is $3.50 per person. The event will be held regardless of weather, and refreshments will be available along the route.

Anyone may participate, including children under 12 when accompanied by a parent. Pets may walk at leash. Special awards include: the Largest Group, the Group traveling farthest in the United States, the Group traveling farthest from outside the U. S., and the eldest man and woman.

All proceeds go toward the promotion of future family sports activities sanctioned by the IVV in the Big Thicket area. Registration fees are non-refundable.

For further information, write or call: The Big Thicket Museum, Box 198, Saratoga, Texas 77585, phone (713) 274-2971.
