Rains soak Ozona

Bountiful rains have fallen in Ozona and Crockett County the past week, making the end of May and the first part of June the wettest period of the current year.

Before Monday night's storm dumped 2.6 inches of rain on Ozona, weekend rain reports from ranches around the area gave amounts varying from 3 to 6 inches. The Bissett ranch north of Ozona reported a fall of 3 inches while the John Coates ranch, nearer town, got 6 inches of rainfall. About 20 miles south of Ozona, the Baggett ranch reported a fall of 5 inches.

There were no reports from around the county on Monday night's rainfall. The rain was accompanied by heavy electrical displays and deafening thunder. Firemen were called out when a utility line shorted out atop the west hill, but it was taken care of without fire.

With the weekend rains added to the Monday night rainfall, the total rainfall for the first four days of June amounted to 3.66 according to the official gauge at the Water District office. The total rainfall for May amounted to 1.56 inches, 1.11 inches of that recorded in the last week.

At noon Tuesday, heavy clouds covered Ozona and more rainfall was forecast.

Local nurses certified

Marge Baggett and Sue Owensby, registered nurses employed at Crockett County Hospital, attended a course in Advance Cardiac Life Support June 1 thru June 3, given at Angelo State University and sponsored by the American Heart Association.

Dr. Don Carlisle of Ozona was the course director and was also one of several instructors who came from various parts of the state to teach physicians, nurses and others involved, the delivery of emergency cardiac care. The two Ozona nurses were certified as providers of Advance Cardiac Life Support. They were tested both by physical skills and written exam, and received among the highest scores given.

NEW MUSEUM EXHIBIT will feature early-day ranching tools and equipment. Members of the Historical Society are being instructed by Laura Graves Allen, museum scientist who held a three-day workshop here earlier this week. The ladies are, l. to r., Mrs. Bill Cooper, Mrs. R.A. Harrell, Mrs. Allen, and Mrs. Pleas Childress, Jr.

Museum workshop here this week

On Monday morning, June 4, the Staff and workers at the Crockett County Museum began a three-day Workshop under the direction of Laura Graves Allen. The purpose of the sessions is to evaluate the Museum, its Artifacts and Exhibits and to try to project the future potential of the total program.

Mrs. Allen has a Master of Arts Degree in Museum Science and Anthropology from Texas Tech University. She is presently the Director and Park Superintendent of the Hampson State Museum at Wilson, Arkansas. She has also served as Assistant Director of the Texas Tech Museum and as an Archeological Field Assistant at Southern Methodist University.

Mrs. Allen says, "I believe Museums are and should be educational institutions. As Museum Professionals we should work to provide our public and professional peers a high level of excellence in research, exhibits, and public programs. Museums are the perfect medium for disseminating information, specifically information gained through research."

Mrs. P.L. Childress, Museum Director, and the Board of Directors have set as their goal having the very best Museum possible in the available space. Special exhibits have caused public interest to increase and the Workshop will help to continue with programs that will both interest and educate viewers. Crockett County has

Oil production in state drops again

With another year of production at the maximum efficient recovery rate in nearly all the state's fields, Texas' crude oil output last year again topped one-billion barrels. This is a level that has been achieved annually since 1965, although a downward trend in production continued for the sixth consecutive year. If this trend persists throughout 1979, it is unlikely the billion-barrel figure will be achieved this year.

Crockett County, which has had recorded production since 1925, last year produced 5,039,277 barrels of crude oil at the rate of 13,806 barrels per day. Production in 1978 boosted Crockett County's production total through the end of the year to 255,088,623 barrels. In 1978, 24 counties produced more than 10-million barrels of crude oil, a decrease of two counties from 1977; a decrease of three from 1976, and six from 1975.

The output of the nation's No. 1 oil producing state in 1978 was almost 1.1-billion barrels, thus pushing the state's cumulative production since 1889 to more than 43.7-billion barrels. However, last year's output was more than 61-million barrels below 1977 production and nearly 224-million barrels less than the all-time peak production year of 1972.

H.B. (Hank) Harkins of Alice, president of the Dallas-based Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, notes that the decline in production in 1978 corresponds to a drop of almost 777,500,000 barrels in Texas' reserves of crude oil. The decline from approximately 8.5-billion barrels to some 7.7-billion barrels amounts to a 9.2-percent drop. But, Harkins sees a brighter future for the Texas petroleum industry despite the recent drop in production and reserves.

"The improved prices for both old and new oil that we can expect as a result of a phasing out of federal price controls will help to stimulate increased efforts to recover oil in Texas, particularly through secondary and tertiary recovery projects," Harkins says.

"However, if the federal government adopts a policy that would take half of the revenue that the oil companies might realize from decontrol, then future enhanced recovery projects, as well as increased exploratory and developmental drilling, could be severely curtailed," warns Harkins, an independent producer and drilling company executive.

Football field to be open

Don Sessom, new football coach at Ozona High School, moved his family to Ozona last week and announced plans to allow the public to use the new facilities at Lion Stadium.

Beginning June 11, from 8 to 10 p.m. each night, those interested in physical fitness are invited to meet at the football field and participate in a summer program.

GAVEL PRESENTATION-State Representative Susan McBee, who represents this area, received a gavel from Speaker of the Texas House Bill Clayton. The gavel was presented to Rep. McBee for her work as Chairwoman of the Committee on Elections and as Vice-Chairwoman of the Committee on Calendars during the 66th Session of the Texas Legislature. Clayton called the session a success for the people of Texas and credited Rep. McBee for her assistance in the House.

County gains oil and gas strikes

Crockett County gained an oil and a gas strike and extenders were finalized in two other fields.

The Block 39-B (Ellenburger gas) field was reopened with completion of J.M. Huber, Midland, No. 1 University "12-39", 1,280 feet east of the depleted opener and 18 miles south-southeast of Barnhart, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 2,034,000 cubic feet of gas daily, with gas-liquid ratio of 117,273 feet. Gravity of the condensate was 65 degrees.

Production was through perforations at 7,750-7,754 and 7,782-7,792 feet, which had been acidized with 3,000 gallons.

The following tops were picked on ground elevation of 2,511 feet: Ellenburger, 7,743 feet; Barnett, 7,638 feet; Canyon sand, 5,995 feet; Dean, 5,237 feet; Spraberry, 3,826 feet; San Andres, 1,350 feet and Queen, 743 feet.

Drilled to 8,227 feet, where 4 1/2-inch casing was set, it is plugged back to 8,108 feet.

Location is 660 feet from the south and 1,880 feet from the east lines of 12-39-ULS. The original opener, Texas Crude Oil Co., Inc., No. 1-A-12 University, was finalized Jan. 21, 1971, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 6.3 million cubic feet of gas daily, with gas-liquid ratio of 26,000-1, through perforations at 7,808-881 feet. It became depleted in Jan. 1972. Andover Oil Co., Tulsa, Okla., recompleted as a Spraberry oil discovery its No. 1-18 University "38-C", former opener and lone producer of the Block 38 (Ellenburger) field, eight miles southeast of Barnhart, to flow 91.62 barrels of 39 gravity oil, plus two barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 568-1.

Production was through perforations at 3,811-852 feet, which had been acidized with 1,500 gallons and fractured with 30,000 gallons and 30,000 pounds of sand. Plugged-back depth is 4,520 feet.

ENTERPRISING YOUTH FACES RUTHLESS RULES

By Edwin Feulner

Want to know how hard it is to make an honest buck these days? Just ask 19-year-old Sam Graves of Glendale, South Carolina, near Spartanburg.

Sam Graves is the son of James B. Graves, Jr., executive director of the Foundation for American Education, an organization strongly in favor of teaching our young people about the working of the free enterprise system.

The business: Graves Moving Service. Unlike traditional moving companies, the young Graves own no trucks. What they sell is themselves.

This should be encouraging, since Sam plans to use the hard-earned success to support himself when he gets married this June. "That's why I started the business," he says.

Well, it seems the rest of the state's moving companies—regulated by the state Public Service Commission, the same way interstate movers are regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission—feel the Graves operation is unlawful.

But Graves argues, "I am not a moving company; I am a moving service."

And, as such, he is able to save his customers lots of money. "We hold costs down every way possible. As a non state-regulated moving service and with our low overhead, we can save our customers up to 40 percent on a move.

The new idea has become so popular that Sam and Jim have had as many as eight moves in some weeks.

His dad says that the new moving service was born after the young Graves became fed up with his job with another moving company.

"He liked the work, but before long he was coming home with stories of... exorbitant charges, furniture needlessly damaged, unnecessary delays, unkept promises" and so forth.

Sam also learned, in the process, that it is not competence that determines what the other companies charge, but bureaucrats.

It is state and federal regulatory agencies that establish the high costs of moving," his dad notes. "Thereby, they also destroy the incentive which unregulated businesses have for consulting the interests of their customers in other ways—the very customers, that is, whom these (government) bureaus are supposed to protect.

"In other words, our American moving industry has little connection with free enterprise. It operates on a principle of government assured profits."

This is not to say that most moving companies don't do a good job. In my experience, most of them do.

It is to say that laws which restrict competition and bureaucrats who would put young Sam Graves out of business are not in the public interest. As we have seen from the airline industry, maximum competition inevitably leads to better service at lower prices.

Though it is still a few weeks until we know the final outcome of his fight with the bully-boys of the Public Service Commission, we wish him well in fighting for the traditional American way.

Note: Unlike many stories we offer you from time to time, this one appears to have a happy ending. Our latest report from Glendale is that the Public Service Commission has apparently reached it's decision—in Jim's favor! Chalk one up for the good guys.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS By Lyndell Williams TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Besides approving a multitude of other bills on the very last day of the 66th session, the Texas Legislature also finally agreed on a state budget, a school finance plan and tax relief legislation.

Hurriedly pumping out minor bills and putting the finishing touches on major legislation on the 140th and final day of the session is the traditional way of doing things for the Texas Legislature.

The 66th session was no different. On the way to the last 24 hours of lawmaking, legislators had been sidetracked by such nagging matters as a presidential primary, alterations to the consumer protection act and a change in the usury ceiling.

But with the presidential primary effectively killed by the flight of the "Killer Bees" in the Senate, and with changes in the consumer protection act already passed, and with the usury ceiling upped to a maximum of 12 percent, lawmakers spent the final day of the session working on the budget, agreeing on the final details of how public schools would be financed and approving legislation to implement the tax relief amendment passed by voters last November.

The state budget for 1980-81 passed by both Houses after some expected haggling over different provisions of the plan would cost $20.7 billion. That's a 19 percent increase over the last two-year spending plan the Legislature drew up in 1977 during the 65th session.

When you consider that inflation, it appears lawmakers succeeded in keeping spending levels as low as was humanly possible.

But, the $20.7 billion budget passed on to Gov. Bill Clements for his signature is $1 billion higher than what he suggested to the Legislature in his budget message earlier in the session. Clements wanted to return an additional $1 billion to taxpayers.

Indications are that Clements will approve the spending plan, although some Capitol observers warn that the governor might end up approving one year of the biennial spending draft and then call lawmakers back for a special session to write another one-year budget for the last year of the biennium.

But the special session the governor has said he will call will probably deal with another of his legislative goals—initiative and referendum. The House came close to passing "indirect" initiative and referendum rights for voters, and Clements, addressing the House on the final night of the session, warned lawmakers that he would be seeing them again sometime in the next two years in a special session on the subject.

Austin Sen. Lloyd Doggett said that the increased payments to the large school districts would mean a decrease in longevity pay for state employees.

And Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan labelled HB 1060 as "a fraud and a sham" because of the compromises made after heavy pressure.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

This spring the country landscape has been unusually beautiful with the lush growth of colorful native flowers. Several have asked the names of some growing along our highways which are now in bloom.

Two from the mint family are Salvia farinacea, blue salvia or blue sage which grows mostly in pastures between here and Austin in a massed glorious blue with gray foliage. To me, it competes in beauty with the bluebonnets. Another is monarda dispersa or purple horsemint which grows in pastures and along railroad tracks. Bee keepers consider it one of the most important sources of honey in Texas. It grows 1 to 2 feet high with long showy, purple rosettes at intervals along the upper portion of the stems. The East Texas variety, monarda fistulosa, bears only one pink flowered rosette at the tip of the stem. It is easy to grow, as it spreads from year to year by new plants arising from the root stalks. The tall spikes are especially delicate and pretty to use in spring arrangements.

From the phlox family is another tall attractive plant to be seen now, Tilia rubra, (standing cupresses) with the upper one-third of the stem covered with scarlet red, five-jointed, tubular flowers. Still another showy plant of the limestone hills is the Erythraea beyrichil, mountain pink, from the gentian family. It is a low mound-like, fork-branched plant, two to ten inches high, covered with a mass of star-like pink blossoms. Truly a ready-made bouquet. Early settlers used it for a fever medicine.

Even the lowly Johnson grass is beautiful along the highway now. Try using it for large arrangements with day-lilies or alone. It cures well in the glycerin solution, (1 cup glycerin-2 cups water) for fall arrangements. Place in tall container so stems will be several inches in solution. Place where you can enjoy watching the process.

Crep myrtles. To promote vigorous growth and profuse bloom, make a second application of fertilizer this month. A low-nitrogen 5-10-10 produces satisfactory results. Watch for powdery mildew on leaves and flowers. Control with fungicide, such as Captan.

Sun Protection Factor (SPF) listed on skin care products will help consumers select products which give the greatest protection from the sun.

The Food and Drug Administration is introducing this system.

Products will be labeled with a numbered value. The higher the number, the greater the protection.

SPF value of 2 or 3 offers little protection, but may be adequate for people who rarely burn and who tan easily. The darker skin is naturally, the greater the inherent protection against damage.

SPF value of 15 or greater offers the greatest protection and permits no tanning.

Other tips to protect skin against sun damage include:

--Avoid contact during hours from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. (sun time, not clock time) when the ultraviolet rays are the strongest.

--Start with brief exposure to the sun and build up time slowly. Tanning is the skin's own built-in protection against damage. For this to occur, the skin must develop melanin pigments. This process may take up to two days to develop after exposure.

If over-exposure causes burning, the skin loses the melanin it has developed.

--Wear clothing which covers the body for extra protection, especially for sensitive skin. Hats help protect the face and neck.

However, up to 50 percent of the sun's rays can filter through clothing and even umbrellas.

--Keep skin moist with creams and lotions.

STRAWBERRY CREAM PIE
1 pint strawberries, hulled
1 package (4 serving) instant pudding-coconut

cream, vanilla or French vanilla
1 1/2 cups cold milk
1 container non-dairy whipped topping
1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled

Set aside 1 cup of the strawberries for garnish. Quarter or slice remaining berries. Combine pudding mix and milk in bowl. Beat slowly with rotary beater or at lowest speed of electric mixer for 1 minute. Blend in 1/2 cup of the whipped topping. Fold in quartered strawberries and pour into pie shell. Chill at least 3 hours. Top with remaining whipped topping and garnish with the whole strawberries.

Ozonans' daughter graduates

Rebecca Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Cullins, was a May graduate at Arizona State University in Tempe, Arizona.

She received her B.A. degree from the College of Education, specializing in secondary history and English. She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi and Kappa Phi, honor societies. She was recognized for scholastic excellence at an honor convocation earlier in the spring.

Mrs. Montgomery resides in Tempe with her husband, Pete, and two daughters, Susan and Michelle.

Tim Ogilvy of Midland, is here visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Evert White.

Summer program gets under way

Beginning this next week, Monday, June 11, the Ozona Community Center will get its summer program underway. The new playground will be available for young children to come and play. We will provide supervision from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. We invite children up through early elementary school age, to make use of this recreational area. Again, words of appreciation need to go to those who have made this facility possible. These include the Ozona Woman's League, the Rotary Club, and to Miss Dorothy Price, former program director, who helped to raise money in her eastern Tennessee home church. Many thanks go to those who provided labor to help with the actual construction. In addition to those of the League and others, thanks need to go to those individuals who labored for several days to install the fence.

In addition to the playground program, the Ozona Community Center will have a Story Hour on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10:00 to 10:45 a.m. Puppet shows will be given during this time occasionally. Again we invite young children to come and participate in this. The first day for this will be June 12.

Wishing Wells and Well-Wishers

Few wishing wells left. Those that remain are preserved more by sentiment than superstition.

Lots of well-wishers, though! They guild the day with their cheery platitudes. They just know everything will work out right — without their getting involved.

Lord, grant me grace to be a friend — not a well-wisher. Give me courage to stand for something, and to stand with others who share the belief. Prime me with vision to build tomorrow... faith to know it will come... patience to await the dawn.

Deliver me, Lord, from the sentimentality of simply wishing... the polite indifference of well-wishing... the numbing temptation not to get involved.

Lead me! To church... conviction... commitment.

Goat News

It's been said, only half-jokingly, that a stockman's best mineral supplement is a pumping oil well. Landowners fortunate enough to have oil and gas production will certainly testify to its lifesaving properties during times of drought or poor stock prices.

The vast majority of landowners have no oil connections, of course, and many others have only remote links to the industry. For the latter group, oil is just a passing thing-literally. A few are wishing it would just pass them by entirely. Their connection with oil is in the form of pipeline easements which have occasionally become a bigger headache than ever imagined.

Runnels County stockman Allen Belk is one of those wishing the oil would just pass on by. Unfortunately, some of it doesn't, and the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association feels Belk's story may be of benefit to others who may someday find themselves in his position.

Belk bought 1300 acres of ranchland in December 1977. It came complete with an eight-inch oil transmission pipeline but no oil production. At the time Belk bought the land, the pipeline was owned by one of the nation's largest petroleum companies. A pipeline company bought the line shortly afterward and in less than a year Belk was having problems with leaks.

The line began drooling oil in November 1978 and shows little or no sign of kicking the habit. So far the spilled oil, which has drained into a creek serving the Ballinger water supply, has been contained without causing much damage downstream, but the same can't be said for its effects on Belk's operation.

The spilled oil forced Belk to abandon use of one pasture he'd originally saved for lambing out a group of yearling ewes. Because of hard conditions last year, that saved pasture was the only one with an appreciable amount of forage left.

Still, the worst problems have come not from the oil itself but from attempts to clean it up and jerry-rig the pipeline. Those problems include creek bank damage, massive road erosion from the repeated passage of heavy equipment, unauthorized building of entirely new roads across pastureland, unauthorized fence cutting, mixing of stock when gates were callously left open, piling of oil-soaked hay within access of livestock and the burning of established trees along the creek bank.

Even worse, Belk lost much of a lamb crop in the deal. Repeated vehicle traffic through his lambing area, he says, has cost him almost half his lambs this season. Of 160 ewes turned out for lambing, Belk has counted 70 ewes that produced lambs but subsequently lost them. He blames most of that on separation and disturbance from the cleanup crews and equipment.

Worst, most of it was probably unnecessary. Belk says he knows of no such leaks in the 30-odd years prior to the pipeline's purchase by its current owners. Within less than a year-trouble. He has been told that pressure in the pipeline under the new owners has been increased at least 50 percent and maybe as much as 200 percent. Meanwhile, he's told, repair, maintenance and surveillance crews have been cut by as much as a third.

Nor has he been compensated for his losses. Belk says he was able to negotiate an unspecified settlement for the most recent spill but, so far, the pipeline company has simply refused to discuss damages for the several previous spills and the destruction wrought in their cleanup. Not even the cleanup has been complete, and Belk says he would have had no luck discussing the latest mess had he not applied a little force.

That "force" consisted of refusing entry to the pipeline people until an accommodation could be reached. The company must shut the pipeline down until a leak is repaired, and Belk refused to allow them onto his place to repair the last leak without negotiations. They negotiated.

The major concession was a rewriting of the easement contract. The old contract was so loosely worded that it would have allowed almost unlimited pipeline construction on Belk's land. His experiences have convinced him, he says, that such loose restrictions could open the way to a potential nightmare. The new easement is much more restrictive.

Belk and TS&GRA urge landowners to review any existing easements on their property or on property they may anticipate purchasing. Belk says the whole mess has taught him a lesson and he hopes others can benefit.

He's still waiting for reparations on the earlier damage and for a pressure test of the pipeline to expose potential future breaks. Neither appears forthcoming without a fight.

State 4-H meet in San Angelo

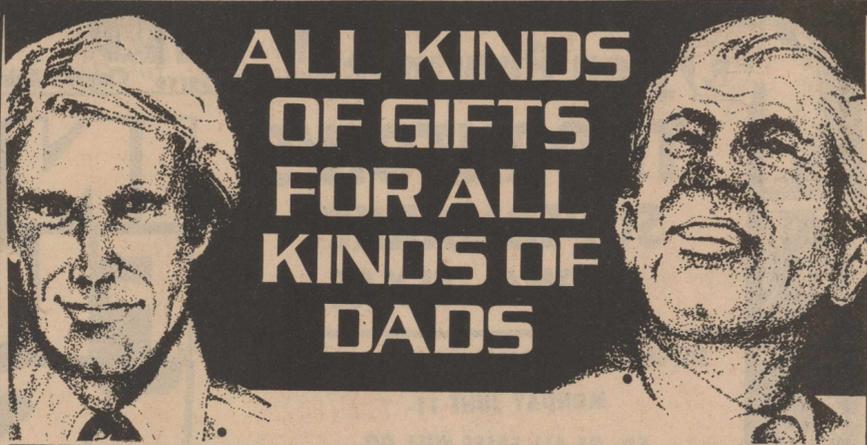

A couple of hundred boys and girls will compete in San Angelo June 8 in the State 4-H Wool and Mohair Judging Contest.

Site of the annual event will be the Angelo State University Center for Management, Instruction and Research, about 10 miles north of the city and 1 mile off Hwy. 87.

A purpose of the June 8 program will be to determine which senior teams will represent Texas in the 19th annual National 4-H Wool Judging Contest, June 14 at Sonora.

The national contest is part of the 42nd annual Sonora Wool and Mohair Show, June 12-13-14.

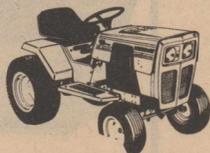

Judging at the MIR Center will begin at 9 a.m. in both the Junior and Senior divisions, said Dr. George A. Ahlschwede, sheep and goat specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Crockett County Care Center News

By Joan Nicholas
Activities Program Director

Another very active week has been had by all at the Center, with the loving help of volunteers; also on Sunday afternoon by a large group from the Methodist Church who accompanied the Rev. Larry Bailey.

While on the subject of volunteers—the President of the Auxiliary, Carol Carlisle, has announced an important meeting will take place at the Center on Saturday morning June 9th at 10 a.m. Most hospital and nursing home organizations meet on a monthly basis, therefore, since we have yet to meet in 1979, we feel that it is not too much to request that we get together at this time. There are certain guidelines Activities Directors are required to follow so far as volunteers assisting in our nursing homes are concerned. You have all been wonderful, and as pointed out in my column last week, you contributed toward our Superior Facility award with bonus points earned for our nursing home. If you are volunteering your services and have not paid your $1.50 dues to membership in the Auxiliary, please come and bring your dues with you! The Auxiliary will welcome you, and we DO need to get together as a group at this time.

A happy, happy time was had by nearly a full turn out for Charlie Beard, his fiddle, and singers and guitar players from Big Lake who entertained on Wednesday night. And, once more, Eddie Luck played the organ and piano Sunday evening. Tonight at 6:30 p.m. the Ybarra group of local musicians with accordion and guitars, will be at the Center. We are offering a little of everything for everyone's taste. Country music, Spanish music and gospel songs, Eddie playing the tunes of the 20's and 30's and 40's with which our residents identify so well; guess we haven't had the opera or a symphony orchestra yet!

The Care Center piano is badly in need of a tuning job. I have arranged with a reliable technician to come from San Angelo. He tunes (and rebuilds) pianos and organs and has been recommended by Eldorado people where he has worked for individuals, churches, schools, etc. for some years.

He will come and do ours if we can find a few more pianos and/or organs to make a trip to Ozona worth his while. He is very reasonable and is booked up until late this month, but if you are interested, please let me have your names at once. Thank you.

The month of May's bingo loser's game was won by Gertrude Daniels winning the certificate donated by Baker Jewelers. Weekly winner was Verna Talley and second prizes went to Leona Harris and Ruby Cooksey. Paul Cavin and Ruby Cooksey won fourth-two and Mike Pena won dominoes with Eleanor Yeager being second.

We certainly thank the Lillian Henderson Class of the Methodist Church for a second generous cash gift for our Activities program.

Our Friday afternoon reading and discussion group had a barrel of laughs as we read an article written by a clergyman's daughter from horse and buggy days, entitled "Bewildered Bridegrooms I Have Known". I suppose bridegrooms are traditionally nervous about getting spliced, but some of these we read about were really hilarious.

It was noted that invariably the bridegroom would request that the ceremony should be made as short as possible, adding a request that he should not be asked to say anything! Then there was the groom, white faced and timid, led in by a very masterful woman, and every time he attempted to speak, his bride-to-be would say, "Now Frank, leave this to me. You know how nervous you are." When this poor man made his last faint promise to be faithful and true, she broke in "Now remember that Frank." The writer said she would never forget the meekness of his expression as he departed—a look that said "Whoever enters here leaves Hope behind."

The author also remembered that countless grooms seemed to find putting on a wedding ring an arduous task being in doubts as to which was the right finger. One usually upset bridegroom made persistent attempts to place the ring on the bride's thumb, and he did it, too, in spite of audible protests from bride and minister! All this led into some chit chat in our group as to WHO popped the vital question, and just how nervous OUR bridegrooms were! Evelyn Bryant contributed an anecdote from her wedding.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Jerry Lay

Although the most famous nickname in all of sports was Babe Ruth's, few people know how he got that nickname...Babe grew up in an orphanage in Baltimore...When he was just 18, and still a resident of the orphanage, the Baltimore baseball team signed him. Ruth had never seen much of the outside world up to that time, and looked even younger than he really was. Thus, when he joined the Baltimore team, some of the older players spoke of him as a "babe in the woods," and then, naturally, some started calling him "Babe." Sportswriters covering the team picked it up, and that nickname became used so often that few people then or now—know that his real name was George Ruth.

Here's the story of one of the most amazing performances in the history of sports...Did you know that one man once broke 3 DIFFERENT WORLD track records all in ONE AFTER-noon--and all within an hour-and-a-half!...This was done by Jesse Owens at a track meet May 25, 1935, when he broke the world record for the 100-yard dash, the 220-yard dash and the long jump in an hour and a half...

Rucker appointed FHA supervisor

Ben Rucker has been named Farmers Home Administration County Supervisor for Crockett County in Ozona.

The local appointment was made by W.H. Pieratt, State Director of FmHA, headquartered in Temple.

For the past six years Rucker has serviced Concho and Menard Counties with the headquarters office in Eden and will continue with the headquarters office in Eden. In addition to the Crockett County FmHA office in Ozona, Rucker's new appointment also includes FmHA offices in Sutton County in Sonora, Kimble County in Junction, and Schleicher County in Eldorado.

Individual FmHA programs include farm operating loans, emergency loans, soil and water loans, and irrigation and drainage loans. One purpose of Farmers Home Administration farm ownership loans is to help promising young people and others, unable to get needed funds elsewhere, to get a start in agriculture. Farm operating loans assist mostly to cover production expenses.

Individual home ownership insured loans are made to families of low to moderate income, including senior citizens, who need adequate housing; maximum term for repayment is 33 years. Interest rates are adjustable and are determined by formula. Interest supplement benefits may reduce interest to as low as one percent for low-income families. Direct loans are made for home repair to very-low-income families, for 20 years at one percent interest; loan limit is $5,000.

The agency also finances community facilities and makes business and industrial loans. However, the latter two types of loan are usually handled by personnel at a district, or from the state, office. The county office has information about all programs and will accept applications, but mainly handles loans with individual farmers and rural families.

The Crockett County FmHA office in Ozona is located in the Ozona ASCS office, and office period is held on the 4th Thursday morning of each month from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon. The next office period will be June 28.

Rucker states he can be reached at the Concho County FmHA office, located in the Eden ASCS office, each Monday morning from 8 to 12 noon. The mailing address is Farmers Home Administration, Box H, Eden, TX 76837, telephone number 915-869-3941.

Royals win twin bill

The Ozona Royals came away Sunday afternoon in Big Lake with a pair of wins over the Big Lake Cardinals by the scores of 7-5 and 4-3. Richard Sanchez picked up both wins, the first in relief of Rudy Martinez, and the second game going the full distance. Orlando De Hoyos and John Galvan paced the hitting attack with 4 and 3 hits respectively during the twinbill.

The games were highlighted by a couple of controversial calls as well as last inning comebacks by the Royals in both games over an inspired Big Lake Cardinal team, who were seeking their first win over the home team in the last 4 years. The victories upped the Royals record 15-6.

This Sunday, the Royals host a baseball tournament for the surrounding area teams from the towns of Big Lake, Sonora, and Eldorado. The Royals would appreciate a great fan turnout to back the Royals towards the championship trophy. A Barbecue dinner will be served, raffle winners will be announced, and trophies will be awarded after the completion of the four games. Game time for the opener is 10:00

Chris Carlisle selected

Chris Carlisle was selected by the American Cancer Society to represent Ozona, Monday and Tuesday in a meeting in Houston. One of the purposes of this meeting was to make high school-age participants more aware of the activities and projects of the Cancer Society. While in Houston, Ms. Carlisle and her adult sponsor, Ms. Mary Barrow, head nurse at Crockett County Hospital, were to tour the facilities of M.D. Anderson Tumor Hospital which is one of the top cancer hospitals in the world.

Questions and answers for microwave ovens

Consumers still question microwave oven safety and radiation factors—but these questions have not stopped the purchases, a family resource management specialist, Lillian Chenoweth, says. She offers some answers to some common questions about microwave ovens:

What effects do microwaves have on food?
Microwaves do not make food radioactive.
As in any cooking practice, microwave cooking has some effect on the nutritional value of the food. Most studies, however, show no significant nutritional differences in food heated by microwaves when compared to conventional cooking methods.

In other words, the food is neither more or less nutritious.
How can the consumer tell if a microwave oven is safe for home use?
All microwave oven models produced after 1971 present no radiation hazard if used according to manufacturer instructions, according to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

However, the consumer should obtain a statement from the dealer that the oven has been tested for radiation leakage.
Optimally, the oven is also tested after installation in the home.
What regular safety checks or maintenance should be done?

An owner can get a rough idea about the effectiveness of the seal by trying to pull a piece of paper through when the door is closed.
If the paper easily comes through, some leakage may occur.

Chemical magic used in cancer research

Chemical "magic" that ultimately can conjure up an enzyme that really doesn't exist is being invoked at Baylor College of Medicine here in a project that may take a decade to complete.

The first steps have been taken to synthesize man-made enzymes, the chemical agents that stimulate most body processes, including parts of the cell "factory" that turns out good cells as well as the bad ones that make up cancer.

Dr. H.F. Gilbert, Assistant Professor of Biochemistry at the college, explained in an interview that he is cautiously optimistic that his plan for making enzymes will work but he said, "Our expectations may take ten years to become reality." His present project is supported by an American Cancer Society research grant.

The importance of "man-made" enzymes is almost boundless, scientists admit. Not only could medicine benefit endlessly by such an accomplishment, but the chemical industry, manufacturing and even food production could use artificial enzymes to create their products more efficiently.

Dr. Gilbert is using the immune system of organisms, including man, to produce an enzyme analogue, one that is similar in function to the original. This is done by utilizing what is known as the "transition state" in a chemical reaction, a state that actually doesn't exist. It occurs instantly when two chemicals react.

The "transition state" between two substances that create an antibody is the model upon which Dr. Gilbert is building artificial enzymes.

With this "pattern" he puts together chemicals that assume relative positions of the transition state of enzyme. This combination, presumably, then will bind to a "foreign protein" that acts as an antigen. When introduced into a living system it should induce an antibody reaction.

Made-to order enzymes would find a number of uses in cancer control. Because of differences between normal cancer cells, enzymes that would stimulate reactions only in the abnormal cell could direct the cancer cell to destroy itself. Specific synthetic enzymes could also be devised to replace or reinforce flawed immune reactions in cancer patients.

Ozonan's son gets medal

Technical Sergeant Larry D. Bentley, son of Mrs. Connie Bentley of Ozona, has received the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal at McConnell AFB, Tex.

The sergeant, a 1962 graduate of Maud (Okla.) High School, received a B.A. degree in 1974 from Kansas Newman College at Wichita. He received an M.A. degree in 1978 from Ball State University, Muncie, Ind. His wife, Mary, is the daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Geraghty of 5617B Calumet Court, Tampa, Fla.
