Thrilling win for Lionettes

The Lionettes had a thrilling 46-45 win Friday night against the Junction Eagles.

The Lionettes were behind by 1 pt. after the first quarter and by 3 pts. at half time. Ozona found the basket the third quarter scoring 16 pts. and moving ahead of Junction by 1 pt. During the fourth quarter Junction took the lead by 5 pts. with 2 minutes left to play. The Lionettes never gave up and were trailing Junction by 1 pt. with 5 seconds left to play. Elsa Fierro passed the ball in to Kaye Thompson who popped the net from the free throw line. The basket gave the Lionettes the winning point over the Junction Eagles.

Kaye Thompson was high point for the Lionettes with 17 pts. Also scoring in the double figures were Lori Clayton with 12 pts., and Lana Cole with 10 pts.

A LARGE CROWD WAS ON HAND Thursday evening at the Civic Center for the 17th Annual Ozona Chamber of Commerce Banquet. The event was the largest ever for the chamber. Guests enjoyed a barbecue dinner and all the trimmings, catered by members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and were entertained by Justin Wilson, Cajun humorist. Many out of town guests attended from around the area.

New pastor for Calvary Baptist

Rex A. Ponder is the new pastor at Calvary Baptist Church. Reverend Ponder is a graduate of Texas Wesleyan College and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

He formerly pastored at First Baptist Church in Harker Heights Texas and at First Baptist in Little River as well as Blue Ridge Baptist near Hamilton.

He has served with Texas Alcohol and Narcotics Education Inc., both as a speaker in local churches and as TANE's field day director.

His wife, the former Ruth Clifton of Fort Worth, is currently employed at Crockett County Hospital. They have two children, Carey and Hope, both enrolled at East Texas Baptist College in Marshall.

GUEST SPEAKER Justin Wilson, center, visits with Chamber of Commerce officers following his entertaining speech at the annual banquet Thursday. Mrs. Don Carlisle,

Record crowd at C of C banquet

The largest crowd ever was on hand at the Civic Center Thursday evening to enjoy a barbecue dinner and be entertained by the homilies of Cajun humorist Justin Wilson. Ticket sales amounted to 425, and around 400 were in attendance.

Veterans of Foreign Wars members who catered the dinner, had prepared food for 400 and every morsel was served to the crowd.

Justin Wilson proved to be every bit as entertaining as expected and drew rave notices from everyone who attended. Wilson, who has been a professional safety engineer for 38 years, said he began life as a hobo. He said much of his material he got from the late Will Rogers. He said Rogers told him "people don't laugh enough, especially at themselves." "He also said that I should have some serious thought in my presentation so that people would not think I was a complete fool," Wilson added.

On the serious side, Wilson attacked what he called the fourth branch of the government, bureaucracy, saying it creates apathy and decreases productivity. He said he made a special effort to talk to chambers of commerce in the United States, as their members truly represent the free enterprise system.

The auditorium was decorated with red, white and blue, and a large arrangement of red and white carnations with blue ribbons centered the head table. Miniature American flags were used as plate favors.

The event was noteworthy in instance, as the first woman president was installed to head up the chamber's board of directors. Lee Carlisle, who assists her husband, Dr. Don Carlisle, at Carlisle Clinic, was moved up to the president's spot from her previous position as executive vice president.

Outgoing president Clayton Robinson gave the welcome address and recognized out-of-towners from San Angelo, Odessa, Midland, Big Lake, Junction, Sonora, Eldorado, Austin and San Antonio, plus a couple from New Hampshire.

The drawing for the hunting knife was held and Robert Porter, Jr., of Midland was the winner. The chamber registers for the drawing during hunting season each year.

Nine door prizes were given, autographed record albums by Justin Wilson. Winners were Lane Scott, Mrs. Charles Sizemore, Woody Phillips, Kathryn Russell, Lynette Davidson.

Well, track and golf season are on their way. The boys will have their first track meet on the 27th of February.

Tuesday, February 17, will be the last game for the J.V. and Varsity Girls. They will play Menard, there. The Varsity Girls had a very good year and hopefully next year it will be the same. They are going to lose four of their starters, they will be Lori, Tilly, Kaye and Molly. We will miss them but just the same we have to work harder. The Varsity Boys will lose five of their players. They are Gary, Aldo, Jay, Burl and Richard.

We wish the varsity boys and girls good luck again next year.

Isn't it exciting-just eleven more weeks and school will be out. But then we have to come back and start another year. Let's try to make it the best for the seniors, after all it is their last year and then someone else will be the leaders.

INSIDE THE FBI

By Edwin Feulner

One of the most reviled government agencies in recent years has been the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Liberal journalists and politicians have engaged in a systematic wrecking campaign that has resulted in widespread disaffection with the agency, formerly held in such wide esteem, and the virtual crippling of its effectiveness in the area of domestic intelligence.

However, my travels beyond this region have alarmed me to the fact that a major part of the state is on the verge of a severe drought if a good soaking rain does not arrive soon.

San Angelo based wool buyer W.F. "Son" Drake said some of his buddies went fishing down past Juno and "found terribly dry conditions. What few weeds available for possible sheep feed are actually not out of the ground enough for them to obtain a bite."

Henry Clark of Del Rio comments: "Why its dry from Loma Alta to Del Rio and Brackettville. There is a strip south of Loma Alta which hasn't received any measurable moisture in two years."

Norman Diemel of Fredericksburg says that part of the Texas Hill Country "has been on the short end of the moisture stick as well. Our peach farmers worried through most of January, not only from the moisture standpoint, but too many warm days could possibly bring out early budding."

Peach trees require so many cold days each winter in order to produce in the summer. Of course, last year things were going well until hail and other weather problems spoiled the crop.

Speaking of Hill Country fruit, Froggie and Gene Jones operate an apple farm south of Junction. Last year they produced 2,200 bushels in their orchard. "It's too early to say what to expect this year," they say.

The Jones' neighbors, Bernell and B.L. Smith are making use of another product that is plentiful across West Texas-the Mesquite. B.L. is sawing up layers from elderly tree stumps, constructing legs and polishing them into beautiful coffee tables. He took one over to Froggie Jones, who happens to be an artist, and she painted a wild turkey on it.

Visiting the Smith ranch is always a treat. Entering over a cattleguard with a sign over it reading: Suits Us, the visitor approaches a beautiful native stone home. Below the hill are the barns and pens and stretching to the South Llano River are irrigated small grain fields.

I refer to the place as the Smith Zoo Ranch. The foundation is set deep in pedigrees of quarter horses. They spend most of their life in the breeding of horses from Hobo, Joe Moore and Chario Bill.

Rawhide Bo, P-136-847, and Smith's Don Bar, were longtime studs. But a few years back, after winning every major horse show in the nation, the Smiths decided they wanted to stay home and do fulltime hobbies.

The other day while visiting, we watched Four-Horned sheep graze on an oat patch near the house. (They originated in Spain about 1680.) Also near by were some Belted Galloway cattle which B.L. says came from Scotland. They have a flock of Mouflon sheep and a herd of Hereford goats.

Well, speaking of Texas products which are being utilized to bring in new or additional income, what about prickly pear? Like the Smith's unusual animals, and mesquite tables the Jones apples etc., Leroy Williams of Dimmit County in South Texas is making money with prickly pear.

I was visiting with his brother, Jack Williams of San Angelo recently. Jack says LeRoy claims the spine-laden cacti is a savior as an emergency feed. He uses pear as a supplement-not as the so-called "last resort" feed-and nurtures it in all his pastures.

"Pear allows grass to go twice as far," he says. "Cattle normally graze 12 to 15 hours a day. If you keep them on pear about eight hours their grazing time on grass is cut significantly."

A few years ago Williams cleared 800 acres and row-planted pear in 50-acre blocks. Each day he burns a sufficient amount for the herd to eat. Burning off the thorns with a butane torch makes the substance more palatable for livestock.

The moral of this column is: If you are living in a drought and don't have a few oil and gas wells pumping in your pasture, it might be a good time to look into some unused products on your range which may help out in the cost of living increases!

NEWS OF SCIENCE

Life without a heartbeat is now possible, thanks to a new type of blood pump developed by an Austrian scientist.

Professor Johann Navratil has been conducting research in Vienna on the problems of the "artificial heart," for the past 12 years. He recently disclosed his development of a pump which can serve as at least a temporary substitute for the heart.

An Austrian scientist has developed a new type of blood pump which performs normal functions of the heart.

After a heart failure, medication often is not able to restart the heart. Professor Navratil's mechanical pump can maintain blood circulation, enabling the heart to rest and heal completely.

So far, the device has been used successfully only in experiments with calves. The laboratory animals have lived for up to eight weeks while the device performed the functions of the heart.

Professor Navratil is working with membrane pumps which, he believes, could lead to development of a functioning artificial heart.

you and the LAW

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: Our tenants in a rent house gave us a $450 check, which bounced. Since the renters would not make the check good, we had them evicted. The judge issued a warrant for their arrest for the bad check, but that was three months ago, and nothing has been done. Is it true warrants are served at the judge's discretion?

A: The judge has no discretion over whether or when arrest warrants are served. Once the Court issues a warrant either the sheriff or the constable will actually serve the defendant. You could assist the officer serving by supplying current home or employment addresses for your tenants, along with their description and information on their car. This will enable the constable or deputy to locate and recognize the defendant.

Q: I sold my home when I got married and used the money to pay off the loan on my husband's house. Since he had purchased this property before we married, could I get my money back if we were to divorce?

A: At divorce you can claim a right of reimbursement for the money you spent on your husband's separate property, but you must prove it was clearly your separate money.

If your evidence persuades the Court that those dollars were yours before marriage, the Court will award that amount to you. You may then have an equitable lien against the house - that is, payable to you if it is ever sold - or there may be community dollars to repay you. The Court will not, however, order your husband to sell his residence to satisfy your lien.

Q: My husband and I are planning on a divorce but he refuses to leave our home and rent an apartment. Can he be forced to leave? What procedure should I take?

A: Once the divorce is final, the court will hear the party dispute concerning occupancy of the residence and will award temporary possession of the home to one spouse. The Court can then, upon motion filed by your attorney, enjoin your husband from occupying or coming about your home during divorce proceedings.

Your rights and the specific procedures in divorce should be discussed with an attorney. There are many remedies available to you once a divorce is begun.

Q: Is there any law against somebody parallel parking in front of my house without permission? People park there blocking off access to my mailbox, and the postman won't deliver the mail.

A: Unless there are local zoning restrictions or ordinances regulating that location, parking in front of your house and mail-

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

After last weeks hard freeze, sunny spring days should be in the offering soon, so I'm sure many of you are now making plans where and what to plant to have an attractive year around garden.

In our own West Texas area we can have beautiful season long color by combining both hardy and tender bulbs and annuals with perennials.

A perennial is a plant that blooms, lives and seeds more than two years. The term is generally applied to herbaceous perennials, which are ones that are non-woody and the top dies to the ground each winter, but resumes growth in the spring. Examples are phlox, peonies, day lilies, chrysanthemum and michaelmas daisy.

Some plant societies include tulips, hyacinth, and narcissi as perennial bulbs. Perennials include many of our most appreciated garden flowers. Some live on almost indefinitely, while others have a tendency to die out after a few years. Their relative permanence and long life in the garden have been their principle cultural assets. In this group we find many of our most beautiful and most dependable garden flowers.

Whether you have a long border or only a 2-foot one, you can easily get continued bloom in it by distributing bold back-bone perennials in groups of 2 or 3 of each variety, starting with such early to late subjects as iris, peony, day lily, phlox, daisy and mums.

Leave enough space between the clumps to plant early mid-season and late daffodils and tulips. Use the bulbs in groups of at least six each, placing them in the center of the bed so that later blooming perennials or annuals will hide their yellowing foliage. If these hardy bulbs are planted deep, the annuals can be planted over the undisturbed bulbs.

In between the bulbs and perennials, fill in with dainty flowers or contrasting foliages such as columbine and shasta daisy. To add a cooling effect use the gray artenusa (dasy miller) or gray-leaved santolina. Herbaceous perennials may be propagated by seed, cuttings, division of old clumps, layering, division of bulbs and rhizomes.

Chrysanthemums should be lifted and divided each year or new plants started from cuttings. Hardy asters should be divided every two or three years, iris every three or four years, phlox every five or six years. Day lilies may be left undisturbed for ten years, depending on the variety. Peonies and oriental poppies thrive for many years without being divided or replanted.

Perennials can be used with dramatic effect in many planting compositions such as accent plants, shrubby plantings, color around a bird bath, patio plantings, odd corners and drifts or masses against a wall or fence.

Debra Says

By Debra Price

Before you try to make your own window shades, consider several important factors.

First, spend some time choosing the correct fabric. Be sure to choose a firmly woven fabric. This is especially important for larger shades.

Looser weaves will tend to stretch and ravel more easily.

Next, be sure to make a test sample of your shade - and in doing this, consider several things by asking yourself these questions:

(1) Is the backing compatible with the fabric to produce enough, but not too much, body?

If the backing is too lightweight, the edges of the shade will ripple.

Also, if you don't want to use a backing, the shade may not have enough body to maintain shape alone, and liquid stiffeners often do not work well with fabric that has been treated.

(2) Do you want room-darkening shades?

Only commercial blackout backings can provide complete darkening.

Some fabrics are more translucent (light shows through them) than others. Hold samples up to light to check for color changes and light transmission.

(3) Have you considered sun fading?

Some fading can be expected over a period of time, but bright colors and dark ones are the most susceptible.

On the other hand, laminated shades are the most protected from fading, and light colors will fade the least.

(4) How much can you spend?

Add up your total costs.

Know what you are going to spend on supplies, and then compare that plus your labor, if you want to compare the total costs to custom-shade prices.

When you start to add up total costs, remember that tools you'll need include a roller, brackets, fabric, backing or stiffener, a slat, shade pull, perhaps trim, scissors, glue, a staple gun or tape, a carpenter's square and straight-edge guides, rulers, cardboard cutting board and an iron.

Finally, there are two other reminders before you start.

Arrange to work on a large work surface to avoid stretching the shade as you make it.

A shade hanging over the edge of an ironing board or table can be stretched easily, or distorted, and it is difficult to keep measurements and markings accurate.

Also, if you're making shades for short, wide ranch-style windows, consider placing fabric on a crosswise direction, if the design permits. Don't worry about the fabric stretching, since fusing, bonding or gluing it to the backing will stabilize it. This idea will allow wider shades than the usual fabric width of 45 or 54 inches with no splices.

The idea of mixing patterns is particularly appealing to decorators since nothing else displays professional skill so readily as the successful blending of different prints and patterns in the same room.

Despite the genuine skill necessary for manipulating several patterns there are certain ground rules to observe - rules that can enable the amateur to juggle prints in a room and create a professional look of her own.

Use a small, neat geometric pattern to offset and balance a bold floral one.

The secret, of course, is in repeating colors from one print to another and in changing from biggest to smallest scale when opposing prints are used.

Another trick, when mixing patterns, is to provide an "area of relief" in the form of an offsetting dark, plain color.

One decorator used oriental rugs and patterned upholstery in the same room for a color-filled atmosphere. This was balanced by the use of dark floors and wood pieces and some upholstery in solid, deep tones of green, brown and black.

In using more than one pattern in a room, the generous use of black and white and the added use of good taste are most helpful.

We can help you with decorating ideas of all kinds here. Come on in to Brown Furniture.

MAN or STATUE ?

Today we see Lincoln in heroic size. He appears almost more of a statue than a man — a great figure cast in bronze, with a furrowed brow and solemn countenance.

Yet Lincoln was a man. He walked the earth, and felt love and joy, but he knew tremendous frustration and almost insurmountable sorrow. He prayed, earnestly and effectively.

Throughout each crisis in his life, and there were many, he was sustained by faith. God seemed close to him, and he turned to Him often. He didn't pause to think about whether he'd go to church or not. He went.

Get the frozen yogurt craze

Go frozen-yogurt crazy--at home!

Frozen yogurt is a craze sweeping the nation, especially in the food-service world and particularly with the health-conscious.

Now, you can make it at home--and the sky is the limit on flavor and style creations, says Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Simply freeze plain yogurt in popsicle molds, or make homemade yogurt ice cream.

To make yogurt ice cream, follow directions for ice cream but substitute yogurt for milk.

For each quart of yogurt, add three cups of fruit.

Then freeze in an ice-cream freezer. Store in airtight containers in the freezer.

Don't overlook canned fruits, either, and remember that yogurt also is fabulous in frothy milk shakes, and it blends beautifully with fruit-flavored liqueurs for party-pleasing parfaits.

Recent U.S. Department of Agriculture studies indicate that yogurt is superior in nutritional quality to other fermented milk products, such as buttermilk--and to fresh milk.

However, many of the frozen-yogurt products do not measure up to this superior quality.

Additives and preservatives used by individual manufacturers seem to make the difference in nutritive value of frozen-yogurt products. The nutritive value is dependent on the amount of these products used.

Frozen yogurts are lower in saturated fat and cholesterol than regular ice cream, and yogurt calories are slightly lower than sherbet or ice cream.

For example, one-half cup plain yogurt has 110 calories, while one-half cup flavored yogurt has 120 calories.

On the other hand, one-half cup sherbet has 130 calories, while one-half cup of "16-percent-fat ice cream" has 165 calories.

Safety basics for microwaves

Microwave-oven owners can better ensure protection against radiation leakage when they know three "safety basics," says Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist.

Safety basics include new-oven testing, continual cleaning and door-damage prevention along with precautions for special situations. Special cases involve not-new ovens that have been moved, misused, not cleaned--or those that have suffered damage, especially door damage.

These ovens should be checked for radiation leakage by an appliance serviceman or by the consumer using an adequate detector.

Only detectors using diodes or thermistors--or an inexpensive detector that uses thin-film carbon resistors on a lighted crystal display (LCD)--work satisfactorily.

Detailing the three "safety basics," Mrs. Piernot makes these recommendations:

In buying a new unit, request a radiation check when the microwave is delivered to the home. Consider this as part of the dealer preparation of the unit.

Continually clean the door-seal surface every day or every week.

Bread crumbs, drippings and other food particles can drop on the door seal easily, and this makes an escape route for radiation leaks.

Keeping your microwave clean and preventing any door damage are the two best ways to assure microwave safety.

If your microwave has been moved, or if you buy a used model, ask for a radiation-leakage test by an appliance serviceman.

This will cost you a ser-

Procrastinators pay high price

Overcome procrastination in 1981 and become a "doer," suggests Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist.

"Procrastination is an effectiveness killer, and to some degree, we all do it."

"However, procrastination becomes a problem when you neglect or delay doing those things that are important to you," she points out.

Procrastinators pay a high price for indulging in this habit, she continues.

Perhaps the greatest price is the lack of enjoyment of the present while dreaming about the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

Other costs of procrastination are lack of accomplishment at the end of the day, boredom, anxiety caused by working under pressure, continuous frustration and a life of indecision.

Why do procrastinators do it?

Several reasons are continually used to explain why. Among the most common is to escape an overwhelming or unpleasant task, the spec-alist explains. Procrastinators always convince themselves that a more suitable time will come to get the job done or that there is something more pleasant to do.

Other reasons for procrastination are to gain sympathy from peers and supervisors, to get someone else to do the job, lack of adequately defined goals, and overcommitment of time or unrealistic time estimates.

How can procrastinators overcome this problem?

First, acknowledge the futility of procrastination, Mrs. Piernot advises.

Think positively about time and life. Success, enthusiasm and energy are much more enjoyable than frustration, fatigue and boredom.

Take action on daily tasks. Set goals and work toward achieving those goals, hour by hour and day by day.

Face unpleasant tasks. Break a task into a series of smaller tasks.

Take advantage of moods. Reward yourself, and refuse boredom.

Above all else, have the courage to act and make every day count, the specialist adds.

Mrs. Adams received a "Thank You" award for her service to scouting, a badge and a plaque.

Pins for service were awarded to Nikki Easterwood, 10 years; Debra Mayfield, 10 years; Pam Coates, 10 years; and Karen Childress, 5 years.

Special recognition went to the first class Girl Scout troop headed by Peggy Phillips. Troop members are Tammy St. Clair, Evelyn St. Clair, Margie St. Clair and Deena Beth Phillips.

Leaders present at the meeting were Charlotte Judd, Kathy Palmer, Cathy Carson, Cynthia Ramos, Nikki Easterwood, Debra Mayfield, Pam Coates, Hazel Allen, Tina Harris, Tonya Stephens, Terri Adams, The-lma Janes and Peggy Phillips.

The next meeting will be March 11, in the Janes home, when a first aid course will be taught.

Taxpayers who become sick or injured on the job and receive sick pay benefits from their employer must include the payments as income on their federal tax return, the Internal Revenue Service says.

The payments are taxable whether they were made directly by the employer or from a welfare fund, a state sickness or disability fund or an insurance company, provided the plan was paid for by the employer.

Benefits received under an accident or health insurance policy for which the employee paid the premiums are not considered taxable by the IRS.

More than 35 million receive monthly check

More than 35 million persons receive Social Security benefits each month. These benefits are paid because of income loss resulting from the retirement, death or disability of persons who worked and became insured for benefits under the Social Security program.

A major objective of the Social Security Administration has been and is the payment of each monthly benefit to the right person at the right time. Benefits have been paid each month for more than 40 years.

The U.S. Congress is responsible for the changes in the Social Security Act and for the financing of the money benefits that are paid to the persons who are insured under the program. The financial soundness of the Social Security program is a priority of the congress.

The actions of the congress concerning the Social Security program do much to reassure the American people that the program is financed properly and that benefit payments will be met. Those who receive benefits and those who will be entitled to receive them at some future date should have confidence that they will be paid.

Congress primarily bases its decisions concerning the financing of the Social Security program on the economic history of the country, current economic factors and predictions concerning the future economic conditions. From this wealth of information, provided by outstanding economists and financial experts, the congress amends the Social Security Act from time to time as required by the changing economic conditions of the country.

The performance of the economy in future years cannot always be projected with total accuracy because of the radical changes in events throughout the world that directly affect the economic growth of this country. For this reason, congress must remain alert to the needs of the Social Security trust funds to make sure adequate provisions are made for their protection against the changing economic forces at play throughout the world. For example, during periods of increasing employment, the amount of Social Security taxes paid into the trust funds increases and during periods of decreasing employment, the amount of Social Security taxes paid into the trust funds decreases.

Economic projections made at the time of the 1977 amendments were based upon a forecast that did not foresee the high rate of inflation that has been experienced during the last three years. As a result, the future status of the Social Security trust funds will, no doubt, require some changes.

Consider the cost-of-living increases that are given to Social Security beneficiaries: They are based on the consumer price index. The continuing inflation in our economy causes the CPI to rise, resulting in higher cost-of-living increases. The June 1979 cost-of-living increase was 9.9 percent and added $10 billion to the annual cost of Social Security benefits; the June 1980 cost-of-living increase of 14.3 percent will add more than $15 billion to the annual cost of Social Security.

Congress, through the 1977 amendments to the Social Security act, determined the amount of the trust funds that would be allotted to the old age and survivors insurance, the disability insurance, and the hospital insurance programs for the period 1979 through 1985. It is now apparent that more funds were given to the disability and hospital insurance programs than will be required to finance these programs and not enough was given to the old age and survivors insurance program.

This situation gives rise to the possibility of inter-fund borrowing which is being considered by the congress. If congress decides to permit borrowing among the trust funds, the cash flow problems of the old age and survivors insurance program will be solved by borrowing from the disability and hospital insurance programs.

Current projections substantiate that the three trust funds, OASI, DI, HE, taken together have sufficient revenues to meet all benefit commitments in the immediate future.

Congress has made many changes in the Social Security program during its 45-year history as it sought to meet the Social Security insurance needs of a great and growing nation. Naturally, many of these changes have been in the area of financing the program adequately. We can expect many changes in the future as changing economic conditions in a changing world indicate the need.

Marla Wilson led the scoring with 15 points. Others scoring were Tracy Cole, Teresa Lee, and Dina Flores.

The Cubettes defeated Menard 12-11 in the second game. Marla Wilson was high point with 7. Others scoring were Tracy Cole and Teresa Lee.

The 8th Grade Cubettes lost the championship game to Big Lake 22-18. High point was Marla Wilson. Tracy Cole had 5, Teresa Lee 4, and Dina Flores with 3. A fine defensive showing was made by Christy Parks, Rhonda Smith, and Rhonda Faries.

The 8th grade record was 6-9 for the season.

Sandra Augustine marries

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Augustine attended the wedding of their daughter, Sandra Jean Augustine of Midland, to Corus L. Schmidt of Harper, on February 6. Mr. Schmidt is the son of Mrs. Lee Schmidt, of Harper, and the late Mr. Schmidt.

The wedding was performed in the Harper Lutheran Church before members of both immediate families.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt are at home in Midland, where both are employed.

Prevent wood decay in homes

Home construction technology has increased tremendously during the past few years. Yet, many homes are being built without proper attention to preventing future costly repairs, points out Chuck Stayton, area wood products specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Lumber, plywood and other wood products used in construction are all subject to wood decay. This decay, caused by numerous fungi that break down the wood and feed on it, can lead to structural failure and expensive repairs.

"The best control of wood decay is keeping wood products dry in manufacturing, shipment and use," Stayton contends. "When the moisture content of wood is kept below 20 percent, most decay fungi are not able to decompose the wood."

Basic construction faults cause most decay problems in homes and other buildings. These mistakes allow excessive moisture to enter from the ground level or from rainfall.

Stayton notes six specific precautions to take to prevent soil moisture from entering a house.

"First of all, install wood siding at least 6 inches above finish grade. Make sure all other wood material is a minimum of 8 inches above the ground unless it is pressure preservative treated."

"Secondly, provide an 18-inch or higher clearance between floor joists and the soil in crawl space areas. Greater distance is even more desirable."

"Third, slope the outside grade away from the house to allow proper drainage. Ditching or drainage tiles may be necessary for some locations."

"A fourth step is to install one square foot of vent for each 150 square feet of enclosed crawl space. Place vents opposite each other and as near corners as possible."

"Next, use four to six mil polyethylene soil covers directly on the soil in enclosed crawl space areas and under all slab construction."

"Finally, take special precautions with earth filled porches, patios and flower planters, keeping the soil 8 inches below the level of all house structural wood members. Slope patios and porches away from the house to prevent standing water," adds the specialist.

Stayton also recommends six precautions in roof construction to prevent wood decay.

To begin, use wood shingles of a highly decay resistant species or some that are pressure treated when in high decay hazard regions. Also a minimum slope of 4 feet in 12 feet is needed to prevent water backing up under the shingles.

Secondly, provide enough roof overhang to sweep runoff away from the house. A 30-inch overhang is needed in regions of high temperature and rainfall such as the Gulf Coast of Texas.

Next, extend shingles at least three-fourths of an inch beyond wood members at the eave and rake of the roof to prevent rain water from flowing down the roof and curling under the shingle edge. Facia and rake boards should be pressure treated or of a high decay resistant species.

The fourth precaution is to make sure gutters are sloped toward downspouts to insure proper drainage. Keep gutters and downspouts free of leaves or other debris and allow them to empty onto splash blocks or into drainpipes.

Next, raise the siding 2 inches above the shingles at the intersection of two stories or between dormers and roof surfaces. Insert metal flashing which extends under the shingles and siding.

Finally, provide ventilation in attic areas. Vents, located at or near the roof ridge and at the eaves, should provide one square foot of vent for each 150 square feet of attic.

"Major decay problems that have plagued homeowners for years may be avoided by giving special attention to these problem areas," Stayton contends. "Studies have shown that failure to follow these guidelines causes most decay problems in residential housing. The best time to prevent decay is before the house is built."

COUPLE TO WED-Mr. and Mrs. Charles Preddy announce the approaching marriage of the daughter, Michelle Dannette, to Mr. Charles Everts Dees. The couple will be married Friday, Feb. 20, at 7:00 p.m. in the Rural Community House in Fort Stockton. The bride-elect attended Ozona High School and is presently employed at a bowling rink in Fort Stockton. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dees of El Reno, Oklahoma, and is employed with a drilling company in Fort Stockton.

Weed explosion near at hand

Some ranges are already sporting a lot of weeds, and a little rain in dry areas could bring a weed explosion.

So ranchers need to consider herbicides in their arsenal of weapons to fight pesky weeds which render rangeland unproductive.

"Most annual weeds can be controlled with the herbicide 2, 4-D if it's applied when weeds are small and growing rapidly," points out Dr. Tommy Welch with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Common broomweed is one of the most notorious annual weeds that periodically infests rangeland. In areas that received good fall moisture, common broomweed seedlings may be present. A heavy infestation of this weed will reduce grass production significantly and will reduce forage consumption by cattle in late summer and fall when the weed matures and forms the familiar "broom."

"Common broomweed can be controlled with 2,4-D when seedlings are 4 to 8 inches tall and growing rapidly," says Welch, a range brush and weed control specialist. "When plants begin to mature and develop a broom-shaped top in late spring, control is difficult. Thus positive identification of common broomweed early in the season and a timely herbicide application are keys to successful control."

2,4-D amine can be used effectively in areas that receive more than 25 inches of annual rainfall while 2,4-D low-volatile ester should be used in areas of less rainfall. A 2,4-D-dicamba mixture is a good choice for harder-to-kill weeds, when growth conditions are not ideal, or when annual weeds have begun to mature but have not flowered, notes Welch. Dicamba and 2,4-D can be tank mixed, or a 2,4-D-dicamba mixture (3 to 1 ratio) is commercially available under the trade name

Weedmaster.

"In addition to annual weeds, ranchers must also battle perennial weeds that infest some rangeland. Among these are Western ragweed and yankeeweed," says Welch.

2,4-D is a good herbicide for easy-to-kill ragweed while 2,4-D-dicamba is needed for yankeeweed.

Welch notes that ranchers sometimes do not get good weed control due to improper calibration of spray equipment or improper mixing of herbicide. So those applying their own herbicide should calibrate their spray equipment and read the label for proper mixing instructions.

Tambunga wins trophy

Roy Tambunga, a freshman at Ozona High School, was awarded a championship trophy at the Odessa Golden Glove Tournament, Saturday night.

The Ozona freshman was entered in the 170 pound Junior Division. He knocked out Danny Ariste of Big Spring, early in the second round. Roy was the only Ozona boxer to fight in the finals in that division.

Marcelo Hernandez lost a tough match to Alfonso Garcia of Crane in the open division. Gino Tambunga, Adrian Tijerina and David Tijerina also lost their matches Friday night, in the high school division.

The Ozona team will be entered in Sweetwater, Friday and Saturday at 7:00 at 301 W. Arkansas Street High School Gym.

Coaches for the team are Coy Tambunga and Monzo Galindo.

PBPA energy report

There has been some talk of decontrolling natural gas before the 1985 scheduled date. The Office of Management and Budget, under former Congressman Dave Stockman, proposes decontrolling natural gas prices by September 30th of this year. One private economist said that prices to both home and industrial users could possibly double if prices are fully decontrolled. American producers are being paid less for their natural gas than Canadian or Mexican producers.

The leader of the Republican Party in the Senate, Howard Baker of Tennessee said he would favor the decontrol of gas prices if there was a Windfall Profit Tax on gas. He said the tax, if passed, should remain in effect "at least temporarily." Senator Robert Dole of Kansas, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, was surprised at Baker's proposal of another Windfall Profits Tax and said he opposes an excise tax on gas. President Reagan is scheduled to make a decision of gas decontrol soon.

The Office of Management and Budget is also recommending that the 105 million dollar gas rationing program be terminated as quickly as possible. The OMB also favors reducing the Federal Government spending for solar development by 62% of funds to promote energy conservation by 65%. Other reductions would include slashing 9.1 billion dollars from the program to spur production of synthetic fuel from coal and oil shale. And they are proposing to sell oil bonds to private investors to fill the country's emergency oil reserve. This change would save the government 14 billion dollars.

The Permian Basin rig count last week was 377. One year ago it was 310.

SOIL COVERS CAN SAVE MONEY

A soil cover under a house keeps soil moisture from coming into contact with wooden floor members of the house, thereby serving as a barrier to decay.

Four to six-mil polyethylene sheets are commonly used for soil covers although roofing or kraft paper with plastic backing can also be used.

Homes built on high, dry sites with plenty of ventilation underneath don't require soil covers, but these are the exception, says a wood products specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Crockett County Care Center News

By Mary Wilton -Director of Activities & Social Care

What a way to start a week, with a gift, and what a nice gift it is and much needed, I might add. Dorothy Millsbaugh has presented the Care Center with a very nice IVAC thermometer. This electronic clinical thermometer is greatly appreciated by the entire staff as it will help make the work easier, thanks a million Dorothy.

Doris Karr and Liz Mary Pipes were the hostesses for our February birthday party honoring Gordon Smith 83, Evelyn Bryant 81, Hilario Cortez 89, Charles Brown 77 and Paul Cavin 93. Cake and punch was served to all the residents and their guests. Paul was presented with a letter to congratulate him on his 93rd birthday, from Governor Bill Clements.

This week in crafts we made some Valentines for the residents to give to their family or friends. Doris Karr and Dorothy Doll came to help with the cutting and glue. Everyone used their own ideas and made some very pretty Valentines.

Tuesday afternoon found the dining room full of people waiting to play bingo.

Bankers to sharpen skills

Bank loan officers will have an opportunity to sharpen their skills in agricultural lending at Farm and Ranch Management and Credit Analysis Workshops at Texas A&M University March 4-6.

The workshops run concurrently and follow the 29th annual Farm and Ranch Credit Conference for Commercial Bankers March 2-4, points out Dr. Richard Trimble, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Among discussion topics at the Farm Management Workshop will be the use of crop and livestock budgets in decision making, dealing with inflation in farm decision making, capital asset purchase decisions, and computers in agricultural decision making.

The Credit Analysis Workshop will deal with bank management computer simulation, analysis of financial statements, analysis of large complex and corporate loans, and problem loans resolution. In addition loan security updating will be discussed.

Both workshops will be conducted by Extension economists in management.

For information on these two workshops, contact Trimble in the Department of Agricultural Economics, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843 (713/845-8011.)

Our volunteers were Orphella Enriquez, Georgia Kirby, Alice Ross, Dorothy Doll and some members of the staff. Thanks to all.

Wednesday Bible Study was enjoyed by about 14 residents. A short sermon comparing the Bible to a compass and the continuing study of the Psalms was the topic.

We would like to thank the garden club for the nice pot plants they brought and Temple Jerusalem Women's Missionary Union for some very nice towels. Thanks also to the Chamber of Commerce for all the lovely flowers that they have placed throughout the lobby. The Big Lake First Baptist Church WMU has donated a box of beauty supplies for the use of all the residents. These ladies have been so nice to keep our beauty shop supplied with hair rinse, nail polish lotion and powder.

I would like to thank Dorothy Montgomery for coming on Thursday and reading to our group. Everyone enjoyed it very much, it was nice of her to take time out of her busy day to come.

Hazel Storms brought a delicious cake that was served as she, Dorothy Doll, Ruth Dorris and Maria Vitela were setting hair on Thursday morning.

Friday morning bingo volunteers were Liz Mary Pipes, Georgia Kirby, Dorothy Doll, and Alice Ross. They came early on Friday to fix popcorn and get the tables ready and the cards out. Frances Borrego was the winner of the $5.00 gift certificate donated by Watson's. Virginia Russell was the 2nd place winner and was given a pair of hose.

Sara Hignight was here Friday afternoon to play the piano and sing. Everyone always looks forward to her coming. She can really brighten up a room and make us all feel better.

On Saturday afternoon the family of Hilario Cortez gave a party complete with the Ybarra Band, cake and punch. A large crowd of friends were here to wish Hilario a happy 89th birthday.

I would like to thank Mrs. Farris, Ann Mayo and all the volunteers for doing such a great job during my absence. I was called out of town due to the death of my grandfather and they all have been so nice to take over for me. It sure is nice to have such good friends.

Sunday afternoon worship services were held in the lobby, presented by the First Baptist Church. Bro. Lanham brought the message and there was special music which was enjoyed by all.

Credit-card holders charged about $875.37 per year per credit card in 1979, or $72.94 a month on each of their 6.2 cards, resulting in a total of $5,427.29 a year.

Fuel mechanism may have defect

The manufacturer of "Unitrol" fuel control mechanisms used on certain liquid propane gas water heaters is renewing its efforts to publicize and correct a potential defect which may cause severe burn injuries and deaths resulting from explosion and fires.

Since 1954, when the fuel controls first were sold to hot water heater manufacturers, there have been at least 48 deaths and 89 severe burn injuries from explosions of water heaters equipped with these gas controls.

The program to replace the old gas controls with new ones is being conducted by Robertshaw Controls Company of Richmond, Va., in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. The manufacturer also is reissuing a national alert to warn consumers of the severe risk posed by continued use of water heaters equipped with the controls.

The warning covers the "Unitrol" model 110 and model 200 gas controls used to regulate the flow of LP (liquid propane) gas to water heaters. These controls, manufactured by Robertshaw's Grayson Controls Division of Long Beach, Ca., about 25 years ago, contain a potentially defective valve which can cause a gas leak and subsequent explosion and fire.

Approximately 1,000 of the potentially defective controls still are believed to be in use nationwide. Many of these controls may be found on water heaters located in rural areas, such as in homes, on farms, in vacation or weekend homes, or in hunting or fishing camps. (LP gas commonly is used to fuel appliances in rural areas due to the unavailability of natural gas lines.)

The potentially defective controls were sold to approximately 110 water heater manufacturers from December, 1954, through February, 1957. The controls include Unitrol models 110 and 200, showing any date code which includes the letters W or X, or the letter combinations LV, AY, BY or CY.

Consumers can identify the affected units by looking for "Unitrol 110" on the face of the control, or for "Unitrol 200" on the temperature dial on the front of the control. The controls are located near the bottom of the water heater. Date codes are stamped next to the gas pilot outlet which is located on the bottom side of the control and to the right. Use of a small mirror will aid consumers in reading the date code more easily.

In 1974, Robertshaw notified CPSC of the potential defect in the gas controls, and subsequently instituted a program to repair the devices.

Consumers who own LP gas water heaters should check the heater control to determine if a Unitrol model 110 or 200 with a date code mentioned above has been used. If so, consumers then should contact Robertshaw at its toll-free number 800-421-1130. In California call 800-262-1173. Following a free inspection, the firm will install new controls if appropriate.

Anyone wishing to verify the model numbers or the brand name should contact CPSC's toll-free Hotline at 800-638-8326; in Maryland.

Children of divorce need love and support

Children of divorce need to understand the arrangement of relationships in their lives and have help in knowing how divorce will affect them, a family life education specialist says.

Like death, divorce has been treated as "an unpleasant subject to which children must adjust"—often without help, Diane Welch stresses.

It may not be easy for parents to provide the needed help, either, she admits.

Parents are trying to get through their own personal upheaval. Objectivity and patience may be lacking.

Keeping the lines of communication open and honest is one key to helping children understand what is happening.

Parents should make a special effort to provide their children with generous doses of love and warm affection—along with consistency in behavior guidelines, routines, and expectations.

All of these are major needs of children. They cannot be overlooked during divorce.

Adolescents sometimes exhibit more obvious reaction to divorce than children of other ages.

Teenagers have a clearer understanding of what a family is and the mutual love and understanding it can provide for its members.

Divorce may shake the foundation of this belief.

Because adolescents are prone to pass judgment quickly, they may cut themselves off from their parents or side with one.

Sometimes loss of self-esteem and the emergence of self-blame are special problems the teen of divorce faces.

Parents must recognize these and other special problems and help their teens deal with them.

Another worthwhile way of helping teens cope with their parents' divorce is outside help from a support group. An experimental program sponsored by the Family Court of Allen County, Indiana, offered a workshop for children of divorcing parents.

Small group sessions were led by trained and responsive adults.

Children in the group learned about divorce through non-threatening films. They explored the effects of divorce in terms of emotional response, and they had time to discuss their thoughts with their peers.

Most of the youth were pleased with the workshop and said they felt it was helpful to them. Most said they would come again if they had it to do over.

In Texas, most communities have the resources to conduct such workshops for youth, Mrs. Welch says.

County Extension agents who coordinate educational programming based on county residents' major needs are available for group organization—as are church leaders and representatives of social-service agencies, she points out.

"If the need is there and groups are available, parents may wish to encourage participation—the benefits appear worthwhile," she concludes.

LIVING IN SPACE

A University of Texas astronomer, with visions of the future, says the day is coming when most people will live in space colonies and on other planets.

According to Dr. Harlan Smith, earth will be thought of as the "old country" when space colonization becomes a reality—provided the human race doesn't kill itself off in the next 50 to 100 years.

He says the advantage of building in space—no atmosphere or gravity to overcome—means massive structures can be built of lightweight materials comparable to plastic wrap or aluminum foil.

SSI payments for children

A survey of blind and disabled children receiving supplemental security income (SSI) payments shows that they have greater financial needs than other low-income children, Frank Upp, social security district manager in San Angelo, said recently.

The question had been raised during congressional debate on whether to include children in the SSI program. More than 200,000 children are now on the SSI rolls.

Interviews with the representative payees of 1,853 of these children reveal that transportation, clothing, and medical care are the three major types of extra expenses incurred; others include expenditures for school, babysitting services, and special equipment. The survey was authorized by the social security administration and conducted by urban systems Research & Engineering, Inc., Cambridge, Massachusetts.

The study also indicates that when SSI and AFDC payment levels are compared, children receiving SSI "are in some ways a favored group of low income children according to federal income security policy."

One of the special needs of disabled children highlighted in the report is for health care. "... 15 percent of the children surveyed do not receive Medicaid benefits. States have several options regarding Medicaid eligibility and some have chosen not to extend it to disabled children. Some of these children said they were able to get free medical care elsewhere, but it appears 11 percent of all SSI children remain without medical coverage."

The findings may be used as a basis for further research on policies affecting handicapped children in low-income families.

More information about SSI for children can be obtained at the San Angelo Social Security Office located at 2214 Sherwood Way. The telephone number is 949-4608.

Visitor spending up

Daily spending by auto visitors to Texas soared in the first half of 1980.

Texas visitors who averaged a week's stay coughed up $5.50 more per day for their trips in the January-through-June 1980 period compared to the previous year.

Tom H. Taylor, director of the Travel and Information Division of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation said out-of-staters who traveled to Texas by automobile spent an average of $63.11 per party per day. This was 30 percent more than they spent during the same period in 1979.

Although auto expenses took the biggest bite, 27 cents, from the visitor's travel dollar, food, at 23.6 cents, and lodging costs, at 23.2 cents, were not far behind. Entertainment and miscellaneous expenses accounted for the remainder of the visitor's dollar.

The figures, along with other tourism-related data, are detailed in a report recently released by the department. The mid-year results can be obtained by writing VIR Survey, DHT, Box 5064, Austin, Texas 78763.

"We won't know the total number of visitors or their aggregate expenditures in 1980 until later this year," Taylor said. "Those figures will be presented in our 1980 Report on the Texas Visitor Industry which will be released in late spring."

"However, the expenditure comparisons given in this mid-year survey indicate that visitors spent more travel dollars in 1980," Taylor said. "The increase in expenditures was much greater than the general rate of inflation."

Dallas, San Antonio and Houston, in that order, were the top three cities visited by out-of-staters during the first half of 1980. Oklahoma retained its number one rank as the state providing Texas with the most auto visitors.

Foreign visitors, excluding Mexicans, came primarily from Canada, West Germany and Great Britain in the first six months of 1980. The report doesn't include Mexican visitors since partial year figures on tourists from Mexico are unavailable.

STUDENTS DEVELOP EXOTIC FOOD PRODUCTS

Chances are you'll never taste pickled prickly pears as a garnish on your hamburgers, or mesquite bean jelly, fried chips made from grain sorghum, jalapeno-flavored candy or maraschino plums.

These are a few of the food product innovations that have been developed by a senior-level food sciences and technology class at Texas A&M University. While they are not available on supermarket shelves, that doesn't mean they aren't delicious.

The popular program teaches students that concepts of developing new products and overcoming the problems or obstacles encountered when seeing innovations through to final production.

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW
By Jerry Lay

Do you believe in fate? Here's a true, tragic basketball story about fate. In 1977, David Furr tried out for the University of Evansville basketball team but he injured an ankle and was dropped from the team. Then he became the team's statistician for home games only. On Dec. 14, all members of the Evansville team were killed in a plane crash on the way to a road game. Furr wasn't on that plane, and you'd say he was lucky to have injured his ankle, and lucky again that the university didn't take him to away games as a statistician. But right after the team's plane crashed, Furr was driving his car near Evansville. The car skidded on a patch of ice, collided with a truck and Furr was killed instantly. It seemed that David Furr's time was up whether he had made that fatal air trip with the Evansville basketball team or not.

I bet you didn't know... When you are ready to shop for a new car or pickup come by L-B Motor Co. and we will help you and give you the deal of the year. Also see our used cars...we have a large selection to pick from.
