Social Security has come a long way since its inception and the present program in no way resembles the original. What started out as a supplement to private pensions and personal savings, has become the principal income source of older Americans, a redistribution of income to the poor with subsidies for Medicaid and payments to lower income people paid out of its revenues. It is funded solely by payroll taxes, an enormous tax burden on the worker and his private employer. I say "private" because federal and state workers are not obligated to pay into social security.

In the last few days we've heard a lot of rhetoric from the news media about proposed changes in Social Security. The administration and the senate seem to be at odds about the biggest hot potato on the American political scene. But, alas, it has come time to pay the fiddler and everyone agrees something must be done.

The program has been mismanaged from the beginning. Starting in 1938 a retiring generation began receiving benefits without ever having paid into the system. Each subsequent generation has supported the retired generation, other programs have been funded out of social security funds. It has snowballed until the current unfunded liabilities are in the trillions, and in years to come there will be more people drawing social security than there are paying into it. The American worker, already burdened with boundless taxes, cannot continue to support the system.

The most ridiculous policy in the entire system is Social Security benefits for convicted criminals. Last year an estimated 30,000 prisoners received $60 million in Social Security benefits. The law allows inmates to receive disability checks if they can claim they are in a "rehabilitation" program. These are tax-free payments to convicted mass murderers, child molesters and other hardened criminals, whose daily deeds are already being maintained at public expense. How on earth can this policy be condoned by even the most liberal of liberals?

There have been several proposals to reform Social Security, most of which are going to hurt the retiree. This is who the program was originally designed to assist. Several leading economists have suggested splitting the program-paying welfare out of general funds and making social security a standard retirement program. Retirees would receive their payments, their employer's payments, plus interest. This seems only logical and fair, and is as it should have been in the beginning.

The tax-burdened American worker is already seething with resentment at climbing payroll taxes. The revolt should have been evident at the polls last year. I don't mean the public opinion polls, the voting booth polls. By now we all realize the public opinion polls are literally not worth the paper they are written on. Young people just entering the work force are hit hardest by the tax burden. They are shocked, and rightly so, at the imbalance between what they make and what they get.

We could go on forever about the injustice of it all, but we can all be sure reform is coming. The system is bankrupt and drastic action must be taken if the program is to survive in any form.

SPECTACULAR TRUCK WRECK one mile west of Ozona at high noon Wednesday sent fire trucks and emergency vehicles to the scene. This truck crashed through the guard rail and overturned before it burst into flame. The truck landed between I-10 and Hwy. 290. The driver, A. R. Wishart of Wharton, suffered cuts and abrasions and was still hospitalized Tuesday. Damage to the rig was in the thousands of dollars.

Soil Stewardship Week in progress

Soil Stewardship Week is being held nationwide this year May 24-31, according to W. R. Baggett, Jr., Chairman of the Crockett Soil and Water District.

Since 1955, Soil Stewardship Week has been recognized in millions of churches and schools across the nation. It is designed to focus on the nation's natural resource problems and to consider ways to solve them.

"This country must, at whatever cost, maintain the capacity of the land to produce food and fiber," cites the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) in its booklet for the 1981 observance. NACD sponsors Soil Stewardship Week in cooperation with the nation's 3,000 soil and water conservation districts.

"With our own population at 220 million and growing and with many regions of the world depending on the United States to supplement their food supply, the need to maintain our productive capacity becomes increasingly apparent," according to NACD.

Information and materials for the 1981 observance of Soil Stewardship Week are available from Rev. Larry Bailey.

MERCURY HITS 100

At 3:45 p.m. Tuesday, May 26, the mercury hit 100 degrees in downtown Ozona, a sure harbinger of the summer yet to come. Several days this month the temperature has been in the upper 90s, but Tuesday marked the first 100-degree high for the season.

GAVEL PRESENTATION-House Speaker Bill Clayton, right, presents Representative Susan McBee of Del Rio with a commemorative gavel, acknowledging her work as Chairwoman of the Calendars Committee of the House during the 67th Session of the Texas Legislature. Clayton said it was the committee system which provided leadership for the five-month session from Jan. 13 through June 1. Crockett County is in Mrs. McBee's 70th District.

FEATURE TWIRLERS for the Ozona High School band this fall will be this quartet, chosen during tryouts the final week of the school term. They will attend Texas Tech Band Camp July 12-24. Standing are Kathy Storms and Jacinda Marley. Kneeling are Teresa Lee and Jana Lilly.

B-1 BOMBER NEEDED

By Edwin Feulner

One of the great problems with which CIA Director William Casey must deal is the over-reliance of his agency in recent years on gizmos and gadgets, and its under-reliance on people.

As intelligence master Amrom Katz has noted, while the sophisticated electronic eavesdropping devices and supersensitive cameras and space-age satellites may be important, they are no better than the people who analyze the data the spy satellites collect.

The same case, I think, can be made for a new generation of manned penetrating bombers.

There are some, both within and outside the defense establishment, who argue that manned bombers are obsolete. Their space-age vision of war involves only a galaxy of pre-programmed war-making machines — killer satellites, death rays, and missiles of every description. According to the military modernists, a manned bomber is as out of touch with reality as the Red Baron, a view which is not only unrealistic, but perhaps fatalistic.

In other words, critics of the bomber reject the possibility — wrongly, I hope — that a war still might be fought which would involve something less than "them" lobbing a volley of missiles at us, and us lobbing a volley of missiles back at them. They reject the possibility that after committing our strategic forces to combat, we might change our minds, or reach a negotiated settlement before the doomsday scenario unfolds.

In fact, it seems they reject anything but all-out war, a war of machines rather than men.

While this is hardly a prevailing view, it gives substance to those who argue against a new generation of manned bombers to replace the fading B-52.

It is precisely the flexibility that a manned bomber offers that makes it necessary, however.

Unlike missiles, bombers are "slow to take offense," as strategic expert Francis Hoeser has noted. Missiles deliver their weapons payloads in a matter of minutes, but a bomber force takes 6-10 hours. While this may sound like a negative, it is really a plus, because this means bombers can be recalled if ordered by the National Command Authority, providing U.S. defense planners with the option to negotiate a de-escalation of hostilities before the bombers reach their targets.

In addition to its command flexibility, the manned bomber also gives the U.S. target flexibility. Missiles are usually pre-targeted. A bomber, on the other hand, can be sent wherever it is most needed, can be redirected in mid-course, and can be used to hit strategic targets that the enemy might re-use after our initial strike.

A final advantage to the manned bomber: it can carry an extraordinary mix of weapons — short-range attack missiles, gravity bombs, conventional munitions, and air-launched cruise missiles. This mix of weapons, say the editors of the NATIONAL SECURITY RECORD, enables the U.S. bomber force to suppress enemy air defenses with the use of long- and short-range missiles, and then "penetrate deeply" into enemy territory to strike interior targets.

For those of us who reject the doomsday scenario, it is obvious that a new manned bomber is needed to replace the aging B-52s. The proposed B-1 appears to be the best bet to do the job. The sooner Congress moves ahead, the better.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The much-discussed redistricting process has begun in earnest as the Legislature winds down towards a June 1 adjournment deadline.

Last week both the House and Senate approved plans, somewhat different, to redraw congressional boundaries for the next ten years in Texas. A conference committee will probably be named to work out a compromise.

Redistricting is regarded as a partisan process, but defining just what forces are at work is most difficult.

Although the House has a majority of Democrats, its congressional redistricting plan is generally thought to be unfavorable for at least three Democratic congressmen: Jim Mattox, Jack Brooks and Bill Patman, and it creates three new congressional districts which liberals believe are likely to be won by Republicans.

The Senate plan also weakens Mattox, who will probably be challenged next election by State Sen. Dee Travis.

Left out in the cold are minorities, who may file suit to have a district built to be won by a black or Mexican-American.

What appears to be climaxing is a political struggle between conservatives and liberals, for want of better labels, which cuts across party lines. Insiders say the three new districts could be won by a conservative of either party.

Less controversial was the plan approved by the Senate to redraw its districts. The House was expected to approve the plan for itself sometime this week.

Traditionally, the House and Senate each redistrict themselves, and the other chamber concurs. The final congressional plan, however, is reached jointly in conference committee.

Construction Fund

The House easily passed Speaker Bill Clayton's proposed constitutional amendment to fund construction at 17 colleges and universities. The bill also requires the University of Texas and Texas A&M University systems to share the Permanent University Fund with all institutions in those systems and raises bonding capacity from 20 to 30 percent.

An amendment by Rep. Don Rains will assure building construction for the 17 higher education institutions outside the PUF with an $80 million annual appropriation.

Clayton's bill may run into trouble in the Senate, where Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby dislikes dedicated funds of any sort.

Also approved was a measure by Wilhelmina Delco giving Prairie View A&M University, a predominantly black college, one-sixth of the PUF—to be taken out of Texas A&M's one-third share.

Tax Relief

The House voted 132-13 to allow local-option homestead tax exemptions as high as 40 percent. The measure is regarded as a safety net for local governments who are forced by the 1979 Peveto Bill to levy taxes on 100 percent appraised value of property.

The local option would be decided by local governmental bodies, such as city councils and school boards.

Passed in the form of a constitutional amendment, the concept must be approved by voters in November.

Governor Signs Bills

Governor Bill Clements last week signed two bills into law: one outlawing for two years the commercial fishing of redfish and speckled trout; the other allowing consumers to request cheaper, generic drugs at the pharmacy counter.

Two other bills supported by Clements went opposite ways in the legislative process: the effort to regulate money-market funds appears dead, but the Governor's wiretap bill showed signs of life in a Senate committee.

Erased Tapes

Getting the Senate to approve his nominees for state boards has always been a problem for the conservative Clements. Last week one of his nominees ran into trouble, but it wasn't Clements fault.

Clements has nominated McAllen Mayor Othal Brand to the Texas Board of Corrections, but opposition witnesses at a Senate subcommittee hearing last week testified that during Brand's five-year tenure, there have been 26 police brutality suits filed in that city . . . and 21 resulted in cash settlements or clear-cut court victories for the plaintiffs.

Moreover, Brand's home senator said Brand apparently violated a federal court order by ordering the erasure of tapes of telephone conversations at police headquarters. Sen. Hector Uribe can invoke senatorial courtesy to block Brand's confirmation.

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: My niece was seven years old when her parents divorced. She is now twelve and living with her mother. She now wants to go live with her father. At what age can she make this decision without interference from the Court?

A: A divorce case stays open until each child of the marriage reaches age 18, and the Court is available during that time to modify support, visitation, and custody orders.

The Court will allow a child of 14 to testify as to which parent she prefers, but the Judge need not be bound by that testimony. Always, when changed circumstances bring the child before the Court for a new hearing, the Judge will decide based on "best interest" of the minor.

The parents, however, may agree to custody changes and the Court will usually so order.

Q: It is very important to me to know if one week would constitute a valid common law marriage in Texas, that is, one from which I need a divorce. How about it?

A: A common law marriage is created in Texas when a couple lives together, holds themselves out as married, and intends to be married. All three elements must be present, and, of course, often one party will disagree as to his or her intention or agreement to marry.

An annulment may be a better solution than a divorce in your case. This would be a court decree that the marriage was void from the beginning, and you may proceed as if it never existed. You and your partner might even design statements, signing under oath, that no marriage existed, and neither will make claims for future property or child support.

Q: If I entered into a pre-marital contract stating that any of my earnings such as salary or interest made during the marriage belonged 100% to me, would the contract be binding? Would my husband have a claim?

A: November 4, 1980, Texas voters approved a Constitutional Amendment allowing a couple, before or during marriage, to agree that future earnings, and future interest from separate property, would belong solely to ONE. Until this amendment, spouses and engaged persons could not partition in advance: now they can.

Whether the contract to partition will hold up to a challenge depends on how carefully it is drawn. It should disclose all assets and their value, it should use formal words of contract, and I would recommend independent counsel represent each spouse.

Q: Our father married a younger woman after he divorced our mother a few years ago. His will gives everything to this second wife. She is supposed to do the "right thing" and leave everything to us, but we don't believe she'll do that. Can the will be broken after his death?

A: A correctly drawn and witnessed will ordinarily survives all challenges to its provisions if the Court is convinced your father signed it as his own free act, without duress, and that your father was legally and mentally competent to make a will.

You may suggest another approach to your father: that he leave everything to his new wife in a lifetime trust, and on her death, his own children inherit. This lifetime trust will give her support and enjoyment of the assets, but no control over where they go at his death.

Q: Is it a violation of state or federal law for a physician to deliberately write a prescription for a fictitious person?

A: Texas law prohibits obtaining or possessing dangerous drugs fraudulently or by forgery. By extension, a physician would probably be in violation of that statute if he prescribed knowingly for a fictitious name.

In addition, federal law makes it a criminal act for anyone, including a physician, to write a prescription that contains false information.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Jerry Lay

Who's the only athlete in history who had this unique distinction...He played quarterback in the National Football League and he managed a baseball team in the World Series? Answer is Charlie Dressen. Dressen was a quarterback for the Chicago Bears in 1920, and he managed the Dodgers in the 1952 and 1953 World Series.

Surprisingly, no big league baseball team ever wore numbers on their uniforms on a regular basis until the Yankees started the trend in 1929. The Yanks numbered their players in the order they came to bat, so 2 of the most famous numbers in history - Babe Ruth's No. 3 and Lou Gehrig's No. 4 - came about because they batted 3rd and 4th in the lineup. The rest of the American League adopted numbers in 1930, and the National League started using them in 1931.

Tips For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Now that our country is so beautifully covered in grass and many flowers, we are hoping some showers will appear before the end of May to keep it all alive, green and flourishing.

Keep daylilies well watered now that they are coming into bloom, if no rain. Though the flowers stay open only one day, they are one of my favorites. It seems less care is required, and no insects or diseases bother them. If you select varieties of early, mid-season and late blooming, they will be flowering for months.

You can extend the flowering period of annuals by pinching back growing tips. Some of these are ageratum, phlox, petunia, zinnia, calendula, verbena, dianthus and snapdragon. Coleus are grown for their colorful leaves. Pinching out the bloom spike just above the first two leaves promotes stockiness and prevents the plants from going to seed.

The most important thing of all to do now is to stir your soil in both vegetable and flower gardens. Be careful not to disturb the roots, but this cultivation helps growth and protects tender plants from damage by wind if soil is packed and crusted. Cultivate following each rain or watering as soon as workable.

Beginning gardeners hate to thin plants because it seems wasteful. But if you let every sprouting seed grow, none will develop properly. Select strongest plants to save and determine the proper space required.

Ferns have become quite popular again for indoor and outdoor plants. The maiden hair ferns are among the most attractive. These ferns have few problems. They do need a shaded location, moderately moist atmosphere, and cool growing temperature. Soil should be composed of equal parts rich loam and leaf mold and kept steadily moist. Feed ferns only lightly once or twice during the growing season. The native ferns of our area do well if transplanted here.

June planting days:
Above ground crops: 4, 5, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14.
Root crops: 1, 18, 19, 23, 24, 27, 28.

Round-up time 4-H style

It's "roundup" time in Texas 4-H style.

To some 1,500 boys and girls across Texas, State 4-H Roundup is a highlight of their 4-H careers, points out Dr. John T. Pelham, state 4-H and youth leader with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. It's a time to "show off" their skills and expertise that they have acquired through long hours of study and practice, including winning top honors in county and district competition.

4-H Roundup brings together the top talents in the state to compete in 38 different contests and events, ranging from demonstrations in agronomy, horticulture and poultry to judging soil, dairy cattle, horses and livestock.

The 35th annual Texas 4-H Roundup is June 2-3 on the campus of Texas A&M University. Activities begin with the State 4-H Food Show and State 4-H Project Show the first day.

The food show allows members to exhibit food dishes they have prepared and to answer questions about nutrition as posed by judges. In the project show hundreds of 4-H'ers prepare exhibits and displays showing their particular project interest, ranging from aerospace to photography and woodworking, and including crafts of all types, notes Pelham.

Special awards and scholarships will be presented at an opening assembly the first evening at 7 p.m. in Rudder Auditorium. Scholarships totaling $331,000 will be presented to 67 4-H youth. These scholarships are provided by friends of 4-H from businesses, industries and organizations.

The heart of Roundup, the 38 contests and events, will begin bright and early the next morning. Top teams and individuals in these events will be recognized at a special assembly that evening at 8 p.m.

Two outstanding 4-H adult volunteer leaders from each of the 14 Extension districts will be recognized at a special luncheon June 3. Some 20,000 individuals serve as 4-H adult volunteer leaders in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Evert White returned Sunday from a plane tour of several resort towns in Mexico. They were accompanied by their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Ogilvy of Odesa.

Debra Says

By Debra Price

Recent Texas storms and their damage in terms of human lives and property destruction remind us that storm warnings are a key to preventing much of the possible disaster.

But we have to use the key to make it work: we must pay attention.

Tornado-related deaths have dropped by 42 percent since the National Weather Service Tornado Warning System was created in 1953, but, unfortunately, many people still do not heed the warnings.

Here are some: Tornado Watch means there is the threat of a tornado developing in a particular area. Once a funnel cloud is sighted, a tornado warning is sounded.

Tornado warning means a tornado has been sighted in the area. With the warning, local TV and radio stations usually give information on the location and direction of the tornado. Seek shelter immediately when you hear a tornado warning.

Open country - In open country, move away from the tornado's path at a right angle. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression, such as a ditch or ravine. Do not stay in a car or mobile home these are poor shelters.

At home - Seek shelter inside the house in a storm cellar or basement or in a center hall, closet or center room. In the basement, the corner toward the tornado offers the greatest protection. Stay away from windows. Do keep some windows open to allow for air pressure changes.

At work - Take cover in a steel-framed or reinforced concrete building. Move to sections of the building where there are internal walls with the greatest support. Avoid rooms with large free-span roofs and avoid areas where there are windows.

In school - Since Texas is a "tornado state," check to be sure your schools have tornado drills. Safe places for children in schools are basements. If there are no basements, teach children to stay inside away from windows. An interior hallway on the lowest floor is the best place when there is no basement. Avoid auditoriums and gymnasiums with large roofs.

Brought To You By Brown Furniture

You can improve a room's looks by having some furniture pieces in vertical shapes as well as horizontal shapes.

Make sure your rooms are not dull and boring. Flowers, a new furniture piece, new colors can bring excitement and interest to your rooms.

Many people don't take advantage of the space they have. For instance, a slim cabinet or etagere might be used in wasted space near doors to hold a variety of essentials or accessories.

A new slogan in the furniture industry is "you'll love the new love seats". The size of love seats gives you more versatility in decorating a room. Don't forget to consider a love seat or two for those hard-to-decorate spots.

Come into Brown Furniture for all your furniture needs.

BREAK OUT OF YOUR SHELL

If anyone is an expert at bringin' new folks to church it's Charlie Reeger. Last week Charlie had a neighbor there who hadn't — as the expression goes — darkened a church door in years.

"The secret's simple," says Charlie. "Most people who don't worship God — it's not that they don't believe. Just that their weekend routine has become a shell shutting them off from God."

Charlie says he's no great evangelist. He's just warm and friendly and very positive about the importance of faith. He invites folks to church. God does the rest.

One of these mornings a very compelling voice within you may say: "Break out today . . . break out of your shell and join Charlie Reeger in church."

That can be the beginning of a new life!

Credit record a must for widows, divorcees

Her own credit record is a "must" for the woman who is widowed or divorced, so it's important to establish one early, advises Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist.

"Because some women have no independent credit history, they may find credit accounts they've shared for years with their husbands suddenly terminated upon death or a divorce," the specialist explains. "This sudden loss of credit, often when they need it most, can create a tremendous strain on the budget and the emotions," she adds.

Mrs. McCormack is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

for building a credit record: Start your credit history in your own name—for example, Carol Bryan White, rather than Mrs. William White or just Carol White.

Open a savings account and a checking account in your own name. Add to the savings account regularly, and don't overdraw your checking account. These two steps will demonstrate your ability to manage money.

Apply for a charge account at a local store. Pay bills promptly and in full so no finance charge will be assessed.

In addition, apply for a gasoline or national credit card and use other accounts as references.

Your credit history is a record of your payments on credit cards, charge accounts, installment loans and mortgages. It's important to keep all payments current so your credit history will show you to be a responsible financial manager.

Many creditors rely on this credit history—or "track record"—in deciding whether to approve credit for you when you request it.

In most cases, a local credit bureau gathers credits information about you and sends it to creditors who ask for it.

Here's another step to protect yourself: ask your creditors to report credit information in both spouses' names. Ask your credit bureau for a form requesting this be done on accounts opened before June 1, 1977.

Accounts opened after that date usually are reported in both names, although it's a good idea to check with your credit bureau occasionally to make sure this is being done.

Spring Summer Fall or Winter your filter can get dirty, clogged, waste energy...

but a clean filter saves energy, money.
The purpose of a filter on your air conditioning or heating air blower is to help catch dust and dirt before it can enter your unit. In time, the filter will accumulate dust and dirt... if it gets clogged, it can't do the cleaning job it's supposed to and uses more electricity. To avoid damage to your unit and to save energy and money, be sure filters are clean. Permanent types can be cleaned according to the manufacturer's instruction. Non-permanent types should be replaced. It is wise to check filters every 30 days.

Del Rio is site for International Roundup

June 30 has been set as the pre-registration deadline for the International Rancher's Roundup, a broad-based educational conference scheduled August 10-14 in Del Rio. Ranchers who return their tax-deductible registration fees for the Roundup by June 30 will receive a $50 discount. Because of the approaching deadline, ranchers are urged to send promptly for their pre-registration packets to IRR, P.O. Drawer 1849, Uvalde, Texas 78801. Headliners confirmed thus far among the 110 speakers from five countries and six states are South Africa Foreign Minister P. Botha, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown and State Representative Susan McBee of Del Rio. Foreign Minister Botha has been in Washington conferring with State Department officials and appeared on NBC's nightly News recently. Numerous other invited dignitaries including Agriculture Secretary John Block, Governor Bill Clements and U.S. Congressman "Kika" de la Garza are unconfirmed at this time.

Control pecan nut casebearer in county

Insecticide application for control of the pecan nut casebearer in Crockett County should be made on May 25 to 31, according to Billy Reagor, Crockett County Agent.

Control measures should be applied to control the small casebearer larvae just after the larvae hatch from the eggs and before they begin to tunnel into the nutlets (two days after hatch).

There will be some difference in the time that casebearer hatch between pecan varieties within orchards and in home yards. To determine the best time to control casebearer, the nutlets should be inspected daily for eggs and the first casebearer damaged nutlet. When the first damaged nutlet is observed, control measures should be applied. A thorough job of inspection must be done or casebearer will cause considerable damage before the damage is detected.

Homeowners can use Zolone, malathion or carbaryl (Sevin-R) for casebearer control. Commercial producers may use azinphosmethyl (Guthion-R) carbaryl, endosulfon (Thiodan-R), malathion, phosalone (Zolone-R) or Torak-R. Follow the directions on the label for mixing and applying the spray treatment.

Zinc can be applied to the foliage of pecan trees when applying an insecticide for casebearer control. Regular zinc applications are needed for good development of pecans in Crockett County.

For further information on pecan pests and their control, contact Billy Reagor, Crockett County Extension Agent (2-2721).

Crockett County Care Center News

By Mary Wilton-Director of Activities & Social Care

Tomasa Ramos has spent most of her time at the hospital visiting her daughter, Lelia, who is a patient there. Wednesday afternoon there was a party held in the room complete with a birthday cake and gifts. Sorry you had to spend your special day in the hospital Lelia and we all hope you will be well soon.

Leona Harris has enjoyed visits from her daughter who lives in San Angelo, the past two weeks. Nila Turnell received two very pretty blouses from a friend who lives in Big Lake. Louise McWilliams went to the beauty shop and returned with a new permanent in her hair, it sure looks good.

This week in crafts we did some decoupage, which I had never done before so Frances Borrego gave instructions to those who needed help.

Now that school is out we hope that some of the high school girls will come and do some volunteer work. We can use someone who would like to read, polish nails, write letters or help with crafts.

I've noticed that Maude Pettit and Nila Turnell have been taking walks around the care center and hospital on these warm afternoons. They usually stop in front of the hospital and rest on the bench there while they talk.

Alice Ross is our volunteer of the week. Alice has been helping with bingo for a number of years, every Tuesday and Friday. She not only helps us play but also makes sure that everyone is in the dining room on time. Alice always has time to visit with the residents that are sitting in the lobby or in their rooms and makes sure that everyone has a bowl of popcorn. Alice is a very special friend to all of us, she gives so much of her time and love, we all appreciate her. It's people like her that make our home such a nice place to live.

Grace Cotter was the winner of the gift certificate donated by Watson's for winning the most games of bingo. Evelyn Bryant won second place and was given a gift purchased from our ac-

Gravity of the condensate is 60.3 degrees.

Production was through perforations at 8,149-8,260 feet, which had been acidized with 400 gallons.
