Ozona man loses son in accident

An Ozona man, Tommy Sessom, suffered the loss of a second son in the space of three months in an industrial accident, when his 21-year-old son, Tommy Mack Sessom, was killed in an accident in Casper, Wyoming, July 28. The other son, Bobbie Joe, was killed May 26, in an electrical accident in Big Lake.

Young Sessom died about half an hour after he was admitted to the Natrona County Memorial Hospital at 9:36 a.m. July 28. A hospital spokeswoman said Sessom was admitted to the hospital with chest injuries. She said Sessom was working on a rig with a crane when a steel beam fell on his chest.

Services for Sessom were held Saturday at 10:00 a.m. at Memorial Chapel in Casper, with burial in Memorial Gardens Cemetery.

He was born Aug. 3, 1959, in Sonora. He moved to Casper in 1969, and attended schools there.

Survivors include his wife, Vicki, to whom he was married in 1978, and one daughter, Nicole Marie Sessom, both of Casper; his mother, Martha Walker of Medicine Bow, Wyo.; his father of Ozona; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Swain of Eldorado; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Hattie Martin of Eldorado; one sister, Cynthia LaFavre of Mills, Wyo., and one brother, Jerry Walker of Medicine Bow.

Mr. and Mrs. Sessom returned to their home in Ozona late Sunday, after motoring to Casper to attend the services.

OZONA'S ANNUAL RODEO PARADE fell flat this year, with only kids, contestants and horses falling in line. There were one or two old vehicles, but no music and no pomp. Just a carbon copy of last year's parade. Perhaps that's why very few came to watch. However, the rodeo to follow was quite a success, according to officials.

BLACK LUNG BOONDOGGLE

By Edwin Feulner

Despite the long coal strike that halted mining operations in many Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania coal fields, U.S. ports are still congested with ships waiting to pick up coal cargoes.

With the OPEC oil cartel unlikely to lower its prices in the years ahead, and a variety of obstacles still plaguing the nuclear power industry, the demand for coal undoubtedly will increase.

All this would seem a blessing, both for the domestic economy and the industrial world, which could become that much less dependent on Middle East oil supplies.

It is a blessing with extremely high hidden costs. Energy analysts believe that 70 percent of the remaining coal in the United States, in terms of energy value, lies east of the Mississippi River. But as the authors of the Center for Strategic and International Studies' National Coal Policy Project point out, most of this coal can be recovered only by deep mining.

This means miners going down into those mines. Mining, of course, is a dangerous and dirty way to make a living — much more dangerous and dirty than working in a nuclear power plant, for example. Helped along with some very organized arm-twisting by big labor, Congress blessed coal miners several years ago by giving them their very own disease — Black Lung Disease — and setting up a black lung disability trust fund to provide assistance to coal miners who are disabled by the disease.

The trust fund is supposed to be financed by a tax on coal production, which is 50 cents per ton for underground coal and 25 cents per ton for surface-mined coal.

As is so often the case when the federal government decides we have a problem on our hands, establishing the trust fund created an immediate black lung epidemic. And claims against the fund produced a three-year deficit of $956 million at the end of fiscal 1980. The Treasury had to weigh in with a loan to bail out the fund. Projections by the Office of Management and Budget suggest that under existing law, this deficit could grow to more than $9 billion by 1995.

The Reagan Administration already is catching flack for suggesting that perhaps the program is just a little out of control. It has suggested something absolutely dastardly: "restricting benefits to those who are truly medically disabled by black lung," and ensuring that the program is financed entirely by a reasonable levy on the coal industry — some of which, of course, will come out of our pockets in higher utility bills and other costs passed on by domestic coal users, and some of which will be passed on to overseas customers.

The goal of the administration is to eliminate claimants with questionable disabilities and to make the trust fund self-sustaining. Next year alone, the changes could save U.S. taxpayers $400 million, according to Heritage Foundation analyst Peter Germanis.

But what about the black lung epidemic, you ask? The answer lies in a recent study by the General Accounting Office, the Congress' financial watchdog agency. The study reported that in one sample, 88 percent of the people claiming black lung benefits were either not disabled or could not prove they had the disease.

You see, coal miners are now allowed to receive benefits even if X-rays show no sign of black lung disease. The administration wants to put an end to this.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Last week the Legislature passed the Medical Practice Act and prepared the finishing touches on the Water Trust Fund bill. . . but much work is left to do on three other controversial issues.

The House was expected to concur with Senate amendments to the water trust bill early this week. Two down, three to go.

Heavier action will surround the remaining three issues: congressional redistricting, repeal of the ad valorem tax, and property tax reform. In fact, some insiders say it's possible that no agreement will be reached on the two tax issues. Others say the Governor is preparing to expand the agenda, once all five major topics are cleared.

Once again, as the Legislature heads for the deadline, no one really knows what will happen.

But one man who obviously knows more than most is House Speaker Bill Clayton, once again the center of action. Clayton announced last spring he will not seek re-election, but if he's a lame-duck speaker, you sure can't tell it.

So far he has gotten his wishes on every topic, or most believe that he has.

When the powerful doctors' lobby, the Texas Medical Association, put its foot down against allowing optometrists to use diagnostic eye drugs, Clayton stepped in. His optometrist, who is also his campaign treasurer, persuaded Clayton the eye drugs were important. The result: a compromise allowing optometrists to use diagnostic eye drugs under standing orders from a physician. The optometrists, for their part, accepted full liability.

Ad Valorem Repeal
If the state's 10-cent ad valorem tax was dedicated to welfare or food stamps, the Legislature would have surely repealed it long ago. Instead, the tax is dedicated to construction for 17 state colleges and universities, a fundamental element of Texas social order, and legislators are reluctant to repeal because they can't find an alternative source of funds. A Senate subcommittee is expected to be a rural-urban battle with Rep. Lynn Nabers of Brownwood leading the opposition against the sponsor, Wayne Peveto of Orange.

Tax Reform Bill
If redistricting is the most partisan issue, proposed reforms of the Property Tax Code is surely the most technically difficult. Many of the kinks have been worked out in committee. It is expected to be a rural-urban battle with Rep. Lynn Nabers of Brownwood leading the opposition against the sponsor, Wayne Peveto of Orange.

Notice to Bidders
Bids concerning bonus, delay rentals and royalty will be accepted by the Crockett County Consolidated CSD on August 11, 1981, at 7:30 p.m. at the School Administration Building on all or part of approximately 17.7 acres of land in Crockett County, Texas, owned by said District for oil and gas lease of the primary term of 2 years.

Bidders may bid on any portion and must present with their bid a legal description of the acreage they are bidding upon. Additional information concerning specific requirements needed in a proposed lease and a copy of the proposed lease provisions may be secured at the Office of the Superintendent of Schools.

The Board reserves the right to refuse any or all bids. Signed: Joe Bean, President Crockett County School Board

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

August 3, 1981
Dear Kitty, Enclosed is my check for a year of the Stockman. I've read this paper for so many years I would be lost without it.

Mattie Cooper, Rt. 4, Plaza Apt. Q, Clyde, Texas 79510

July 28, 1981
Dear Kitty, As an employee of Crockett County, I take exception to the comment you made about the "overpaid county employees."

Contrary to popular opinion, 1981 is NOT the only year in this century that major league baseball was stopped for a long time. In 1918 big league baseball was suspended during the season because of World War I. An oddity of that season was that Babe Ruth hit just 11 homers all year--and that was good enough to win the home run championship because nobody else hit more than 10 that year.

The RN and the administrators make good salaries, but the people on the lower levels of nursing, clerical, kitchen and housekeeping services are just getting by.

We are wondering "what happened to our raise?" Why was such a large increase given to two people, and the rest of us were not given anything?

It's all well and good to say that the hospital and nursing home aides do a good job, and that they are to be commended for the superior care they give to their patients, but I'm sure they would like something of a more tangible nature to deposit in the bank.

While it is true that they gain a personal sense of satisfaction from their work, they also have families to care for, and it can't be done on $3.45 an hour.

So often we have heard that the services we render are worth more than we could possibly be paid, and if you have any elderly relative who requires care, you know that home care is virtually out of reach to most individuals.

While compliments are treasured by us, and our patients are loved by us, we would like to know why we can't have a decent standard of living. It's true that nobody forced us to take this job, and we could leave at anytime, but there are people who need us, and for some of us that is pretty important.

Our occupation is unique, in that the emotional makeup of an individual is vitally important to the success of our work. A person who has to worry about making a pay check last from pay period to pay period, and hopes that nothing will be disconnected, discontinued or repossessed, is not able to give the undivided attention that you people who pay the hospital bills are entitled to get.

The public needs us and we need you. We would like to know what value you would put on TLC and patience. We feel our work is genuinely appreciated by those who have had contact with us, but you can't fairly make a judgement of our worth if you haven't seen us work.

If you want to find out what we really do to earn our money, come and observe. I have a feeling that you would be among the first to admit that we are entitled to a more fair share of the county dollar.

Ours is not a prestigious job, but it has to be done. We are willing to perform tasks that you would find repugnant, as well as offer comfort to the hurting and affection to the forgotten. In turn we would like to be considered as worthwhile people who are worth more than we are getting.

If you could find out the reason for all the raise money going to Mr. Rumley and Mr. Conaway please tell us. We would like to know too. Please withhold my name, I need my job.

[Ed note-I really did not have hospital employees in mind when I wrote the column last week. I didn't intend to place the working staff at the hospital in the category I had in mind. Forgive please?]

I did appreciate your notice in the Stockman to jar my memory of possibly long past due subscriptions. Please continue Bonnie's (Buddy Baldrige, Bonnie's (Buddy Baldrige, Missquite Grave, Clairemont Rt., Snyder Tex.) and our subscriptions for two more years each. We have and do appreciate your enduring efforts for the betterment of our community. Sincerely, Norma Carson

Tips For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Again we are in the last month of the summer, and fall will be fast approaching. Although we haven't had good showers the last several weeks, up to now we have missed hot, drying winds as we do sometimes.

When summer is hottest, perennials are at their lowest, except phlox. I hope you have been enjoying the huge, white and dark clusters of color in many yards. You can depend on the garden phlox for borders or natural landscape and they will stay in bloom for weeks. They will last longer if fading flowers are kept removed.

Hybrid selections are available in a variety of colors and white. Get your seed to sow in late fall because they need exposure to cold before they germinate in the spring. Sow seeds in porous organic soil in fall sun to light shade. When seedlings are 2 or 3 inches tall, thin them to 2 feet apart and transplant the extras.

Another flower that with stands our summer heat is the madagascar periwinkle. Planting time is usually early spring, but you can sow seeds now for Autumn flowers. In catalogs they are often labeled as (Vinca) and generally separated into three groups based on plant height. Bush, dwarf and creeping. Unlike other annuals periwinkles do not respond well to a lot of water and fertilizer. They like poor, slightly dry soil, so if you water or feed too much, flowering won't be as profuse.

Either full sun or partial shade is fine, but do better in sunny location. If planted this month, sow seed directly in the garden and keep well watered and they should begin to bloom in 3 to 4 weeks. Use them in masses as the foreground of a garden border or in window boxes and other containers.

Keep feeding mums about every 10 days until color shows and also give plenty of water.

To have a fine showing of fall rose blooms, they need to be kept well watered and a light application of 5-10-10 fertilizer (1/2 cup per plant, lightly worked into soil).

Mary Leigh Kirby and Joyce Young asked me to announce the meeting of the Progressive Club, Wednesday, August 12, 12:00 noon at the Civic Center. The Ozona Emergency Medical Technicians will present the program on Health and Safety. This month's luncheon will be salad. Bring a salad and the drinks will be furnished.

The Progressive Club is a new group organized especially for working people. The club meets every second Wednesday of the month at noon at the Civic Center. The program is presented during the noon hour. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Last month Janice Payne, presented an excellent program on cosmetics. Next month's program will be on "Care of House Plants."

The Crockett Heights Extension Club will meet September 1, Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at Liz Mary Pipes home. I will be presenting the program on Machine Embroidery, Monograms, and Appliques. The Crockett Heights Club meets the first Tuesday of the month.

With the summer temperatures rising, tempers may be rising too. My suggestion as far as food goes is to not cook anymore than you have to. Try to use your microwave, electric skillet, food processor, and blender. Freezer recipes are also good.

Recently a homemaker shared a recipe called Russian Mint Pies. These are really good. They taste like the Girl Scout Mint cookies. This recipe is quick and easy to prepare.

RUSSIAN MINT PIES
1 cup margarine (melted)
4 squares unsweetened chocolate (melted)
1 teaspoon peppermint
2 cups sifted powdered sugar
4 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla

Combine all of the ingredients and whip until creamy. Put 24 vanilla wafers in the bottom of cupcake papers. Put the chocolate mixture on top of wafer and then top with Cool Whip. Nuts may be sprinkled on top. After making, store the pies in your freezer.

If you have cocoa instead of chocolate squares, you can make this substitution.

1 square chocolate (1 ounce) or substitute 3 tablespoons cocoa plus 1 tablespoon butter or margarine.

PINEAPPLE COOLER
Makes 2 quarts, 8 oz. has 140 calories.

46 ounce can pineapple juice, unsweetened
2 tablespoons lemon juice
6-ounce can frozen orange juice concentrate

10-ounce bottle club soda, chilled
Mint springs, as desired
Mix juices and frozen orange juice concentrate. Chill. Add chilled club soda immediately before serving. Serve over ice in tall glasses with straws. Garnish each serving with a sprig of mint, if desired.

Mr. and Mrs. John Childress returned last week from a tour of Ireland, Scotland and England.

Question: Is carpeting practical in a kitchen?
Answer: Most housewives do more walking in the kitchen than any other room. Why not be comfortable? With the great improvement in fibers which are stain and soil resistant and waterproof enough to be used outdoors, there no longer is any reason to hesitate using them in the kitchen.

Question: How can a dull living room be brought to life?

Answer: Here's one suggestion: If floor coverings and walls are solid colors, how about a print fabric for draperies, sofa or chairs?

Question: Can you use 2 different patterns in the same room?

Answer: It can be done attractively if careful selection is used. (We'll be glad to help.)

Question: How about a half-dozen suggestions on various things available to use on a blank wall behind a sofa?

Answer: You could try a large mirror, or a mirror with sconces on each side, or a wall paper mural, or a group of small pictures tastefully arranged, or an artificial flower wall arrangement, or a group of wall plaques.

The best answers to any of your furniture and decorating questions are available here, where we take great pride in our excellent values, fine selection and courteous service. Come into Brown Furniture today!

A prayer does not have to be made of words. It can be the sketch of a pencil on a drawing board. This one expresses the thoughts and yearnings of the person whose soul grasped the pencil.

Here in your own newspaper you have encountered some unknown artist's depiction of the Christ! That artist's prayer can be your prayer... if it expresses your thoughts... your yearnings.

Such are the riches of our Christian faith that each one of us is strengthened, encouraged, empowered by the devotion of another.

That's why every week you will find us together in worship. We share our prayers. We share our Lord.

Fall screwworm buildup possible Ladies softball tournament results

Here are the ingredients for a disaster. Twenty-seven known screwworm cases in Mexico well within the insects' flying range of Texas reported during July, in addition to the usual prevalence of open wounds in livestock, wildlife, and pets; a wetter than usual spring and summer which caused an explosion in numbers of Gulf Coast ticks which feed in ears of cattle in large numbers, leaving bleeding wounds when they drop off; shearing of sheep and goats which traditionally is done during August and September each year, creating wounds which are ideal sites for screwworm infestation; and complacency in the minds of at least some pet and livestock owners who no longer fear screwworm infestations in their animals because, after all, the U.S. Department of Agriculture no longer produces sterile screwworm flies to distribute over Texas rangelands. These ingredients are all present, says Screwworm Lab Director Dr. James E. Novy, "and they can lead to a real screwworm disaster in Texas this fall."

Vigilance on the part of pet and livestock owners, as well as veterinarians who collect samples of every worm found in any wound in a warm blooded animal and promptly submit them for lab identification is the best protection available, says Novy.

The Screwworm Lab Director says two potentially bad screwworm outbreaks in Texas earlier this year have been stopped that way. "Prompt detection by identification of worm samples enabled us to stop what could have become a bad situation in Sutton County, and another in Presidio County."

Both of these Texas outbreaks were treated with SWASS pellets produced at the Mission Lab and with sterile flies which are produced at Tuxtla Gutierrez, Mexico.

Screwworms have been detected close to the U.S. border in Mexico, says Novy: In the municipio of San Carlos, Tamaulipas, 120 miles south of Rio Grande City; in the municipio of Cerralvo, Nuevo Leon, 55 miles west of Roma; and 50 miles southwest of Del Rio in municipio Zaragoza, Coahuila.

"The worst area of infestation is about 130 miles west of Laredo in central Coahuila where 23 of the 27 July cases have been reported."

In addition to vigilance in watching animals and submitting samples, animal owners are asked to treat all open wounds on animals with an effective larvicide and kill ear ticks with an effective pesticide. It is recommended that surgery and other manmade wounds on animals be delayed until cold weather if possible.

Worst time of year for Gulf Coast ear ticks is from July through mid-September, says Novy. "Insecticide impregnated ear tags which protect against both ear ticks and horn flies are available at livestock supply stores," says Novy.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Limbaugh of Cape Girardeau, Mo. spent last week here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Moore.

The Ozona Women's Softball League sponsored its first slow-pitch softball tournament, July 31 and August 1. Teams from Big Lake, Eldorado, Iraan, and Crane, plus four Ozona teams competed.

NL Well Service of Crane won the championship trophy by defeating the Bobcats from Ozona, Bunge-Cameron from Ozona, C&H Poynor from Eldorado, and the Road Runners from Big Lake.

The Road Runners received the runner-up trophy and C&H Poynor received third place. Other teams included in the tournament were Marathon from Iraan, and the Swingers and Daisies both from Ozona.

Pat Whitley Willmon of the Crane team received the Most Valuable Player Award. Other players named to the All-Tournament Team are: Emma Basurto, pitcher; Shonda Enos, first base, both of Crane; Tracy Tatum, short stop, Marilyn McReavy, center field, Big Lake; Jeanine, Big Lake; Linda, left field, Eldorado; Barbara, short stop, Eldorado; Shio Tambunga, rover of B&C of Ozona, Nancy Warren, rover of Bobcats of Ozona, and Sandy, catcher of Irran.

Members of the Women's Softball League would like to express appreciation to each man for giving his time calling games throughout the tournament and our league season. Special thanks is also due to those for giving their time and energy at the concession stand.

Ranchers roundup near in Del Rio

The urban cowboy is "out" this week and working cowboy "in" as hundreds of ranchers from across the U.S. and several countries converge on this festive border city for the International Rancher's Roundup.

It begins Tuesday, August 11 and runs through Thursday at the Civic Center where only chaps and spurs will be missing.

About 125 speakers are scheduled to appear during the week representing 12 prominent ranching states and five countries, quite possibly the largest gathering of this type in the Southwest.

Registered participants will receive a 435-page bound copy of the proceedings which contains most of the talks presented. Over 1,000 ranchers are expected.

Roundup registration for early arrivers begins Monday, August 10, at the Del Rio Ramada Inn from 3-8 p.m. and resumes at the Civic Center lobby Tuesday at 7:30 a.m.

Participants in need of motel accommodations should immediately contact the Del Rio Chamber of Commerce (512/775-3551) which keeps a daily listing of room vacancies.

Former Governor Dolph Briscoe delivers the first major keynote address, kicking off the Roundup at 9 a.m. Tuesday. Briscoe is also a past president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association and maintains close ties with the ranching industry.

Other noted speakers appearing during the three days of general and concurrent educational sessions are Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown, South African agricultural envoy Dr. P. Botha, and State Representative Susan McBee.

A slot for U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block has been reserved for Tuesday morning following Briscoe's talk in hopes the secretary can free himself of legislative activities in Washington.

Simultaneous sessions presenting improved management techniques for producers of beef cattle, sheep and goats, ranch horses, wildlife, plus range resource use and ranch business innovations will be featured each day. Roundup planners have attempted to supply a session encompassing every aspect of the ranching industry by changing speakers and topics for each day's meeting.

Specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Uvalde, organizers of the Roundup, say the big conference has been over a year in planning. They maintain the meeting's purpose is to help ranchers preserve their livelihood.

Ask questions about drugs

When the doctor does prescribe medicine, ask questions about the drug, says Beverly Rhoades, a consumer information specialist.

Asking questions—a "wise consumer thing to do"—is necessary for two major reasons: to be adequately informed and to avoid unnecessary costs.

Here are some "question suggestions:"

When a doctor orders a prescription for you, ask if the prescription is for the "generic" (common) name or if it's for a "brand" name of the medicine.

If the doctor has prescribed a brand name, ask if prescribing it by its generic name or by another brand might be just as effective. In some cases, this is a more economical choice.

If the answer is "yes," ask the doctor to indicate to the pharmacist that a generic drug or cheaper brand can be substituted.

Also, ask the doctor how long you probably will have to take the medicine.

If the time period is longer than the prescribed amount will last, ask if the doctor will prescribe enough medicine for the expected time period—so you might avoid extra trips to the pharmacy.

In some cases, doctors prescribe a small amount purposely—to safeguard patients from taking more than they need or to prevent a large amount from becoming less effective due to deterioration.

In any case, it's wise to ask about the amount and about refill arrangements.

An office visit may be necessary to answer refill questions, but if no office visit will be necessary, ask the doctor if he or she will indicate permission for refills to avoid the time and expense of unnecessary office visits.

Telephone calls can help you avoid unnecessary office visits, too.

In some cases, your doctor will want at least a "progress report" of your condition by phone before issuing refills for you.

Before leaving the doctor's office, ask about the drug itself—what it is and what it does. Also ask for clear directions on taking it.

This information—on the prescription itself—is usually written in pharmaceutical shorthand or Latin and probably will mean nothing to you.

Of course, the pharmacist will put instructions on the medicine container, but asking the doctor for directions will help you understand the pharmacist's label better.

Also ask the doctor if there are special instructions or cautions concerning the drug.

For example, some drugs should be taken with meals, some cause drowsiness, and some encourage "photosensitivity" (makes you more sensitive) to the sun.

Ask for any available leaflets about the drug and its possible side effects.

Listen to your pharmacist, too. When you pick up your prescription, he or she may caution you verbally about the drug—perhaps with instructions such as "do not drink alcohol as long as you are taking this drug" or "do not take certain other medication as long as you take this drug."

Or the pharmacist may put additional special instructions on the container. Be sure to follow them, too.

Finally, follow all directions to avoid needless discomfort and possible complications, which, of course, can mean extra medical expenses.

Texans fear becoming victims of crime

Texas residents are increasingly fearful of becoming victims of crime, according to the latest Texas Crime Poll.

Almost two-thirds (64.7%) of those surveyed selected at least one type of crime of which they felt they may be victims during the next year.

The latest poll is a random sampling of 1,449 Texans from throughout the state. It was conducted by the Criminal Justice Center at Sam Houston State University.

The survey showed a marked increase in the fear of crime over earlier polls. Just a year earlier 60% said they were afraid of becoming crime victims, and four years ago, when the first Texas Crime Poll was conducted, that figure was 53%.

Similar results were shown by a question on whether survey participants had installed security devices in their homes. More than four out of five (82.2%) said they had, compared with 76% a year ago and 72% in the fall of 1977.

Other questions showed that Texans are increasingly sure that over the past four years crime has gotten worse. In the current survey, 63.3% said that it has, compared to 57% last spring and 46% in 1977.

Furthermore, Texans expect the incidence of crime to increase. Almost three-fifths (59.4%) hold that belief as compared to 56% last year when that question was asked for the first time.

In line with those concerns regarding crime increases, only 43.8% of the survey respondents said that their police departments were doing either a good or excellent job. This was down from 50% a year ago.

Sheriff's departments received similar ratings—44.6% this year as compared with 48% a year ago.

Texans think the most important function of a prison is to punish the offender. Second in importance is for imprisonment to serve as an example to keep other people from committing crimes (deterrence). Third in importance is providing treatment for criminals to enable them to be more law-abiding (rehabilitation). The least important function of a prison according to the opinions of Texas residents is keeping criminals separated from society (isolation).

The recent survey also attempted to determine how Texans feel about current issues in criminal justice, such as conjugal visits for prison inmates, placement of new prisons, the governor's review of parole recommendations, marital rape, alcohol and marijuana use, and so-called "victimless crime."

Over two-thirds (68.5%) of those surveyed approved of conjugal visits, contingent on the good behavior of the inmate. Over three-fourths (75.7%) said that only the legal or common-law husband or wife should be allowed to participate in such a program.

Almost two-thirds (65.5%) said that prisons should be built in rural areas exclusively, rather than in urban areas where it would be easier for most families to visit. Only 18.5% said they should be built in both rural and urban areas, and 12.7% were undecided. These findings seem to contradict the earlier results which indicated that isolation is the least important function of a prison.

The majority of the respondents (62.6%) either favored or strongly favored the current Texas policy that all inmates who are recommended for parole by the Parole Board must receive final approval from the Governor's Office. Only 9% opposed this policy.

Respondents were about equally divided on whether Texas should have a law to permit a wife to accuse her husband of rape. Some 35.6% favored such a law; 33.6% opposed it; and 29.5% were undecided.

Almost nine out of ten (89.1%) residents reported having used alcohol at least once in their lifetimes and 72.9% had done so in the past year.

Slightly more than one out of every four (27.6%) said they had tried marijuana at least once, and more than one out of ten (11.8%) said they had used it in the past year.

The largest percentage of the participants (45.2%) agreed that marijuana is worse than alcohol. Only 13.9% thought alcohol is worse than marijuana, and 34.2% thought they are both the same.

Respondents were asked to indicate which of seven activities sometimes referred to as "victimless crimes" they thought should be against the law.

The offenses and percentage of respondents who said they should be against the law included: public intoxication (77.2%); marijuana use (64.7%); prostitution (59.6%); homosexuality (55.3%); abortion (42.6%); attempted suicide (37%); and gambling (36.8%).

More respondents (44.9%) said gambling should not be against the law than said that it should. Only 33.5% said attempted suicide should not be against the law, with 24.2% undecided on the subject. Some 40.3% said abortion should not be against the law, with 15.7% undecided.

The Survey Research Program at Sam Houston's Criminal Justice Center is under the direction of Dr. Glen A. Kercher. Dr. Victor G. Strecher is dean and director of the center.

Don't eat green potatoes

Green potatoes?—do not eat. They could poison you, warns Dr. Cass Ryan-Crowe, a food and nutrition specialist.

Don't eat the green spots on potatoes, either, she cautions. Be sure to trim them away.

These spot areas, usually found around the sprout formation sections of potatoes, contain solanine—which, even in small amounts, is poisonous, the specialist explains.

Solanin can cause stomach pains, diarrhea, vomiting, and, in large doses, paralysis and even death, she says.

Consumers turning to sewing

Many consumers concerned with the rising cost of ready-made clothing are turning to home sewing.

Nancy Brown, clothing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, said potential sewing machine buyers should buy a machine correct for their purpose and budget.

She said determine your needs by asking: How often will you sew? Are you a beginning seamstress? Do you plan to sew for all members of your family plus others?

If you are an occasional or beginning sewer, buy an inexpensive or used machine. However, Miss Brown said if you plan lots of sewing, buy the best machine you can afford.

Basic features of a good machine should be considered. These are: a straight, even stitch; zigzag stitch; blind stitch for hemming; stretch stitch for knits; and a buttonhole stitch that is easy to operate.

Some machines offer a large variety of decorative stitches. Make sure you plan to use these before paying extra for the machine.

Consider your available space before buying a machine in a portable carrying case or in a cabinet.

Before buying, test the machine by sewing with it yourself. Stitch on different weights and weaves of fabric to determine how the machine will work for you.

Also, make sure you have someone local who will service the brand of machine you buy. Some unknown or minor brands are difficult to repair because parts are hard to get.

Once you get your machine, read the operators manual for maintenance and take care of your machine.

Planned grazing system success

The most important factor in the success of a planned grazing system is the man managing the system. The old adage, "The eye of the master fattens the cow" was never more true than when it comes to a successful range improvement program, according to Mark Moseley, Area Range Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in San Angelo.

The range manager of today, more than ever before, has to be knowledgeable in several areas. The economic situation has never been like this before. High production costs force each manager to evaluate each decision he makes and each improvement practice he installs on a cost return basis. Each ranch is an individual in this regard.

Operators that stay abreast of practices that have proven themselves locally as well as staying informed on the newer innovations are in a better position to make decisions for their own operations. People truly interested in range improvement need to know how to make soil store more rainfall, how to graze to improve the vegetation and how this relates to economics, wildlife and domestic livestock.

The Soil Conservation Service people that work in each Soil and Water Conservation District are trained to help ranchers evaluate different ways to make their range-land produce more of what they want it to. Their experience with other ranchers in the District enables them to "take the best ideas and leave the rest," so to speak.

"No grazing system will work unless the manager understands why it works and how it works," said Moseley. The SCS has information on the advantages and disadvantages of several types of grazing systems and can refer interested persons to ranchers that are successfully using grazing systems. Give the local District office a call.

Use tax deadline draws near

Owners of most large trucks, truck-tractors, tractor-trailers or buses must file a Federal Use Tax Return for Highway Motor Vehicles by August 31, 1981. The Internal Revenue Service says. The return is filed on Form 2290, available at any IRS office.

The tax year for the Highway Use Tax begins July 1, 1981, and runs through June 30, 1982. Taxpayers who place vehicles in service after July must have Form 2290 filed with the IRS Service Center which services their area by the last day of the month following the month a vehicle is first used on a public highway.

The Highway Use Tax applies to single unit trucks weighing 13,000 pounds or more, 2-axled truck-tractors weighing 5,500 pounds or more, 3 or more axled truck-tractors regardless of weight, trucks of 9,000 or more pounds equipped for use in combinations, and buses with a gross weight of more than 26,000 pounds.

The tax is imposed on those vehicles using any public highways, city streets, state roads and interstate highways. Revenue from the tax help states in financing the Interstate Highway System.

Form 2290 and the free IRS Publication 349, "Federal Highway Use Tax on Trucks, Truck-tractors and Buses," can be ordered by calling the IRS forms/tax information number listed in the telephone directory.

Pecan weevil next target of computer

Pecan weevils, those perennial pests that can often "make or break" a pecan crop, are the next target of the Computer Age.

The battle to control these pecan pests is being waged through the "Bugnet" system developed by entomologists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

"Several computer models are used in the Bugnet system to predict various insect populations based on a whole host of factors," points out Dr. John Jackman, Extension survey entomologist. "Based on various bits of information about the particular insect pest and actual field and environmental conditions, we can predict with a reasonable amount of accuracy when certain insect populations will increase and pose an economical threat to various crops."

The computer model can determine whether or not control measures are necessary, based on a certain level of infestation, notes Jackman. The need to spray is based on such information as cost of control, number of nuts per pound, expected yield and expected price of pecans.

As far as the pecan weevil is concerned, the computer system is provided information on the actual or expected number of adults per acre as well as historical information about the pecan orchard. This includes the percent of weevil-damaged nuts, pounds of nuts produced per acre, and number of nuts per pound for the past two to three years.

"This information is combined with our best estimates of damage per weevil and survival rate to compute the number of adults that should be emerging," notes Jackman. "Then we can alert producers through our county Extension agents as to when damaging numbers of weevils may occur so that orchards can be monitored closely and control measures taken if necessary."

Adult pecan weevils usually emerge from the soil from mid-August to mid-September and lay eggs in nuts, explains the entomologist. Tiny grubs that hatch feed on the kernels from the gel to the shucksplit stage. For effective control, growers must spray after adult weevils emerge but before they lay their eggs in nuts. This "lag" time is usually three to five days.

"This system hopefully will provide another tool for pecan growers to use in their total management programs," emphasizes Jackman.

Think twice about loan insurance

Think twice before accepting insurance that "will pay off a loan" in case of death, advises Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist.

This kind of insurance-credit-life insurance-pays off the debt if the debtor dies before the loan has been paid off.

However, if you have other life insurance, you probably do not need the credit-life insurance, the specialist says.

In most cases, credit-life insurance is a needless expense, and it is rarely a good buy, Piernot says.

In some cases, the survivors may have to pay the cost of the insurance before they can collect, she adds.

Credit-life insurance is expensive for two major reasons.

"One, it is usually an extremely small life-insurance policy.

"Secondly, there's no real competition among the sellers. Usually buyers don't shop around, and it is really not practical to do so. Thus, credit insurance companies do not offer the lowest price to buyers but offer the highest commission to lenders," she adds.

You are the one who decides if you want credit-life insurance or not, Piernot points out.

"Most credit contracts say that credit-life insurance is optional and will be provided only if you sign a separate statement asking for it," she says.

"The Truth-in-Lending Act strongly encourages that optional provision for the very reason that credit-life insurance is rarely a good buy.

"Creditors like to sell it, however, because they earn a commission on it," Piernot notes.

On the other hand, real security for survivors can be achieved by a complete estate plan. Included in the plan usually will be some form of life insurance, regular or term, available at a lower cost than credit-life insurance, she adds.

Sales tax rep. to visit here

State Comptroller Bob Bullock will have a representative from his San Angelo office in Ozona on August 20, 1981 to assist local taxpayers and answer questions about state taxes.

Bullock said Enforcement Officer Steve Mercer will meet with local taxpayers in the Law Library at the County Courthouse from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m.

"If Ozona area merchants, or anyone else for that matter, have any questions about state taxes or need help in preparing state tax forms, Mr. Mercer will be there to assist them," Bullock said.

"We're trying to cut the red tape in this office, and we believe these face to face sessions with taxpayers help do just that," Bullock added.

The San Angelo office, headed by Bill Teaver, serves San Angelo and surrounding counties.

Sam Perner, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said the CCC will offer sorghum for unrestricted use sale at market prices, but not less than the formula price which is 115 percent of the county loan rate for sorghum where stored plus 97 cents per hundredweight carrying charges.

"The minimum quantity that will be considered for acceptance is 560 hundredweight," Perner said.

According to Perner, offers will be received and sales will be made on a first come, first served basis.

Interested persons should contact the county ASCS office as soon as possible for further details. The office is located at 801 Ave. E, Ozona. Telephone is 915/392-2203.

Royals take win from Reds

The Ozona Royals defeated the San Angelo Reds 16 to 6 in a game here Sunday. The Royals have won all three games played against the San Angelo team this year.

Richard Sanchez was the winning pitcher with relief help from Jimmy Ortiz and Hector Perez.

Leading hitters were Orlando DeHoyos with 4 hits, including a 344-foot home run. Jimmy Tambunga had three hits and Hector DeHoyos had a home run.

The Royals will participate in a 2-day tournament Saturday and Sunday at the San Angelo South Side Lions field. Their first game will be Sunday morning at 9:00.

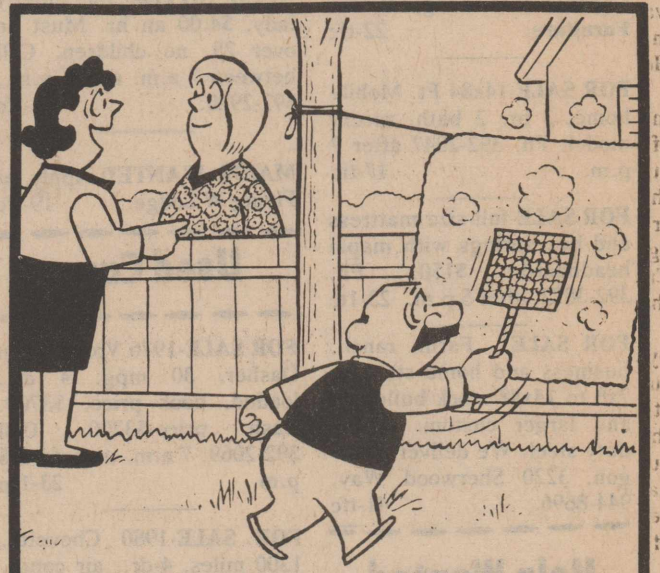

The Royals, Ozona's only semi-pro team, have gone from an 8-12 record to 17-13 after winning eight of their last nine games. This is the first time the Royals have lost more than nine games in one season. Their combined record for the past two years is 65 wins and only 17 losses.
